Lace making cannot be traced as far back in history as other arts, possibly owing to "the exquisite fragility of lace" but a brief history of its beginnings, given by Miss Belleghem, mentioned that in the tombs of ancient Egypt have been found fine net work and cut and drawn work, which might be considered forerunners of lace.

Italy with its needlepoint, brought to perfection in quiet convent gardens and Belgium with its pillow lace both claim that the first lace was made in their borders. The painters of the 16th and 17th centuries copying faithfully every detail of the beautiful laces worn by the wealthy in the period when lace making flourished most pre-eminently, provide the present day with an authentic pictorial history of this exquisite art.

An idea of the huge prices paid for lace was given by Miss Belleghem, and of how grossly underpaid are the workers who spend long patient hours on the finest and most beautiful kinds, especially in Flanders where the finest flax in Europe, cured by some peculiar quality in the river Lys, produces the best and finest thread. During the war the Brussels Lace Committee endeavoured in the face of great difficulty and danger to prevent the lace-makers from starving and their priceless heritage of skill from disappearing. Now there is a Trade Union Lace School in Zele where advanced workers own stock and share in the profits of the organization. Here a scarf weighing only 125 grammes, and with 12,000 hours of work in it was made for the Queen of the Belgians, and yet "Stephanie" a 78-year-old expert critisized it as not fine enough.

In New York there is a lace shop run by Miss Marian Powys, one of the greatest present day experts on lace and herself the maker of most beautiful new designs. Here some of the most famous laces in the world have been for sale since the war and the downfall of many European royalties. Coming from Devonshire, England, where the Honiton laces are made, Miss Powys studied in Belgium, France and Italy before coming to New York.

Tea was enjoyed in the library at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Walter Blackwell and Mrs. A. E. Chalmers presided at the table, attractive with pastel green lace cloth, spring flowers in a crystal bowl and white candles.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

Dear Friends:

Have you ever felt as if you were a storm-centre? You loved peace, you hated discord, yet you seemed to be in the midst of it all the time. What you did seemed to be more important than what others did, it was taken more notice of, and sometimes criticized bitterly.

Maybe you have a great character, and did not recognize it. Who was more peace-loving than our Lord, yet what storms swirled around His head, while He was on earth, and ever since.

Who did more good in healing the sick in body and mind, yet Who was deserted as He was? Who was misunderstood more than He? Yet He was the greatest character that ever lived.

Almost everyone that came to Him was in trouble, they wanted relief either for themselves or for those they loved. So, if you seem to draw those who are in trouble of body or mind towards you, just realize that He may have given you a great soul and a great character, so that you could help others.

Others may get peaceful days and nights, but not you, for the storm and lightning will swirl around your head in spite of all you can do to avoid it. You did not choose to stand out like that, but neither did the high mountain choose the heights.

Yet, as the mountain stands against the storm, so must you. As the high places are lonely, so will you be. Not for you the frittering away of lazy days, nor the peace of stupidity, nor the leaning on a stronger one, for others will do the leaning on you.

And you may as well accept it first as last. The longer you put it off, the more you try to be a little hill instead of a big mountain, so much more are you defeating God's purpose. He needs people on earth to help His weaker ones, not that He made them weaker, the generations that have gone before did that.

People often say, "I love the mountains," but they do not want to be one. They do not want to stand out clearly silhouetted against injustice, unkindness, and the things that make mortals unhappy and disatisfied. They want to be sheltered instead of sheltering.

Last Summer, when we were driving on a very hot day, I said, "if we could get in the shade of those mountains, we should be cool." And when we did get in their shade, it was so comforting that I thanked God for making them.

If you are one of those who stand out above your fellows, if everyone seems to want to tell you their troubles, and for you to comfort them, don't try to flatten yourself down like a plain. Be the grand mountain you were intended to be, giving shelter and shade to those who come near you.

The earth would be drab if it were all level, and life would be much more drab if there were no large souled people in it. Remember too that you have the greatest Leader of all, and that greatness has great rewards. Hoping I have clarified things for you which may have been puzzling you, I am,

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Branch Notes

ST. LUKES BRANCH.

The regular monthly business meeting of St. Luke's Branch was held on Thursday, with B. Fann... in the chair. After opening the meeting with prayer the members answered to their names with a verse from the Bible containing the word "Peace."

As next week is Holy Week the branch will not have a meeting, but members are asked to make an effort to attend the church service on Thursday night.

Tickets for the play will be on sale shortly. The play is to be presented around the end of April, dates will be announced later.

Aden, Arabia, was visited by 2,109 vessels last year.

The Busiest Week Of the Year

We know there are tons of garments to be worn during the Easter vacation to be passed through the hands of the Dry Cleaners and Pressers. Don't let yours be a last minute order. Be fair to yourself and to your cleaners, whether you happen to be our customer or not, by looking into your requirements and placing a phone call at once.

For the most rapid service known, compatible with strictly high quality workmanship Burtol stands unique.

To meet the anticipated rush of Easter week, and in line with the established policy of this firm, to give quick, quality-service a new steam press of the most modern type procurable has been installed. With this increased capacity, found necessary to meet the demand of our rapidly-increasing business, we hope to give the best cleaning and pressing service procurable.

No worries about odor if given two hours for a complete cleaning and pressing job. Furs, cleaned and re-vitalized by our non-gasoline process, retain that original pliability of the pelt, so necessary to the life of the garment, together with all the brilliance and sheen of the newly-purchased article.

And, finally, we would remind you that we are prepared to clean your upholstered chesterfields, chairs, etc., as well as all drapes and curtains.

"I CAN'T AFFORD MOTH DAMAGE IN MY HOME... So I spray FLY-TOX regularly"

says Mrs. Susan Gray, 236 Willard Ave., Toronto

"I recommend FLY-TOX to every housewife who works on a budget. It is cheap insurance against those ugly moth holes which simply can't be repaired. FLY-TOX goes so far and is so reliable, I can't see how any woman can afford to be without it."

THIS MUCH FLY-TOX (in left test tube) HAS KILLING POWER EQUAL TO THIS MUCH ORDINARY INSECTICIDE

Recent scientific tests proved FLY-TOX has 98% greater killing power than average of four other well-known insecticides, 24% greater killing power than the nearest competitor. Such laboratory tests prove FLY-TOX is the quickest, most economical way to kill hungry moth life, and avoid moth damage.

IN MEMORIAM

GASH.—In loving memory of Corporal A. J. Gash, A.S.C., who passed away April 10, 1936.

Broken is the family circle,
Our dear one is passed away;
Passed from earth and earthly darkness
Into bright and perfect day;
But we all must cease to languish
O'er the grave of him we love,
Strive to be prepared to meet him
In the better world above.
—Ever remembered by his Wife, Daughter and Son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. N. Thompson.

GASH.—In loving memory of Corporal A. J. Gash, A.S.C., who passed away April 10, 1936.

Two years to-day our brother was called to his eternal rest;
Gone where the angels sing so sweet,
And taken when God knew best,
We miss him here so very much,
His presence oft seems nigh,
But we all hope in Heaven to meet
Where no one says good-bye.
—Ever remembered by his Sister, Mrs. A. Cripps, and brother, Dennis, and Families.

LONG.—In loving memory of Samuel H. Long, who departed this life one year ago, April 10, 1937.

Sweetest memories of a life so dear
Are often recalled by a silent tear.
Cherished still with a love sincere,
Only a memory, but Oh! so dear.
Only a memory of bygone days
And a sigh for a face unseen,
But a constant thought that God alone
Knows just what should have been.
Rest in peace, dear Father,
You are safe in Heaven's bower.
The day when we shall meet you
Draws nearer every hour.
—Ever remembered by his Children.

CHAMBERLAIN.—In loving memory of my dear Wife, Esther, who passed away April 9, 1935.

Three years have passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away.
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
—Sadly missed by her Husband.

MEDICAL REPORTS CLAIMED ABSENT IN GUELPH CASES

GUELPH, Ont., April 9—(CP).—Dr. John E. Sharpe, Inspector of Mental Hospitals for Ontario, read his report on Homeowod Sanitarium Friday during the Ontario government inquiry into the institution.

He reported in some cases he could not find a record of a complete physical examination, and in one case a medical certificate was signed by Dr. J. P. McKinnon, brother of Dr. A. McKinnon, a member of the staff of the institution. Tis, he said, was contrary to the Act.

In cases of death, the report read, the coroner was not always notified.

Cecil Snyder, representing the Ontario Attorney-General's Department, reminded Dr. Sharpe he had asked on March 21 when the inquiry opened for an investigation of three cases, a patient named Apted, James L. Lynch, "allegedly spirited into Canada and confined against his will," and Rufus Brown.

"Did you find any one of these was wrongfully held there?" asked Mr. Snyder. "I did not."

The report said the procedure of having voluntary patients interviewed by members of the Board of visitors upon admission, had not been followed for two years.

None Wrongfully Held.

Dr. W. W. Barraclough, honorary consulting neurologist of the Department of Health, said he was appointed to the Homewood Board of Visitors and was one of the two doctors asked by the commissioner to go to Homewood to examine three patients earlier said to be "railroaded in."

"Are any or all of these patients being wrongfully held?" asked Mr. Snyder.

"They are not being wrongfully held," replied Dr. Barraclough.

Dr. Sharp, recalled to the stand, was questioned about William Roche, son of the late Senator William Roche.

Roche, a witness at Toronto, testified he was convicted at Halifax, Nova Scotia, of an indecency charge. He was given suspended sentence conditional upon going to Homewood for a two-year period as a patient and as living within 200 miles of Homewood for another two years, reporting to Homewood each three months.

Roche testified he was kept at Homewood from June, 1934, for two years and then an additional 15 months despite his requests to leave. He was not released until he wrote the Ontario Department of Health.

Dr. Sharpe said he found Roche was "neither mentally ill or defective," and he was released.

Dr. Sharpe told of another case when an "interested friend" protested about an inmate being kept at Homewood. Sharpe investigated the case and discharged the patient.

The report Angus McIntosh, wealthy Montreal importer, dictated to an attendant, William Howie, about himself while a patient in Homewood was read into the record of the inquiry to-day.

AN HONORED NEWSPAPER

PHILADELPHIA, April 9—(AP).—The Newark, N.J., Evening News was chosen as the most outstanding daily newspaper for typographical excellence in the eighth exhibition of newspaper typography, it was announced to-day by N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., newspaper advertising agency. The News was selected from among 1,438 newspapers entered in the exhibition.

Nerves Were So Bad Could Not Stand The Children Playing

The happiness of every home depends largely on the health of the wife and mother. If she is nervous, peevish and irritable, worried by the cares of the household, and tormented by the pains and irregularities that accompany a run down system, there can be no happiness in the home for the husband and children.

Women who are weak and run down, nervous and irritable should take a course of Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills to help restore them to the blessing of good health.

Mrs. Thomas Kirk, Neston, Alta., writes:—"I was in such a weak, run down condition before I started using Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills I could not do my housework, and would be so nervous I could hardly stand the noise of the children at their play. Now, after taking three boxes of H. & N. Pills I feel like a different person.

I shall always tell anyone not feeling well to use your medicine."

who had spoken against the bill, some of them more than once.

He protested against the apparent obstruction of the bill, saying "to me it looks like a filibuster."

"You are helping it," interjected F. E. Lennard (Cons. Wentworth).

To block the bill was an injustice to Ontario and the city of Niagara Falls, Mr. Duffus claimed. It would be a hardship on the tourist traffic which was based on ample border facilities which were impossible as a result of the collapse of the Falls View bridge.

To delay the bridge, Mr. Duffus said, constitutes a loss to the people of Ontario and Canada generally except perhaps a few living in St. Catharines."

An Improvement To Hunter Street

The alterations and improvements which have been going on in connection with the Roy Studio building for the past six weeks are now nearing completion. With its gleaming black Vitrolite front and alumilite trim it is undoubtedly one of the most attractve business blocks in the city. Offices, Display Room and Camera Shop are now on the ground floor a convenience which will no doubt be appreciated by the public. While the portrait productions of the Roy Studio have earned an international reputation Mr. Roy is now extending his activities into the wider field of camera retailing and supplies, Kodaks, Motion picture apparatus and accessories.

American Act without informing itself by investigation of political and social conditions in this country.

Life of Legal Study.

Mr. Cahan was a small boy in Nova Scoita when the passage of the British North America Act in 1867 brought the Dominion of Canada into existence. He drew on a long lifetime of legal study and contact with Canadian affairs.

On other occasions he has told of being personally acquainted with every Prime Minister of Canada since Confederation and 45 years ago he was Conservative leader in the Nova Scotia Legislature.

The chief opposition to the Cahan bill came from the Social Credit group and John Blackmore, leader of that wing drew a retort from Mr. Cahan when he suggested the move to do away with Privy Council Appeals followed the court's adverse ruling on the social reform legislation of the Bennett Government.

"I don't know how old the honorable gentleman is, but I was studying these questions before he was born," said Mr. Cahan.

The Social Credit leader, however, argued appeals to the Privy Council were the only recourse provinces had against the power of the Federal Parliament though it was "a good thing to be careful about how fast we go forward."

One Liberal Opponent.

Vincent Pottier (Lib., Shelborne-Yarmouth Clare) was the only opponent outside the Social Credit group. He doubted the power of Parliament to abolish appeals and claimed it was wrong to blame the Privy Council for all the constitutional difficulties of Canada.

It had interpreted British North America Act according to the plain words of the statute and there was no reason to suppose the interpretation would have been any different had it been made by the Supreme Court of Canada.

While Mr. Lapointe agreed largely with Mr. Cahan he said he based his opposition to Privy Council appeals rather on Canada's status as a nation than on criticism of the decisions rendered by the court.

He was prepared to go further than Mr. Cahan's bill which would prohibit appeals only with respect to matters within the jurisdiction of the Federal Parliament. All appeals should be abolished and the Minister agreed there was no question of Parliament's power to abolish them. Provincial Legislatures had no right of appeal to the Privy Council.

"The question is so vital and important that for myself I would like to see it further investigated," said the Minister. "Not to procrastinate but because I think before we take the step we should have the fullest opportunity to study the question."

In a Straight Jacket.

Decisions of the Privy Council had left Canada in a constitutional straight jacket said J. T. Thorson (Lib. Selkirk). Appeals should be abolished immediately. Even if the British North America Act were amended to conform to economic and social conditions there was no assurance an amendment might not be distorted by a Privy Council decision.

After appeals were abolished the Dominion should proceed to recast its constitution so that the national parliament would have power to discharge its obligations and to enact the social and other legislation that was required for a solution of Canadian problems.

Parliament has been in session since January 27 and a good portion of the government's legislative program has already come before it. An extension of the Veterans' Allowance Act has been passed. The bill to transfer power to licence the export of electricity from the government to parliament provoked one of the sharpest debates of the session and is now before the Senate.

Sweeping amendments to the election laws to curb political expenditures and prevent corruption received second reading in the House and were referred to a committee.

A measure creating a transport board with control over inland water and air as well as rail transportation passed the House.

140 T.T.C. Trolleys Cost 3 Million

TORONTO, April 9 — (CP). — Chairman William C. McBrien of the Toronto Transportation Commission announced today purchase of 140 new stream-lined street cars at a cost of $3,000,000 for delivery next August. The cars will be built by Canadian Car and Foundry Company.

The cars are the latest designed by the American Transit Association and will be almost noisless in operation. Eventually, McBrien said, 300 wooden cars will all be replaced by the new models.

wages in the gold mines of Canada are $5 per day. That is what we want in North Carolina. We want to get away from present starvation wages of $2 per day.

And, reading quotations from the Northern Miner of Toronto, republished in a mining magazine from him own section, Mr. Hipps noted how the Canadian gold mining industry had pulled Canada through the depression, how the Canadian Government and Hon. T. A. Crerar had co-operated to bring new wealth into being for the benefit of workers and industry and generally held up Canada's example in the field of mining as a model for the United States authorities to ponder and pursue.

Half a dozen witnesses were heard throughout the afternoon on the question of the threat or supposed threat to the American feldspar industry by Ontario's nepheline syenite and, with the United States experts obviously intensely interested in the possible ramifications of nepheline, these witnesses were heard at such length as to occupy virtually the whole of the session.

May Move to Canada.

A representative of the Consolidated Feldspar Company of Trenton, N.J., put at 8,000 tons last year's imports of Ontario nepheline, but, conceding that importation was inevitable, suggested a 15,000-ton quota for next year. He, too, was at a loss to prophesy as to the future of his industry under competition from the Ontario product. He said, "The whole industry may be forced to go into Canada."

C. P. Rogers, president of the Feldspar Milling Company, Asheville, N.C., testified as to the "terrible danger" facing his industry. Whereas Mr. Hipps had complained of Government-subsidized freight rates facilitating the transportation of the Ontario product to the border, Mr. Ladoo informed the committee that the Canadian National Railways and the B. and O. Railway had conceded a $1.80 per ton rate from Lakefield in competition with contemplated barge haul via the Trent Canal.

He added that a Toronto company (Venture, Limited), headed by an American and backed by American capital, was mining nepheline ayenite in Eastern Ontario.

He said his corporation had spent $350,000 at Rochester to mill the mineral and explained his firm obtained low railroad rates "because we expected to transport the mineral to the United States by barge, and the railroads offered us a good proposition not to do that."

He testified "possibilities" for use of the mineral had not been fully explored, but estimated United States firms would import "300,000 tons of the substance."

However, he assured feldspar miners that "when we get through there will be just as much feldspar used as ever."

Principal advantage of nepheline syenite, he said, was for making glass, because it would be melted at temperatures 25 to 75 degrees below feldspar, "thereby saving manufacturers the expense of fuel and refractories."

Wintry Blast Hard On Fruit Crop

CHICAGO, April 9—(AP). —Cold rains, sleet, and drifting snow harassed the eastern half of the continent today. Weather bureau observers said wintry blasts probably would continue for at least another day over the region lashed by spring storms. Subnormal temperatures prevailed over a wide area from Texas to the Great Lakes and east to the Atlantic seaboard.

Damage wrought by the midweek snowstorm was estimated at well over $1,000,000. Losses to fruit orchards and Utilities property in Ohio alone were estimated at $1,000,000. Freezing temperatures caused heavy damage to fruit crops in Texas, Arkansas, and Oklahoma. Southern Indiana orchardists estimated a 50 per cent. loss on their peach and apple crops.

Lithuania increased its imports of oranges 2,000 per cent in the last year.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday April 10

Sunday's horoscope holds omens of rather difficult situations arising to frustrate alluring prospects. These seem to be part of very promising financial conditions, although of a speculative and uncertain nature. Be cautious, alert to fraud and wary of strangers. Do not act impetuously or recklessly.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of much promise, although the element of speculation is accented. A subtle impediment may arise to threaten the good fortune unless the utmost caution is exercised in regard to fraud or dubious strangers. Fine promises but keen acumen are indicated.

A child born on this day may have high ambitions and may figure on its personal popularity and good fellowship to attain its objectives. At times it may encounter difficulties and frustrations owing to its rashness and impetuosity.

For Monday, April 11

Monday's astrological forecasts is for a very important day in business, private and even romantic affiliations, judging by powerful planetary configurations. One may expect lively and exciting situations in connection with new contracts, travel and fresh opportunities and environs. Social, domestic and emotional functions should give much pleasure, and it is probable that courtship or marriage may figure conspicuously if not sensationally.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a very exciting and adventurous year. There may be a reorganization of the entire life, with excellent prospects in new fields, pleasant, new contacts and interests, all affecting the private as well as business lives.

A child born on this day may have unusually brilliant talents, with much originality and ingenuity. It may be scientific, inventive and artistic as well.

advertising expenditure prior to the October 6 election. A return tabled in the House showed expenditure of $265,000 in large accounts, including $3,450 to "Jack Canuck," a weekly newspaper and $840 to "Hush" another weekly.

Leopold Macaulay, Conservtaive House leader, objected "to this subsidizing of 'kept' journals to create influence before an election.'" Premier Hepburn replied the expenditure was necessitated by the Health Department's campaign against the infantile paralysis epidemic in the province last summer and by the Highway Department's accident prevention work.

The prorogation speech reviewed work of the session and expressed hope the iron-ore industry of Northern Ontario would be further developed. Among legisaltion referred to was a bill providing for compulsory pasteurization of milk in towns and cities. The speech said the Grand River conservation scheme, a plan of flood control on the Grand river, was designed "to make certain of the future industrially of Kitchener, Galt, Brantford and other communities served by the Grand river."

Toronto Police Place $500 On Head Of Hit-Run Killer

Man Dies, 4 Others Hurt as Car Careens Over Curb; Death Brings City's Traffic Toll to 21 Since January

TORONTO, April 11.— (C. P.) — City Police today posted a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of a motorist whose car ran on the sidewalk, killing Leonard Hosty, 34, and injuring four other persons. The death car sped away.

As they strolled along the sidewalk in West Toronto yesday, Hosty, his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Bruton and Mrs. Bruton's two children were knocked down. Without slackening speed, the car swerved back on the snow-covered road.

Police Inspector Edward Dunn, chief of the Toronto Traffic Division said the death-rate from traffic in the city "seems to be getting worse all the time—our record this year shows one is killed almost every week-end—if we get that fellow, he can expect no mercy from me."

(Twenty-one persons have been killed in traffic acc' ents on city streets since the 1 of Year).

The accident occurred when the car skidded in snow at the side of the road, mounted the curb and bowled the group over like nine-pins. The car sped away without slackening speed.

Mayor Ralph Day termed the accident "frightful," and said he believed that part of revenue derived from licensing automobiles should be set aside as compensation for victims of hit-and-run drivers.

Police Chief Draper did not announce the amount of the reward but said it would be 'liberal."

Eight Others Missed

Eight other persons walking on the west side of Symington Avenue narrowly missed a similar fate. Screams and moans split the air as the skidding death car plowed over the curb, knocking over the walkers like ninepins.

The baby-carriage being pushed by the occupant's little sister, Marjorie, was found ten feet away, twisted and bent. The baby was lying near his mother in the dirty, snow-covered gutter. Mr. Mosty was motionless a few feet away.

Only one of the injured was able to give any lucid account of the fatal minutes before they were knocked over. Mrs. Hosty, widow of the dead man, is understood to have told detectives that the driver threw one terrified glance over his shoulder, hunched his shoulders and sped away.

WHITNEY LARCENY COSTS 5-10 YEARS IN SING SING CELL

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP). — Richard Whitney, bankrupt broker and former president of the New York Exchange, was sentenced today to serve from five to 10 years in prison for grand larceny.

Whitney, whose brokerage firm, Richard Whitney & Company, failed March 8, had pleaded guilty to two indictments charging first degree grand larceny in the misuse of securities entrusted to his care by the New York Yacht Club and members of his family.

Judge Owen W. Bohan, in General Sessions, sentenced Whitney to the five to 10 year sentence on each indictment, the sentences to run concurrently.

Parole After 2 Years, 8 Months?

Whitney took the words of Judge Rohan calmly. He will serve the sentence in Sing Sing prison.

Under the time off for good behavior system a five to 10 year sentence can be completed in about 3½ years.

Whitney would be eligible for parole, however, after serving two years and eight months of his sentence.

The first indictment to which Whitney pleaded guilty was procured by Dewey and charged the misappropriation of $109,000 worth of securities belonging to the New York Yacht Club, of which Whitney was treasurer.

The second, obtained by the office of State Attorney General Hon. J. Bennett, Jr., charged misuse of $105,000 in securities belonging to a trust fund set up by Whitney's father-in-law, the late George R. Sheldon, for the benefit of Mrs. Whitney and her sister.

RAF MAN CLEARED IN FATAL CRASH

BELLEVILLE, Ont., April 11 (CP) —Frank A. Cross of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Trenton, was acquitted of a charge of criminal negligence in connection with the death of Edward Lebrash on February 19, but was convicted in Police Court to-day of "failing to remain at the scene of an accident," and was fined $75, and costs.

A charge of reckless driving was withdrawn after the Crown offered no evidence.

Magistrate Butler in his written judgment said: "The evidence does not establish reckless driving nor does it show that the accused failed to keep a proper lookout while operating his car. Some evidence was given that wine had been drunk by the parties, but is quite clear that Cross gave no evidence of intoxication during his driving from Napanee as the evidence of Chief Watts of Napanee shows he was sober, whilst in that town. The conduct of the accused after the accident is one for consideration under the Highway Traffic Act."

TRICKING A BURGLAR

TORONTO, April 11.— (CP).— Three carloads of officers, a smart trick and a modest citizen combined in the arrest of Jack Fields, 27, on a shopbreaking charge. He was captured in a cupboard in an East Toronto store Sunday after a constable heard a prowler inside and pretended he had a squad with him.

"Sergeant, you take the rest of the men," he said to a non-existent officer. "If he comes out I'll blow his brains out."

A citizen just passing helped the lone cop keep up the bluff until a raiding squard did arrive.

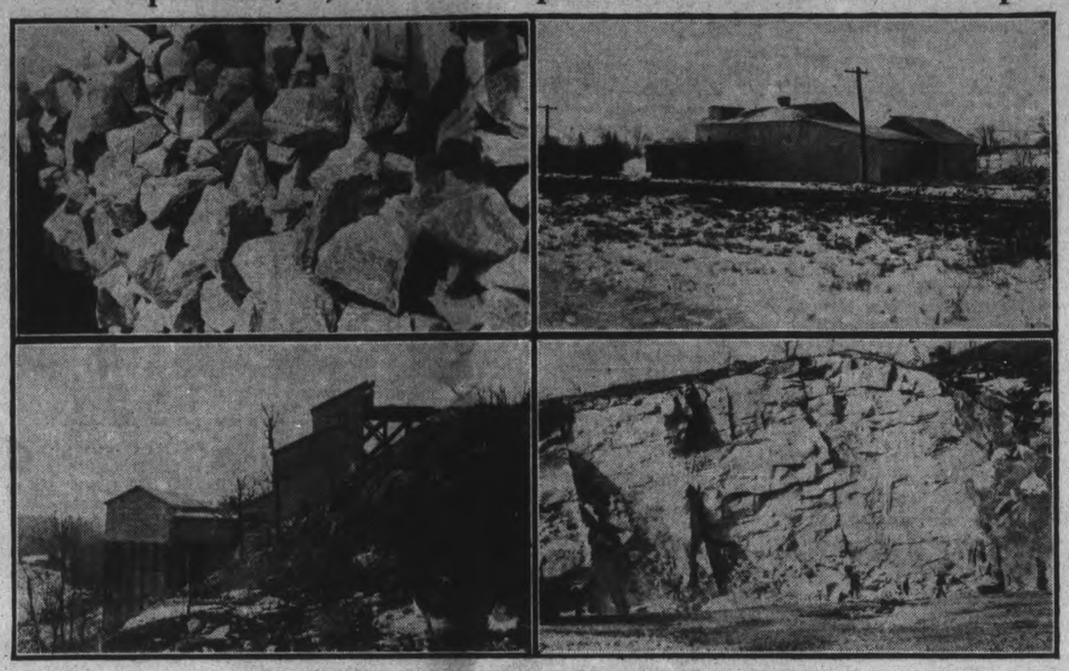
Hoboes Try Job Of Saving U.S.

ALTOONA, Pa., April 11 (A.P.).— With monocled "King" Jeff Davis on the rostrum and one-eyed Connelly posted at the door to keep out upstart gate-crashers, the 30th annual Convention of Hoboes to-day tackled the job of putting the country on its feet.

The much travelled delegates, who dropped int othis rail centre from freights, trucks and automobiles, came forward with plenty of advice and most of it about the industry they know best—the railroads. To rejuvenate business, they suggested: Limiting freight trains to 70 cars, so there will be more trains, more train crews, and more jobs.

Exempting railroad stocks from taxation until the carriers "get on their feet."

Deposit Of 5,000,000 Tons Of Nepheline Rock In Methuen Township



Recently released from the rockbound storehouse of the Blue Mountains of Methuen Township, otherwise the range of hills four miles north and east of Stoney Lake, nepheline syenite was mentioned in a long despatch from Washington published in the Examiner and other Canadian newspapers on Saturday. Nepheline has a high content of alumina essential to the glass manufacturing industry, it also has a low iron content and its fusion point is subsequently below that of potash feldspar which it is displacing in the glass and ceramic industries of Canada and the United States.

The Methuen deposit of nepheline syenite has been estimated at more than 4,000,000 tons and non-metallic engineers told the trade investigating committee at Washington the other day that it has been discovered only in Peterborough county.

ROBBERS' THREATS BLOCK CAPTURE AT BOWMANVILLE

BOWMANVILLE, April 11.—Two thieves, caught in the act of breaking into a local clothing store early Saturday morning, escaped when they threatened to "drill" pursuers.

Some hours later Port Hope police, who had been warned to be on the lookout for a transient on an eastbound freight train, removed a man from the train and charged him with vagrancy. He gave his name as Patrick Gouleigh, Oshawa.

Jim Thompson and Bob Cale, local youths, noticed a stranger standing in the doorway of the store at about 2.30 a.m. When they approached the man ran across the street and the boys followed in hot pursuit. They were overtaking him when the man fell in the snow.

He quickly rolled over, shoved a hand in his pocket, and threatened to shoot the pair if they came nearer.

"Stand back or I'll drill you," he warned, and the boys decided he meant business. They ran to the police station and notified Constable Walter Hall. But their adventure was by no means over. While the constable was notifying Chief of Police Sidney Venton, Thompson and Cale returned to the robbed store and the former walked over to the front door and looked in through the broken glass. He stepped back hurriedly when a voice from inside told him to "scram or get plugged."

The pair again retreated, and the second thief ran out and disappeared. Tracks in the snow led to the C.P.R. Station, and it is thought he managed to board an eastbound freight. Police telephoned Port Hope and a man answering the description of one of the thieves was taken from the train.

His companion, in the meantime, had broken into Clemens Garage and stolen a car, which was later recovered at Brooklin, where it was reported two other garages had been entered and a second car stolen.

Nepheline Syenite Deposits In Methuen Township Are The Purest In America

Used In Manufacture Of Glassware And It May Invade The Pottery Field

(By Staff Reporter)

Circumstance and event delayed a long time even in this modern age of swiftly changing methods of manufacture to project over the feldspar industry of both the United States and Canada the shadow of the vast deposits of nepheline syenite in the rahge of hills northeast of Stoney Lake, locally known as the Blue Mountains of Methuen township.

Finally a few days ago the ridge of rock, that had been for generations nothing more than a landmark in the Stoney Lake country and an elevation affording long vistas of water to the west and of woods and lakes to the east as far as the Hastings county boundary, broke into the news from Washington as the source of an economic and trade dispute that had been brewing for months since the export of nepheline from Lakefield began to invade the established market of the feldspar industry across th border.

Most of the news published last Saturday regarding the opposition of North Carolina feldspar interests to Peterborough county nepheline before the committee for reciprocity information at Washington was known to the city council at least since the first of the year. The information had been passed along by J. J. Duffus, M.P., because the Lakefield industry is virtually of local importance. The council's attitude was chiefly that it could not exercise much influence, and the best policy was to avoid local publicity and hope that nothing would develop in the trade relations between Canada and the United States that would interfere with the expanding business in nepheline out of this district.

Wood-Cutter Chases Pack Of Wolves

Haliburton, Ont., April 11.

MARY WESSELL, seven, is telling schoolmates today about her escape from a pack of wolves. While walking to school in Harburn settlement, a pack of animals approached her. One growled fiercely and they fought among themselves.

She screemed and Tom Walling, a near-by wood-cutter, frightened them off with his axe.

Harold R. Scott, of the Scott Fuel and Lumber Company, said it was likely that the Tom Walling mentioned in the Haliburton wolf story was the elderly wood cutter who won the Examiner's first bucksaw championship. According to the last news he had heard from the former champion, he was working in Haliburton.

U.S. MAY UTILIZE HUGE GOLD HOARD ON PUBLIC WORKS

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP). —The United States' Treasury's hoard of "sterile" gold may help finance the huge public works program, now under discussion, high officials said to-day.

They declared President Roosevelt might discuss such a plan at a conference to-day on relief needs and the possibility of setting up a $1,500,000,000 loan fund to finance construction projects of cities and states.

Treasury experts said use of the "inactive fund" of $1,182,000,000 in gold would minimize the effect of a new public works program on the public debt, now $37,600,000,000.

Instead of borrowing the whole cost of the program, they said, the treasury could turn the "sterile" gold quickly into cash by printing gold certificates and ear-marking the gold as security for the currency.

The treasury started piling up its "sterile" gold hoard at the end of 1936 to ease the impact of the arrival of foreign gold into the United States. Then, officials feared the possibility of an inflationary boom.

(Under the sterilization system, the treasury borrowed from banks an amount equal to the money it paid foreigners for gold. This, officials believed, would prevent the foreign gold from creating an artificial credit situation.

Such administration fiscal advisers as Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board, whose spend - to - the - end-the-recession ideas appear to be winning Presidential favor, approve of the gold-tapping process.

Football championship games will be televised in Wembley, England.

Pact With Mussolini Said Ready For Signatures

London Will Press Rome's Case Through League; New French Cabinet Takes Conciliatory Tone

LONDON, April 11.—(A. P).—Great Britain today started League of Nations machinery to obtain recognition for Italian Ethiopia and reliable quarters indicated Prime Minister Chamberlain's long-sought agreement with Italy virtually was ready for signing.

She asked that the League Council, meeting May 9, consider the Ethiopian question.

Informed sources said an offical statement on Anglo-Italian negotiations to end 2½ years of embittered relations could be expected at the beginning of next week.

It was no secret in diplomatic circles that the agreement already has been reached, to be drafted formally this week. It is likely to provide:—

1. A British undertaking to work through the League for recognition of Italian sovereignty over Ethiopia.
2. Italian agreement to withdraw troops from Spain.
3. Re-affirmation of mutual recognition of British and Italian interests in the Mediterrancan and extension of this policy to the Red Sea.
4. Return of Italy's Libyan garrison to a peace-time basis.
5. A British promise to respect Italy's right of passage through the Suez canal to her East African possessions.
6. Mutual agreement to refrain from radio propaganda against each other's colonial interests.

France Follows Britain.

PARIS, April 11 (A.P.). — Quick efforts to end differences with Italy were predicted in parliamentary quarters where the new government of Edouard Daladier was said today to be planning to fall in line with Great Britain's conciliatory policy.

It was reported an envoy would be sent to Rome promptly to discuss settlement of the problems disturbing the two countries' relations. The discussions would follow negotiation of an Anglo-Italian understanding.

The problems are primarily the question of Spain and the question of recognition of the Italian conquest of Ethiopia.

It is understood that, in return for an Italian promise to keep out of Spain after the war is ended and to send no further troops to the insurgent army, the French Government is considering granting recognition to the King of Italy as Emperor of Ethiopia.

The agreement would be followed by appointment of a French Ambassador to Rome, to replace the present Charge d'Affaires. The last appointed Ambassador to Rome never took his post because France would not recognize the Ethiopian conquest.

The Daladier Government, especially with Georges Bonnet in the Foreign Office, is viewed on all sides as likely to plot a Conservative international course.

Strikes and France's financial needs, estimated at $33,000,000 a week by the outgoing Leon Blum, were the first pressing problems before Daladier and his "National Defence" Cabinet.

GUELPH TORTURE CHARGES DENIED BY 2 ATTENDANTS

GUELPH, Ont., April 11.—(CP). —Inquiry into the affairs of the Homewood Sanitarium continued to-day before F. N. Barlow, K.C., Master of the Supreme Court of Ontario and Royal Commissioner conducting the probe.Mr. Barlow expressed appreciation of the courtesy shown by Dr. Harvey Clare and other Homewood officials in allowing the Commissoin to inspect the sanitarium Friday. "It was interesting and helpful," he said.

Kenneth Major, Homewood attendant referared to in Friday's evidence as having told another attendant he was responsible for a bruise seen on the face of a patient, said he had been in Homewood for three years and is still an attendant. He was "just learning," when he first started helping on Ward A13, and received $30 a month and board. He now receives $45 a month and board. He knew an attendant known as Glynne Jones, and asked about an incident concerning a patient named Wardell, he said "I haven't had any incident with him as far as I know."

Denying he had ever caused a bruise on Wardell's face, he said Wardell had scratched him on occasions. He had, he said, put Wardell in his room for such incidents and had occasion to carry him into his room when he would not go otherwise.

He delnied any knowledge of a conversation with Jones regarding the bruise on the patient's face.

Harry Wilding, night supervisor remembered Angus McIntosh, Montreal grocery importer, and said when he first knew the Montreal man he was closely confined under lock and key. He was permitted to leave his room but not the ward unless under escort.

Trouble Brews

Wilding said he had no disagreement with McIntosh early in his confinement, but trouble occurred later when McIntosh was moved to ward A-2 "because he wasn't fit for A-1." A-2 was for patients who were somewhat unruly and after being placed there McIntosh was "more disagreeable." He had had disputes with other patients.

On one occasion McIntosh had made "a dirty remark" to Wilding and the attendant answered "Go to blazes." McIntosh had threatened him.

"Did you run?" he was asked.

"Certainly I did."

"Why did you run?"

"I used my judgment."

"Did McIntosh run after you?"

3 MEN AND BOY NABBED AT STILL

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 11 (CP).—Following a raid by police on a house on Lundy's Lane yesterday, three men and a 15-year-old boy appeared before Magistrate J. B. Hopkins today. They were remanded until April 19 without pleading.

Joseph Nelson, 39, Toronto, was charged with having in his possession a still for the manufacture of spirits without an Excise permit. Joseph Dezeny, 35, a 15-year-old boy, Niagara Falls, and Joseph Karput, 25, Toronto, were charged with assisting in the operation of the still. Dezeny was freed on $5,000 cash bail and the boy on $500 bail. The others were ordered held in custody.

The house was rented to a man who gave his name to the owner as Norman Baldwin, Toronto, on March 23. A month's rent was paid.

Wolf Pack Surrounds Ranger While Deputy Goes For Gun

Last Minute News Flashes

ANGUS, Ont. — Claude Patton and Ernie Pifher, farmer living near Glencairn, Saturday shot a large female wolf, and afterward found 10 pups, estimated to be only 10 days old, with their eyes still unopened.

QUEBEC.—(CP).—Premier Maurice Duplessis announced to-day a warrant had been sworn out for the arrest of Charles Lanctot, K.C., aged lawyer who resigned in 1936 as Quebec's Assistant Attorney-General after the Legislature's Public Accounts committee had investigated his financial affairs.

Official Has Close Call On Oregon Trail As 'Lone' Killer Refuses To Bolt

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, April 11. — While travelling the Oregon Trail in the Township of Burleigh on Wednesday, Chief Ranger Brough and Deputy-Chief Ranger Watson, came across a wolf which refused to take to its heels when they approached in the truck, but remained in the brush a short distance from the road. Chief Ranger Brough remained on the road, keeping the animal in sight, while Watson returned in the truck for a gun, but on his return was not successful in downing the beast, which leisurely walked away. On further examination of the area, it was found that while Brough was watching the lone wolf, he in turn was being watched by a pack of four or five wolves which remained hidden in the brush behind him on the other side of the road.

For the few minutes that Brough remained alone watching the wolf, he was placed in a dangerous position if the pack behind him had decided to attack, as he was unarmed and had no available means

Small "Sporting Size" Viennese Lass Offers To Wed "Surplus" Canadian

Montreal, April 11.

A 21-year-old Viennese girl of "small but sporting size," and "splendidly tempered," is seeking a Canadian home and husband.

But prospective candidates for the maidens hand first must apply to J. Adhemar Raynault, "His Honor the Lord Mayor of Montreal," to whom the girl's plea was addressed.

The Mayors office released the text of her letter but withheld the name of the girl, "a selling girl in a drug-store of profession." The picture of a comely lass accompanied the letter.

The girl wrote because "I am informed that your country is short of girls and that a big part of your masculine inhabitants must remain unmarried."

40 Injured As 100 Foot Waves Batter Liner Queen Mary

Storm Tosses Lily Pons Across Stage But She Keeps Singing "On The Slide"

PLYMOUTH, England, April 11 (A.P.). — The liner Queen Mary arrived from New York four hours late to-day after battling a 24-hour storm which sent great waves crashing over her decks, injuring about 40 persons, most of them slightly. It was the worst storm the big liner has encountered.

Marc Connelly, American playwright, said the storm was "worse than a West Indies hurricane."

"I saw dozens of passengers picked up by stewards and escorted for medical attention," he said. "The waves must have been 100 feet high."

Lily Pons, French opera star, kept her promise and sang for the passengers during the 70-mile gale.

"I had little sleep the night beforefore," she said, "because my bed crashed into the stateroom wall and stewards had to come to my rescue and clamp it down.

"But I had promised to sing and I kept my promise. Ropes were stretched across so the audience and artists could hold on to them. While I was singing I let go of the rope and the next thing I knew I was sliding across the stage, but I kept singing."

The Netherlands Indies Government may have to aid its coffee growers.

Girl Purse Snatchers Work In York

York, April 10.

TWO juvenile girl purse-snatchers are being sought by York Township Police, following a complaint that while she was walking south on Oakwood Avenue near her home yesterday, Mary Gleason, 10, of 294 Oakwood Avenue, had her purse grabbed by one of two young girls who overtook her, and then disappeared in the crowd of shoppers. The purse contained 80 cents. Detective Risebrook was assigned to the case.

Mimicking Minister During Service Gets Drunk 10 Days To Sober Up

London, Ont., April 11.

DANIEL GIBSON, 54-year old London Street sweeper was sentenced to 10 days in jail by Magistrate Donald Menzies who found him guilty today of disturbing the peace by being intoxicated.

His wife told Magistrate Menzies in court today about the church service Gibson attended yesterday.

"He came in mocking the preach and saying 'Amen' and 'Parise the Lord' during the service" said the woman.

"Did he disturb the worship of the church?" asked Magistrate Menzies.

"Yes, sir. He was hollering right out. But then when he started to swear...."

Sergeant McKey and Constable Fuller told the court they received a call and hurried to the church. They found 'the preacher and an usher from the church' holding Gibson. They claimed the accused was intoxicated.

Gibson didn't think his praying was too enthusiastic.

Hitler's Anschluss Ballot Draws 99 p.c. 'Yes' Vote

Only 452,180 of Nearly 50 Million Dare Vote "No"; Choice of Reichstag Members Solely Up to Dictator

BERLIN, April 11. — (A. P.)—The greatest turnout of voters in German history gave Chancellor Hitler the biggest majority of his career in Sunday's Anschluss plebiscite.

Nearly 50,000,000 men and women marched to the ballot box or were carried there, or had the ballot box carried to them if they were ill. Of these, 48,799,269 voted "yes" in approval of Germany's annexation of Austria. There were 452,180 "no," votes and 75,342 were classfied as invalid.

The percentage of "yes" votes was 99.0827, as compared with 98.79 achieved in the Rhineland re-militarization plebiscite of March, 1936, when 44,952,476 Germans voted "yes." The highest pitch of affirmative expression was reached in Austria, where there was a 99.75 per cent "yes" vote.

The unoffical complete vote for Austria alone was 4,270,517 yes, and 11,263 in the negative. There were in all Germany 49,546,950 qualified voters. (The number qualified in Austria alone was not given but the population is about 6,750,000.)

Amnesty Rumored.

With the counting completed, there were rumors of a sweeping political amnesty — Hitler's gesture of benevolence and gratitude. But there was no official confirmation.

Some persons, especially in Vienna, feared the aftermath might be strong action against former Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg's supporters and the Jews.

The vote, held less than a month after Hitler's armed forces marched into Austria, culminated an energetic Nazi drive to stir popular enthusiasm. Hitler declared in a nation-wide broadcast that "this hour is the proudest of my life."

Contrary to general expectation, Nazi spokesmen said, the new Reichstag will not be summoned to Vienna for its first session on Hitler's 49th birthday, April 20.

Germans and Austriaons, in voting cast their ballots "for the list of Adolf Hitler," and left it to the Fuehrer to select from his list of 1,717 candidates, the enlarged Reichstag of approximately 740 Germans and 70 Austrian members.

After his birthday celebration Hitler intends to go to his mountain home in Berchtesgaden for a rest, getting ready for his Italian visit beginning May 3.

DAMAGE ACTION IS DISMISSED

HAMILTON, April 11.—An action brought by Rev. S. Banks Nelson against the Hamilton Spectator, Ltd., for damages through alleged breach of contract was dismissed by Mr. Justice Godfrey at Hamilton with costs against the plaintiff. A counter-claim by the Spectator for $87.80 for an advertising account was allowed with costs.

Mr. Nelson claimed $5,000 damages—$2,500 for los sof salary as controller and $2,500 claimed for damage to reputation and character. In the last civic election Mr. Nelson was an unsuccessful candidate for board of control.

The action arose over a change in an advertisement submitted by the candidate. Two lines in the disputed advertisement read: "Don't let anyone confuse you. Give me a chance to do it."

Evidence was that the city editor deleted the last line after the press run started believing the proximity of the two statements held the candidate up to ridicule.

"The action should never have been brought at all, because the change was a trifling thing that was done in good faith," Mr. Justice Godfrey said. Dr. Nelson had contended the deletion caused his defeat at the polls.

Butter Is Firm On Farmer's Mart

Attendance at the market Saturday was larger than in recent weeks but it was otherwise uneventful. Butter was firm at 36 to 38 cents, eggs steady at 17 and 18 cents, maple syrup was generally $2.50 a gallon, with no early disposition to concede any lower price. Certified potatoes were $1 a bag, and uncertified 50 cents. D. G. Bickell of Bowmanville was one of the apple growers in the line-up. He was selling Spies at $1 a bushel, and starks at 75 cents. Chickens went at 25 cents a pound, and a display of fresh fish included Lake Ontario pike at 15 cts.

LOADED PROGRAM MAY KEEP HOUSE SITTING TO JULY

OTTAWA, April 11—(CP).—Parliament may still be sitting when the three-day National Conservative Convention opens here July 5, judging by the amount of work accomplished since it opened Jan. 27 and the amount it still has to deal with after the members return from their Easter recess April 25.

The Legislative program forecast by the Speech from the Throne has all been presented to the House with the exception of unemployment insurance. Prime Minister Mackenzie King has not yet stated definitely whether he will proceed with that project.

Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick have not yet stated whether they agree to the draft amendment to the British North America Act submitted for their consideration. This amendment, transferring to the Dominion jurisdiction over unemployment insurance, would be a necessary preliminary to enactment of the measure by the Dominion Parliament.

This measure if it comes, coupled with the budget and possibly a new Canada-United States trade agreement, and other measures the government is certain to introduce, will provide work likely to keep Parliament here far into the summer.

Preparing Report.

The Banking and commerce committee of the House has completed hearing of a reference to it by Finance Minister Dunning for a report on the whole question of small loans. It has yet to prepare its report.

The Commons Radio committee has completed its hearings into activities of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation unless the House instructs it to widen its inquiry which is hardly likely. It has also left over preparing a report until the session resumes.

The House Railway and Shipping committee has not started on the examination of the annual reports from the Canadian Natfonal Railways, the C.N.R. steamship subsidiaries and the Trans-Canada Air Lines.

The transport bill has yet to be taken up by the House committee on railways, canals and telegraphs.

This bill would change the board of railway commissioners into a board of transport commissioners and extend its jurisdiction to cover certain inland shipping and air traffic.

The senate prepared to make a sweeping investigation into Canada's railway problem but the actual study will not be begun until the special committee appointed for the purpose resumes May 4.

Tourist Meat-Eater Brings Half Ton

Fort Erie, Ont.

COLLECTOR of Customs William G. Stamp wondered today just how trackless United States tourists think Ontario is.

He told of refusing a tourist permission to enter Canada with 1,000 pounds of fresh and salted meat.

"We could partially live on this while we're in Canada," Stamp said the tourist told him. "It's pretty civilized up here," Stamp answered. "You can buy all the meat you want as you need it."

CHINESE MASS TO RECAPTURE LOST NANKING

Shape Gigantic Drive Along Three Fronts

SHANGHAI, April 11 (AP)—Chinese said today they were preparing a gigantic drive toward the Yangtse River in an effort to retake Nanking, the capital they lost to the Japanese Dec. 11.

New victories along the Tientsin-Pukow Railway and Talerhchwang front were seen by the Chinese as inspiration for the new offensive. A strong Chinese force along the Tientsin-Pukow line was reported ready to strike out toward Pengu, about 100 miles north of Nanking.

Japanese acknowledged three Chinese attacks in the vicinity of Pengpu but said they were repulsed and that Chinese losses were heavy.

The ambitious offensive mapped by the Chinese includes a flanking-offensive against Wuhu, up river from Nanking and through a region where Japanese constantly are harried by guerilla attacks; a drive northward from the Yellow River in an effort to drive Japanese from its north bank and through Shansi province; ultimately a northward movement along the Peiping-Hankow railway; and then, if successful, a push against Peiping and Tientsin, with the aid of the half million or so Chinese red forces who have established a Soviet state in the heart of Hopeh province.

VETERANS RECALL BATTLE OF VIMY

TORONTO, April 11 (C.P.). — Canadian ex-servicemen turned out at celebrations from coast to coast on Saturday night in commemoration of the 21st anniversary of the Battle of Vimy Ridge, one of the epic feats of Canadian arms in the Great War.

Hon. Ian Mackenzie, the Minister of National Defence, attended the celebration at Winnipeg and declared that whatever action Canada takes for its own defence is a contribution to the defence of the Empire.

"On this Vimy occasion we find that the ideals for which we fought have not been obtained," he said. "Mankind, embittered by four years of hatred and slaughter, has not yet been purged of the greed and lust that make for war." It was necessary for Canadians to build up their defences so they may protect their homes from the devastation and destruction with which so much of the world is threatened, he added.

Old Spirit Holds.

Lieut.-General Sir Richard Turner, V.C., addressed 1,600 veterans at the Montreal gathering. He declared the spirit and traditions of the wartime troops are still a strengthening force in the country's national life.

Sir Richard also spoke of unsettled conditions in Europe and told his audience, many of them from other parts of Quebec, that Canadians had shown in the past what they could do and if the worst came to the worst they would answer the call again.

A Canadian delegation of ex-servicemen making their annual pilgrimage to the battlefields on Sunday visited the Vimy Ridge War Memorial and the National Cemetery at Notre Dame-de-Lorette. They were accompanied by Jean Desy, Counsellor at the Canadian Legation in Paris, and also visited the Artois Battlefield where many Canadians fell in 1915.

MORE ABOUT—

TORTURE

"Yes. He did."

Wilding said he had apologized to McIntosh for the remark "Go to blazes." He thought the patient had his hands on his shoulders. McIntosh had accepted the apology.

He did not recall an incident of a key being broken in a lock nor any other incident in which McIntosh figures. He said McIntosh had never asked him about any reports.

He was on "pretty fair" terms with the Montreal man when the latter left the sanitarium.

Wilding said he gave hypodemic injections to patients and had been taught how to do it by a nurse. He had never been instructed in this by a doctor until he had been at Homewood four years.

Wilding said morphine was given to excitable patients on doctors' orders only. The narcotics were kept in a cupboard in each ward. Under no circumstances would he give a hypodemic without a doctor's order.

Even at two or three o'clock in the morning if a patient were very disturbed a doctor would be phoned before administration of a hypodermic.

"There is no truth in it," Wilding said when asked about a patient named Bathgate a previous witness said had been tortured. He remembered nothing like that incident.

Wilding denied he ever asked Gavin to make reports on Angus McIntosh stronger or that he had ever discussed reports on McIntosh with any attendant.

The Scott Case.

He said Hon. Walter Scott, former premier of Saskatchewan who died recently, was placed in Ward A-2 when he became noisy. He knew nothing of an altercation between Mr. Scott and an attendant, McKendrie. He called in twice to see Mr. Scott who was lying on blankets on the floor of his room.

No one had told him of the Scott incident when he went into the room. McKendrie should have reported it to him but he had known nothing of it until Chief Attendant Ross spoke to him.

(Mr. Scott suffered a fractured leg when he fell on the floor after an altercation with an attendant. A coroner's jury subsequently found he diedof natural causes).

Reverting to McIntosh Wilding said trouble started when the patient chased him upstairs. He had started to run before McIntosh. The later caught him half way up and two other attendants who had tried to stop the patient finally took him to A-2.

Coming up the stairs McIntosh had threatened "I'll get you, you ——— ———", McIntosh had also threatened Dr. Baugh and Dr. Clare, both while he was in wards A-2 and A-3. He had claimed Dr. Baugh was keeping him in the institution.

Only supervisors, not ordinary attendants, gave hypodermics. Drugs were only kept in a ward when a drug addict was there. In such cases they were required for he night's schedule

With The Boy Scouts

All Saints' Troop came through with a bang. Yes, sir. The Scouter and assistant scouter had to work, and the troop leader was in sole charge.

Those boys behaved themselves in true Scout spirit, every one doing his part to make the meeting a success.

A meeting of the Mothers' Auxiliary will be held in the parish hall, April 19, at 8 p.m. Then on April 21 a talent tea with the sale of home made cooking will be held from 3 to 5, at the house of Mrs. Mowry, 138 Rubidge street.

Dean Cutmore, Kent Hotston and Bill Reid recently passed their compass tests, while Errol Dayman and Jack Carter completed their tenderfoot. Justin Doughty earned his second-class first-aid.

The All Saints' pack are busy on their first star work. Allan Patterson, Ernest Darling and Jackie Chambers passing their composition of the Union Jack. The whole pack went on a hike over Green Hill way last week, while the Red and Brown Sixes combined later to go on another hike along the tracks down south. A pleasant time was enjoyed by all. Walter Wheeler, in charge of the Red six, is feelling mighty proud of his gang for winning the six competition for last month.

District Cub Leader Gordon Clegg accompanied by Akele Bob Baldwin paid a visit to the Sacred Heart pack, where the cubs were practising the dance of Tabaqus' and Shere Khan, in preparation for the coming Cub display.

The loan of the sixers' corners to the troop for patrol corners is a great assistance to the running of the troop and a great deal of thanks is extended to Akele Pete Dominic for his co-operation in this matter.

District Commissioner J. T. Hornsby and Assistant D.C. E. Wolfe were on hand, giving the boys a little pep talk. First air instruction is being given by that worthy, Don Corrin.

With the view of starting a Mothers' Auxiliary, the mothers of the cubs and scouts of St. George's troop was held recently, with Mrs. Cridland and Mrs. Collis of St. John's group being the speakers. Mrs. Cridland outlined the aims and objects of the scouts' mothers' auxiliary, after which Mrs. Collis read several papers on the subject. The officers of the new group were elected; Mrs. Pinn being chosen president; Mrs. Gynane, vice-president, Mrs. Littlefair, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Siddall, social convenor. All mothers are requested to attend a meeting being held at the home of Mrs. Langhorne, 272 Lansdowne street, on Thursday afternoon at 2.30.

The St. George's Cub pack missed their Akela, Mrs. Langhorne, who is confined to her home through an injured knee, and we hope she will have a speedy recovery to good health, to be with her pack again in the near future.

Several games were enjoyed and tests passed, after which the Cubs were served with refreshments.

Some 35 boys were out at the St. John's Pack meeting; many tests being passed. Clayton Selkirk and George Gray received their second stars. Owing to next Friday being Good Friday, there will be no pack meeting, but on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock a pack of merry boys will start out on an all-day hike; so every cub is expected to be in the parish hall not later than 9.40 a.m. with enough food to last for a good dinner. A paper collection will be held by the cubs on Saturday, April 23. Will all friends of the pack please save their papers for that date.

A note of joy mixed with sorrow was found in the pack when Ted Chalmers and Clayton Selkirk left, but it was in a nice way for they just put their feet on the scout trail. These two boys went up into the troop through a going-up ceremony, being accepted into the troop by S.M. Ford.

Happy hunting and good Scouting, for Rovering lies ahead.

The troop at St. John's is still studying along the second class tests under Ken Brown, Stroyan Leith and Jim Brown, each taking first aid, mapping and knotting in order named.

One of the best Cub leaders' meetings was held in the new headquarters, corner Brock, on Thursday last; some 25 leaders being out.

We understand that a Cub leaders' course is being started this week on Wednesday night at 7.30. All Cub leaders, assistants, Rovers, Scouters and troop committeemen are invited to attend this course. Those completing same will be eligible for their indoor Gilwell certificate. — The Scouter.

ROTARIANS HEAR ROMANTIC STORY OF QUAKER OATS

"Going full blast we take in 40 carloads of grain a day and put out about the same amount," Rotarian Roy E. Cutting, head of the local plant of the Quaker Oats Company in referring to the Peterborough operations in the course of a most interesting address upon the formation of the Quaker Oats Company delivered at the regular weekly luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day. Mr. Cutting supplied much that was new in connection with the history of the company, and his talk was illumined with witty passages that made it a highlight.

President Dutton, who was in the chair, made a feeling reference to the passing of R. R. Hall, K.C., who had, he said, addressed Rotarians on a number of occasions. Mr. Hall the president remarked, had made many valuable contributions to the life of the city.

Rotarian Roy Goring urged a large representation of the club at the inter-city meeting to be held at Newcastle on April 20.

Rotarian George A. Gillespie was appointed to represent the club at the sixteenth National Congress of the League of Nations Society in Canada, to be held in the Chateau Laurier at Ottawa on May 22-24.

Introduced by Rotarian J. Fred Reed, Mr. Cutting said that he proposed to deal with the first beginnings of the Quaker Oats Company. Incidentally he said that when Julius Caesar had first sighted the white cliffs of Dover in 55 B.C. he had done a great service to the company, a remark that was explained in the speakers last sentence.

The First Mill

The first mill had been established at Akron, in 1832, and it was a flour mill, the speaker said. The conditions were ripe, he explained, at that time for a development of the cereal business for the world was beginning to turn from farming to industry. The first steam engine had been invented, the first steamers had crossed the Atlantic, McCormick had invented the reaper, the corn laws were repealed in England, and a change had come over the world.

The first oatmeal mill was established in 1850 by Ferdinand Schumacher and for years this German miller had carried on.

Then came the arrival in Ontario from Scotland of John Stuart, great grandfather of the John Stuart at present in the local office of the company and he began manufacturing flour and rolled oats and shipping them back to the United Kingdom.

In 1873 his son, Robert Stuart, well known in Peterborough, went over to Chicago to investigate conditions and as a result he landed in Cedar Rapids, in Iowa, in 1875 and started a mill there. Meanwhile H. P. Crowell, with no experience in milling had purchased another mill in Ohio. Eventually these three, facing competition from 26 other mills, came together and while the first attempts at amalgamation fell through the American Cereal Company, forerunner of the Quaker Oats Company, eventually developed.

Advertising Campaign

Mr. Cutting told of the development of the organization, how Crowell had urged the putting out of goods under a brand name and in packages and of the necessity of advertising and how the export business had developed until the need of a plant in Canada had become evident and Peterborough was selected. "The vision of these men in regard to the export business," said Mr. Cutting, "is evidenced by the fact that 75 per cent of our business here now is export."

The speaker, inviting his fellow Rotarians to inspect the local plant, said that this was a large mill and there was much to show visitors. He gave some very interesting figures in regard to the local turnout, explaining that the plant was capable of producing 45,000 packages of cereal an hour, and of taking in and turning out 40 carloads of grain a day.

The development of the business throughout the world was touched upon by the speaker who paid a tribute to the advertising compaign tha had been carried on in England by Advertising Manager Seymour, one of whose exploits had been to cover the cliffs of Dover with tributes to the merits of Quaker Oats. It had taken an act of parliament to have the signs removed and by that time everybody in England was talking about the product. "That was what I meant," said the speaker, "when I said that Julius Caesar did a good thing for Quaker Oats when he discovered the cliffs of Dover in 55 B.C."

The thanks of the club were extended to Rotarian Cutting on motion of Rotarian H. L. Garner.

ONTARIO HOGS

TORONTO, April 11 — (CP). — Liveweight bacon hog prices dropped 25 cents at London and Stratford to-day and dressedweights were down 30 cents at the latter point. Other markets held about steady.

Liveweights. — Brantford, $9.60; Hull, $9.75; London, $9.50; Chatham, $9.50; Stratford, $9.50; Peterborough, $9.65.

Dressed-weights. — Kitchener, $12.70; Hull, $13.35; Chatham, $13; London, $12.70; Stratford, $12.70; Peterborough, $12.75.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

Moderate new-crop wheat export purchases failed to offset profit-taking and adverse inter-market spreading on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Opening gains of more than a cent were wiped out as the dull session closed ⅝ to 1⅛ cents lower, May $1.24¾, July $1.13⅛ and October 89¾ cents.

Canadian export sales were estimated at 300,000 bushels mostly for shipment next October or November. Slow cash wheat demand and the hesitant trend at Chicago were inducements for liquidation.

Reports from the United States southwest winter wheat belt indicate moisture received recently more than offset any damage caused by freezing temperatures.

Henry Ford Wed 50 Years Today

DETROIT, April 11 (A.P.). — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, married in a farmhouse near the site of the headquarters of the vast Ford Motor Company, observed their 50th wedding anniversary to-day.

The day also is Mrs. Ford's 71st birthday. The couple observed the double occasion informally, as guests of their son, Edsel, president of the industrial empire, and Mrs. Edsel Ford. A civic ceremony will be held by suburban Dearborn to-morrow night at Ford's Greenfield Village. At the observance, in Ford's reproduction of Independence Hall, a bound volume of letters from friends and admirers thoughout the country will be presented to the couple.

$30.15 REALIZED POT LUCK SUPPER MILLBROOK W.A.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, April 11.— Mrs. F. A. Kidd extended the hospitality of her home for the April meeting of the Women's Association of St. Andrew's church, held on Friday, the president, Mrs. P. I. Bentley, occupying the chair. In spite of a very stormy afternoon, the attendance was large.

An Easter message featured the devotional period, and during the business section, the opening of the 'Sunshine Bags,' containing one copper for every day the sun shone during March, was of peculiar interest, $6.44 being obtained, with a number of bags yet to come in.

Reports from the pot luck suppers which had been held lately were given by Mrs. Edgar Fallis, who turned in $5.65 from the one held at her home, and $8.00 from Miss Josie Sutton at whose home over thirty had been in attendance; in all $30.15 was taken in from this source. Under the heading of new business, the president announced that Mr. Scadding, of the Moose River mine disaster, will lecture here on April 27, tickets to be sold in advance; the program committee to secure musical numbers include Mrs. F. L. Edworthy, Miss Josie Sutton, Mrs. H. W. Johnston and Miss Burnham.

The annual garden-party was set for June 16, on the church grounds, with the program given indoors. The executive was appointed a committee to secure a new curtain for the brass rail in front of the choir loft, and to see to repairs for the inside entry doors, before Easter Sunday, when services will again be held in the church auditorium, and necessary repairs to plumbing and roof at the Parsonage were arranged for.

The Association will purchase an Easter lily for Sunday, April 17, and afterward the plant will be sent to some sick member of the congregation. Mrs. P. Stinson and Mrs. Irwin Hatherly sang "What will you do with Jesus?" and Mrs. H. W. Johnston and Miss Eva Hansman, the duet, "He Knows," Miss May Duncan accompanying, and both numbers being much enjoyed.

The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. (Rev.) A. L. Sisco.

APPEAL TO YOUTH

WINDSOR, Ont., April 11—(CP).—Windspread appeal to youth by service clubs may be an important factor in preservation of democracy, William J. Tamblyn, president of Optimist International and Headmaster of Forest Hill village schools, said in address last night at the Windsor Optimists' "International night." "There has come to our youth a tremendous new idea of service," Tamblyn said. Present were representatives from Detroit, London, Hamilton, Sarnia, Chatham, Toronto, and St. Thomas.

Human Skulls Used In Strange Instruments

Many strange musical instruments were exhibited by the American Society of Ancient Instruments at the University museum in Philadelphia recently. At the LEFT is a "cora", a stringed instrument from the Sudan, atop a large drum from Nigeria. This Dama Skuli drum, RIGHT was used by the natives of Tibet and northern India. The base of the two halves of the drum is made of human skulls.

EASTER SPEAKER FOR CAVAN W.M.S.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, April 11. — The Cavan W.A. and W.M.S. held a joint meeting in the Church on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. (Rev.) J. R. Trumpour conducted the opening devotional period.

During the business session of the W.M.S., Mrs. Trumpour was appointed to secure a lady speaker for a special W.M.S. Sunday service, soon after Easter. Envelopes were distributed for the thankoffering and will be handed in at the special service or when convenient for the members. Mrs. Snider was in charge of the program, during which Mrs. W. Seymour gave a temperance reading.

Miss Malone took up the assigned chapter of the Study Book," A New Church faces a New World." The chapter was "The Light of the Mind," dealing with the preaching of the gospel to the Canadian Indians. Mrs. Swain closed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. R. Matchett, president of the W.A. then took the chair for a short business session. The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of seventy-two dollars. Letters of appreciation were read from members remembered during illness. There was discussion concerning new curtains for the basement of the church and samples of material were exhibited, but no decision was reached and the matter was left over for the May meeting.

The flower committee were requested to purchase an Easter lily for the church for Easter Sunday.

A pot luck dinner was reported by its hostess, Mrs. A. B. Kennedy. A few names of members were reported as not having attended any of the series held and Mrs. Keegan offered her home for a final dinner.

Mrs. Kegean has returned after spending the winter with her sister, Mrs. J. Coulter, Lindsay.

PROTEST TO OTTAWA

BROCKVILLE, Ont., April 11 (CP) —The Brockville Ministerial Association yesterday passed a resolution requesting the Dominion Government to refuse the petition of the Ontario legislature to legalize a sweepstake in the province for the benefit of Ontario hospitals. The resolution said legalizing of sweepstakes would open the door to more assiduous gambling and would discourage liberality in support of hospitals by private citizens.

OTTAWA, April 11 (CP)—This week's issue of "Life," picture magazine published in New York, has been banned from Canada under the tariff item prohibiting importation of indecent publications, the national revenue department disclosed last night.

The issue containing four pages of stills from the motion picture, "The Birth of a Baby," produced by the American Committee for Maternal Welfare, was to go on sale in Canada today. It has already been banned in several eastern United States cities.

Publisher To Test Ruling

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Roy E. Larsen, publisher of Life magazine, postponed until today his surrender to Bronx county authorities for a test trial involving a ban on sale of the magazine's current issue because it contained scenes from the film, "The Birth of a Baby."

Larsen announced his intention to surrender after District Attorney Samuel J. Foley prohibited sale of the issue and three newsdealers were arrested. The Bronx is one of New York city's five boroughs.

Larsen said he hoped by his arrest and trial to test Foley's right to ban the magazine from news stands. Foley agreed to the postponement in the publisher's appearance.

Governor Earle Saturday forbade sale in Pennsylvania of the current issue of the magazine unless scenes from the motion picture "The Birth of a Baby," are removed.

PRINCIPAL SCORES SCHOOL DANCES

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, April 11. — The Havelock High School Board met on Wednesday evening with Trustees Mrs. Rigby, Spencer and Lancaster present and Chairman Denike presiding.

In the correspondence there was a notice from Miss J. A. Batten, county clerk, advising that "In the account of the Norwood Board of Education for attendance of county pupils for 1937 the names of three students from the village of Havelock, appeared with a total attendance of 420 pupil days. Please advise if your Board consider these pupils in the "county pupil" classification."

The secretary was instructed on motion of Trustees Lancaster and Rigby to advise Miss Batten that the Havelock Board are of the opinion that these pupils should be classed as "resident pupils," owing to the fact that they and their parents are resident of Havelock, and suggest that the matter be referred to the county solicitor for guidance."

The Board approved the estimated county pupil grant requisition of $945.82, and authorized the secretary to submit this to the county treasurer.

Caretaker Buchanan reported that the shipment of oil from C. C. Snowdon had been received and that four drums had been returned for which a credit should be had.

Chairman Gordon Denike was named as delegate (in place of the late J. F. Breckenridge) to the annual convention of the Ontario Trustees and Ratepayers' Association, to be held during Easter week.

Principal Goheen in his repuort to the Board spoke of the matter of school dances, especially as to the advisability of having these officially called High School dances when held without patrons and patronesses and supervision of invitations. Mr. Goheen strongly favored an age limit, he did not think the very young students should be permitted to attend.

The Board instructed the secretary to write Mrs. F. Breckenridge expressing their deep sympathy in her recent bereavement in the loss of her husband.

Responsible For New Hats

Maybe these birds are responsible for some of the queer creations adorning some women's heads. Nature was in a lavish mood when she adorned these Australian and African birds with the headgear they are shown wearing. On the RIGHT a group of crown cranes from Africa at Frank Buck's jungle camp on Long Island, N.Y. Many an envious human eye might be cast on their chapeaux, also good for all seasons.

So We Mention Alice

There were some pictures in the papers the other day taken at a horse show. Most of them were young ladies taking jumpers over the hurdles. The cameras in use today with the added advantage of flash equipment can catch a horse in the air perfectly. So the pictures were good. And there was quite a lot of praise for the young lady riders. They were referred to as daring and skilled and capable and so on. And probably that is all true enough.

About the same time a story made its way on the Canadian Press wire out of Edmonton telling of some horse-back riding which Alice Rogers had been doing. There was a plane crash near her home and two men were injured. Alice is described as a farm girl nine years old, and after the crash she too started to do some horse-back riding. Whether there was a saddle on the premises is not stated but Alice started off on a six-mile ride bareback because that would take her to the nearest telephone. She called for an ambulance to come and then rode home. The ambulance came, but with it there was no doctor. Then Alice—nine years old and going it bare-back—made the trip again, and four trips of six miles each equals a distance of 24 miles. Bareback.

Of course there were no photographers or reporters around so Alice has to be content with merely the printed word to tell of her ability as a rider of horses. It may be that the well-dressed and well-equipped young ladies who take the trained jumpers over the hurdles know their business and know it well. But for the moment we are moved to suggest that Alice Rogers must also be considered when it comes to writing about girls who understand horses. Nine years old and 24 miles—and bareback.

Should Not Be Done

The suggestion is made that the season for lunge fishing should be opened on the 20th of June instead of the first of July. We can find no sufficient reason why this should be done, and we can think of several sound enough reasons why it should not be done.

Opening the season that much earlier means that people will start fishing for lunge on the 20th of June, and in doing that they will likely take bass as well, and when a good sized bass is pulled in there is always the chance that it will not be thrown back.

We do not believe we have enough lunge in our lakes to extend the season. The lunge is the greatest asset we have. We have felt for some time that the present regulations which permit of two of these great fish being taken as well as six bass for a day's fishing was too generous. Any good sportsman after taking a 15 or 20-pound lunge will realize he has had his share for the day.

Lunge spawn is not prolific. It is lower in efficiency when it comes to spawning than any our other fish. The lunge will spawn when the spring freshets are on and the chances of much of the spawn being left out of the water when it recedes are very great. That is why lunge spawn is not over four or five per cent. effective.

There are places where it is urged now that there should be a closed season for lunge in order to make sure of a future supply. When sensible people are making such suggestions it seems to indicate we are not in a position to hasten opening the time when these great fish can be attacked by advancing the date for legal fishing ten days. We cannot think of any reason why such change in dates should be made, nor are we aware of any good purpose which would be served by so doing.

Our Reserve Police

It is probable a good many people did not know there was a reserve police force in existence in the province, and that it has cost $119,000 to keep it intact up until the end of March. In June the number signed up on this force was 376, but now the strength is 305. The men are paid $100 per year and it is the intention of the government that the organization be continued as $30,500 was placed in the estimates for that purpose.

This provincial force was brought into existence at the time of the strike in Oshawa, although it was not called on for service there. The members were trained in the legislative buildings at Toronto, and any and all equipment which they may have remains there. Just what the equipment was or is was not stated in the debate in the Legislature.

One report says that Premier Hepburn found he could place no reliance on securing any needed assistance from Ottawa, and for that reason decided at once to organize this provincial reserve. It was quite plain that the intention is to retain the force "as long as times are disturbed." That quotation is from a statement made by Hon. Harry Nixon, Provincial Secretary. Whether the keeping alive of this provincial force will cause times to be less disturbed is an open question. The force grew out of the strike at Oshawa, and the feeling in that city will be it is being maintained in case anything ever breaks out there again.

The Better Way

Police have found the persons responsible for disturbances created in the Ontario Legislature committee room when Hon. Dr. Herbert A. Bruce appeared there to act as spokesman against the proposal to allow the name "Doctor" to be used by osteopaths, chiropractors and drugless healers.

In the usual course of events action would be taken in court, but in this case there will be nothing done. The reason is that Dr. Bruce desires that nothing should be done. He regards it all as a closed incident. To use the more commonly employed phrase, the Dr. refuses to prosecute.

And that is a good way to settle the business. The meeting where the discussions were going on prior to the threatened attack and verbal abuse were such that heat would be engendered and tempers would be at the snapping point. Men would be inclined to shake fists and say things then which they would probably regret in a short time. If they did not there would be something wrong with them.

Dr. Bruce has taken the proper attitude. If the offending gentlemen had merely stated they were sorry for what took place they too could have closed the incident. With no apologies offered Dr. Bruce himself has stated plainly he regards the incident as finished. And in that he has done well. Our whole life, social and political and in every day business would be a more pleasant thing if such a policy were generally followed.

And We Pay For It

When cities grow large the people in them become more helpless. They may think they are strong, but they are not. Probably they can point to a great many conveniences which are quite up-to-date, and as long as all these conveniences function well there is no trouble.

There was a snowstorm the other day, quite a fall for this time of year. Next day we saw pictures in the Toronto papers of traffic all tied up. It was reported that in some places cars were jammed for as much as five blocks, or for more than half a mile. They had cars of course, gas in the tanks, drivers behind the wheels, all prepared to go, but the going was not good.

Not long ago there was a coal strike of short duration in Toronto and it terminated about the end of the week. It was necessary to start delivering coal on Sunday because there were so many orders for small amounts from homes where people receive supplies in quantities which last only a short time.

Peterborough is not a large city; rather it is a convenient and happy size, but when our textile mills became slack here a few weeks ago there were 53 additions to the city relief roll for the month of March. We are certain these people would not have applied to the relief office if they could find any other method of earning a living. There was a strike in a textile plant in Woodstock recently, and strikers without pay and without strike allowance started making application to the relief office. The same thing took place last year during a strike period in Welland.

We recall a strike in Detroit within recent months where truckers refused to deliver for wholesale or retail establishments, and in a day or so there was a shortage all over the city of meats and groceries. The whole modern fabric of human existence as it is exemplified in cities seems capable of breaking and coming to grief under the minimum of provocation.

Looking back it is possible to recall life as it was on a farm and in a nearby village. A snowstorm coming this time of year would make little difference. It might have made it necessary to change from wheels to the bob-sleigh or the cutter for a day or so, but that would be all. There was never a shortage of something to eat because most of the supplies were stored away within reach. It was much the same in the village. Most of the people there had gardens; most of them kept chickens and keeping a cow was common. There were plenty of places where a couple of pigs would be kept for killing in the fall. The fact that people whose business it was to deliver things quit work would not bother them at all.

It was much the same with work. There were places where employment was available at certain seasons but when employment ceased it did not mean asking for relief. Most of the material required for the meals did not have to be purchased so there was no immediate alarm that want would come and invade the home. Never at any time was there much cash in these homes, but there was not much needed. The whole method and custom of existence was simple and natural. The people had not entirely alienated themselves from the land; they had not become entirely dependent on the services which they would have to pay other people to provide for them. At present when people living in cities are not able to pay for all these services they must go to the relief office. No doubt we have made advances; we have conveniences with which we would not care to part. Concentration of commercial and industrial effort has caused many of us to gather or huddle together in small spaces in cities. But this development has exacted a price which we are continually paying in one way or another. We can and do find ourselves in trouble much more frequently than in the days when the farm and the village were more to the front than they are today.

What Did They Have?

Word from Windsor relates three men were in police court in that city charged with exhibiting racing information. It looks as though it had been a case of receiving bets as well but it is not so stated in the story.

At first glance it is difficult to know what racing information could be thus displayed which is not now carried in some of the larger daily newspapers which are more concerned with professional sport and horse racing than they are with amateur sports. There each day there is a record of all the race tracks with the odds paid on the winning horses. There is information telling the condition of the tracks where the races come next day, together with the entries. Also there are special columns telling the names of all horses in the races which it is advisable to place the money on. These papers tell you all about the races, all about the tracks, and even pick the horses for your betting money.

What additional information the three men could have been handling out in Windsor which brought them to court does not seem clear at the moment.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It looks as if they have two referees in professional hockey games because a pair of them can miss twice as much as one official could.

Counsel has been named for the probe which the Senate will make of the railway situation. And of course counsel will have to be paid.

Nearly 18,000 new laws were passed by the 48 states of the United States last year. No wonder the law schools are always full of students.

American fishermen tell the United States tariff committee that Canada needs the protection of the American navy. The worst feature of that statement is it is at least partially true.

Classes in the McGill law classes were suspended when some one unloosed a stench bomb. Trying to get the students used to the atmosphere of some of the cases they are likely to run into.

Motorists who attempt to mix gasoline and alcohol are to have their cars impounded for three months. That sounds like the best protection against drunken driving yet devised.

Calgary unemployed are planning a hunger march on the Alberta government at Edmonton. And that is about as useless a way of trying to improve their position as could be suggested.

St. Thomas Times-Journal advises those who cannot get enough to read to go to the British Museum where there are 4,000,000 volumes. But will they let a fellow take them home and keep them as long as he pleases?

Italy's annual automobile race has been abolished following the death of ten persons in the last contest held. Mussolini probably believes that enough people are being killed in his various wars without extending the slaughter in races.

In traffic court at Newark the judge fined a young man $5 for driving with his arm around a girl. He advised that the car should be pulled off the road and the young man should use both arms and attend to the hugging and make a good job of it. He added it was impossible to do two things at once. We are inclined to regard that as sound advice.

THANKFUL

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Alfalfa has a new spring hat, the thing is rather small and flat, and it is black and red; I've watched her step out smart and quick, and figured it was quite a trick, to keep it on her head.

¶ It hardly has a crown at all, and if there's one it's very small, perhaps an inch, no more; they said it was the latest thing, that she could purchase for the spring, they've said the same before.

¶ This little hat Alfalfa's got, will never stay exactly sot, it shifts both here and there; Alfalfa cannot take a pin, and jab it through beneath the brim, because she's little hair.

¶ Nor can she tie it neath her chin, so she could face the wind and grin, that's not the style she said; so when the wind begins to blow, Alfalfa must proceed quite slow, to keep it on her head.

¶ She finds it awkward too I know, as she starts travelling to and fro, some times she has to chase; she can't tote parcels two or three, because both hands must be quite free, to keep the hat in place.

¶ Alfalfa chants her hymn of hate, because she fears her hat's not straight, she views it in the hall; I think she should be thankful though when she steps out to come and go—that it stays on at all.

Here and There in The Debates

(From Parliamentary Debates)

SORRY TO INTERRUPT

The CHAIRMAN: Order. I may tell members of the committee that the Hansard reporters are having difficulty in hearing what is being said, largely due to the noise in the chamber. I would ask hon. members to keep order.

Mr. MAYBANK: I am sorry to interrupt some of the conversations that are going on. To continue, it does not make any difference how much money the government may spend on youth training and reclamation schemes; it is quite probable that I will not be satisfied, that I will think more should be spent. Frankly I know that I am greedy in respect to this matter, that my desire is so great that my wants are insatiable.

KNOWLEDGE!

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: We had the best counsel possible.

Mr. BENNETT: I would doubt that—not on the score of capacity to practise the profession but from the standpoint of not being able to apply academic knowledge to realities. The two things do not go side by side.

Mr. POWER: It is the first time I have been accused of purely academic knowledge.

Mr. BENNETT: I assure you, Mr. Speaker, I had no intention of accusing the hon. member of possessing academic knowledge. Perhaps I might have said that he had great knowledge of realities, many of which I would prefer that he did not have.

MARRIAGE A STIMULUS?

Mr. ROGERS: If my hon. friend is putting that as a question, he will understand that I have no basis, and he has no basis, for doing other than making the assumption.

Mr. MASSEY: Is it a reasonable assumption?

Mr. ROGERS: I have no further information than my hon. friend has.

Mr. MASSEY: Possibly the minister will grant for the purpose of discussion that it is not too far beside the mark.

Mr. ROGERS: That is the hon. member's statement.

Mr. MARTIN: Marriage may be a minor stimulus.

Mr. MASSEY: The hon. member is in a better position to know than any other member of this chamber.

❖ ❖ ❖

HIRED FOUR CLERKS

On the orders of the day:

Mr. F. E. LENNARD (Wentworth): I should like to direct the attention of the Minister of National Defence (Mr. Mackenzie) to a question standing in my name which was passed as an order for return on February 28, in connection with the delivery of coal to the Royal Military College. It is a very simple question and I do not see why I cannot get the return.

Hon. IAN MACKENZIE (Minister of National Defence): I have given instructions that this return be expedited. It involves a tremendous amount of work; as a matter of fact it has been necessary for the department to engage four additional clerks and stenographers to furnish some of the returns that have been asked for this year. Instructions have been given to expedite the return asked by the hon. member.

❖ ❖ ❖

THREE HOUR SPEECH

Mr. ROGERS: There is no suggestion of that at all. My hon. friend can look up the record.

Mr. STEVENS: Must I read everything the minister said?

Mr. ROGERS: That had no connection with the commission at all.

Mr. STEVENS: I have in my hand a copy of his three hour speech, and in it he gave the increase in gold production.

Mr. ROGERS: That had no reference to the employment commission at all. I was dealing with the expanding trade policies of the government.

Mr. STEVENS: Was that not referred to by the employment commission?

Mr. ROGERS: There was no connection between the national employment commission and gold production in my speech.

Mr. STEVENS: Was it not referred to by the employment commission?

Mr. ROGERS: Not in this connection at all.

❖ ❖ ❖

I DID NOT SAY THAT

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: When my hon. friend who has just spoken makes the inference that his Honour the Speaker is according to the hon. member for Beauce a special privilege because he comes from the province of Quebec—

Mr. WOODSWORTH: He did not say that.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: —and that he would not be accorded the same right if he came from another province—and that is what he said—he is reflecting upon his Honour the Speaker.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: I did not say that Mr. Speaker, nor did I imply it.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: May I say that I understand the hon. member to go further than that, and to indicate—

Mr. WOODSWORTH: No.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: He says "no" before I have made my statement. What I understood him to say was that if the hon. member had not belonged to the majority party in the house he would not have been granted the privilege which he is being granted now—which also is a reflection on his Honour the Speaker and upon the house itself.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Withdraw.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Mr. Speaker, I did not reflect in any degree whatever upon your Honour. At the moment when I offered my remarks we were discussing a point of order. I consider that the Speaker is justified in listening as he has listened until such time as a point of order is raised; that is very frequently the procedure in this house; but once the point of order is raised, and the ground of that objection stated, then I think we are perfectly justified in basing our statements on the point of order itself. That is what I tried to do.

EXPLANATION

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I note in a very prominent place under heading of "The Rambling Reporters" a statement which is surely not true, and perhaps a little unfair, to wit, "The only conditions under which members of Knox United Church Choir would attend choir practice, was that a radio be installed that they might listen to the game."

Whilst I feel that it is really beneath my dignity to answer such a statement, I feel that some statement from me is indicated. First of all I do not think one member knew of my intention to place a small mantle radio in the upstairs room where the choir practice, and I assure you that the loyalty of my choir is not dependent on such conditions as stated by your rambling reporter. Furthermore please note, we were not within the environs of the Pulpit, but in an upstairs room where we are accustomed to hold our rehearsals, at the back of the church building.

At about 9.15 the radio was turned on for about one minute and straightway turned off. We start rehearsal at about 7.30 and were too busy to give much time to radio broadcast of a hockey game.

Personally I feel that whilst there may be some humor in your Rambling Reporters story, it is really rather offensive, and simply not fair.

WILLIAM R. POTTER.
Organist and choir master, Knox United Church Choir.

THE FLOATING BRIDGE

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Re. the Chemong Floating Bridge and the letter in Tuesday's issue by "Ennismore Taxpayer."

While admitting the bridge is constantly needing attention and which means an expense, I have a different opinion to our friend who says it disfigures a beautiful lake. It cannot be denied that the floating bridge is a very great convenience and a short cut to Ennismore village to any and all who have business there or are visiting, etc. which is the first consideration and which takes precedence over everything else. The practical side for which the bridge was built.

The Floating Bridge is also a source of pleasure during the Summer months to a very great many who enjoy a leisurely stroll across it or watch the many who are trying their luck with rod, line, and bait and then again, the bridge is an attraction and draws many sightseers who are anxious to see what is rather hard for them to believe until they do see it, viz. A nearly-a-mile long bridge resting on the water. I know for a fact, our friends to the South of us who come to Canada and visit these parts desire very much to see this wonderful bridge they have heard so much about in their country (I have talked with some of them.) The Floating Bridge also gives work to a few men who would often be minus a job otherwise.

Our Ennismore friend speaks of the little extra journey going around the end of the lake, let "Examiner" readers decide. From the point on Chemong Road where you turn off to go to Lindsay, to Ennismore village via Fowler's Corners is 12 miles. From the same point on Chemong Road to the village via the Floating Bridge is 7 miles. From Fowler's Corners and on, "poor" is no correct term for the condition of the roads.

With a good county road our Friend says the extra 5 miles which now takes 13 to 14 minutes, could be reduced to 6 or 7 minutes and thereby break the speed limit by doing nearly a mile a minute and looking for trouble and what about the Ennismore folk who come to town with horse and buggy or with a team the 5 miles each way means a lot.

Now the other angle our Friend says cannot be overlooked is the convenience of Chemong Lake as an ideal place for sea-planes alighting should the Trans-Canada Air Lines ever contemplate using Chemong Lake for that purpose, but, he intimates, the take-off for a sea-plane heavily laden would be greatly handicapped by the Floating Bridge being an obstruction and therefore too dangerous to attempt as the plane needs from 2 to 3 miles for a safe take-off.

The distance from the Floating Bridge to Kelly's Island (now Beatty's Island) is 3½ miles plenty of clear open runway for an up-to-date loaded seaplane to safely take-off and then another good mile and half beyond the Island and the channel between the Island and the main land is a good ¾ mile wide, ample room for any seaplane to manoeuvre in.

No Sir, We cannot do without the Floating Bridge and it will amount to a hardship to a great many if the bridge is taken away before something is done to adequately take its place. Our Ennismore friend must not think the Floating Bridge is an eyesore to everybody who uses it. Far from it, hundreds of people look upon it as a wonderful structure and don't want it removed. The doing away with the bridge will mean a great loss in business to Bridgenorth.

Let the Floating Bridge remain and let it pay for its upkeep by making it a toll bridge, say 5c for vehicles and 2c for pedestrians for nine months of the year, it would certainly help out.

Yours,
FLOATING BRIDGE TO STAY.

Our Two Railways Reviewed.

(The Financial Post)

CANADA'S TWO BIG railway systems published their annual reports last week. The results are a striking commentary on 1937—a year which started out with high promise and ended in darkening gloom. They are equally illuminating as to the earnings position of the Canadian railway problem.

Those of us who used our two railways paid $340,000,000 in fares and freight rates. This was passenger and freight revenue and excludes the amount paid for hotel, telegraph and ocean steamship service. This amount was about two-thirds of what was paid for similar services in the peak years; about 25 per cent. more than was paid in the low year of the depression.

Of this total, about 60 per cent. ($198,000,000) accrued to the Canadian National Railways. The remainder ($145,000,000) is credited to Canadian Pacific Railway. The publicly owned system made a better showing, compared with 1936, than did its privately owned competitor. Thus C. N. R. "gross" was up 6.3 per cent. while C. P. R. showed a gain of 4.7 per cent. Operating expenses of both roads rose an equal amount during the year—5.4 per cent. for C. N. R. and 5.3 per cent. for C. P. R.

Beyond that similarity stops.

For although the C. N. R. system is roughly one and a half as big again as the C. P. R., the privately owned road after paying operating expenses had 35.4 millions with which to meet fixed debt and other charges. This was more than three times the corresponding item ($11.2 millions) reported by the C. N. R. (Both figures are after inclusion of income from outside sources—hotels, steamships, investments, etc.)

❖ ❖ ❖

From there, the difference is then more striking.

Canadian Pacific met all its funded debt obligations (including its liability on the Soo Line re-organization) and added something over a million dollars to surplus.

Canadian National was forced to seek $42,000,000 from the public purse to even meet its interest charges on funded debt held by private investors.

❖ ❖ ❖

A final figure should be quoted to complete the story of what an unsolved railway problem is costing Canada, as revealed by these 1937 reports. If dividends had been paid to C. P. R. shareholders of an amount equivalent to those paid even in 1924-27; and if account were taken of the interest due the Dominion Government on its railway loans, the figures by which the two railways fell short of meeting their responsibilities in 1937 was well over $100,000,000.

This figure could be considerably enlarged if inadequate policies of depreciation and obsolescence were taken into account. It is sufficiently large to warrant definite steps being taken in Canada to find a solution to this most deep-rooted and portentous of all our national problems.

OTHER GREAT HOTELS.

(Sault Ste. Marie Star)

TWO ONTARIO editors are now arguing about the swell hotels they stopped at in Europe—Arthur Kennedy of the Peterborough Examiner and L. H. Dingman of The St. Thomas Times-Journal. Arthur favors the Imperial in Vienna, while L. H. stands by the Bristol, "up the Ringstrasse" in the same city. We are reliably informed you can get anything from skim milk to that old favorite, "a hair of the dog that bit me," at both places. But the general public is left in a fog of doubt as to just why the disputants came to blows over their stopping places. We have carefully gone over the articles written and see no references to beds or bathtubs, or the valuable paintings and frescoes that adorn so many modern hostleries. This column has been around a bit, too, but for the life of us, we can't recall that any of the places we stopped at had refreshments rooms. We believe in keeping out of the adjuncts. Neither of the Vienna hotels seems to be up to the Winnipeg place where they serve the soup with a syringe and retrieve it the same way when you discover it is mostly horse radish.

NO BABY BONUS.

(New York Sun)

IN THE Legislatures of 1937 and 1938 bills were introduced proposing that the State should make a gift of $75 to the parents of every baby born within its limits. Neither bill was passed and consequently no such bounty is disbursed.

However, the measures received some advertisement, in consequence of which a good many persons have the notion that the plan was made effective, and fathers and mothers in considerable numbers apply for the money they think is due to them, and on which in some cases they have confidently depended.

CROWN OF GLORY.

(Portland Oregonian)

NEXT SEASON, so the New York hair-dressers foretell, it will be fashionable for women to have polychromatic hair, streaked and striped in reds, greens, blues or whatever. There is no reason, so it was said at an international convention of master coiffeurs, why a beautiful woman should not enhance her loveliness by a studied effect somewhat resembling an explosion in a paint factory.

This is the identical argument, no doubt, that started the Congo vogue of wearing a chicken bone in the nose, but doubtless what is to be, is to be. We may only hope that the affliction will soon run its course.

NOVEL PUNISHMENT.

(Chatham News)

MANY FORMS OF punishment have been devised for judges who have to deal with reckless drivers. A California judge has hit upon one which may be as effective as it is original.

Each offender found guilty of reckless driving is compelled to paint a red stripe around his car. This plan for marking "dangerous cars" has been so effective that many other judges are adopting the punishment.

The owner of the car so marked may use it in his business, provided he is able to obtain a licensed driver; but he must continue to be a passenger during the period of the punishment which may last six months.

It is an idea at least worth considering.

A Bit of Nonsense

TO SETTLE ACCOUNTS

The local village pub had caught fire and firemen were playing their hoses on it with great skill.

Presently one of the "regulars" appeared on the scene.

"Do you think you'll be able to save the pub?" he asked one of the firemen.

"Oh, sure to," was the reply.

"Well, how about playing the hose on the slate behind the door?"

Military Archivists Claim No One Will Win In China

By J. CLAUDE ALLEN
Central Press Canadian Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 11.— War spreads farther into China. The world looks on with increasing apprehension.

But to military archivists in the U. S. department of war, who keep the records of all military conflicts since the dawn of history, it merely is an echo of an endless train of desperate clashes between the two yellow-skinned peoples of the east —China and Japan.

To-day the spectacle presented to the world is one of a mighty, well-equipped Japanese military machine operating against a floundering, but stubborn, Chinese horde. However, it was not always in this perspective that wars were fought between the Mongols of China and the Mongols of Japan.

U. S. Military annals record the fact that in the thirteenth century there was a dramatic struggle between the mighty and warlike Tartar Mongols who were then the rulers of China, and the rude but peace-loving inhabitants of Japan, which was at that time a small island empire off the Chinese coast.

Peaceful at First

Chinese relations with Japan began in 779 A. D. when the peaceful Suny dynasty was in power in China. Relations were of the friendliest, and all the Oriental blandishments of humility and extravagant courtesy went into the exchanges of diplomatic correspondence between the two nations.

In the twelfth century, however, the Sung dynasty was overthrown by the war-loving Tartars and soon China had changed from a peaceful nation to a warlike nation. The famous Mongol warrior and emperor, Kublai Khan, looking for new lands to conquer, pied the islands strung along the Chinese coast. These islands, although volcanic and often shaken by tidal waves and earthquakes, were reputed to be rich in rice and food-stuffs. Kublai Khan sent an expedition of 10,000 men against Japan.

Accustomed to easy success when the very name of Kublai Khan was enough to induce wild terror, the Chinese forces met unexpectedly stubborn resistance and returned home in somewhat disgraceful defeat. In 1279 Kublai Khan sent an ultimatum borne by nine envoys. All nine were decapitated by the Japanese, who had already begun mobilization to meet the invader.

Kublai Khan proceeded to call out his mighty military machine, and prepared to embark on a voyage designated to teach the Japanese "upstarts" a proper respect for Chinese might.

The Chinese forces set sail in a mighty armada of huge sailing junks ships larger than any the Japanese had ever seen before. The Japanese, in many small junks, went out to met the imposing enemy. The records contain a description of a mighty sea battle, lasting two days, in which the Japanese, fighting guerrilla warfare, and finally aided by a mighty typhoon which swept the huge but uncontrollable Chinese vessels on to Japanese reefs, won a great victory.

Quiet Until 1894

It was the last time there was considerable communication between the two countries for many years. Then relations were re-established and all was good-feeling and friendship . . . until 1894 when Japan, having undertaken the study of western civilized methods, and western military methods, launched a smartly trained military force against a decadent and paralyzed China to inflict a stunning defeat upon the mainlanders, most of the fighting taking place in Chinese territory.

That war began the gradual partition of China, and the intrusion of Japan into formerly Chinese territories. As a result of the war of 1894, China ceded Formosa to Japan and practically agreed to recognize the "independence" of Korea, which came to be ruled under Japanese auspices, just as Manchukuo is today.

The next incident of note was the Chinese Boxer rebellion, when berserk Chinese nationalists tried to put an end to imperialistic activities in China by killing all foreigners on sight. The rebellion was quelled by military expeditions dispatched by various nations, Japan among them. After the rebellion was over, Japan along with the other countries, put in a big claim for indemnities, in money and economic concessions.

China Weakens

In 1908 Japan announced the annexation of Korea, which previously had been ruled as a puppet state. Although this aroused Chinese resentment, tension eased off somewhat until 1915 when the Japanese government suddenly presented the famous "Twenty-one Demands" to the new Chinese Republican regime which had overthrown the ancient Manchu dynasty only a few years previously. The Japanese demands included special commercial concessions, and recognition of the Korean annexation. China, weak and struggling with internal dissensions, agreed to most of the demands.

There followed a short period of "good feeling" between the two countries, featured by further economic "penetration" in China by Japan. But in 1924 another revolution shook China, and installed in power Dr. Sun-Yat-Sen, an enlightened and liberal leader. The political movement of which he was the head gradually became more nationalistic, and more anti-Japanese.

Japan, on its part, began to feel more and more that Chinese leaders were plotting Japan's economic extinction. Japan needed room for expansion, and sources of raw materials.

Japan began to look in the direction of Manchuria, a vast, unexploited land, capable of yielding many raw products of which Japan's factories were in need. In 1931, Japan began its great offensive in Manchuria. Again it was the battle of a mighty military juggernaut against hordes of untrained warriors, fighting with medieval weapons. Again it was Japan which was victorious.

New Assaults

That was the beginning of a new period of Japanese penetration into China whose later reverberations we still hear. After Manchuria, there were new concessions wrested from China in the Shanghai "incident" of 1932. Then came the East Hopei incident, splitting off still another sector from Chinese control.

In the same way the entire province of East Hopei was separated from the mother country. Soon Japan had made an entrance inside China's famed but impotent Great Wall. Then it was Jehol and Chahar. To-day Japan has under her influence some of the richest of the north provinces of China, all the result of military successes.

The climax to these clashes is undoubtedly taking place to-day. What final words of description will be written into the military and historical annals to record the result of the present "incidents" remains to be seen.

CONANT GETS DITCHED

WHITBY, Ont., April 11 (CP).—After skidding into a transport truck Saturday, an automobile driven by Hon. Gordon D. Conant, Attorney-General of Ontario, went into a ditch about half a mile west of Whitby. No one was hurt in the glancing collision.

LAKEFIELD GIRL DESCRIBES TRIP TO SUNNY SOUTH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, April 11—A very fine series of motion pictures on her recent trip to California was shown and described by Miss Cora Charlton before an interested audience in the Lakefield United church on Wednesday evening. The program was given under the auspices of Group "C" of the Women's Association of Lakefield United church.

Rev. G. F. Kelly acted as chairman and introduced Miss Charlton, who, in company with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Charlton spent about three months during the past winter on a motor trip to California, U.S.A. and Mexico. They motored down by way of Denver City and Phoenix, Arizona, to San Diego, California, where they spent some time. Using San Diego as a headquarters the party visited Los Angeles, Hollywood, Long Beach, etc. besides making a two thousand mile motor trip to San Francisco, Boulder Dam and through the Death Valley. They also visited Mexico.

The pictures which were in technicolor, showed, first, views of Denver City. From here, Miss Charlton explained, the party drove to Phoenix, Arizona, where they detected the first noticeable temperature changes. Here they were forced to shed their furs and don spring suits. The pictures taken here emphasized the fertility of this section of the country where oranges, dates, grapefruit, lemons, etc. grow in profusion in what was at one time desert land. An extensive irrigation system of which interesting pictures were shown make possible this fertile area in the midst of the desert sands. Cotton was seen growing in the fields and huge fields of sugar beets were shown being gathered and loaded into trucks.

On New Year's Day the party attended the Festival of Roses at Pasadena, California. The views of the floats taken in natural colors were truly lovely. The Queen's float, Miss Charlton explained showed the queen seated on a crown fashioned of royal gold crysanthemums, shaded by three plums of orchid-colored sweet peas. Her attendants were seated on an ermine mantle of crysanthemums and delphinium. Burbank's Merry-Go-Round float which was the Sweepstakes prize winner, had a floor of white crysanthemums with the different animals fashioned of white, red, yellow and blue flowers. It was complete even to the musical accompaniment and was called Burbank's "Playland Fantasies."

Catalina Island.

Picturesof Catalina Island showed the channel where George Young gained fame as a swimmer, and views of Old Mexico showed Mexican weaners in the market place with their hand-made rugs and sandals, etc. up for sale.

Passing through Williams, Arizona, the party drove 80 miles to visit the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. They drove for 87 miles along a fine paved highway beside the canyon, stopping at intervals to view points of especial interest. The colored pictures brought out the true beauty of these scenes which are indescribably attractive.

The Wild West Rodeo at Phoenix, Arizona, which was on when the party passed through that city on their return in February, determines the world's champions in lassoing and broncho riding, etc., Miss Charlton said, in conclusion. The party travelled 11,000 miles during their trip.

Between reels Miss Lois Yale and Miss Helen Kelly played a pianaforte duet and Mrs. J. R. Hull sang a vocal solo.

At the conclusion of the concert a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Charlton and to Miss Cora Charlton on behalf of the Women's Association for the delightful evening they had made possible. Thanks were tendered as well to all who assisted in the program, including Mr. Kenneth Morris, who assisted in running off the slides.

TWO PRISONERS FIGHT

TORONTO, April 11 (CP). — Two prisoners fought at Langstaff Jail Farm last night, Patrick Jordan having to be removed to Toronto General Hospital for treatment of a broken jaw as a result of the fight, Major G. FOREMAN DROPS DEAD

CORNWALL, Ont., April 11 (CP) —Eddie Menard 43, foreman of the Canadian National Railways freight sheds here, dropped dead lats night from a heart attack while talking to two members of his staff. Menard, native of Cohoes, N.Y., came here two years ago from Farnham, Que. where had had worked for the railway for 22 years.

DELIVERY CEASES ON RELIEF CHEQUES

WINDSOR, Ont., April 11.—(CP). —Windsor's system of delivering relief cheques to recipients, rather than have them call for them, will end and the Windsor Welfare Department staff will be reduced by 15, city council officials announced to-day after a camera session Saturday with E. A. Horton, Ontario Deputy Minister of Public Welfare and Municipal Affairs.

Horton told council administrative relief system throughout the province had been under provincial review with a view to bringing them within the ability of taxpayers to carry.

He said Windsor's system was unique.

Government Inspector Walter Weese said Windsor's relief distribution costs were heavy. After Horton said that changes in Ottawa's relief system had saved $500,000, Government Investigator Fred Ferrari, former Reeve of East Sandwich municipality, said $300,000 could be saved in Windsor.

Several council members said this figure was too high.

DISTURBED AT NIGHT?

A DIURETIC stimulant such as Dr. Pierce's A-nuric is often indicated and usually it is sufficient to relieve minor kidney irregularities. These A-nuric Tablets put up by Dr. Pierce and sold by druggists are of value in relieving the burning and soreness, and the desire for frequent urination caused by or associated with excess acid, and they tend to ease the flow of urine. Read this: Ronald Spooner, 132 Brock St., Brantford, Ont., said: "In the morning I would be so stiff and sore that I could hardly stoop over to tie my shoes. Then again my kidneys gave me trouble, the secretions passed very often and burned in passage. I took Dr. Pierce's A-nuric Tablets and was relieved of my misery." Price, 65 cents.

RHEUMATIC PAINS Take "Salts of the Earth"

Why do well-known specialists send Rheumatic sufferers to take the costly treatment at famous Spas? It is because Spa waters contain mineral salts with relief-giving properties for such painful ailments.

In Fynnon Salt you get similar benefits of these valuable "Salts of the Earth" containing the elements of Sodium, Potassium, Lithium, and other ingredients with high remedial value. Fynnon Salt attacks Uric Acid (usually the cause of rheumatic pains, sciatica, lumbago, etc.). It helps dissolve the acid crystals and gently aids in removing them from the system. Get rid of the acid and the crystals cannot form. In case after case of Rheumatic trouble in the hands, elbows, knees, ankles, back and shoulders, Fynnon Salt has helped others. If you are a Rheumatic sufferer try Fynnon Salt—"Salts of the Earth". Take a ½ teaspoonful in a glassful of water every morning. Fynnon Salt costs only 75c at your druggist's for a bottle good for from 5 to 10 weeks' treatment. 28

Be fair to him, too

In the discussions provoked by these articles, one point comes up so often that it deserves an article to itself . . .

"The brewers," we are told, "in their own interest should not support beverage rooms!"

The reasons given for this amazing statement are as follows:

"Dry sentiment in this province is much more concerned with what goes on in public than what goes on in private. If there were no licensed hotels," say these councillors, "you'd sell just as much, but people would drink it at home. Extremists wouldn't be scandalized. They'd switch their attack to somebody else."

In other words, the Brewing Industry is invited to secure itself to spare the feelings of a cynical minority!

In order to make things easier for itself, it is advised to deprive the poorer man of his liberty, while the rich man can still drink comfortably at home!

Worse, it is advised to drive the working-man to break the law. For that again would be the inevitable result of closing the beverage rooms!

Under no circumstances will the Brewing Industry take that kind of advice. We support the beverage room because the British nations have proven out-in-the-open control the best way!

"SPEAKING as a man who does not indulge in any alcoholic beverage, it is my considered opinion that the results in all civilized countries in which Prohibition has been tried, have altogether failed to come up to the smallest expectation of what it was expected to accomplish.

Rather, it resulted in a crop of bootleggers, hijackers, and enormous quantities of poisonous liquors, which caused the death of thousands. It not only caused a thorough disrespect for the Prohibition law but attacked the very foundation of our British system of respect for law and order."

— GEO. BENNETT, Mayor of Port Hope

THE STRONG RIGHT ARM OF CANADA

★ ★

RECEIVING deposits or making loans, Canada's banks are dealing largely with other people's money. Parliament has placed the strictest safeguards around the handling of other people's money.

When you deposit, or when you borrow, the strong right arm of the nation itself is thrown about you, for banking is subjected, through The Bank Act, to greater Government regulation, stricter supervision and more penetrating Parliamentary scrutiny than any other business in Canada.

Banks assemble the surplus funds of millions of Canadians, mostly in small sums. Based on these deposits, and their own resources, they make credit available where needed, for agriculture, commerce, industry, lumbering, mining, fishing, transportation, markets, governments, municipalities and individuals.

These are grave responsibilities. In discharging them the banks are well supervised.

Charters of all Canadian banks expire at the end of every ten years; they can be renewed for no more than ten years and then only after the most searching parliamentary investigation of the whole business of banking. Can you name any other form of enterprise in Canada in which every company's charter expires at one time? Or which has to undergo parliamentary investigation as a condition to continuing in business?

Parliament can, of course, amend The Bank Act at any time, but every ten years that Act is thrown open for what is known as the "Decennial Revision". Bank officers are called before the Banking and Commerce Committee of the House of Commons. They are examined and cross-examined by members and every phase of banking is fully disclosed.

It is a large committee which includes many of the ablest minds in Parliament. Every province and every political party is represented on it, so that Canadians do not lack in any sense for the most penetrating examination of the business of banking.

Canadians as a people thus regulate the business of banking through their elected representatives. Into The Bank Act, by reason of the work of this Committee over the years, have been built all of the safeguards prompted by experience.

In addition, Canada's chartered banks are supervised in various other ways and operate under almost continuous scrutiny. Shareholders appoint their own auditors—chartered accountants—who closely examine each bank's affairs.

Then there is an Inspector General of Banks, an officer under the Minister of Finance, whose duty it is to keep throughout the year a vigilant eye upon banking operations. He has access to all bank records.

Banks have to make statutory returns to the Minister of Finance and to the Bank of Canada, periodically. Heavy penalties are provided for neglect to make them or if they contain falsity or deceit.

Each month they must report to the Government the total of loans made to bank directors or to firms in which they are partners, and of loans which directors guarantee. The return of January 31st, 1938, shows that the total of such loans does not amount to more than 1/98th part of the total bank loans.

There is no "money monopoly" in banking. Any group of responsible people who will get $500,000 capital subscribed and half of it paid up, and who fulfil the requirements of The Bank Act, can start a bank. The requirements are devised to safeguard the people against fly-by-night promoters.

Up till 1934 chartered banks issued their own notes to the amount of their paid-up capital and might, on occasion, exceed that sum under definite and rigid legal limits.

In establishing the Bank of Canada, Parliament provided that for ten years from and including 1936, there should be a steady year by year reduction in the note circulation of the chartered banks.

We can issue our own notes now only up to 85 per cent. of our paid-up capital. Each year, as this reduction takes place, the note issue of the Bank of Canada increases.

Thus it must be seen that banks have never had an unlimited power to issue notes—they have always been definitely restricted by Parliament, with heavy fines as penalties for any breach of these restrictions.

There is no mystery about the work of Canada's chartered banks—their doings are an open book to the Dominion Government, through the Minister of Finance, his officers, and the Bank of Canada.

The chartered banks are controlled by specific laws, regulations and restrictions designed for your protection as depositor, note-holder or borrower. Their work is to safeguard the thrifty, promote the flow of trade and commerce and to facilitate the transfer of goods and services.

TORONTO BASEBALLERS STRONG IN INFIELD AND PITCHING STAFFS

Urbanski And Clifton Combine For Clever Double-Play Duo

Chief Dan Howley a Little Doubtful Over His Outfield—Catching Weak

TORONTO, April 11 (CP). — If Dan Howley has any worries about his 1938 edition of Toronto Maple Leafs they don't apply to the pitching staff or the infield. The Leafs undoubtedly are strong in these departments and Howley's chief concern is the catching and outfielding strength of his International Baseball League entry.

The spring exhibition games have shown the infield combination, from first to third, of Jack Burns, Herman (Flea) Clifton, Bill Urbanski and Joe Gantenbeing is one that will be hard to beat. Urbanski and Clifton, both former major leaguers, form a brilliant double-play duo.

Howley has reason to feel pleased with his pitching staff. He has three or four youngsters who give every indication of making good this season. George Klivak and Walter Lan Franconi, who served with Smith's Falls in the Can.-Am. League last season, have shown as the best rookies.

In addition, Howley has Pete Rehkamp, discovered by Coach Johnny Heving. Conklin Wells Merriweather, 19-year-old Avon Park southpaw, and Art Calhoun, Toronto sandlotter. They have all shown Howley prospects above the ordinary.

Depends on Veterans.

But the bulk of the pitching will fall on the veterans of the staff, including Earl Caldwell, sinker ball specialist; John Berly, Johnny Wilson, Joe Sullivan, with Detroit, 1936 and Toledo last year, Mike Meola, Joe Mulligan and Frank Nekola. Howley also expects to get Woody Davis from Detroit.

The Leafs have only three outfielders—Ted Petoskey, Mayo Smith and Bobby Porter, all with Leafs last season. Howley wants a right-hander hitter to bolster the trio. Smith and Porter, both left-handers, were not used much against southpaw pitching last season. But all three are brilliant fielders and possess strong throwing arms and Howlew is not particularly worried if injuries do not pull down one of the regulars.

If Walter Krlimczak had enough catching experience Howley's worry in this respect would not be serious. The Yale graduate, former third-baseman may catch the second-string job ahead of Clarence Straub, former Newark receiver. Frank Reiber, former Detroit Tiger and Montreal Royal, probably will do the bulk of the catching.

Heving also is a catcher, but past the age when he can be called on for regular duty, and his work will be confined mostly to coaching. Straub was farmed out last season because of poor throwing, also the main fault of Reiber.

Air-Tight Infield.

Howley is well pleased with the infield he assembled after the 1937 aggregation was broken up. Burns has all the necessary experience and Urbanski was ranked tops at his position with Montreal before he was sold to Boston Bees in 1931. A leg injury cost him his major-league job but the leg has responded to treatment and is as good as ever.

Don Ross may come back from Detroit and Ross, who hit better than .300 with Leafs last season, would do nicely. In that case Howley would have Gantenbein and young Al Smith for utility duty.

All in all, Leafs appear much stronger than in 1937, when they finished fifth after a great early-season spurt which saw them on top for a while. Howley blames inexperience for the team's downfall last season, and believes the veterans acquired this year should balance the youngsters.

Rog. Hornsby Signs With The Orioles

BALTIMORE, April 11 (A.P.). Rogers Hornsby, former big league baseball manager, has signed a contract as coach and pinch hitter with Baltimore Orioles, General Manager John Ogden announced on Saturday. The former manager of St. Louis Cardinals, Browns, Chicago Cubs, and Boston Braves, will assist Manager Bucky Crouse as third-base coach.

SEALS RANK HIGH IN PUBLIC FAVOR FOR JUNIOR TITLE

TORONTO, April 11 — (CP) — Oshawa Generals and St. Boniface Seals resume their struggle here tomorrow night in the second game of the Memorial Cup junior play-offs, Generals leading in the win column and Seals rating "tops" with the hockey public.

Oshawa won the first game of the best-of-five series 3-2 here Saturday night, but the boys from the banks of Manitoba's Red River placed first in the fans' favor because of their all-round brilliance, topped by their dazzling speed.

As in most of their games, the Ontario champions appeared fortunate to win—they were outshot 41-21. But the Generals' gunners picked their openings and that perhaps accounted for their better percentage. On the other hand, numerous St. Boniface sorties bogged down behind the Oshawa net.

Generals set up a two-goal lead in a rough first period marred by nine penalties and added their third goal in the next session. Seals scored once in each of the two final periods. Wally Stanowski, while he failed to score, was a stand-out for St. Boniface. His dervish-like rushing was dynamic and near the end of the game Generals had two men on his heels every time he got the puck.

Both of Burron's goals were scored on 10-foot, waist-high shots from directly in front of the net, the first followed a pretty piece of checker-board passing in which Stanowski and Jack Simpson assisted.

Taylor's marker, the first of the game, was a neat effort, the brilliant centre passing to Ross Knipfel inside the Seals' blue line and then slipping around the defence to pick up his teammate's return pass. He brought Goalie Doug Webb to his knees and then flipped the puck high into the net.

Generals suffered a reverse in the first three minutes of play when Dan McTavish fractured his right wrist. McTavish, who pairs with Ab Tonn on the Oshawa defence, is out of the series.

Telling His Secret Costs $120 Cash

Yonkers, N.Y., April 10. FRANK FIORELLO thought he was pretty smart when he hid his money in a loaf of bread, so he told a few people about it. He appeared in court today, charging Fred Castaldo and Michael Palyo with theft of $120 from his hiding place.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

BALL JERKS commence tonight at 8.15 in the "Y", under direction of Jim McClenaghan, physical instructor. Gees planning to try out for a berth with the senior Petes in the Central League this summer are urged to get in shape with physical exercises. They'll be held two nights a week, Mondays and Thursdays, from 8.15 to 9.30, till outdoor practices commence. Fetch along running shoes and sweat-shirts. Ground may be dry enough, and weather okay, to start outdoorsy drills in about three weeks. Meantime, this is a good chance for the boys to get the muscles loosened up and in fair condition. Baseball isn't as strenuous as hockey, lacrosse, or rugby, but the guy in good condish has a real edge over the lad who puffs like a fat dame in a square dance and whose muscles tie up.

ERNIE GIBBARD says Napanee will not re-enter the C.O.B.L. this summer. "We have lost Blazetich, Pointer, Jeffers and Handford, while Ford more recently has moved to Northern Ontario. So you see it would be folly to think of playing senior baseball in Napanee," says Ernie. We suppose so. Looks like it is fairly up to the loop moguls to hustle at once and line up Trenton Air Camp, or Smiths Falls or Perth. As the Quinte Columnist points out, Perth or the Falls would be a short hop from Kingston and not too long for Peterborough. And he feels that Oshawa could play an afternoon game in Perth and a twilight tilt in Smiths Falls to do away with time and travelling expenses for two trips. Neither the Falls nor Perth have a pro club this year, and they might be interested. Action should be taken soon.

IF A T.A.S.A. amendment goes through at the O.A.S.A. annual meeting in Sarnia next Friday, the pitching distance on softball diamonds this summer will be increased from 38 to 40 feet, but only for senior softball. Bases would be moved five feet further, too. Haven't heard of any other important amendment yet, but no doubt there will be several. The local City League should hold a meeting this week to appoint a delegate to the convention, if they intend to send one. And anyway it is nearly time to get re-organized for the season. Spring is shuffling along fairly fast, you know, and April is organization month for summer sports.

'TIS SAID that Kingston is the official headquarters in Canada for snooker, though there is a bit of it played here, and no doubt the many puckists of that town will settle down to sinking the colored balls in the side and end pockets now instead of sinking the black biscuits in rival cages as in recent months. "Kingston juniors," says the writer there, "will soon be enjoying the fruits of their victory with several banquets arranged to honor them as champions. Lions Club will fete them and another dinner will be held later, with the money contributed by Miss Emma Pense, matron of the Kingston Military Hospital, who left enough for a banquet after the local boys defeated Peterborough early in the playdowns. The team will also get benefit of the $100 grant given by the City Council."

VERY, very nice going, but if the report from the Motor City is true—or is it just a rumor?—the Oshawa Generals if they win the Memorial Cup this month, will each receive a new car! This will prove a very strong incentive to this scrappy band of juniors, and they will most certainly be rolling along in high against the St. Boniface Seals, who no doubt must be content with their train trip from Winnipeg to Toronto as their reward. We have a hunch the Generals, who started right Saturday eve with a win will cop the Canadian title. And the horseless carriages.

THIS week will pretty well put the finishing touches to the puck picture everywhere for this year of grace and bodychecks. Fourth game of the Stanley Cup serious is tomorrow in Chi and, if Leafs win, the final will be in Toronto a couple of days later. Second Memorial Cup final is tomorrow eve at the Gardens, it also being a best three in five series. St. Boniface are quite likely to extend Oshawa plenty, if not take 'em. First of the five-game Allan Cup finals will be Wednesday in Saskatoon between Cornwall and Trail Smoke Eaters. They move over to Calgary on Saturday for the second and third one there on Monday. Big League baseball will be started as the hockey finals finish this year as in recent seasons.

THOSE black-and-blue Hawks continue to be bad news in their own nest at Chicago. While the stadium's mighty organ played: 'Oh, pummel me!" the Stewart-led squad took a 2-1 win over the luckless Leafs and an edge in the big series. Definitely putting Toronto on the greasy spot, whereby they must win two in a row from an inspired and scrappy band of rivals. It was a rather rough jamboree but the moans of Smythe and his praise agents don't mean much as they chuckled last week at the pained yelps of Skipper Stewart and his gang. So it goes. We still rather favor Toronto to take the mug but they are running into a heap of trouble so far and had better be at their best the next two tussles. Or else. A record crowd of 18,496 saw the Sunday night fracas in the Windy City, while thousands and thousands in Canada and the U. S. listened in over the air.

THERE will be one more basketball playoff here before the season.. concludes. St. Paul's have received notice of their final round in Ontario Church Basketball Association playoffs. They meet the Brampton winner here on Saturady, the return tilt being in Brampton next week, total points counting. Brampton reached the finals of the O. C. B. A. intermediate section by ousting Fort Credit of the Lakeshore League and Thorald of the Welland district. St. Paul's drew a bye into semi-finals and they knocked off St. Enoch's of Toronto in three tussles. So now they go into the finals This series and the P. C. I. senior boys' effort in a final tourney in Toronto next week clean up the cage season for local teams.

Toronto Maple Leafs Outfield Trio

BOBBY PORTER MAYO SMITH TED PETOSKEY

Dan Howley, manager of Toronto Maple Leafs (baseball variety, this time) is not exactly over-whelmed with a rush of aspiring outfielders in the south, but maybe he won't have to be if the trio above comes through as expected. All are carry-overs from last year and are being counted on as regular gardeners for the coming season in the order shown, LEFT, CENTRE and RIGHT. Petoskey barely edged over the .300 mark last year, the only one of the three to do so, but the two younger players are expected to be improvements over last year and they weren't in the handicap class then.

Ottawa Retains Junior Cage Title For Secondary Schools

Kingston Collegiate Institute Beaten 25-17 In Eastern Final

OTTAWA, April 11—(CP)—University of Ottawa retained its Eastern Secondary Schools' Association junior basketball championship here Saturday night by defeating Kingston Collegiate Institute 25-17 in the final.

The Kingston students entered the final by eliminating Renfrew 281-21 in a semi-final match while the champions won 22-18 over Ottawa Technical School. University of Ottawa was pressed to eliminate Tech while Kingston rode the crest of a 16-point first-half margin to march into the finals with little trouble.

Brought up from midget interscholastic ranks for the tournament 15-year-old Andrew Guindon was the outstanding man on the floor as he paced the Ottawa team in a second-half scoring splurge that brought the champions victory.

Trailing by one point entering the second half, Guindon was all over the floor as he led his mates in charge after charge. Kingston outscored the Ottawa team 13-12 in the first half, but were able to add only four points to their total in the second while their opponents counted 13, Guindon scoring six of them with three field goals.

Kingston was impressive in the match with Renfrew. They scored 18 points while holding Renfrew to a field goal and though Lemenchick collected 14 points in the second half for the Renfrew team, Kingston had enough in reserve to protect their lead.

In an exhibition contest played before the Kingston-University of Ottawa match, Ottawa Tech midgets defeated Renfrew Collegiate Institute 39-15.

Lineups:

Kingston: Sharpe 4, Edwards, G. Kinnear 3, Gray, Cummings 6, Gullen, A. Kinnear 4, Casselman, Carton. Total 17.

U. of Ottawa: Harbic 2, Lacasse 3, Harcc, Rochon 5, Belec 6, Labrosse, Roy 2, Guindon 7, Bissonette, Herbert, Pard. Total 25.

Referee: Gordon Shorter, Ottawa.

Semi-finals:

U. of Ottawa: Lacasse 3, Marcc 2, Rochon 2, Belec 2, Harbic 11, Labrosse, Roy 2, Guindon, Gosselin, Bissonette, Herbert, Pard. Total 22.

Ottawa Tech: Keyes 2, Nicholson, Jessiman 9, Snyder 2, Fuller, Feller 3, Dale 2, Hall, Mill. Total 18.

Referee—Gordon Shorter.

Kingston: Sharpe 10, Edwards 8, G. Kinnear 6, Gray, Cumming, Cullen 4, McKellar, A. Kinnear, Casselman. Total 28.

Renfrew: Donohue, Prince, Perrier 7, Rousselle, McCarthy, McClaren, Lemenchick 14. Total 21.

Referee: Hubert Lacasse, Ottawa.

DANCER GRADUATES IN REALM OF ART

NEW YORK, April 11—(CP).—Norah Anderson, former hat-steamer who became a nightclub chorine, was one girl Broadway stagedoor Johnnies could never understand. To their every approach she would say she was going home to paint.

Today, the mere fact that Miss Anderson's paintings and sculptures have won her a public showing from the Delphic Studios here, seemed to prove the former "Balinese" dancer had made something of her talents. As a chorine she never let her bread-winning occupation interfere with her painting. She would hurry home to her studio — the living-room of her mother's west side apartment—after her last number at the night-club and paint into the "wee hours of the morning."

She now demands, and gets $500 for a portrait.

ASK CO-OPERATION OF BOWLING SKIPS

In an organization such as our lawn bowling club, it is necessary to have many committees. The chairmen are selected by the board of directors immediately after the annual meeting of the club in the fall, and they in turn choose their own committees. Each committee has its own work to do and is responsible only to the board for their success or failure.

We do not wish at the moment to dwell on any committee, save the membership committee. Just now, to us, that is the most important one of the lot and if this committee falls down, then our club is out of luck and we would be in for a bad season. But then again, this gang of hard workers have never fallen down and are not going to this year, and we feel sure that the co-operation of the skips will go a long way in making our club a success.

Now here's the point, May 7 has been set for the last date of receiving the personnel of your rinks. We think that is a week too late, and there is a tremendous amount of work for some one between that date and May 24, (opening day), so skips please get busy at once and have your rinks completed and handed to Harry Clegg and by so doing help the committee, the club and yourself. If you are short one ir two players get in touch with any of following members and they will be only too glad to give you any help needed: H. Clegg, F. Brown, B. Chesler, K. Sloane, H. Beatty, H. G. Walker or R. Bacon.

CORNWALL FLYERS READY FOR SERIES

SASKATOON, April 11 (C.P.). — Cornwall Flyers, in excellent condition despite their gruelling three games series with Quebec Aces in the Eastern Canada senior hockey final, are eager for the opening here on Wednesday of the three-of-five national championship series with Trail Smoke Eaters.

Coach Don Penniston, who last year handled Brighton Tigers in the English Hockey League, pronounced his team in top condition on arrival last night after an uneventful though enjoyable journey. First game of the three-of-five series will be played here on Wednesday, with remaining games in Calgary.

Among the crowd at the station were many former citizens of Cornwall. Players were taken to heart by them and invitations came fast and furious. Coach Penniston broke up what threatened to develop into a real re-union and herded his players to their hotel.

BILL McKECHNIE IS DISAPPOINTED IN MOUND STAFF

(By the Associated Press.)

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C.—Manager Bill McKechnie, sorely disappointed over the showing of his Cincinanti Reds' pitching staff, was in the market for a good right-hander to-day. Paul Derringer is on the sick list, Johnny Vander Meer is having control trouble and Al Hollingsworth has fallen short of training camp expectations.

ATLANTA, Ga. — Since Joe DiMaggio still is sulking in a Francisco "tent," all cannot be well with New York Yankees. But at least the world champions have two commendable streaks to boast about —their own string of three consecutive victories, and Lou Gehrig's feat of hitting safely in the last 10 games.

FORT SMITH, Ark.—Dissatisfied with available replacements for injured shortstop Luke Appling, Manager Jimmy Dykes of Chicagd White Sox is seriously considering the recommendation of Bob Tarleton, vice-president of the Dallas Texas League club, who insists that his Jim Levey is "the best fielding shortstop in the minors." Jimmy really wants a hitter, but those 14 Sox errors in their last three games may make him change his mind.

NORFOLK, Va.— The ball that hit Lamar (Skeeter) Newsome, regular shortstop of Philadelphia Athletics, on the head Saturday and sent him to Norfolk Naval Hospital may bring Wayne Ambler back from Williamsport, where he was sent on option. Manager Connie Mack is using Russ Peters as replacement for Newsome, beaned twice within a year, but Ambler may be needed for further infield insurance.

GASTONIA, N.C.—Local citizens knew better than to make this "Buddy Lewis Day," even though Buddy and his Washintgon Senator team mates were here for an exhibition with Boston Bees. They staged an official welcome for him last spring, and Buddy made two errors, hurt his hand when a grounder took a bad bounce, and went hitless.

CAGE MEETING

A girls' basketball meeting will be held this evening at 9.30 o'clock in the Y.W.C.A., and all teams in the Ladies' Cage Loop the past winter are asked to send a representative. This session will decide on the date for the annual basketball banquet to conclude the girls' cage season.

CHIHAWKS TAKE LEAD IN STANLEY CUP SERIES WITH 2-1 WIN

Doc Romnes Scores Winning Goal Late In Third Period As Leafs Meet 2-1 Setback

Apps Tallies Lone Toronto Goal—Record Crowd Of 18,496 Sees Game

CHICAGO, April 11 (CP).—The maddest National Hockey League playoff in years moved toward a close today with the scarred Chicago Black Hawks, the team no one called, putting a story-book touch to their fight for the Stanley Cup.

Hawks, who had the fewest points of the six teams qualifying for the playoffs, stood only a game away from hockey's highest honors after beating Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 last night in the third game of the best-of-five cup series. The fourth game will be played here tomorrow night.

While the biggest crowd ever to watch an N.H.L. game—18,497 packing Chicago Stadium to the rafters—roared Hawks on, Elwyn (Doc) Romnes drove home the goal that gave Hawks a 2-1 edge in games with only four minutes and five seconds to play in regular time. Once again Hawks had come from behind.

Romnes' goal finished the toughest checking game of the series, which already has seen broken bones and numerous stitches taken in wounds opened by slashing sticks. It was Romnes who started last night's fireworks in the opening seconds of the wild first period.

Karakas Back In Goal.

Mike Karakas in goal for the first time in the series and Mush March again patrolling right wing, Hawks displayed renewed confidence and a surprising form reversal from their play of last Thursday, when they absorbed a 5-1 beating.

Karakas had his broken toe, injured when Hawks eliminated New York Americans in the semi-finals, guarded in a special boot. Black Mike showed no ill effects and, aided by a defence which stood up all the time, was right on top of his game.

It was a wild first period, surpassing for viciousness the Toronto-Boston league championship games. In the centre of the storm was mild-tempered Romnes, who drew only two tripping penalties during the regular schedule.

Starts Big Parade.

Angry at Red Horner, object of the crowd's wrath all night, Romnes rushed up centre with the puck on the first Hawk sally. Abandoning the puck as he neared the big Toronto defenceman, Romnes, who charged Horner with breaking his nose in a previous game, slashed at him with his stick. Horner was helped from the ice with an injured shouder.

From then it was a parade to the penalty box, with the delayed-penalty rule twice being enforced against Leafs when they had two men in the box and a third was penalized. In all nine penalties were called in the first period, with Toronto's George Parsons taking a major for punching Roger Jenkins.

Romnes and March were off together when starry Syl Apps, after a minute and 35 seconds' play, converted a double relay from Bob Davidson and Gordon Drillon. Later for a four-minute stretch Hawks held a two-man advantage and could do nothing. But their hockey improved as tempers cooled and they had the better of play in the second and third periods when only three penalties were called.

The Hawk edge became apparent in the latter half of the second period. Pressing with three and four-man attacks, they crashed at the tight Leaf defence without success until 16.02, when Carl Voss shot the tying goal from a close-in scramble after a face-off.

It was Hawks, at full strength once more after injuries forced them to use strange goalkeepers in the first two games, and not the highly-favored Leafs who forced the offensive after the game was tied. Hawks were willing to gamble with only one defence man back, and their strategy proved best.

The winning play started inauspiciously. March relayed the puck to Paul Thompson in centre ice. Thompson passed to Romnes just before the blue line. The 28-year-old Hawk centre, playing in a football helmet with nose guard attached, let go from in front of the Leaf defence.

Uphold Goal Judge.

The low, hard drive sped by Goalie Walter Broda before he had a chance to move. The puck caromed out of the net swiftly and Leafs roared it had never gone in. Referees Clarence Campbell and Babe Dye upheld the neutral goal judge.

Leafs, who used Murray Armstrong from Syracuse in place of the injured Murph Chamberlain, seldom struck after the first period with enough effect to pierce the Hawk defence. When they did, especially in the few minutes remaining after Romnes' goal, Karakas was there at his best.

It was the third straight time Hawks had to face a swift Leaf goal in the first few minutes of play. They overcame it in the first game, too, when Alfie Moore replaced Karakas and gave a brilliant performance. They falled only in the second game when Rookie Paul Goodman was looking after the goal tending.

Broken-toed Karakas and broken-nosed Romnes both will be ready for the fourth game, and the odds finally have switched so hockey's cinderella boys are favored to make it from the ash can to the top in one year.

Should Be Tops

DICK IRVIN

Every year when the hockey writers indulge in that quaint pastime known as picking an all-star coach (if you can imagine an all-star coach!) they invariably overlook Richard H. Irvin, of Regina. Coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs since the 1931-32 season,

STEVE O'NEILL PREDICTS GREAT THINGS FOR HERD

PLANT CITY, Fla., April 11.—A new deal in the master-mind department, the addition of two powerful hitters with that extra-base touch and at least one starting pitcher with recent major league experience, are the reinforcements the Buffalo Bisons expect to use in their fight back up into the first division of the International League.

Replaces Ray Schalk

For the first time since 1931 there will be some one other than Ray Schalk in the managerial seat. Commander of the Bison ship is Stephen Francis O'Neill, who last wore International League togs with Toronto at the turn of the decade. O'Neill has won his way into the admiration of club officials, players and scribes, and if he can produce a reasonably strong contender he'll have no trouble jumping the most important barrier—the fans.

With the exception of Woodley Abernathy, outfielder purchased from Baltimore; Jim Oglesby, veteran first baseman last year with Kansas City, and two pitchers from the A's, the Buffalo club will be materially the same as the one which finished fifth in 1937.

However, Abernathy, always a consistent hitter, and Oglesby, a left-handed batter with more than ordinary punch, are expected to supply something the Herd sorely missed last season—power at the plate.

O'Neill's personal contributions to the club—Herman Pink and Fred Archer, right and left-handed chuckers, respectively—promise to do the Bisons considerable good and take up the gap left when Truett Sewell graduated to Pittsburg.

Most of Moundsmen Back

The rest of the mound staff bears familiar names—Bill Harris, Fabian Kowalik, Bob Kline, Arthur Jacobs, Ken Ash, Norman Hibbs and Don Ferris, all except Hibbs and Ferris were rookies in 1937.

The catching will be ably handled by Ed Phillips, who now makes his home in Buffalo, and George Savino.

The inner line of defense once more has its nucleus, with Marvin Olson on second, Moe Muleavy at short and Butch Meyers at third. Sam Dueker will again be the spare infielder.

Ollie Carnegie, homer king of the Herd for five years, and two other holdovers from 1937—John Tyler and Ed Boland—round out the garden patrol.

If the veteran chucking corps can produce the kind of pitching it gave a weak-hitting club last year, O'Neill may have a better than even chance of crashing the upper bracket.

But the club still needs some power in the infield, and evidence that its oldsters haven't grown too old through the months of snow and slush.

KILLED ON DUTY

SARNIA, Ont., April 11 (CP).—An open verdict was returned last night at an inquest into the death of Malcolm Lang, Canadian National Railway brakeman, found dead alongside a train in the yards here March 31.

The jury found Lang died "of injuries to his chest and head received in the discharge of his duties."

DiMaggio Dallies On The Coast As Yankees Train

This time last year the piece de resistance of baseball training camp pictures was one of Joe DiMaggio taking a hefty cut at the ball. But this year, alas, such things are impossible and the picture shows why. Instead of being in the sunny south with his team-mates as they prepare for another American League campaign (or parade) Joe is in sunny California sitting back and waiting for Yankee-owner Colonel Jake Ruppert to agree to his salary demands. The pride and joy of the spaghetti-eating fraternity was caught here as he watched the opening game of the Pacific Coast League season in San Francisco. Joe is not the only star in the picture. On the LEFT is Hank Luisetti, ace of the Stanford basketball team, who set a new record for scoring in intercollegiate basketball this past season. The young lady is Kay Thompson, a friend of Hank.

FLORENCE ADAMS TRIPLE CHAMPION BADMINTON SERIES

Miss Florence Adams won the ladies' singles championship of the Peterborough Garrison Club and Bob Hewitt captured the men's singles crown, as final matches were played off at the armouries Saturday night. Also included in the parade of champions are Bill Brown, who, with Miss Adams won the mixed doubles. Max Rishor, who helped Bob Hewitt win the men's doubles, and Mrs. (Dr.) Preston, who partnered Miss Adams to win the ladies' doubles title. So that makes Miss Adams a triple champion and Hewitt a double winner.

In the singles, neither girl was taking it too seriously, but they did throw in some very fine rallies. Miss Adams maintained a slight edge all the way and finished steadily to win 11-8, 11-9. Teamed with Mrs. Preston, with whom she won the Central Ontario trophy a few weeks ago, Miss Adams had splendid drop shots which played a large part in the 15-7, 15-8 victory over Mrs. J. Matthews and Mrs. G. Putnam. Mrs. Preston's strong driving was also an important factor. The losers gave a good account of themselves, but their attack seemed a trifle disorganized in spots. Scores in the mixed doubles championship were 15-7, 15-6. In this one, played Friday, Miss Adams and Brown outsted Miss Donaghue and R. Baker. It was a good contest, well played throughout.

Men's singles championship match was a swell exhibition of what to do and when to do it on the part of Bob Hewitt. In a rather listless first stanza, Hewitt downed Russ Kitchen 15-4. But after a very shaky start, Kitchen came back to lead most of the way through the second heat. However, with a mighty convincing display of power, Hewitt finished it off 15-10. Men's doubles scores were 15-11, 17-14 in favour of Hewitt and Rishor, who trimmed Dr. Jack Green and Kitchen. Play was close, fast and keen all the way. Green's net shots and Hewitt's smashes were outstanding features. Rishor was weak on some points, but usually followed up with strong plays to compensate for the ones he missed earlier.

Andy Rutter won two consolation events, the men's singles and the men's doubles, while Doris Ackford took the ladies' singles consolation and the ladies' doubles. In ladies' singles, she defeated Miss E. Scott, 15-7, 15-8. She and Mrs. J. C. Green scored a victory over Mrs. R. S. Allin and Mrs. G. Dobbin, 15-5, 15-4 in the doubles. In mixed doubles, however, she did not fare quite so well, as with C. H. Stuart she went down 15-5, 15-4 before the stroking of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Sparrow. The latter pair turned in a very smooth and steady effort, particularly in the second game of the two.

R. Rishor was the strong point in men's doubles fray. Howie Shields and Art Jones made it close in the second before going out to Rishor and Rutter, 15-3, 15-12, Andy Rutter mixed good shot with some very weird ones which had the crowd in fits during the playing of the men's singles consolation. This clash with Bob Allin had plent yof colour and spectator appeal with a laugh a minute. Both men put on a great show, playing shots from the most impossible angles. Rutter gained the verdict 15-3, 16-13.

At the conclusion of the games, trophies and prizes were presented to the champions and consolation winners by Lt.-Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C.

July 23 Set For Annual Paddling Championships At Gananoque, Ont.

OTTAWA, April 11 (C.P.). — The Northern Division's paddling championships will be held at Gananoque, Ont., on July 23, it was decided at the annual meeting of the division here on Saturday.

Eric Roy of the Ottawa-New Edinburgh Canoe Club was named successor to Fred Brown as flag officer, and J. M. Duggin of the Gananoque Club, was named assistant flag officer.

The meeting also passed five recommendations to be forwarded to the Canadian Canoe Association's annual meeting here on May 14. They were:

1—In the event of Cataraqui and Barrefield applying for membership in the C.C.A., the Northern Division strongly approves of their application.

2—That at championship meets, boom or anchored boats be used for the start of the mile. (Booms are required for every other event.)

3—That in double blade events all contestants must sit, not kneel. (Contestants must sit in all double blade events in Olympic paddling.)

4—That an assistant to the referee be appointed at the turns subject to the referee's instructions.

5—That Frank Amyot of Ottawa be named referee for the C.C.A championship regatta.

The following division regatta dates were allotted:

July 9—Britannia Boating Club, Ottawa.

July 16—Rideau Aquatic Club, Ottawa.

July 23—Northern Division championships, Gananoque.

July 30—Carleton Place, Ont., Canoe Club.

Cleveland Indians Rank Next To Yankees In American Race

New Yorkers With DiMaggio Finding Little Favor With Writers

NEW YORK, April 11 (A.P.). — One week before the baseball season opens the forecasters are beginning to feel an active sympathy for the weather man, who predicted "fair and warmer" for the day last week that saw five inches of snow settle on Manhattan.

Even the most redoubtable of the old-line experts are putting off their pennant picks as long as possible, or else they are naming the Yankees and Giants to repeat and then filling up the remainder of the column with "ifs."

Almost equally responsible for this unerctain state of affairs are two young men, Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees and Clydell Castleman of the Giants. DiMaggio still refuses to report to the Yankees for $25,000 a year. Castleman has reported to the Giants, all right, but he refuses to pitch.

The Yanks, with DiMaggio in the fold and satisfied, would be overwhelming favorites for their third straight American League championship. If Joe still is conducting his fish-and-chips shop a week from to-day, when the Rupperts open their season, the race automatically becomes a dinger, with Cleveland Indians this writer's choice.

In the case of Castleman and the Giants it has become obvious that Colonel Bill Terry will need a lot of luck to beat out Charlie Grimm's Chicago Cubs unless he produces another starting pitcher, and a winning one.

Over-Ripe Fruit In Popular Favor

CHICAGO, April 11 (A.P.). — Six thousand hockey fans occupying general admission seats were given a general frisking before they entered Chicago Stadium last night to witness the bruising game in which Black Hawks defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1.

As a result, police confiscated about 50 to 60 bags containing lemons, tomatoes, bottles, and over-ripe fruit. All was intended to be thrown on the ice, possibly in protest to bad decisions.

The police failed, however, to pick up numerous decks of cards which at periods were tossed from the two top galleries to the ice and scattered in every direction.

REDS HOLD GAME LEAD IN SERIES WITH THE STARS

SYRACUSE, April 11 (CP) — Shy on man-power and weary from a long playoff fight, Syracuse Stars clung grimly today to their chance of retaining the International-American Hockey League title although still spotting a game to Providence Reds in their best of five series.

Stars and Reds played the second and third games of their series during the week-end and both went into overtime as did the first last Thursday which Reds won 5-4. Reds took a 2-0 lead in games by winning 2-1 Saturday but the fighting Syracuse band, playing with only 13 men, swept to a 4-3 victory Sunday.

The defending champions, a bit tired from knocking out Cleveland Barons and Pittsburgh Hornets to reach the league final, had their ranks reduced during the week-end when Murray Armstrong was rushed to play with the parent Toronto Maple Leafs against Chicago Black Hawks in the Stanley Cup series. Reds reached the final with a series victory over Philadelphia Ramblers.

Blond Sammy McManus, once an amateur star with Moncton Hawks, scored the winning goal for Reds in the Saturday tilt as the second overtime period was drawing to a close. Jack Markie tallied for Stars soon after the start of the last period and Lorin Mercer tied it up a short while later for the only goals of the regulation time.

The Sunday contest went to only one overtime, with three goals being scored in the extra session. Red Hamill opened the scoring for Reds in the first period and in the third session Eddie Convey and Jack Fox scored for Stars while Mickey Drouillard tallied for Reds. In the overtime Convey and Fox tallied again, while Hamill scored for Reds.

MILLBROOK

SOCIETIES GET HIGH STANDING PLAY FESTIVAL

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, April 11.—The dramatic festival, held in St. Andrew's church, on Thursday, with Springville and Millbrook Young People's Unions competing in the Presbytery comedy competition drew a much-interested and appreciative audience the chair being taken by B. B. Dawson, president of the Peterborough Presbytery Y. P. U.

"The Florist Shop," a royalty play, was the choice of the Springville young people for their entry, a synopsis of the story and the introduction of the several characters being capably handled by Mary Staples. The stage setting was very attractive, with containers, large and small, filled with lovely blossoms, on the mantel, the tables, the glass show cases, etc., making up the interior of Slovsky's floral shop in the early morning of a brilliant April day.

Marked ability was shown by all the characters taking part, and costumes worn, naturally of a modern style, were quite in keeping with the part being impersonated.

Slovsky (Duncan Seymour), a typical Jew, has engaged Maude (Helen Staples) to take charge of the florist shop, her ready understanding and sympathy with every type of order 'phoned in, making her a very popular saleslady, bringing much business to the store. However, when she attempted to play the role of 'Romance' in the case of an engagement of fifteen years' standing between Miss Wells (Mrs. Lloyd Whittington), and her fiance, Mr. Jackson, (Irwin McIntosh), rousing the jealousy of the latter by pretending they were a gift from an imaginary rival, Slovsky intervened and dismissed his capable clerk. Seeing Maude donning coat and hat preparatory to leaving, Henry, the office boy (Tom Brown), was loud in his expressions of dismay.

However, the grasping Jew was led to reinstate his chief clerk when, through her good offices, Mr. Jackson and Miss Wells decided on an immediate wedding, and a large order for flowers was placed with Slovsky's for the happy event.

Millbrook Y. P. U. repeated the comedy, "In May with June," which it had presented locally last week in preparation for the final competition, showing marked improvement with the characters and making a very favorable impression.

The ajudicators were Mrs. J. A. McKone and Harold Rehill, of Peterborough, and Rev. Mr. Kelly, of Lakefield; they admitted a difficult task in coming to a decision, but finally placed both plays in Class B, which means 'Very Good Standing,' points being 81-100. Acting as critic, Rev. Mr. Kelly made some suggestions to the players, while the adjudicators were arriving at their decision, Leslie Unitt played a piano solo, and the National Anthem dismissed the gathering.

The religious dramatic festival for the Presbytery takes place the last week in April, with George Street and St. James competing on April 25, in Peterborough, and Lakefield, with 'Dust of the Earth,' and Millbrook with "Joseph of Arimethea," here on April 29.

Senate Has Divorce Bill

The highly contentious divorce bill which would extend the grounds for granting divorce in Canada was still in the committee stage of the senate when the upper chamber recessed until May 3. It had been up for third reading but was sent back to committee. It still has to run the gauntlet of the Commons.

The pretentious cnanges in the election laws introduced by Pensions Minister Power got second reading in the Commons and may be depended upon to be considered for weeks by the special House committee named to study it.

Main estimates were brought into the House February 3 but progress on them has been slow. Discussion of the defence estimates took up much of the time that was left after a long debate on a non-confidence motion by Social Credit Leader Blackmore and a sub-amendment by Conservative Leader Bennett.

Ever since the session started opposition members have been prodding the government for a statement of foreign policy in view of the disturbing European situation. From time to time Prime Minister Mackenzie King impressed on the House the responsibility resting on the ministry not to do anything which would make the situation both in Europe and Asia more complicated than it is. However last week he told the Commons he would discuss foreign affairs when the appropriate estimates came up after the recess. He had intended doing so earlier but the non-confidence debate had interfered.

Waiting on Budget

One reason business has not been rushed in the early weeks of the session was the feeling the budget would not be brought down until the negotiations between Canada and the United States for a new trade agreement were completed. Members felt there was no particular reason to rush through legislation if the budget would be delayed. It will probably come down some time in May.

The wide-open debate on unemployment has made considerable progress in the Commons, but can be depended upon to occupy many more days after the Government brings downs its definite proposals for meeting the situation.

Extensive revisions in the Canada Grain Act are planned by the Government largely to do with the marketing of wheat abroad. The House Agricultural Committee was told of the work under way in this connection, but it must await the final report of Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon, who has made an extensive investigation of the whole problem. The bill will be sponsored by Trade Minister Euler.

The bill transferring from the Cabinet to Parliament control of the export of power went through Commons without much trouble after Washington informed Ottawa it would not allow more Canadian power to be exported to United States even if the Dominion was willing. This took the heat out of the debate which was to a great extent planned on the premises Canada would be making a great mistake in allowing its electric energy to cross the border.

Debate Cahan's Bill

Friday was given over to the debate on the bill of Hon. C. H. Cahan (Con., St. Lawrence-St. George) to make the Supreme Court of Canada the final Court of Appeal and discontinue appeals to the judicial committee of the Privy Council in London, England.

The debate was still in progress when the House recessed at 11 p.m. and possibly will not be debated again this session because it is a private bill and there is only two hours a week devoted to such business. The government made special provision to give it precedence on the order paper Friday but may not do so again.

Reports tabled in parliament were perhaps the most important development of the session so far. They included: The White Paper detailing the correspondence between Canada and United States in connection with the St. Lawrence deep waterways negotiations; the report of Mr. Justice Turgeon on the textile industry; the report of the National Employment Commission and the letter of Secretary of State Hull from Washington on the attitude of United States on the importation of electrical energy from Canada.

Two reports are expected after the recess that of Mr. Justice Turgeon on the grain trade and that of a commission headed by Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault on the penitentiaries. The latter is said to be already in the hands of Justice Minister Lapointe but will not be made public till the members of parliament return.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, April 12

A very lively day, with the energies under high pressure, is forecast from the predominant planetary directions. It is a favorable time for endeavoring to launch important projects, although there may be necessary upheavals and excitement in putting over such plans. Use caution and vigilance in dealing with rings, mergers or secret organizations.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of much progress and prosperity, especially in connection with new enterprises and in developing new plans and objectives. These enterprises seem important and may attract the co-operation of large corporations, mergers or secret bodies.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, practical, zealous and determined. It may also have a gentle, kindly and lovable nature that should assure it a successful and happy life.

Six Inches at Tweed.

Following approximately two weeks of summer-like weather, Tweed and district experienced one of the heaviest snowfalls of the winter on Friday when six inches of snow fell during the afternoon and early evening. The snow will assist the spring crops as the country was beginning to dry out and was also causing considerable concern in the north country, where the odd marsh fire was occurring.

The highest temperature of 73 degrees on the 22nd of March proved to be a record for that month. The lowest temperature of the winter of 21 degrees below zero also occurred in March on the 2nd, making a temperature range for the month of 94 degrees.

The precipitation for March of 2.88 inches was .02 inches below the monthly average of 2.90 inches.

Mute evidence of an accident that occurred some time during Friday night was seen by travellers from Wellington on Saturday morning. In a ditch approximately three miles east of the village lay a new grey-colored sedan badly wrecked. Nearby was a smashed telephone pole, its upper end suspended by wires. No one was in evidence at the time the damaged car was discovered.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM HERRINGTON

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, April 11.—On Wednesday, Alice Eva Scrimshaw, wife of William Herrington, passed away at her home in the township of Huntingdon. Mrs. Herrington had been ill for some time. As a kind neighbor and friend Mrs. Herrington will ever be remembered. She is survived by her husband and four sons, Alfred of Haileybury; William, Herbert and Henry of Huntingdon, and two daughters, (Clara Mrs. Morray of Huntingdon, (Hazel), Mrs. Runnions of Hamilton, Ont. The funeral took place on Friday afternoon from her late residence to St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Madoc. Interment in Lakeview Cemetery. The late Mrs. Herrington was 70 years of age.

WM. McCORMICK.

The death of Wm. McCormick, Sr., age 61 years, occurred early Wednesday morning at the Red Cross Hospital, after suffering since March 2nd fom injuries received in an accident while employed by David Wease of Glen Alda, causing a fractured skull.

Wm. McCormick, Sr., was a member of the Gospel Tabernacle, where he took great part, both in the Sunday school work and church work and will be missed by all who knew him.

He leaves to mourn the loss his sorrowing wife, formerly Ethel Badgley of Bancroft, his mother, Mrs. Liza McCormick of Musclow, also three sons and four daughters, Messrs. Fred, Wm. Jr., and David McCormick at Rome, N.Y., Mrs. Harry McIlmoyle of Haultain, Mrs. Wm. O'Neil of Peterborough, Misses Mabie and Mary at home. The funeral service was held Friday, April 8 from the Gospel Tabernacle with interment in the family plot in the Coe Hill Anglican cemetery, Rev. Fred Wicks in charge.

The pallbearers were Wm. Cairns, Clinton Hoare, Murray Belton, Lorne Paul Wicks and George Urbach.

MRS. P. J. O'NEILL

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, April 11.—The death occurred on Friday evening at her home in Marmora Village of Mrs. P. J. O'Neill. The late Mrs. O'Neill, who was in her forty-fourth year, had been in ill-health for the past six years. Her end was hastened by a seizure which she took on Wednesday evening. Her long illness was borne with much fortitude. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cain, and was born in Marmora Township. She was of a very bright disposition and was very popular with all her acquaintances.

Besides her husband and daughters Mary and Jane (both at home) she is also survived by a half-sister, Mrs. James McAvoy, Marmora Township, and a half-brother, John D. Shannon of Reilly, Saskatchewan. A son Tom predeceased her ten years ago. The late Mrs. O'Neill was a member of the Sacred Heart Church.

The funeral takes place on Monday, Requiem Mass being held at the Sacred Heart Church at 9 a.m., with interment in the Sacred Heart Cemetery.

1,500 TO CHOOSE NEW TORY CHIEF AT JULY 5 RALLY

OTTAWA, April 11.—(P).—About 1,500 voting delegates will assemble in Ottawa July 5, 6 and 7 for the National Conservative Convention at which a new leader will be chosen to succeed Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett and steps taken to reorganize and rejuvenate the party.

Decision as to date and plans were completed Saturday at a meeting of the Convention committee which organized under the joint chairmanship of John R. MacNichol, Member for Toronto-Davenport, and Maurice Dupre of Quebec, former Solicitor General.

Direct encouragement to young Conservatives were indicated in the qualifications agreed upon for delegates which provide for 39 delegates-at-large representing the youth of the party, nine each from Quebec and Ontario and three each from the other provinces.

Mr. Bennett, whose retirement because of ill health was announced at a National Party Conference early in March, called the committee together and addressed them briefly prior to the selection of joint chairmen, Gordon Graydon, member for Peels, and Georges Heon, member for Argenteuil, were selected joint secretaries.

Picking the Delegates.

The committee fixed the following basis for selection of delegates:

All Conservative privy councillors who now support the party.

All Conservative members of the House of Commons.

All defeated Conservative candidates at the 1935 general election.

Members of provincial legislatures who support the Conservative party federally.

Four delegates from each federal riding with four non-voting alternates.

All members of the national convention committee as delegates at large.

All former Conservative lieutenant-governors.

As many delegates at large from each province as that province has ridings.

Special delegates at large representing the youth of the party, nine each from Quebec and Ontario and three from each of the other provinces.

Tentative plans were also adopted for setting up sub-committee on finance, organization, transportation and publicity. Wide powers were left to the joint chairmen to organize committees.

Local arrangements will be in the hands of a committee headed by H. P. Hill, unsuccessful Conservative candidate for Ottawa West in the last general election. The meeting will be in the colliseum which forms part of the Ottawa exhibition group of buildings.

H. MACMILLAN TO REPRESENT CAMPBELLFORD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 11. — "Agencies For Peace" was the title of the winning address given on Friday evening at the oratorical contest and Bible drama sponsored by St. Andrew's Young People's Society. Hector Macmillan who was the winning speaker will repeat his address in the presbytery finals which will be held in St. Paul's Church, Peterborough on April 19 when the group winner will be chosen to take part in the provincial finals in Toronto. After his prepared address Hector was again awarded first place in the impromptu contest in which he spoke on the "Annexation of Austria."

Only two other speakers took part in the contest, Miss Esther Kerr whose subject was "Teach Me The Way" and Mrs. Bruce Grills who spoke on "The Co-operative Movement."

The second part of the program constituted the Bible drama based on the story of the Prodigal Son. Walter Greenshields was the father; Arden McLean, the prodigal son; Hector Macmillan, the elder son and Connor Milne, Laird Haig, and Jack Bell were the servants. Other numbers on the program included a piano solo by Mrs. M. McFarlane; guitar duet, Josephine and Doris Locke; vocal solo, Miss Hilda Bonnycastle; vocal duet, Mrs. P. H. Macmillan and Miss Dorothy Reynods.

St. Andrew's Choir Social

The social evening staged by members of St. Andrew's choir was one of fun and laughter. Dr. O. C. Watson, the very able chairman of the occasion presided in his usual congenial way. The witty remarks of the chairman introduced a period of community singing and the program opened with a banjo selection by Maurice Bell of Stirling. According to the chairman's announcement "Anniski Parkskii and Charleo Allaneo" gave a dialogue in their native tongue—anyway Miss Parks and Mr. Allan put on a very good show. Wallace Rutherford offered a vocal solo which was much appreciated and following this a debate was presented "Resolved that Sarah Brum is more important than Sarah Bellum." Ima Smelling (Mrs. Phillips) and Effie Hogg (Mrs. Spencer) took the affirmative and the negative was "held up" by Pansy Hopscotch (Mrs. P. Locke) and Segill Fish (Mrs. M. McFarlane). The judges were the Rev. B. Simpson Black, J. R. Battisby and Albert Hazel and the final report revealed the matter had resulted in a tie.

Misses Doris and Josephine Locke gave a guitar duet and Miss Ruth McCreddie offered a vocal solo in her usual delightful manner. Miss Jean Scott gave a piano solo and a banjo solo by Mr. Bell was followed with a short pay "Selling Sally." The characters of the play were Miss Jean Hendy and Messrs. Alex MacDonald and Wilsie Phillips.

In another amusing debate in which it was attempted to solve the trivial issue "Resolved that there is more nourishment in the hole of a doughnut than in the fragrance of limburger." Mrs. F. G. DeCarrol and Mrs. Frederick upheld the affirmative and Miss Wynn Hay and Mrs. J. Cowell took the negative side.

Miss Mae Bell offered a vocal solo as the concluding number on the program after which sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the choir members.

Traffic Officers Checking Trucks

The half-load laws governing trucks in spring weather still holds good in April, according to Provincial Traffic Officer Lloyd McCure. Headquarters has ordered him to inspect trucks hauling wood and other loads to see that drivers obey the ruling, he said. The law, by which trucks are permitted to carry only half the capacity load designated in their licenses, applies on all Peterborough county roads, as well as the Lakefield to Burleigh Falls road; the Lindsay to Bobcaygeon road; and the Perth to Peterborough road, Officer McClure said.

The infield is so muddy that no baseball runner would have difficulty in "sliding in."

CIRCLE PRESENTS EASTER PAGEANT

CAMPBELLFORD, April 11.—Members of the Mizpah Mission Circle presented the pageant "Welcome Happy Morning" in St. John's United church on Sunday evening, as a special feature of the Palm Sunday service. The pageant is described as an Easter meditation depicting the glorious story of Easter morning. Accompanying the pageant with familiar hymns and appropriate music were the church choir and the junior choir all in white surplices. As the Spirit of Easter Joy clad in a flowing white gown, Mrs. J. D. Mills relates the story and the characters enacting the pageant proceeded up the aisle as mention is made of them. The pageant was arranged and presented under the direction of Harolde lKitney assisted by Mrs. J. D. Mills, and the cast included Miss Grace Payne as the Angel in the Garden; Miss Hazel Wright, Mrs. A. E. Burgiss and Miss Verna Saunders as the three women who came to the tomb; Miss Thelma Lowery as Mary Magdelene; Mrs. W. F. Scott, the Spirit of the Church; Miss Gwendolyn Neal, the Spirit of Youth; Miss Irene Jeffs, the Spirit of Service; Miss Dorothy Greig; Mrs. Earl Craighead, Miss B. Stephens and Mrs. George West as the three captives; Miss Dorothy Kingston, Mrs. Mutton, Mrs. G. Cassan, Mrs. Cochrane, Mrs. B. Sills, Mrs. Fred Haig, were the Christians; Messrs. Leonard Haig, Darrell Duncalfe, Chas. Jeffs and C. Ames were the four Crusaders. During the offertory Mrs. E. Kitney of Peterborough, who was guest soloist, sang "The Lord is My Light."

"ARE SIN, DISEASE AND DEATH REAL?"

"Are Sin, Disease, and death, Real?" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon for First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough, on Sunday. The Golden Text was, "The light of the moon shall be as the likht of the sun, and the light of the sun shall be seven-fold, as the light of seven days, in the day that the Lord bindeth up the breach of his people, and health the stroke of their wound." (Isaiah 30:26). Selections from the Bible included the following from Habakkuk 1:12, "Art thou not from everlasting, O Lord my God, mine Holy One? we shall not die. Thou art of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look on iniquity." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following, "Sickness, sin and death, being inharmonious, do not originate in God nor belong to His government."

CAVAN PIONEER G. HETHERINGTON IS LAID TO REST

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, April 11—The community lost one of its oldest citizens through the death of George Hetherington, who passed away, after an extended illness in his ninetieth year.

Deceased was the last remaining member of a family of eleven children and was a son of the late George Hetherington, and Louisa Guy, pioneer settlers of Cavan, their farm homesteads, situated just outside the eastern limits of Millbrook, and now owned and occupied by W. A. O'Brian, having been one of the first on which the land was cleared in the township.

Retired To Millbrook

About twenty years ago Mr. Hetherington, who up to that time had resided on the homestead, retired from farming and came to Millbrook to make his home, continuing to reside here until his decease.

On June 25, 1890, the marriage of George Hetherington and Mary Emma, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John D. Armstrong was solemnized at Millbrook, the event marking the union of two well-known pioneer families of the community. A life-long Anglican, and a Conservative in politics, deceased had, in his younger years, been an enthusiastic sportsman, excelling in hunting and fishing; his proficiency as a fancy figure skater was a matter of public knowledge and he was a charter member of the local curling club, and also of the lacrosse team which, in the earlier years of community history, was widely known for its skill in play, and for its victories.

Collection Sold to Ottawa.

Deceased was also a great lover of nature, and took up taxidermy as a hobby, following it with such success that his collection of birds and animals was purchased by the government, a few years ago, and is now in the National Museum at Ottawa.

The immediate survivors include his widow, and two sons: Athol George, of Rosetown, Sask. and John Dunwoody of Pilot Mound, Manitoba, both of whom hold the position of manager of a branch of the Bank of Toronto in their respective towns. There are also five grandchildren.

The funeral, which was private in character, took place on Thursday from his late residence, Tupper street, the service being conducted by a cousin of the deceased, Canon William Wallace Judd, D.D., of Toronto, General Secretary of Social Service for the Anglican church in Canada, in the unavoidable absence of Venerable Archdeacon Simpson rector of Cavan parish. Honorary bearers were all friends of long standing and included: John Dawson, J. R. Eakins, H. B. Allen, George Fowler and William Westall; the acting pall-bearers were, W. G. Hetherington, A. A. Needler, H. A. Kerr, Aylmer Dawson, South Monaghan, George Might, Toronto, and Robert Doak, Orillia. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, and interment was in the Presbyterian cemetery at Millbrook.

Among those from outside points who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Armstrong, Mrs. (Rev.) C. E. Cragg, Mr. and Mrs. Percy G. Might, Mr. and Mrs. George Might, Miss Henrietta Kerr, and Miss Henrietta Armstrong, R.N. of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Tully, and daughter, Marjorie, Mr. Thompson Curry, and Mrs. Hagerman, of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Bolton Price, Mr. and Mrs. R. Doak, and Mr. Albert Doak, of Orillia; and Mr. Dunwoody Hetherington, of Pilot Mound, Manitoba.

SACRED CANTATA IS SUNG BY CHOIR TRINITY CHURCH

The solemnity, grandeur and heart-breaking pathos of Maunder's Sacred Cantata, "Olivet to Calvary" was reverently and impressively presented by Trinity Church choir Sunday evening under the direction of the organist and choir directress, Miss Mabel Clarry. The congregation sat very still, and listened, deeply moved, as the events of the first Passion week were unfolded in this masterpiece of musical expression, with the soloists, Mrs. R. Cowan, M. H. Park, M. Gordon and C. Cruikshank rendering with true interpretation and feeling their parts, and the limitless tonal expression of the organ brought out by Miss Clarry to a marked extent.

"Olivet to Calvary" recalls simply and reverently the scenes which mark the last few days of the Saviour's life on earth, and some of the reflections suggested thereby. The rejoicing of the multitude with hosannas and palms, the view of Jerusalem from the steep of Olivet, the lament over the beautiful city, the scene in the Temple, and the lonely walk back over the Mount at night, from the chief features of the first part'.

Opening chorus, "On the Way to Jerusalem" was sung by the choir with impressive feeling, to be followed by Mr. Park's fine tenor voice with a description of the city as Christ looked down where "Like a fair vision in the morning light, lay the proud cit yof Jerusalem"; then Mr. Gordon's moving baritone, with the words of the sorrowing Saviour as He gazed,

"O Jerusalem!
Hadst thou but known in this thy day,
Even thou the things which belong unto peace—"

Tenor and baritone gave the description of Christ's entrance to the Temple and casting out of the moneychangers, and then came clear as a bell, sweet and true the petition in Mrs. Cowan's lovely soprano, "Another temple waits Thee, Lord, Divine, The temple of my heart, O make it Thine!" with the choir following.

Sorrowful Passage.

The sorrowful passages describing our Lord's lonely return by the Mount of Olives were rendered with moving interpretation by Mr. Park and the choir, and then the magnificent promise in C. Cruikshank's fine baritone, with the choir, "Come unto Him all ye that labour", answered by the cry of sinner in the well-known hymn, "Just as I Am, Without One Plea."

'Part 2 opened with the Supper of the Passover, at which Jesus washes His disciples' feet, and gives them the new Commandment of love for one another as the sign of true discipleship. From this the scene passed to the infinite pathos of the Garden of Gethsemane, the sudden appearance of the hostile crowd, Jesus forsaken by His disciples, His utter loneliness among ruthless foes, the tumult before Pilate in the Judgement Hall, the Passage of the Cross, the tragedy and triumph of Calvary."

The complete rendering of Part 2 was brilliant, the choir's singing of the stirring and difficult passages being marked by sonority of tone and magnificent expression.

The baritone soloists, M. Gordon and C. Cruikshanks, rendered their parts with profound emotional feeling, and the choir offered a wonderful range of expression, in the terrible scenes where the soldiers come for Jesus and He is forsaken by His disciples, to be followed by the gracious, deeply sorrowful and poignantly lovely rendering by Mr. Park of the description of the Saviour's loneliness.

Judgment Hall Scene

The choir put every bit of effort, rising to magnificent heights, into the terrible scenes in the Judgment Hall, where the solo part of Pilate was taken by C. Cruikshank. The March to Calvary was a more than wonderful piece of work by organist and choir, suggesting the significance of that dire and dread journey and moving on to the climax of the final scenes and the Victory of the Cross, portrayed by the women's voices with exceptional and deeply sincere expression. The congregation joined in the closing hymn of the Cantata, "Rock of Ages Cleft For Me".

An impressive service of prayer and Scripture was conducted by the pastor, the Rev G. S. Easton. The lovely flowers decorating the church were in memory of Miss Thomas, a faithful member and worker in the congregation for many years, and were placed by her sisters and niece.

Mental Patient Shot By Sentry

DETROIT, April 11. — (AP).—Private John D. Fero, 25-year-old soldier stationed at the United States' army post at Fort Wayne in Detroit was shot and killed today when he failed to obey a command to halt after he had escaped from the Post Hospital.

Army officers said the shot was fired by Private Francis Ward, who was on sentry duty at the time.

The Post officers told Foster Knobloch, deputy coroner, that Fero had been a mental patient and had been confined under guard to the Post's psychopathic ward.

Fero's friends said he was the apoted son of a family living either in Battle Creek or in Marshall, Mich.

Skiing In April

It required two days of hard work for this paper to get all its winter pictures—skating, skiing, horse racing on ice, snow scenes, etc.—filed away in anticipation of spring. And then on Sunday afternoon, when the photographer was scouting about in quest of pictures of pretty young things in Easter finery, his senses were outraged by this spectacle. Jack Holland and Gerry Duffus, rabid skiing enthusiasts both, have not given up old man Winter for dead yet. A real skier will take his skiis and poles along with him even in a rain storm and on Sunday there was actually a little snow on the ground, they said. They would not commit themselves to any definite statement about the condition of the ski jump, however.

COAL PRICES DROP 75 CENTS A TON

Fuel dealers reported reductions in the prices of coal and coke today. The drop in anthracite coal in the egg, stove and chestnut sizes is 75 cents a ton from $14.75 to $14, continuing at that level until June 1 when the price will advance 15 cents a month until October. For lower size coal the advance will be 10 cents a month. Quotations on coke are down from $13.50 to $12.50 and the latter price will continue indefinitely. J. F. Grierson of the Peterborough Fuel and Transfer Company said reductions are expected on Russian, Welsh and Scottish coal, but definite advices had not been received up to noon today.

West Seymour Play Pleases Audience

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 11.—On Wednesday evening's West's School was filled to capacity when members of the Seymour West Women's Institute presented a three act comedy entitled "Between the Acts." Miss Phyilis Elmhirst entertained with piano music while the audience took their places and Mrs. Howard Clark was chairman for the evening. At the conclusion of the first act Clark McKelvie offered a vocal solo and Miss Phyllis and Gladys Elmhirst offered a piano duet.

The play opened with Dick Comfort (Franklin McKelvie) living comfortably upon an allowance given him by his uncle (Harry Wood) on condition that he should never marry and despite his uncle's wishes he has fallen in love with Edith Barley (Irene Curle) and secretly married her. Finding time hanging heavy he decides to write a play and has just completed the first act when he receives a letter from his uncle advising that he will arrive that very morning. Deciding to play bachelor he sends his wife to town on an errand and has great difficulty in preventing the uncle from seeing her as he arrives before she leaves. Shortly after George Merrigale (Gordon McGee) an old friend of Dick's comes to spend the day and on seeing a picture of Edith is advised that she is a servant in the house.

The deception is maintained and later Mrs. Meander (Beatrice Rutherford) comes from town bringing her maid Sally (Mrs. Gordon Hedger). Edith returns and not knowing Dick's uncle and aunt thinks he is in love with another woman. She is thought to be the maid and Merrigale who misunderstood a remark made by Harris the butler (Ray Hoard) has made, thinks Dick is not only married to the maid but has also another wife. The play ends with Dick forgiven by his uncle who also writes plays for amusement and who tells him to draw on him when he is in need of money "Between the Acts."

W.M.S. To Sponsor An Amateur Night

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WESTWOOD, April 11.—On Wednesday afternoon the members of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. John Hope for the April meeting, with a large attendance. The devotional period was conducted by the president, Mrs. E. W. Sargent.

Prayer was offered by Mrs. J. Hope and Miss Jessie Davidson gave a most helpful reading "The church and the world-wide kingdom."

An amateur night, planned by the members will be held on Wednesday evening, April 20th in the Town Hall.

The topic "Facing a New World" was presented by Mrs. F. W. Newell and Mrs. Sargent. An Easter service of worship entitled "Christ Lives" was followed, the members taking part in unison and a special scripture reading by Mrs. Aubrey Wood and "Meditation" read by Mrs. Stephen Elmhirst.

CHARGES WITHDRAWN.

Charges against a traveller of false pretences and failure to pay a board bill at the Hotel Champlain here were withdrawn at the request of the Crown when the man was arraigned in police court this morning. Full restitution had been made and the defendant paid all the costs. He was arrested in Dunnville on Saturday and Detective Sergeant Wm. Meagher and Traffic Officer Archie Menzies motored there yesterday and brought him back to Peterborough.

J. H. LYMBURNER ANTARCTIC FLYER VISITOR TO CITY

One of Canada's best known commercial pilots, a flyer who had the distinction of being one of the two aviators who took part in Lincoln Ellesworth's South Pole adventure in 1935-36 was a visitor in town today in the person of Captain J. H. Lymburner of Canadian Airways.

Captain Lymburner is base manager for Canadian Airways at Oskelaneo, Northern Quebec, where the company has been doing a large amount of business in connection with the mining industry. Their planes have carried vast quantities of mining machinery into the north northern areas and have also brought many furs out from the interior. Recently a whole mill was taken in in sections.

The Antarctic expedition Captain Lymburner described as a most interesting experience. He and his fellow pilot Hallock-Kenyon of Winnipeg flew over large stretches of the Antarctic and were within 500 miles of the South Pole.

Of the work in the north Captain Lymburner who has been flying for ten years says that air travel in cabin planes in sub-zero weather does not present any particular hardship. "We do not fly in very rough weather if we can avoid it," said the pilot, "but we often get caught in it nevertheless." Canada he remarked "leads the world by a big margin in the tonnage of freight carried by air.

"Our lead is so big" he said, "that the second place country is not even close."

BUILT 72 HOUSES IN PAST 25 YEARS

Houses that he has built in Peterborough during the past quarter of a century and more, are paying annually in taxes to the city coffers more than $9,000 according to James B. Brown. Mr. Brown retired after four years service as market clerk on the first of April.

Coming to Peterborough in 1902 from a farm near Springville, Mr. Brown recognized the housing shortage here and started in the building trade. He has built 72 houses and the only man whose record equals his in numbers is Charlie Huffman. There is a housing shortage now, but in those early days of the twentieth century people were more anxious to own their home than an automobile, Mr. Brown said.

One More Wedding

By HELEN WELSHIMER

Gary Page, New York columnist, has just sailed for a few weeks abroad. Among his friends at the pier to see him off was Barbara Kingsley who came to New York the day before to fill a vacancy on a child magazine at the suggestion of her close friend Natalie Kendall. Barbara and Garry became interested in one another a few weeks previously when she was society editor of the Martinsville Post and Garry had come to Martinsville for a wedding. Jack Metcalf, an author and friend of Garry, takes a kindly interest in Barbara after Garry sails. They go to a night club.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 8

Barbara's eyes were wide and quite dark as they rested on Jack Metcalf's cynical face, when he had finished explaining that Bill Jameson, the man with Ruth Merryweather at a table at the Versailles, was the one whom Ruth had loved.

"I thought you told me this morning that it would be better if I did not know the man's name, so I would not recognize him," she said slowly, then.

"But you guessed it. It was in your eyes."

"You misread them. Bill Jameson married a girl from home a few weeks ago. I met Garry Page at the wedding." Then her face brightened. "There, that's his wife, Marie Rinehart, joining them now."

Marie, who had been dancing with a blonde young man, had returned to the table, and Bill leaned towards her devotedly. Only Barbara saw the quick glance and the clouded pain in Ruth Merryweather's eyes—sensed it rather than saw it.

Jack Metcalf talked on. "Ruth's a good sport. She's spending some of the breakfast food money showing the small town girl whom her lost-love married, how gay we are along the Main Stem. It's all poppycock. She loved the guy and lost him so why doesn't she drop the subject? There are plenty of men willing to play her kind of ring-around-the-rosie."

Ruth was standing up. She was slipping into a white jacket that was part of a white party frock. She picked up a rhinestone bag and her gloves. Marie, in a chiffon that had been part of the trousseau that Barbara had described in the Martinsville Post, slipped into a cape. The party was leaving.

Barbara averted her eyes. Ruth would not recognize her tonight. That one brief glimpse at the sailing party hardly had been worth preserving. However, she did know Jack and Ray Lipton. It would be embarrassing to be introduced all over again. As for Marie—Barbara's lips tightened slightly as she remembered the manner in which her cousin Julia had confided in everyone that she, Barbara, had deliberately set out to vamp Garry Page. Maybe Marie would laugh lightly about that story on their way home tonight, and Ruth would be amused.

But it was to Barbara that Ruth Merryweather spoke. "Hello!" she held out her hand "You let yourself be kidnapped from the dock this morning before I had a chance to follow Garry's instructions." Garry's instructions—just the mention of Garry's name was sweet and comforting. It gave reality to the moment. But Ruth was not through. "Are you free for lunch some day next week? Will you meet me? That's lovely. I'll give you a ring about 11, perhaps Wednesday."

She scribbled Barbara's telephone number on a corner of a menu and stuffed it in the shining bag. Behind her, Marie stretched her hand towards Barbara.

"Babbs Kingsley, what are you doing here?"

The queen might have asked the scullery maid how she got into the royal ballroom in the same tone of voice.

"Working," Barbara answered.

"How was Europe?"

"Awfully hot. Where are you living?"

"I'm hunting an apartment."

An idea that had been growing stronger and stronger in Barbara's mind suddenly sprang fullgrown. She would sacrifice in clothes, entertainment, food. But she would have a living room where her friends could come.She would build a refuge against the glitter and the roar. Already she had learned that it could be wearing.

But if she had an open wood fire, her own books on the shelves, a few deep chairs and lamps that laid lambent pools of light across the floor— She shut the door of her mind firmly. She was seeing Garry Page in one of the chairs, long, relaxed, smiling.

The four who had paused at the table moved on, and Jack Metcalf and his guests left soon, too. The clerk at the desk of Natalie's apartment hotel handed her a telephone message.

"Basil," she said, as she read it. She laughed softly, mockingly. "Barbara, could a woman who liked Jack—once—ever be happy with Basil?"

"But Basil is old!" Barbara said.

"Not old, honey. Stable. It takes years to make men that way. And anyway, when you don't have an emotional somersault whenever a man looks your way, you needn't worry about the passing glances or the tete-a-tetes he'll share with your younger sisters."

"Has he ever been married?" Barbara asked.

"Once. His wife died. Oh yes, my child, he's a widower."

"Is he urging you to decide soon?"

Natalie's laugh was merrier. "He's not urging at all. He hasn't even suggested. It's just an idea I had. You know, if a woman is smart enough—"

Barbara went to sleep with those words in her mind. But if a woman wasn't smart enough, what then? Could all her love avail her nothing while somebody else who had grasped the rules in the romantic copybook walk off with the most eligible men?

If that was love—if it was just a bartering where the most skilled bidder took home the cabbage or the turnips, she would have to think about a career.

In the morning the sun was shining brightly. It was going to be a hot day. She could wear the leghorn hat and a linen dress with a sense of being right. Today she would hunt for an apartment. Ray Lipton had given her some addresses of agents.

Not until the day before she was to lunch with Natalie, did she find what she wanted.

It was a six months' sublease, in an old-fashioned brick mansion, on lower Ninth street, not far from Fifth avenue. The apartment, which consisted of a great living room with a fireplace where a mighty log could burn leisurely, a small bedroom, a kitchenette and bath on the third floor of the house. The long windows swung outward, facing on the street, and the former tenant had left her furniture—shelves and shelves of books, deep chairs, a divan, a studio couch, a radio—

"It's heaven!" Barbara said softly.

"Well, not heaven," the renting agent corrected her, "but a bargain. Hot and cold water, a shower, electric stove and an electric icebox. The woman who rents it was called abroad and she wants an appreciative person to move in. It may be swallowed up overnight, so if you want it—"

"I do!" She signed her name to the papers. "May I stay here along a moment? I want to learn the feel of the rooms."

But when she was alone she walked to the windows and looked down into the streets. This was hers! Her home. The first abiding place that had been really her own. She could hang out the latchstring or take it in. She could type all night and sleep all day. And nobody could stop her.

There were lights in the other brick houses up and down the street. A few children roller skated merrily. A flower vendor was rolling his colored cart toward Sixth avenue and the subway stations. A hurdy-gurdy was playing a song from summer before last which he never had thrown away. She began to hum the words, and then threw the man a quarter.

Tomorrow she would buy some deep wine material for draperies and cushions to replace those the owner had packed away. In a day or two her lease would begin and she would live here.

For a moment she wondered what the living room would see in the months to come. Love, heartache, joy, success, people coming to tea—Garry coming to dinner—Garry in that lounging chair—Garry putting another log on the fire. . . .

She would have the apartment ready when he came home. Maybe she would welcome him back with a homecoming dinner for just a few people.

She closed the door. The apartment was a walk-up but she did not mind the three flights. The rosewood of the staircase was rosewood and cream, and the carpets were deep and dark blue.

She had time to shop the next morning before she was to meet Ruth. The wealthy girl had called her at 10 instead of 11 and asked her to come to her family's apartment for lunch rather than meeting downtown. Happy because she had found the right red rose shade in heavy curtains of wool and silk, and a still heavier stuff for a studio couch cover and a dozen cushions, she rang the bell at the Merryweather penthouse.

Keep Your Dog Healthy by Easy Sensible Care

Fortify Him Against Distemper

Such a loyal, responsive pal! How you'd hate to see him suffer with a bad case of distemper that might have been avoided by proper care.

Remember that correct feeding is important in building up resistance to infection. Meat is your pet's natural food and he should start eating it when he is three weeks old. Milk is always wholesome But feed few vegetables and starchy foods like rice and bread if you want him to avoid digestive and skin troubles.

To nourishing food, add regular exercise and warm, clean sleeping quarters. Then if your dog picks up distemper — a catarrhal fever which affects the mucous membrane of his entire system—prompt action on your part should ward off the worst stages of the disease How splendid if you recognize and treat very first symptoms!

You'll find full description of symptoms and treatment of common dog ailments in our 32-page booklet. Feeding, training, grooming. Breeds.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOW TO CHOOSE AND CARE FOR YOUR DOG to The Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of the booklet.

The World Is Wrong When It Declares There Are No Happily Married Couples—You Don't Hear of Them Because They Never Become Embroiled in Scandal

JUST as the murders, the scandals and the divorces are headlined on the front pages of the newspapers, while the activities of the righteous rate only a line or two in small type on Page 17, so it is only the unhappy marriages of which we hear.

In particular is this true of this column to which every day come scores of letters from disgruntled husbands and wives who weep upon my shoulder and tell me their tales of woe until sometimes I am tempted to believe that marriage is a failure, and that there are no husbands and wives who do not hate each other and who do not fight like cats and dogs. Hence it is like cool water in a thirsty land to now and then hear from some man or woman who has found in marriage all that he or she hoped for—love and congeniality, sympathy and companionship, loyalty and helpfulness and the peace of soul that passes all understanding.

Such a letter came to me today. It is from a poor young woman. She and her husband married on a shoestring and haven't much more than that now, but they have each other, and that is enough. He works hard all day and studies at night. She does all of the cooking and scrubbing and baby-tending. She pinches the pennies and knows every bargain store within miles of them. A new dress or suit for either of them means weeks of scrimping and saving, and to go out to the movies is a big time.

Yet she sings of thankfulness over her happiness. The hard work they do to keep their home together has no weariness in it because it builds their house of bliss. The sacrifices they have to make are robbed of all bitterness because they are made for each other. They need no outside diversion because contentment sits on their hearthstone. They have youth and health, love and hope and the thrill of fighting the battle of life shoulder to shoulder. Marriage to them is a gay adventure instead of being the dull, soggy, dreary mess that so many make of it.

I like to think that there are millions of other young couples of whom we never hear who are taking this same brave attitude toward marriage, and who have the nerve, the grit and the courage to bear its burdens instead of throwing up their hands and quitting when the sledding gets hard. I like to think that there are girls who can love a man better than they do their own ease and comfort and pretty clothes; girls who are not dissolved in self-pity because they have to go into a kitchen instead of a night club; girls who do not think of Reno every time they have to do without a new hair wave that they cannot afford, or a party dress they cannot buy.

I like to think that there are plenty of girls who consider it a privilege to work and stint to help their husbands get a start in the world. I like to think that there are many wives who regard marriage as the finest career that any woman can follow and who put their hearts and their backs into keeping their husbands glad they married them.

I like to think that there are many men who love one woman and cleave unto her and who never see that their wives get old or fat or lose their looks, but to whom Mary or Jane or Susan gets dearer and more beautiful as the years go by. I like to think that there are men who do not begrudge the price of marriage in money, or labor or self-denial, or loss of freedom, but to whom home and wife and children are always worth what they cost. I like to think that there are men who turn their faces home of an evening with the thanksgiving that a mariner has in his heart when he comes to anchor in a quiet harbor after a stormy day at sea.

That there are many such, I doubt not. These happy couples, who are making a success of marriage, do not create scandals, or get divorces, or keep the neighbors awake with their quarrels, so we do not hear of them. But we glimpse them when we see a young father wheeling a perambulator instead of burning up the road with an automobile he hasn't paid for, and when we meet a fat, comfortable, middle-aged couple who call each other Ma and Pa and who are so much one that they have practically no need of conversation between them.

And often we behold it when we see and old woman blazing with the incongruous jewels that her husband couldn't give her when she was young, but that he lavishes on her now as a token of his appreciation and gratitude. Yes, there are many happy marriages. Thank God for them.

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGLY AND JINGLES Polish.

When Uncle Wiggly first looked at Jingle, one of his little twin rabbits sitting in a corner of the hollow stump bungalow, he thought she was studying her home work.

"Did the Lady Mouse Teacher in the Hollow Tree School give you much home work to-day, Jingle?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"Oh, this isn't home work, Daddy," said Jingle not looking up.

"What is it then," asked Mr. Longears.

"Well, it isn't an adventure, either, Daddy," said Jingle with a laugh. "So if you are looking for that you had better hop outdoors. And if you will please wait a few minutes, until it dries, I would like to go adventuring with you."

"You will be most welcome," said Uncle Wiggly, who believed in being polite at home as well as when adventuring. 'I will wait for you. But what is it that must dry, and what is that funny smell?"

Instead of answering (not that she intended to be impolite) all of a sudden Jingle began blowing on her fingers. Then all of a quickness, Uncle Wiggly saw something red in Jingle's paw and he exclaimed:

No Cut.

"Oh, my dear! You have cut yourself! And you are waiting for it to dry before you can come adventuring with me! Oh, I am so sorry! How did you cut yourself?"

"Don't you like it?"

'I didn't cut myself, Daddy," said Jingle, blowing harder.

"Then what is that red stuff I see on your paws, my dear?"

'Polish," answered Jingle with a little laugh. 'I am putting on nail polish. It is true we rabbits haven't such large nails as real girls but we have some nails on our paws and I am putting polish on mine. Bright red polish. See, Daddy."

Uncle Wiggly saw a flash of bright red as Jingle held up her paws. Each one looked as if newly painted.

"Oh, Jingle" said Mr. Longears sort of unhappy.

'Don't you like it?" asked Jingle. 'It's the very latest and most stylish color. I could have had pale pink but I like bright red much better. Now I'm ready to go adventuring with you."

"Well," said the rabbit gentleman sort of slow and undecided like, 'I suppose it's all right to put on nail polish—that is for real girls. But I never though my little rabbit girls would."

"Oh, I'm getting to be quite a big rabbit girl," said Jingle, as she hopped around the bungalow looking for her hat and coat. 'All the big girls in the Hollow Tree School use nail polish."

However—

"I can't say I like it," spoke Uncle Wiggly. "And it has a very queer smell."

"Oh, that smell will soon go away when we get out in the air," said Jingle. 'Come on, Daddy! Step on it and we'll have a jolly adventure."

"All right," said the rabbit gentleman, smiling and twinkling his nose, which was pink without any polish on it. 'I'm just old-fashioned. I like the paw nails of my little rabbits to be their natural color. However — um-um!"

Humming a little tune, Uncle Wiggily hopped with Jingle to the woods. On the way Mr. Longears couldn't help looking at Jingle's paw nails polished such a bright red. But he said nothing more about it.

Pretty soon, after a while, not so very long, all of a sudden, as the two rabbits reached a dingly dell in the woods, they heard a noise. It was a rustling noise.

"What is it?" her father whispered in answer, "Keep behind me, Jingle. It may be a Bad Chap."

And if the chocolate cake doesn't stand on its head and pretend to be a loaf of rye bread, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly's laugh."

PLACING THE HONORS

A DOUBLE or other strong action during the bidding can enable the declarer to place the high honors with one particular defender. In planning his play, it usually will pay to count the other defender for any low honors that may prove important, as few completely honorless hands are dealt.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South's original bid here was 1-Spade, which West doubled. North called 2-Diamonds, East passed, South went to 2-No Trumps, North 3-Clubs and South 3-No Trumps.

The heart K was led against this contract and the A in dummy won the trick. Three rounds of clubs were now taken, and with the heart A gone from the dummy, South's problem was how to enter dummy to cash the set-up clubs.

Reading West for the diamond A, in view of his double, but being uncertain as to where the J might be, the declarer played the diamond Q, and when West failed to cover, went right up with the K. This play enabled him to make his contract.

West would not have gained anything by going in with the A, for in that event, he could have cashed only that trick and three hearts.

Looking Back On This Date

APRIL 11th.

By FRED WILLIAMS.

On this date (April 11) in 1846 there began a connection with Canada of Sir Edmund Walker Head, which brought much advantage to this country. He was sworn as lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick and for six years directed the course of events in that province with much skill, in a period when politics were strenuous and the battle for responsible government was being waged with full force. In 1854 he was transferred to Quebec as governor-general of British America, and there his talents and diplomacy were taxed to the utmost. He was, in the opinion of Lord Elgin, his predecessor, 'a gentleman of the highest character, the greatest ability and the most varied accomplishments and attainments."

Fred Williams

Sir Edmund is given credit for having suggested Ottawa to Queen Victoria when her majesty was asked to select a permanent capital for the province of Canada. He may or may not; but there is little doubt but that a painting by Lady Head of the view from what is now Parliament Hill had some share in the decision.

The seven years Sir Edmund was governor-general were years of keen crises. But he was able to retain the confidence of both parties who recognized in him a man who was doing his best to make workable the plan of responsible government begun by the great Lord Elgin.

There is a legend that it was Sir Edmund that should have been sent to Upper Canada in 1835, and that his cousin, Sir Francis, was notified through the mistake of a clerk in the colonial office. Whether that be true or not, there could have been no greater contrast than the two Heads, one the dicator, the other the conciliator and democrat.

Ninety years ago to-day a number of gentlemen, among them a young barrister and politician, John A. Macdonald, met at Kingston, and organized the Cataraqui club, ever since a centre of social life and good fellowship with few equals in Canada.

Hon. John Young, who has been called the "father of the Port of Montreal," died on this date sixty years ago. He was also one of the creators of the Grand Trunk railway and one of the promotors of the great Victoria tubular bridge at Montreal. That city has cause to be proud of its Scots, but of none more than John Young, who came from Ayr when 15 and literally fought his way to leadership without aid.

MORE HATCHERIES

HALIFAX—(CP)—Number of approved poultry hatcheries in Nova Scotia under the federal approved hatchery policy now stands at 26 as compared with 23 in 1937 and four in 1931, the Provincial Agriculture Department announced.

OMEMEE, April 11. — The Emily Municipal Council met in the Farmer's Club Rooms, Omemee, last week. Members present: D. J. Guiry, Reeve, in the chair, and Councillors Wilbert Fee, Paul McGuire, W. J. Patrick, and Wesley Wilson.

The following communications were read and laid on the table for further discussion, and action, if necessary.

From the Department of Public Welfare, reporting what action had been taken to date on certain applications for old-age pensions and mothers' allowances.

From the Canadian Automobile Service Association, declining liability in the matter of the claim of J. McGahey for a car spring broken on the road near Frankhill Schoolhouse.

Communications were received from L. M. Frost, Bruce McNevin, F. G. McNeely, the Department of Public Welfare, and others, being replies to letters from the clerk relative to old age pensions, pensions for the blind, and mothers' allowances, and ordered filed.

From the Clerk of Municipal Roads, enclosing summarized statement of expenditure on municipal roads in 1937.

A tender to supply power to operate the crusher for the season of 1938 was received from William Kearns, and one to operate the crusher from Pat Perdue for the same season.

School accounts were received from S. Sections 3, 7, and 15.

Miscellaneous accounts were received from A. E. Wilson Co., the Bank of Toronto, the Tweed News, the Municipal World.

Relief accounts were received from George O'Donnell, T. C. Ivory, Frank Brown, Pat Perdue, and L. Wilson.

Payments—Miscellaneous.

The Municipal World, statutes and blank forms	$15.58
William Burgomaster, error in assessment, 1937	2.00
Hugh Elliott, premium on Treasurer's Bond	5.00
The Tweed News, printing notices for auditors	2.05
The Bank of Toronto, rent of deposit box	3.00
George Magee, balance salary $70.00, postage and stationery $10.00	80.00

Schools.

J. M. Thurston, secretary-treasurer S.S. 3	75.00
Frank Crough, secretary-treasurer S.S. 7	65.00
Emmitt O'Neill, secretary-treasurer S.S. 15	200.00

Relief.

George O'Donnell, relief food	18.97
T. C. Ivory, relief food	16.00
Frank Brown, relief food	17.68
Pat Perdue, relief fuel	6.00
L. Wilson, relief shelter	3.00

Motions passed: That the Reeve be authorized to sign the certificate asked for by the Globe Indemnity Co. for the renewal of the Township Treasurer's Bond.

That the Council take steps to reforest the piece of land owned by the Township on Lot 2, Concession 4, Emily, and that the matter of ordering the trees and planting them be left in the hands of the clerk, and that the land be planted with pine.

By-law No. 682 confirming the appointment of Lloyd Boate as road superintendent was introduced, given its several readings, and passed, signed and sealed.

The clerk was instructed to write to Mr Weldon and decline liability for the maintenace of Mrs. Hugh Saul.

The collector was instructed to return all unpaid taxes to the county treasurer for collection and to return the roll to the treasurer.

Council adjourned to meet on Tuesday, May 3, at one o'clock.

Snow White's Voice

Adriana Caselotti, daughter of Guido Caselotti, vocal instructor of the Metropolitan Opera, furnished the melodious voice for Snow White in Walt Disney's history-making animated cartoon, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." She got the job three years ago when she overheard Disney ask her father, over the telephone, for his aid in finding somebody for the part. Adriana yelled into an extension phone "Me, me; how about me?" Artists also used her features for Snow White's facial expressions.

NEPHELINE

syenite is the only deposit of the mineral known in this continent and that its quality is exceptionally high. It is used in the manufacture of glassware, and continuing research is indicating that it may invade the pottery business and also the manufacture of chinaware because it provides a more brilliant glaze than feldspar. It may also be used for the same advantage in the making of stove enamel, and other branches of industry are being investigated for the purpose of creating a new outlet for the long neglected nepheline.

Canadian Nepheline Limited of Lakefield have estimated that the supply of nepheline syenite in their rock property in Methuen exceeds 5,000,000 tons, and last year their production reached 10,000 tons, twice the volume of 1936. In the news from Washington on Saturday, R. B. Ladoo of Boston, one of the foremost consulting engineers in the non-metallic industry, was quoted as saying that the quarrying, processing and uses of nepheline syenite is "a baby industry," a prodigy whose possibilities cannot be predicted in the present stage of its development.

Recent Business Romance

The nepheline quarry in the Methuen hills represents a business romance that has rapidly unfolded before the eyes of the people of this county within the last four years. If memory is to be trusted, without recourse to official records, the Canadian Nepheline Company reached the stage of production in 1935. An Examiner reporter visited the quarry with J. J. Duffus late in the summer of that year when the excavation seemed hardly more than a pin scratch high up on the south face of the "mountain" overlooking Emerald Lake, literally a gem of green colored water in a forest setting. The rock was being loaded onto trucks from a landing at the quarry level, practically in the rough sizes made by blasting. The company had made a fairly stout road partly by its own effort but otherwise assisted by grants which were obtained from the Dominion government. Several buildings were erected nearby for the accommodation of the quarrymen, chiefly a dining room and adjoining bunkhouse.

The road wound up the hill circuitously from the level of Stoney Lake, a long climb through scenic beauty including vistas of the lake and the rough woodland countryside. The rock was trucked to the crushing mill that had been erected at Lakefield near the old cement plant and close to the Otonabee River.

Crusher at Quarry

Plant changes since then both at the quarry and at Lakefield have been necessitated by the rapidly expanding demand for the nepheline product. At the quarry a new crusher was installed, operated by a Diesel engine. The rock is wheeled from the quarry pit a short distance to the nearby receiving level of the crusher whose outlet is a truck-loading landing on a new road laid out beside Emerald Lake. From the crusher, which reduces the rock to an average size of four inches, the nepheline is carried by gravity descent into a storage bins below, and the trucks are loaded from the bins for the long haul to Lakefield. The capacity of the crusher mill is 400 tons a day, Ralph G. Kilbon, superintendent, informed the Examiner Saturday afternoon. This improvement was completed last year, and meanwhile the capacity of the other crushing mill at Lakefield was doubled. John Sabatino is foreman of the plant in the village.

Railway Transportation

The mill at Lakefield reduced the rock to a half-inch size or less, and the processed product was loaded into cars on a C. N. R. siding, some of it being forwarded to glass manufacturing companies in Canada and the greater part to similar companies in the United States. Consumers of the nepheline syenite on both sides of the boundary soon discovered its merits in the making of glass that gave it a decided preference over feldspar. Brilliance and strength were two of the qualities that were soon disclosed in the glassware. For example, it is related, that a company in the United States which purchased a better grade of glasses, the word tumbler may appropriately designate them, and then made cut glassware out of them immediately realized that the nepheline had contributed qualities that were lacking in the basic feldspar glass.

Rochester Subsidiary

Demand for nepheline from the United States increased more rapidly than Canadian Nepheline Limited could supply it. The result was the organization of the American Nepheline Corporation of Rochester, a subsidiary of the Canadian company, with a mill at Rochester at least three times the size of the plant at Lakefield. As crude nepheline enters the United States duty free, and an ad valorem duty of 30 per cent. is charged on the processed product, the advantage of erecting a mill at Rochester is obvious. It is now the source of supply for the American market, including the Hazel-Atlas Glass Company of West Virginia, one of the largest glass companies regularly buying nepheline since it first reached the United States market.

Glass Industry's Support

R. B. Ladoo was referred to in Saturday's story from Washington as a representative of the American Nepheline Corporation. He stated that the rock could be laid down in Rochester at $5 a ton as compared with $6.50 for North Carolina feldspar. Mr. Kilbon told the Examiner that the glass industry of the United States wants the nepheline in preference to feldspar not merely because it is cheaper, but especially because it is a much better raw material.

"The Dominion Glass Company is willing to pay $18 a ton freight on nepheline for their plant in Alberta instead of bringing in feldspar from North Dakota, so that will give you an idea of what the glass manufacturers think of nepheline," Mr. Kilbon said. The Dominion Glass Company has factories in Hamilton, Montreal, Wallaceburg and Red Cliff, Alberta, and is probably the largest consumer of nepheline in Canada.

Low Iron Content

Nepheline syenite has a high alumina content with only about .06 per cent. of iron. Its use for more than two years in large glass manufacturing plants in the United States and Canada has demonstrated its value in the glass industry, Mr. Kilbon said. It provides them with a material that not only runs unusually high in alumina but also high in alkalies to the point that it has a much lower fushion point than potash feldspar. The fushion point is 1,210 degrees centigrade, affording a substantial economy in required heat as compared with feldspar.

Important Invention

An invention that provided an efficient and cheap process of removing the iron content from nepheline was the real turning point in the progress of this industry. The Methuen deposit was known for years before that mechanical development took place. The Examiner was told that the rock in its ultimate stage passes over a magnetic drum of high intensity thereby removing all the iron except .06 per cent.

When the quality of the nepheline product had been proved beyond doubt and a big market was available in the United States, money was required for the expansion that was warranted by the experience of less than two years. At that stage Ventures Limited became interested, it is understood, and was to a large extent responsible for the subsequent progress represented by the big Rochester mill and also the improvements at the quarry and at Lakefield.

Mr. Kilbon stated that the company is now building a wharf at the east end of Stoney Lake near South Bay and the old Lynburner saw mill, and as soon as navigation opens a tug and four scows will be ready for water transportation of the nepheline rock to the mill at Lakefield. Truck haulage will be reduced to the four miles from the wharf to the crusher at the quarry. It has already been published that the company had planned to ship their material down the Trent Canal to Lake Ontario in scows, but economy was abandoned when suitable competitive freight rates were quoted by the railway.

Boon To Lakefield

The Company is employing fifteen men at their Lakefield mill and thirty at the quarry. They are also using the old laboratory of the Canada Cement Company at Lakefield, and have in every respect been busy a young industry for the village.

Nazi Threat Not To Be Feared

Listening, with what appears to be a distinct lack of enthusiasm, the Italian senate is shown as it heard Il Duce voice assurance that the Nazi threat at the Brenner Pass need not be feared. At the same time he loudly declared that Italy could muster 9,000,000 troops within a few days, and was at the present time ready for instant war if it proved necessary.

COUPLE JAILED FOR BLACKMAIL

QUEBEC, April 11 (CP).—Georges St. Laurent and his wife will appear next Thursday on a charge of extorting $5,000 from Paul Taschereau, Quebec lawyer. The joint-accused are being held in jail, with bail set at $5,000 each.

Arrest of the couple April 1 followed Taschereau's complaint that he had been forced to hand over $1,000 in cash and a cheque for $4,000 under a threat made by the couple after St. Laurent "surprised" a man and woman in a hotel room.

The lawyer complained through his counsel, Mark Drouin, that he had been forced to hand over the cash and cheque under a threat of suit for alienation of affection.

Private complaint was laid before Judge Hughes Fortier in Court of Sessions and the couple were arrested more than a week ago, appearing last Friday in the chambers of Judge Laetare Roy. They pleaded not guilty.

Judge Stricken

Hon. Norman S. MacDonnell, justice of the supreme court of Ontario, appelate division, who died recently, in his 52nd year, following a lengthy illness. Justice MacDonnell was elevated to the bench in 1933 and was held in high esteem by the legal fraternity of the Dominion.

NORTH SCHOOL

JOLLY TIME HELD AT TAFFY PARTY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORTH SCHOOL, April 11.—The young folks of this neighborhood have been having a "sweet time" this last week attending maple-taffy parties. Messrs. Ward Burgess and Dean Baker invited about thirty young friends and neighbors to their maple sugar bush Thursday evening, on the old Norwood Road. As the jolly group waited for the taffy to cook they all joined in a sing-song around the boiling kettle. After they had indulged in an abundance of taffy, weiners and rolls were then prepared by the older members of the party, which were much enjoyed. The party was then invited to the home of Dean and Charlie Baker, where games of cards, pick-up stick and crokinole were played, while the sporting members of the party listened to the hockey match.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Large Crowd Attends Y. M. C. A. Sing-Song Hour.

A large crowd attended the final Y.M.C.A. Sunday Night Sing-Song Hour for the season last evening. Ed MacDonald, chairman of the committee in charge of these pleasant Sabbath night "get-togethers", presided, and E. Trethewey was the enthusiastic song-leader for a program of sacred hymns, with C. Gorrie at the piano.

Three most delightful vocal solos contributed by Jack Gibson as guest artist, were much appreciated by the audience. Jack Sage also gave two beautiful solos.

The Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, was also present and addressed the meeting, answering a number of questions on the Bible. After prayer, Dr. Barr pronounced the Benediction.

Don't suffer from after-eating discomfort. Eno's "Fruit Salt" will soon set you right, for Eno is alkaline. It neutralizes acid condition and sweetens the stomach.

And more . . . Eno gets at the root of the trouble and prevents recurrence. It regularizes intestinal activity, keeps the eliminative tract free from poisonous waste.

A dash of Eno in a glass of water morning and night soon normalizes and revivifies the entire inner system. Doctors recommend Eno and take it themselves because they know it is safe! It acts gently, effectively, forms no habit. Remember, life today calls for Eno's "Fruit Salt" so 'phone your druggist now. Handy size, 50c, Household size, 85c.

The Examiner Goes to a Party:

Happy birthday to Maureen Grovelle, 344 McGill Street, who was ten years old on Sunday. Maureen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Grovelle. On Sunday afternoon she had some of her little girl friends in for a party and the Examiner's photographer happened to hear about it and invited himself along too. He liked the birthday cake but was not so good at the games. In the picture at the TOP, Maureen is seen cutting the cake while some of her young friends look on. From left to right the girls are, Dorothy Curtin, 9, 422 Rubidge Street; Thelma Hynes, 9, of 368 Park Hill Road; Maureen Grovelle, the hostess; Isobel Hunt, 7, of 341 Downie Street; Bernice Traviss, 10, of 590 Murray Street. At BOTTOM are some of the other guests. From left to right they are, Doreen Fontaine, 10, of 166 Adeline Avenue; Shirley Connelly, 7, of Downer's Corners; Irene Doleman, 10, of 388 McGill Street; Dorothy Guerin, 9, of 231 King George Street; Audrey Fontaine, 13, of 166 Adeline Avenue; Donna White, 8, of 292 McGill Street. Famous Cantata St. Andrew's Choir.

At the evening service last night in St. Andrew's United Church, the cantata, "The Crucifixion" was rendered by he choir under the fine direction of the organist, R. B. Harle, L.L.C.M., A.T.C.L. The music for "The Crucifixion" ranks as the most famous of Sir John Stainer's work. The story, for which the words were written by the Rev J. Sparrow-Simpson covers the last hours in Christ's life on earth from the Garden ofGethsemane to the Death upon the Cross, and was set forth with fine interpretation by the choir and soloists, who included Evelyn Edwards, Adam Hawley, Edward Humpage and James Johnston.

Ball—Close.

A quiet wedding was solemnized Saturday evening at seven o'clock in All Saints Church, when Helen Beatrice, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Close of Peterborough, became the bride of Stanley Wheeler Ball, son of Mrs. C. Ball, and the late William Ball of Peterboroguh. The Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a becoming frock of navy blue triple sheer with matching hat and accessories. The attendants were Miss Jean Jewell, who wore also a navy blue costume, and Levergne Gilmour.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ball will reside at 268 Aylmer street.

❖ ❖ ❖

Marshall—McDougall.

With the Rev. E. W. Young officiating, a quiet wedding took place Saturday afternoon in St. Andrew's Church manse, when Olive Hope McDougall was married to J. R. Desmond Marshall.

After the ceremony the happy couple left for New York, where they will sail for a trip to the Bahamas and Cuba. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Marshall will reside at 118 Eglinton Avenue, Toronto.

Defoe—Small.

TWEED, April 11.—Of wide interest in medical circles was the marriage of Dr. Charlotte S. Small of the Women's College Hospital, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Walter Small of Chengtu, West China, to Dr. Colin S. Dafoe of the Kingston General Hospital, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dafoe, Madoc, which took place at three o'clock Saturday afternoon in Trinity United church, Toronto. Rev. G. Fallis and Rev. Walter Small, the bride's father officiated. The music was played by Mrs. A. J. Brace. The church was decorated with spring flowers and palms.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white chiffon gown, floor length, with bolero jacket, veil, pink roses and lily-of-the-valley. Her attendants were Miss Dorothy Small, her sister; Miss C. Dafoe, sister of the bridegroom, and Dr. Margaret Harcourt, a classmate. They were gowned in pink, blue and yellow lace over taffeta and carried old fashioned nosegays of mixed flowers. The groomsman was Mr. Josse Turner, and the ushers, Mr. William Small, Mr. John Small (brothers of the bride) and Mr . Roswald Dafoe, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception at 97 George street, followed the ceremony. The bride's mother wore a gown of black silk trimmed with sequins, small black hat and corsage of sweet peas. The bridegroom's mother wore a black figured chiffon with corsage of roses. For travelling the bride wore a blue serge suit with navy accessories.

The couple will motor to New York on their wedding trip. The bride's parents are home on furlough from China.

Excellent Choice

BEIGE, ONE of the most popular of the spring shades, for maid and matron alike, is an excellent choice for a basic costume color, as you can vary such a costume with many different colored accessories.

Practically every color harmonizes or makes a pleasing contrast with beige.

With smartly tailored beige coat and hat with a up-tilted feather, this young woman carries a winding and tapering purse of pliant calf, with narrow rolled handles—a Bienen-Davis design. It is thin and practical, and comes in all the new shades for smart spring purses—roseberry and Parisian blue as well as black.

The gloves match the coat, the scarf the bag, completing the ensemble.

Style Whimsies.

Bigger and brighter patterns decorate the spring kerchiefs. Birds and flowers are seen on the latest linen squares in corals, blues and greens. Many of them have dark bindings and are hand rolled. Large tulip-printed sheer squares are carried for evening.

If you want something more amusing, there are Mexican silhouettes, cactus, pottery, automobiles, boxes, railroad stations and other odd designs.

W.M.S. Service Is Held in St. James'

The annual church service of the Woman's Missionary Society was observed on Sunday morning by St. James' W.M.S. Auxiliary when a large representation of the members gathered and entered the church in a body.

The Missionary Psalm "He shall have dominion also from sea to sea and from the river unto the ends of the earth" was read responsively with the pastor, Rev. Fred Craik, leading. The pastor also gave the missionary message to the members of the society and to the congregation basing his address upon the theme" Women of Faith, Vision and Service." In elaborating this topic the speaker applied it particularly to the auxiliary and its allied societies, the Circle and Mission Band. He commented upon the fine work being done by all three organizations in St. James Church.

The pastor used as his text, St. Paul's words to the Corinthians, "For all things are yours" "And ye are Christ's and Christ is God's", from 1 Cor. 3:21, 22, 23.

Spirit of "Upper Room"

Deploring the fact that only one-third of the women of the United Church of Canada, belong to the W.M.S. Mr. Craik pointed out the high value of the aims and objectives of this society which is still carrying out the spirit of the "Upper Room" with is power of redemption to the whole world.

Missionary Program

The choir under the splendid leadership of Cecil Lapp, the organizer gave a special missionary program of music, which besides the hymns, included the inspiring anthem "Soldiers of Christ Arise". A most appropriate solo, "The Palms" was sung with fine effect by Mrs. Ernest Kitney and the beautiful duet "Unanswered" by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cuff, proved a fitting finale to the service.

Next month will mark the 20th anniversary of St. James' Auxiliary which bears the developments of a highly spiritual background and consecrated leadership. This milestone will be suitably celebrated by the society.

Announcements of the Passion Week services were made with Rev. E .W, Young thep reacher at St, James on Thursday evening.

Millbrook Personals

The pupils of the entire Public School were taken by car into Peterborough on Wednesday afternoon to attend the Capitol Theatre. One hundred and thirty-five seats were previously reserved, by telephone, for the party, among those who provided cars being Charles Thorndyke, Reeve W. E. Ball, Jean Burnham, Frank Stinson, R. H. Edmunds, L. H. Winslow, Mrs. W. W. Kennedy, Fred Lowery, L. Unitt, M. McDowell, H. D. Bigelow, G. F. Harrington, J. E. Allen and others.

Lawrence Ingram's many friends locally will regret to learn that he is in the Toronto General Hospital suffering from an injury to his right hand, the result of an accident.

Mrs. D. K. Chiles is in Toronto for a brief stay, going to the city on Wednesday.

Robert and Norma Dunford, of Oshawa, motored from that city on Wednesday, and visited their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Smith.

Mrs. Alan Gray and son, Howard, motored from London and visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lancashire.

The local Horticultural Society has decided on its premiums for the current season, and believes the choice the best so far in the history of the organization. Each member will receive one yellow shrub, "Kerriaponica"; one Rugosa rose, bright red in color, and a Morgenrood phlox, of a striking red shade, all of which will be distributed shortly.

NEW CANADIAN CLUB

WINDSOR, Ont., April 11 (CP).—Boys' Clubs Incorporated, an international organization having as its chief object the employment of the idle time of boys over seven years of age, will open its first Canadian club at a "charter dinner" to be held here May 27. It was announced last night 200 members of the Detroit and Highland Park Clubs will attend the inaugural dinner.

It's No Surprise That You're Constipated!

If constipation has you bogged down so you feel tired, sunk, all played out—it's time you asked yourself some questions!

What have you had to eat lately? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? It's no surprise you're constipated! The chances are you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B1.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and take a new lease on life! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in London, Ontario. Sold by every grocer.

Contrasting Colors and Fabrics Favored For Women's Clothes

(By Central Press)

The contrast note looms large in this season's fashion picture. Nowhere it is more strikingly displayed than in the new wool daytime costumes for street, travel or sportswear.

Not only is there a great freedom in the use of the bright new colors in bold combinations, but designers have expressed their liking for variety by teaming contrasting fabric types in the season's suits.

Soft smooth woolens are used with nubby or hairy-surfaced wools in jacket and skirt costumes or in two-piece ensembles of the frock and coat school. Plain woolens are smartly set off by novelty striped and patterned weaves in bright combinations, and the union of plaid and plain is important in every sort of costume.

Contrast in Sports Wear

For sports, country or travel wear, the contrast is carried out in the use of plaid wool tweed jackets over monotone skirts in soft shetland wool, and dark monotone jackets are combined with contrasting light-colored skirts and boxy over-jackets.

A well tailored example is shown in this three-piece suit in wool shetland, with fingertip box coat in beige, wine, yellow and gray check over a solid beige jacket suit with wine leather belt and buttons. A sheer wool ascot striped in colors to match the checked coat provides additional bright accent.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Dinners of the Week

(By MARY MOORE)

All These Meals Have Been Served, Eaten and Approved

SUNDAY
(Nice for Easter Sunday Dinner)
Baked Creole Ham Slices
(see below)
Parched Rice (see below)
Chopped New Beets and Greens
Salad Platter of Celery Hearts, Carrots Slivers and Radishes
Canned Peach de Luxe Dessert
(see note)
Coffeee

Notes: Spread thin whole slices of mild smoked ham with catsup diluted with either water, vinegar or mayonnaise, and either bake on buttered baking dish or broil. Parched rice is not new but is almost universally forgotten. Pick over but do not wash 1½ cups rice (do not think this is too much for it is such a favorite you are bound to run short)—place dry in hot frying pan containing 2 tablespoons butter (or cooking oil if butter is scarce), and stir over moderate heat constantly until rice is an even gold. Then add 3½ cups water, 1½ teaspoon salt, and turn heat low and let come to boiling point, then cover and place is oven with the ham and let cook 30 minutes at about 350 deg. Fahr. Serve as a border round slices of ham on hot platter. Garnish with parsley or whole ripe olives.

The dessert was given in detail last week. If you did not clip it I'll be nice and say it is merely blanc mange using peach juice in place of milk, and flavored with almond extract. Place half peach, rounded side up over pudding and trim with border of whipped cream.

MONDAY
(Oven Dinner—quite economical)
Baked Onions Stuffed with Ground Left Over Ham
Baked Potatoes
Casserole of Creamed Outer Stalks of Celery with Grated Cheese Crust
Hot Apple Sauce Cake
Old Cheese Coffee

TUESDAY
(Economy Meal)
Meat Loaf par Excellence (see note)
Baked Potatoes
Shredded Carrots with Butter Sauce
Deep Dish Plum Pie with Powdered Sugar
Coffee

NOTE: Have the butcher grind the unsliceable end of a smoked side bacon (about ¼ lb.) into the shank beef he grinds for the meat loaf—no matter what you add to this meat loaf to extend the flavor it will be good—tomato juice or catsup, fine crumbs, horseradish, egg whites beaten stiff, grated onion are all good alone or in combination.

WEDNESDAY
(Hasty meal)
Tomato Omelette (see special note)
Shredded Green Beans
Creamed Corn
Fruit Cup of Sliced Peaches and Oranges
Coffee

NOTE: Lacking enough cheese to make a cheese omelette I squinted over my canned fruit and vegetable shelf to find some other flavoring. I opened a can of condensed tomato soup, and used a quarter of a can, adding it to the beaten yolks, and when the whites were beaten added ¾ cup boiling water to the yolks while beating, then fold in the whites, and immediately poured it into the hot oiled frying pan. Heat had to be turned down in one minute—and when it was well puffed top was dried off under broiler. A successful meat substitute omelette for dinner or lunch.

THURSDAY
Fricassed Veal Chops
Mashed Potatoes
Sliced Tomatoes and Head Lettuce Salad
Compote of Apples in Lemon Syrup
Cookies Coffee

FRIDAY
(Economical)
Casserole of Salmon and Potatoes in Celery Stock diluted with Evaporated Milk
Shredded Boiled Cabbage
Mashed Parsnips
Gingerbread Apple Betty
Cream Coffee

SATURDAY
Casserole of Baked Weiners and Canned Corn
Green Peas (canned or new)
Celery Hearts
Apple Crisp Coffee

SPRING SUIT ADDS COLOR AND CHARM AFTER LONG WINTER'S DRAB CLOTHING

You Are All Ready for Easter in One of These

By LISBETH

Jackets, generally speaking, are a little longer; skirts are slim and about the same length. Redingotes are again with us, and materials are legion.

A smart little suit with a flower—fresh or artificial—in your lapel, and you are ready for Easter or any other gala time.

Hips are slim and shoulders medium broad, especially in the redingote type suit and in dresses, and blouses are more attractive than ever—and more varied.

Illustrating these general comments is the suit at the left. It is the custom made classic tailaleur for 1938. This model is of gray worsted, imported from England, and is impeccably tailored. The jacket is of the three-button variety, with flap pockets on the hips and one on the breast. A sheer batiste blouse is worn with it.

Notice the gay little hat wtih the pompom on top, the smart stitched suede bag and shoes, pull-over gloves.

Print and Solid.

One of the smarest new redingotse of the new spring season is shown in the photograph at the right. The silk dress is in black and yellow print trimmed with black wool, and the black wool coat is trimmed at the neckline with coils of the yellow silk print.

A chich black felt hat with a yellow and black bandeau is worn with it.

The striped suit is high style, men"s wear worsteds being used for it. These suits are made with the sleekest possible silhouette, attained by the "lean hipped styling which is emphasized through buttoning the jacket straight down through the hip section.

This molded hip and long waist section is one that is used universally by the quality suit makers.

These suits, too, may be worn right now under the fur coat, and will be fresh for spring.

If you like the bolero idea, better get one right now and wear it, as it is being used with such vim and vigor that it may not last indefintely.

A novelty in suits is the contrast suit, maybe in rose and navy; and the satin-back worsted suit with satin piping.

Cape suits are especially good with hip-length capes, the cape being practcally to wear also over printed dresses all summer.

Norwood Branch Ends Society Year

NORWOOD, April 11.—The April meeting of the Norwood branch of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. Chamberlain, Ridge street, on Friday afternoon with Mrs. Alex Innes vice-president in the chair and seventeen members in attendance.

Minutes were read by the acting secretary, Mrs. Rothwell and correspondence laid aside. It was moved and seconded that all bills be paid so that the books of the Society could be closed for the year now ending. The directors gave a report of the past months' activities and it was decided to send fruit to two members who were ill. The secretary was authorized to forward Institute fees to the distritc secretary and arrangements were made to hold the annual meeting next month in the Council Chamber.

The program convenor then took the chair and Mrs. Rork Ferguson favored with an organ solo, "Dance of the Blue Bells." Mrs. Chamberlain gave a reading, "The Full Life," "Farmer Grump at W.I." was read by Mrs. J. Rothwell and Mrs. D. Kenyon read "A Wedding Slightly Mixed." Mrs. Alex Innes also gave a reading, "A Minister on Bad Terms With His Congregation."

The remainder of the program was devoted to contests which were heartily enjoyed. Mrs. Roy Longhurst conducted one on the word Institute which was won by Mrs. R. S. Fennell, who succeeded in making 21 words of the letters. A bean guesing contest was arranged by Mrs. Innes and won by Mrs F. J. Stewart and Mrs. Rothwell won a contest conducted by Mrs. Chamberlain.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Chamberlain and all responded in usual way. The meeting closed with the National Anthem after which a dainty lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Be positive instead of negative, my friend. Claim your birthright—success in your legitimate ambition. Think only of success. Believe success is coming to you. Work for success. And you will be surprised how quickly conditions will change for you. It is the inexorable law. You can, if you think you can!"

—Marden.

(PART 2)

Dear Friends:

Did you ever try living like that? Forgetting even the thought of failure, seeing yourself successful, working towards it, thinking continuously about it. You cannot let success and failure occupy your mind at one and the same time, for the strongest will push out the weakest.

I don't know who coined the phrase, "God helps those who help themselves" but it is certainly true. What is more exasperating than those who continually think they will fail, who 'can't do this and can't do that" and who in fact will not even try.

It works in everything you do, whether it be making a pie or clerking in a store, trying to live a good life, trying to break a bad habit, or getting along with your family and friends. You will get what you are looking for, and it is much easier to look for success than to look for failure.

Do you think a man like O. S. Marden would write such a thing if he thought there was no meaning to it, or that I would pass it on to you if I had not found it would work? Let us assume you are one of the timid ones who cannot believe they will ever succeed in anything.

Start today and change your thoughts to success. Push the thoughts of failure right out of your mind. Do what you can today, forgetting all about tomorrow or next week, yesterday or last year. You were a different person then, and you will be much different tomorrow now you have let success predominate.

I tell you sometimes about the things I have done, not to brag which God forbid, but to show you that, handicapped as I was, sickly from birth, I would not let failure get me down. And although I do not dare to put myself in a class with them, Milton the poet was blind, yet he wrote Paradise Lost and Paradise Regained. Lord Byron was lame, Beethoven was deaf, Napoleon was small and of humble origin, Nelson was blind in one eye, all of them could have let failure have its way with them but they chose success, and their names will live forever.

Supposing you are not clever like them, there must be something you want to feel successful in. In myself, just let someone intimate there is something I could not do, something I might fail in, and immediately my brain starts clicking and I start looking for ways in which I could do this thing.

Sometimes we need a spur like the scorn of another, or the urge of poverty, or the humiliation of being poorly dressed, or the ridicule of cruel friends, before we will cast the thought of failure far from us and put the determination to succeed in its place.

Failure is a nauseating thing. People never talk along to you nor up to you, but always down to you. You are below their level and they do not want much to do with you. Failure carries its own badge in shabby clothes and shoes, in a look of defeat, in a feeling of humiliation.

And success carries its own badge too, in brighter eyes, and a readiness to work, in a hopeful look, and a determined idea of where you are heading. So, in whatever way you wish to be successful, think of it breathe it, work for it. Some achieve it in large ways, and some in the small things. But whichever it is, get started now, today, and see what a difference your life will have.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

DIAL TIME IN 1851

ERINDALE, Ont.—(CP).—Clocks and watches, if any, were scarce here in 1851, old records of St. Peter's Church noting in that year, "The time of service will be changed from 12 to 11 o'clock, the time to be governed by Mr. McGrath's dial."

Wife Preservers

A mother uses a paste of starch and water to clean all the fuzzy toys like dogs, teddy bears, cats, etc. Use just enough water to dissolve the starch, she says, and rub paste well into the toy. Let paste dry and then brush off. The dirt comes off with it.

River Spirit Guards Indian Travellers On Their Way To Mighty MacKenzie

Trappers Learn Curious Legend When Guides Fire Volley

By FRANK F. MOYLE

FORT SMITH, N.W.T., April 8.—Early in the spring of '32, two trapper-prospectors from the Yukon toiled across the last of the 90-mile plateau that divides the waters of the Pelly from the waters that flow east down the little-known Gravel river into the Mackenzie. They were bound for the rush into Great Bear lake. Spring was almost on them, and here, on the upper reaches of the Gravel, they must wait until the northering sun cleared the river for navigation. Somewhere in their vicinity were the "Gravel river" or skins necessary for their unique "Mountain" Indians, breaking up their winter camps and preparing for the big moose hunt which would furnish them with meat and the boats. With luck they would be able to join their small moose-hide canoe with the larger boats of the Indians.

A few days later they reached the Indian camp and were hospitably received. Only a few men in the tribe had a smattering of the trading post "French-English Slavey" that takes the place on the Mackenzie that the Chinook jargon holds in British Columbia. To one of these they unfolded their plans, seeking advice, asking about the river, the game, and how long before they could leave. Gravely the chief and a few of his "head men" listened and advised, speaking amongst themselves, then smoking in silence as the interpreter gave haltingly the information they sought.

"Yes, the river was very swift, very bad, nazoolie (no good) for small boat," "Worse than the Pelly?" was asked. "No—not so bad in places, but bad, very bad. In a few weeks now, after the hunt, they would be able to leave."

River "Very Bad"

The hunt over, they were still at a loss. No information was volunteered, so finally, in desperation, one of them asked about their boat. That night in the smoky teepee they sat puffing their pipes while the Indians discussed long and seriously. Finally, the evidently embarrassed interpreter turned to them. The river was very bad, in fact terrible. Doubtless a stranger would swamp in the very fast rapids.

Exasperated, they turned on him. "But you said it was no worse than the Pelly."

"Yes, but one very bad portage to make—if you should mistake it. . ?"

There was more discussion and finally the point was reached It semed they were short two paddlers for one of the boats, perhaps—well, would they care to go in that boat?

Greatly relieved, the two friends most decidedly would go in the "big boat; they would be most willing, in fact they were delighted.

As they walked through the late twilight they laughed over the "Pow-wow." "That old Fox! He had that figured out from the first," said one.

Have Three Boats

There were three of the unique "skin" boats which only these Indians make and use. The smallest is around 35 to 40 feet long, with a nine-foot beam, the largest almost 60 feet long with a 10 to 12-foot beam. The big boat could handle close to six tons, and it would have to, for the nine families comprised about 30 people, their equipment, and 60 to 70 dogs besides the two prospectors.

The day of the embarking dawned clear and bright, and the sun had scarcely cleared the eastern spruce tops before camp was broken Hour after hour the high forested hills whirled by. Here, even on the short stretches of river, the gradient was plainly discernible, while occasionally they could see for miles ahead, each "point" or bend of the river overlapping the other as it dropped swiftly towards the distant valley.

Late in the afternoon the chatter quietened and at last, far away, came the muffled beat of swift water. "The big bad place!" they were informed. A few miles ahead a limestone cliff ran down to the river's edge, through a narrow gap the water plunged swift and crooked, but unbroken. It was indeed a "bad place," but there was nothing about it to surprise a man unfamiliar with the river.

Fire Gun Salute

As the bend drew nearer, the Indians began bustling about. The men pulled forth their 30-30's and loaded each with two cartridges. The women dived into various bags and brought out a few matches and a pinch of tea. As the rock wall loomed nearer, a curiously shaped cavern appeared, round like a bowl, smooth and dark; from the lower lip spilled a trickle of rusty blood-colored water, and as they floated nearer, a hush fell over the canoes.

Suddenly the chief rose solemnly, chanted a few words with mysterious gestures and picked up his rifle. Each man followed suit, surprising their guests with a crashing volley at the yawning cavern. Chips of limestone flew from the scarred edges. The women lit their matches and flung them and the tea with a weird cry into the river, then all seized their paddles and paddled like mad for the landing.

As the big "canoes" turned from the bend and reached the landing, both men noticed that although the sweep of water over the ledge was very swift, it was practically unbroken and certainly not very dangerous looking.

Finally one's curiosity got the better of him and he turned to the interpreter.

"Why is it you don't run that place?" he asked.

The Indian seemed to be expecting just that question, and after a brief delay began the story.

To Water Spirit

Once, long ago, there had been a disaster at the chutes. Two whole families, men, women, dogs and children had been swallowed by the River Demon. For a long time no man dared pass the hole in the wall. All who did were lost—gobbled up—until finally a young, very brave chief went to confer with the god of the river.

He was a bit of a diplomat, this chief, as well as an exceedingly brave man, and despite everyone's certainties to the contrary, he returned alive, unharmed and with an "agreement." Henceforth, every canoe, as it went by, must add its quota of offering to the river spirit. Every brave must shoot from the quiver at his side two good hunting arrows, and each woman and child must give from the family firepot a live coal. Then, on no account must they run their canoes through the chutes, for the hump was the sleeping demon's back, and a bump from the canoe would make him most wrathy.

Kept the Pledge

The years went by and each season added its tribute of eagle feathered shafts in the limestone cavern. Today, the bow follows them no longer, but regularly the 30-30's volley their report as they go by. And even to this day, the river demon has kept his promise—not a canoe has been harmed, not a papoose nor a husky pup has been gobbled up by the spirit. The peace has ben kept.

With the dawn they resumed the swift descent. Hour after hour the water plunged on steadily, with few bends or pools. Then, in the afternoon, a change occurred. The narrow walled valley fell away; the river ceased its mad plunging and ran smooth and crookedly. Suddenly rounding a bend, they caught a vision of a mighty river, wide, swift, swirling with eddies as it swept by to the north. They had reached the Mackenzie.

One of the white men looked at his watch, noting the time. For a while he figured in silence as his companion, awestricken, took in the magnitude of the scene ahead of them—river, sky and mountains. Then he turned to his friend: "Whew! Some trip! As near as I can figure out, we came 350 miles in 37½ hours and we dropped close to 4,000 feet without hardly working a paddle! Not many rivers can do that and behave as this one did!"

"Yeah!—you're right," his companion answered. "I'm plumb glad these fellows 'fixed' that river spirit, that—and knew how to handle a boat!"

A "skin boat" of the Gravel River Indians pulled up on the bleak shore of the great Macenzie.

MISS D. PLANT IS HOSTESS TO W.A.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, April 11. — The monthly meeting of St. George's Woman's Auxiliary was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss D. Plant. The rector, Rev. William Stocks, opened the meeting with Scripture reading and the Litany.

Mrs. William Stocks will attend the annual Diocesan meeting as a delegate. Three dollars was given as a life member's offering to the Dr. Haslam Fund.

A member displayed a beutiful hand-embroidered complete set of church linen she was donating as her Lenten offering for the Empty Stall.

The W.A. will sponsor a congregational Easter social to be held in the basement of the churc hon Easter Monday. Rev. William Stocks will be responsible for the planning of a program. Following the business, the rector gave an interesting talk on the second chapter of the study book, "First Impressions of a Pagan." The hostess then served refreshments.

OBITUARY

MRS. ANNIE KELLY.

BANCROFT, April 11.—The death occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bridget Gardner near L'Amable of an old and respected pioneer in the person of Mrs. Annie Kelly at the age of ninety-eight years. Her maiden name was Annie Dolan.

She came from her home at Belleville when a bride of eighteen years and settled on a farm near L'Amable, and was one of the first white women to come this far north on the old Hastings Road, then little more than a trail.

She has resided in the vicinity ever since excepting the few years she lived with her son near Maynooth.

She was blind for a great many years before her death. Her husband, Patrick Kelly, predeceased her many years ago.

She leaves to mourn her loss a family of three daughters and four sons, namely: Mrs. Alice Drumm of Peterborough, Mrs. Mary Kennedy of Rochester, N.Y., Mrs. Bridget Gardener of L'Amable, Robert of Green View, Michael of Coe Hill, John of Western Canada and Patrick of L'Amable.

The funeral service was held in Our Lady of Mercy R.C. church at Bancroft on Wednesday morning, April 6, with Rev. L. J. Kennedy celebarting the requiem mass.

The large gathering of friends and acquaintances bore mute testimony of the esteem in which she was held.

The pall-bearers were Edward Drumm of Peterborough, Robert Kelly and Peter Malloy of Coe Hill, William Kelly, Patrick Kelly and Philip Green of L'Amable.

Relatives were present from Rochester, N.Y., Peterborough, Coe Hill, Ormsby, Maynooth and Bird's Creek.

Personals.

Miss Elizabeth O'Brien of Kingston, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Brien.

Miss Leona Card of Porterville, is visiting Miss Marion Munroe.

Messrs. Fergus and Martin Kelly of Chesterville and Finch are visiting friends in Bancroft and vicinity.

Angelo Tomasini underwent an operation for appendicitis in the Red Cross Hospital on Wednesday.

William Cairns took ill where he was working near Highland Grove and was taken to the Red Cross Outpost at Wilberforce, where an operation was found to be necessary. He was placed on a railway gas car and accompaniped by a nurse. Mr. Munro, section foreman form Wilberforce, undertook to bring him to the hospital at Bancroft, but he passed away before reaching the hospital.

He was twenty-eight years old. The only known relative in Canada is one brother, who could not be located. The funeral took place in Mount Pleasant cemetery on Saturday.

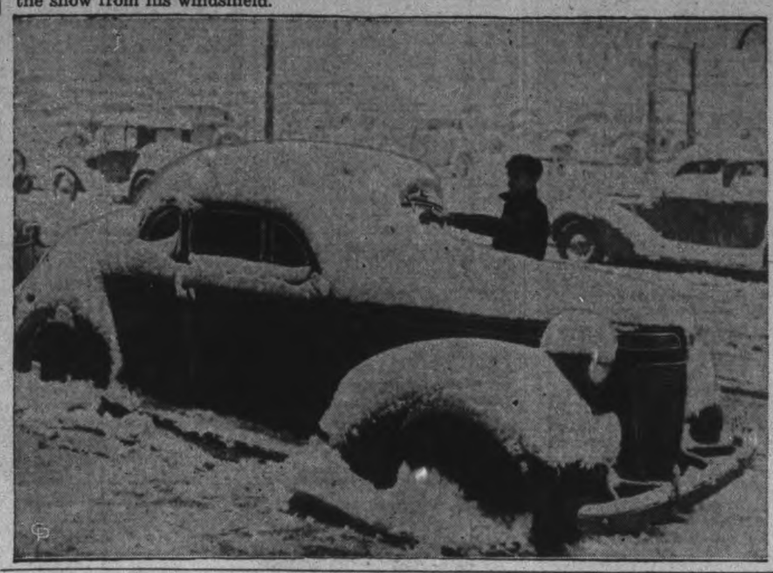
ROYAL HOUSE PARTY

WINDSOR, England, April 11. — (AP).—The King and Queen are giving a small house party at Windsor Castle this week-end. Among the guests are the new United States Ambassador, Joseph P. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy.

April Snow-Storm

Western Canada was not the only part of the continent to feel the wrath of winter this April. Swirling out of the southwest an April snowstorm blanketed Cleveland, Chicago and other American cities with a heavy mantle of wet snow. Some sections reported as much as five inchesof snow. All aeroplane schedules were suspended and highway and rail traffic was disrupted. This scene, taken in Cleveland, shows a motorist cleaning the snow ffom his windshield.



Roosevelt Faces Rebellion Within His Own Party

Democrats Hit President's Prestige Hard By Killing Reorganization Bill For This Session

WASHINGTON, April 11—(AP)—Rejection of the United States government reorganization bill thrust forcibly upon the White House today a threat of party rebellion against "key" proposals of President Roosevelt in his second term.

To most observers it was an astonishing defeat for the administration from an overwhelmingly Democratic House of Representatives which foes of Mr. Roosevelt have called a "rubber stamp" for him.

The reorganization bill was killed for this session by a revolt of Democrats who ignored pleas of party leaders not to proclaim to the nation a "lack of confidence" in President Roosevelt.

The surprising administration setback left Democratic chieftains stunned and silent. They had made major concessions with the consent of the president—concessions they believed would assure its passage.

Then a 204-to-196 vote last night returned it to the reorganization committee.

On the vote, 108 Democrats joined 88 Republicans six Progressives and two Farmer Laborites to defeat the measure.

Some observers drew the conclusion that the president's insistence on "reform" legislation as distinguished from his recovery program, definitely was thwarted at least until after another reckoning at the polls.

The blow to White House prestige, challenged indifferently during the first four Roosevelt years, was comparable only to the Senate's defeat last year of the Supreme Court bill.

COURT DISMISSES MATTHEWS ACTION

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 11.—The case of Robert S. Matthews against J. C. Thaine was dismissed in Division Court by his hononr Judge L. V. O'Connor on Thursday afternoon. The action which attracted wide local interest and filled the court room to capacity arose from a claim made by Matthews, the plaintiff that a bull owned by the defendant had broken through a nine wire fence into a field of pure bred guernsey and holstein heifers. Evidence submitted by defense counsel Chas. Payne K.C., indicated the fence viewers had found that part of the fence which was supposed to be kept in repair by Matthews was in poor condition and although it was shown by the plaintiff that both heifers suffered subnormal growth and had depreciated in value, his claim for $120.00 was dismissed, with the admonition by His Honor that the two neighboring farmers should have settled the dispute amicably and not come into Court.

Y.W.A. IN NORWOOD HOLDS APRIL MEET

NORWOOD, April 11.—Miss Evelyn Godin was hostess on Thursday evening to the members of the Young Women's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church for the April meeting.

In the absence of the president, Miss Ruth Wildman, the vice-president, Miss Evelyn Godin, took charge of the meeting. The Scripture lesson was taken by Mrs. J. Ray with Mrs. P. W. Elliott taking the circle of prayer. The topic from the Study Book on Burma was ably given by Mrs. A. Waddell.

The business session was conducted with Mrs. J. Rogers in charge.

Miss Godin assisted by Mrs. Rogers served a delicious lunch and a social half hour was spent.

NO BEER GOOD FRIDAY

TORONTO, April 11 (CP).—Beverage rooms in Ontario hotels will be closed on Good Friday, one of the two holidays in which taverns did not do business, the Ontario Liquor Control Board announced to-day. The other day is Christmas.

Liquor stores, wine stores, and beer warehouses also will be closed on Good Friday.

Had Many Boils On His Neck and Body

While the skin seems to be the cause of the irritating and painful boils the real trouble is rooted in the blood, and when you think you are rid of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your agony.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do does not, as a rule, get rid of them. What is most essential is to give the blood a thorough cleansing.

When the blood is purified, cleansed and vitalized by Burdock Blood Bitters the boils disappear, your misery is at an end, your health and strength renewed, and the skin clean and smooth.

MR. ALFRED A. FERRIER, Falkenburg, Ont., writes:—"Several years ago I suffered greatly from numerous boils on my neck and body, and had three blind ones on my knee.

Our druggist advised me to take Burdock Blood Bitters, so I took two bottles, and in a short time I was completely rid of the boils."

TRENT RIVER

The Ladies' Aid met Wednesday afternoon at the church with Mrs. Thomas J. Brown in charge. Mrs. H. B. Wood supplied as pianist. The parsonage committee discussed plans. Group four are holding a crokinole party Wednesday night, April 20th at the home of Mrs. Joseph Tedford.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Wood and Miss Irene spent the week-end at Toronto.

Mrs. M. T. Lean, Mrs. Thomas J. Brown, Mrs. H. Mann were Thursday visitors in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. McColl of Wooler were Monday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. George Van Volkenburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nesbitt of Campbellford were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Van Volkenburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tedford of Norwood, Mr. and Mrs. Emery Dubay of Peterborough were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tedford.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith of Baltimore were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Lean and family.

Mr. Victor Hendren and son of Cattesloe were Friday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hendren.

A miscellaneous shower was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Howard Baptie, formerly Jean George of Roseneath, Friday night at their new home on the O'Keefe farm, Hastings road. The newlyweds were the recipients of many lovely and useful gifts. A most enjoyable time was spent. A dainty lunch was served.

Mrs. James Cook has a cactus with over 60 blooms. This plant bloomed at Christmas when it had 160 flowers.

119 French Factories Tied By Strikes With 140,000 Out

Premier Orders Ministers to Settle Contracts And Pay Increases to Meet Higher Living Costs

PARIS, April 12.—(A. P.). — Strike of French Metal workers spread today to 19 more factories while the Cabinet of Premier Edouard Daladier was seeking a means of ending the unrest.

The additional strikers numbered 6,500, bringing the total on strike to more than 140,000 and the number of plants occupied some of which flew a red flag, to 119.

The cabinet, meanwhile, approved the petition of the Premier for decree powers to be presented to the Chamber of Deputies later today. A ministerial declaration to be read to the Chamber also was approved.

Premier Daladier placed arbitration of the growing Paris Metal Workers' strikes in the hands of Pierre Jacomet, administrator of the National Defence Ministry.

Working with Paul Ramadier, Minister of Labor, and Albert Sarraut, Minister of the Interior, Jacomet was instructed to settle demands for collective contracts and pay increases to meet rising living costs of the strikers.

Employers termed the strikes "political." Some employers charged the strikes were "provoked," without regular sanction by the employees themselves.

The factories involved are occupied by the workers with red flags flying from many of the buildings and with police and mobile guardsmen on the alert in industrial districts to preserve order.

WOMAN TAXI HEAD BEGINS OPERATING WITH POLICE HELP

TORONTO, April 12—(CP)—Miss Charlotte North, owner of the Star Taxi Company, said today her company would start operations during the day "under police protection" because of the strike of taxi drivers in Toronto.

"The public only knows one side of the story," said Miss North. "They are talking about the poor abused taxi drivers without really knowing what it is all about."

She said several years ago she put her men on salary from $15 to $19 a week to give them a feeling of security. "But it wouldn't work out. As soon as they got on salary they didn't care whether they worked or not. They loafed so much our business fell away off and we had to put them back on commission."

A delegation of taxi drivers will confer today with the Toronto police commission asking an investigation of the taxi business here.

Taxi drivers went on strike last Thursday demanding a $17 minimum or $12.50 plus 10 per cent of fares for a 60-hour week.

Officer Arrested For Shooting Boy

FALL RIVER, Mass., April 12 (A. P.). — Patrolman Frank M. Perry, 41, one of a group of officers summoned to a Second Street store last night by a report of prowlers, today was charged with manslaughter in the shooting of 13-year-old William Comiskey.

Captain of Police Inspectors William O'Brien said Perry, a 10-year-man on the force, admitted firing two shots as young Comiskey and five companions fled over back fences. One of the bullets pierced the boy's back and came out through his breast.

Police questioned Comiskey's companions and announced they were satisfied the boys were merely playing on the roof-tops and had no intention of doing any harm.

3 Children Die Trapped In Fire

PRUD'HOMME, Sask., April 12 (C. P.). — Trapped in a flaming two-storey farm house, three children of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Grise were burned to death here to-day.

Three other children were rescued by their mother. Four others were attending Mass at the time.

Mr. Grise is seeking work at St. Hyacinthe, Que.

The dead: Dolores 8, Rolande 7, and a baby, aged five months. Mrs. Grise saved Renee 9, Bertland 5, and Armand 3.

An explosion occurred when Mrs. Grise used coal oil to light the kitchen fire.

Legal Tribute

The entire legal profession of this city and district was present to pay last respects to R. R. Hall, lawyer here for half a century, who was buried at Little Lake Cemetery on Monday afternoon. The casket is seen at TOP being borne to the grave. BOTTOM shows some of the large numbers of bench and bar, business and professional people who attended the funeral.

APPEAL CLEARS JOHN A. COMBA IN MURDER CASE

Mr. Justice Latchford Is Alone in Opposition

TORONTO, April 12 (CP).—The Ontario Appeal Court today quashed a conviction of murder against John A. Comba, found guilty of the killing of Ethel Hedderwick at Renfrew, Ont., August 3, 1937. Chief Justice F. R. Latchford dissented in a minority judgment.

Unless the crown takes the case to a higher court of appeal, the 26-year-old Comba will be freed. He was arrested August 25 and convicted by a trial jury at Pembroke November 25.

Four of the five judges who heard the appeal agreed the conviction should be quashed. They were Messrs. Justice W. E. Middleton, C. A. Masten, R. G. Fisher and W. T. Henderson. It was announced the judgment of Chief Justice Latchford would be delivered at a later date.

Ethel Hedderwick, 13, was assaulted and beaten to death near the town limits of Renfrew. Comba, member of a search party organized when the girl was reported missing from home, found her body in a cow pasture. He was not arrested until three weeks later.

The Pembroke trial under Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier, was the longest in the history of Renfrew County. It lasted eight days, and the jury deliberated nearly five hours before finding Comba guilty. He was sentenced to be hanged February 10.

The appeal was heard here January 13 and 14, and the presiding justices indicated they favored at least granting Comba a new trial.

In the written judgments delivered today, the four concurring judges expressed the opinion the Pembroke verdict was not supported by the evidence.

EVIDENCE CLOSES IN SPENCER CASE

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., April 12.—(C. P.).—Evidence was completed today in the trial of Vernon Spencer, 40-year-old former professional baseball player, charged with the murder of Helen Grier, Pontiac, Mich., stenographer. Spencer did not take the stand to testify in his own defence. Miss Grier was found dead in a hunting cabin 38 miles north of here last October, a bullet wound through the head.

Addresses to the jury followed conclusion of evidence.

Only witness to day was Dr. I. H. Erb, assistant professor of surgery, University of Toronto, where trial resumed today.

Crown Attorney J. L. O'Flynn in cross-examination asked Dr. Erb whether the wound at the back of Miss Grier's head was, in his opinion, caused before or after death. Dr. Erb said before death.

"Then we can eliminate all the evidence of the first few days, that the coroner might have caused the injury in having the body moved, that it fell from the stretcher or that it was damaged by the undertaker?" asked Mr. O'Flynn.

"Absolutely," replied Dr. Erb.

Much of the early cross-examination dealt with the path of the bullet which killed Miss Grier.

When the defence announced Dr. Erb was the last defence witness, the crown announced no evidence in rebuttal would be called.

J. A. MacInnis, defence counsel, started his address to the jury and will be followed by Crown Attorney O'Flynn.

The case will go to the jury after Mr. Justice C. P. McTague, trial judge, charges the jury.

Chamberlain Balks At Details Of Italian Pact

Agreement With Il Duce To Be Signed by Saturday; Secretary of War to Pay Courtesy Call at Rome

LONDON, April 12. —(C. P. Cable).—The New Anglo-Italian agreement, it is expected, will be signed by the end of the week. The pact will take the form both of an agreement and an exchange of letters between the two governments. The agreement will deal with Spain, with the general situation in the Mediterranean and the near East, and with recogntion of Ethiopia.

On Ethiopia, Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition in the House of Commons today sought information on a current rumor that Great Britain is preparing to make a deal with Italy to take over part of the old empire of the Negus.

"Is it a fact," Mr. Attlee asked Prime Minister Chamberlain 'that in the Anglo-Italian conversations a request has been made for the incorporation of some Abyssinian territories in adjacent British territories by way of friendly rectification or otherwise, and re-affirmation of British rights in relation to Lake Tana?"

Giving No Information.

"As I have more than once said," the Prime Minister replied, "I am not now in a position to give information with regard to the subjects under discussion."

The Labor leader pressed the question again.

"Is it not possible," he asked, "to give a specific denial to this allegation, which has been made in many quarters, that His Majesty's Government are prepared to make a profit out of the sufferings of Abyssinia?"

Mr. Chamberlain: "I am not aware of any such absurd rumor. It is not practice to discuss details of negotiations before they are concluded."

Thus, following custom, the Prime Minister declined to give detailed information on the Anglo-Italian talks before they are concluded. Unofficial information, however, is that while the documents likely will be signed at the week-end, the agreement will not come into operation till a date to be agreed upon.

Mr. Chamberlain from the beginning has taken the ground that an agreement is condition on settlement of the Spanish question. British observers interpret this as meaning that either Italian troops must be withdrawn following a victory by General Franco, or, if the insurgents fail to win quickly, then the agreement will be effective at a date in

1938 LAST SEASON TOURISTS TO SEE QUINTS AT PLAY

NEW YORK, April 12.—(CP)—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe told interviewers today the famed Dionne quintuplets will not be exhibited in their Callander, Ont., play-yard after this summer. He said some other means of showing them would have to be found.

Dr. Dafoe said their exhibition had done them no harm but the guardians were beginning to feel it might be harmful if it were prolonged unduly. He added he believed one more season under existing conditions would be harmless.

Here on a shopping expedition for the Quints after attending the Washington Press Gallery dinner last Saturday, the country doctor said also any offer from the New York 1939 World's Fair for exhibition of the children would be rejected.

"I don't know officially that any offer has been made," he said "but I have heard unofficially that some World's Fair people approached the guardians. The children won't be moved."

He said the guardians never would permit the children to be exhibited for money.

Need More Money.

At the same time the guardians wished to enlarge the Quints' personal fortune of roughly $500,000 to a point where interest from the sum, invested entirely in government bonds, will enable them to meet all expenses.

At present operating expenses of the children's hospital home vary between about $1,800 and $2,000 a month and are a little higher than interest on the bonds. In addition, the doctor said, the Quints will need new buildings soon and enlarged playgrounds.

He described the health of his charges as excellent, said they spoke French and understood some English. Hereafter their education, in pre-kindergarten stage, will be in the hands of the Ontario Department of Education.

Canada Nearing Exhaustion In Forest Limits Says U.S. Federal Expert

Spruce Supply Getting Farther From Mills Boosting Newsprint Price

WASHINGTON, April 12 (A.P.).—F. A. Silcox, Chief of the United States Federal Forest Service, has told a House of Representatives Appropriations Sub-Committee one factor entering into the higher price of newsprint is that the supply of Canadian spruce is getting farther and farther away from the mills.

In the Dominion, he asserted, "they are coming to the limit in the matter of exhausting their forest capital."

The situation in the Southern United States, Silcox said, called for a balance between growth and drain of forest resources. He said the $100,000,000 invested in Southern pulp and paper mills recently looks like "only a beginning."

"Considering the situation there," Silcox said, "it must be remembered that production of yellow pine for lumber, 95 per cent. of which is from the South, increased yearly 4,000,000,000 feet between 1932 and 1936. The per capita consumption of paper in the United States is increasing."

The drain might be intensified, he added, by the needs of meeting a national housing shortage and by world-wide pulpwood conditions.

Silcox said a hasty survey of world conditions indicates softwood pulpwood margins are confined to the South-eastern and North-western United States, Alaska, British Columbia, and Russia. The Soviet nation, he said, will use all the pulp she can produce during the next few decades.

An Idea To Be Sold

Referring to United States forests generally, Silcox suggested the annual "income"—the new growth—should balance the "outgo" — the lumber harvest. To do this, Silcox said, it would be necessary to "sell" the idea to private forest owners. The plan generally is practiced on federal lands.

"Our timber budget must be balanced, not alone on a basis of drain as reflected by current market conditions," he said, "but with due consideration for wood requirements of the future; for the many public services forests render in such matters as floods, erosion, wildlife, and recreation; and with consideration for world-wide needs and forests conditions."

Silcox said private ownership held the key to the forest situation, because nine-tenth of all potential forest growth was privately owned. He added that although more private forest lands now received better fire protection, and more lands were left in better growing condition, the problem of perpetuating the forest resources was far from solved.

FICTION FAVORED

MONTREAL, April 12—(CP). — Literary preference is for fiction in Manitoba and non-fiction in Saskatchewan, but the people in Alberta, Lady Tweedsmuir said yesterday, like "anything you send them —they seem to read anything."

Speaking to Montreal Hadassah, the wife of Canada's Governor-General expressed her thanks to members for their contributions to her prairie libraries scheme.

HOLDUP IN CLUB GETS FOUR SHOT

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP).—A patrolman and two robbers were critically wounded and a third robber was wounded slightly early today in a gun fight between police and holdup trio in the Club Howdy, Greenwich village, night club.

Twenty patrons, including several women, and 25 employees fled as the firing broke out after five policemen cornered the robbers, who entered the club shortly before it closed, and took approximately $400 from Assistant Manager Charles Baker. Before they could escape, an employee summoned police.

The three men barricaded themselves in the rest room, but meekly gave up their weapons when the police threatened to shoot through the door.

CANNONS TO BE JUNKED

BUFFALO, N.Y., April 12—(AP)—Historical Civil War cannons were headed for the junk yard to-day. The city sold five cannons and 200 cannon balls to the highest bidder, heifers sold at $4.50 to $5.50. Medium

LANCTOT TOO ILL TO STAND ARREST IN $100,000 THEFT

QUEBEC, April 12 (C.P.). — Servant of the Quebec Government nearly half a century, Charles Lanctot, was charged with theft of more than $100,000 of the province's money to-day, but police hesitated to arrest him as the aged lawyer lay dangerously ill in his grey-stone home overlooking Governor's Park.

It was learned authoritatively that when Provincial officers went to his home to arrest the frail septuagenarian yesterday relatives said Lanctot was too ill to submit to shock. In dangerous condition after a series of strokes, the former Assistant Attorney-General and close friend of former Premier Taschereau was not told of the warrant sworn out for his arrest or of Premier Duplessis' continued probe of Government activities under the Taschereau regime.

Indicates 3 Arrests.

Duplessis announced before the Legislature's investigating Public Accounts Committee that the warrant was one of three which would arise from the hearings. He did not say who else was implicated, but declared: "There will be one arrest to-day and two others during the week."

For 31 of the 45 years he was employed by the Government, Lanctot, now 73, was Assistant Attorney-General. Never a candidate for political office, he was seen by Quebec residents most frequently when he rode in the back seat of his 16-cylinder automobile.

Edgar Vezina, an auditor, testified before the committee in 1936 that over a period of five or six years Lanctot appropriated $300,000 from the fund for administration of justice. Secretary Alexander Montreuil of the Provincial Police said last year that departmental expense vouchers had been used to conceal expenditures of money for the Lanctot family.

Jack Coogan Almost In Rags Sues Mother For $4,000,000.

Charges Parent Claiming All His Earnings Up Till He Became Of Age

LOS ANGELES, April 12 (AP).—Jackie Coogan, 'The Kid' who transformed rags into millions, is almost in rags again, he declared in a $4,000,000 suit against his mother and stepfather today.

Coogan, 23, and recently married to Actress Betty Grable, filed his suit yesterday, charging his mother and her second husband, Arthur Bernstein, withheld his earnings as a child film star. He quoted his mother as having told him:

"You haven't got a cent. There never has been a cent belonging to you. It's all mine and Arthur's, and so far as we are concerned you never will get a cent."

Charles J. Katz, counsel for Bernstein, characterized Coogan's charges as absurd.

"The young man has received everything he is entitled to. And more," he said. "His mother was entitled to all his earnings up to the time he became of age."

Katz also said Coogan's estimate of his screen earnings was much too high.

Fights To Be Fired In Proper Way

Montreal, April 12.

RAOUL DESJARDINS and the Verdus Roman Catholic Commisson are tangled again in a legal tussle. The score now is 1-0 in favor of Teacher Desjardins.

Last fall Desjardins was awarded a year's salary Superior Court upholding his claim he had not received proper notice of dismissal. That was for the 1936-37 school year.

The new suit contends Desjardins is entitled to his salary for the current year, $1,200, less $324, he earned teaching elsewhere, because he still is without the proper dismissal notice.

COUPLE LET OFF

QUEBEC, April 12 (CP)—George St. Laurent and his wife pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge L. Roy to charges of extorting $5,000 from Paul Taschereau, prominent Quebec attorney. They were given suspended sentence after posting bonds of $1,000 each to keep the peace.

Arrest of the couple followed Taschereau's complaint that he had been forced to hand over $1,000 cash and a cheque for $4,000 after St. Laurent found his wife with another man in a hotel room.

New Yorkers Ogle 94 Nudes In Park, But It's Just A Sculpture Show

New York, April 12

STARK nude in the bright spring sunshine, a tall bronze-skinned girl gazed demurely at passing throngs on Park Avenue in midtown New York today.

Blaze New Yorkers ogled, but the lady didn't blink, or even lower her eyes.

The lady is not alone. Ninety-three nude companions cavort in the background, on a vacant lot facing Park Avenue—marking New York's first outdoor exhibit of American sculpture.

The "nudists," are all plaster, or marble, or bronze. The tallest, easily visible over the fence of passersby on the side walk, is the demure eyed lady.

She is "Shulamite," named for the biblical character who inspired Solomon's beautiful "Song of Songs," and stands seven feet tall above a high pedestal. She was sculptured by Louis Slobodkin.

Nearby, a couple of frisky plaster colts gambol under spring-budding white birch trees, a-lolling on the grass in the warm sun are the figures of a boy and girl registering "bashfulness."

Away 3 Occasions Trustee Ousted

NAPANEE, Ont., April 12—(CP). —Having absented himself from three consecutive meetings without leave, the seat of J. W. Robinson, an elected trustee in the west ward, was last night declared vacant. The Board of Education elected J. M. Simpson, K.C., to fill the vacancy for the unexpired term.

C. B. Creighton was appointed to Mr. Robinson's seat on the Vocational School Board.

A motion by Trustees Creighton and Napolis, that all positions on Napanee Public School staff be declared vacant June 30 was defeated 6 to 2. Trustee Creighton protested against teachers inflicting corporal punishment for the misspelling of a word, and cited a case that had been referred to him concerning a girl. Charges of intimidating the pupils was also aimed at members of the staff by the trustee.

Boast No Officers Held By Chinese—Expect Captured Privates To Hari-Kari

SHANGHAI, April 12.—(A. P.). — A Japanese army spokesman declared today the Chinese hold not a single Japanese officer prisoner after more than nine months of warfare and predicted none would be taken alive.

All officers, he declared, are sworn to follow the Samurai code which demands suicide by hari kiri (disembowelling) or other means when capture appears inescapable.

On the battlefield Japanese officers die in action, but if wounded and unable to carry on, they shoot themselves to commit hari kiri," he said.

That ancient code of the Japanese warrior, the speaker said, is being followed by the hard-pressed Japanese forces on the Shantung province fronts where fighting rages bitterly along the Tientsin-Pukow railway and the ancient Grand Canal.

Chinese have declared 700 Japanese were captured in recent fighting in the Taierhchwang area southeast of Yihsien. These are said now to be on their way to Hankow. It is not known whether any officers are among them.

Fishkill, N.Y., April 12.

"SATISFIED LOVE" and "Faithful Servant," followers of Father Divine, New York negro cult leader, finally reached "Heaven" to-day, but at reduced speed. The two negroes were en route in a truck from Father Divine's "Promised Land" in Ulster County, to his "Heaven" in New York City's Harlem. A State Trooper arrested the pair for speeding They pleaded guilty and proceeded toward "Heaven," when a group of Divine angels arrived with $20 to pay a fine.

Honeymoon Span Begin To Sink

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., April 12 (A.P.). — Wreckage of the famed "Honeymoon Bridge" began to sink into the Niagara River to-day as the Gorge ice jam crumbled under pressure of strong winds and fast flowing water.

The American half of the bridge was submerged this morning, and about 200 feet of the Canadian half remained on the ice.

Tracey Levee, New York State Reservation Police superintendent, predicted this portion "will sink within 12 hours."

York School-Girl Trio Set Precedent In Arrest As Purse Snatchers

Toronto, April 12.

YORK Township Police have arrested three juvenile girls, who attend public school in the Township, on six charges of theft and one of purse snatching. They will appear in juvenile court Thursday.

The girls were taken into custody yesterday fater identification of one by Mary Gleason, 10, who told police she had her purse snatched Saturday. Police said they believed it to be the first case in the Province of a girl being charged with purse snatching.

Two of the girls face six charges each of theft of purses from homes, while the third faces one charge of theft, the outcome of the reported purse-snatching.

Two of the girls are 14 and the other 15.

The alleged thefts were committed during the past two months police claim. The single charge against the one girl, police state, followed her alleged identification by Mary Gleason.

Government Troops Attack, Retake Many Key Points

Desperate Hand-to-Hand Fighting Is Reported In Narrow Ebro River Valley, With Heavy Losses

HENDAYE, France, April 12.—(A. P.). —Government counter-attacks were reported today to have broken the solid front of the Spanish Insurgent drive through Catalonia to reach the Mediterranean.

A Barcelona Government communique said militiamen, who had held up the Insurgent offensive for a week, had taken the initiative and recaptured the village of Vallibona.

The village is 25 miles inland from Vinaroz, one of the important coastal objectives of the insurgent drive, on the southeast edge of Catalonia.

The communique also reported the conquest of "many heights in the sector where the enemy had concentrated their most powerful forces." The fighting up the narrow river valley was described as of "extraordinary violence."

The regiments of Insurgent General Garcia Valino reported the capture of the village of Beceite in the Beceite Pass between the Montenegrelo and Razas Mountain ranges which guard Tortosa to the south of the Ebro river.

They also took nearby Hill 772 for the fourth time in two days of almost ceaseless combat. They have been pushed off the crest of the hill three times by a crack force of 5,000 men of the Government Lister Brigade.

Insurgent reports said 1,000 Government militiamen were killed in the fighting about Beceite, including many English, French and Poles. Government troops launched counter-attacks to recapture the positions, midway between Tortosa and Valderrobres.

WONDER TOMATO MEANS MILLIONS

TORONTO, April 12.—(C. P). — John Janicky, 52-year-old suburban York Township Ukrainian market gardener, claims he perfected a new-type tomato known as the "Jan Rus" which the Toronto Globe and Mail says in a newspaper story today will capture the British market this year.

The tomato was developed in collaboration with Robert Dumball, a supervisor of York Township unemployed garden plots when Janicky began his experiments in a tiny backyard greenhouse in 1930. The Jan Rus—named after both men — are said to retain their shape and color after canning and can be shipped fresh to almost any part of the world.

I. F. Burrows, secretary of the Dominion Horticultural Society, said last week 500,000 cases of Jan Rus were expected to be shipped to the United Kingdom this year. Ontario growers will receive more than $1,000,000, it was estimated.

JAPS RUSH TROOPS TO HOLD SHANTUNG

SHANGHAI, April 12 — (AP) — Fighting progressed on a wide-spread sector about Yihsien along the Tientsin-Puko railway today, but Chinese and Japanese still prepared for what they expect to be a decisive engagement.

This major battle, it appeared, will be fought in southern Shantung province, midway between the Tsinan-Tsingtao railway and the Lunghai, China's east-west main line.

The vanguard of Japanese reinforcements sent from Tsingtao already have met Chinese in a series of spirited engagements about 40 miles north of Taierhchwang, where Chinese have claimed victory.

While fresh Japanese troops sped from the north, the seriousness of the situation was emphasized by departure of nearly a division of Japanese forces from Shanghai by sea, presumably for Tsingtao.

Chinese planes yesterday bombed the Japanese airdrome outside Hangchow and it was claimed several grounded planes were destroyed.

LABOR PROPOSES PROBING CANADA'S LIVING CONDITIONS

LONDON, Ont., April 12 (CP)— The eighth annual convention of the all-Canadian Congress of Labor, the report of the executive board and other preliminaries out of the way, gets down to business today. An even 50 resolutions, touching on important labor and national issues, come up for discussion.

Nearly 150 delegates, representing five national labor councils and 25 national unions, yesterday heard the executive report which proposed a survey to ascertain the standard of living Canada's economic wealth would justify. The report also expressed opposition to amalgamation of Canada's two great railway systems.

A. R. Mosher of Ottawa, congress president, told the annual convention banquet last night the congress "is not attacking the government." It is "attacking the system and the apathy of the government," he said, adding: "The time has come for more progressive action to remove those things that stand in the way of a more abundant life for all."

A report delivered at the convention's business session declared: "If the workers find they cannot induce any existing party to bring about such changes in the economic situation as will meet the needs of the people, they will undoubtedly be forced to establish a labor party on the basis of their economic organization."

May Need Political Action

"We are urging workers and citizens to make a study of our problems." Mr. Mosher told the banquet in speaking of the report. "The time may come and may come quickly when we shall have to take political action. But nothing we have said or done is in any way urging our members to political action."

WHITBY SPEAKER AT QUINTE W.M.S.

The Bay of Quinte Conference Branch of the Women's Missionary Society held their spring meeting in Sydenham Street Church, Kingston, April 5 and 6, with almost a full attendance.

Mrs. R. O. Jolliffe, president of the Conference Branch, presided, and each secretary presented splendid report.

Mrs. A. I. Brown conducted an impressive memorial service for Mrs. B. L. Barns (beloved recording secretary, who passed into higher service in November) and a bouquet of roses was placed in her memory.

During the sessions Mrs. J. J. Way, Wooler was elected recording secretary.

Mrs. H. T. Thompson, Whitby, Dominion Board secretary, was guest speaker and brought a splendid address on leadership. Mrs. W. L. Smyth took charge of the dedication service, urging the women to try to love others and understand their problems. Mrs. J. E. Mabee had for sale a splendid display of literature.

One of the pleasant events was a scenic drive to the new home of the president, where all were served afternoon tea. An invitation to convene in Cambridge Street, Lindsay, in 1939 was accepted.

Mrs. R. O. Jolliffe, who was elected for the second term as president, brought a timely Easter message and said there need be no financial problems if we lived Christ from day to day. She urged each individual to shed the spirit of the Master as she goes about daily and so help to better the world.

Dartford Society Presents Its Play

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, April 12. — The Dartford Young People's Society staged a fine play, "Sadie gets elected", in the town hall here Friday evening. Owing to inclement weather the audience was not as large as was expected.

Each player enacted their role very capably. The hearty applause which they received showed how much the play was enjoyed. Those taking part were Misses Gladys Campbell, Helen McMullen and Lillian Nelson and Messrs Raymond Richardson, George Nelson, Everett Skinkle, Trevor Atkinson and James Bailey.

HIS 34TH CHARGE

MONTREAL, April 12 (CP). — A record of 33 previous charges and an attempted to obtain $2 by selling a bottle of water as whisky brought a time in jail sentence yesterday to James Alexander, a native of Woodstock, Ont. Police told Judge C. E. Guerin Alexander, charged with fraud, had offered the 'whisky' to an unidentified person for $2. Alexander first was convicted in 1920 in the United States.

GIVES 2 MEN LIFT, IS BEATEN, ROBBED TOSSED FROM CAR

WINDSOR, Ont., April 12 (CP)— Playing "good samaritan" to two men who asked him for a lift into Windsor, 50-year-old W. H. Gray of La Salle, seven miles west of here, suffered a dislocated shoulder, head lacerations and bruises last night when the thugs slugged him over the head and threw him from the car.

Robbery and car theft was believed the motive, but Gray's assailants were driven off through arrival of another car as they stood over the unconscious man on the roadway.

Gray said he had been at a hotel on the western outskirts of the city, and was about to drive away when the two men asked him for a ride into the city. After riding a few blocks, they attacked him. He was unable to say if he had been robbed, although less than $2 remained in his pocket of the $7 he had earlier.

Frightened by the approach of a car driven by Edmund and Alphonse Bessette, Windsor, one of the attackers leaped into Gray's car, but when the motor failed to start, both fled through vacant lots.

U.S. SAID WANTING NEW SEAWAY PACT

NEW YORK, April 12 (C.P.). — A Washington despatch to the New York Herald-Tribune to-day says it was learned in official quarters that an exposition of the four-point program of the United States Government for integrated development of Niagara River and the St. Lawrence Waterways may be given out in Washington in the next few days or presented to the Canadian Government.

The despatch added:

This program, which is what the State Department would like to incorporate in a new St. Lawrence Treaty with Canada, contemplates the following:

Development of additional power at Niagara, with the benefits to go to each country. (Canada and the United States.)

Construction measures for the preservation and beautification of Niagara Falls, stemming the erosion which has taken place.

Future damming and development of power at the International Rapids on the St. Lawrence River.

Construction of navigation facilities for the Great Lakes-to-the-ocean waterway, as projected in the original St. Lawrence Treaty which failed of Senate ratification.

$1,800 Uncollected In Percy Taxes

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, April 12. — The Municipal Council of the Township of Percy met in the Town Hall here last week. The Reeve, R. R. Mallory, took charge. Other members present were Alfred Merrill, Deputy Reeve; Thomas McMillen and William Partridge, councillors.

Communications were read as follows: Department of Welfare, Ontario Bridge Co., Ltd., Department of Highways, St. Vincent's Hospital, Ottawa; Miss Cryderman, E. L. MacNachtan.

The amount of the accounts passed for the police village was $74.87, and for the township $1,744.83.

The tax collector's roll as returned by Robert W. Kelly, collector, was accepted. Abatements amounted to $30.36. Amount of outstanding taxes is about $1,800.

By-laws as introduced by Deputy-Reeve Alfred Merrill were duly read, signed and sealed, after which the council adjourned, to meet on Tuesday, May 3rd, at 10 a.m.

NORTH SCHOOL

Miss Annie Buchanan spent a few days last week with friends in Toronto.

Messrs. Stanley and Raye Miles moved their sawmill from Barrie's farm to Stoney Lake.

A Courtesy Call.

LONDON, April 12. — (AP).— Prime Minister Chamberlain is planning to send one of his ministers to call on Premier Mussolini to seal Great Britain's reconciliation with Italy, informed sources told the Associated Press to-day.

Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary for war, it was said, will stop in Rome on his return from an inspection trip to Malta and "quite likely will pay a courtesy call on Signor Mussolini."

The War Secretary, travelling by air, is due in Malta Saturday and to return to London April 26. He will thus call in Rome about a week after the expected signature of the Anglo-Italian agreement Saturday.

Informed sources insist there is no political significance attached to the visit, but observers note that, if the call is made, it will be the first by any British Cabinet member since Anthony Eden went to the Palazzo Venezia to discuss the Ethiopian question and other problems with the Duce June 24, 1935.

They felt Mr. Hore-Belisha's visit would have been impossible if the embittered atmosphere of the last 2½ years had not been dispelled.

MORE ABOUT— JAPS DEMAND

The Japanese spokesman was asked about 15 Japanese aviators known to be prisoners at Hankow. He said they were enlisted men, not sworn to the Samurai code. Asked what will happen to them when peace comes he replied:

"Enlisted men captured probably will kill themselves when released or be court-martialled."

He said he knew of no case in the present war of a Japanese officer committing ceremonial hara kiri after capture.

During the Chinese-Japanese conflict at Shanghai in 1932 Major Koga, captured while unconscious and later exchanged, returned to the spot of his capture and shot himself, thereby winning the approbation of the whole Japanese army and becoming a national hero.

(The Japanese army code of suicide rather than capture is comparatively recent. Hundreds of soldiers were captured by the Russians in the war of 1904-5 and returned home after its close without suffering any stigma).

OBITUARY

WILLIAM HENRY IRWIN

William Henry Irwin, 86, died at his home, Apt. 8, Lundy Block, George Street, on Tuesday morning, following a long illness. He had lived in Peterborough for thirty years.

Born near Janetville, he was a son of the late Henry Irwin and Selina Hobbs. He was a member of the Faithful Brethern Lodge, A. F. & A. M., Lindsay. Surviving are his wife, formerly Edith Jane Curtis, and one son, T. M. Irwin of Wallaceburg.

The funeral will be held on Thursday, from the Comstock Funeral Home, 305 Water Street, at 2 p.m. with Rev. M. C. Parr of George Street United Church officiating. Interment will be made at Little Lake cemetery.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE AT BRIDGENORTH CHURCH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FAIRVIEW, April 12.—There will be a special Good Friday service in Bridgenorth United Church. Services will commence at 7.30 p.m. The congregations of Gilmour Baptist, and Fairview United, are uniting with Bridgenorth. Rev. R. D. Wright of Gilmour will preach the sermon and there will be special choir numbers from each church. The Lord's Supper will be observed at the close of the service. It is hoped that as many as possible will avail themselves of this opportunity.

The mock parliament, which is being prepared by the Fairview Young People, will be presented in the church on Thursday evening, April 21.

Mrs. Fred McKee, who has spent the winter in Peterborough, has returned to her home.

DOCTOR TENDERS AN APOLOGY AFTER TESTIMONY BARRED

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., April 12 (C.P.). — Dr. Irvin H. Erb, Toronto pathologist, apologized yesterday to Mr. Justice C. P. McTague after the Judge had instructed the jury here to disregard the expert witness' expressed opinion that Vernon Spencer, 40-year-old baseball player, did not kill his hunting companion, attractive 26-year-old Helen Grier. Dr. Erb was a witness for the defence at the trial here of Spencer, charged with the young woman's murder.

"I am very sorry, my Lord," said Dr. Erb, after Mr. Justice McTague pointed out to the jury that no witness, expert or otherwise, had the right to express an opinion on the very subject a jury was trying to determine.

After summarizing his evidence, most of which was of a technical nature and concerned an autopsy he performed on March 19 at the request of the defence, Dr. Erb had said: "It is my belief Vernon Spencer did not shoot that girl."

Previously Dr. Erb said he had "no difficulty" in concluding that the shot which killed the Pontiac, Mich., stenographer, was not fired while the pyjama-clad girl was lying on the floor. He said also that his experiments showed it would have been possible for the girl herself to have fired the rifle found in the pool of blood beside her on the kitchen floor in the hunting cabin 38 miles north of here last October.

ALLEN ARMITAGE MUSICIAN DIES

Allen Armitage, 365 Leslie Avenue died at his home on Monday after a short illness. He was in his 78th year and had lived in Peterborough for 40 years.

Born in Yorkshire, England, he came to Canada more than half a century ago, coming to Peterborough after living in Kitchener and Galt. Mr. Armitage was well known in this city as a musician, having been leader of both the Peterborough Melody Band and the Maple Leaf Band years ago. He was a great music enthusiast and well versed in knowledge of the art. He was a member of Trinity United Church for many years.

He was predeceased by his wife, formerly Emma Halstead, 29 years ago. Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. James Bath, Peterborough; Mrs. G. Elliott, Belleville; Mrs. N. Irwin, Toronto; and three sons, Stanley, St. Catherines; Arthur, Ottawa; Melvin, Peterborough; and two brothers, George and Arthur Armitage, both of Yorkshire, England.

The funeral will be held on Thursday, April 14, at 2 p.m., from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. James Bath, 365 Leslie Avenue, with Rev. G. S. Easton of Trinity United church officating. Interment will be at Little Lake cemetery.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

Unexpected buying flurries at the close of Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day found offerings light and wheat futures moved upward from low points, more than a cent under yesterday's final quotations. At the final bell values were ⅝ higher to ⅞ cent lower, May $1.24¾, July $1.13⅝ to ½, and October 89 to 89¼ cents.

Trading was virtually at a standstill after the opening. Prices declined due to a lull in export buying and bearish influence of the high estimated United States winter wheat crop.

United States Government report anticipated a crop of 726,000,000 bushels, 41,000,000 bushels above last year's outturn.

BILL WOULD BAR PARTY CAUCUSES TO FEDERAL STAFF

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—A bill designed to keep United States government workers out of political conventions held an unexpected place at the top of the senate calendar today, despite objections of democratic leader Barkley of Kentucky.

The measure, which Senator Hatch (Dem.-New Mexico) has been advocating for a year, would exclude federal employees from party caucuses, precinct, county or state conventions that nominate a president, a vice president or members of congress.

The senate, which usually lets the administration leader arrange its program, voted yesterday to take up the bill Thursday. Barkley tried to block its consideration, but a sizable bloc of Democrats joined Republicans in over-riding his plea.

5 With "Packing" Powers

Hatch, normally an administration supporter, declared five top-ranking government officials have the power to "pack" a national convention. He listed the five as President Roosevelt, Postmaster General Farley, Agriculture Secretary Wallace, Interior Secretary Ickes, and Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress administration head.

"Their choice might suit me fine because I have confidence in them," Hatch told the Senate. "That does not mean the process is right. I am trying to look ahead. I see the danger, not only to this administration. Not only to my particular party, but to all parties."

Hatch consented to an amendment by Senator Bankhead (Dem-Alabama) exempting federal employees chosen at regular public elections. Violations would be punishable by a $1,000 fine, a year in jail, and loss of job.

ORE FROM PHILIPPINES

SAINT JOHN, N.B.—(CP).—Taking 63 days for a 14,000-mile voyage from the Philippine Islands, the motorship Norseman arrived here with the first cargo of chrome iron ore ever landed at this port. It was consigned to Sault Ste. Marie.

Steals Mother's Hens To Buy Beer

Montreal, April 12. HECTOR LALONDE, 45, admitted to Recorder Leonce Plante today he had stolen chickens from his mother's henroop and had sold them to buy beer. "He's a good boy except when he's drunk," said his 70-year-old mother. The father, 75, confirmed the mother's testimony, and Lalonde was freed under bond to keep the peace.

STABBING AFFRAY COSTS TWO YEARS

NAPANEE, Ont., April 12 (C.P.).—Aftermath of a stabbing and a wild chase by police, Kenneth Kellar, Toronto, and Donald Kellar, Tamworth, his brother, appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler here yesterday.

Kenneth was sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary for wounding Peter Hart, Roblin gasoline station owner, and another 21 days for drinking while intoxicated and another 15 days for reckless driving.

Donald Kellar was sentenced to two months in jail for stealing gasoline.

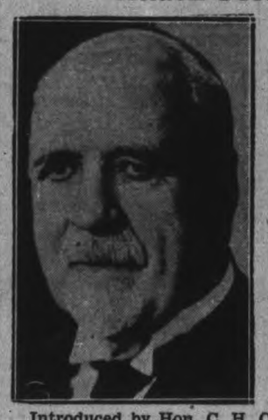
On April 3 the two bought gasoline at Hart's station and then argued over payment. Kenneth slashed Hart's cheek and they drove away, soon madly pursued by police who caught them.

CHECKING PURCHASES

FORT ERIE, Ont., April 12—(CP)—A check of Niagara border merchants today indicates no great fear of business loss from new regulations of the United States customs department requiring Americans to be absent 48 hours in order to qualify for privilege of taking back duty free $100 worth of goods.

Previously there was no time limit, and the act was recently amended at the insistence of American border merchants to check purchases by Americans who crossed frequently and sometimes returned the same day.

Attack Privy Council



Introduced by Hon. C. H. Cahan, LEFT, and favored by Minister of Justice Ernest Lapointe, RIGHT, a bill to abolish appeals to the British privy council is likely to be passed by the Dominion government, it was indicated at Ottawa. Mr. Cahan in his attack on the council, charged that members of the judical committee of the privy council, in past judgments, had imposed their political opinions and even their "personal preferences," with the result that Canada's constitution had been nullified.

Mr. Clinton McGee of Port Hope visited friends here on Monday.

Fire caused minor damage at the home of Reeve and Mrs. J. A. Bell of Marmora Township on Monday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Bell were in attendance at Mrs. J. O'Neill's funeral and the alarm was given by Mr. Bell's parents, who are residing with them.

EXPERTS RATE TRAIL AS TOPS

SASKATOON, April 12 (CP). — Trail Smoke Eaters, who represent Western Canada senior hockey in the Allan Cup final with Cornwall Flyers opening here Wednesday, are rated by many of the hockey wise as the greatest team ever developed in British Columbia.

"Best team we ever turned out," say British Columbia experts; and they aren't forgetting Kimberley Dynamiters who gave the Province its first Allan Cup championship two years ago and went on to win the world title in Europe. Smoke Eaters averaged 23 years and 161 pounds.

With Smoke Eaters set for the amateur classic, a summary of the team shows:

A club of youngsters with a sprinkling of veterans, practically all products of the Prairie leagues; surprising offensive power backed by a vigorous defence; scoring power most potent when the chips are down.

Brazil will spend over $10,000,000 in enlarging its merchant marine.

EMPLOYEES LAID OFF

DETROIT, April 12—(CP).—The Briggs Manufacturing Co., accusing 44 members of the United Automobile Workers of starting a "slow down" strike, sent 8,100 employees home to-day and announced work in its Mack avenue plant would be suspended indefinitely.

Representatives of the company and the union will meet to-day in an attempt to settle the dispute.

LAKEFIELD

$675.00 SPENT ON IMPROVEMENTS

LAKEFIELD, April 12. — Improvements costing $675 were made last year to the Lakefield cemetery, the Lakefield Cemetery Board was told at the annual meeting held last week in the Memorial Hall, Lakefield.

Five or six years ago, property adjoining the cemetery was purchased from John Darling with the ideas of adding a new section to the present grounds to provide more accommodation. This past year, members of the Cemetery Board commenced the work of improving and beautifying the new section which comprises about four acres that run up from the older part of the cemetery on the west side of the caretaker's cottage. Their first improvement was the building of a new roadway and entrance, to make the newly acquired section easily accessible. A fine gravel road has been built which runs in from the main highway and passing through the new cemetery, meets the former roadway.

Last spring $175 worth of shrubs and trees were purchased from the Brookdale Nurseries and set out to beautify the grounds. This spring about five hundred (500) trees, mostly spruce and pine, will be planted on the north and west sides to form a background for the smaller shrubs and to act as a wind-break. The cemetery, including the recent addition, now occupies about twelve acres.

Mr. D. H. Webteer, president of the Lakefield Cemetery Board, occupied the chair at the annual meeting.

The following officers were elected: D. H. Webster, president; A. Fitzgerald, vice-president; G. H. Spence, secretary-treasurer. Messrs. D. H. Webster, J. H. Sherin and G. H. Spence were appointed members of the Finance committee and Messrs. Stanley Rosborough, T. T. Milburn, Stanley Higgins and A. Fitzgerald make up the property committee.

G. H. Spence, secretary-treasurer, presented the treasurer's report, which showed a balance on hand of $945.49. $675 was spent on the new part of the cemetery during the year. Bonds owned by the Cemetery Board amount to $6,237.

The superintendent of the Lakefield cemetery, A. E. Higgins, presented his report, which showed that the number of burials during the past year was fifty. There were six lots sold, five foundations and ten requests for perpetual care.

They Shoot To Kill

Gerrit Lammerse died in the hospital at Brampton. He was 61 years of age and his means of earning a living had been operating a service station for motor cars, in which work he was at times given some help by his wife.

Some person called at the service station, possessed of a weapon. It is not likely that Mr. Lammerse would have put up much of a fight and the younger man could probably have overpowered him. Instead he shot him in the abdomen. There was a fight for life and the injured man died.

So there is another case which can be added to the long list of those who have perished because people have weapons in their pockets. Quite likely the weapon was not registered, but that fact would not prevent the owner from securing a supply of ammunition for it. He would not have to produce a certificate showing he was the owner of a registered weapon. If he came to a strange community and desired to do his purchasing he could give any name which came into his head and walk off with his supply of bullets.

It looked some time ago as though we had advanced considerably in getting weapons registered and providing more power in our our law to deal with armed robbery. But we have not come to grips with the weapons we want turned in or seized. They are in the pockets of those who shoot to kill when it becomes necessary.

These New Canadians

In a recent government publication hundreds of names are listed of those to whom naturalization papers have been granted. No doubt such folk have been able to satisfy the authorities that they are in earnest in the move they are making to become citizens of this country. Looking over some of the names which we found it difficult to pronounce we saw these:

Zbyszewski	Wachotkewich,
Zamojski, Piotr	Kathleen
Zadorozuik, Ignatz	Szumejczuk
	Staszewski, Kazimirz
Yushchyshyn, Egeniza	Smerechinski
Yampolosky	Sebastynanski
Wojtowicz	Poiukoshko
Wolosczyuk, Zenolij	Pazdjleraki
Woronkewych, Polly	Kazakeveins

No doubt the securing of naturalization papers means something to these people, and it should also mean something to the people of this country. To what extent these people will actually become Canadians we do not know. At the outset the names they bear seem strange to us. If we saw the names and did not know the people owning them had been naturalized we would naturally regard them as foreigners from Rumania, Russia, Poland or some near district to that location. To that extent they face a handicap in becoming Canadians, and we also face a handicap in quickly recognizing them as fellow-citizens of equal standing. It would probably be a bold suggestion if it were mentioned that it might be well for some competent linguist to try and produce the Anglo-Saxon equivalent of some of these names so they could be more easily used in this country. It may be we have no right to try and take away a man's names, but we can see several ways in which it might simplify matters a good deal for these new citizens.

Clergymen Are Barred

One feature of election contests in New Brunswick was again brought to the surface in discussions in the legislature. We do not believe there are many people in this province who are aware that in New Brunswick it is not possible for a clergyman to become a member of the Legislature. There was a movement to bring in an amendment to the Elections Act and in the discussion it was revealed that as far back as 1818 ministers were not allowed to sit in the House, and that restriction has been incorporated in every Elections Act passed since that year.

G. W. Perry, a member of the Legislature and the son of a minister, wanted a change made. He said it was class legislation and humiliating interference with the rights of ministers as citizens—but he did not even find a seconder for his resolution, so the old law of 1818 remains.

It was stated in the discussion that the early history of the province revealed that there had been a number of ministers who had led their churches into politics and the churches had suffered. Politically minded clergymen had neglected their church duties to enter politics, and the ban was placed on ministers in the first place to protect the churches from being wrecked. And that stipulation barring the ministers has been effective in New Brunswick for 120 years and it looks very much as though it is going to remain just as it stands.

Blue Mountain Is Famous

For years Blue Mountain was just another high ridge in Methuen township, Peterborough county. Possibly a good many of the summer residents who own cottages on the 1,100 islands in Stoney Lake have often enough looked at Blue Mountain. It has been there for a long time—reckoned in centuries. No person paid much attention to it until engineers found that it had huge deposits of nepheline syenite, and that rock mineral in turn is used for making glassware.

Mills had been previously been using feldspar, but it was only within recent times they learned of nepheline deposits in Peterborough county. That name had generally been restricted to a mineral found in Vesuvian lava. It is much superior to feldspar and for that reason the demand for it has grown. And it will continue to grow.

That is why the Blue Mountain of Methuen township happened to come so prominently into the news from Washington the other day when it was discussed in connection with the trade agreement between Canada and United States. The interests which control feldspar and its distribution in United States fear the increasing imports of the Peterborough county nepheline because it will displace feldspar on account of its superiority. They desire to have a certain figure stated as the amount of tonnage which can be sent across the border during the year. No one is going to blame the feldspar people from doing what they can to protect their industry, but by limiting the imports of this newer and better product from Peterborough they will be forcing their glass and pottery industry to operate with an inferior material—feldspar. If any of these industries think it advisable to move closer to the place where this valuable nepheline is procurable it is more than likely that either Lakefield or Peterborough would be pleased to show their representatives what could be done.

A Commendable Plan

The Canadian General Electric Co. has an investment plan open to its employees and there is no catch in it. It looks like one of the few places where money can be put in this age without the chance of losing it. In the Peterborough plant there are 11,453 shares held, and their value is $572,650. When the twelfth Employees Saving & Investment Plan was announced there were 1617 persons in the plant who were eligible to participate, and of this number 1,004, or 62 per cent., took advantage of the offer.

The stock is 5 per cent. cumulative preferred, and the shares are priced at $50, the maximum subscription allowed being 10 shares each year the plan is effective. The shares can be resold to the company for the purchase price, $50. This year there is an added 2 per cent. bonus making a yield of 7 per cent., which is sufficient to cause some of our speculators and investors to wonder how such a thing can be taking place in the year 1938 when 3 per cent. is considered about all that can be secured with safety. There are some employees who have taken the limit of 10 shares each time they were offered. Now they are possessed of stock holdings which are worth $6,000, and 7 per cent. on that means a nice income.

As we understand it this plan means nothing at all to the company in the way of financial gain. Instead of a gain it has cost the Canadian General Electric $35,000 to operate it. Certainly the company is not in need of the cash it receives from the selling of the shares. If money were needed a firm of its standing could secure cheaper money, but it is considered advisable to have this plan so employees can invest and save and be secure in so doing. There can be no question regarding what the employees in the Peterborough plant think about the plan because there were 39 per cent. more subscribers in 1938 than in 1937.

We are certain it is a wise system. The desire of every worker is to save a little something, but too often he has found that when he tried to invest his savings he has lost the whole thing. The worker who is placing some of these shares to his credit is—to use a common enough phrase—playing safe.

They Called It An Election

Voters in Austria said "ja" almost unanimously on the question of being in favor of union with Germany. All the people over 20 years of age, except Jews and prisoners had opportunity to vote. The Austrians were better voters than the people in Germany. It was difficult to find where one had not voted "ja" (yes). There were 49,546,950 qualified voters in Germany and Austria and the number who voted numbered 49,326,791. Meanwhile we have been discussing in our House of Commons the advisability of making voting compulsory in Canada. Hitler has already solved that.

Hitler is reported to have been overjoyed at the result of the vote. But the man has no sense of humor; if he had he would smile and say nothing at all. The people in Austria were taken into camp 26 days before the voting took place. The military strength of Germany as exemplified in tanks and marching men and planes was paraded before the Austrians. Their entire system of government had been seized; many of their men had been imprisoned; hundreds had fled the country to save their lives. The seizure and the tie-up had been made complete to the last degree. And then the vote was taken!

Austria voted to accept the Hitler list of candidates but that means not a thing in the way of self government. The German Reichstag is now called to convene when Hitler has some announcement to make—that's all. The world watched the vote in Germany and Austria, and the world knew it was not an election as we regard such an event. It was a sure thing, sealed, cut and dried from the beginning. There was not even a remote chance of Hitler losing.

Government Wants More

The American Iron and Steel Institute has plenty of machinery for searching records and providing interesting information regarding business conditions. Steel is one of the industries which moves in millions of dollars. It has for years made a great deal of money for the people who own and control it, but the tendency to-day is to cause this giant industry to make a great deal of money for the various governments—federal, state and municipal.

In 1929 taxes took 19 per cent. of the net income of all the steel firms in United States, but in 1937 taxes had been moved up to where they called for 42 per cent. of the total net earnings.

The total tax bill of 90 of the chief steel companies in the States in 1929 was $103,000,000. In 1937 the bill had grown to $169,086,000.

It is explained that the tax bill for 1937 was equal to $330 for each of the 513,000 wage-earning employees in the industry. Or putting it another way—the tax bill would pay the wages of 108,000 of the employees. And the rule is that men in steel mills are well paid.

The connection between finished steel and taxes and the general public becomes more apparent when it is stated that each ton of steel in 1929 carried with it $2.91 in taxes, while the ton produced in 1937 was tax-loaded to the extent of $4.96—almost $5. The price of steel has a good deal to do with the cost to the consumer of a good many things which he purchases; it enters into the cost of agricultural implements, motor cars, etc. The higher the cost of such equipment goes the greater becomes the resistance of the buyer to making a purchase. So it is not difficult to see that the rising tax which is imposed on steel must make it more difficult for the ultimate consumer to favorably consider the purchase of articles into which steel enters to an appreciable degree.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Whatever else may be thought about the Homewood Sanitarium at Guelph there does not seem to be anything wrong with its 15 per cent financing.

Toronto is to have streamlined street cars but what is really needed is the sort that could fold up like a concertina in the slack hours.

Winnipeg school trustees have voted themselves a salary of $25 a month. There seems not the slightest chance of pegging the cost of education.

Canada's reindeer herd has been putting on weight. That is often the consequence of coming under the wing of the state.

The Ontario Legislature has prorogued so that Premier Hepburn has made good his desire to get the boys out of the trenches before Easter.

Toronto city council has decided to sell four of its chauffeur driven city hall cars. If the city fathers had Mr. Hepburn's flair for showmanship they would dispose of the machines by auction on the city hall lawn.

Beverly Baxter has been suggested as a possible Concervative leader, although it is not clear how that Anglo-Canadian journalist could hope to win the boys in the third ward or on the tenth concession either.

Those illegible markers are blamed for the escape of a hit-and-run driver whose car ran upon a Toronto sidewalk and killed one man and injured four other persons. They are the best friend that kind of driver has.

METHOD

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Nephew Clem will make his way, he'll be a leading man some day, he'll own a pig and cow; although he's now but twenty-three, it's easy like for me to see, he has the symptoms now.

¶ He occupies but stinted space, but runs a little business place, his way is quite profound; he meets the people as they come, knows things that should be said and done, and finds his way around.

¶ A shoebox takes his lunch for noon, he whistles quite a merry tune, he likewise has a hunch; at noon-hour he puts up a sign, that he'll be back at such a time, he has gone out to lunch.

Our Statesmen In Deep Waters

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. GRAYDON: May I ask the hon. member a question? Do I understand him to suggest that this parliament has no status as a legislative body?

Mr. BENNETT: That is what the hon. member says.

Mr. FINN: That is what he means.

Mr. KUHL: I believe the hon. member is justified in drawing that conclusion.

Mr. FINN: Then is the hon. member here?

Mr. THORSON: Would the hon. member indicate where he got these queer ideas?

Mr. KUHL: I placed on Hansard on February 10 a clear outline of the reasons for my statement. If the hon. member wishes to refute any of the facts or arguments which I placed before the house, I shall be pleased to hear the refutation.

Mr. THORSON: Why battle against windmills?

Mr. KUHL: To continue, Mr. Speaker, I contend that since the arguments I placed before the house on February 10 have as yet not been refuted, it is conceded that what I said was true, that the British North America Act was an intentional misrepresentation of fact, and is therefore null and void. This being so, it cannot be retained as part of the statute of Westminster. Each province is therefore a political unit, without a political superior, and there is nothing to prevent them from creating a federal union and stipulating that the Supreme Court of Canada be the court of last resort.

Mr. THORSON: What authority is there for that statement?

Mr. KUHL: Subsection (2) of section 7 of the statue of Westminster.

Mr. FINN: Read it, please.

Mr. KUHL: It reads:

The provisions of section two of this act shall extend to laws made by any of the provinces of Canada and to the powers of the legislatures of such provinces.

Mr. THORSON: Would the hon. member read the first subsection?

Mr. KUHL: It reads:

Nothing in this act shall be deemed to apply to the repeal, amendment or alteration of the British North America Acts, 1867 and 1930, or to any order, rule or regulation made thereunder.

Mr. THORSON: So the British North America Act is preserved intact.

Mr. KUHL: In my speech on February 10 I believe I produced sufficient evidence to show that unless the preamble of a bill can be proven, the bill fails. If the preamble of the British North America Act cannot be proven to-day, how could it have been proven in 1867? If it cannot be proven, is it not a natural consequence that the bill is null and void?

Mr. THORSON: Does the hon. member expect that argument to be taken seriously by anybody in Canada?

Mr. KUHL: If it is based on fact, I certainly do.

Mr. THORSON: "If."

Mr. KUHL: I have presented what I regard as facts; I have quoted the right hon. leader of the opposition (Mr. Bennett) and the authorities given by the right hon. Prime Minister (Mr. Mackenzie King) as to the nature of a preamble and what is expected of a preamble.

Mr. BENNETT: It must occur to the hon. gentleman that if the preamble is accepted by the enacting legislature as having been proven, it is not for us to say it has not been.

Mr. KUHL: I am not sure that I understand the statement of the right hon. gentleman.

Mr. BENNETT: I merely mean this, that the British North America Act is a statute which was passed by the parliament at Westminster, and the preamble was passed by that parliament. Having been passed by that parliament, it is not for us to question it. We have no legislative power in regard to it.

Mr. KUHL: Would the right hon. gentleman say there was evidence that the preamble to the British North America Act was proven by the imperial parliament?

Mr BENNETT: It was accepted and passed by them.

Mr. GRAYDON: I should like to make one observation. It occurs to me that hon. gentleman is definitely out of order to-night in bringing this matter before a body which has no legislative jurisdiction whatsoever in regard to it.

Mr. THORSON: Indeed, according to his own argument he has no right to be here, because he is here pursuant to the provisions of the British North America Act.

Mr. KUHL: I am placing my opinions before the house, and I shall be pleased to listen to any refutations that may be made when hon. members make their own speeches.

Mr. POULIOT: Would my hon. friend be kind enough to let me ask the question which the hon. member for Selkirk (Mr. Thorson) would not let me ask this afternoon?

Mr. KUHL: The hon. gentleman may ask, but I do not know that I can answer.

Mr. POULIOT: Whereas His Majesty King George VI is the king of Canada; and whereas it is the privilege of all British subjects to bring their grievances to the foot of the throne, how shall we do so if appeals to the privy council are denied?

Mr. KUHL: Perhaps the hon. gentleman would repeat his question after I have concluded my speech, if I may be allowed to do so.

A Bit of Nonsense

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Judge: "Not being satisfied with stealing the money, you took a pile of jewelry as well."

Prisoner: "That's right, sir. I was taught at Sunday school that money alone don't bring happiness."

NO RISK

A man took his little girl up to his golf club, and she accompanied him round the course. After some time, a player addressing the father of the child said: "Don't you think it's rather risky for your little girl around here?"

"Oh, no," was the reply. "You see, she's had measles, and it's left her rather deaf."

When a Farmer Sells His Produce

A FEW days ago the Examiner published an editorial in which was given the experience of one farmer with keeping accounts so that he might know what his produce had cost him. It was stated that the farmers as a rule were at a disadvantage because they could determine their costs and know what their selling price ought to be,but they were not able to recover this cost price in many things which they had for sale.

The Examiner asked several farmers for their opinion regarding this article and the view it expressed. From Wm. G. Henderson of R. R. No. 7, we have received the following interesting reply:

Editor Examiner,

Sir,—I was pleased to receive your letter of April 5 as it shows that your organization has the interests of the Farmer truly at heart. I don't know if I can give you any information along the lines you mention in your letter that would be of any value to you but I will try my best to do so.

I had already read your editorial (as I always do) and think there is a good bit of truth in the statements therein. A good number of farmers know very close to production costs on products which they have for sale from time to time, but of course these costs vary slightly from one year to another but since the beginning of the depression years they haven't followed production cost figures as closely as they might, as there were so few products that could be sold for enough to cover cost charges.

I might mention some of these which at present selling prices do not pay cost charges. Wheat—if sold for cash, price today 80c per bushel and no buyers. Potatoes—Saturday's price on market 50c per bag. Beef cattle, cream and milk the past year. Eggs just about break even.

To overcome these adverse prices farmers are going to feed their holdings of wheat to hogs as this will net them a profit at the present price of hogs.

As for potatoes and beef cattle they will have to put up with the loss as there is no chance of prices rising enough before they go on the market to show a profit.

When the United Farmers of Ontario organized live stock shipping circles in 1924 they made a good move as this has helped the farmer to get what his livestock was worth in the open market ever since.

The Wheat Pools were a good move also, although the Ontario pool was started at the beginning of the depression years and has since gone under, but it would have been a big help today if in operation. But I have my doubts if it could operate successfully under present conditions.

I firmly believe, if we had more and better farmer's organizations and better systems of distribution it would be a big help along the lines you mention as it is plain to see no government (either provincial or federal) will make any move to better farm conditions unless we have a united organization to make a study of the points and ask for what we want.

Hoping this will be of some benefit to you,

I remain,
WM. G. HENDERSON.

In the Early Days of the Zorras.

From the Woodstock Sentinel Review.

C. C. SUTHERLAND, of Strathclair, Manitoba, in a letter to the Sentinel Review the other day, recalled the incident, a century ago, of four Zorra fathers and mothers walking all the way to Ingersoll to have their children baptized at one time. Nobody could beat that but a Sutherland, and an occurrence to which attention is drawn by Mrs. W. J. Breckenridge (Irene Sutherland) is surely unique.

It was that of her uncle John A. MacKay and 11 other Johns, along with one girl baby, being christened from the same bowl of water at the home of Paul Murray ("Hunter"), Lot 20, 10th line, by Rev. Donald McKenzie, Zorra's famous minister.

The MacKay family lived on the eight line, lot 21, and there were six sons, of whom five became ministers. One of these was Rev. W. A. MacKay, former minister of Chalmers Church Woodstock, John A. was the one son who was not a minister. He was the eldest and helped his father to educate the brothers. Later he came to Woodstock, serving for some years as street commissioner. Mrs. A. S. Bennie, Tillsonburg (wife of the member of Parliament for Oxford) is a daughter.

Mr. MacKay told many stories of early events in Zorra to Mrs. Breckenridge, and this multiple baptism was one of them. Among the children then christened were those of Paul Murray, at whose home the ceremony took place. Mr. MacKay was not positive whether the christening was at the time the floor of the Murray house collapsed, or at another time, but the story of the floor collapse is vividly told in Rev. W. W. MacKay's book, "Zorra Boys at Home and Abroad". It occurred in the early Winter of 1855 and is related by the author as follows:

"On the 20th lot, 10th line, East Zorra, lived Paul Murray and his wife and family, at that time consisting of three sons and two daughters. Their home was one of the most commodious in the district, and apparently well adapted for a large gathering. So it was arranged to have the 'catechising' there, and on the Sabbath Rev. Mr. Mackenzie duly intimated the fact from the pulpit.

"The day arrived, and the Highlanders, men and women, old and young, from far and near, crowded into the place of meeting. The services began. The minister was engaged in prayer when suddenly a loud crack was heard, and in another instant the floor gave way, going down in the centre, forming a concave the shape of a millhopper.

Those sitting on the outer row of seats escaped, as the floor broke off at their feet; but the others, with the stove and pots of boiling water, went down. There was, as usual in those days, a large stone hearth, and on this, fortunately for themselves, Mr. Mackenzie and his elder were seated and, of course, did not go down. Some were burned, some scalded, but, wonderful to say, none seriously hurt."

IF CHINA CRASHES.

(New York Times)

IF, THEN, THE collapse of Chinese resistance, which is now largely Chinese Communist resistance, should come to pass, with Soviet Russia standing idly by, the charge which Trotsky first flung against Stalin a dozen years ago may take on new life. Stalin will again be accused of having betrayed the Chinese revolution. He will have sold out the world revolution in the only country outside of Russia, where it has ever had a chance. That is the question, or at least the doubt, which may have troubled the young Communist who wrote to Stalin.

In reply the Soviet leader now proclaims his adherence to the doctrine of world revolution, but suggesting the argument from prudence and expediency. Stalin's endorsement of the world revolution will seem to his critics a case of words speaking louder than actions, but others may feel that for want of anything better a comforting word helps.

CHANCE IN 3,000

(Calgary Albertan)

ONE THOUSAND seven hundred and seventy-four persons won money in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes on the Grand National race last week.

But there were 5,490,230 losers.

Think that over, if you had a ticket in the "sweep." Your chances of winning any kind of a prize were less than one in 3,000.

Incidentally, the total receipts were $13,730,010, and the total amount paid out in prizes was only $8,057,600.

There will always be another chance—if you like the odds.

A Bible Message For To-day . . . .

SAY TO THEM that are of a fearful heart, Be strong, fear not; behold, your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompense; he will come and save you. Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped. Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing: for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. . . . And an highway shall be there, and a way, and it shall be called The Way of holiness; the unclean shall not pass over it; but it shall be for those: the wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein. . . .

For Zion's sake will I not hold my peace, and for Jerusalem's sake I will not rest, until the righteousness thereof go forth as brightness, and the salvation thereof as a lamp that burneth. . . . Go through, go through the gates; prepare ye the way of the people; cast up, cast up the highway; gather out the stones; lift up a standard for the people. Behold, the Lord hath proclaimed unto the end of the world, Say ye to the daughter of Zion, Behold, thy salvation cometh; behold, his reward is with him, and his work before him. —Isa xxxv, 4-6, 8; lxii, 1, 10, 11.

To The Editor

INTERFERENCE

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Radio interference has reached such a peak that something definite should be done to greatly minimize this unnecessary condition. I have spent many hours checking and rechecking the various localities but it is impossible for one citizen to achieve sufficient results. Co-operation, however on the part of many citizens by bringing existing conditions strongly before the proper authorities should go a long way towards rectifying this situation. With this in mind I am sponsoring a petition which if signed in sufficient numbers by radio owners I will pass on to the Radio Commission in Ottawa.

Newsmen Provide U.S. Officials An 'Eyeful' At Club Banquet

400 "Insiders" Of Business, Government And Diplomacy See Selves As Press Sees Them

WASHINGTON, April 12—(AP)—More than 400 "insiders," of United States business, government and diplomacy returned to their tasks to-day refreshed by a chance to see themselves as newsmen see them.

Here are some of the things they saw at Saturday night's Gridiron Club banquet:

Big business and little business as seasick passengers on a wobbling ship of state. When the mate reports "God only knows" where they are, Captain Roosevelt flicks his cigarette and says: "Well, it doesnt matter. Its where were heading that counts."

The wealthy "60 families" as exiles on the Pacific islands of Canton and Enderbury, singing of the day they incorporated Mrs. Astor's horse to escape incomes taxes and, "incorporated like the farm, Mrs. Astor's horse saved her from harm."

A Tennessee mountain woman calling in her son, George Berry (the Senator whose marble claims caused dissension among the Tennessee Valley authority directors); "Pick up yo' marbles and come in this here house. Them Morgans and them Lilienthals is shooting again and you already got one bullet through your breeches." She sings a ballad of the feud in which "Paw Franklin," sought to end the quarrel by shooting Arthur Morgan (deposed chairman of the T.V.A.):

"Then Paw's squirrel gun went barkin'
And one gun hit the markin'
But the other fired back and singed your paw."

FARMER-PAINTER DIES

CHATHAM, Ont., April 12—(CP).—William A. Grant, one of Sombra township's best known farmers and in his younger days a prominent landscape painter, was found dead in bed to-day at Becher.

Throwing Switches Fine For Figure

BUFFALO, N.Y., Ajril 12—(AP).—If you want to keep your "girlish figure" get a job "throwing switches," Grace Miller, this city's only railroad signal tower woman, advised to-day.

Miss Miller weighs a scant 115 pounds but operates 104 switch levers controlling terminal movements through the Lehigh Valley railroad yards. She started "railroading" in 1917 when it was difficult to get men for the work and is 38 years old but looks younger.

PRO-NAZI PEERESS GETS KICK IN CHIN

LONDON, April 12—(AP).—Hon. Unity Freeman-Mitford, pro-Hitler daughter of Lord Redesdale, rubbed her chin, bruised by anti-Nazi kicks in Hyde Park Sunday, and declared today "I didn't feet frightened one bit."

She lost the Swastika badge which the German Fuehrer gave her, inscribed with his signature, and escaped with police help in one of London's big red buses when set upon by angry men and women at the fringe of a "save Spain" rally in the Park.

Miss Freeman-Mitford, who is 25, said she didn't do anything "to incite people."

"I was standing in the crowd listening to speeches when a man snatched from me the Swastika badge I always wear and threw it to the ground," she declared. "I struck him in the face, and he ran away. Then a woman attacked me and there was pandemonium."

Five men who displayed a Swastika flag at the Park gathering also were pummelled.

Candid Camera Shots

Candid camera shots clicked at random in Peterborough the other afternoon are shown here. The unsuspecting victims were intent on other things when the Examiner photographer "shot" them. If persons whose pictures appear here come into Examiner office and identify themselves they will each be given an enlargement of their photograph. And to other Peterborough residents; who knows, you may be the next victim.

U.S. FILLING GAPS IN COAST DEFENCE WITH GUNS, MINES

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP).—Army officers said to-day new long range guns to fight off attackers along the 5,000 mile coast line, and submarine mine equipment to snag invaders' ships, soon may fill gaps in their $65,000,000 United States coast defence program.

The nation's greatest city and its capital both would be made more secure, they said, by further fortification of the entrances to New York Harbar and Chesapeake Bay. Military secrets veiled most details of the plans.

The $491,000,000 war department supply bill approved last week by the Senate included approximately $23,000,000 to protect coastal cities and habors.

Unless the figure is trimmed materially before final Congressional action, considerable sums may be expended for the first time in years on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts as well as the Pacific.

Since Congress in 1936 gave the War Department funds to strengthen the coastal fortifications, more than $13,000,000 has been spent for the purpose, but most has gone to the west coast, Panama and Hawaii.

PNEUMONIA KILLS TOT

ALTON, Ontario, April 12. — (C. P.),—Seven-year-old Janet Campbell died here Saturday of pneumonia. It was the first death in this village of 355 inhabitants 60 miles north of Toronto since August 5th, 1936.

A HAPPY MISTAKE

WINDSOR, Ont., April 12—(CP).—Stepping aboard a wrong train usually brings grief, delays and embarrassment, but to Mrs. Fred Hagan of East Boothbay, Me., it brought reunion with her sister, Mrs. E. Bulmer, Windsor, whom she hadn't seen in 23 years.

"I was in Chicago and intended to return home, but found myself on a train crossing the border at Detroit, so I thought I'd see my sister," Mrs. Hagan explained. The sisters met last at the funeral of their mother. They formerly resided in Woodstock., N. B.

LEGALIZE SWEEPSTAKES

TORONTO, April 12—(CP).—Endorsation of the application to the federal government to legalize sweepstakes is sought in a letter addressed to the Toronto city council.

The letter is from the city clerk of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and asks the Toronto city council to join with the Sault Ste. Marie council in endorsing the legality of sweepstakes.

TWO-LEGGED CALF

MITCHELL, Ont., April 12 (CP)—A two-legged Durham calf has become a considerable problem for Victor Grinney, Mount Pleasant farmer. The calf was born eight weeks ago. Mr. Grinney hoped some one would buy the calf for exhibition purposes, but they haven't. He invented a suspension harness for the calf to support its front half while feeding.

Banged Fender Costs Hit-Run Driver $50 Fine, Loss Of Car 60 Days

Hamilton, Ont., April 12

ALFRED PROVO, 25, pleaded guilty today to a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

"These hit-and-run cases must be stopped," said Magistrate H. A. Burbidge. "In this case, however, I am taking into consideration the fact that no person was injured. Provo is fined $50 or two months and his operator's permit is suspended for 60 days. Any other term of imprisonment that I am authorized to impose under the Highway Traffic Act is suspended if the accused makes restitution for the damage caused to the complainant's automobile."

Constable John Crozier testified a car driven by Provo Saturday struck a parked car, owned by Arthur Chappel.

"He did not stop but proceeded to Gibson Avenue," the officer said. 'Later, I saw the car there with the right front fender damaged. In company with Constable Burton, I placed the accused under arrest. He told us that he did not know there had been an accident. He admitted having been drinking some beer previously.'

Labor May Enter Political Ring

LONDON, Ont., April 12—(CP).—Definite political action by the All Canadian Congress of Labor was suggested in the report to the executive board of the Congress presented as the Eighth regular convention opened at London to-day.

The report said the Congress is not associated with any political party, adding however:

"If however the workers find that they cannot induce any existing party to bring about such changes in the economic system as will meet the needs of the people, they will undoubtedly be forced to establish a Labor Party on the basis of their economic organization."

MARLER GOES VISITING

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 12. — (AP).—Sir Herbert Marler, Canadian Minister to the United States, was at Birmingham to-day for a three-day visit, gathering economic data for his government. Sir Herbert, accompanied by Lady Marler, is the guest of Thomas W. Martin, Aabama Power Company president, during his stay here.

INSTANTLY KILLED

WELLAND—Crushed by an elevator while working at the Sun Rays Bread Company, Louis Kratkovich, Welland, was instantly killed today.

BARCELONA NEXT IN REBEL SWEEP

HENDAYE, France, April 12. — (AP). — The Spanish insurgents crossed the Segre River at Balaguer in some of the heaviest fighting of the Catalonia offensive and put themselves in position to-day for a direct assault on Barcelona.

Under cover of heavy artillery fire and airplane bombardment, the main body of General Jose Moscardo's Navarrese and Galician troops effected the crossing on pontoon bridges.

Unexpectedly strong resistance from government forces imperilled the crossing operation time and again but finally the defenders were driven from their lines.

Bayonet attacks enabled the insurgents to consolidate their position east of the river with a four-mile thrust along the road leading to the provisional capital of government Spain—75 miles away. Balaguer is 14 miles north-east of Lerida, which has been a quiet sector since its capture.

To the north, insurgents advancing rapidly through the mountainous terrain adjacent to the French border were within striking distance of the Bonaigua Ridge, dominating the entire valley of Aran. More than 3,000 refugees reached French border hamlets yesterday and three times that number were expected to-day.

Far to the south between Tortosa, where stubborn government resistance has checked a threatened break through to the sea, and San Mateo, the insurgents occupied hill positions from which they were able to look down on the sea from at least a dozen points. Vinaroz was directly ahead.

Republic To Fight Labor Orders

CLEVELAND, April 12—(AP). — Republican Steel Corp. prepared today to fight orders of the National Labor Relations Board and union workers planned demands for re-employment.

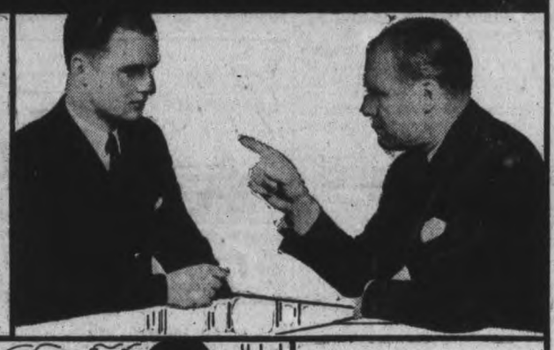
T. M. Girdler, chairman of Republic's Board, issued a statement saying that at least part of the Labor Board's orders would be taken to court and that the company will "take advantage of all rights under the law." The company will rehire strikers, however, it said.

Mass meetings of workers in Cleveland, Warren and Youngstown hailed with cheers, whistling and applause the Labor Board's order to the company to re-employ strikers.

HELD IN SYRUP THEFTS

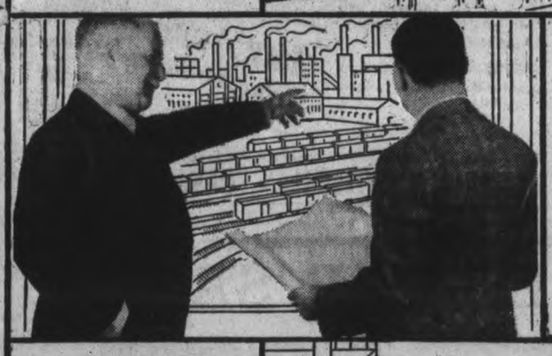
OTTAWA, April 12. — (CP). — Charged with theft of 20 gallons of maple syrup from sugar bushes in Lanark county, Stuart Sweeney, of Lanark, and Mathias Larkin, of Carleton Place, were under arrest to-day. They were taken into custody during the week-end by provincial police.

"NO ONE LIKES TO BE ORDERED ABOUT"
SAYS DALE CARNEGIE
Author of the famous book:
"HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE"



● "In the all-important business of getting along with people, we should strive to remember that no one likes to take orders.

"A knowledge of this basic trait in human nature has helped many successful men to acquire a reputation for uncanny ability in handling people."



● "For instance, the closest associate of the head of a great industrial enterprise employing many thousands of people once declared he had never heard 'the chief' give a direct order to anyone.

"This man achieved his results by giving suggestions instead of commands."

● "He never said: 'Do this', or 'Don't do that'. He said: 'You might consider doing this,' or 'What would you think of doing it this way?'

"A technique like this is easy on people's pride. It makes them want to cooperate. So remember, to get what you want, without giving offense, offer suggestions instead of giving direct orders."

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

IT will no doubt give Coach Whitty Thirnbeck and his Orfuns some satisfaction to learn that Cobourg Gradettes won the Ontario Ladies' Basketball Association intermediate "B" title. They dropped the second game of the finals to Toronto but won out on the round by two points. And the Orfuns had a decision over Cobourg during their Central Ontario group schedule— in which our C. G. E. gals also played—and they protested, without avail, that they still had a mathematical chance at the group title when Cobourg were "declared" champs. However, the locals aren't kicking too much, as the Gradettes probably deserved their win, having a smart quad. And Ernie Foote, the hot-headed sports writer and coach, deserves this success. He is a good guy but has a bit of trouble counting to 10 or so before blowing a fuse! How're ya, Ernie?

IF we are not burdening the Parks Committee of the Council too much, we might point out that some repairs are necessary on the north grandstand in Riverside Park Else the supports that hold the Petes' supporters in place will come undone and there will be a fine headline story some Monday for Ye Examiner about casualties ands things. Some of the big beams underneath the structure have come to a parting of the ways and a big crowd might cause a collapse, especially if the Petes are rallying to come from behind in the eighth. A stitch in time may gather no moss, but those who live in glass houses shouldn't have rolling stones—or loose beams!

MAURY VANROBOYS, the home-run king of Knotty Lee's team and the Can.-Am. pro ball loop, has been farmed out by Montreal to a squad in the Southern Association. Seems this little left-fielder with the potent bat, who was sold for a goodly sum by Knotty to the Royals, after he helped muchly in bringing the title to Ogdensburg last fall, has been training with the Montrealers in Florida and has bee n fielding in grand style, but got only two hits in 19 trips to the plate. So they figure he needs more seasoning in the minors. And Alton Smith, young pitcher, whom Knotty also sold to Montreal —we hear he got some $6,000 for both of 'em—has also been loaned to this league. They figure he is a coming major leaguer but is not ripe yet.

* * * * *

WE remember both of these guys as they played here last August when Knotty brought his Colts up to Peterborough for a loop fixture with Smiths Falls. The Falls won out by an 8-3 score, and was Knot ty peeved—especially in front of the gang here! Van-Roboys got a double and two singles that game here, while Smith hurled three innings and allowed three hits and no walks. It was a swell ball game and showed local fans the pro style of baseball. Knotty want ed to let Peterborough people see the pro game as played in his league, and he wanted a win more than a nigger craves pork chops at the end of a hard day's work. But his squad couldn't get going that day, though they started the next week and drove right through schedule and playoffs for a championship.

ONLY half a dozen prospective Petes turned out at the "Y" last eve for the first indoor workout of the ballsters, under direction of Jim McClenaghan. There were Joe Jakafby, Russ Kitchen, Doug Mowry, Eddie Murphy, Cy Whatley and Eddie Whitehill. The Gunner and Cy had the first casualties of the season when they collided in a basketball game with Whitehill getting two teeth loosened and Cy getting a cut in the forehead. Not the first time Cy has had molars sunk in his face, either| Next drill will be on Thursday and there should be more out then.

As the various lacrosse clubs of the province get squared around for the annual O. L. A. convention in Toronto on Good Friday, we see an item from St. Catharines where the Athletics hope to get Joe Cheevers re-instated to play for 'em. Seems he had a tangle with a referee and got himself in trouble. Joe is the wandering minstrel, who plays tuneful melodies on his gutted-stick instrument in many a lacrosse orchestra. He even dropped into Peterborough last winter quite early, to toll for awhile in a George Street store but disappeared again ere too long. Local lacrosse moguls were not at all surprised, and, in fact, intimated that they would have been so startled you could have felled them with a crow-bar had Joseph forgot he had Gypsy feet and stayed.

OSHAWA Generals and St. Boniface clash tonight in Toronto in the second of their five-game Memorial Cup serial. Oshawa scribe points out that his gang were more tired before the first fray than the Seals, as the Oshawa lads had three hard playoffs in five days and then had travelled 300 miles on their "off" day to tackle the tough Seals. Whereas, says he, the St. Boniface boys are well used to train travel, having to take the choo-choo to win their own group, to rub out Branden, to defeat Port Arthur and finally to wipe out Edmonton. Says they could have left for Toronto several days earlier by train but felt "just like home" on the trains. Yeah, don't sell those scrappy Generals short.

LINDSAY POST manufacturer of sportive slanguage wants to know how the east and west compare regarding the winning of the Memorial Cup. At no charge at all, we will pass along the info. First one was taken by Toronto U. Schools in 1919. Next year saw Toronto Canoe Club win it. In '21 it went to Winnipeg, followed by Fort William in '22 and U. of Manitoba the next winter. Owen Sound Greys brought it back in 1924 and again in '27. But Regina Pats came through in 1925 and in 1930. Calgary won in '26 and Regina in '28. Mariboros brought it back again in the year of depression. In 1931, Winnipeg took it west once more, and Sudbury got it in '33. Then Newmarket won out, followed next season by St. Mike's, with Winnipeg Monarchs successful in 1935. West Toronto got the mug in '36 and Winnipeg last season. So, counting Fort William as the West, the westerners have copped the cup 10 out of 19 times.

SIX TEAMS ENTER SOUTHEND LEAGUE

Nine teams were represented last night at the annual Southend Softball League re-organization meeting here. Six squads definitely entered, Nationals, Cogs Keene, Cardinals, Hawks and DeLaval. The Maple Leafs, Quaker Oats and Brintons are expected in. Last year's officers, President Bill Prindible and Sec.-Treas. Jack Copping, were returned by acclamation. Sid Barrack was named honorary president. Managers of teams comprise the executive.

An amendment was made regarding players requiring a release each year to change teams, to the effect that any player working for any company sponsoring a team could by applying to the secretary obtain his release to play for said team. Another ruling was revised to read: "That each Southend League team be allowed to use one of last year's City League players until that loop opens, after which one player from each Southend League team would be allowed to play in both leagues, providing his name was registered with the Southend League secretary." This automatically rescinded last year's ruling regarding juniors playing in the uptown league.

Entry fee for the coming year was set at $3.50, to be handed in at the next meeting which will be held Monday, May 2nd. At this time entries will be closed. Teams desiring information should get in touch with Bill Prindible, 176 Lansdowne St., phone 2341W, or Jack Copping, 225 Prince St.

Rochester Wings Not Rated As First Division Club

Little Change From Last Year —Ogrodowski And Cobb Add Strength

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., April 12 (A.P.). — Unless glaring weaknesses are bolstered before the opening of the season, Rochester Red Wings cannot be classed as first division material in this year's International Baseball League pennant race.

With Brusie Ogrodowski to handle the catching and bespectacled Bernie Cobb, who batted .302 with Montreal last season, to guard first base, the Bladesmen are considerably strengthened in these two positions. Otherwise, the team is about the same callbre as last year's club, which finished sixth.

Assisting Ogrodowski, former St. Louis Cardinal backstop, with the catching will be Sam Narron, a burly youngster up from Asheville, N.C. Narron's prodigious hitting has been one of the features of the training camp activities.

Infield a Problem.

The infield represents Manager Ray Blades' biggest problem. Jack Sturdy, who was out of the lineup last season and finished up on one of the Cardinal farms, is slated to play second base. Martin Marion, a sophomore in the International, who batted .246 last year, and Tony Malinosky, who finished the season with the Wings, are waging a merry fight for the shortstop job, with honors about even. Jack Juelich, a mild sensation last year despite the fact he made the jump from Class D to Double A in one season, is regarded as a fixture at third base. Cobb at first completes the infield, which lacks experience and punch.

The recent annonucement that Johnny Hopp, freshman star on last year's club, would probably be lost to the Wings for the season because of a serious arm injury, came as a hard blow to Blades.

Two Dependable Men

It leaves the Wing boss with only two experienced outfielders, the venerable Estel Crabtree and Lou Scoffic, who led the club in batting with a mark of .326 last season. Averette Thompson, who hit .319 with Columbus, Ga., last season, is the best of the rookies in camp. Blades hopes to secure another outfielder from the Cardinals, however.

Norbert Kleinke, who won nineteen games while losing eight for one of the best records in the league last season; the veteran Bill Walker and Lefty Oscar Judd are the mainstays of the mound staff. Herb Moore and Abe White, two other holdovers, are regarded as likely starters.

The fine showing of three rookies, Ken Raffensberger, Lee Sherrill and Red Barrett, has been a pleasant surprise to Blades. All three have shown lots of stuff in exhibition games and are highly regarded.

PNEUMONIA DEATH TOLL UP

The death toll of pneumonia in the United States now is approximately 50 per cent. greater than that from tuberculosis.

JERSEY GIANTMEN PUT ON STRENGTH IN WILLOW POWER

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 12 (AP) — Greatly increased batting power should keep the 1938 Jersey City Giants out of the cellar, where they finished in last season's International League pennant race.

Just how many rungs in the ladder they will dig their spikes into depends on the defensive strength shown by the infield and pitching departments of the New York Giants' double "A" farm team.

Manufacturing runs should be the least of Travis Jackson's managerial problems. With few exceptions, the squad he has trained this spring is made up of players who can hit hard and consistently—and at the right time.

A Powerful Outfield

In this respect the outfield rates as one of the most powerful units in the circuit. Hal Lee, who came down from Boston Bees to lead the little Giants in batting and was voted the most valuable player on the team last season, is back again and assigned to centre field.

Flanking Hal in left and right fields, respectively, are Babe Herman and Freddie Lindstrom—two former big berthas of the majors. Herman seems to have lost little of his explosiveness at the plate and, by the same token, none of his eccentricities afield. Lindstrom's physical condition and return to playing form have been highlights of the spring training season.

Jackson has little to worry about when it comes to catching. Tom Padden, with Pittsburgh Pirates last year, will be a tower of strength behind the plate and a great aid to young pitchers. He will be assisted by Jack Redmond, last season's regular backstop.

Jackson's infield combination can be either his joy or his sorrow. All but Hal King who played second base in 71 games for the Giants last season, are newcomers. King is an experienced double "A" campaigner.

A Nifty Infield

Lee Powers, with Baltimore Orioles in 1937, was one of the league's leading first baseman. Ernie Horne, at third, will be making his debut in class "A" company. Horne has led the squad in hitting this spring. George Myatt, secured from San Diego of the Pacific Coast League, has it in him to become the league's best shortstop—or its most dismal flop. If he can control over-anxiety that causes him to boot ground balls and throw wildly to the bases, his remarkable speed plus his hitting and all around aggressiveness may make him a star.

Any hope of a finish in the first division appears smothered by the weakness of the pitching staff. The only sign of improvement over last year is the presence of Roy Joiner, a southpaw from Birmingham of the Southern Association, put pitching help is expected from the parent New York Giants.

CAMPBELLFORD CLUB PLANNING MEMBERS' DRIVE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 12. — Campbellford lawn bowlers decided not to enter the Trent Valley League this year since it was claimed local games would be adversely affected by the absence of eight members each Friday evening when the league tournaments were held.

The Bowling Club held their annual meeting on Monday when officers for the year were elected and the treasurer's report was read, disclosing that despite many improvements to the green the finances were in sound position with a small balance carried over. It was shown that the new lighting equipment had been installed at a cost of nearly two hundred dollars. There were forty members last year and it was felt that an active campaign to increase the membership should be inauguarted.

On motion a local games committee headed by A. G. Thompson will draw up a schedule of games. Also appointed to this committee were Dr. O. C. Watson, A. J. Meyers, T. L. Diamond, Mrs. P. M. Locke, Mrs. N. Brown and Miss Lillian Smith. It was decided that fees would remain unchanged and Messrs. P. M. Locke, W. S. Wiggins, and E. H. Greig were appointed to attend the district meeting in Belleville for the drawing up of a schedule. Albert Mills was re-appointed caretaker at a salary of $125.00.

J. F. R. Douglas, who was secretary in 1937 was made honorary president by a unanimous vote and P. M. Locke was elected president. F. N. Brown was elected vice-president and J. P. Archer secretary. J. D. Mills was re-elected treasurer. The property committee will include Messrs. W. S. Wiggins, E. H. Greig and J. Poulton. Games Committee —J. P. Archer, C. H. Calver, F. N. Brown and A. J. Meyers.

Eric Westbye Heads Peterboro Ski Club

Eric Westbye was elected president of the Peterborough Ski Club for 1938-39 last evening at the annual club meeting of the new directorate. Gerald Duffus is first vice-president, Isabella Reid the second vice-president, and Lahring Parsons the secretary-treasurer. The various committees which carry on the work for the coming season were also appointed.

Plans were laid for the carrying out of certain necessary summer work by the club. This includes some improvements on the Nassau jump and the preparation of slalom and downhill courses in the vicinity of Bethany. These courses will be used next season for the Provincial championships. Representatives were named to the annual meeting of the Ontario zone of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association to be held in Toronto the weekend of April 23.

JOHNNY GAUDES OUTPOINTS YACK IN TORONTO BOUT

TORONTO, April 12 (CP)—Gift of St. Boniface, Man., to the fistic wars, little Johnny Gaudes had the honor today of being the only fighter ever to defeat Norman (Baby) Yack of Toronto, Canada's bantamweight boxing champion, twice in a row.

The St. Boniface strong-boy, victor over Yack less than three weeks ago in a non-title fight, showed 11,-300 fans last night it was no fluke by winning a close, but unanimous, 10-round decision over the Toronto boxing idol. As in the first bout, the Baby's title was not at stake.

Yack, outside of the two losses suffered to Gaudes, has been beaten only twice in his short professional career that brought a climb from selling newspapers on a street corner to king of Canda's bantamweights. Henry Hook of Indianapolis and Jackie Callura of Hamilton, Ont., took decisions from the Baby but he came back with victories in return bouts.

But that wasn't the only surprising development of the night. Len Wadsworth, Hamilton's Canadian middleweight titlist, was beaten soundly in a six-round non-title affair by Ray McIntyre, youthful negro boxer from Woodstock, N.B. Wadsworth, formerly of Timmins, had won his previous six bouts by knockouts.

For a while the crowd and even McIntyre thought the title had changed hands when it was announced from the ring that McIntyre was the new champion. But Promoter Jack Corcoran, after conferring with Ontario Athletic Commission officials at the ringside, informed the crowd stipulations in the contract signed by the fighters called for a non-title scrap.

DAVID IRWIN IS NEW HOLDER BRADBURN CUP

LEAFS TO EVEN HORNER'S SCORE WITH BRUISING HAWKMEN

Toronto Squad Still Nettled Over The Bruising Given Red During First Game At Chicago

Murphy Chamberlain, Only Toronto Player On The Casualty List

CHICAGO, April 12 (CP).—Fourth act of the Toronto-Chicago what-is-it for the Stanley Cup will be played tonight with those sterling actors, Black Hawks and Maple Leafs, assured of an audience of 18,000 to cheer or deride them.

It may be that the season will be over after tonight's fourth game in the best-of-five series. Hawks hold a 2-1 edge in games and they've pulled so many surprises already that no one would be deeply shocked if they topped them by taking Leafs again.

There may be more butchery tonight—the boys aren't feeling any too well toward each other after some of the things that have happened—or it may be that the teams will provide a spectacle in speed and finesse. The odds are all in favor of the butchery.

Certain it is that the result is even more unpredictable than Chicago weather. Hawks unexpectedly won the first game 3-1 and the third 2-1, amazing everyone except those real close to the team. Only Leafs' 5-1 triumph sandwiched between Hawk victories was according to form.

There was the quiet of a loaded gun in both camps on game's eve. No one was saying much, nothing at least they wanted spread around, and it was pretty much a case of "wait and see what happens."

Change Minor Officials.

Leaf Manager Conny Smythe stirred the calm briefly by requesting and being granted a change in the minor officials who worked Tuesday's game. Dissatisfied with a goal judge and penalty timekeeper, Smythe was granted a request that New York officials be installed.

Leafs weren't feeling any sweeter about Hawks for the "going over" they claimed Red Horner was given. Just to make things even, Hawks were still talking about the roughing the bashing Leaf defenceman gave them in the Toronto games.

If either Bill Stewart or Dick Irvin, respective Hawk and Leaf coaches, were planning anything special to snap on the other they kept it quiet. Irvin may be because his team is on the spot. Stewart can afford to gamble as his body will have another chance in Toronto Thursday night if they fail.

The casualty list, once quite full of Hawks, was down to a minimum with only Murphy Chamberlain of Toronto seriously-enough injured not to play. Doc Romnes, who broke up the third game, again will wear his football helmet and guard to protect a broken nose, and Chicago's Mike Karakas will tend goal in a special boot with steel protector for his broken big toe.

Probable lineups:

Toronto: Goal, Broda; defence, Horner and Fowler; centre, Apps; wings, Drillon and Davidson; subs.: Hamilton, Kampman, Thoms, Boll, Armstrong, Jackson, Metz, Kelly, Parsons.

Chicago: Goal, Karakas; defence, McKenzie and Levinsky; centre, Romnes; wings, March and Thompson; subs.: Wiebe, Shill, Gottselig, Trudel, Voss, Dahlstrom, Jenkins, Seibert, Palangio.

JIMMY WEBB MODEST LAD IN PASTIME

(By the Associated Press

OWENSBORO, Ky.—Jimmy Webb recently snapped up by Cleveland Indians when Judge Landis made him a free agent, counts his assets modestly: "I'm a good fielder and I've got a good arm. I have always hit pretty well, although I've never been a power hitter. I'm fairly fast and I think I play smart baseball. Nobody can ever say I don't hustle."

ATLANTA, Fla.—Counting noses, Mickey Cochrane figured today he had six starting pitchers ready to open Detroit Tigers' American league drive. They are Tommy Bridges, recently ailing with a lame arm but apparently entirely recovered, Vern Kennedy, George Gill, Elden Auker, Lefty Jake Wade and Boots Poffenberger.

SHAWNEE, Okla.—After winning his first game in four starts against Pittsburgh Pirates, Manager Jim Dykes of Chicago White Sox, picked Pirates as the team to beat in the National league pennant race. They far overshadow the Cubs, Dykes said.

OWENSBORO, Ky.— New York Giants two cripples, Slick Castleman and Burgess Whitehead are showing encouraging signs of life. Whitehead played against Cleveland yesterday and made a hit and scored a run, Castleman pitched to a catcher for the first time and let go a couple of hard ones. He has not felt a twinge in his ailing back since he started work.

SAVANNAH, Ga.—Rudy Hulswitt who used to be a chief scout for the Brooklyn Dodgers, is a happy prophet. He said, "I almost had to beg the club to buy Forest Presnell and he's going to be a regular." Whereupon Presnell went out and beat Savannah with six hits.

Vitt After Fighting Spirit Of His Cleveland Indians

Major League Managers Doubt Whether Experiment Will Be Successful

NEW YORK, April 12—(AP)—An event the significance of which appears to have been overlooked was Oscar Vitt's outburst the other day at Longview, Texas, when he took his Cleveland Indians off the field and refused to finish an exhibition game with the Giants.

In so doing, Oscar risked incurring a personal fine of $1,000, plus forfeiture of his club's share of the day's receipts and many regard the exhibition as a sample of the raw meat Oscar is preparing to feed his Indians in an effort to get them in a fighting frame of mind.

Watching Experiment.

Every manager in the American baseball league is watching Vitt's efforts to inoculate his club with a shot of team spirit. Some of them doubt he will be successful but there's no doubt in anybody's mind that the Indians potentially are capable of giving the Yankees a bear fight.

Thus comes the suspicion that Oscar already has started to work, and that he's sitting back now hoping Judge Landis cracks down on him with a heavy fine. It will be money well spent if it convinces his players they have a scrapping leader, and he will get it back fourfold if they react properly.

This is Vitt's first year as a big league pilot. He knows he has to make good at Cleveland in a hurry, if at all. And he is going to come out tossing punches because Cleveland has come to be accepted as a "poor road club."

Former Managers Blamed

The Cleveland players blame their disappointments on their managers. The pitchers claim neither Steve O'Neill or Walter Johnson, immediate predecessors of Vitt, handled them properly. O'Neill and Johnson, of course, have something else to say.

At any rate, Vitt realized when he took the job that the biggest task he faced was in gaining the confidence of his players, and in holding them into a fighting unit. How well Oscar has succeeded in making them over into the "Battling Clevelands" remains to be found out during the hot days of summer.

OSHAWA ASKS NEW OFFICIALS

TORONTO, April 12. — A big push, instigated by Oshawa Generals, was under way last night to have the referees changed for tonight's Memorial Cup hockey game against St. Boniface Seals.

Considering Oshawa won the first game of the best-of-five series here on Saturday, 3-2, the demand was unusual. Even more strange was the Seals' defence of the officials, Russ McBride of Winnipeg and Hap Shouldice of Ottawa. Usually any squabbling about officiating originates in the losers' camp.

Bill Paulley, manager of the Manitoba team, declared late to-day his players were satisfied with the officiated in St. Boniface games durlent," he asserted.

McBride is the main bone of contention. The Generals maintained it was unethical for one who had officiated in St. Boniface games during the regular season to participate in the current series.

Officials of the Ontario Hockey Association took up the matter with Cecil Duncan, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association at Ottawa. The O.H.A. suggested two National League whistle-blowers be conscripted.

BOB PIRIE SETS NEW RECORD MARK

TORONTO, April 12. — In his first competitive meet since returning from Australia as a member of Canada's British Empire aquatic team, Bob Pirie, double winner at the games, shattered the 100 yards senior Canadian record at the Parkdale swimming gala, held in Central "Y" pool. Pirie splashed down the 25-yard course to beat Cliff Foderingham, Central "Y," and Jack McCormack, Hamilton Aquatic Club. The new record will stand at 53 3-0 seconds.

Another record went by the boards when Russ Dilworth, Central "Y," nosed out Dick Lough of West-End "Y," to establish a new mark in the 50-yard backstroke event for senior men. Dilworth finished in 30 1-5 seconds to beat the old record of 31 5-10 seconds, held by Jack McCormack of Hamilton.

LEAGUE CASTOFFS ASSIST CHICAGO IN DOWNING LEAFS

CHICAGO, April 12 (C.P.). — On the Stanley Cup front:

A few months ago they were not wanted anywhere in the National Hockey League except Chicago, but now Carl Voss and Roger Jenkins are playing in the Stanley Cup final against Toronto Maple Leafs. They are not doing badly, for Voss fired one of the goals that beat Leafs 2-1 in the third game and Jenkins assisted in the winner cored by Mush March. Jenkins also has picked up four other playoff assists.

Players only share in receipts from the first three games of the best-of-five series, but there should be one of the choicest cuts in National League history after the two sellouts in Toronto and the record crowd of 18,497 in the third game at Chcago. Think of the odds available five months ago that Hawks would be sharing in the Golden Melon.

Gordie Drillon and Syl Apps, the greatest Leaf sharpshooters since the heyday of Charlie Conacher and Harvey Jackson, have been drawing by far the most work of Leaf forwards in the series. Bob Davidson is the other member of the Leafs' first line.

Six Hawks who helped win the Stanley Cup in 1933-34 are with this year's team. Tommy Gorman led Hawks then and had Paul Thompson, Johnny Gottselig, Doc Romnes, Mush March, Louis Trudell and Roger Jenkins. All but Jenkins have played with Hawks continuously. Only Harvey Jackson and Red Horner remain of the Leafs who won the Cup in 1931-32.

Two of the best coaching jobs in the National Hockey League this season were done by Dick Irvin and Bill Stewart, masterminding rivals in the final.

Irvin took a gang of rookies and second year men to weld them into a potent machine that finished first in its section and won the league championship. Stewart, baseball umpire and former hockey referee, did his work for Chicago on veterans and castoffs who had the least points of the six qualifying teams. But Hawks upset Montreal Canadiens and New York Americans on their way to the Toronto meeting.

STAFF PHYSICIAN SAYS HOMEWOOD VALUABLE ASSET

GUELPH, Ont., April 11—(CP)—A staff physician's detailed evidence concerning treatment of patients of Homewood Sanitarium was before a commission investigating affairs of the institution as the inquiry continued here today.

Dr. F. H. G. Baugh old the commission yesterday an institution such as Homewood Sanitarium "fills a very valued place in the community."

Private institutions of that type were valuable, he said, because a majority of inmates of Canadian mental hospitals were dependent on others for their upkeep and it would be impossible to maintain a public hospital for persons in the early stages of a psychosis.

The Homewood physician, whose testimony was heard almost throughout yesterday's session, described medical treatment given sick patients and efforts to calm those in excited or restless condition. He said the hospital tried to use a minimum of restraint in caring for patients and to avoid using physical force in quieting excited inmates.

Tells of Two Patients.

Dr. Baugh also testified concerning two former Homewood patients, Angus McIntosh, wealthy Montreal exporter and William Roche, son of a former Halifax senator, who have charged they were forced to remain in the institution longer than necessary.

Concerning a charge by Roche he was kept in Homewood two months longer than his contract called for, the doctor said he assumed the patient was kept there because the hospital superintendent felt he had a responsibility towards authorities in Halifax.

He said he would have been "hesitant" allowing probation to a patient in McIntosh's condition when the Monreal man applied for release in 1934. He said McIntosh was transferred from one ward to another because he was disturbing other patients.

Dr. Baugh said no privileges were taken from McIntosh after it was learned he planned taking legal action to obtain release. He said visitors to him were restricted because they disturbed him.

LABOR PROPOSES

In his presidential address, Mr. Mosher forecast a major depression unless public authorities take definite action. He blamed "foreign-controlled" unions for what he said was the inability of Canadian workers to use their political and economic strength effectively."

Appealing for good faith and common sense in labor dealings, William Dickson, federal deputy minister of labor, told the convention bad labor conditions exist in Canada. As a result of these conditions, he said, misery and discontent imperilled the peace of the world.

"How many industries in Canada dare say they have no employees who are not underpaid?" Mr. Dickson asked. "I wonder if there is one." He said big business now is trying to crowd 12 months' production into the shortest time to cut overhead and insecurity has become the "nightmare" of the worker.

The executive report said a campaign for unification of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways "recently has been revived and intensified," and added: "The position of the congress is in direct opposition to all railway amalgamation and allied schemes."

Hitler May Visit Pope On Visit To Rome

Possibility of an official visit by Adolf Hitler to Pope Pius XI on his Rome trip is seen in the pope's message, through Cardinal Innitzer of Austria to the fuehrer that the Vatican is eager to make "an honorable peace" with Nazi Germany. The existing 1933 Nazi-Vatican concordat may be revised somewhat to cover the delicate situation created when Hitler annexed Austria, where Catholics comprise 91 per cent. of the population. The Hitler visit to Mussolini in Rome is scheduled for May. The official Vatican paper disavowed a broadcast sent over the Vatican radio attacking "anschluss."

CENTREVILLE

THANKOFFERING IS HELD BY W.M.S.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CENTREVILLE, April 12.— The Women's Missionary Society of Centreville Presbyterian church held a special Easter Thank Offering service in the church, Sunday night. The W. M. S. of Grace Presbyterian church. Millbrook was invited and a large number attended.

On account of the illness of the Rev. H. R. Williams, and the unavoidable absence of Mrs. Dawson Rutherford, the President, Rev. D. A. McKenzie presided and conducted the devotional exercises.

The guest speaker was Miss Bessie McMurchie, R.N., a returned Missionary from Central India. She delivered a very interesting and inspirational address, describing very graphically incidents and scenes in connection with her missionary activities as a graduate nurse.

The choir rendered two special numbers a quartette by Mrs. O. B. Johnson, Miss Allie Berry and Messrs Jake Isbister and George Berry, and an anthem by full choir.

During her visit Miss McMurchie was the guest of Mrs. Harry Campbell and Mrs. James Whittington.

Mrs. Willis Hall spent the weekend with friends in Toronto.

Rev. William Allan, Toronto (formerly of St. Paul's church Peterborough) and Mr. George Mann of Baltimore visited Rev. D. A. McKenzie last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kinsman, Toronto, visited Mrs. James Kinsman on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rivers and daughter Margaret have returned from visiting the Rev. and Mrs. Rivers of Bolton.

FREDERICTON—(CP). — Albert County has no government liquor store—and less than 100 per cent. temperance. The government found it necessary to prohibit sales of more than one two-ounce bottle of flavoring extract per day to any one person in the county.

The pall-bearers were: Donald Shannon, Richard Moloney, William Mechan. James Shannon, Eugene Brady, and George Forestell.

EDWARD TALBOT.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, April 12.— The death occurred in a Peterborough hospital on Sunday night, of Edward Talbot, Asphodel Township, in his 34th year. The late Mr. Talbot was born in Montreal.

He is survived by his widow (Clara Post), four children, Lorna, Cherie, Donald, and Alice.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence, Asphodel. Interment will be made at Westwood Cemetery. Rev. F. W. Newell of Hastings will officiate.

MRS. ROBERT McGREGOR.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CENTRETON, April 12. — The funeral took place on Friday of Mrs. Robert McGregor of Cramahe Township. The late Mrs. McGregor was in her 72nd year, and had been in ill-health for some time. She had been residing with her daughter, Mrs. T. Findlay of Meyersburg, where she passed away from a stroke.

Rev. M. L. Hinton of Castleton and Rev. Mr. Plant of Norham had charge of the funeral service, which was held at the home of Louis Findlay.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Findlay, Meyersburg, and two sons, Frank Marks of Campbellford and Will Marks of Toronto.

The remains were interred in the family plot in Warkworth Cemetery.

ANTHONY HERITY.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, April 12, — Anthony Herity, a lifelong resident of the Township of Huntingdon, passed away at the family residence at Moira late on Sunday evening. He had been in failing health for over a year, but had been up and around the house until only a few days ago. To the entire community and especially to many old associates, his death has brought sincere feelings of regret.

The late Anthony Herity, who was in his 85th year, was born in the Township of Huntngdon and was the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel John Herity. At an early age, he became interested in the cheese business and for over forty years he was cheesemaker in the factory at Moira, and for about the same period of time he conducted a general store and filled the position of postmaster at Moira. He was a man of business ability and upright character and had a great capacity for making lasting friendships. He possessed a pleasing manner and a friendly disposition. He never sought office, but was constantly being called upon to perform some public service which he rendered willingly and efficiently. He was a Justice of the Peace and school trustee and secretary of the Township School Board for upwards of forty years. Upon his retirement from business life he undertook the work of weed inspector for the Township of Huntingdon, and he was also the assessor of the townhip for some time.

In religion, Mr. Herity was a member of the Methodist Church, later the United Church of Canada, and when age and health permitted, he took an active part in church work; for some years he was church trustee and filled the office of steward. Fraternally, he was a Past Master of Roslin Lodge, A.F. and A.M., during its existence, and later he became affiliated with Stirling Lodge, No. 69, A.F. and A.M. At one time he was also a member of the A.O.U.W. and the I.O.F. at Moira.

Surviving him are three sons, Franklin Herity, Moira, Samuel Herity, Detroit, Mich., and Stanley Herity, Portland, Oregon; one daughter, Mrs. William Wright (formerly Miss Mae Herity), Dallas, Texas; one brother, J. O. Herity of Belleville; two sisters, Mrs. A. E. Mailey, Moira, and Miss Sarah Jane Herity, Moira.

His wife, whose maiden name was Eliza Bird, passed away about fifteen years ago. Two brothers and one sister also predeceased Anthony Herity. They were the late John Herity, Napinka, Man., the late Fred Herity, Belleville, and the late Mrs. W. H. Morton, Belleville.

MRS. J. F. ELLIOTT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT PLEASANT, April 12.— Mrs. H. Rutherford received the sad news of the death of her sister, Mrs. J. F. Elliott of Drayton, North Dakota.

The late Mrs. Elliott, formerly Mary E. Gardiner was born near Mount Pleasant on the farm homestead where her brother Frank Gardiner still resides, on the 15th of January 1850, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gardiner and received her education in the school of this community. On April 7th 1874 she was united in marriage to John Franklin Elliott, who pre-deceased her six years ago on February 7th, 1932. Three years after their marriage they moved to North Dakota, where they were pioneer settlers near Drayton, where they filed on a homestead, which they farmed with a marked degree of success. Both Mrs. Elliott and her late husband were leaders in the affairs of the church and community interest, being charter members of the Nowesta church, which celebrated its fiftieth anniversary in a beautiful grove on their farm seven years ago, one year before the passing of Mr. Elliott.

The late Mrs. Elliott, celebrated her 88th birthday on the 15th of January 1938 with the members of her family and other friends who gathered during the day to congratulate her, during the past winter she had been in failing health but was still able to go about her home, until the day of her death, when she was seized with a slight stroke and passed quietly away at her home on the 22nd of March.

Owing to the illness in the home of her son-in-law Mr. Dougal McFadgen, who was confined to his bed, with a severe heart attack, the funeral service was held in the church at Drayton, March 24th, 1938, with Interment in Drayton cemetery.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Dougal McFadgen and four sons, Ira R., Great Falls, Mont., Lewis W., Flaxcomb, Sask., Garnet and Dixon both of Drayton, one sister Mrs. Hannah Rutherford and one brother Mr. Frank Gardiner, both of Mount Pleasant and to whom the sympathy of this community is extended.

BEHIND THE CHESTERFIELD

BELLEVILLE, Ont., April 12 (CP) —While police, neighbors and his mother anxiously searched the district, Glen Calnan, age three, slept peacefully for hours behind the family chesterfield. Just as Mrs. Mary C. Calnan became convinced her child had met a serious fate, he rolled out and murmured, "Here I is, mommy."

SPEAKER NAMED

FREDERICTON — (CP). — Rev. Canon Marshall Scott, Springfield, Mass., former archdeacon of the Episcopal diocese of western Massachusetts, has accepted an invitation to deliver an address on behalf of the Associated Alumuni of the University of New Brunswick at the university's annual encaenia in May.

SHIP DOCK GOES WITH NIAGARA ICE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 12 —(CP).—Over the week-end the great ice jam between Queenston and Niagara-on-the-Lake broke up and disappeared into the choppy waters of Lake Ontario, leaving behind it damage estimated at $75,000.

With the last remains of the jam went more than half of Niagara-on-the-Lake Canada Steamships dock. During the winter the ice jams have completely demolished the dock at Queenston and little is left of the great dock across the river at Lewiston.

Walter Sheppard, Queenston agent for he Canada Seamship Company, says his company is undecided whether to repair the damage at Niagara but the Queenston dock will be rebuilt in readiness for the summer season. No decision has been made on rebuilding the Lewiston structure.

During the last week the ice had piled high over the Niagara dock and also jammed underneath. When the movement began, the ice below the surface snapped off the wooden supports causing the whole dock to collapse, three quarters of it sinking into the river and the rest being carried out into the lake.

AMATEUR CONTEST IS HELD AT CAVAN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, April 12. — On Friday evening the Tuxis Boys of Cavan United church sponsored an amateur contest, in Cavan Community Hall, with a good crowd in attendance. There were twenty-four entries. Oakley Carley, impersonated Major Bowes and Murray McCullough was chairman.

Among the prize winners were Frazer Carr, Grace Gillis, Ray Stewart, Bernice White, Stanley Sharpe, Jean Gillis and Bernice Richards. Twelve dollars were added to the funds of the Tuxis Boys by the evenings program.

Messrs Joe and Ralph Tyson were visitors to Toronto on Thursday.

Miss Bertha McNeil, Toronto, spent the weekend in Cavan.

considerable of his money on playing the horse races.

He reviewed his movie career, beginning in 1913 with Charley Chaplin, when he played a bob-haired little waif. His family, he said, was having "a struggle to get along" on the earnings of his father, a vaudeville trouper. From "The Kid" and 17 hit pictures that followed, Coogan said, all he received was an $800 automobile, a $6.25 weekly allowance and a $7,000 insurance policy.

As for a $1,000,000 "trust fund" supposed to have been left him, it never existed, Coogan asserted.

NORWOOD

PORT HOPE PASTOR ADDRESSES W.M.S.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, April 12.—The April Thank Offering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was held on Friday evening in the Sunday School room, with a fair attendance.

The meeting opened by singing a hymn, with Rev. Mr. Perrie in the chair. Miss E. Godin and Mr. Godin favoured the congregation with a duet, "Face to Face with My Saviour."

Rev. J. Foote of Port Hope was the guest speaker of the evening giving a very inspiring address on Missions. He stated that missions were the spiritual thermometer and barometer of the church and that the success of a church depends largely in its interest in missions. Mr. Foote said the challenge given everyone should be "What does Christ mean to me?"

The meeting closed by singing the Doxology and God save the King. Mr. Foote was tendered a vote of thanks by Mrs. Goheen and Mrs. Rork.

Refreshments were served by the ladies and a social time had.

THE FAVOURITE BEAUTY SOAP OF LOVELY "MISS TORONTO"

"THOUSANDS OF CANADIAN GIRLS FEEL THE SAME WAY I DO ABOUT THE New Improved Palmolive"

SAYS BEAUTIFUL Billie Hallam

"It's really lovely for my skin," adds this charming young lady. "The new Palmolive lather seems much gentler, yet keeps my skin much softer, clearer than any other soap I've used. And there's not the slightest irritation.

"The new perfume is delightful too. It makes Palmolive so much nicer to use. And now that Palmolive is harder, it seems to go much farther."

The new, delicate blending of Palmolive's soothing Olive and Palm Oils makes its gentle lather more effective than ever before. Use Palmolive, from now on. See how quickly your skin becomes softer, fresher . . . lovelier all over.

FIRST ONLY OLIVE OIL . . . NOW, ONLY PALMOLIVE KEEPS THE QUINS' SKINS LOVELY

Palmolive is so good, so safe, so mild, it was selected exclusively by Dr. Dafoe, for the famous Dionne Quins. Surely if Palmolive keeps the Quins' skins in smooth and perfectly healthy condition, it can keep all your skin lovely too. Get some today.

BORROWING EXPERIENCES

Typical of the many ways in which the Bank is able to render assistance to customers is the following experience from our records.

An experienced grocery man knew of an excellent opportunity to buy a small grocery business, which needed only experienced management to make it a profitable success. He brought his proposition to the Bank and upon satisfactory security a loan was made to provide the necessary money.

He bought the grocery business, managed it well, made it profitable, and in a relatively short time had repaid the loan.

North Monaghan Tourist Places Must Register Their Guests

Council Passes Bylaw Requiring Necessary Information To Be Obtained

North Monaghan residents who cater to tourists will be required to see that guests are properly registered and to refuse accommodation to all persons who do not supply the necessary information, as the result of an amendment to the by-law governing victualling licenses passed by the North Monaghan council at its regular meeting yesterday.

It was a busy fruitful session for the council also appointed a building inspector, H. H. May and made important changes in the building bylaw, and appointed Bruce Menzies as township constable and special enforcing officer under the Highway Traffic and Liquor Control Acts.

The revised building bylaw provides that no building of any kind or no repairs shall be made in the restricted area without a permit from the building inspector and that there will be no charge for such permits when the cost of new work or repairs is under $100. When the cost is from $100 up to $500 there will be a charge of $1 for a permit and above $500 the cost of the permit will be $2.

All the members were present with Reeve James Milby presiding. Bylaw No. 1106 was read and passed appointing Wm. Thomson, noxious weed inspector for the township for the current year.

Bylaw No. 1107 was passed appointing H. H. May building inspector.

Bylaw No. 1108 was read amending bylaw No. 964 to provide that every person licensed under this bylaw No. 964 shall keep on such premises a register in which shall be entered the name and usual place of residence of every person admitted as a guest in such premises and occupying room therein, alone or with any other person and in the event of such proposed guest refusing to furnish such information or in the opinion of the licensee furnishing false information, the licensee shall refuse to furnish shelter or supplies of any kind to such proposed guest. The penalties for violating this provision shall be the same as those in the original bylaw.

A resolution was passed that the road superintendent move the auxiliary grader house to the township gravel pit farm and that the insurance be cancelled.

Auditor's Report

William Lauchlan, auditor was present and made a report to the council of his audit of the township accounts for 1937. By resolution of the council the auditor's report was accepted and 100 copies were ordered printed.

A resolution was passed that the council meet at Montgomery's Hotel on Saturday morning April 16 at 9 o'clock for the purpose of the annual road inspection.

The council decided to hold a special meeting on April 25 at 7 o'clock in the evening at the court house to receive the tax collector's annual returns of property to be returned to the county of Peterborough and for his final return of the 1936 tax roll and for general business.

H. B. Rye, presented a petition from the Suburban Ratepayers' Association asking that the matter of police protection for the township be taken up, that sidewalks should be repaired and that they should be sanded next winter, and that the collection of garbage should be made compulsory and charged in the taxes.

The clerk read a long letter from the Department of Public Welfare re monthly grants in aid for township relief.

The following accounts were passed for payment: wood sales, $47.84; schools, $2056.00; printing, $15.06; Workmen's Compensation, $11.01; direct relief, $298.65; Board of Health, $17.00; snow plowing sidewalks, $28; salaries, $85.

Is Made Constable

Bruce Menzies was appointed township constable and special officer under the Highway Traffic Act and the Liquor Control Act, the necessary bylaw being passed.

The clerk was instructed to make an appointment with the Minister of Public Welfare for next week.

A resolution was passed that the clerk attend the University of Toronto extension course in public administration, April 25 to 29.

The next regular meeting will be held on Monday, May 9 at 2 o'clock.

The Rambling REPORTERS

SMALL CHANGE!

A highly respectable citizen attending one of the Passion Week services last night was seated in practically the front pew, and when the collection plate was due to be passed, found himself in possession only of a $2 bill and a big nickel. He was in great consternation, not quite liking to part with the bill, and also not liking to put his lonely nickel first on the plate. While he pondered, he noticed a spectacle case on the seat beside him, and idly opening it, beheld there sat a bright and shiny dime! Needless to say, he placed the two coins with a flourish on the plate when it arrived, and now he is wondering if the owner is Scotch enough to demand interest.—L.F.

PERCY J. CARTER GETS TWO MONTHS FOR ILLEGAL SALE

Police Officers see a lot of unusual things during their nocturnal patrols and are accustomed to strange sights, but when bottles full of beer start hurtling through the air out of the windows of an automobile, that is a phenomenon queer enough to arouse the curiosity of the most blase constable.

That is what happened on Monaghan Road early this morning as a police patrol car carrying Sergeant John Thompson and Traffic Officer Archie Menzies drew near a taxicab and the shower of bottles naturally caused the officers to do a little investigating. As a result, the two passengers were arrested on liquor charges, and as a further consequence Provincial Constable David Silvester arrested Percy J. Carter, Rose Avenue, North Monaghan, some time later, on a charge of illegal sale of liquor.

Pleads Guilty.

Carter appeared before Police Magistrate O. A. Langley in Police Court this morning and pleaded guilty.

"You know what is involved?" queried the Magistrate. "You know it means jail?"

Carter replied in the affirmative, and asked the Court for clemency.

"This is a case of a man with a wife and children whose salary is only $12 a week," Provincial Constable Silvester informed the Magistrate.

"Trying to make some money on the side," commented the Court. "There are lots of ways of making money on the side, but unfortunately for you the liquor business is not one of them."

He then sentenced Carter to two months in jail, the minimum penalty under the section under which the charge was laid.

The two customers whose attempt to get rid of the liquid evidence by tossing away the bottles had attracted the attention of the police were fined $10.00, and $4.50 costs each, one for illegal purchase and the other for illegal consumption.

More Liquor Cases

As the result of a raid made by Provincial Officer Silvester, Traffic Officer Menzies, and P.C. Percy Sexsmith, on a house at 4 Haggart Street, North Monaghan, last night, Mrs. Ada Blackwood was arrested on a charge of keeping liquor for sale and three men taken into custody for illegal consumption.

Mrs. Blackwood pleaded not guilty this morning and asked for an adjournment, the case going over until Tuesday of next week. The three men pleaded guilty to illegal consumption, and were fined $10.00, and $4.90 costs each.

Mrs. Nellie Zimmerman, also of North Monaghan, pleaded not guilty to a charge of illegal possession of liquor, and her case was adjourned until next Tuesday.

TRIBUTES PAID IN HIGH COURT TO R. R. HALL, K.C.

Bench and Bar united in tributes of respect to the late R. R. Hall, K.C., at the opening of the non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario, presided over by Mr. Justice McFarland, this morning.

"May I call the attention of Your Lordship to the great loss to the Bar of Peterborough and of this district, and generally of the Province of Ontario and also to members of Bars in other provinces in the death of our late colleague and friend, R. R. Hall, K.C.," Mr. Kerr said. "Mr. Hall practiced his profession in Peterborough for upwards of fifty years, and from the beginning he took a prominent place in his profession, and for many years prior to his death he was regarded as one of the leaders of the Bar in the Province of Ontario. He was particularly erudite in law and exercised sound judgment, and in his intercourse with members of the Bar, while strictly upholding the right of his clients, he did so with marked courtesy to the members of the profession.

"Personally, I feel the deepest regret in his passing. I feel that Peterborough has lost an outstanding citizen, and the younger members of the Bar have lost a friend to whom they could go with their legal troubles. Out of his experience and knowledge of law, he freely gave them that which he had acquired by deep research, guided by his alert and active mind. We feel his passing very deeply, and appreciate the fact that Your Lordship adjourned court yesterday to enable the members of the Bar here to pay their last respects to a dear and beloved colleague.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., said there was little he could add to Mr. Kerr's eulogy. When he came to Peterborough as a young lawyer he had consulted Mr. Hall on legal points and had always received helpful advice, freely given. Mr. Gordon endorsed Mr. Kerr's appreciation of the action Mr. Justice McFarland in adjourning the court to give the local members of the Bar an opportunity of attending the funeral service on Monday afternoon.

His Lordship supplemented the tributes to the late Mr. Hall by saying that his reputation was general throughout the Province as a fine lawyer and gentleman, and was known as a nestor of the Bar of Ontario. "Any relatives he may have left behind must be very proud of the reputation Mr. Hall had in this city and Province, and of the feelings he had engendered in the minds of his brothers of the Bar and of the citizens in general. From what I have heard of Mr. Hall, we shall not look upon his like again for some time."

Mr. Kerr said that T. J. Carley, K.C., nephew of Mr. Hall, "remains with us and bids fair to take his place."

"I am very glad to know that," Mr. Justice McFarland said, concluding the prelude of sentiment recalling perhaps for the last time the personality of R. R. Hall, K.C., in the court that had often been the scene of his forensic pleading and of his successors and also of some defeats or reverses in the long practice of his profession as a member of the Bar.

CHARGE MOTORIST DRUNKEN DRIVER

Percy Little, charged with being drunk in charge of an automobile pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Magistrate Langley in police court this morning and asked for and secured an adjournment. The case will be heard on Tuesday of next week, bail being fixed at two sureties of $500 each. Little was defended by W. B. Gordon.

When the case was called Crown Attorney McElderry asked that the charge be tried as an indictable offence. "I do not usually follow that course," he explained, "but I desire to do so in this case."

Little was arrested at 2.30 o'clock this morning at the corner of Park and Stewart streets.

Last evening Reginald Hopkins reported to the police that he had been driving north on Aylmer street at 8.45 o'clock and that at the intersection of King street and his car was involved in a collision with a car driven by Little and as a result the rear left fender of the Hopkins' machine was smashed and the engine would not start.

FUR PRICES ADVANCE

According to a fur buyer in the Hastings district Monday the price of rat hides have advanced from $1.15 to $1.25. Trappers report that the catch had been fair till the cool weather set in.

NEARLY OVER.

The trapping season will end on Friday, April 15, and the result will be that the folk who trap in the northern lakes will be out of luck. The ice is still fairly solid in northern waters, and it has been difficult to do any trapping there. The harvest along the Otonabee, at Rice Lake and on the Trent River has been fairly good.

EARLIER FISHING

Both trout and pickerel fishermen in this district are to receive a break this season, according to Fish and Game Overseer I. J. Lyons, who has received word from the Department that the trout season will open on Saturday, April 30, and the pickerel season on Saturday, May 14. In both cases the anglers are being given the benefit of the weekend as the usual dates of opening are May 1 and May 15 respectively.

MUST GRADE POTATOES

Inspector E. A. Walton of Newcastle visited the market on Saturday and intends to return within the next week or two to observe the selling of fruits and vegetables with special attention to the grading of potatoes. To the Examiner he said last Saturday that the potato men all know or should know the new statutes and simply have to conform to the required grading and selling on grade basis. An Uxbridge grower was fined $10 last week for selling defective potatoes to an Oshawa store.

Local Association Falls In Line On Earlier 'Lunge Season

Peterborough Fish And Game Organization Agrees On June 20 Date

The fishing season for maskinonge will open in southern Ontario on June 20, according to a recommendation of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association last night. Although the local association had preferred retention of the later opening on July 1, pressure of outside demands for the June 20th date was agreed to in a desire to promote harmony and goodwill among the various associations who have recently been consulted.

Early in the year the Durham and Northumberland Association had asked for the advancement of the opening ten days. From Leslie G. Frost, M.L.A., it was learned that preference in his district was also in favor of June 20, and as the season north of the French River opens that day and Quebec is even earlier on June 15, the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association fell in line with the majority, although it was a rather reluctant decision. It was felt that a later opening south of the French River might adversely affect the tourist business throughout the area.

Alex L. Elliott, M.L.A. and Mr. Frost were deputed by the Fish and Game committee of the Legislature to ascertain the attitude of the sportsmen in their respective districts. A petition was circulated here last week opposing the June 20th date and was rather largely signed, but when it transpired that Peterborough was virtually standing alone for the Dominion Day opening, the members agreed to the proposal for the earlier opening.

PAY LAST TRIBUTE AS R. R. HALL, K.C., IS LAID TO REST

Members of the bench and bar, along with large numbers from the professional and business world, paid last respects yesterday to R. R. Hall, K.C., lawyer in this city for half a century and once a member of the Legislature, who was buried in Little Lake Cemetery. A sitting of the Supreme Court, scheduled for Monday, was postponed until Tuesday morning.

Mr. Hall died early Friday morning after being confined to hospital for three weeks. He was 72 years of age.

Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, who conducted the funeral service with the assistance of Rev. D. A. McKenzie of Centreville, paid tribute to the initiative and forcefulness of the late Mr. Hall. The life of the deceased contained a wide variety of interests, Born in humble circumstances, he came to be one of the most outstanding successes in the law profession in this city and established a nationally known reputation in law in Canada, Dr. Barr said. He attributed this success to a combination of intense application and well directed energy.

Amid all his interests in commercial and professional life he still retained a place for the religious and literary sides of life, said Dr. Barr. "He was a man who had particularly enjoyed reading poetry and at the same time had a great veneration for the psalms of the Bible, many of which he could repeat, even as he did the great poems of English literature."

Mr. Hall's life, because of its wide variety of interests, made a wonderful story, but while there is always an end to a tale, there is never an end to a life of usefulness, such as he lived, Dr. Barr said. He quoted poems by Kipling and Robert Louis Stevenson, which he said had been highly treasured by the deceased.

Honorary pallbearers were: Judge L. V. O'Connor, of Cobourg; Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C.; E. A. Peck, K.C.; F. D. Kerr, K.C.; Albert E. Stratton, and A. W. Spence. Pallbearers were: James Heffernan, Roy Goring, Alderman R. M. Glover, Roland Denne, L. D. Magie, and J. A. Fair, all of this city. The Peterborough Law Association attended the funeral in a body.

Among the relatives and friends from out of town who attended the funeral were:

William J. Hall of Cambray (brother) and members of his family; Andrew Hall of Cambray (brother) and members of his family; Mr. and Mrs. George Bagshaw (sister) of Cambray; Mrs. C. A. B. Carley (sister), Fenelon Falls, and her daughter, Miss A. Carley; Mr. James Ludgate of North Bay and his son James Ludgate, Jr.; Mr. Bruce Ludgate, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jeffrey, of Toronto; Miss Margaret Hall, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Matthews, of Toronto; Mr. Charles Matthews, of Toronto; William Flavelle of Lindsay; J. A. McLaughlin, of Lindsay; Bruce McNevin of Lindsay; Hugh McDougall of Fenelon Falls.

LENTEN SERVICE AT ST. ANDREW'S

The first of a series of Lenten services was conducted last night at St. Andrew's Church by Rev. E. W. Young. The lesson was read by Rev. C. C. Boyter of Park Street Baptist Church, and the address was given by Rev. M. C. Parr, chairman of the Ministerial Association. The choir, directed by R. B. Harle, sang an appropriate anthem, with Adam Hawley as soloist.

"Keynotes of the Ministry of Christ" was the subject of Rev. Mr. Parr's sermon. Of the four keynotes outlined by Rev. Mr. Parr, one was the gospel of good tidings that Christ brought to men. His life began and ended with the visitation of angels. He brought good news about God, life, forgiveness of sin and full redemption. Liberty was a second keynote. With all our talk about liberty today we are still in bondage to sin. The Moderation League advocates liberty, but liquor binds men in its chains. John Newton was a degraded man, a slave trader, but in a miracle of conversion on the high seas he became a flaming follower of Christ. Another keynote was healing, the binding up of the broken heart. A gash in the heart was worse than a cut in the face, Rev. Mr. Parr said. Nothing would heal the world sooner than the cross of Jesus. The fourth keynote was vision. Christ gave sight to the people whose souls were blind. The vision of Saul of Tarsus, of Isaiah, of John at Patmos wrought wonderful things.

First Young Chicks Hatched Lakefield School Incubator

E. H. Brohman Conducting Successful Class In Agriculture At High School

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, April 12.—An unusual note was struck at the Lakefield High school on Friday last, and though not produced by Chas. Renaud's songsters, the note was decided melodious.

It was the ecstatic "chirp, chirp, chirp" of twenty-five baby chicks as they broke through the protecting wals of an environment which had become to cramped for them, to emerge upon the broad expanse of a great new world.

The chicks were the first to hatch in the Lakefield High school's new incubator which was purchased last fall for use in connection with the new classes in agriculture.

Agriculture is one of the subjects added to the curriculum by the new course of study and it is taught in the Lakefield High school by E. H. Brohman, a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College.

Twenty-one days ago last Friday, Mar. 18 to be exact, Mr. Brohman, assisted by some of the pupils, put 30 eggs into the heated incubator, and the incubation period began. During incubation the eggs were kept at an even temperature of 103 deg. by means of hot water pipes, the water in which was heated by electric plates. The eggs were turned at first twice, and later four times each day to assure even development. In addition to this the trays on which the eggs lie are turned each day. The heat is kept at 103 deg. by means of an automatic lamp, but the water supply mut be carefully watched and kept above a certain level.

The eggs for the hatch were brought by pupils, mostly by those living on farms, and each egg had the name of the owner written on it. Some pupils brought as many as four dozen eggs, while others brought only a couple. Every few days, as the incubation period progressed, an egg was taken from the incubator and broken so that the pupils could watch the chicks in the different stages of development.

Preserve Specimens.

A number of the specimens were preserved in alcohol, and specimens showing 2nd, 8th, 10th, 13th and 18th day growth, were kept to give the pupils a complete picture of the chicks' development, as well as demonstrating to them the correct use of the incubator.

Ordinarily the incubator is heated by coal oil, but the danger of fire from an open coal oil flame was considered too much of a risk, so electricity was substituted as a means of heating. The hatch is fully as good as though coal oil had been used, Mr. Brohman believes.

The usual period of incubation is twenty-one days and promptly on Friday morning the first chicks made their appearance. By noon there were twelve hatched, and by four p.m. the family had increased to twenty-five. Different varieties of eggs were used and it was amusing to see a tiny Black Minorca pushing out of its shell alongside of the creamy colored Leghorns.

The chicks were a decided novelty to the school pupils. There was scarcely a pupil in the school who did not come in on Friday afternoon to call upon the newcomers, and without exception they admired the baby birds. Already some of the arrivals had been dubbed such names as Grumpy and Pee-Wee.

Mr. Brohman has set up a brooder in the basement temporarily, where he will keep the chicks until Easter holidays commence, when they will be returned to their owners.

The brooder is an enclosure of boards and wire and is warmed by an electric lamp.

Bob Shearer and Leo Leahy, two pupils, have done considerable work in connection with the hatch and much of the credit for the success of the hatch, Mr. Brohman says, should go to them.

Realize Good Prices In Belmont Auction

The farm sale of stock and implements of Mrs. Delilah Barrons of Belmont was largely attended.

F. S. Johnston of Marmora acted as auctioneer. Her stock was in the best of condition and also the implements were good and everything brought good prices. Cows sold from $30 to $60, horses sold from $140 to $150, hogs went at $40, sheep went at $9 per head. Grain, rye went at $2 per hundredweight.

The implements also went at a fair price.

JAMES J. CONROY STRUCK BY CAR HAS LEG BROKEN

James J. Conroy, 70, of 547 Armour Road, sustained a broken leg and abrasions on the face when he was hit by a motor car driven by Norman G. Lewis, postal clerk, at 8.30 o'clock Monday night. The accident happened at the corner of Armour Road and Carlisle Avenue, just after Mr. Conroy had alighted from a bus. He went round the back of the latter vehicle and started to cross the road to his home, as Lewis drove down Armour Road from the north.

The aged pedestrian was struck and knocked down. Lewis stopped his machine within a car's length and the injured man was carried into his home by Lewis and Leo Allen. It was found that Conroy's leg was broken just above the right ankle, a compound fracture, and he was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where the fracture was reduced.

A headlight in the Lewis' car was broken and a fender bent by the impace.

"I didn't see Mr. Conroy at all until suddenly he was right in front of my fender," said Lewis last night.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien, who is attending Mr. Conroy, reported to-day that he is progressing favorably.

FINAL DIVORCE DECREE GRANTED

Three marital actions were given precedence at the opening of the non-jury sessions of the Supreme Court of Ontario with Mr. Justice McFarland presiding this morning.

A decree nisi previously granted Mrs. Ethel Aileen Martin from her husband Michael Martin was made absolute and final on th eapplication of G. N. Gordon, K.C., for the plaintiff.

An alimony action by Emily Mildred Pontbriand of Peterborough against her husband Yvon Pontbriand of Cardinal was transferred to the next sittings of the Court here, W. J. A. Fair represented the plaintiff.

One More Wedding

By HELEN WELSHIMER

READ THIS FIRST:

Garry Page, New York columnist, has just sailed for a few weeks abroad. Among his friends at the pier to see him off was Barbara Kingsley who came to New York the day before to fill a vacancy on a child magazine at the suggestion of her close friend Natalie Kendall. Barbara and Garry become interested in one another a few weeks previously when she was society editor of the Martinville Post and Garry had come to Martinsville for a wedding. Jack Metcalf, an author and friend of Garry, takes a kindly interest in Barbara after Garry sails. Barbara finds an apartment. A few days later Ruth Merryweather, attractive heiress and another close friend of Garry's, invites her to luncheon at her penthouse.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 9

Ruth, in a pair of thin gold silk lounging pajamas, was gay and friendly. Her rooms were gold and ivory that backgrounded her perfectly. She was sincere, simple, merry. But Barbara thought that the cloud never quite left her blue eyes. They were having luncheon on the terrace. The table had been set under a parasol that looked like a giant yellow mushroom. They were eating iced melon balls, when the maid came with a yellow envelope in her hand.

"A cable, Miss Ruth," she said deferentially.

"A cable?" Ruth asked and glanced down at it. Then her brows smoothed. "Oh yes, of course. From Garry."

ICED CONSOMME, in delicate gold-lined china, followed the melon balls at the luncheon table on the terrace, high above the city. Then there were creamed sweet bread, and a crisp, cold salad with long cheese wafers, and frosted glasses of fruit juices.

Barbara, hearing her voice sending words spinning across the wide terrace, knew that two months before she would have been happy just to be here. But now her mind could focus on nothing but the cable that Ruth Merryweather had received from Garry Page.

What could it mean? Ruth had accepted it so casually. Was that because it mattered so little or so much? One could never tell.

But Ruth herself brought up the suoject pretty soon. "Mind if I see what Garry said?" She slit open the envelope.

She laughed and the note were rich and throaty. "Garry is a dear. He didn't have to cable. A note would have done. But it's something I'm eager to know about, you see." She read and her face sobered. The cloud deepened in her eyes. She put the cable down, and the words sprang up to meet Barbara's eyes. "Impossible obtain immediate berth."

Ruth explained, as though she wanted to talk to somebody. "A friend of mine wants to go to England in one of my father's companies. Dad's over there now and Garry was going to talk to him to see if it could be done. I guess it can't."

So that was all. All of a sudden the sun was shinning brightly on the bright chairs and divans and cushions of the terrace, and the salad was delicious and sweet. It had been a business cable.

Ruth talked on. "It's so heavenly to have Garry on who to rely. I don't know what I'd do without him. He's an oasis in the midst of turmoil. I can't imagine getting along without him." She caught her breath as though the future without Garry were too frightening to contemplate. "He sent a radiogram the other day — a perfectly sweet and ridiculous one. You know, I don't think I appreciated him until this summer."

"Have you know Garry long?"

"Oh yes—three to four years. He was a college chum of a friend of mine and it was the other man who held a mild place in my life. It's just this last month or two Garry and I decided to grow acquainted."

Barbara knew who the man who had held a "mild interest" was. It was Bill Jameson. Was Ruth turning now to Garry?

She thanked the girl for the luncheon and went back to Natalie. She had packing to do for tonight she was moving out. One thing she must do. She must stand at the door of her living room and order every ghost of Garry out. The one from the biggest chair, the one that put logs on the fire, the one that watched her broil a steak. Then she would not be lonely for someone who never even had entered the rooms. She would not imagine anything any more, except stories for very little children.

Her good resolution held until she asked for the key and mail at the desk. The attendant smiled. "A cable for you, Miss Kingsley."

"For me?"

"Sign here, please."

She carried it uptairs, locked the door of her bedroom, and opened it. Five words laughed up at her. "How are you doing? Garry." A simple sentence, impersonal as rain and yet as intimate as — as two o'clock in the morning in a cab in Central park.

"Oh, I'm doing fine, fine now, Garry," she answered. "But what about you? Oh Garry, Garry, maybe you have a girl but I'm not so sure, after all."

She began her new job and came home each evening, tired but happy, because the work was good and she was catching on so easily.

Then one evening, Marie Rinehart Jameson telephoned her.

"Barbara? I've meant to look you up ever since the night we met but you know how time goes. Did you know—but how silly of me, of course you do—that Julia will be here Monday? I'm having a dinner on the Marine Roof and of course I want you. It's Thursday night."

Barbara heard her voice saying sweetly, "How lovely, Marie. But Thursday is a bad night. We close up the book that day and I may be still in a dither with cutlines and copy at nine o'clock."

"Come when you're through then. Dinner's at half-past eight. We'll be there until rather late. I may not have much more chance to see you."

"You are moving?"

"To England. Isn't it glorious? We'll be close to Paris and gaiety."

"Then Bill is changing jobs?"

"Well, it's almost certain. A friend of his has some pull and it's being arranged."

Barbara hung up and sat at the telephone table for a moment. Ruth was the friend with the pull, and the pull wasn't working, but Marie did not know that. So this explained Garry's cable and it threw a little light on Ruth's dependence on Garry.

While she sat there musing, the telephone rang again. It was Ruth who answered her "Yes?"

"I was thinking about you," Barbara admitted.

"I hope it was something fitting. Only what could be called fitting? Barbara, I want to ask you an outrageous favor."

"That scunds fascinating. Ask ahead."

"I have to see a friend of mine, a man, in private, and there isn't any place where the town gossips don't peer. It's nothing for their columns but they'll think so. Do you think I could see him at your house?"

"Of course. When shall I leave the key under the mat, Ruth?"

"You're an angel but don't leave it. You're to be there, too. And could it be in half an hour? He's calling me back to find out where and when I can see him."

This time Barbara did not sit at the table musing. She grabbed a dust cloth, ran it over the shining surface of the old furniture, straightened the magazines and books that crowded the tables, turned on some lamps and turned out some others. She carried the evening papers into the bedroom where a chaise lounge faced a wide window that looked down into a dozen back yards, tiny as the squares in a patchwork quilt. Then shes lipped into a green chiffon dress and ran a lipstick over her mouth. She was ready.

It was less than a half hour when Ruth came. She spoke quickly. "You wonder why I asked you to let me come, don't you? Somehow I felt that I could, and I'm afraid to trust any of the people I've known. They mean well, but a piece of news—and anyway," she smiled her slow frank smile, "Garry told me I could come to you if I needed help."

"Of course you can. Take off your hat."

Ruth threw a silly piece of black crepe that probably had cost more than the month's rent for the apartment into another chair.

When she spoke, her voice didn't falter. "Barbara, I didn't fall out of love with someone when he fell out of love with me. He married this other girl but he had had social position and rating all of his life so he didn't know they mattered such a lot to her. My uncle had been thinking of making him a vice-president in one of his companies and the girl had heard it. That was when we were engaged—I mean the job was suggested then. My uncle wants the post for a man in the family, so it left Bill—the man—out in the cold.

"Bill — it's Bill Jameson — didn't care. He liked his own job better, anyway, and we were planning to fix it up so he could thank Uncle George and turn the thing down. But Marie never knew that.

Perfect Your Dancing With Home Practice

The Right Way to Waltz

Clever girl—Sally! On the advice of a certain prominent dance instructor, she's perfected her waltz steps.

Now she not only waltzes divinely, but makes a picture of grace doing the fox-trot and tango. Did she wait to do her practicing on the dance floor? Not on your life!

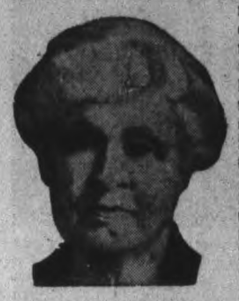
She turned on some music at home—then "Step, step, close!" she murmured as she imagined herself with a handsome partner, following his lead in the basic waltz step we have diagrammed. In almost no time at all, she was swaying gracefully to the music, without self-consciousness!

"As easy as that?" you ask. Yes, indeed—with our 32-page booklet to guide you. It gives diagrammed steps of all popular dances, tips on being more graceful, perfecting your rhythm, being a better dancer in every respect. A wonderful lesson booklet.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOME COURSE IN NEW BALLROOM DANCES to The Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

DOROTHY DIX

Honor and Self-Respect Are the Most Priceless Jewels a Girl Can own—Once Lost, Her Chance for Future Happiness Goes With Them



DEAR DOROTHY DIX — Jim and I had been going together for a year. He is 23, good-looking and earns $50 a week. All the young couples that we know park on lonely roads at night and pet, and we did like they did, but I would never go as far as the rest of them and, when I refused, Jim left me and has never spoken to me since. He said it was all right, as we loved each other. Now he is going with one of the other girls. All of the boys and girls who are engaged live together like husbands and wives before they are married, but I have been brought up differently and I have some ideals about marriage. But now I find myself in the cold. I have lost the only thing that mattered to me and I know I could have Jim back if I will only do as he wants me to do. If I take him back, will I be sorry? LONELY.

Answer:

Yes, my dear, you will be very sorry. You will be sorry as long as you live, because you will not only lose Jim again if you you take him back, but you will have lost your honor and your self-respect. These are a woman's priceless jewels and once they are gone she can never get them back.

You are so young and inexperienced and so blinded by the glamour of love that you cannot see that you never really had Jim, that he never intended to marry you and that he will not marry you if you debase yourself to get him back. If he had really loved you and wanted to marry you, he was in a position to do so, but he didn't, so all of his protestations of affection mean nothing. They are just the old line that every seducer has always used since the beginning of time. If you will look back, you will recall that he never once mentioned marriage to you. He never asked you to be his wife. Only his mistress. Believe me, you have had a lucky escape for which you should thank God on your knees.

I know it is a great temptation to a girl to let the man she is in love with persuade her that love justifies anything, but it isn't true. There are certain fundamental principles that nothing can change. Black is black ando white is white. Right is right and wrong is wrong. Principle is principle and weakness is weakness. Immorality is immorality and not all the sophistries in the world can change that. And when you sin you must pay the price, and nothing can change that, either.

It is true that men marry their mistresses often now than they used to do, but these marriages seldom turn out happily, because the husband never trusts his wife because he knows that she has no rock-bottom principle that would give her the strength to stand by her ideals and her code no matter how sorely tempted she was. He knows her to be a weakling who would yield again under sufficient pressure. In his soul he has a contempt for her. She has climbed down off of the pedestal on which he places a "good" woman and he never has the feeling for her that he would have for a woman who came to him with clean skirts.

Faith in the wife and reverences for her, two of the finest and most beautiful things that can sanctify marriage, are gone from the one that is merely the legalizing of an old liaison.

And suppose after you become a man's mistress he grows tired of you and refuses to marry you, what then? Suppose you become disgusted with the man yourself and fall in love with some fine, honorable man who you know would not think of taking you for his wife if he knew that you were a soiled dove. How bitter, then, is your punishment, for if you tell him you lose him, and, if you marry him without telling him, you must live in constant dread of his finding out about you and carry in your heart a shameful secret that will poison your whole marriage.

Believe me, my child, it pays a girl to be good. It pays her in health, in happiness in her chances of marrying a fine man, and it pays her most of all in her self-respect. The one person in the world with whom it is absolutely necessary to be right is yourself, and you can only be that by living up to the best that is in you and never lowering your ideals.

* * * * *

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a man of 25. Have supported my mother for eleven years. Now I have met the girl of my dreams—a fine, splendid woman, and want to marry her, but my mother won't hear of it. Says she will never give me up or let me marry anybody; that she will die if I leave her, and that she will never live in the home with my wife. I wouldn't ask her to do that because I know how miserable she would make my wife, because she is so jealous that she has had fits every time I went to see a girl. I don't feel that my mother should keep me from marrying and establishing a home with the girl I love. What do you think? And what am I to do about it? BILL.

Answer:

Don't discuss the matter with your mother any more. Just take your girl and step around to the parson and get married. As soon as it is over and a fixed fact that she can't help, your mother will have a few hysterics and then simmer down and be reasonable.

Don't worry about her dying or committing suicide. She won't do either. Millions of mothers keep their children under subjection by threatening to die for thirty of forty years at a stretch if they are crossed. It is a coward's weapon, but they have found that it works, and old women are seldom particular about the means they use in dominating their families. But don't take your wife to live with your mother, or let her live with you. Get somebody to live with Mother, or put her in a nice boarding house and although she will protest at first that you have broken her heart and been mean and ungrateful to her, you will be surprised at how chirpy and happy she will be. And when there is a grandchild she will think she engineered the match.

It is certainly the height of selfishness that the woman who married herself and had children who have brought her so much comfort that she does not wish to give them up, should be willing to deny these children the happiness that she has had.

* * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—What do you think of an elderly widow and widower getting married? They are both lonely and are thinking of merging their interests and setting up a home for both, but they are wondering what their children and the public will say. What do you say? X.

Answer:

I say it is a fine idea and for them not to bother about what the public or their children will say.

DOROTHY DIX.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S LAUGH

At first Uncle Wiggily hoped it wasn't one of the Bad Chaps making the rustling noise which he and Jingle heard when they were in the woods adventuring.

"Do you see what it is?" whispered the little twin rabbit girl, looking at her paw nails which were polished bright red. Jingle was a twin though her other half, Jangle, wasn't with her that day.

"No, I can't see who it is," said the rabbit gentleman peering through the trees and bushes with his bright eyes and sniffing with his twinkling nose which was pink though not polished.

Rabbits and other animals, even dogs and cats, learn as much about danger through their noses as through their ears and eyes.

"What does it smell like?" asked Jingle, also sniffing with her pink nose which, though it twinkled less brightly, was pink like her father's. Jingle had not learned to smell danger as quickly as had Mr. Longears. He sniffed again and said:

"It's either the Fox or the Bob Cat coming this way. Keep well back of me, Jingle. I'll protect you as well as I can."

Brave Fellow.

"Oh, Daddy! I—I'm afraid I'm getting scared!" said Jingle.

"Nonsense! I have always escaped from the Bad Chaps and I can again!" said Mr. Longears firmly and bravely. "I'll help you escape, also. If it weren't for that nail polish you have on, I could smell better which way the Bad Chap is coming."

"I—I'm sorry I used the nail polish," said Jingle. "I wanted to be smart and stylish. That's why I put it on. But I know, now, it isn't just the thing for animal girls to use."

"Well, never mind that now," said Uncle Wiggily. "We can talk of that again. Now do just as I tell you and maybe we can fool this Bad Chap if he comes this way."

"Maybe he won't come," said Jingle, hopefully.

"Yes. He is coming. I see him," whispered Uncle Wiggily.

"Who is it?" asked the little rabbit girl.

"It's the Bob Cat with his silly little tail of which he is sometimes very proud. Here he comes. Keep well behind me and perhaps he won't see you and I can make him go away."

Mewing and purring, the Bob Cat came slinking along He was sniffing and snuffing and soon he saw Uncle Wiggily.

"But you smell different" cried the Bob Cat as he reached out a clawy paw and caught the rabbit gentleman. "What's that queer smell?"

"If you please, it must be my nail polish!" said Jingle, popping out from behind her father.

Stylish

"Oh, ho! Two rabbits!" mewed the Bob Cat. "Ha! Ha! Let me see, no, which one shall I nibble first?"

"Don't you dare nibble either of us!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "If you do I'll call the Police Dog!"

"You may call but he won't hear you!" mocked the Bob Cat. "I say what's on your paw nails?" the Bob Cat suddenly asked Jingle.

"Red nail polish and very stylish, too," she said. "Would you like some for your paw nails, Mr. Bob Cat? It will make you stylish."

"Certainly I should like some red polish for my nails!" mewed the silly Bob Cat. "Give me some and after I tint my nails I'll nibble you both. Ha! Ha! Ha!"

Quickly Jingle took the bottle of nail polish and the brush from her pocket. The Bob Cat began coloring his nails and he was so intent on that silly business he never noticed when Uncle Wiggily and Jingle slipped quietly away and by hopping fast soon were safely in the bungalow. So this teaches us that, after all, nail polish has its uses.

And if the elephant will pack the rag doll's clothes in his trunk so she can go away for the week-end, I'll tell you next about Uncle and Tootsie's shot.

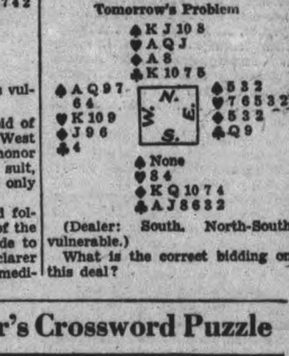
"The Authority on Authorities"

BEWARE THE SQUEEZE

WHEN you hold all the strength that is out against a pre-emptive bid, think carefully before you make a penalty double. Realize that the declarer has a very long trump suit which he is going to run, and that you may have trouble to pick the right discards. Even if you discard perfectly, he still may squeeze you and make his contract anyway.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

South made a third hand bid of 4-Spades on this deal, and West doubled. With so many honor cards, but lacking any long suit, West felt that was about the only action he could take.

He led the diamond K, and followed with two more rounds of the suit. A switch was now made to the heart K, which the declarer won with the A. South immediately started to lead his seven spades, and on the eleventh trick West was obliged to give up his heart Q or unblock his club K. It mattered not which he did, for South was able to cash the remaining tricks, as the club A furnished the entry to dummy to cash either the heart J, in the event the Q was given up by West, or the A and J of clubs, provided the club K was unblocked.

Poor West felt cheated to think his store of honors proved of no value to him. A shot at 5-Clubs would even have been penalized one trick, as North would have cashed two clubs and the heart A would no doubt have been the setting trick.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By R. J. Scott

Don Prieto Will Go Down As Spain's Strong Man

Responsible For Long Resistance Put Up By The Loyalists

By Central Press Canadian

BARCELONA, April 12. — Despite the fact that his position has now been reducted to a minister without portfolio, and even though the outcome of the Spanish civil war is now fairly certain to mean defeat for his government, Don Indalecio Prieto, former defence minister for the government, will go down in history as the strong man of Spain —the man who organized an ununiformed rabble into an efficient military machine.

Self-supporting as Child

Son of a modest public employee, Prieto was born in Oviedo, capital of Asturias, April 30, 1883. Left practically destitute by the death of his father while still a child he set to work to earn a living to support himself and his mother.

Moving northward to Bilbao, in the Basque country, where his mother later died, Prieto had many jobs—as street vendor, errand boy and newspaper seller.

From an early age he took an interest in politics, but even as a newspaper boy he displayed a liberal conscience and refused to sell any but republican newspapers.

Began as Copy Boy

He found the first chance of his career as a copy boy on the Republican newspaper "El Liberal" carrying copy from the editorial staff to the printers and proofs from the printers to the editorial.

Always ambitious, he learned shorthand in his spare time in the evenings, and so quickly did he pick it up that he was appointed a reporter on the "El Liberal".

Even to-day he still acts as shorthand reporter at Republican Cabinet meetings where secrecy in the minutes is essential.

Attaining manhood, Prieto quickly made his mark among the young men of the Bilbao Socialist party, a party which was moderate rather than revolutionary.

Assistant Mayor of Bilbao

He worked in their offices, spoke at meetings and distributed propaganda, and while still in his early twenties was elected provincial deputy for Viscaya in 1911 and 1915, becoming councillor of the municipality of Bilbao and assistant mayor in 1916 to 1918.

Not long afterward he was elected to the Cortes as one of the first Socialist deputies for Bilbao.

By inclination and temperament Prieto is a parliamentarian, and as such dictatorship is abhorrent to him.

He is no demagogue, no soap-box orator, and holds his audiences by the compelling logic of his utterances by reason rather than emotion.

Corrects Minister's Slip

In 1933, when opportunist turncoats among the Monarchists were serving in the Republican government, the then minister of justice made an unfortunate slip of the tongue. "Everybody," the minister of justice said, "is bound by the talk of Spain as a kingdom."

Prieto was on him like a flash.

"Kingdom!" Prieto exclaimed. "You pretend allegiance to the Spanish republic yet you still talk of Spain as a kingdom."

Such was the political capital made of Prieto's speech that the minister of justice had to resign his post.

In the last ten years of the Monarchy in Spain, Prieto continued his Republican activities, spreading his propaganda in "El Liberal," the Bilbao newspaper of which he had become the owner.

Sought by Police

An inveterate conspirator against established order, he was continually sought by the police, but although fat, bulky and unmistakable in appearance, he always managed to elude arrest.

He would remain unperturbed in his own house until he adjudged it was the right time to leave, and he would then vanish, calmly and without dispuise into France, where he continued to work for the downfall of the monarchy.

The outbreak of the Spanish Civil War found the Republican forces bordering on a state of chaos. The army and the navy lacked discipline, officers and materials of war. The air force barely existed.

New Defence Minister

Prieto, appointed minister of marine under the government of Senor Giral, held the same office under Largo Caballero, and later under Juan Negrin, was appointed minister of national defence, a position which combined the whole of the Republican war machinery.

With ruthless force he established discipline, purging all the services of political influences which sowed dissension and corruption. He punished deserters, saboteurs and spies with death.

By these measures he and his lieutenants turned the government army into an efficient war machine, provided the navy with a trained staff of officers, and enabled the air force to dispense with foreign pilots.

Tireless Worker

Prieto, the brains of Government Spain, worked unrelentingly from 8 a.m. until midnight, and such were his efforts that the Loyalists were soon building aeroplanes at the rate of twenty a month.

He lived simply and solely for his work. He was a diabetic and as such his diet was sparing. A fondness for eels was his only gastronomic luxury.

Even Franco recognized and paid tribute to his worth, as revealed by the following true story.

Before the start of the civil war, Prieto was travelling by train to Madrid. Juan March, financier of the Nationalists movement, happened to be travelling in an adjoining carriage. He sent a messenger to Prieto with a certain proposition.

Offered Wealth

Under the Republic Prieto would never grow rich. If he would join the rebels, however, he would have all the money he needed.

With a dignity which did not betray his anger, Prieto declined the offer. Spain, he said, was more important to him than money, and the future well being of the country lay with the Republic.

MILLBROOK

Mission Circle Holds Crokinole Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, April 12. — Nine tables were in use for play at the crokinole party held on Friday evening in the basement of St. Andrew's church, under the auspices of the Golden Links Mission Circle. The very unseasonable weather did much to lessen the attendance usual at this annual event.

Prizes, which consisted of boxes of chocolate Easter emblems in keeping with the season, were won by Brentin Dawson for the gentlemen, and Beatrice McDowell, for the ladies, the latter having been tied with Mrs. F. A. Kidd, in number of games, and winning the draw.

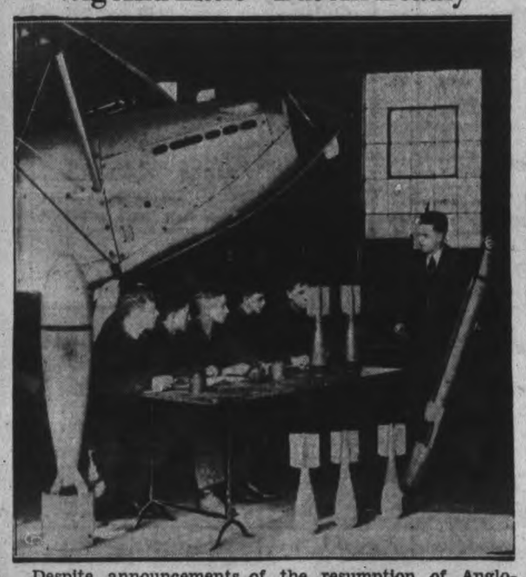
B. B. Dawson took the chair for the brief program, which included a trio by Ken Kidd, Jack Arundel and Orval Wainman; a reading, "Sidetracked", by Betty Lunn; a cowboy song, with guitar accompaniment by Claude Scott; and a recitation, "Gathering missionary money", by Ethel Hatherly.

Homemade candy was served before the pleasant event was brought to a close. Approximately seven dollars was realized toward the Circle funds, Mrs. J. McKnight acting as cashier.

A Mid-Ocean Vote On Anschluss

Because a federal law prohibits taking of a foreign vote in the United States, the crew of the German liner Hansa voted on the question of Austrian Anschluss with Germany while the ship was in mid-ocean en route to New York. The public room of the liner was the scene of the voting. Seated is Purser Karl Zeplein, who registered the voters. Of the crew, 330 voted "jah," six voted "nein" and one vote was voided. The German consulate at Ottawa has announced a similar procedure will be carried out on German vessels en route to Canada.

Big And Little – But All Deadly



Despite announcements of the resumption of Anglo-Italian friendship, and a hands-off policy in Central Europe, England is still continuing her armament speed-up program. Young members of the Royal Air Force are shown in a workshop at Halton Camp, Wendover, receiving instructions in different types of bombs—big and little—but all deadly.

MOUNT PLEASANT

INSTITUTE ELECTS OFFICERS FOR '38

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT PLEASANT, April 11.—The annual meeting of the Mount Pleasant branch of Women's Institute was held at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Mervyn Best, on Wednesday afternoon, with a good attendance of members and visitors.

Mrs. H. Gardiner thanked the members for the nice box of fruit sent her during her illness, and a letter of appreciation was read by the secretary from Ira Lowe for fruit sent after his recent accident.

Reports were then received from the various officers and committees. The treasurer, Mrs. M. Handley, reported a balance of $19.65 on hand. The secretary, Mrs. Best, reported a membership of 16, with an attendance of 129 members and 38 visitors during the eleven meetings held last year.

A quilt was sold and a quilt sent to the West for relief. A donation was sent to the Crippled Children's Hospital, Toronto. A donation to the public-speaking contest in the schools; a wedding gift was purchased for one member; a crokinole party was held in the W.I. Hall. There is a birthday box to be opened in May; twelve boxes of fruit were sent to the sick and shut-ins; four papers were given and 39 readings during the year.

A vote of thanks by Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Rutherford was extended to the treasurer and the secretary for their splendid reports and efficient services during the year's work by the president, Mrs. Shields. The roll-call contest was won by Mrs. Thomas Graham's side by 100 points over Mrs. Ira Lowe's side; the latter side will provide a treat for the winners.

Before vacating the president's chair, Mrs. Shields thanked the members for their co-operation during the past year.

Mrs. Ira Lowe took the chair for the election of officers, which resulted in re-election of the 1937 officers for another year.

LINDSAY YOUTH HAS BREAKDOWN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, April 12. — Carroll O'Connor, a youthful messenger in a local drug store, is in a serious condition following a nervous collapse as a result of jocularity aimed at him by his boy friends and associates. The boy, as a result of keen perception and quick action on his part, was instrumental in having placed under arrest by the police, Robert Simpson of Galt, who stole a car, the property of B. A. Wilson, local bailiff. He recognized the thief from a description given him. Since the incident young O'Connor has been dubbed a "Sherlock Holmes," "G-man," etc. This effected his nervous condition to such an extent that his condition today is serious.

Some of the transients who seek shelter over night in the basement under the Town Hall have displayed rare ingenuity in securing their "bitters" for the night, so the police have found out. The other evening a couple of the wanderers sought shelter, and after being searched, were given accommodation below the police office. Before seeking accommodation for the night they deposited a quantity of rubbing alcohol outside on the frame of the basement window, and after securing their quarters, succeeded in opening the window and drew the spirits inside.

The residence of Mrs. Ellen Stamp of Minden was partially destroyed by fire on the weekend. The blaze started from the kitchen stove, and had made considerable headway before being noticed. Most of the furniture was removed. The house was formerly the Methodist Church, and was one of the landmarks of the village.

Lad Of 4 Hums 3,000 Musical Airs, Good On Geography, Sports Too

Detroit, April 12.

A MENTAL marvel at four, George Lovett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lovett, Detroit, can hum the airs of 3,000 musical compositions, including themes of overtures, arias and marches.

His knowledge of geography is comprehensive. George can recite the population of the world's largest cities, name state capitals, the boundaries of any state, and waters surrounding any nation in the world.

Knowledge a sports editor might envy, he names baseball stars, their teams and batting averages gliby and in an off-hand manner, he can recite the Declaration of Independence, the preamble to the constitution of the U. S., name planets and tell their distance from the earth, and tell what nation raises the most wheat, cotton potatoes and other staples.

His father, a musician, says he began months ago, picking up things he heard us say. We have never allowed him to become commercialized.'

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

THE LATEST IN PRETTY SUMMER DRESS TUBS

Smart Voiles and Organdies, Chic and Practical

By LISBETH

SUMMER IS coming, and the thin dresses of washable materials will soon be abroad in the land.

The pretty costume pictured here has three important style points to make it a delightful costume for the warmer days. It is made of a washable flowered Swiss voile in peasant type of frock. It has the practically indispensable bolero, and the redingote effect effected by a buttoned-on overskirt of clear black permanent finish Swiss organdie, which can be laundered with perfect safety.

Fine Swiss voile is a member of the cotton family which, with its sheer daintiness and permanent finish, combines the charm and practicality so important in youthful apparel.

Delightful frocks for the sub-sub-debutante, as well as for her older sister, are to be found this season in plain, unpatterned voiles in pastel shades as well as in embroidered types, in which plain or multi-colored dots are gay against a solid color background. An interesting new pattern uses spaced dots in stripe design, and an allover embroidered type is delightful with white patterning standing out delicately against a softly colored pastel background.

Tied Knots Popular.

In the same category is the imported dotted Swiss with tied dots which is as popular and fashionable as ever. Time has not dulled the charm of this beloved standby. It continues to be as completely correct and practical as it was when our grandmothers were little girls. The dainty dots are fast color in all their shades, and laundering is a simple and safe procedure—which makes this material a great favorite with mothers.

Thank You Letter: Addressed to "Mac" of Peterborough—

I received your letter on the day the Dr. of the R. V. Hospital said I could sit up for 25 minutes and what a glad day. I took a hemorrhage on the 5 of March and lost my baby on the 7th. I felt so bad to think I lost it but it was God's way of helping us out—He sees before us what lies in our paths.

I showed the head nurse, also the other nurses the dollar and letter and they thought it showed a wonderful spirit of sacrifice that wonderful person showed.

If we had more like her there would not be sorrow and hunger in this world—so to whom it may be that signed herself "Mac" give my thanks for her greatness in giving to one unknown to her. May God never see her in want or trouble.
MRS. S. L.

Answer: I will speak for myself and "Mac" in regretting the loss of your little one—and think the philosophy you express in accepting God's will so gracefully, worth better than the lot you bear. Do continue to write to us whenever we can be of help. We wish you good health.

Question: About 65 years ago when I was a boy in Wales, I, with other boy, used to patronize an old lady who sold fresh baked herrings. She charged us a penny each. She baked them in a large dish, they were so well cooked we could eat bones and all.

I have often longed for a taste once more before leaving this vale of tears for parts unkown. I wonder if you are familiar with such a concoction and if you would kindly favor me with the modus operandi. Thanking you, E. R.

Answer: Thanks for reminding me of Baked Herring. To bake herring and soften the bones requires a long slow process, that gives the fish an inferior flavor—can't we compromise and remove the heads, entrails and bones before baking — then the process is shorter and the finished product much more appetizing.

Baked Herring.

Remove the heads from six fresh herring (the fresher the finer the finished product), and clean well, then remove the back bone intact, by slitting between bones and fillets on one side and forcing finger full length of backbone—trying not to break fish.

Lay cleaned and ried whole fish, folded back to original shape in bottom of large baking dish which has been well buttered, then sprinkle over, 1 teaspoon salt mixed with pinch of cloves (¼ teaspoon white pepper, a teaspoon grated horseradish. A blade of mace may be added if desired. Mix together 1½ measuring cups of cold water and ½ cup vinegar and pour over all. Dot top with butter, cover tightly and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 50 minutes (this is rather slow over for fish—if baked faster flavor of spices and vinegar does not penetrate fish so well). These are supposed to be served cold.

Question: For years I have canned meat in the approved method, in glass jars, and have been successful. This year I am tempted to do some by a method tried and prove for five years by my neighbours. But I am afraid of poisoning —tell me do you believe this practice to be safe; A small roast is selected, one to fit snugly into a jam pail, syrup pail or any such pail having a rim around the lid. A portion of suet is placed below and above roast, the lid put on tightly and the tin placed in the oven and processed the length of time necessary to do the weight of meat, to the well done stage. When the oven is opened and the tins brought to the door, hot wax poured over the entire lid, two coats are given. The tins are cooled quickly. This meat when opened has the flavor of fresh roast and the gravy is delicious. I have eaten it but still I can't say I feel safe in doing it this way for future use. The tins are only used once.

Kindly give me your opinion as soon as possible as I must do my season's supply very soon. Thanking you, E. W.

Answer: Thank you for your letter. Theoretically the method you describe is quite safe practice if each step is carried out carefully. If the temperature of the oven is sufficient to penetrate to the centre of the meat in the closed can and kill the bacteria at this point, and the lid is not removed even, an dthe crack in the lid carefully sealed with paraffine, meat cannot spoil.

My advice to you would be to roast one experimental can full of meat, then slice the roast at the centre to see if it is done—no redness should remain. Meat from healthy animals, freshly cut with sterilized knives, and put in the processing cans (which should be sterile) immediately they are cut should give a satisfactory finished product. Meat should be thoroughly cooked before using, by placing in oven cold and raising heat of oven to 350 deg. Put cold can of meat in cold oven, then turn on heat.

We hope this confirmation is satisfactory and that we can be of service to you again.

QUESTION: After reading the letter in your page re the lady who can't make cakes, if she lives in our town I would willingly go to her place and make a cake and lemon pie. I am not bragging but cakes and pies are my dish, in fact I am told I excel in just that. It must be luck or something. If the lady has a phone or would give you her number I will gladly help her out free of charge.—Mrs. H.

ANSWER: If our reader who wanted help with her cakes sees your generous offer I shall publish her desires and then you can give me your address and I will arrange an appointment. I certainly appreciate your generosity and am sure she will too. I would like to be on hand at the lesson, but know it is impossible. Write again if we can help you. In the meantime watch the cookery page for results of your kind offer.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Prayer without ceasing." The bird is not always on the wing, but is ready to fly at any instant. So the Christian is not required to literally be praying without ceasing, but is to have a holy attitude towards prayer."—Helps.

Dear Friends:

So many seem to have the wrong idea of how to be a true Christian. They assume that they must give all their time to spiritual things, they try it, find it cannot be done, then throw the whole thing up in disgust.

No one knows better than God that we are human beings, and that we must live as such. You can be a follower of Christ but you can never be like Him, for He embodied mortality and immortality when He became Man. We are mortals, but we can still keep in touch with immortality by prayer.

And, just as the bird is not always on the wing, but must light to feed, or get stuff to build his nest, or food to feed his young, so must we also light to do our work in the world. We cannot do it if we despise it, we cannot do it if we are always flittering around, and we show true Christianity when we do it right.

I often think it isn't God who expects so much of us, it is we ourselves. He isn't the One who takes the joy out of life for us, but our wrong idea of what the Christian life means. What do I think it means?

It consists in doing your best with what you have, not only to others but to yourself. It does not consist in going around with a long face correcting everyone you meet, or laying the law down to them that if they don't do as you do, they are headed for everlasting damnation.

I also think those who make it seem like that will have a lot of accounting to do one of these days. Consider the Life of Christ. Did He go around causing gloom wherever He went? No, He went around doing good, healing people, comforting the sorrowful, bringing light where there had been darkness.

Well, we can do that. You might say, "now Roberta, how could we expect to heal people?" I say, there are lots of sicknesses which would cure themselves if we would help to ease people's minds with a little kindness and understanding.

It is quite evident, that with all the strides medical men have made in trying to heal our bodies, there is still much sickness of the mind which reacts on the body. And it is only with the help of those around us that we can be cured.

So, if you have tried to be a Christian and found you could not live up to what you think a Christian is or should be, try being a nice human being for a change. Try being kind to those around you before you reach out for wings on your shoulders.

There are many so-called Christians who are absolutely repulsive to others, and there are many so-called bad people who, by their friendly acts have friends all over. Nowhere in the lift of our Lord do we find that He exacted homage because He was the Christ. He "went about doing good."

Could you and I not do that also, could we not spare a little time to listen and comfort the ones whose burdens are heavy? Could we not be ready to pray at any and all times, thus keeping in touch with our Father and thus get a better meaning to life? I think so.

So, be friendly, be humane, considerate, understanding, compassionate, in short be a decent person and you will come nearer being a true Christian than those who make a parade of it for all the world to see. So will you lift yourself like a bird on the wing to the seat of the Almighty. "Little children, love one another."

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Evening Branch
St. John's W. A. Meets.

After first listening to an interesting and inspiring address on the Peace of Bethany by the Rev. Canon Robertson, at the first of the Holy Week services Monday evening, the members of the Evening Branch of St. John's Women's Auxiliary held a short business meeting in the drawing rooms of the Parish House.

Miss Agnes Stout, the president, presided at the meeting. The minutes were taken as read, and Mrs. Jack Collis, Jr., the secretary, read the W. A. Bulletin, in which all Evening Branch members were asked to attend Holy Communion on Sunday, April 24.

It was announced that the annual Board Meeting will be held at Bowmanville on June 2, at 10.30 E. S.T.The report of the last board meeting held in Toronto was sent by Mrs. Ross, in which the highlights of the meeting were described. Mrs. J. Collis was elected as delegate to the annual W. A. convention in Toronto on April 25-29.

A large number answered the Roll Call at last night's meeting though several sick members were absent for which hopes for a speedy recovery were expressed. A few members decided to meet next Monday evening and finish the making of the quilt. Other reports were curtailed owing to the lateness of the hour and the meeting was closed with the Members' Prayer.

Alpha Mission Circle
Hold Easter Meeting.

The Easter Thankoffering meeting of the Alpha Mission Circle, St. Andrew's United Church was held Monday night, presided over by the president. Miss Muriel Wilson.

Supper was served first, with arrangements in charge of Mrs. W. Hardwicks. Following the business session a synopsis of the Chapter entitled "A Manifold Ministry" from the study book was given by Mrs. Ken Kingston, and Miss Ruth Kingshott contributed a talk on the "Stewardship of Thankfulness." The meeting was closed with the Benediction.

Business Meeting
Mays H. & S. Association.

The April meeting of Mays Home and School Association was solely of a business nature, and was held in the school last evening.

With the president, Mrs. W. H. Wheeler presiding, the busines included the appointing of two delegates to attend the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations to be held in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, April 18 to 21.

Plans were discussed for a pot-luck supper at the next meeting of the association, when the annual election of officers will take place. The draw will then be made for the quilt and the lamp on which tickets have been sold by the members.

The secretary, Mrs. P. Halliday and the treasurer, Mrs. H. Denoon, were both greatly missed at the meeting, illness being responsible for both ladies' absence.

Refreshments were served later by Mrs. E. Brierly and her assistants.

Play Presented
University Women's Club.

The program at the April meeting of the University Women's Club, held in the Green Room at the Y.W.C.A. last evening, was in charge of the Dramatic Group under the leadership of Mrs. R. G. Cornell.

Nine members entertained the club with the presentation of a delightful little one-act play, entitled, "Ladies Only", with the scene laid in the ladies' waiting room at a railway station. Very clever and amusing, the little drama was secured for the members by Miss Marie Hicks, who had seen it presented at the Summer School of Dramatics in Bath, England, last summer. The characterization was especially good with the parts taken by Mrs. R. G. Cornell, Mrs. J. L. McKeever, Mrs. G. D. Philp, and the Misses Josephine Lynch, Marion Harvey, M. Hicks, Gladys Moore, Irene Mark, and Dorothy Brisbin.

Coffee was served later in the library with hostesses in the Misses Shirley Muir, Alexandria Howson, Leonora Park and Mary O'Connel.

April Meeting
Central H. & S. Association.

The kindergarten room of Central School was comfortably filled Monday evening with an appreciative audience of parents for the regular monthly meeting of the Home and School Association. Mrs. C. H. McWilliams, president, was chairman and opened the meeting with the Lord's Prayer, repeated in unison.

Reports from the secretary and treasurer were heard, and from the various convenors, as follows: Mrs. N. Stanger, for the Local Council of Women; Mrs. G. Metcalfe, for membership; Mrs. G. E. Marshall, for relief; Mrs. G. A. Lee, for telephone. Miss Bonnycastle's room was successful in gaining the attendance picture. Several new members were present. Arrangements were made for a delegate to represent Central School at the annual O.E.A. convention to be held in Toronto during Easter week.

An enjoyable musical program and an interesting talk by Mrs. W. A. Young as guest speaker followed the business session. "Kindness to Animals" was the subject of Mrs. Young's address, and the speaker received close attention in a talk that was dealth with in fascinating and able manner.

A short sketch by Eva Blanche and Ronnie Parr was cleverly done and received great applause from the delighted parents. Mrs. A. H. Radford, playing her own accompaniment, contributed a vocal solo. Pupils of Miss Lily Bacon, including Lenore Fawcett and Arleigh Connal, reflected great credit on their teacher when they played beautifully two piano solos.

Mrs. McWilliams proposed a vote of thanks to the guest speaker and all the artists who had contributed to an enjoyable evening. The meeting closed with the National Anthem, with Mrs. Radford at the piano.

With Her Birthday Cake

Doesn't that look a good birthday cake? On her 11th birthday, Ruby Druce, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Druce of Victoria Ave., was given a jolly party by her aunt, Mrs. H. B. Kelly of 217 London Street, and attended by a number of her young friends. At refreshments time the guests surrounded an attractive table, decorated with roses, pretty candles and the scrumptious cake seen in the picture. Afterwards T. O'Brien furnished music for tap-dancing and solos. Ruby is seen at the LEFT in the above picture, with her friend, Dorothy Smith, and others attending the party included Betty Harrison, Clara May Althouse, Joan Simpson, Jean Arnott, Shirley Fish, Colleen Althouse, Margaret Arnott, Marguerite Buck, Dorothy Johnston, Shirley Smith, Joyce Simpson, Lucille Caddigan, and Marion McTeague. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. R. Hartley, Mrs. Harland, Mrs. G. McGuire and Miss S. Lappin.

Mrs. O. A. DeGraw Elected President Peterborough Ladies' Curling Club

The Peterborough Ladies' Curling Club wound up a successful and enjoyable season with a delightful dinner at the Empress Hotel, followed by the annual meeting and presentation of prizes.

Miss Helen Munro, the president, who presided at the dinner, proposed the toast to the King, and well-known curling songs were sung during the dinner hour. The ladies sat at a large T-shaped table, attractive with daffodils in a white bowl placed on a navy reflector, and blue candles in white candelabra.

At the following meeting, held in the upstairs sitting room at the hotel, the annual reports of the secretary, Mrs. R. Turner, and the treasurer, Miss H. Fanning, were heard. The reports of the Games committee, and of the Saturday night games were given by Mrs. D. S. Clarke; entertainment by Mrs. H. Dulmage, and accounts of the games for the various trophies in which the club participated, were given by the following members: Mrs. C. Westbrooke reported on the Iron competition for the Sewell Trophy, held at the Seigniory Club; Mrs. H. Dulmage on the Tolton competition, held at High Park Club; Mrs. O. DeGraw on the games for the Robertson Trophy, held at the Granite Club; and Mrs. G. Wood on the Brereton-Raw games played at the Granite Club.

In her annual report of the club's activities for the season 1937-38, Mrs. Turner gave the club membership as 26, with six rinks and four unattached members. During the season two general meetings were held, three executive and one executive with skips. Letters of sympathy and flowers were sent to members during the season, and were acknowledged with appreciation.

Games commenced for the trophies and cups early in January, and all were completed in record time, thanks to "the weather man, the ice man, and the Games committee."

The Tankard competition was held at the Hamilton Thistle Club, February 8 and 9, and proved both enjoyable and successful; Peterborough Club representatives including Mrs. Turner, Miss Munro, Miss Fanning and Mrs. DeGraw. At the annual meeting of the Ontario Ladies' Curling Association held at this time, Mrs. Scott of Bobcaygeon was elected president. It was decided in consideration of the smaller clubs to have one-rink competition, with the privilege of sending two rinks from each club.

One rink enjoyed the games for the Robertson Trophy at the Granite Club early in January. Eight of the local club members, Miss Patterson, Miss Montgomery, Mrs. Westbrooke, Miss C. Littlefield, Mrs. Turner, Miss Munro, Miss Fanning and Mrs. DeGraw played in the Iron Competition for the Sewell Trophy a the Seigniory Club, February 24 to 27, where about 160 Lady curlers were gathered from as far west as Hamilton and east to Quebec.

February 28 and March 1, the Tolten Competition was held at High Park Club, with Mrs. Dulmage, Mrs. Bruce, Mrs. Clarke and Miss F.Gladman taking part in the games.

Commencing March 21 to 28, the Brereton-Raw Trophy games were played at the Granite Club, Toronto, with an entry of 56 rinks. Mr. Giroux, Mr. Metcalfe, Mr. Cairns and Mr. Sedgwick each entered a rink, with Mr. Cairns and his rink carrying off the runner-up prizes.

Reporting for the Games Committee, Mrs. D. S. Clarke said that a most successful season with lots of curling on fast ice had been enjoyed. Miss F. Gladman skipped her rink to victory for the 'Gibson' troph, the personnel of the rink included Miss S. Mervyn, Miss Elliott, Mrs. Dulmage and Miss Gladman, skip; The Waddell Consolation Trophy was won by Mrs. DeGraw and her rink—Mrs. Lorrie, Mrs. L. Yeotes, Mrs. G. Wood, and Mrs. DeGraw, skip; The Vice-Skips Trophy was carried off by Miss Littlefield and her rink—Miss Paterson, Mrs. E. Clarke, Miss Munro and Miss Littlefield, skip; The Sturgeon Bonspiel was won by Mrs. D. S. Clarke with her rink, for the second successive year—J. J. Howden, Mrs. Yeotes, G. H. Giroux, Mrs. Clarke, skip; the runner-up was Mrs. DeGraw's rink, including Mrs. Lorrie, Mr. Fletcher, Mr. McArthur and Mrs. DeGraw, skip; the Consolation Sturgeon Trophy was won by Mrs. Wood's rink—H. Martin, Miss Paterson, Mr. Metcalfe, and Mrs. Wood, skip.

The Clarke Challenge Pins changed hands three times during the year, Miss Fanning's rink winning them from Mrs. DeGraw's, and Mrs. Turner's from Miss Fanning. Mrs. D. S. Clarke's rink now holds the pins having won from Mrs. Turner's rink.

Mrs. Clarke said that the Saturday evening games were enjoyable events. Seven rinks from Bobcaygeon play at Peterborough for the Harkness Cup, which was won by the local club. Six rinks from here played at Bobcaygeon, and there the cup will rest until next year, when it is hoped to bring it back home. Two friendly visits were enjoyed from the Lakefield Curlers, with return games played.

The various trophies were presented to the winning teams, as follows: Miss Munro presented the Gibson Trophy; Mrs. Turner the Waddell Trophy; Mrs. DeGraw the Vice-Skips; Mrs. Westbrooke, the Sturgeon Trophy, and Mrs. Clarke presented the runners up, with the Consolation Sturgeon presented by Miss Munro.

The president expressed thanks to all who had contributed to the success of the year, including H. Martin, and the chair was taken by Miss Fanning for the election of officers as follows:

President, Mrs. O. DeGraw; vice pres., Miss F. Gladman; secretary, Mrs. R. H. Turner; assistant secretary, Miss M. Montgomery; treasurer, Miss H. Fanning; games committee, convenor Miss H. Munro, Mrs. C. Westbrook, Mrs. D. Clarke; Saturday night games, Miss H. Munro, Mrs. C. Westbrook; social committee, Convenor Mrs. H. Dulmage, Miss M. Elliott; executive, Mrs. O. DeGraw, Miss Gladman, Mrs. Turner, Miss Montgomery, Miss Fanning, Mrs. Waddell, Mrs. Comstock, Miss H. Munro, Mrs. H. Dulmage, Miss M. Elliott, Mrs. C. Westbrook, Mrs. G. Wood, Mrs. D. S. Clarke, Mrs. J. A. Robinson.

BORN

MANN. — At Nicholls Hospital, on Tuesday, April 5, 1938, to Mr. and Mrs. W. Clarence Mann (nee Helen Garbutt), the gift of a daughter.

DIED

IRWIN, William Henry.—On April 12, 1938, at his home, Apartment 8, Lundy Block, George street, William Henry Irwin, resident of Peterborough for thirty years, following a long illness, in his 87th year. Funeral on Tuesday at 2 p.m., April 14, 1938, from Comstock and Sons Funeral Home, 305 Water street; the Rev. M. C. Parr of George Street United Church officiating; interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

ARMITAGE, Allen. — On April 11, 1938, at his home at 365 Leslie Avenue, Allen Armitage, native of Yorkshire, England, and resident of Peterborough for 40 years; in his 78th year. Funeral on Thursday, April 14, 1938, from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. James Bath, 365 Leslie Avenue, at 2 p.m.; the Rev. G. S. Easton of Trinity United Church officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

GRAHAM. — In loving memory of our dear Mother, Elizabeth Graham, who the Lord called home four years ago to-day, April 12, 1934.

Calm and peaceful she is sleeping
Sweetest rest that follows pain,
We, who loved her, sadly miss her
But trust in God to meet again.

—Sadly missed by her loving Son, Clifford, and Daughter-in-law, Pearl, and Grandchild, Ronald; also one Sister, Mrs. C. Genge.

GRAHAM. — In fond and loving memory of my dear Mother, Elizabeth Graham, who fell asleep in Jesus just four years ago today, April 12, 1934.

As I gaze on your picture that hangs on the wall,
Your smiles and your welcome we often recall.
We miss you and mourn you in silence unseen
And dwell on the memories of days that have been.
Dear is the grave where Mother is laid,
Sweet is the memory that never will fade.
Flowers may wither, leaves fade and die,
If some do forget you never will I.

—Sadly missed by her loving Daughter Hazel, and son-in-law Robert, and grandchildren.

PAST SCHOOL STOP GIRLS JUMP TRUCK GET BADLY HURT

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., April 12—(CP)—Three sisters were taken to Niagara Falls General Hospita on Monday with injuries received in an unusual accident.

The children, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deacon, Crysiers Road near Queenston are, Hattie Deacon, 13, head lacerations and lacerated and bruised legs; Grace Deacon 11, head injuries, concussion of the brain; Florence Deacon, 9, face and head lacerations and body and leg cuts and bruises.

The girls were walking along Crysler Road when Ernest W. Irwin, of Niagara township, who lives nearby the Deacon farm came along the road, stopped his truck and offered them a lift to school. They attend Maple Leaf School on the Creek Road. The sisters jumped into the back of the truck.

As Irwin approached the school it was reported he forgot about the girls and started to drive past the school house. The girls shouted to him but their voices were not heard by Irwin in the closed cab of his truck.

Leap At 30 Miles An Hour.

Florence became frightened and feared she was going to miss school. She leaped from the truck which Irwin estimated was travelling about 30 miles per hour.

She landed face first on the asphalt road. Hattie, seeing her sister lying in the road, jumped after her and also landed face first. Grace also jumped and she landed feet first and her head came back and struck the road.

Irwin, who was accompanied by his son Claude, realized when he was about a half mile past the school that he had forgot to let the girls off. He stopped his truck and the son stepped out to tell the girls that his father would drive them back to the school. Irwin turned his truck around and sped back.

He found the girls being cared for by a motorist who had found them lying on the road.

A Cough Won't Go Away Of Itself

Many people get a nasty cough and do not pay any attention to it, saying, "Oh, it will wear away in a short time," but even should it, serious injury may have been done to the bronchial tubes by the prolonged, harsh, racking coughing.

Too much stress cannot be laid on the fact that on the first sign of a cold or cough it should be gotten rid of immediately, as failure to do so may prove a serious matter to the general health.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has been on the market for the past forty-eight years, and we can recommend it as being one of the best remedies for colds and coughs you can possibly procure.

MISS AGNES S. FRASER, R.R. 4, New Glasgow, N.S., writes:—"I had a terrible cough. I used to cough a lot at night. I could not get rid of it. A friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It relieved my cough right away."

Trapping Days In The Mar shes Of Southern Ontario

Scenes like those above may be witnessed these days in practically every bit of marsh land around the country as the trapper hunts the rambling muskrat. At dawn, or even before, the rounds of the traps start as in (1) the trapper shoves his punt out through the bull rushes then stands up (2) to pole along the better to see—"yep that one over there" he says. Out he comes and the trap (3) is set for another $1 catch (that's all they are paying for them this year in most places). Out on shore (4) skinning operation starts on one of the ten furry victims (5) of the morning's rounds and in a very few minutes the expert will have them all fleshed out and on the stretchers (6) to await the end of the season and the fur buyer.

FRENCH STRIKE WIDENS HOURLY

PARIS, April 12—(CP-Havas).—Strikes in metallurgical plants around Paris became general today.

Ranks of the 60,000 workers already out nearly doubled when the Renault factories and then a whole series of others were occupied by the workers.

Pickets took up positions at all gates and inside the plants which resumed the appearance they had in June, 1936, when strikers raised the red flag over virtually every factory in the city.

Spread of the strikes folowed a statement by Premier Edouard Daladier Saturday to the effect that his new government would not tolerate the occupation of factories and that the strikers would be evacuated from the plants as "humanely" as possible.

More than 1,000 telephone workers at Billancourt, in Boulogne, occupied their building when the company rejected terms presented to them.

Looking Back
On This Date

A hundred years ago today the people of the then very small Toronto witnessed a spectacle which was never repeated in that city, the public execution of two "traitors", Samuel Lount and Peter Matthews. The Tories turned out, on the fringe of the crowd, to gloat over the "triumph of law and order." The common folk stood in silence and in horror as the law took its vengeance upon the two men who were to be martyrs for self-government, the other political prisoners in the jail nearby watched with tear-filled eyes, not knowing whether it might not be their fate to also mount the scaffold, but resolved that if it were, they would meet their doom with the same courage as did the two York county yeomen who died that we might have political freedom.

Fred Williams

Robertson's Landmarks of Toronto quotes from The Christian Monitor of April, 1838, that the two men went to their deaths in the presence of a huge concourse of spectators.

"The drop was erected in the open space between the jail and the court house," runs the account, "early in the morning persons beginning to assemble to witness the awful exit of the unhappy men who had forfeited their lives by the prominent part which they took in the late unnatural rebellion. A highly creditable degree of commiseration for them appeared to prevail almost universally, but not the slightest indication was given of any intention to interrupt the administration of the law.

"An armed force composed of the volunteer companies in the city was in readiness under the direction of the civil authorities to preserve order; but we are happy to say that their interference was not required."

The two bodies were buried in the potters field (now the junction of Bay and Bloor streets), but years later were removed to the Necropolis, not far from where Lount had sallied forth to meet the military on that December day in 1837, and there they were placed in a double grave over which stands a monument.

By a coincidence that April 12, 1838, was the 60th birthday of John Strachan, the rector of St. James church, archdeacon, and soon to be the first bishop.

UNDER THEIR NOSES

TORONTO, April 12—(CP).—Police were Johnny-on-the-spot for this safe-cracking. Seven officers sat in a cruiser Saturday night when their radio droned a warning an east end store was being burgled. It took them just six seconds to get there as they happened to be just across the road.

Eric Cameron, 24, Mike Budiuck, 22, and Frank Kenpedy, 21, were arrested for shop-breaking. Police said they were hard at work on a news agent's safe when they broke into the store.

MARMORA

11 ARE CONFIRMED ON PALM SUNDAY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, April 12.—Confirmation services were held in the Anglican Parish of Marmora on Palm Sunday by the Lord Bishop of Ontario. Members of St. Paul's choir, with Mrs. L. R. Rundle as organist, led in the singing of hymns at Holy Trinity Church, where service was held at 3 p.m., and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brown received the rite of confirmation.

Bishop Lyons chose as his text, Revelations 3, 11: "Hold that fast which thou hast." The evening service at St. Paul's was largely attended. The following were confirmed by the Bishop: Garrett Vincent, David Rhind, Arthur Lummiss, George Smith, Jennie Gray, Zeta Mumby, Kathleen Kerr, Enid Rogers and Mary Smith. The Bishop gave a very impressive address upon 'God and His Worship.' During the offertory, Mrs. P. Gray sang "The Holy City."

At the evening service at St. Paul's members of Marmora Branch No. 237, Canadian Legion, with members of the Ladies' Auxiliary were in attendance being led on the parade from the Memorial Hall to the church and back by Marmora Canadian Legion Band.

The lesson was read by Comrade W. J. Cottrell, and Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell in choosing "The King of Hearts" as his subject, spoke on the implications of Palm Sunday. Last Post and Reveille were sounded at the Memorial Hall by Comrade G. Brooks as the parade returned from the church. Comrade W. Bedore, recently elected president, was in charge of the parade, and upon its dismissal thanked the three organizations for turning out.

Paper Is Run Off On Southern Pine

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 12—(AP)—Successful printing of a daily newspaper on paper manufactured from black gum pulpwood was announced Saturday by Dr. Charles H. Herty, chemist who first developed newsprint from slash pine.

Bankers throughout the United States will receive copies of the Savannah Evening Press, printed on both black gum and slash pine paper, Dr. Herty said, in a nationwide effort to attract attention to "a profitable investment field."

Paper manufactured in the Herty Foundation laboratory here was used in the test runs Thursday. Dr. Herty said the paper showed up in first class shape and added that it was not any more difficult to make paper from black gum than from slash pine.

BRITAIN PRODUCES 2,000 NAZI VOTERS FOR PARTY AT SEA

LONDON, April 12 (CP-Havas).—Chancellor Hitler's annexation of Austria was endorsed by 2,000-odd Austrian and German residents of Great Britain in gay ballotting ceremonies aboard the excursion steamship Wilhelm Gustloff yesterday.

The Germans and Austrians, who came by bus, train and automobile from all parts of the United Kingdom, cast their ballots three miles off the British coast.

The final vote was:

Germans, 1,167 yes, five no.
Austrians, 801 yes, five no.
Two ballots were invalidated.

Chanting German songs to the accompaniment of accordions, the citizens of greater Germany marched up the gangplank of Tilbury linked arm in arm. Orchestras on shipboard played "Deutschland Ueber Alles," and arms shot up in the Nazi salute as the ship pulled out.

Great quantities of beer, sausage and potatoes were served the passengers as they celebrated the completion of the voting with singing and dancing in which the ship's crew and passengers joined.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, April 13.

A very lively and strenuous day is forecast from the ruling lunar and mutual aspects, although there may be setbacks, disputes, hostility, and determined opposition to challenge the capabilities and calm judgment. Quarrels and strife, as well as impulsive and reckless tendencies, had best be translated into tact, cleverness and industry, rather than violence and fiery technique.

If This Is Your Birthday,

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year in which the energies and business stamina will be challenged by open opposition, setbacks and disappointments, as well as dangers through fraud, treachery, and dubious circumstances. The most successful issues will come through vigilance to fraud, hard work, shrewdness and tact, rather than reckless deeds and violent arguments or open quarrels.

A child born on this day may be energetic and enterprising, but likely to be carried to defeating heights of temper, rashness and extremes in conduct, unless it be given early training and discipline in self-control and calmness.

Sheik Of Araby's Favorite Son Takes Bride Of Modern Mind

Algiers, North Africa, April 12 THE sheik of Araby's favorite son and his modern-minded bride-to-be awaited the hour of their wedding today in the sheik's palace of ancient Biskra.

The ceremony, uniting two great familes of Algerian nobility, and strictly in accord with moslem rites, was preceded by a reception for French officals in which the bridegroom, Si Mohammed Ben Gana, pledged allegiance to the French republic.

The bride Douja Ben Smais daughter of a wealthy professor, is equally firm in her support of France. Educated in European ways, she disregarded traditional moslem custom by making the trip from Algiers to Biskra with her face unveiled. She wore a tailored travelling suit.

Despite her leanings toward European customs, however, she said she would adhere to the cloistered life of Islam at Biskra.

CALL TO CANADA LOOMS ON R.A.F. FIGHTER PLANES

Britain May Extend Bids to U.S. Plants

LONDON, April 13. — (AP). — Earl Winterton, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, announced in the House of Commons to-day that the government was investigating the possibility of buying airplanes in Canada and the United States for the Royal Air Force.

Cheers greeted this statement, with which Lord Winterton replied to two questioners:

"Definite exploratory action has been taken in regard to the possibility of providing aircraft for the R.A.F. from the United States and Canada."

Numerous Members of Parliament have advocated this step as the only way to catch up with Germany's aircraft production in the near future. Great Britain's aviation factories, although working day and night, still are unable to meet the demand.

Some members have urged the government to build aircraft factories in Canada, arguing that in case of war a direct supply of planes from the United States might be shut off by neutrality act.

Officials refused to comment on unconfirmed reports that the Air Ministry already had sent a technical mission to the United States to examine the latest plane models and production methods.

Shadow Factories Now

OTTAWA, April 13 (CP)—Considerable progress has been made in the way of setting up "shadow factories" in Canada for manufacturing not only aircraft but also of various types of war material, it was learned here today.

"Shadow factories," it was explained, were those which had been surveyed by the government with a view to ascertaining their potential productive capacity of armaments.

A survey by the national defence department some time ago embraced more than 700 Canadian concerns.

Already some Canadian plants are turning out war material for the British government. Shells for the new 3.45 inch field gun are made by the National Steel Car Co. of Hamilton.

So far as British purchases of aircraft in Canada were concerned, nine Canadian firms are building airplanes for the national defence department, all of them types employed by the Royal Air Force. These embrace machines from the "ab initio" training type to the speediest fighters and bombers.

Some of those companies have representatives in London and they are believed to be advancing to the war office the advantages of having efficient aircraft factories established remote from centres that are liable to be destroyed by aerial bombing in event of war.

Following are the Canadian companies with which the defence department has contracts :Canadian Vickers Ltd., Montreal; Fairchild Aircraft Ltd., Longueuil, Que., Noorduyn Aircraft Ltd., St. Lambert, Que.; Ottawa Car Mfg. Co., Ottawa; DeHavilland Aircraft Co. of Canada, Toronto; Fleet Aircraft Co. Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont.; Boering Aircraft Ct., Vancouver; Canadian Car and Foundry Ltd., Montreal, and National Steel Car Co. Hamilton.

Canada's aircraft program envisages delivery of 102 first line planes under the 1937 appropriation, and 75 under the current year's vote.

U.S. Plans Spending Billion and Half Upon Public Works

Roosevelt Hopes It Will Revive Business, Industry; Adds Billion and Quarter to Keep Relief Work Up

WASHINGTON, April 13. (AP).—President Roosevelt and his economic advisers worked at top speed today to complete a new recovery and relief program, apparently agreed upon at a long night conference at the White House.

While the conferees did not disclose details, it was indicated the keystone probably would be a proposal to spend $1,500.000.000 on public works as a means of reviving United States business and industry.

This would be in addition to a $1,250,000,000 relief appropriation, which would let the works progress administration carry a peak load of unemployed from next July 1 to Feb. 1. 1939.

Both the public works and relief proposals were expected to be covered in a presidential message to congress tomorrow. Its first draft was gone over by the five cabinet members and three other administration officals at last night's three-hour meeting.

It probably will be followed tomorrow night by a 45-minute "fireside chat" in which the President may exlpain to the nation his views on the genera leconomic situation and the reasons for his new program.

Time has been reserved on continent-wide radio chains beginning at 10.30 p.m., EST.

ACTORS DOUBLE UP PUT CIRCUS OVER

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP).—Strike or no strike, "the greatest show on earth" must go on—and it did.

There were no peanuts or popcorn at last night's performance in Madison Square Garden as several hundred attendants, cogs in smooth running machine of the modern circus, quit the sawdust for the picket line, but tradition was preserved.

John Ringling North, 34-year-old "boss" of the Ringling Borthers and Barnum and aBiley circus, tugged at ropes and guy wires, a circus lawyer pushed seal wagons, clowns fetched and carried; and the eight foot "Texas giant" helped push the 10-ton cage wagon of Gargantua, the gorilla, in place of a six horse team.

The strikers, members of the American Federation of Actors, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, walked out in a wage dispute a few minutes before the night performance was scheduled to start.

10,000 Waiting the Show.

With an audience of more than 10,000 persons waiting, and cirtually no one to do the technical work, North ordered the assembly call blown.

Slightly bewildered performers pitched in with enthusiasm and for three hours "doubled" in the thousands of tasks of property-lugging, rigging and other work usually done by the attendants.

Professional jealousy was forgotten as members of one bareback riding troupe acted as grooms for another.

So successful were the combined efforts that many in the audience did not realize anything was wrong until North, as the show neared its end, thanked them for their indulgence during difficulties.

EASTERN ONTARIO ORANGEMEN POUR TO PT. HOPE RALLY

PORT HOPE, Ont., April 13 (C.P.)—Delegates from all sections of Eastern Ontario were in this Durham County town to-day for the annual convention of the Orange Grand Lodge, Province of Ontario East. More than 800 were expected to be registered.

Largest of the four separate conventions during the three-day sessions, the Loyal Orange Lodge meeting, opened to-day. The Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association and the Young Britons will hold their meetings to-night. The Provincial Grand Black Chapter convention opened yesterday with more than 100 delegates attending.

J. E. Magladry of Ottawa was elected Grand Master of Grand Black Preceptory with W. A. Andrews of Oxford Mills, Dep. Grand Master; C. E. Way of Tweed, Associate Grand Master. G. E. Raaflaud of Pembroke, retiring Grand Master, presided at the opening session.

The Grand Black Chapter passed two resolutions: One, that a letter of sympathy be forwarded to H. A. Graham of Kingston, Past Grand Master of British America and Grand Organizer for the Loyal Orange Lodge, whose wife died last week; and two, that a letter of sympathy be forwarded to J. C. Farquharson of Ottawa, Past Grand Master of Ontario East, who is ill at Ottawa.

This is the fourth time Port Hope has been host to the Orange Grand Lodge, Mayor George Bennett said in his official address of welcome. Conventions were held here in 1888, 1898, and in 1908.

Noted Speakers On List.

Other speakers today included J. L. Steel of Russell, Grand Master of British North America; T. H. Bell, Toronto; W. J. Armstrong, Toronto, editor of the Orange Sentinel; and Rev. R. A. Spencer of

Toronto Trio Meet Death In Crash

Speeding Car Hits Parked Truck Near Tilbury As Victims Return From Vacationing in Florida

TILBURY, Ont., April 13. (CP).—Three Toronto people returning to their homes from a southern vacation met death five miles east of here last night when their automobile crashed into the rear of a parked truck.

Harry Downing, 53-year-old dairy company executive and former athlete, his wife, Edith, and Robert Greer, 38, were killed in the terrific collision. The Downings were crushed when the engine was driven back through the car's front seat. An inquest will be held today.

Elmer Johnstone, driver of the truck, owned by Western Freight Lines, said his machine was parked at the side of the road with a broken connecting rod when the accident occurred. He was talking to another Western driver when they saw the Downing car approaching and jumped to safety.

Provincial police constables here said there was good visability and the road was clear at the time of the crash.

A Great Sportsman

Years ago, Downing played baseball with various Toronto teams and recently managed the Downing Dairy team in the Western City League. He was returning from Chicago and Avon Park, Fla., where Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League, are training. In Chicago he had competed in a bowling tournament. He was president of the Downing Dairy Company.

Tilbury is 15 miles south of Chatham.

Downing was father of Ruth Downing, one of the Dominion's outstanding swimmers. He used to row a boat behind her during Canadian National Exhibition marathon swims.

Greer was a star catcher in Toronto sandlot baseball. He tried out for a place on the Maple Leafs' team, but was unsuccessful. Another Toronto Amateur player, Frank Cater, failed to make the homeward trip with Downing only because he was asked to stay longer at the training camp.

2 Held For Theft In Cobourg Case

COBOURG, Ont., April 13.—(CP).—Discovery a vacant summer home had been broken into recently, was made yesterday as a result of the arrest of two men, William Doamer and Alfred Harris in Toronto. The two were caught, it was said, attempting to sell some articles in a second hand store. They later told police that they had stolen them from a home in Cobourg. Toronto police notified Cobourg and Chief W. J. Carey of Cobourg made an investigation, learning the home of F. G. Kay, summer visitor, had been entered. About $350 worth of furs, jewels, and other articles were stolen it is said. Chief Carey went to Toronto to-day to bring them back to Cobourg.

IMPERIAL JEWELS STOLEN

LONDON, April 13.— (AP).—An undetermined amount of jewelry which once belonged to the Russian Imperial family was stolen to-day from the home of Sir Harold and Lady Zia Wernher, Thorpe Lubenham Hall, in Leicestershire.

Lady Zia is the eldest daughter of the Russian Grand Duke Michael. She is a noted patron of the turf.

All Further Federal Cuts Will Fall On Municipalities

Department Points Out Ottawa's Share Only 21% For First 3 Months of 1938, With Future Uncertain

TORONTO, April 13. (CP).—Until the Ontario government can reach a new agreement with Ottawa on the division of relief costs, municipalities of the province have been warned by the Department of Municipal Affairs to budget for at least 30 per cent of their estimated gross relief costs.

Furthermore if the Federal contribution is reduced from April 1, the extra burden will be passed on to the municipalities. E. A. Horton, Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs, announced today that in the event of reduced grants from Ottawo the municipalities will have to "take up the slack."

For the first three months of this year Federal contributions totalled $1,395,000 or 21.86 per cent of the gross cost of all municipalities. During this three-month period the Ontario government contributed 45.09 per cent and the municipal burden was, therefore, 33.05 of the gross.

Future Uncertain

The division of costs for the remainder of the year, however, remains uncertain and the circular issued by Mr. Horton on the instructions of Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs, cautions the municipalities that their burden may be increased.

In the negotiations for a new agreement this month the province will urge again a 40-40 split of costs by the two governments leaving the municipalities to pay only 20 per cent.

"Until the answer is known." Mr. Horton suggests, "the municipalities should budget for 30 per cent. of the estimated gross costs for the nine months. If the Federal contribution is less, however, than the prevailing monthly grant, your share will be increased on a prorata basis."

ORDER TO MEXICO STIRS PRESS JIBE

MANCHESTER, Eng., April 13. —(CP Cable.) — The Manchester Guardian, which has long been urging the British government to take a stronger stand towards Germany and Italy, to-day pokes fun at His Majesty's government's dictum to Mexico.

"No one can now accuse the British government of not putting up a bold front to a foreign State with whose policy it disagrees," the Liberal newspaper said. "The British Lion has roared at last. It is true it roars at a distance of a few thousand miles and seeks to terrify a weak and insecure State, but it roars all the same.

"The Mexican government now knows that whatever else the British government will suffer tamely it will not suffer the expropriation of British property — by a small State.

"This, of course, is language only used by the strong towards the weak. It is calculated, naturally, to make the Mexicans love us and to cease their unreasonable public demonstrations against Imperialism and the domination of the economic life of their country by foreign capital. But it is a little difficult to understand all the same."

WILD LIFE LOSES GREAT DEFENDER AS GREY OWL DIES

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., April 13 (CP) — Lover of wild life and staunch campaigner for animal conservation, Grey Owl died in Prince Albert hospital today. The noted Canadian Indian's death came suddenly.

Tall and distinguished, Grey Owl carried his pleas on behalf of the forest animals he loved throughout Canada, the United States and across the ocean to the British Isles. Only recently he returned from a tour of the old country where he delivered numerous lectures.

He first launched his conservation work seriously in riding Mountain National Park, 180 miles northwest of Winnipeg, after spending his early life with an Indian band of trappers in northern Quebec. Struck by wanton destruction of fur-bearing animals, Grey Owl turned to a new life.

He wrote books and articles, pleading for conservation of game. He built a wild life sanctuary at Prince Albert National Park and called it Beaver Lodge where he placed his favorite beavers, Jellyrool and Rawhide.

Many Noted Visitors

Visitors to Beaver Lodge, who included the late Bliss Carmen, Canadian poet, heard the story of the friendly Grey Owl's aim in life after his Quebec trapping experience.

"Then I realized what a crime we trappers were committing against nature that had been so bountiful," Grey Owl related. "I dedicated my life at that moment to conservation of game. All my books are to teach people something of animal life."

His recent seven-weeks tour of the British Isles was marked by the refusal of the British Broadcasting Company to allow Grey Owl to lecture against "blood sports" such as fox hunting. He refused to alter his address, because he sincerely believed such sports were not human, and wished to turn children's minds from them.

The tour, however, brought its proud moments, especially his meeting with King George VI. The King, Grey Owl said later, was "all for" game conservation.

And he added:

"I started as a poor frightened savage on a stage in a theatre in London in 1906 with Buffalo Bill and I ended up talking to King George in Buckingham Palace."

His tours, lectures and introductions to the prominent people of Britain and United States appealed to Grey Owl but not as strongly as Saskatchewan's timbered north country. When he landed in New York from England, Grey Owl hurried back to Beaver Lodge, his six-

GERMANY BUSY ON FORTIFYING NORTH SEA ISLE

Admiralty Well Posted, British House is Told

LONDON, April 13 (A.P.). — Germany is establishing a fortified naval base on the Island of Sylt in the North Sea off the west coast of German Schleswig-Holstein, Alfred Duff Cooper, First Lord of the Admiralty, told the House of Commons to-day.

In response to a question he added the Admiralty "have considered all the implications arising from this new development."

He declined to "commit myself without notice" when asked if Germany had notified Great Britain of her intention to build the Sylt base in compliance with the terms of the Anglo-German Naval Treaty.

(Sylt, 22 miles long and varying in width from half a mile to eight miles, lies just off the German-Danish border.

(Germany already has re-established a naval base on the North Sea island of Heligoland in defiance of the Treaty of Versailles, under which the Great War base of the German Navy was dismantled.)

TORPEDO 'HORNETS' HELD EFFICIENT

LONDON, April 13. (CP Cable).—Alfred Duff Cooper, First Lord of the Admiralty, in a detailed statement in the House of Commons today replied to recent charges by Lieutenant-Commander Reginald Fletcher, Labor, in regard to motor torpedo boats supplied to the Admiralty by the British Power Boat Company.

Reports received on the behavior of the boats of the first flotilla, both at home and on the long passage from Plymouth to Malta, which was made under their own power, spoke highly of their sea-keeping qualities. There had been no reports of structural deficency. It was incorrect to say they could not do 200 miles at 30 knots. Their actual endurance at this speed was, in fact, considerably higher.

Mr. Duff Cooper denied the Admiralty had given a monopoly to one company.

"It is alleged that the engines were bought for from £5 to £10 yet the Admiralty was charged £3,800 for them," the First Lord proceeded. "There is no truth whatever in that allegation."

The British Power Boat Company did purchase some Napier-Lion Aero engines from the Air Ministry at about the price mentioned, he added. But these engines were not among those installed in motor torpedo boats taken over by the navy. All engines supplied to the Admiralty had been new ones. They were of modifed aero-engine type built under government inspection.

"The cost of these new engines has been shown to be fair and reasonable, much below the £3,800 alleged," Mr. Duff Cooper said.

The allegation that second hand engines from the Air Ministry's unused stock had been put into boats supplied the navy was untrue, he concluded.

CLUB HOUSE DESTROYED

CHATHAM, Ont., April 13.—(CP).—Loss of about $13,000 was caused by a fire which destroyed the club house of the Chatham Golf and Country Cub here early to-day. Cause of the fire was unknown. The building and contents were destroyed.

Insurance includes $7,500 on the building and $1,200 on the contents.

DALADIER WINS DECREE POWERS

PARIS, April 13.—(CP-Havas).—The Senate Finance committee today approved, with one abstention, the granting of decree powers to Premier Edouard Daladier.

The committee made no change in the bill already passed by the Chamber of Deputies to empower Premier Daladier to meet financial and economic problems by decree between now and July 31.

With Senate passage regarded as certain, Parliament prepared to adjourn until May 31, giving the Cabinet a chance to put its plans, including flotation of a 15,000,000,000 franc ($465,000,000) national defence loan, into effect.

Ottawa Solicitor's Death Laid To Starvation

Jury Finds Poisoning Involved —Arsenic Reported In Victim's Daily Ten Cups Of Tea

OTTAWA, April 13 (C.P.). — A coroner's jury investigating the death last March 25 of Thomas S. Cole, Ottawa patent solicitor, returned a verdict last night that "the cause of death was inanition (starvation) which was consistent with chronic arsenical poisoning."

Two doctors, J. H. Laidlaw and John E. Plunkett, told the jury that Cole's death was caused by starvation due to inability to take food. Dr. T. R. Little, who performed the post-mortem, concluded death was due to chronic arsenical poisoning, and that there were evidences of starvation.

Cole's widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Cole, said her husband was a heavy tea drinker, consuming about 10 cups a day. The tea he drank was a special imported brand.

Dr. J. S. G. Shotwell, consulting city analyst, said examination of the brand of tea Cole drank revealed the presence of arsenic, although there was not more than allowed by the Pure Foods Act of the International Treaty. He said the tea was received by Cole through a Prince Edward Island importer. Mrs. Cole said she believed it was

Scores Of Ducks Die As Jam Goes Out

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 13. (AP)

BREAK-UP of the Niagara River Gorge ice jam yesterday took a big toll of wild life, observers reported.

William (Red) Hill, riverman, said hundreds of wild ducks were crushed as they sat on the ice field. He said thousands of perch, apparently baffled by the heavy fog created near the top of Niagara Falls, were carried over the cataract before they were aware of its nearness.

Hoboes Oust Drunk As They Ponder Coxey's 50 Billion Dollar Idea

Altoona, Pa., April 13. (AP).

THE resolutions committee of the hoboes' 30th annual convention considered today the proposal of "General" Jacob S. Coxey to cure the United States' economic ills—the issuance of $50.000,000,000 in greenbacks. Coxey will be 84 Saturday.

Coxey, who led his famous "army" to Washington in 1894 during the Cleveland administration, made the proposal yesterday, advancing it is a substitute for the credit system.

He advocated issuance of the greenbacks through local banks owned by local governments. For collateral, he said, the banks could put up property of their governments until they had paid back all the billions at four per cent interest in 25 years.

While the resolutions committee met today to determine what resolutions were to be placed tonight before the convention of the itinerant workers, Hoboes of America, "King" Jeff Davis of the order expelled one delegate charged with drunkenness.

Japs Find War Far From Over As Chinese Troops Improve

4,000,000 Defenders Now Under Arms Equipped With Modern Guns, Planes

By Elmer Peterson
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

SHANGHAI, April 13.—(AP). — Employing all European military tactics with increasing skill, or, when necessary, the big swords of their ancestors, the Chinese, temporarily at least, have stalled the Japanese war machine on the Central China front.

The real test of this new Chinese resistance, however, is yet to come, with numbers, geographical position and improvement in training of soldiers among the factors in China's favor.

Japanese reinforcements are continuing to pour into Shantung province. This probably means a smashing drive to regain what is left of Talerhchwang, embattled southern Shantung town.

Chief credit for the Talerhchwang victory is given to irregular Chinese units who demoralized Japanese communications along the Tientsin-Pukow railway.

Chinese Improve Fast

Aside from this advantage in weakened communications for the Japanese, foreign military observers are agreed the Chinese are improvin gas soldiers. The Chinese troops who won at Talerhchwang were not polished soldiers, but they were far from down-at-the-heels.

They manoeuvred in accordance with the best strategy, seeking mobility in secret flanking movements. They rolled the latest type of German anti-tank guns and European field pieces into action. Chinese planes were as fast as any displayed by the Japanese. Estimates of Chinese now under arms run to 4,000,000, with a good supply of small arms and machine guns.

50 Stitches In Heart Victim Recovering

New York, April 13. (CP).

PATROLMAN William Manning, critically stabbed a week ago, was recovering in hospital today, after a rare surgical operation in which a doctor cut through his ribs to put fifty stitches in the outer lining of his heart.

Normally, cardiac operations are performed through the membrane, with diaphragm approaches such as made by Dr. Alex Nicoll, seldom attempted.

Manning was in critical condition when admitted to hospital. His life was ebbing and only a delicate operation could save him, so Dr. Nicoll "decided to take a chance."

4 Women Essential To Great Thought In Writers Says Law Expert

Washington, April 13. (AP).

THURMAN ARNOLD, Assistant Attorney General and successful author, suggests "a quadrilateral balance of women" for men writers as a possible "key to great thought."

He told the National Women's Press Club yesterday that the writers should have "a beautiful blond around to provide the romantic quality, an intellectual woman to pat him on the back, an efficient stenographer to take his notes, and a wife to cook a meal for the four of them."

With such perfect balance, he said, the writer wouldn't be conscious that any women were there and his mind would be free to soar to great heights.

REBELS SMASH LOYALIST LINES SOUTH FRONT

Tank Defences Wither Before Artillery Fire

HENDAYE, France, April 13. — (AP).—The Spanish insurgents have blasted their way through the Government's last mountain defences on the southern sector of the Catalan front, and are driving toward the port of Vinaroz, on the Mediterranean.

While elsewhere, northward to the French frontier, the insurgents appear to be checked, fighting in the south has been in progress since dawn yesterday.

Under cover of artillery fire, General Miguel Aranda took the offensive from a narrow position he had spent days in preparing — an area from Morella to the San Mateo highway, on the southwestern edge of Catalonia.

By nightfall, the Government line was broken, insurgent despatches said, and Government militiamen were retreating southwest to Albocacer. General Aranda's operations now have spread from his starting point to cover a 10-mile front.

Split Defenders' Lines.

Not only has he achieved his immediate objective of a broad base for the march to the sea, by splitting the Government centre on this southern tip of the Catalan front, but, by rolling back the Government left flank, he threatens also to encircle the rough oblong between Teruel and Mont Alban, Castellote and Morella—an area about 75 square miles.

Government troops put up a desperate defence for two hours but the aim of their artillery was inaccurate. Insurgent planes roared into the fray, blasting Government positions, while artillery batteries were dragged up the slope to a point-blank range for use against the massed tanks that had been offering the main resistance to the insurgent advance.

Insurgent successes were limited, however, to the area where Catalonia and Castellon Province join on the south.

ARMY SHOWS OFF FOR KING GEORGE

ALDERSHOT, England, April 13 —(AP)—The King and Queen yesterday saw the machanised army demonstrate its firepower and mobility in a mimic battle here.

From a hilltop overlooking the "battlefield," they gazed through a haze of smoke and dust, thrown up by exploding shells, at the array of tanks, armoured cars, field and machine guns engaged in the manoeuvres.

One tactic involved the crossing of a river with infantry using inflated "aeroboats."

Their Majesties summoned one soldier and made a detailed examination of the machine gun he was serving.

Throughout the mimic battle Queen Elizabeth, wearing smoked glasses, seemed just as interested as the King. She appeared excited and frequently borrowed his binoculars to study details of the operations. The Duke of Gloucester was with them.

Mme. Butterfly Feels Prejudices Of War

Winnipeg, April 13. (CP).

PREJUDICE born of war had made Madame Butterfly, unpopular in Western Canada, said Carlo Peroni, conductor of the San Carlo Opera Company.

Mr. Peroni said theatre managers at Vancouver, Edmonton and Calgary refused Madame Butterfly, which in other years ranked with Carmen as first choice of opera lovers.

The Italian-born conductor stated that he thinks music and all art should remain above all hatreds and prejudices caused by folly of war.

Madame Butterfly's theme involves a United States naval officer and a Japanese dancing girl.

FREED OF MURDER SPENCER STARTS HOME WITH WIFE

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., April 13—(CP)—Vernon Spencer, acquitted of a charge of murdering his woman companion on several annual hunting trips into northern Ontario, was bound today for his Wixom, Mich., home and reunion with his family. He was accompanied by his wife who stood by him during a six-day trial.

An Ontario Supreme Court jury, after three hours' deliberation, returned a verdict of acquittal last night. Spencer was found not guilty of shooting to death Helen Grier, 38-year-old Pontiac, Mich., stenographer who for six years accompanied Spencer to a lodge near Glendale, 38 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie.

Spencer, former professional baseball player, displayed no emotion when the verdict was returned. A short time later he and Mrs. Spencer crossed the St. Mary's river to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., preparatory for leaving for Wixom today.

The body of Miss Grier was found in the isolated hunting lodge last October 26. A rifle lay nearby. In a statement to police, Spencer told of finding the body when he returned from a lone expedition in search of game tracks and of making his way seven miles through dense bush to notify police.

In a 90-minute charge to the jury, Mr. Justice C. P. McTague said the accused must be guilty or not guilty of murder. He added "I could not reconcile my conscience to convict the accused on the type of evidence that is offered here."

SPAN GOES SAILING BEFORE IT SINKS

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 13 (CP).—A rusty mass of twisted steel that was once the Honeymoon Bridge lay buried under Niagara River today.

Supported by ice since it was destroyed last January 27, the skeleton sank into the river yesterday when the ice gave way to the warmth of spring.

Thousands were on hand to watch the last visible 200-foot piece of bridge move down river with the ice. They watched the frame-work sail like a derelict a half-mile until the ice support gave way and it sank.

The bridge collapsed under an ice jam 10 weeks ago. Until yesterday it had rested on the ice that destroyed it, almost under the points it spanned.

2 Horses Killed, 3 Men Injured In Three-Way Collision

Car Piles Into Prize Team Being Led Home And Second Machine Hits Tangle

KITCHENER, Ont., April 13.—(CP).—Provincial police to-day investigated an accident near Linwood last night in which two prize Clydesdale horses, owned by John Albrecht, Cross-Hill, were killed.

On the way home from the Linwood Horse Show, where they had won first prizes, the horses were being led behind a wagon in charge of Albrecht's son Norman. From the rear, a car approached driven by Oscar Wahl. It struck the horses walking behind the wagon, lifting one of them clear of the wagon tail board and dropping it in the wagon. The second was knocked into the ditch.

As the impact occurred tossing Wahl's car to the left, and another car driven in the opsite direction by Jacob Lantz, Linwood, struck Wahl's car. Wahl, carrying a washing machine in his car, was pinned John Albrecht, Jr., sitting at John Albrecvht, Jr., sitting at the rear of the wagon leading one of the horses, was knocked unconscious, while J. Albrecht, uncle of the owner of the horses, was pinned under one of the heavy animals.

Badly paralyzed, both horses were shot and killed by provincial police.

Campbellford L.A. Planning Program

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 13 — The members of St. Andrew's Church Ladies' Aid outlined an extensive program for the balance of the season when they convened for their regular meeting in the Sunday School rooms of the church. Eighteen members responded to the roll call and following reports from the secretary and treasurer the visiting committee advised the meeting that 14 calls had been made during the month. During the discussion of general business, complete arrangements were made for the tea which is being held at the home of Mrs. B. Frederick on April 20. It was thought that this should take the form of a Hostess tea with the ladies of the West side being hostesses to those from the East side. Mrs. T. Patrick and Mrs. W. McDonald were appointed convenors. It was decided to hold a quilting in the church on April 28 and the date for the semi-annual cooking sale was tentatively set at May 21.

Mrs. J. R. Battisby was appointed third Vice President in the place of the late Mrs. R. McGee.

year-old daughter, Shirley Dawn, "and our best friends, our beaver."

Pneumonia claimed the stately Grey Owl. He died here while his wife, Silver Dawn, recuperated in Grey Nun's Hospital at Regina from an operation. Silver Dawn and her young daughter, Shirley Dawn, survive.

Major J. A. Wood, park superintendent, said Grey Owl's six-months tour of England and United States apparently robbed him of resistance necessary to fight the disease.

BALLET MASTER QUITS IN DISGUST AT 'MET' PATRONS

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP).—Criticizing the Metropolitan Opera and its patrons, George Ballanchine, the Opera's ballet master for three years, has disclosed he will not return next season.

With him will go the American ballet ensemble, dancing troupe of the Metropolitan. Balanchine came to America in 1933 to help found the ensemble, first as a training school at Hartford, Conn.

"The tradition of the ballet at the Metropolitan is bad ballet," said Balanchine, former choreographer for the Diaghileff Russian ballet, the Monte Carlo Opera and London and Paris ballets.

"I cannot do bad ballet. That is why I cannot stay."

Declaring critics and dowagers did not like his dances because they were 'too good," Balanchine added:

"These people have been buying tickets to the Metropolitan for years and they have never seen the first act of any opera.

"I would never advise a talented person to go to the Metropolitan."

Edward Johnson, general manager, let it be known to-day that George Balanchine and his American ballet ensemble would not return to the "Met" next season.

Johnson, who returned yesterday from a three weeks' tour with the opera, made public a letter dated March 19 in which he informed Balanchine that the ballet troupe's contract would not be renewed next season. The letter gave no reason.

POLICE OPEN FIRE

LUCKNOW, India, April 13. — (AP).—Three persons were killed and about 100 injured to-day when police fired into crowds in an attempt to halt rioting between Hindus and Moslems. The rioting began after a Moslem had attacked a Hindu girl.

Grey Owl's Prophecy Comes True With His Death At Prince Albert

Grey Owl's last prophecy came true today when he died in hospital at Prince Albert, an exhausted man.

When the famed Indian chief lectured here he told an Examiner reporter that "another month of this sort of thing will kill me." That was on March 11, and he died on April 13, almost exactly a month later. Grey Owl, busy as he was, took time off when he was in Peterborough to visit 11-year-old Gerald Johnston, an Indian boy lying in Nicholls Hospital with one leg amputated.

One thing he wanted above all else, Grey Owl told The Examiner, he wanted to get back to Beaver Lodge, his home in the West, and rest there away from the hustle and bustle of a life of lecturing. It was not money Grey Owl sought when he continued his tour in spite of ill health, for several years of increasing popularity had given him sufficient means to retire. He travelled about the world with two aims in view: one was to help his fellow-Indian reach a position of respect and a means of livelihood in Canada; the other was to teach protection of this country's diminishing wild life. These things he told The Examiner while on his way to visit the little Indian lad whom he urged to "Keep courage; be strong."

To reach Beaver Lodge was his goal, the Indian Chief said. Once there he thought he would be able to recover from the complete exhaustion that was overtaking him. He was so run down in health while here that he said he was unable to remember from one minutes to the next the town he happened to be in. His wife, Silver Moon, had to complete all arrangements for his lectures, his memory had become so faulty..

MANUFACTURERS PLANNING SUPPORT FOR MILITIA UNIT

Gordon S. Matthews will preside at a meeting of representatives of local industries in the Chamber of Commerce at 5 o'clock this afternoon to discuss means by which co-operation may be enlisted in behalf of the Peterborough Prince of Wales' Rangers. It may be recalled that at the final meeting of the George Street Forum, Colonel John A. Dewart, officer in command of the local regiment, spoke of some of the difficulties that had to be surmounted in building up a smart unit. He said that in some instances recruits could not go to camp with the regiment because of intimations that on their return they might find themselves out of work.

It is believed that Col. Dewart's speech aroused a great deal of sympathy for the officers of the Rangers in their plans to develop a crack regiment worthy of Peterborough and the traditions of the old 57th Regiment and the Prince of Wales' Dragoons. Sentiment has been changing from disinterest or indifference to active support, and the action of manufacturers in today's meeting is regarded as a sign of their readiness to remove any obstacles from the path of the Rangers, and in addition to lend their active support to Colonel Dewart and his staff.

Having attained third place in district competition with such fine units as those in Ottawa, the men of the Rangers have reason to be gratified with the progress already accomplished. Selective recruiting within the last month has shown a decided improvement in the response of eligible men, and it is becoming apparent that local sentiment is steadily gathering spirit and substance to assist the officers in their ambition to make the Rangers one of the best units in the Province.

FIX LABOR'S ILLS OR RESIGN IS TIP AIMED AT OTTAWA

LONDON, Ont., April 13 (CP)—"It's up to the governments to find ways and means of raising money for labor reforms or get out and turn the government over to the working class who will do it" Delroy Robson of Toronto told the All Canadian Congress of Labor in convention here today.

The convention passed resolutions calling for various reforms, many of which provide for expenditure of money by the federal government .The debate arose as a clause stating that money would be raised through income tax on the wealthy, was struck out.

"It is the responsibility of the government to decide how the money shall be raised and to raise it," Robson said. "Its the will to do it that's necessary. They can find money for arms. Only a few years ago in Great Britain the dole was cut 10 per cent because they could not raise the money. Today they can find billions for arms."

Pension At 60

One of the more important resolutions which would call for increased expenditure was one asking reduction of the age limit for old age penisons to 60 years, non-forfeiture of property on receipt of pension, no deductions in pensions where other income received is less than $1,000 a year, elimination of provincial resident qualifications and an increase (unstated) in the pension.

Another is a public works scheme to stave off further depression. The original resolution called for a $1,-400,000,000 program but the final motion stated no specific amount. The preamble to this one pointed out that 2,451,000 were unemployed last November and the index of employment has fallen 13.8 per cent since then.

The Congress debated at length on the point as to whether married woman should be allowed to work if their husbands are employed and finally ruled out a resolution saying they should not work.

THEY TEST TEA FOR UNCLE SAM

NEW YORK, April 13.—(CP).—Seven dignified men sat around a tea table, but it was no drawing room affair, so they filled their spoons with the steaming liquid, sucked it noisily into their mouths and expectorated into cuspidors.

It was the annual meeting of the United States Board of Tea Experts who set standards for all tea imported into the United States.

The tasters, representatives of tea importing and blending firms, sit at a circular table with a revolving centre. On the table's rim are the coups and behind each cup stands a canister of tea which revolves from place to place.

Two gigantic cuspidors, fully two feet high, stand beside the table, for tasters never swallow the tea they taste.

Half a dime's weight from each canister is placed in the cups and boiling water added. The tasters spoon up the leaves and sniff them, rub them between thumb and forefinger and inspect the dry leaves in their palms.

The purpose of sucking the tea, it is explained, is to spray it over the palate where differences in quality may best be detected.

The board forwards standard samples to the department of agriculture to which all teas imported must conform. Varying climatic conditions in tea-growing countries make it necessary to set fresh standards each year

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

Scattered offerings forced Winnipeg wheat futures from early gains of more than a cent to-day. There was virtually no buying in late dealings as futures closed ⅛ to ½ cent higher, May $1.24⅞, July $1.13⅞, and October 89⅝ cents.

Higher Liverpool prices on expectation France and Italy may enter the market for supplies, reports of dust storms from Garden City, Kas., and firmness in stocks helped early advances. Later, however, Chicago weakened, presumably on more favorable reports from the greater part of the Southwest Winter wheat belt.

Denials recent large United Kingdom purchases were made under government account were said to have checked Liverpool's advance. It closed ⅛ to ½d higher.

EAST FIFE IN FINAL.

EDINBURGH, April 13 (CP. Cable). — East Fife won the right to oppose Kilmarnock in the Scottish Football Cup final on April 23, by triumphing 2-1 to-day over St. Bernards in their third semi-final battle. Both previous games ended in 1-1 ties, the last encounter, a week ago, going into overtime.

GERMANS LOOK TO NEW CLAIM FOR COLONIES

LEIPZIG, April 13—(CP).—With subsidence of foreign resentment over Hitler's venture in Austria, the German man in the street fervently believes the Fuehrer will renew with increased vigor his insistence on return of Germany's former colonies.

The German people generally have faith in their leader bordering on the fanatical. Past experiences have convinced them Hitler tackles nothing that cannot be achieved and are prepared to follow him towards any objective—even if it involves war.

While the chancelleries of Europe were brooding over the crisis attending the military occupation of Austria, there was little evidence of concern among the population of southern Germany. Foreign intervention was unthinkable. Hitler had spoken and whoever dared challenge his decision must be prepared to fight.

Military efficiency and thoroughness foundation stones of Germany's pre-war might, have been placed on a higher plane under the Nazi regime. Regimentation and military precision find their way into every form of life, at home, at work and at play.

The "re-birth" of the nation is the greatest boast of the average citizen. He goes out of his way to impress upon the visitor the remoulding of Germany's might under Hitler's leadership. Before the advent of the Fuehrer, they point out, the country was torn by clashing political interests, the country was in economic eclipse, in a state of bankruptcy, with unemployment rife.

All that has been swept away by Hitler, they say. To the German Aryan he is a demi-god. His name is on everybody's lips throughout the day in the salutation, "Heil Hitler." His picture is almost as commonplace as the swastika emblem and every factory and public building displays his bust in bronze in a prominent place.

But the German believes Hitler's mission is far from complete achievement. German minorities in other lands will always remain a deep concern of the Reich and the government is keeping close watch on the treatment of German nations in Czechoslovakia — the new powder keg of Europe.

A German army officer discussing the subject said: "A powerful self-reliant nation of 70,000,000 peoples will never tolerate ill-treatment of its nationals in another land, especially if they are there by compulsion. Germany will be ready to act if the necessity arises."

Look Far Ahead

Restoration of her former colonial possessions, however, remains as Germany's major grievance. Further delay in settlement of this question is regarded as an insolent rebuff to what the average German insists are legitimate claims. Germany must have access to a generous source of raw materials and responsible spokesmen recall the recent challenge of their foreign minister, Von Ribbentrop: "It is no longer possible to have milk and honey flowing in some countries while others have to fight for a mere minimum of existence. The remedy can be found, either by solving the problem of returning Germany's former colonies, or by the German people's own strength."

The charge that Germany's Empire ambitions will not be fulfilled by restoration of her former possession is brushed aside with indignant protest. "It is easy to offer such excuses," a government economist said. "All Germany wants is the right to share some of the world's rich resources for the sustenance of her own people."

Germany, he said, had been forced into a pact with Japan—an unnatural alliance would be ultimately dissolved. By extending colonial interests to Germany, she would be brought into zones of influence helpful to Britain and other colonial powers.

Roosevelt's Reorganization Bill Defeated

Jubilant Republicans cheered the defeat of President Roosevelt's reorganization bill and hailed the Democractic bolt in the United States House of Representatives as a vote of lack of confidence in the president. Representative John J. O'Connor, of New York, who led the opposition in the battle against the reorganization bill, is shown holding congratulatory telegrams that were sent to him after the bill was killed by a 204-196 vote. The bill, designed among other things to give the president complete control over Civil Service, would have given Roosevelt wide dictatorial powers.

CANADA A LEADER

WINDSOR, Ont., April 13 (CP).—Destiny has cast Canada in the role of leader "in setting the example to the rest of the world in the establishment of a perfect social system," Gordon Harbison, Hamilton, past national president of Kinsmen, told an inter-club gathering of Kinsmen here last night. Members were present from Windsor, Sarnia, Hamilton, Chatham, Simcoe and other points. "We are too prone to blame our living conditions on the economic plan, considering only the financial phase of our existence," he charged.

Walt Disney's Brain Children Keep 'Help Wanted' Sign Out

Mickey Mouse's "Papa" Plans Comeback For His No. 1 Star This Year

HOLLYWOOD, April 13—(AP).—Walt Disney, Mickey Mouse's 'Papa,' is like the old woman who lived in a shoe. He has so many brain children he doesn't know what to do.

While other film studios are cutting out jobs and slackening production, Disney's plant employs more than 700 workers — a record number . The "help wanted" sign hangs on the door.

Mickey, who made his first hit 10 years ago, is still the No. 1 star. Disney says so. But Mickey was almost crowded out as the Disney family grew. It's strictly on his creator's orders that he's making a comeback this year.

As Disney sees it, Donald Duck and other upstarts have been getting the best gags. They were a fresh stimulus and unintentionally the animators slighted Mickey. Donald now is an established star.

Pluto and Goofy, the dogs, have won popularity. Wilbur, the grasshopper, Gus, the goose, and Donald's three duckling nephews, Huel, Dewey and Looey, are on the upswing.

The Three Little Pigs, after an absence of five years, are coming back—with the Big Bad Wolf. This time they will use a lie detector to foil the wolf, who by now has three little wolves. Eighteen short cartoons a year is the studio schedule.

WAR STOWAWAYS WORK WAY HOME

PROVIDENCE, R.I., April 13. — (CP).—The British freighter Essex Druid docked here yesterday, 26 days out of Barcelona, with two men, one a Canadian, who served in the International Brigade with the Spanish Government forces in the fighting in Spain.

The two began their trip to Providence as stowaways and signed on at Gibraltar.

The rusty-hulled adventurer, which lay huddled beneath the anti-aircraft guns of a Barcelona fort for 34 days while insurgent bombers worked on the Spanish Government loyalist capital, is taking on a cargo of scrap metal. She will then clear for Barcelona.

William Cooper, 28, a New Yorker, and Jack Pascal, 26, who said he was from Montreal, are the stowaway sailors.

U.S. AGRICULTURAL PROSPECTS EASE

CHICAGO, April 13 (A.P.). — United States agricultural prospects, reckoned in dollars and cents, do not appear as bright this spring as they did a year ago, Government reports disclosed to-day.

It was indicated 1938 farm cash income would be around $7,000,000,000 short of the $8,500,000,000 which went to farmers in 1937.

The general trend of prices paid for farm products has been downward since last spring, although the Bureau of Agriculture Economics announced demand for such commodities has become relatively stable in recent weeks compared with the sharp decline during the last four months of last year.

Irregular improvement in industrial conditions during 1938 is expected, the Bureau announced, but it was not regarded likely it would be sufficient to cause a material increase in demand for farm products.

Cash income from sales of farm products, the Bureau said, may be about $3,000,000,000 during the first six months of this year as compared with $3,500,000,000 during the same period last year. If this ratio is maintained for the second half of the year the loss in cash income would exceed $1,000,000,000.

From B. A. Snow, crop expert and statistician, came reports that conditions up to the present time have been favorable for good crops this year. Farmers, however, are concerned about a grasshopper menace.

2 AYRSHIRES JOIN CHARMED CIRCLE

OTTAWA, April 13 (C.P.). — Two more Ayrshire cows, one in British Columbia and the other in Quebec, have attained the 100,000-lb. milk class, the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association announced last night.

Through her production of 113,111 pounds of milk and 4,823 pounds of butterfat in 2,540 milking days, Rainton Rosalind, imp., owned by the University of British Columbia, became the 23rd Canadian Ayrshire cow to be included in the 100,000-pound class.

The 24th entrant to the class is Charmante Du Portage, bred and owned by College de L'Assomption, L'Assomption, Que. She produced 102,925 pounds of milk and 4,070 pounds of butterfat in 3,037 milking days.

A Law Unto Himself

A young man of 24 years who manages a picture show in Windsor drove to London, and in doing so made his car go 80 miles per hour. A traffic officer trailed him and said he could not gain on him until the driver started to slow down to 60 miles an hour when about to enter London.

The result was a fine of $20 and the imposing of a ban of fifteen days against driving.

A man who undertakes to drive a car 80 miles an hour on a highway has a rather exaggerated opinion of his own ability. Highways are not by any means model roads; in the spring of the year they have bumps and depressions; they are uneven on the surface and there are places where it does not take much to throw a car off its course.

In this case we do not believe a young man who is minded to drive at 80 miles per hour on a public highway should be granted the right to use our roads. His outlook is all wrong; he ignores the fact that the limit was raised from 35 to 50 miles to permit of rapid driving. He is one who places his own limits regardless of what the law says. It would be safer for him and for many others if he drove no more.

Not A Pleasant Idea

In these troubled days we find some crumb of comfort in thinking we have a navy. At the moment it is at Vancouver; the entire navy is there; the Skeena, Fraser, Saguenay and St. Laurent. For a number of weeks these vessels have been doing war manoeuvres south of the Equator, and during that time we have been undefended, and being undefended with so much trouble in the world is not comfortable.

There is something about a naval vessel which one cannot help but like. No matter what the weather may be the vessel is all right. It is a tough thing. If the waves break right over it then that's all right, too.

But there is a fly in this pleasant thought of safety in our navy of four vessels. The St. Laurent had to leave the other vessels at Kingston, Jamaica, and the reason was that some of the crew had the measles. And the idea of an attack of the measles being sufficient to cause one-quarter of our entire navy to be in a position of temporary disability is not comforting. It causes our sense of security to ooze, to evaporate and to somewhat disappear. If measles had broken out on two of our vessels it would have meant that entirely one-half of our naval strength would have been crippled. Not by heavy seas, not by the guns or the enemy, and not by the heat of the equator. Just by measles. It might be well to enlist only such folk as have already had the measles and therefore are unlikely to have them again. We confess to feeling a bit shaky over the idea of our navy being liable to cancellation in strength by such a thing as mere measles.

Ah! An Extra!

The Canada Gazette has published an extra. It says so in capital letters right on top of the page; on top even of the coat of arms. Possibly it is the training of many years, but when we see an "Extra" we just drop everything else to find out what has taken place. And thus we read:

CHAMBER OF THE SENATE

Ottawa, April 7,1938.

This day at 5.30 o'clock p.m., the Honourable Thibaudeau Rinfret, Deputy of His Excellency the Governor General, proceeded to the Chamber of the Senate, and took his seat at the foot of the Throne. The Members of the Senate being assembled, the Deputy Governor General was pleased to command the attendance of the House of Commons, and that House being present, the following Bills were assented to in His Majesty's name, by the Deputy Governor General, namely:—

And there follows something about an Act having been passed to amend the Dominion Franchise Act, and so on. In due course we came upon "An Act for the relief of Alice Cecile Pinder Hartt," and that of course is the official way of announcing that a divorce case heard by the committee of the senate has been granted. We find in all 32 divorce case results listed in the news published in this remarkable "Extra." And after listening to such members of the House of Commons could go back and proceed with their debates or call it six o'clock and adjourn to the parliamentary dining room. There must be quite an exciting time when the Canada Gazette decides to turn out an Extra. The printers and all the folk in the premises would be in something like a dither until the work was brought to completion.

There Are Too Many Chinese

James M. Menzies does not believe that Japan can conquer the Chinese. He is professor of Ancient Chinese Languages at Cheeloo University in Shantung, and has spent half his life in China. At present he is visiting in Toronto.

Prof. Menzies is certain the Chinese will absorb their conquerors, even if the Japanese come to be such. They have done that time and again in former wars and former conquests. There are 500 million Chinese, and eventually from weight of numbers they remain the dominant factor in their own land. There is a Chinese philosophy which has always leaned in that direction. Some of the war lords even make use of that form of reasoning by reducing it to cold terms of how many men are being killed in the present war. They take as their basis of reasoning that the Japs with their superior equipment are killing three Chinese for every Jap lost, and then they proceed to the point where they declare they will win the war because China has enough men to be killed at that rate to account for the entire man-power of Japan and still remain a strong nation.

Meantime evidence accumulates to show that Japan is not doing what had been anticipated. The more miles which are added to her war fronts in China the greater becomes the danger of these lines being cut. The people at home are not satisfied; they had been led to believe it would be a short struggle with victory coming quickly and with comparative ease. The powers of resistance exhibited by the Chinese people are increasing rather than decreasing. Japan has now to add to her war cost the upkeep of thousands of wounded men who have been returned from the Chinese front. When the conflict started the world seemed to take it for granted that the Chinese would be defeated. The old theory of the numerical strength of a nation alone being the determining factor was laughed at. To-day there are a good many people willing to seriously consider the claim that China cannot be beaten merely because there are too many Chinese.

No Guarantee Of Happiness

Jackie Coogan used to play parts in the silent screen when he was a small lad and he made a great deal of money doing it. Now it is related he has to be content with what he can get. He is married and admits he has nothing.

His father was killed in an automobile accident in 1935, and his mother married again. Coogan is now pressing for a settlement as he claims his mother had charge of a trust fund into which his earnings as a child were placed. Instead of being broke Coogan says there is $4,000,000 worth of property which should belong to him, and now he is suing his mother and stepfather to get it.

So once more a large accummulation of wealth has very little happiness attached to it. We can think of a number of families here and elsewhere where there is little money or little property to quarrel about, but the folk are happy as can be. No—four million dollars worth of property does not carry with it any guarantee of four million dollars' worth of happiness.

Trying To Make A Living

Often enough there are reports of strikes which fail to reveal how much the strikers have been earning and how much they are seeking. In the strike of taxi-cab drivers in Toronto this information is given in a number of ways. The striking drivers refused an offer of 25 per cent. of fares with a minimum of $10 per week of 72 hours. The men are asking a minimum wage of $17 per week or $12.50 plus 10 per cent. of the collected fares for a 60-hour week. Meanwhile we read that a committee representing the strikers has been making the rounds of wholesale warehouses; it is recorded they received two bags of potatoes, two boxes of smelts and three bushel baskets of greens. It is quite evident that the men have been making such low wages that they have not been able to bring together any strike defence funds of personal reserves. When they quit work they were almost immediately faced with want. The relief office is the next logical step.

Whether the taxi business in a city the size of Toronto is profitable is something on which no information is given. The fact that one company owned a number of cars would not make much difference; there would be the individual problem in the case of each car. The profits or earnings would have to be divided between the people who owned it and the man who operated it. Either 60 or 72 hours per week appears to be a long work-week, but in that number of hours there must be a good many which are non-productive of cash return. As a rule a taxi earns only when it is called or when business is picked up by looking for it.

Apart from all that this method of transportation does not seem to contain much hope for the men who depend on it for a living. We read where one striker has a family of eight children to support, and even with strikers' demands met he would not make $17 per week; probably less. At best there would be no time when he would be far removed from the relief line, and slight provocation would shove him to the place where the community would have to come to his assistance. That would mean the state, as represented by the city, would be called upon to subsidize the taxi industry in Toronto because (1) the people employed were not being sufficiently paid, (2) the business was not profitable, or (3) because the people who use the service are not paying sufficient for it. We are unconsciously drifting toward a point where the relief office is looked upon as the logical destination for those whom private enterprise of one sort or another does not sufficiently support. It is a tendency which will have to be checked because there are too many instances where it has been and can be abused.

Pruning The Orchard

There was always a time of year on the Tenth Concession when some one was sure to remark that it was time to prune the trees out in the orchard. That time always came after the sugar season was over and before it was dry enough to go on the land. Some seasons it was short and at other times it was too long. It was generally a time of much discussion. Grandfather always held if he let the boys and the hired man do the pruning according to their new-fangled ideas there wouldn't be enough branches left to hold an apron full of apples. The hired man had gone modern, according to grandfather. He had been reading too many bulletins sent out by the government. So before they ever started to prune the trees there was much discussion; there was argument, and now and then a fist was banged on the corner of the kitchen table at supper time.

It was a fine point to decide. The hired man was for rather heavy pruning. He had noticed last fall there were quite a number of apples on the Spy trees, but they stayed green because there was no chance for the light and sun to get in there and finish them off. Grandfather's answer was always the same. He feared the hired man would trim so much out of the tree that it would look like a potted plant; there wouldn't be enough left to put a ladder against at picking time. Grandfather would take out the deadwood and halt the progress of the suckers, but beyond that he wouldn't budge. When the hired man produced a chart or drawing issued by the government showing what should be done then grandfather would do one of two things. (1) he would not look at it at all, or (2) he would look and then say "fiddlesticks." And for him that was fairly strong language.

We always had the feeling that the discussion which preceded the pruning of the orchard took up about as much time as the pruning itself, and there always used to come a certain easing of the tension when some one made the discovery that it was time to get on the land for the spring work.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Now that the Legislature is through, Ontario folk will have to fall back upon the comic strips.

The way professional hockey is played these days it looks as if the club with the best hospital facilities has the edge over its opposition.

Siamese fighting fish are on exhibition in Toronto this week. Ontario bass used to be fighting fish too but they may soon be so scarce they will have no one to fight with.

Beverage rooms, it was claimed, would eliminate bootlegging and moonshine, but that Stamford township gang operating a 3000-gallon still apparently has never been so informed.

A story says that a portion of Spain has been shaken by an earthquake. You would scarcely think the Spaniards would be able to notice an earth tremor at this stage.

Toronto police guided by radio required only six seconds to get to the scene of a burglary and the thieves they caught are ready to take the negative side in a debate upon the benefits of invention.

Now and then a member of the House of Commons turns a phrase which is rather apt and well done. R. J. Deachman, M.P. of North Huron, referring to Denton Massey, M.P. for Greenwood, said: "He was cradled on the sheaf carrier of a Massey-Harris binder." Mr. Deachman was moved to regret that Mr. Massey was not in the House when he made use of this bit of description.

PEACE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ John Henry's getting kind of sore, he won't buy magazines no more, he told me so to-day; when agents come to see him now, he puts a scowl upon his brow, and sends them all away.

¶ John Henry says he's made the change, so he can sit beside the range, enjoy an hour at home; he blames his trouble on his wife, he says she sort of soured his life, he had no peace alone.

¶ She used to read the magazines, then hatch up new and varied schemes, for fixing up the place; when he come home to eat at noon, she'd tackled yet another room, and led a merry chase.

¶ And when John Henry's chores were done, he couldn't sink down like the sun, there was so much to do; some new design his wife had seen, she worked out some artistic scheme, he had to see it through.

¶ He had to take the pictures down, before he started out for town, he toiled with other men; there was no rest at night for him, for then John Henry would begin, to put them up again.

¶ His wife kept reading all this stuff, it struck John Henry rather tough, there were too many schemes; he craved at evening time some peace, that's how he come to stop and cease—from buying magazines.

Delaying Work On Needed Bridge

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. DUFFUS: This is the fifth occasion on which this matter has come before the committee. I have in my hand a copy of Bill No. 15, to incorporate the Niagara Falls Observation Bridge Company, and also a draft copy of the United States act dealing with the same matter. I wish to refer to the discussion which has taken place on this bill, and it is not my purpose to take up the time of the committee talking about the people of the United States or Canada.

Mr. BENNETT: Did the hon. gentleman say that there was a United States act? My information was that they declined to pass it.

Mr. DUFFUS: I said I have a copy of it.

Mr. BENNETT: That is the one which was introduced, but it was not passed.

Mr. DUFFUS: May I say I have listened to the discussion of this important international matter, and to say the least I am amazed to note that the objections have emanated almost entirely from one group in the house. I have before me a list of the names of those hon. gentlemen who have spoken, and in addition to that of the hon. member for Rosedale, who has just sat down, we have had speeches from the hon. member for Davenport—

Mr. MacNICOL: You can always count on him.

Mr. DUFFUS: —the hon. member for Lincoln, the hon. member for Danforth, the hon. member for Broadview, the hon. member for Danforth again, the hon. member for Waterloo South, the hon. member for Davenport once more, and the hon. member for Rosedale.

An hon. MEMBER: And now the hon. member for Peterborough West.

Mr. DUFFUS: Something has been said about a nigger in the woodpile. I do not know which of these hon. gentlemen is supposed to be the nigger, but one thing I am sure of is that the woodpile is pretty well Tory. When this matter first came up I did not intend to speak, but now I find it difficult to refrain from doing so. The obstruction looks to me like a filibuster, and in my opinion it is doing the people of Ontario and of the dominion a grave injustice at this time. As a member of the committee I have listened to and have gone into the evidence. I have also read the bill. As I understand the situation, the government of Ontario, through a corporation, is seeking the consent of this parliament to construct a bridge over Niagara river from Niagara Falls, Ontario, to Niagara Falls, New York, to replace a bridge formerly known as the "Falls View" or "Honeymoon" bridge, which as has been said many times in this debate, was destroyed by nature in January of this year. I believe that nature, or shall I say Divine Providence, has been extremely kind in removing the old bridge. At times there have been several hundred automobiles and trucks simultaneously on the bridge, and had the bridge collapsed with those of automobiles and trucks and many more hundreds of people, it would have been, to say the least, an international catastrophe.

I have been told—and I believe it is true—that 5,304,000 people passed over the old bridge in the course of only seven months during the year 1937, and I believe it is our duty as public men not only to the present but to succeeding generations to see that there is an adequate bridge at this point. Now that the old bridge is gone, I submit that the most serviceable structure that reasonable means and human ingenuity can provide is the only one that should be considered at this time, if ample service and accommodation are to be maintained.

The United States tourist trade, to Canada and particularly to the people of the province of Ontario, is an important consideration. It is, and will continue to be, a major factor in the social and economic well-being, not only of the people of Ontario but of the dominion at large. The tourist trade is fast becoming our greatest industry and it is of increasing economic importance to the country. Moreover, its increase in gasoline revenue is a large and important item to the people of Ontario. I contend that free and uninterrupted traffic to and from the United States at this point will greatly assist the tourist trade and that ample facilities for customs and immigration inspection should be provided because that, too, is of vital importance to people on both sides of the river as well as those from elsewhere who wish to cross the bridge from time to time.

I repeat that the present delay constitutes a loss to all of the people of Ontario and to many in the dominion, except perhaps to those who live in the city of St. Catharines according to the contention of the hon. member for Lincoln. Roads and highways constructed only a few years ago are now found to be totally inadequate. It is the duty of public men to guard carefully against a recurrence of this condition of affairs. I should like to read to the committee a couple of verses which express this point of view:

Hordes of autos now remind us
We should build our roads to stay,
And departing leave behind us
Roads that will not blow away.
When our children pay the mortgage
Our fathers made to build those roads,
They'll not have to ask the question—
"Here's the bonds, but where's the roads?"

That pretty well expresses my conviction on this matter, and in the interests of the people of the United States, Ontario and the Dominion of Canada as a whole I am prepared wholeheartedly to support this bill.

IMPERIAL VETERANS

Editor Examiner.

Sir,—Would Imperial Veterans and ex-service women resident in Peterborough County please write to me as to their interest in forming a branch of the Imperial Corps Association.

The secretary at headquarters, St. Thomas, has promised to come out and address a meeting, or send someone out if I would organize this part of the province.

I would like the names and address of all Imperial ex-service men and women in Peterborough County even if they could not manage to attend a meeting. At the meeting we would hear what progress has been made by the newly formed Imperial Corps Association since the convention last summer at Brantford, Ont., what progress the association has made with the Home Government on behalf of us resident in Canada, what part the Imperials will take with the Canadian Corps Reunion, also the convention that is to take place this summer.

Yours sincerely,
JAMES W. STONE.

Omemee, April 11.

HAS SPORT DEGENERATED?

Editor Examiner.

Sir,—Never in any age or in any line of sport could this question be so appropriately asked as at this time in our hockey playoffs.

A few years ago, during the regular season of hockey when Ace Bailey was accidentally injured at Boston in the course of a regular game Red Horner a team mate of Bailey's believing it to be the wilful act of an opposing player, skated swiftly up the ice to the player, believed to be at fault and with bared hand struck Eddie Shore to the ice, a rash act on the part of Red Horner, and in consequence of which he was penalized with a probable 2 months suspension and no person protested. His team suffered most in his absence during suspension at a time when his injured team mate Bailey, was out for keeps as far as that or future seasons was concerned, never being strong enough to play professional hockey again and that is not the whole story.

Eddie Shore with whom the injured Bailey collided simply weakened under the nervous strain of being in part the cause of what might prove fatal to Ace Bailey, that he simply had to quit on account of his failing health until Bailey survived the critical stage of his mishap and was on the way to his present recovery.

Then Eddie Shore began to recover also, though he never played again that season. This is an instance of true sportsmanship. Shore and Bailey great men on two great teams and at the all-star benefit game held for the injured Bailey, these two players shook hands on the ice, as much pals as if they had been team mates instead of rivals and Ace Bailey's own story of the accident, cast no reflection on Eddie Shore, as he said neither saw each other till they collided and the lighter man Bailey was the injured one.

On Thursday night in Toronto Doc Romnes of the Chicago Black Hawks had a broken nose, Romnes blamed Horner, a Leaf defenceman for it—there was no blame attached to Horner by the officials. It was taken to be accidental, as was also that of Murph Chamberlain of the Leafs who had a broken thumb. Hockey is a rough game and ice is not feathers if one falls so every player assumes a certain risk and is fortunate if he receives no battle scars in an ordinary game, during regular season.

It is claimed that the officials are too lenient in handing out penalties in the playoff games. If this claim is true, is it right that it should be true? I claim that the officials who allowed Doc Romnes to slash Red Horner in last night's game in Chicago are unfit to referee a Spanish bull fight. Horner had to be carried off the ice, as the result of a vicious attack by a Chicago player and with a savor of decency on the part of the officials Romnes should have been disqualified for the remaining games of the playoff. I hope a Divine hand may play a part in the remaining games and not allow a Stanley Cup trophy to be stolen by any team resorting to viciousness in order to procure it and that it may be a Divine judgment against any attempt on the part of any team seeking to win laurels by brutal means, instead of by clean sportsmanship.

A Little Snow – But a Big Bill

(From the New Yorker)

WHEN COMMISSIONER CAREY, head of the Department of Sanitation, announced that $600,000 had been spent this Winter on snow removal, we were surprised, because it didn't seem to us as if more than a few flakes had fallen. However, $600,000 turns out, upon investigation, to be a very creditable figure. Down at D.S.N.Y. headquarters, 125 Worth street, we were told that this was under par. A fair sum for snow removal in all five boroughs is $100,000 an inch; this Winter eight inches fell on Manhattan Island. Some of the outlying parts of the city got twice as much; from the high buildings a current of warm air rises, so that the snowfall on Manhattan Island is always under the average.

This Winter more than half the money was spent on a little flurry that you probably can't even remember. It fell the night of January 12th, after which there were alternate periods of freezing and thawing, resulting in icy streets. An emergency force of 17,500 workers was called out to help the regular body of 5,000 D.S.N.Y. men. No amount of modern equipment is of any use against ice on the streets; it has to be taken off with mattocks, shovels, and hoses. There were five other snowfalls, ranging from half an inch to two inches, which didn't freeze and were handily disposed of with no extra labor.

The Department of Sanitation has available for fighting snow-storms about eight million dollars' worth of equipment, a million of it new this year. There are 125 loaders of the kind you may have seen last December in the newsreels, when Commissioner Carey sent ten machines and 224 men up to Lake Placid for a three-week training period. This jaunt cost the city $6,000 and the Department of Sanitation is prepared to defend it against all critics. "After all, the Police and Fire Department have training schools, don't they?" a Sanitation man said to us.

Besides the loaders, there are about 3,000 other pieces of equipment—trucks, crosswalk plows, snow brooms, and whatnot. Most of the equipment can be used for other purposes; the heavy trucks, stripped of their plows, are used for collection of refuse; the little crosswalk plows are fitted with a sort of squeegee arrangement and are used in the market districts to sweep refuse into the gutter; and the loaders are used in the Fall for the somewhat futile task of gathering up leaves in the city parks.

We asked if the department was ready to cope with anything as severe as the blizzard of '88, and they said indeed they were. "Back in '88 they just let it snow", we were told. Now, there's an emergency force of 49,000 laborers, which can be mobilized as soon as the signal goes out, by teletype, from D.S.N.Y. headquarters to its fifty-five garages all over the city. There are also 4,000 private contractors prepared to furnish trucks and labor on short notice.

The twenty-inch snowfall of 1888 wouldn't be as hard to handle as the nine-inch fall of 1936, which was followed by almost a solid month of freezing weather. That year a deputy commissioner in the department collapsed from overwork, and the commissioner got into such a state of health that he was forced to resign.

IN THE BRITISH WAY.

(New York Sun)

SIR SAMUEL HOARE'S appeal for a million volunteers to organize England's defense against airplane raids has met on the whole, a favorable reception from the country. Many persons have already applied for enlistment as if to suggest that the United Kingdom realizes that war is imminent and perhaps unavoidable. The speech and this response throw light on certain peculiarities of the British mind.

In another land such a speech might throw the people into panic, but the British people are not especially susceptible to panic. They are a queer folk who apparently do not rise to their best until they have received a good, firm poke in the eye. It seems that when they are sure a risky course has become necessary they will take it with a resolution which, if not exactly cheerful, is as cheerful as anybody can expect.

This is so characteristically British that in some other countries it may be misunderstood. It may even create an unfortunate impression that the Home Secretary was only trying to frighten his public to insure their support of a policy of peace at any price. The British public has no hankering for war to protect Czechoslovakia, but it is nevertheless making up its mind that somewhere there must be a halt to dictatorial aggression. Circumstances will largely determine whether that point will be reached at the border of Czechoslovakia or somewhere else.

THE DANISH WAY.

(Farmer's Advocate)

"IF IN PLACE of one dollar cut for overweight hogs we were cut one half the market price and had either to accept it or take our pigs home, as we understand is done in Denmark, we would pay a little more attention to the weight and finish of our market hogs and the price of Canadian bacon on the British market would then be closer to the price of the uniform bacon offered by Denmark. Our best bacon is equal to the best from Denmark, but we fail to put a uniform product. More drastic grading regulations may be necessary to force producers to do that which is in their best interests.

A Bible Message For To-day . . . .

AND IT CAME to pass, as Jesus sat at meat in the house, behold, many publicans and sinners came and sat down with him and his disciples. And when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto his disciples, Why eateth your Master with publicans and sinners? But when Jesus heard that, he said unto them, They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick. But go ye and learn what that meaneth, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance. . . . While he spoke these things unto them, behold, there came a certain ruler, and worshipped him, saying, My daughter is even now dead: but come and lay thy hand upon her, and she shall live. And Jesus arose, and followed him, and so did his disciples. And, behold, a woman, which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment: for she said within herself, If I may but touch his garment, I shall be whole. But Jesus turned him about, and when he saw her, he said, Daughter, be of good comfort; thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole from that hour. And when Jesus came into the ruler's house, and saw the minstrels and the people making a noise, he said unto them, Give place: for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn. But when the people were put forth, he went in, and took her by the hand, and the maid arose.—Matt. ix: 10-13, 18-25.

"A PAUSE FOR—"

(Regina Leader-Post)

A RADIO program may be going at high speed when the announcer breaks in with news that there will be a "pause for station announcements". Why? This has interested us for some time. Apparently there is a rule of some kind or another that every so often the listener must be informed as to the station he is tuned to.

In the old days it is possible that this was desirable. When radio was a new toy and when listeners often spent half the night trying to see how many stations they could pick up there was curiosity as to the stations they could hear. But that is now pretty well gone. In these days of chain programs and well-established wave bands everyone must know the station he is hearing. Can there be any doubt about it?

We confess that every time we hear a pause for station announcement we feel like saying scat to the radio.

After Pneumonia Couldn't Get Strong

After many severe illnesses the patient is often left in an extremely weak and exhausted condition.

To all those convalescents needing a tonic to strengthen and build up their weakened system we would recommend Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills to assist them to recover the full enjoyment of robust health. They help to tone up the nervous system and bring back bodily strength and vigor.

Buy a box and be convinced.

MRS. GEORGE CLARK, Wallace, N.S., writes:—"Some time ago I had a severe attack of pneumonia. I never seemed to get my strength back, and was always in a weak, nervous condition until a friend advised me to take Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills.

After I had taken two boxes I felt as well as ever, so I will recommend them to any one who is suffering as I did, for I could not have taken any medicine that would have done me so much good."

BRITISH LABOR LIKES SCHOLAR IN LEADERSHIP

LONDON, April 13—(CP). — University men, many with ample income and all with high scholastic attainments, lead the Labor party of Great Britain.

Such a statement is not news to the average man of this country. But it can stand restatement to outsiders who read of a Labor victory in a by-election and visualize a man walking into the Commons with a shovel in one hand and a red flag in the other.

Rank and file of the party are sometimes invited to throw out their top dressing—but the party as a whole recognizes the worth of intelligent leadership. The sincerity of purpose of the executive is not questioned—and the Labor party rank and file is past thinking that the party's case should be pleaded in street-corner English. To the Englishman who votes Labor there is no paradox, but an advantage, in the fact that his leader dines in Mayfair.

Richard Rapier Stokes recently won the Ipswich seat for Labor by a majority of 3,161 votes whereas in the 1935 election the Conservative majority was 7,250. Meet Mr. Stokes:

Born 1897, educated at Downside, head of his school, captain of cricket, rugby and hockey, promoted to rank of major in the Great War aged 20, awarded M.C., and bar and the Croix de Guerre. Graduate of Cambridge after the war, a rugby blue, now managing director of a large engineering firm. Mr. Stokes is new to the party—his particular belief being the need of a land tax to replace the income tax.

But meet these executives of the Labor party, many of them right honorables of his Majesty's privy council.

Clement Attlee, chairman, graduated from Oxford with honors, is a lawyer and lectured at the London School of Economics. He served in the Great War and retired as a major. Arthur Greenwood, deputy chairman, graduated from Victoria University of Manchester, lectured in economics at Leeds University and is a publicist of note.

Wear Old School Tie

Hugh Dalton is an M.A. of Cambridge and took science at London University. He went to Eton first, won prizes at Cambridge and before becoming a barrister went through the London School of Economics. Philip Noel-Baker, Cambridge, historical and economic tripos, president of the Cambridge Athletic Club and of the Union Society, won the Croix de Guerre and other honors in the war, was on the British Olympic team and has lectured at Yale.

A. V. Alexander graduated from Technical School, became a Baptist lay preacher and served in the war. F. W. Pethick-Lawrence began at Eton, won many scholastic laurels at Cambrdge before becoming interested in writing and publishing.

Hastings Lee-Smith was educated for the army at the Royal Military College but retired and went to Oxford. He is chairman of the executive committee of Ruskin College and is a writer on economics and tariffs. Wedgwood Benn, second son of Sir J. Williams Benn, took first place in graduation honors from London University and gained distinction in the Great War.

Herbert Morrison went to an elementary school and before becoming leader of the London County Council, which he is now, worked as shop errand boy, assistant telephone operator, deputy newspaper circulation manager, editor of the London News. Thomas Johnston graduated from Glasgow University, is a noted writer and was for 27 years editor of The Forward.

Unusual Event In Equine Kingdom

These twin colts, foaled from the mare shown, near Leesburg, Va., represent the unusual in the equine kingdom. Not only is the birth of twins unusual among equines, about one in 10,000, but as a rule one of the twins is much smaller and weaker than the other and generally dies within a few days of foaling. In this case, however, both are sturdy thoroughbreds who (believe it or not) will soon be built along racing lines.

TWEED

FARMHANDS FINED FOR NIGHT FISHING

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, April 13.—Harry Gibson and Charles Kirby, Prince Edward County farmhands, were fined $10 and costs each, following pleas of guilty of illegal fishing and jack lighting, entered through Inspector Herb McCabe, of the Game and Fisheries Department, at Monday's local police court.

Gibson and Kirby were apprehended jack-lighting and illegal fishing in Roblins' Lake by Inspector McCabe last week, at which time a boat and all of their fishing equipment was confiscated.

Charged with trapping without a license, Keith Garbutt, Thurlow Township, pleaded not guilty, through his counsel, who held Garbutt did not require a license, as he was trapping on his father's property, as provided in the Game and Fishery Act.

Technicalities arose when the Crown Attorney challenged the defence question and the matter was enlarged for a week until viewed by authorities.

Blackest Days Of Great War Hit British Army In April '18

Disaster Facing Allies Vividly Pictured In Haig's Famous 'Backs To Wall' Message

(Written for Canadian Press By CAPT. W. W. MURRAY, M.C.)

For the British armies the blackest days of the Great War descended in April, 1918, when, launching irresistable attacks from the La Bassee Canal to the Ypres salient, the Germans, in a final effort to end the war, smashed deep into the British lines.

During the last week of March titanic battles had been fought both north and south of the Somme, and the Germans had over-run many square miles of territory formerly held by the British. They had destroyed the Fifth Army of General Sir Hubert Gough, and were swarming around Amiens. Further south, their onslaughts were continuing, not with the same force as formerly but with considerable vigor notwithstanding.

On April 9, first anniversary of the day on which the Canadian Corps stormed Vimy Ridge, the second phase of the German plan revealed itself in their offensive against General Horne's First Army from La Bassee to Armentieres. Next day, this ruffled along the whole northern front, embracing General Sir Hubert Plumer's Second Army, from Armentieres to the Ypres salient. Everywhere the Germans were successful.

The Famed Haig Message

Conditions were forbidding with disaster confronting the allies. How grim the situation was can be exemplified no better than by recalling the "backs to the wall" message, issued on April 12, by Sir Douglas Haig to the troops:

"Three weeks yesterday, the enemy began this terrific attack against us on a 50 mile front. His objects are to separate us from the French, to take the channel ports and destroy the British army.

"In spite of throwing already 106 divisions into the battle and enduring the most reckless sacrifice of human life, he has as yet made little progress towards his goal.

"We owe this to the determined fighting and self-sacrifice of our troops. Words fail me to express the admiration which I feel for the splendid resistance offered by all ranks for your army under the most trying circumstances.

"Many amongst you now are tired. To those I would say that victory will belong to the side which holds out the longest. The French army is moving rapidly and in great force to our support.

"There is no other course open to us but to fight it out! Every position must be held to the last man: there must be no retirement. With our backs to the wall, and believing in the justice of our cause, each one of us must fight on to the end. The safety of your homes and the freedom of mankind alike depend upon the conduct of each one of us at this critical moment."

Sees U.S. Deciding Factor In War

TOKYO, April 13—(AP). — The United States, Rear Admiral Tota Ishimaru asserted to-day, holds the key to the position whether there will be a world war in the near future.

Regarded by Japan as one of her most authoritative naval experts, Admiral Ishimaru said in an interview 'the stage is all set for an outbreak which may come in 1939.' "England, France and Russia stand on one side with Germany, Japan and Italy on the other," he said. "Strength is almost equally balanced. I believe the former trio would attack Japan now, using Japan's policy as a pretext, if they could be sure of American support. Hence, the United States is the decisive factor."

Vice versa, he asserted Japan, Germany and Italy might be forced to take the offensive if their rivals exerted pressure. He ridiculed the possibility of war between the United States and Japan alone.

"No intelligent Japanese believes that likely,' he said.

WRITING A NEW PAGE IN THE HISTORY OF Truck Economy

Ford V-8 2-ton and 1½-ton Trucks are bringing truck owners and operators a new lesson in Economy. They are showing that work done . . . time consumed . . . and hours in service are of primary importance in measuring the efficiency of a truck.

In 1938 more than ever the Ford Trucks do more work, in less time, at lower cost. From first cost on, they bring you Economy all the way.

The speed and power of the V-8 truck-type engine provide the quick getaways and high sustained speeds vital to efficient performance. Chassis design, quality materials and correct load distribution make it possible to carry maximum loads with maximum safety, and with low fuel consumption. And the Ford Engine Exchange Plan slashes the time the truck is out of service for repairs and cuts repair costs.

Ford Economy is an established fact, proved on the cost-sheets of thousands of companies in every line of business. That's why there were more new Ford V-8 Trucks sold last year than any other make. That's why your Ford dealer invites you to discover Ford Economy for yourself. See him today and arrange for an "on-the-job" test—with your own driver, and your own loads, over your own routes. No cost. No obligation to buy.

• THE FORD V-8 TRUCK ENGINE

In the 2-ton trucks, this famous truck-type engine develops 95 horsepower. Because of the broad range of speeds over which it makes high torque available (150 to 170 foot-pounds) it is a truly fine engine for highway hauling. It is equally good for such tough service as dump truck work. This engine develops 85 horsepower in 1½-ton trucks.

New 1938 Ford V-8 Features

★ New styling for all units.
★ More comfortable cabs — 3 inches more head room—handsome new interior trim—softer seat cushions.
★ New 134-inch wheelbase, with 60-inch cab-to-axle measurement — improved load distribution.
★ For 134-inch and 157-inch trucks, new standard frame width.
★ Quicker stopping brakes.
★ New larger spindles.
★ Easier steering — new roller type with 18-inch wheel.
★ 7.50-20 dual tire and wheel equipment available at extra cost.

LAHRING PARSONS AND BOB HEWITT WIN BADMINTON TITLES

PAIR PERFORM HAT TRICK IN WINNING TITLES

The Peterborough Badminton Club brought their season for 1937-38 to an official close last night with the championship finals and the annual business meeting. Miss Lahring Parsons, young star of the Market group and Bob Hewitt, top Peterborough male player, performed the "hat trick"—Miss Parsons winning three championships and Hewitt clutching two of the three title matches in which he participated.

For Bob Hewitt it was a repeat on the fine showing he made in the Garrison club finals on Saturday night; for Miss Lahring Parsons it was a great triumph indicative of splendid condition, experience and steadiness. In the ladies singles, she found Miss Alicia Langley scarcely a match for her skilful stroking. Miss Langley tried very hard, but was forced into submission on a count of 11-3, 11-5.

Miss Parsons teamed with Mrs. Scott in ladies' doubles to defeat Miss Betsy Scott and Miss Alicia Langley 15-1, 18-16. Misses Scott and Langley were fighting both their opponents and a bad case of jitters in the first frame, but recovered in the second to make it extremely close. Down on the short end of a 12-4 count, they pounded away until they evened the score and jumped into a brief lead. In the ensuing five points, Miss Parsons and Mrs. Scott, who defended the net nobly, went on to run out the match in straight games.

Mixed doubles, the last event on the card, resulted in a 15-3, 15-10 decision for Miss Parsons and Hewitt over Miss Alicia Langley and Don Ross. Miss Langley and Don Ross, finalists in every event of the evening, battled gamely all the way through and put up a fine game in this match. But Miss Parsons and Hewitt were foreing almost every play with a powerful offensive.

Has Hands Full.

Bob Hewitt had his hands full in his singles tussle with Don Ross. Ross tickled the fancy of the crowd repeatedly, for he was really hitting them and not backing up under Hewitt's deadly smashes. In fact he returned a surprising number of these. The second game went to points, but Hewitt had enough aces left to finish it off 18-15. First game score was 15-6.

Ross and Rishor spoiled Hewitt's record in the men's doubles, whipping him and his partner, Pat Hall, 18-13, 15-6. The winners, who were semi-finalists in the Central Ontario, just being nosed out by the flashy Flaxman twins of Bowmanville, offered a bold front to Hewitt and Hall. Hall was a bit weak in the clinches, but came through with some dandies at times. It was a case of Ros sand Rishor playing Hall as much as possible and giving some snappy retorts to Hewitt's usually unreturnable "hot ones".

Junior Winners

Horace Steer who defeated John Bannister, 15-3, 15-4; Agnes Richardson, who nosed out Mary Hall, last year's winner, 15-12, 15-13; and Mary Hall and Horace Steer, who captured the mixed doubles championship from Mary Strickland and John Bannister.

Following the games, the annual meeting and presentation of prizes to winners and runners-up was held. Elected to the executive for next season are: Mrs. J. D. Hall, Miss Mary Mulholland, Messrs. D. Ross, M. Rishor, A. Donnelly, G. Faulkner and Dr. Howson. A number of the former executive have now retired, among them Walter Perks, whom someone described as a "tower of strength" during the past seven or eight years he has served.

POSSIBLE CHANGES IN RESIDENCE RULE

OTTAWA, April 13 (C.P.).—Possible changes in the residence rule and reasons why the Memorial Cup finals were switched from Ottawa to Toronto likely will be discussed at the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association annual three-day meeting opening here to-morrow.

E. A. Gilroy of Portage La Prairie, Man., past president, and Fred Marples of Toronto, secretary, arrived here last night to prepare for the meeting. The Resolutions Committee will swing into action tomorrow morning.

Prof. W. G. Hardy of Edmonton, vice-president, has recommended that the residence rule, as applied to transfers from branch to branch be changed from October 15 to June 15. The Ottawa and District Amateur Hockey Association will recommend the date be changed from October 15 to January 1.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

PREXY Max Swanston of the Central Ontario Baseball League is earning his dough—what dough?—these days. Worrying and working over a possible fourth team for the old C.O.B.L. this semester. With the folding up of Napanee and the continued absence of Belleville, the loop has but Kingston, Oshawa and Peterborough at present. All three will be strong, and the league will probably again be the strongest senior ball circuit in the province, but three teams aren't enough. We need at least four. And so it comes about that most of the worrying devolves upon the local loop president. With R. A. Elliott of Deloro, life member of the Central Loop, also trying to find a solution.

* * * * * *

WE HAD a chat with Swanston yesterday and he told us what he had been doing and plans to do. He has written both Perth and Smith Falls, asking them to the next C.O.B.L. meeting if they are at all interested in running senior squads this year. The former pro baseball towns are liable to be quite interested. Max will visit Trenton Airport next week and look into that situation. And he has notified the O.B.A.A. and Bill Smith of Toronto, so that possibly a Toronto team might work an interlocking schedule with the C.O.B.L., if all else fails. So no stone has been left buried under the grass in an effort to get the loop going.

* * * * * *

IN A WAY you are getting quite a distance from the lake front when you speak of playing in Perth, Smiths Falls or Brockville. But they aren't long trips for Kingston, and the Petes would probably be glad to make 'em in return for the added interest of having such clubs in this circuit. They'd mean good gates all around. Oshawa might have to work out some angle like double-headers, or what have you, but we think Pud Lane and his gang might be favorable to such an extension. Aside from the tough trips, it would be a big baseball revival in Eastern Ontario. It would be better, of course, to get the Trenton Fliers in. Next meeting of the C.O.B.L. will be in Cobourg on April 30th, and more will be known then.

* * * * * *

SIX TEAMS to date have signified their intentions of entering the Southend Softball League this year. They are Nationals, Cogs, Keene Cardinals, Hawks and DeLaval. Whilst three more, Quakers, Maple Leafs and Brintons, are strongly interested. So it would look like a big season ahead for this ambitious loop. Bill Prindible and Jack Copping are the officers, along with club managers. Each Southend League team may use one City Loop player this year if he is registered with the secretary. Another rule allows the secretary to give a player his release from one team to another sponsored by the company where he works, if he so desires it. Entry fee is $3.50 and entries close on May 2nd.

* * * * * *

EXPECT TO get word shortly from President Ev. Thomas of the Girls' Softball League, announcing date of the annual meeting. Westclox, C.G.E. and Keene will likely be back again, and maybe a Lindsay outfit this year to replace Cobourg. Not much dope on prospective squads yet. Ivan Fletcher may have a few changes in his Keene entry, while Ab Delahaye is likely to more or less stand pat on his Westclox lineup—which won out last season. C.G.E. had one indoor workout at the Y.W. a week ago and are at it again tonight at 6.30. A couple of new players, we hear, along with all last year's crew. Fred Martin and Jack Copping have both been mentioned as possible managers, but nothing definite for a week or so. Won't be long, though.

* * * * * *

AND IT looks like a large time for the men's City Softball League this summer here. They expect to be playing at the Ashburnham Bowl about three nights a week, alternating with the gal softballers. A meeting was held last night with Walter Stocker, chairman of the Parks Committee, while Dave Leether and Max Glover of the men's loop and Ev. Thomas and Gladys Mortimer of the gals' circuit, all worked in harmony. Mr. Stocker was especially helpful and promised to recommend to his committee this fine ball park as the best place for both leagues to operate. He also stated that it was possible efforts would be made to grade the steep bank in left field to a gradual slope to help the field and remove any risk of a tumble. The men's loop officers feared there might be some difficulty in obtaining Central this summer for games, so they asked for and certainly received co-operation from Mr. Stocker and the girls' league. Dave Leether, who runs again for an O.A.S.A. office, and Max Glover will go to Sarnia tomorrow for the annual O.A.S.A. convention. Men's league meets at eight Monday eve in the Chamber of Commerce. More in a day or two.

* * * * * *

PRESIDENT Len Agnew of the Church Softball League has called the annual re-organization session for Monday, April 25th, at seven p.m. in the "Y". Things will have to be hustled from then on as the league hopes to get going the first week in May, winding up late in June. Retiring officers are Prexy Len Agnew, Byers Smith, Art Smith, Treasurer Lloyd Parnall and Secretary Don Charlton. This league plays its games at Nicholls Oval and four of the school diamonds. Present title-holders are Knox Seniors, All Saints Juniors, St. John's Juveniles and St. James' Bantams. Church groups should be lining up possible entries now and appointing delegates to the annual confab.

OFTEN A bridesmaid, never a bride—that seems to apply to Toronto Maple Leafs when it comes to copping the Stanley Cup. The Smythe squad are generally pretty close around in the final serial but they can't seem to click. Not a good money team. A lot like some of our own puck outfits, which go a long way each winter but flop when 'tis title time. The Hawks took a 4-1 win last eve in Chicago and even Andy Lytle will have a job explaining that off. We wanted to see the Leafs win but ,like a whole lot of other "provincial" fans, dont fall for that stuff about invincible Leaferinos, lucky opponents, thieving referees and masterminding of the Little Corporal. The latter, by the way, meets a lot of Waterloos, eh? Some of their press agents almost turn you against the Leafs. However, we would like to have seen them come through this year after being on top of the heap most of the season. All credit to Bill Stewart and his scrappy squad of castoffs in the Windy City.

* * * * * *

HITHER AND YAWN: St. Boniface didn't fool last eve as they waltzed through Oshawa Generals for a 4-0 smirk; next game is Thursday . . . Oshawa Juveniles have a sudden-death O.J.H.A. final 'gainst Waterloo in Toronto tonight; winner meets Sudbury for the all-Ontario championship . . . . Ernie Gibbard has called a meeting of intermediate ball teams for Monday p.m. in Belleville . . . . Syracuse, Leafs' farm team, were rubbed out by Providence last gloaming . . . Pat Downing, Toronto amateur ball manager, who was killed in a car crash last evening, coached teams which played here several times in exhibitions; he played on 'em, too . . . . Dave Leether, this city's contribution to the O.A.S.A. executive, goes to Sarnia for the softball convention Good Friday intending to vote out the A.A.U. of C. and plug for the Sports Federation . . . . Dan Howley will farm out Upper and Calhoun, neither a stranger here, probably to the Can.-Am. loop . . . . St. Paul's play Brampton an O.C.B.A. final cage tilt at the "Y" on Sat'day . . . . Next indoor drill for local ballsters will be Thursday night at 8.30 in the "Y" gym . . . Guess us Peterborrowers will have to tune in on big league ball games now with the Leafs being shaken off the limb by the Hawks!

Even Odds On Teams For Senior Hockey

SASKATOON, April 13 (C.P.). — The Allan Cup hockey final series opens here to-night with Trail Smoke Eaters, Western champions, and Cornwall Flyers, representatives from the East, just about even choices in the betting. Both camps were quietly confident before opening the best-of-five series, but neither would venture an opinion.

"Hear they're awful good," was all reporters could coax from Coach Don Penniston who master-minded the Ontario team to unexpected victories over Falconbridge and Quebec Aces .

"We're ready," said Coach Elmer Piper of Trail. "It will be a great series and I hope the gang are all in there."

Spawning Started In Trent River

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, April 13. — The spawning season in the Trent River has started according to James Montgomery, a trapper, who stated he saw two large maskinonge in a marsh east of the village on Tuesday.

Poachers provide a continuous source of worry to the game wardens at this season. The fish are speared by unscrupulous individuals when they come into the marshes and are easy to get.

SENIOR SOFTBALL LEAGUE TO PLAY ASHBURNHAM BOWL

The Ashburnham Bowl, nestling in a hollow at the east end of Hunter St. bridge, will be the scene of men's as well as girls' softball contests regularly this summer. This ideal outdoor diamond, with its horseshoe grandstand and panoramic parks' view, will be granted to the Men's City Softball League for games, alternating with the Girls' Softball League tilts, if plans made at a joint meeting of the leagues with Walter Stocker, chairman of the Parks Committe, last night materialize. And they are expected to do so.

Fearing some difficulty might be experienced in obtaining Central School grounds for men's softball games this summer, as in past years, officers of the Men's City Softball League — President Dave Leether and Secretary Max Glover, chiefly —sought an understanding with the Girls' Softball League, which has been using the Bowl for games. And a meeting was held last night between these parties and with The Parks Committee head. President Ev. Thomas and Secretary Gladys Mortimer represented the Girls' League.

Perfect harmony and a desire to help by all parties concerned marked this session, and an agreement was arrived at quickly. Probably three nights a week will be allotted to each league, possibly girls' games being played Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, with men's contests staged Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Mr. Stocker promised to recommend this move to his committee, and also stated it might be possible to grade a steep bank in the outfield to allow a gradual slope and thereby better fielding conditions for the players. Further details and plans of both leagues, with the aid of the Parks Committee, will be taken care of in the near future after the two circuits are organized for this summer.

Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press).

The Ottawa-Boston Stanley Cup playoff game at Ottawa 11 years ago tonight ended in a near-riot. Bill Coutu, Bruin defenceman, was suspended from the league for assaulting both referees while three other players were fined for fighting. Hooley Smith drew a month's suspension for his attack on Harry Oliver, Boston winger. Senators won the game 3-1.

'Under-Dogs' Of N.H.L. Season Upset Mighty Toronto Leafs With Voss' Goal In Second

Goalie Mike Karakas Brilliant In Net—Losers' Defence Weak

CHICAGO, April 13 (CP). — The fabled story of Chicago's unpredictable Black Hawks, a battle-scarred group of veterans led by a first-year coach, is at an end. There couldn't have been a more fairy-tale finish—crowning of Hawks as world champions and holders of the Stanley Cup.

They said it couldn't happen, but it did last night before 17,204 fans who watched Hawks humble Toronto Maple Leafs, National League champions, 4-1, and win the viciously-fought cup final in four games. It was dizzy, and daffy, but true.

Hawks wound up with the most decisive victory of the series, productive of managerial brawling, unprecedented situations, and charges and counter charges by both teams. Finally the inexperience of Toronto's youngsters cracked wide open before the experience of the "aged" Hawks.

Second Period Crack-Up.

The crack-up came in the space of a minute and 13 seconds of the second period. Until then it was anybody's game, with the score tied at 1-1 Two swift errors spelled doom for the Leafs and the end of one of hockey's greatest comebacks.

Carl Voss, unwanted around the N.H.L. a few months ago, stole the puck from George Parsons in front of the Leaf net, and shot what proved to be the winning goal at 16.45 of the second period. Little more than a minute later Goaler Walter Broda allowed Jack Shill's looping backhand shot from centre ice to go between his knees as he dropped to meet it.

These two mistakes were all Hawks needed, for their checking was grand, and Goaler Mike Karakas brilliant the few times he needed to be. At no time did the Leafs threaten to make a fight of it after going two down. Mush March's third-period goal was only incidental.

Cully Dahlstrom and Gordon Drillon had fired the opening goals to set the stage for Toronto's collapse. Dahlstrom's was first, at 5.52, and gave Hawks the opening goal for the first time in four games.

It was a great triumph for Bill Stewart, finishing his initiation as coach after years as the league's referee-in-chief. Given what was rated as the worst team in the league, an aggregation of veterans and castoffs spiced by only two or three stars, he led them to the cup from the last playoff slot.

Before even moving to the final with its weird happenings, Hawks staggered into the playoffs only because of the inability of the Detroit Red Wings to win their last games, then tottered on the verge of elimination twice during the preliminaries against Montreal Canadiens and New York Americans.

Their end was predicted as soon as Canadiens beat them 6-4 in the first game of their best-of-three series. Hawks drubbed them two straight. Americans won 3-1 in the first game of the semi-finals. Hawks roared back and repeated the two-straight victory performance to qualify for the finals.

The series opened against Leafs at Toronto with Hawks winning the first game 3-1, and Alfie Moore becoming the hero because of his pinch goal-tending. Refused permission to use Moore in the second game, Hawks lost it 5-1 with Rookie Paul Goodman in the nets. The playoff scene shifted to Chicago, with Leafs still warm favorites to squelch the Hawk uprising.

But with Karakas in goal despite a broken toe, and at full strength for the first time, Hawks made short work of the season's windup. They won the third game 2-1, and it was a repeat performance that won them the fourth clash, mildly-played in comparison to the others.

Leafs Weak on Defensive.

The famed Toronto offensive, prime factor in the Leafs' march to the Canadian section title, was stilled still more last night against the ceaseless Hawk checking; good work by the defences and steady all-round play of Karakas. Toronto's defence, superlative in the rout of Boston Bruins, was only mediocre.

Only five penalties were doled out and four were in the first period, the only one in which the continuous stick swinging and body thumping of the first three games were evident. At the end, though, Leafs and Hawks mingled alike in a round of hand-shaking and back-slapping.

In the wild celebration that followed presentation of the Stanley Cup, Stewart dubbed the Hawks the "greatest athletes in the world."

Conny Smythe had no alibis. "We just weren't good enough," said the Leaf manager.

That was the story in a nutshell—Leafs "weren't good enough."

BUFFALO PINS LEAGUE HOPES ON NEW PILOT

PLANT CITY, Fla., April 13 (A. P.). — Buffalo Bisons pin their hopes of fighting back to the First Division of the International Baseball League this season on a new manager, two power-house hitters, and at least one additional starting pitcher.

Stephen Francis O'Neill, deposed manager of Cleveland Indians, now field leader and business manager of the Bisons, will be the first new boss the Herd has had since 1932 when Ray Schalk assumed command.

O'Neill has worked hard this spring with his veteran crew, and if he can produce a reasonably strong contender he will find no difficulty in obtaining the favor of the fans.

Few Changes

With the exception of Woody Abernathy, rangy, blond outfielder purchased from Baltimore; Jim Oglesby, colorful first baseman fast with Kansas City; and two pitchers from Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, the Buffalo club will be materially the same as the one which finished a poor fifth in 1937.

The fact that Abernathy always has been a consistent hitter, especially good at driving in runs, and that Oglesby, a left-hander at bat and afield, will supply some sorely needed punch, should make the Bisons a stronger club.

O'Neill's personal acquisitions: Pitchers Herman Fink and Lefty Fred Archer, from the A's, promise to do the Bisons considerable good and amply fill the gap left when Truett (Showboat) Sewell was taken by Pittsburgh.

The remainder of the curving corps has a familiar ring with such veterans as Bill Harris, Fabian Kowalik, Bob Kline, Ken Ash, and Art Jacobs, back along with Norm Hibbs and Red Ferris, capable youngsters, who were with the club last year.

Stanowski Scintillates In Defeat

With skates flashing and ice chips flying he comes to a stop! It's Walter Stanowski, defence man on the St. Boniface Seals juniors, and probably the outstanding junior hockey defence player in Canada. As the Seals went down before the Oshawa Generals, in the first game of the Memorial Cup finals, the outstanding man on the ice was this same Walter. He's on his second year of junior hockey, 18 years old, weighs 178 pounds, and is on the Toronto Maple Leaf negotiation list. Luck Leafs!

Gehrig Keeps Up Good Work, Hitting Average Of .357

Van Lingle Mungo, Dodgers' Fireballer, Ready For Good Season

(By the Associated Press)

SPARTANBURG, N.C., — As the tumult and shouting about Joe DiMaggio swells in volume, Lou Gehrig, the iron horse of the New York Yankees, keeps moving along. He belted a homer and a triple yesterday, has hit safely in his last 12 games, and is the club's leading hitter with an average of .357.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—New York Giants are getting brittle again, which is something to worry Bill Terry. Lou Chiozza came up with a sprained finger on his right hand, yesterday, and Johnny McCarthy also felt indisposed. So Burgess Whitehead and Sam Leslie started for the Giants at second and first.

RICHMOND, Va. — VanLingle Mungo, Brooklyn Dodgers' fireballer, is intent on ending this "all through" talk. He says his arm feels stronger than at any time in the training tour and that neither it nor his shoulder has bothered him in recent workouts.

RICHMOND, Va.—It looks like Earle Brucker will catch the opening game of the season for Philadelphia Athletics. His hitting has picked up in recent games, climaxed by four for four against Norfolk yesterday.

LEXINGTON, N.C.—The Phillies have been showing a lack of punch, but as long as the hits come at opportune moments and the Phils keep on winning, they've taken eight in a row, their longest winning streak in years, it's okay with Manager Jimmy Wilson.

ATLANTA, Ga.— George Gill, young Detroit righthander, has set himself a goal of 18 victories this season. Gill, gifted with control, joined the Tigers last season when Schoolboy Rowe went out of action.

OSHAWA BEATEN IN SECOND 4 TO 0

TORONTO, April 13 (C.P.). — Repercussions of St. Boniface Seals' 4-0 victory over Oshawa Generals rumbled through junior hockey circles to-day, many believing a repetition of the 1937 Memorial Cup series in the offing.

Like Winnipeg Monarchs of last year, Seals were whipped in the first game. But the Westerners' shutout triumph in the second game last night was so decisive, the experts look for them to repeat Monarchs' feat of last year now by sweeping the series in three straight.

More than 10,000 fans turned out for last night's torrid tilt to establish a new high attendance mark for junior hockey.

Weakened by injuries and illness, Generals fought back gallantly until two goals, 22 seconds apart, in the final minute of play sent them to their doom. Just prior to this quick-scoring act, Oshawa looked dangerus and for the first time during the game were overshadowing the Manitobans.

Defence Weak.

Generals lost Dan McTavish, one of their defence budwarks, when he fractured his wrist in the first game. On top of this, Ab Tonn, star defenceman, contracted a septic throat that left him weak and jittery.

Even if the Easterners had been at full strength, it is doubtful whether they could have conquered their rivals, who were skating faster than in the first game. St. Boniface outshot Oshawa in the first two periods, 19-10 and 11-8, and matched them with nine in the third.

Bill Reay was the scoring star last night, whipping in the first and last goals. Sandwiched in between were markers by Bert Janke and George Gordon.

Holds Spotlight.

Janke took the spotlight from his starry defence mate, Wally Stanowski, with his all-round effectiveness. Stanowski made the play for Reay's first tally and participated in several dangerous sorties later, but he was not the standout of the first game. In the third period, Red Krantz tossed him for a fall, and Wally went off fo rrepairs to a bruised hip.

Though Generals had complained Russ McBride, Winnipeg, and Hap Shouldice, Ottawa, should not referee as they handled St. Boniface games during the regular season, these two officiated.

PROVIDENCE BEATS STARS TO WIN TITLE

SYRACUSE, N.Y., April 13 (C. P.). — Providence Reds took the place to-day of Syracuse Stars as champions of the International-American Hockey League after disposing of the defending titlists three games to one in their best-of-five series for the League championship.

Reds whipped Stars here 4-1 last night in the fourth game to win the crown. Previously they had won the first two games 5-4 and 2-1 and dropped the third contest 4-3. All three games had gone into overtime.

But last night Reds tucked away victory with a three-goal splurge in the third period and tallying once in the second session. Stars got their only score just a few minutes before the end of the game as they put everything into a blazing attack and paid little attention to defensive tactics.

Mel Hill started Reds on their way to victory, shooting the first goal in the sixth minute of the second period from the side of the rink and close to the blue line. Wilf Starr and Art Giroux added tallies in the third period before Jack Markle scored the only Syracuse goal. Only eight seconds from the end Reds were awarded a goal when Maxie Bennett threw his stick. The tally was credited to Jack Keating

Glasgow To Make Exhibition Greatest Fair Of All Time

Over 15,000,000 Visitors Expected In Six Months With Thousands From Empire

By Edwin S. Johnson
(Canadian Pres Staff Writer.)

GLASGOW, April 13—(CP).—Almost within the shadows of Clydebank's bustling shipbuilding yards, more than 3,000 workmen are pounding out a counter-chorus of industry, applying the finishing touches to Scotland's £10,000,000 ($50,000,000) Empire Exhibition preparations in Zellahouston Park.

Here, in a woodland setting, with the famous bens, glens and lochs of the highlands as a background, Glasgow will play host this year to the British Commonwealth at work and play.

Partially completed buildings still dot the 150-acre exhibition site and much remains to be done. But day and night shifts are now rushing the plans ahead and the management is confident all will be ready for the official opening by the King May 3.

"We experienced a slight setback with our plans as the result of temporary labor trouble but we'll have the job finished well on time," said C. M. Weir, convenor of the exhibition administrative committee. "Not a single building was under construction on July 9 last year, which gives some idea of what has been accomplished."

A tour around the grounds confirmed the statement. Where less than 18 months ago the strident shouts of "fore" echoed over the rolling fairways of a nine-hole golf course within the park, the army of craftsmen has fought against time to mould a modern fairyland of color and architectural beauty.

More than 100 streamlined buildings, large and small pavilions and stands, present a symphony of blending colors, have shot up like mushrooms in recent weeks. Fountains, cascades, miniature lakes, flower gardens and multicolored decorative kiosks are rapidly converting dream plans into reality.

Greatest Of All Fairs

The United Kingdom press has been referring to the Glasgow plans as the greatest venture since the Wembley Exhibition in 1924. Scotsmen, however, don't stop there. In their opinion it is going to be the greatest fair of all time.

They point with pride to the fact that exhibition plans have proceeded at a record pace; a fund to guarantee the success of the venture has been over-subscribed; space in the industrial sections was sold out, even after the erection of an extra display building; more than 110,000 season tickets have already been purchased. And at the last Glasgow Exhibition in 1911, the average number of visits by each season ticketholder was 73.

But the management is laying plans in expectation of more than 15,000,000 visitors during the six months of the exhibition. Thousands are expected from the dominions and colonies and special excursions will be run from all parts of the British Isles during the summer.

To meet the expected rush miles of roadway and wide avenue have been built, while water, gas, electricity and sewage service adequate to meet the needs of a permanent population of 50,000 have been installed. The community has its own police station, fire hall, post office, telephone exchange, first-aid depot, labor exchange and internal transport system.

Seventeen restaurants in addition to scores of snack stalls, milk bars and tea gardens will cater to the needs of the throngs. And the spiritual welfare of the visitor is also being considered. Five churches have already been erected on the grounds, one each by the Episcopalians, Roman Catholics, Church of Scotland, Christian Scientists and Christian Brethren. Several applications have been received from couples wanting to be married during the exhibition, but only a limited number will be granted.

SIXTY FEVER CASES

BOBTOWN, Pa., April 13—(AP).—Thirty-five families in this mining village of 750 persons were under quarantine to-day, and schools, churches and a company store were closed after a sudden spread of scarlet fever. Twenty-six new cases of scarlet fever were reported in the past 36 hours and in all there are approximately 60 cases. All public meetings were banned.

'MISS BRITAIN' 1936 TO WED BROKER

LONDON, April 13 — (AP). — Notice was given to the London Register Office to-day of the impending marriage of Muriel Oxford, 23, who was "Miss Great Britain" of 1936, to Gilbert A. Evans, 28, London stock broker.

Miss Oxford played a poignant, innocent role a year ago in the mysterious disappearance from the ocean liner Paris of Frank Vosper, British playwright.

Vosper disappeared March 6, 1937, from the Paris after leaving a party in Miss Oxford's cabin at the end of a voyage from New York. A coroner's jury at Eastbourne, England, returned an open verdict that Vosper's death was "due to drowning after going overboard, but it is impossible to say from the evidence how he got into the water."

Striped Lady Stages Sit-Down Strike

Mediation, conciliation, arbitration or anything else doesn't do much good when a tiger decides to go on strike. Ringling Bros. circus trainers found this to be all too true when the tiger lady, a featured performing animal, became tired of it all and lay down for a rest. As an innovation the animals are on leashes instead of being caged and her royal highness is shown sprawled comfortably in the sawdust, still leashed, but very annoying. In one of their attempts to get some action the trainers had the little dog on the right bother their "prima donna," all to no effect. Seemingly bored with proceedings the trouble-maker finally arose after half an hour and strolled back to her cage.

A SWEET OUTLOOK

LONDON, Ont., April 13—(CP).—General outlook for Ontario honey producers in 1938 is brighter than for many years past, Dr. E. J. Dyce, provincial apiarist, of Ontario Agricultural College, told the Middlesex County Beekeepers' Association yesterday at their annual spring meeting. Dr. Dyce said his survey of Ontario this spring showed bees had wintered well and clover prospects were excellent, indicating probabilities for a banner crop.

HOUSE CLEANING time in Essex Centre comes next after Easter. All husbands are liable for conscription. At thought of it some strong men take dizzy spells or lay up with lumbago. But the womenfolk carry on. And so does Mr. Picobac.

"I'm in the army, now," said he. "All I got to do is what I'm told. Mine not to reason why. Mine but to do—or try."

"I wish you'd try and move this sideboard," sighed Mrs. Picobac.

"Companee, 'SHUN," commanded Mr. Picobac. "Conscripts of the Household Troops: Your country is proud of you. The centuries look down. Nothing the world produces is too good for you. Our next objective is the sideboard. But before we move . . . before we go over the top, every man will be served a ration of Picobac Burley Tobacco. It will not be said that at the zero hour the Household Troops of Canada lacked the comfort of a mild . . . cool . . . sweet smoke."

Picobac is the pick of Canada's Burley crop. Grown in Sunny, Southern Ontario and matured for three years in the wood. It's the most popular pipe tobacco in Canada —and good for cigarettes, too.

Baby Smothers In Bed On Moving Day Adding To Grief Of Eviction

New York, April 13

A 20-year-old mother, evicted from a lower east-side Ghetto apartment, ran with her baby daughter in her arms a stumbling and hopeless half-mile race against death yesterday to a hospital.

"My baby's so healthy—always so healthy," she gasped to hospital attendants. "She'll be all right won't she?"

Then as she awaited a doctor's diagnosis she mother, Mrs. Stella Resti, told that in dismantling furniture, she and her husband, Frank, a former works progress administration laborer, waited until the last to take down the bed. On it, face down, lay their six-months-old daughter, Alice.

The baby's face was white. Mrs. Resti screamed. She picked up the infant and ran for the hospital.

"May baby's always so healthy, always so healthy," she said.

"The baby is dead," the doctor told her. And in his report book he jotted: "Apparently smothered in its sleep."

UNDERWATER WORK

LANCING, Sussex, England, April 13—(CP).—Thrown from a capsized sailing boat, Dr. Duncan Black, 25, sank beneath the surface. His shoulder was dislocated, preventing him from swimming, so he carried out a manipulatie operation under water, then came to the surface and swam ashore.

SHERRITT GORDON SHOWS FINE YEAR

TORONTO, April 13—(CP).—An operating profit of $149,623 for the year ended December 31, 1937 is reported by Sherritt Gordon Mines, Limited and other revenue brought income before charges up to $156,923. This compared with a profit from all sources of $17,262 in the preceding year.

The company milled 195,694 tons of ore from which 9,951,718 pounds of copper was produced as well as 2,534 ounces of gold and 80,672 ounces of silver. Metal sales realized $258,040 and metals produced and unsold totalled $717,716, a total of $975,756. The mill resumed operations only on August 1, 1937, after a five years close-down. Revenue in 1936 was from sales of metal inventories and from sales of securities.

Operating and administration costs in 1937 totalled $493,261 and other charges including shipping and smelting concentrates, freight on blister copper and refining charges increased the outlay to $826,133, leaving an operating profit of $149,623. The reserve for depreciation was $134,024 and for defered development $127,201, a total of $261,225. Other charges brought the net loss for the year up to $80,550.

Assets at the end of the year included cash $1,256, shares in other companies (at cost) $19,899, accounts receivable $85,136 and inventories $611,811, a total of 718,102. Current liabilities of $309,889 include a bank advance of $221,626.

TRENT RIVER

Mr. Isaac Lawson of Oshawa was renewing acquaintances Sunday.

Mrs. George Green, formerly Jean Wight, and daughter, Joyce of Hornpayne, are visitors at the home of Mrs. A. Wight, "Cedar Isle."

Mrs. George Dart has returned from Toronto after visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Robson were Sunday visitors with Mrs. Boyd of Marmora.

Mrs. C. Wilde of Toronto was a Sunday visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Brown and family.

Prior to the marriage of Miss Ena Griffith to Mr. Fred Rutherford, the bride was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Wesley Johnston of Old Havelock, when there was an attendance of twenty-five friends and neighbors. During the afternoon Miss Ethel Longmuir gave a reading, also a reading by Mrs. Wesley Johnston. Miss Annie Buchanan won the prize in the doll-dressing contest. The gifts were presented in a clothes basket, prettily decorated with pink and white, by the Misses Marjorie Newton and Mae Seeny. Miss Annie Buchanan assisted Miss Griffith with the untying of the gifts, which were beautiful and useful. A dainty lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Wesley Johnston, Mrs. A. C. Buchanan and Mrs. Wm. Preston.

Mr. Gerald Chaplin of Westwood was a Sunday visitor with friends.

Jimmie Ruttan, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Ruttan, and Barbara Carnrite, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Carnrite, celebrated their birthdays on Friday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Ruttan. A number of little playmates were invited for a tea-party and a very happy time was spent. The children received a number of lovely gifts.

RAPS CONDITIONS IN ONTARIO MINES

GLACE BAY, N.S., April 13—(CP)—Open hostility was being shown men who had joined unions organized under the banner of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization in many Ontario and Quebec plants Silby Barrett Steel Workers Organizing Committee member said last night.

Many firms were adopting company unions backed by the All-Canadian Congress which opposed the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada said Barrett back from a tour through Central Canada. In the metal industries there had been "ruthless dismissal" of union sympathizers when men joined other than company unions, he claimed.

Ontario's labor minister, Hon. N. M. MacBride would in time improve working conditions in that province, he believed, but a difficult task was ahead of him. Only about one-seventh of the industrial workers were members of any kind of a union.

Conditions in Ontario and Quebec metal mines were "bad" compared with Nova Scotia coal mines, he said, while the fatal accident rate in hardrock mines was as "appalling."

He was pleased to note New Brunswick had added labor legislation to its statute books and felt better days were in store there for workmen.

FRASERVILLE

Miss Mary Lawrence, of Emily, spent Sunday at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Finlay were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Williard Waterman.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Hogg called on Mr. and Mrs. James Clark on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Moncrief and daughter, Greta, spent the week-end with friends in Port Hope.

NOT TOO NOSEY

LONDON—(CP).—Even a nose as long as A. P. Herbert's could not disqualify a man from making speeches, music or money, the well-known humorist M.P. said himself, at an appeal meeting at the Mansion House.

Rift Reported

New reports of a rift between Holland's Queen Wilhelmina and her son-in-law, Prince Bernhard, consort of Crown Princess Julian, ABOVE, now appear in the European press. It is reported that the Queen and Prince Bernhard have openly quarrelled over the observance of the Sabbath, following the Queen's attempt to stop the Prince and his wife from boating on Sunday. The prince is reported to have left Holland on a 'vacation.'

NEWSMEN DESIRE CODE OF ETHICS

JOHANNESBURG April 13 (CP) —The congress of the South African Society of Journalists decided to appoint a committee to draft a code of ethics for journalists.

G. Makepeace said it was essential to preserve South African journalism from following certain overseas trends. South African journalists had achieved a high status and it was necessary to protect it.

He suggested that one section of the proposed code of ethics should deal with a form of misrepresentation which he described as a fraud on the public. A reporter seeking an interview should not pretend to be other than a reporter.

The congress decided to continue to make representations for the amendment of the Electoral Act, which requires the signing of political articles. It was also decided to investigate the possibility of approaching the managements of different papers to establish floating trophies for competition among the reporting staffs.

In opening the congress, the mayor of Johannesburg, J. S. Fotheringham, stressed the responsibilities of the press. He expressed the hope that competition in South Africa would not be allowed to lower the high standard of journalism by commercialization.

SHAW WOULD RAZE ROMAN BUILDINGS

LONDON, April 13—(CP). — An organized movement to wipe out every trace of Roman architecture in the United Kingdom would be welcomed by the irrepressible George Bernard Shaw. He says he wouldn't give twopence for the "extravagantly impressive" architecture of the ancient Roman temples and their more recent imitations.

The playwright and novelist gave vent to these objections in a foreword he contributed to the catalogue of the Mars (Modern Architectural Research) Group exhibition.

"I lived for 30 years in Adelphi Terrace, built to reproduce in London the splendors of the palace of Diocletian in Split," Shaw wrote. "For another 20 years I resided in Fitzroy Square where you may still see what the impressive architects call facades. In neither of these residences was there a bathroom and in both the sanitary arrangements had no place in the original plans. In impressive architecture it is the outside that matters most, and the servants do not matter at all."

Paying tribute to the Mars Group, Shaw says it represents a violent reaction against the impressive school and part of a new artistic movement, constantly searching for new beauties of form and interested in health and conveniences.

"Seekers after what Dicken's blacksmith happily called 'architectooralooral' always find themselves back again at Lancaster Gate or the Tate Gallery. We have had enough of that. At least I have," Shaw declared.

FIND ANCIENT WRECK

Workmen widening the Rhine River near Dusseldorf, Germany, have found part of an ancient Roman ship used during a battle between Romans and Germans, which was described by Tacitus, the historian.

THINKS CANADA WILL SPLIT UP

PARIS, April 13 (CP).—No Canadian seriously thinks of Canada as other than one and indivisible, even though now and again someone suggests secession.

Not so in France where at least one writer of books has studied the question from a purely racial angle. Says Dr. R. Martial, in his learned work "The French Race," "Canada in 75 years will become two, if not three countries—a French republic in the east, an English-speaking Dominion or republic in the West, with the Maritimes tagging off unable to make up their minds what to do." Dr. Martial has never met the Maritimers and doesn't known what strong-minded folk they are.

The French republic, says Dr. Martial, will not be linked with France, but will be an independent French country in America. His reasons are based upon population statistics and a belief that the French—like the Scotch—cannot be absorbed into another race, their own characteristics being too strong.

His opinion is that with an average family of seven or eight in French Canada and an average of three in English-speaking Canada in 40 years, unless something is done about it, the French population will put the rest in the minority. Then Canada may look for a rebirth of nationalism and an agitation for separation.

His picture of United States is even more disturbing. For the U.S. he pictures three republics. In 50 years, he says, the negro population will number more than 15,000,000. They will form a triangular wedge up through the centre of United States with one angle touching the Canadian border. This will split America into three republics, two white and one black.

Australia's 1938 apple crop is estimated at 10,225,000 bushels.

CAMPBELLFORD

St. John's Band Presents Pageant

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 13—The young members of St. John's Mission Band presented a delightfully colorful pageant at a tea given under their auspices on Tuesday afternoon. Each of the little members who took part in the opening chorus was dressed in the Mission Band colors, white, yellow and green and one of the girls, Barbara Greig was dressed to represent a daisy which is their emblem. The program consisted largely of readings and recitations by groups of small children appropriately costumed to represent easter eggs and also a pantomine entitled Spring in the Brown Meadow in which the little people represented raindrops, sunbeams, flowers, snowdrops, spring and other fanciful characters. The whole program was under the capable direction of Mrs. A. G. Watson who was assisted by Mrs. J. D. Mills in the pantomine.

Those who took part were Barbara Greig, Joy Burgiss, Melba Ferguson, Margaret Davidson, Fay Tomlinson as sunbeams; Shirley Burgiss, Nancy Hollings, Joan Reynols, Margaret Davidson, Dorothy Morgan, Gloria Jacobs were the Rain Drops; and the flowers were Leila Mitchell, Irene Young, Gayneal Petherick, Freda Ellis, Yvonne Hollings, and Enid Malcolm. Anne Witthun wa sthe Snow Bird and Billy Johnson was the squirrel. Those who poured tea were Mrs. G. Hammond, Mrs. G. A. Kingston, Mrs. G. Oliver and Mrs. W. H. Ashton.

St. Andrew's Y.P.S. Plan 'Lit.' Evening

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 13. — Miss Ruth McGee was in charge of the program at the meeting of the St. Andrew's Young People's Society held on Monday evening when members decided to cancel the next meeting scheduled for April 18 and instead hold a literary evening on the 25th.

Mrs. Bruce Grills, the president, presided for the opening portion of the meeting, and the program was introduced by Mrs. P. H. Macmillan who gave an interesting account of the Y.P.S. conference held in Port Hope. Miss Violet Patrick presented a reading entitled "Christ in Gethesmene" and the meeting closed with the Benediction.

LINDSAY ARSENAL WILL USE 350 H.P.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Ont., April 13. — Mr. W. E. Reesor, of the Lindsay Hydro Commission, announced Tuesday that the Dominon Arsenal will use at least 350 horsepower when it commences operations. There might be a larger demand for power if the plant was operated on a larger scale. During the war the demand for the plant was 700 horsepower.

Lindsay Town Council is face to face with a rather difficult relief problem. The March expenditure for relief exceeded the budget by $500.00. Alderman Butler, chairman of relief, informed the council last night that the budget could suffer no further cuts. The discussion on the problem was rather spirited. Alderman Butler, on whose shoulders has fallen the duties of looking after the relief recipients, told of men approaching him with tears in their eyes, asking for assistance. There had been some criticism of the work he was doing by some members of the council, who he declared "did not know what they were talking about." Mayor Claxton stated that the Provincial Government was leaving the municipalities holding the bag in the matter of relief.

The ice is still slowly leaving the lake in this district, although some of the northern lakes are still ice-locked. A new record was established at Lake Scugog this year. The lake was clear of ice on April 1—the earliest in 38 years. The wind is shifting the ice in Balsam, Cameron and Sturgeon Lakes, and it will all likely disappear in a few days.

Gordon of Quebec, Rev. G. S. Lloyd of Cornwall, Ont., Rev. J. G. Berry of Martintown, Ont., Rev. T. J. Watson of Toronto, and Professor H. C. Thomas of Wolfeville, N.S.

ICELAND WARMS WITH FEVER OF LEFTIST GROUP

REYKJAVIK, April 13—(CP).—The "popular front" movement in Iceland's 1011-year-old parliament, the Althing, is gaining ground.

Feeling in favor of a union between the three Communist deputies in the Althing and the eight Social Democrats again has developed. The project first was brought up in protracted discussions after last June's elections. Iceland has no political problems calling for such an alliance but the fever of the new political trends has infected this father of parliaments which has 49 members.

Iceland has one qualified pilot but no air force; it has no army or navy. Iceland never has fought a war or quarrelled with another nation. The country's only cannons are on board the government's three fishery inspection ships, maintained to keep foreign fishermen outside the three-mile limit.

At the dawn of the 10th century, one Ulfljotr, a dissatisfied viking from what is now Norway, sailed northwards with others to find a new home. He landed on an uninhabited, icebound land today known as the independent kingdom of Iceland under the sovereignty of the King of Denmark and Iceland.

Ulfljotr, deciding his fellow colonists should have a parliament, revisited his homeland, Norway, to obtain a set of rules. Meanwhile his brother, Grim Geitskjoer, journeyed all round Iceland till he found a site for the parliament which he called the Althing, literally "all things."

Geitskjoer found a sheltered spot near modern Reykjavik, the capital, which he called the "Thingvellir," or parliament valley. The first session of the Althing, held in the open air, took place in the Thingvellir in A.D. 927.

Each year the prime minister goes to Denmark and presents to King Christian for his signature the laws passed by the Althing. Every fifth year the King and Queen of Denmark and Iceland spend a month in their island kingdom.

Several times the Althing's membership and scope of its power changed. Often it became the tool in the hand of one of Iceland's rulers, the Kings of Norway from 1262 to 1814 and the Kings of Denmark since 1814. It was finally rehabilitated in 1918 when Iceland was recognized as an independent kingdom under the sovereignty of the King of Denmark.

Built Up Industry

Depending on herring fishing for revenue, Iceland lost much of its foreign trade when the Spanish civil war ended exports to Spain. New markets were quickly found—in Italy, Germany and South America. The government plays for safety, but it's businesslike. That's why it built up a herring oil industry into an important subsidiary.

It is experimenting with silver fox farming, and planning surveys to determine the possibilities of mining. And it expects to liquidate the national debt of less than $10,000,000 within five years.

The Althing has a colossal statue of Leif Ericsson presented by the United States. Legend says Leif left Iceland for America in the year 1000 and founded a colony where New Bedford, Mass., is now. Tracings on boulders in Manitoba, are believed to indicate Ericsson's fellow-countrymen touched that part of North America via Hudson Bay some centuries later.

They are hospitable folks, these Icelanders. At some country farms they won't even let you pay for board and lodging. At others, when you do pay, the charges are small.

20 ESCAPE BLAZE AT GRANITE CLUB

TORONTO, April 13 (CP).—Part of the east wing of the $1,000,000 Toronto Granite Club was damaged early today when fire broke out in the sports lounge and ate into the flooring of the bowling alley above. Damage was estimated at $35,000.

Twenty persons fled to the roof in night attire and were rescued by firemen, who said one man was nearly overcome by the heavy smoke which billowed through the pretentious building.

The club was built 11 years ago, and an addition erected two years later. It was in the addition that the two-alarm fire started from an undetermined cause. Housed in the wing are the bowling alley, curling rink, badminton courts, kitchens and men's and women's locker rooms.

Shortly after the original outbreak the blaze started again under the floors of the eight alleys but was soon extinguished. Heaviest damage occurred in the bowling alley, where firemen ripped through the floor with axes to get at the flames.

Upper part of the building was damaged by smoke and water but paintings of the club's collection were removed safety. Little damage was done to the rink, where crack Canadian curlers gathered in March to compete in the Macdonald's Brier Bonspiel. The rink adjoins the bowling alley.

To Guard Yachting Parties

Something new in the way of an escort service was formed in Los Angeles recently by a group of 50 professional swimmers, including members of last year's American Olympic water polo team. Yacht owners will now be able to hire an efficient life guard to accompany their yachting parties. The members of the service have each served 10 years as a life guard and are honor bound to remain sober and watchful whenever a passenger appears on deck. Fred Zender, ABOVE, demonstrates the new service by rescuing Lorraine O'Brien, who "fell" overboard.

Teutonic 'Ja' Of Nazi Approval Echoes In Czech Ears

Praha Believes Hitler Aims At Economic Control Of Nation Without War

NEW YORK, April 13—(AP). — That mighty Teutonic "Ja" of approval for Chancellor Hitler's annexation of Austria is echoing in the Czechoslovakian hills that shelter another big German population for where Der Fueher has made himself protector. Czechoslovakia is high on the list of countries with which the Nazi dictator is expected to deal in the near future.

I am informed by a high Czech source, that while the country fully expects Hitler to attempt to place it under his control economically, it is not expected he will try to annex any of it.

This Czech viewpoint runs like this:

Hitler is out to create an economic unit in Europe. He intends to make Czechoslovakia one of his retainers and to establish the autonomy of her German population. There is no indication, though, that he plans to violate the Czechoslovakian frontiers. Should be do so, Czechoslovakia will fight to the finish, and will not rely on outside help.

Praha believes (my informant still talking) that Hitler wishes to avoid war, and that while he isn't much worried about the French attitude, he is afraid Russia might come to Czechoslovakia's assistance.

No Chance Of Revolt

Further, any attempt to revolt within Czechoslovakia would meet with failure. This is so because there is no armed party in the country, the government having maintained a rigid control of arms.

What Hitler will do is to form a close economic bloc which will include Yugoslavia, and may take in Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary The latter two are doubtful, Rumania being suspicous of the German intentions, and Hungary wishing to be free to trade where she wills.

Praha expects Germany will continue economic pressure through every possible means for maybe six months. Then a shutdown may be expected as to future relationship and the status of the German population of Czechoslovakia.

Meantime the Praha government is proceeding to make concessions to its German population, about 25 per cent of the total.

Protests Sentence By Shedding Garb

TRURO, N.S., April 13. — (CP). —Sentenced to 10 days in jail when a Truro magistrate found him guilty of vagrancy, a tramp tore his hat to shreds and threatened to tear off his clothes unless the court reconsidered.

Magistrate Harold Putnam was equal to the occasion. 'I shall have the jailer inform me if he considers you artistic enough to make a living at the strip tease. If so, I shall seek authority to shorten your sentence. Otherwise, the jailer will be directed to apply a horse whip as soon as you have demonstrated your failure."

The tramp went peacefully—and fully clothed—to jail.

Detroit Street Car Strikes Threaten Bloodshed

Extensive rioting was feared in the Detroit street car strike as a result of Mayor Richard W. Reading's warning that he would give Detroit transportation even at the cost of bloodshed. The strike, an outgrowth of a seniority dispute between rival unions, has tied up all public transportation in the city with the exception of 600 buses. Drivers of these buses are union members who refused to strike. It is feared they may become victims of violence if strikers attempt to halt the buses. Police and strikers are shown guarding one of the carbarns.

MAN MARCHES ON TO VOLTAGE AGE

NEW YORK, April 13—(CP)—The average man of 1968 will get his food from "soilless farms" immune to drought, hail, frost and plant and insect diseases. He will live in a world of electricity in which bacteria will be vanquished, will wear clothing fabricated from cellulose or spun glass and will live in a house lighted, heated, cooled, humidified and air-cleaned automatically by electricity.

This conception of living conditions 30 years hence was presented by G. Edward Pendray, science writer and past president of the American Rocket Society, at gathering of the New York railroad club. By 1968, Mr. Pendray said, the average man's library might consist of small spools of film, each roll the size of a watch, representing a complete volume, which will be read by the aid of a projector smaller than a typewriter. Clothing of fireproof fabrics might even be worn in 1968, he concluded, which will be tossed into an electric furnace to clean.

AUSTRALIA MARKS FOUR MONTHS RED

SYDNEY, N.S.W., April 13—(CP) —Australia is marking the 150th anniversary of its settlement next year with a celebration that devotes almost every day between Jan. 1 and April 26 to international conference, carnival, pageant or play.

Important meetings are scheduled in connection with the anniversary. They include the Empire Parliamentary Association Conference, the British Empire Producers' Conference, the World Convention of Radio Engineers and a Women's International Conference.

One of the elaborate features of the pageantry will depict the landing of the first English colonists at Botany Bay in 1788 and development of the Commonwealth between 1788 and 1938. It will portray major events in the country's 150-year-old history and show social, developmental and industrial changes.

Sports events, including the British Empire Games, international lawn tennis competition between Australia and the United States, the Australasian power boat championships, a cricket match, international field hockey matches between women's teams from Great Britain, Canada and Australia and other contests, will be staged throughout the period.

Displays by army, navy and air force men; renditions by a 5,000-voice choir; various exhibitions; receptions, balls and other forms of gaiety are important features of the program. The Commonwealth has asked other nations to send naval units to take part.

Dull Prisoners Couldn't Take Broad Hints Of The Jailer

It Wasn't Fault Of Sheriff That John Daly Finally Was Hanged

BURTON, N.B., April 13 (CP).— The story of a prisoner who hadn't enough sense, when given opportunities, to run away from his own hanging, is told here by Augustus Haley, 74, jailer of Sunbury County, Fourth in his family to hold the same job, Haley repeats conversation of a century ago as told by the first jailer, William Lynch, to his son-in-law, John Haley, who in turn repeated it to his own son, Augustus.

John Daly, a husky, stupid chap with a previously good reputation, had been convicted on flimsy evidence of an attack upon a girl. At the trial his slowness in answering questions made him appear guilty. Jailer Lynch and the sheriff suspected she was trying to save her own reputation by sacrificing Daley.

"If he's going to be hanged he'd better get dressed up for the occasion," said the sheriff. "And if he's going to dress up he'd better have a bath first. How would it be if I took him down to the river and let him have a bath there?"

"That would be a good idea—just what I was thinking," solemnly replied the jailer. "And of course it would be only common decency if you were to turn your back while he washed himself. A man about to die is entitled to some privacy when he takes his last bath."

"I've been very absent-minded lately," said the jailer. "Terribly absent-minded. I'm afraid I'm going to forget the soap and have to leave him on the river bank and walk back to the jail for it."

The next morning Lynch took Daly to the river. "Isn't that just like me?" asked the jailer when they arrived. "I've forgotten the soap. I'll have to go back for it. Can I trust you to stay here in my absence?"

"I got some soap here, Mr. Lynch," said the prisoner. "I brought a cake along with me."

"I'm going for a walk along the bank, while you have your bath," remarked the jailer. "I'll be back in a few minutes. I'll be around those bushes so that I won't be able to see you but I don't think you'd be up to any tricks like running away."

"No," said Daly. "I wouldn't." He answered so gravely that Lynch gave him a wink and grin to let him know how matters really stood. The jailer wandered away and was sitting on a log when: "I'm ready, Mr. Lynch," Daly called.

"He must want to be strung up," muttered Lynch. They went back to where officials had gathered for the execution. The sheriff raised his eyebrows. The jailer shrugged, while a minister prayed the jailer did something to the hangman's rope. It "mysteriausly" broke under the condemned man's weight, and he landed in a puddle.

"You're all dirty," said the jailer. "We can't hang a man in your condition. Go down to the river and have another bath. Have a good one. And don't hurry back. We'll have to send for another rope and it will take time." Off went Daly.

When the jailer returned with another rope he saw the prisoner, clean and his clothes brushed neatly. "I'm fit to be hung now," said Daly, "I'm all slicked up."

They tied the new rope around his neck, kicked the box and he dangled until dead.

"It's too bad," said the jailer.

"Yes," agreed the sheriff, "but what can you do with a prisoner who's so blankety-blank trustworthy that he won't even run away from his own hanging?"

TO RUN ANOTHER 100 YEARS

By replacing the old-fashioned weights of the 137-year-old turret clock of the Port of London, in England, with an electric motor it is hoped to make the timepiece last for another century.

Slap Is Serious

The "slap in the face" which Commander Robert Bower, above Conservative member of the British parliament, received in a House of Commons altercation recently had serious consequences when the commander was reported in a critical condition as the result of a blood clot that caused a swelling and tore off his ear drum. The blow was struck allegedly by Emanuel Shinwell, left wing Labor M. P., who resented a shouted taunt by Bower that he "go back to Poland."

LOOK BOYS

a New C·C·M· with a Built-in "YALE" Lock

EVERY boy knows it is a good idea to lock his bicycle but he is not always successful in getting a really safe lock.

But now he can be sure that his bicycle is safely locked if it is a new C.C.M. Standard Roadster with a built-in "Yale" lock.

This smart new lock has been specially designed by the "Yale" and C.C.M. engineers to provide simple, convenient and positive protection for the new C.C.M.

Study the enlarged picture of this new lock and you will see how it is built right into the rear tubular fork of the bicycle. It is completely enclosed in its own little part of the fork. The key fits easily into the barrel lock and, when you turn it, a bolt is turned out between the spokes of the rear wheel, making it impossible to turn the wheel.

With this "Yale" lock on your new C.C.M. Standard Roadster, you can be sure that it is safely locked.

This new C.C.M. Model, like all C.C.M. Bicycles, is made with a frame of seamless steel tubing finished with several coats of baked-on enamel. It has the famous C.C.M. precision-built Triplex Hanger that makes C.C.M.'s so easy to pedal. Of course, it has the C.C.M. quick-acting coaster brake. All the bright parts are chromium-plated over C.C.M. 20-year nickel, the wheels have steel rims and rustless steel spokes, the tires are the well-known Dunlop "Fort".

When you are buying your new bicycle be sure to examine this fine new C.C.M. with the built-in "Yale" lock. See it at your nearest C.C.M. dealer's.

LABOR CONGRESS TO SHUN DISPUTE UNLESS ATTACKED

LONDON, Ont., April 13—(CP).—The All-Canadian Congress of Labor, in the belief disputes between national and international unions during the past 25 years largely were responsible for what delegates termed the present unorganized state of Canadian Labor, was pledged to-day to refrain from unprovoked attacks upon other Labor organizations.

The eighth annual convention of the Congress decided here yesterday to enter into argument with other Labor bodies only to defend itself from attack. The policy was outlined in a report of the executive board and was adopted after delegates charged United States unions allied with Canadian bodies should not be termed international unions.

Only a few hours after the Congress recorded its decision, President A. R. Mosher of Ottawa criticized in an address at a public meeting held in connection with the convention remarks of Silby Barrett, member of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, in Glace Bay, N.S., Monday.

A New Social Order.

The purpose of the congress is to build a Canadian Labor movement whose members will have sense, knowledge and ability to build a new social order, Mosher said. "Unions affiliated with the A.C.C.L.," he added, "have accomplished more for workers in this country than any other group in Canada or the United States."

Barrett had said many firms in Ontario and Quebec were adopting company unions backed by the A.C.C.L. which, he said, opposed the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. He claimed there had been "ruthless dismissal" in the metal industries of union sympathizers when men joined other than company unions.

Echoes of last year's convention, when the then secretary, W. T. Burford, left the A.C.C.L. to form the Canadian Federation of Labor, were heard in yesterday's session. M. M. McLean, Ottawa, told delegates the policy adopted was a departure from the attitude of "the former secretary and those who followed him into oblivion."

No Arsenic in Medicine.

"It would have been possible for Mr. Cole to consume from one-eighth to one-quarter of a grain of arsenic daily in the amount of tea he drank," Dr. Shotwell said. He had analyzed medicines taken by Cole and found no arsenic. Miss Mona Hardy, a former maid in the Cole home, testified that Cole liked his tea brewed strong with one and a half teaspoons of tea to a cup.

Dr. Little said that when arsenic was taken in small amounts over a period of time it had a tendency to become cumulative. "Tea may contain arsenic. There are many things that contain arsenic. I do not know if tea planters spray their crops with arsenic to kill insects like growers of other products do."

Dr. Laidlaw said tests of arsenic disclosed traces in Cole's hair, but an analysis he made of some of the tea did not reveal arsenic.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

CO-OPERATIVE BUYING AS MEANS OF CHECKING FASCISM URGED

Canada Is Now Being Ruled By Economic Autocracy President Of U.F.O. Claims

Attended Fascist Meeting In Toronto Where Youths Wore Swastikas

Co-operative buying as a means of checking the spread of Fascism in Canada was urged on Tuesday night by W. G. Nicholson, president of the United Farmers of Ontario, addressing the Peterborough branch at the Paragon Hall.

The great danger facing this country to-day is Fascism, the speaker declared. He related that he had attended a Fascist meeting in Toronto where youths dressed in uniform, wore swastikas on their arms, and whose leader looked not unlike Mussolini.

An economic autocracy rules this country and makes a political democracy impossible, the speaker said. Sir Hubert Holt has more power than Prime Minister Mackenzie King, he said. He believed the most certain method of checking this autocracy, which he warned has led to Fascism in other countries, is to buy collectively and strike at the roots of the practices of monopoly. The monopolistic road leads to Fascism, he declared.

Should Buy Wholesale.

The speaker found it absurd that farmers should buy their essentials at retail prices and at the same time hope to compete with industry, all of whose necessities are purchased wholesale. "Farmers are too apt to think of themselves as producers alone," he declared. "As a matter of fact, we are the biggest group of consumers in Canada."

Food, equipment, fertilizer, seed, are just as essential to the farmer's business as are parts to the automobile manufacturer, was the opinion. The manufacturer buys his parts wholesale; so should the farmer.

He recalled the origin of the co-operative system in England in 1844, when 28 Irish weavers pooled together $140 and began a co-operative store. Last year that idea had spread to such an extent that in Great Britain alone 125 million dollars were returned to members on purchases. To-day in the United States co-operative stores are doing a business totalling a million dollars each day the year around. Last year Ohio farmers set aside ten thousand dollars from co-operative earnings to teach the system in cities.

Slow in Old Ontario.

The co-operative movement has been slow in old Ontario, the speaker admitted. Farmers in this province are unwilling to make any change to new ideas. In Grey, Bruce, and Huron counties, however, the movement has been concentrated and study groups formed. Two credit unions have already been established as a result and the movement shows signs of being firmly rooted, he believed.

The speaker was introduced by Stewart Dawson, local president.

NOT ONE CASE GOES TO TRIAL

Not one case was tried nor was a witness heard in the non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court Tuesday as the list presented to Mr. Justice McFarland dissolved into inaction either by settlement or postponed until the next sessions of the court either here or at Cobourg.

An action for damages against the city brought by Mrs. Sarah Yelland for injuries in a fall at the corner of Murray and George streets on Coronation Day last year was settled out of court and the case withdrawn without costs. It was learned afterward that the plaintiff's claim was based on a chipped condition of the edge of the sidewalk on which Mrs. Yelland tripped and fell. T. J. Carley was solicitor for Mrs. Yelland and J. R. Corkery represented the city.

Sale of her farm to Ben Nicholls was involved in Mrs. Robert Garbutt's case which was settled by agreement on the advice of Mr. Justice McFarland. The difference in terms between the two parties was so small, His Lordship said, that an understanding should be arrived at without recourse to trial. G. N. Gordon, K.C., was solicitor for Mrs. Garbutt and G. W. Stevenson for Mr. Nicholls.

The collections will be made from the street letter boxes as usual, and all mail posted will be despatched as usual.

TO ADDRESS KIWANIS.

Kiwanians are embarking on an entirely new type of program this week when they hold their weekly luncheon on Thursday instead of the usual Friday. The Peterborough Ministerial Association will be in charge of the entire meeting. The ministers are looking after the speeches and musical program. It will probably be along the Easter theme.

RATHER EMBARRASSING.

Kinsmen embarrassed Alex. Elliott at their luncheon to-day when they drew for the lucky tickets in a draw, winners of which received twenty dollars towards a trip to Cornwall to the district meeting of the club. "I really think we should postpone this draw until some other time when Mr. Elliott isn't here," apologized President Dr. Mark Crough, recognising the fact that the member of Legislature had voted against sweepstakes at Queen's Park only a couple of weeks ago. The member looked embarrassed.

PORT PERRY ROAD ASSUMED.

Announcement of the assumption of the Peterborough-Port Perry road as a provincial highway is published in this week's issue of the Ontario Gazette, implementing the undertaking of the Ontario Department of Highways last fall. Maintenance of the road through Durham has been carried on during the winter by the council of the united counties of Durham and Northumberland, but the road now becomes the entire responsibility of the province. The Gazette also mentions the road from Newcastle north to the Victoria boundary as also being assumed.

TRANSIENT FINED.

A transient who pleaded guilty to being drunk on Bethune street yesterday was fined $10 and costs in police court this morning. He told the court that he had been heading for Montreal and Magistrate Langley intimated that if his purpose had been to catch a boat he was no doubt the police would be glad to have him go. Chief Newhall remarked that transients who obtained wine and then visited empty box cars for the purpose of drinking it had become a nuisance. The magistrate warned that fines for drunkenness will advance to $15 shortly if an improvement is not shown.

MADE MINIATURE CANNON.

A stream lined minature cannon, standing about one foot and a half high, and bored for inch and one-quarter shells, is an interesting display in the Kingan hardware store. It was made by H. V. Steer, an employee of the Canadian General Electric Co., and is obviously a fine product of expert machine work. The barrel is of nickel steel and is lined after the manner of full-sized guns and is equipped with breach block, firing pin, lanyard and other gadgets of gunnery. It is mounted on light iron wheels, and although it might be termed a miniature cannon it could do quite a bit of damage firing shells of one inch and a quarter size. One afternoon recently it was loaded with a blank cartridge and wheeled out into the yard behind the Kingan store. The lanyard was pulled and the shell exploded with a roar that brought people into Simcoe street wondering what had blown up.

CHURCH NOTICES.

All religious notices must be in printer's hands no later than 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, owing to Good Friday holiday.

TRIP TO GUELPH.

The annual U.F.O. picnic held in this vicinity each June, may be replaced this year by a trip to Guelph's Ontario Agricultural College. At Tuesday night's meeting members were discussing a special train, which would make stops at all villages and towns in the vicinity, and carry a bumper crowd to Guelph. To bring the fare within reason, nearly 200 would have to make the trip.

BOBCAYGEON MAN IS FACING CHARGE OF DRUNK DRIVING

A charge against Herbert McGee, cattle buyer of Bobcaygeon, of being drunk in charge of a car on Charlotte Street on the night of April 7 occupied the attention of Magistrate Langley in Police Court today for the greater part of the morning, and was adjourned until this afternoon.

McGee had previously pleaded not guilty to the charge. He was defended by W. B. Gordon, while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry prosecuted. A number of Bobcaygeon people were present in the court.

Constable John Rogers, first witness for the Crown, told of driving west on Charlotte Street, between George and Aylmer Streets, with Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton on the night in question and of seeing a car ahead of them which three times within the block had been on the wrong side of the road and had narrowly escaped colliding with other cars coming from the west.

As a result, the officers got ahead of McGee's car and stopped it and accused and the two men who were with him were driven to the Police Station in McGee's car and placed under arrest. Rogers said McGee was under the influence of liquor, there was a strong smell of liquor around the car, and from his breath and his speech was thick. At the Police Station, the accused was argumentative, the witness stated. The two other men were very drunk.

Asked for Lawyer.

In cross-examination Rogers said that he did not hear the accused at the Police Station demand to have a doctor called. He did ask to have someone telephone a lawyer.

Traffic Officer Broughton gave somewhat similar evidence as to the manner in which McGee's car was driven on Charlotte Sreet, although in some details his and Roger's testimony differed. Witness said that McGee was drunk, his breath smelled strongly of liquor, his speech was thick and he had had difficulty in getting into the back seat of his car when asked to do so.

Witness told Mr. Gordon that he did not hear McGee ask for a doctor at the police station.

Elmer Clancy said that he had been sitting in a service truck at the corner of Charlotte and George streets at the time mentioned by the police and had seen a green Chevrolet car of the description mentioned by the two previous witnesses, come down George street and make a wide swing into Charlotte street almost hitting a car parked at the corner. He had watched the car going west on Charlotte street on the wrong side of the road and nearly colliding with a number of cars and as a result he had reported the matter to the police station.

Constable John Stevenson, Sergeant John Thompson and Traffic Officer W. A. Clark all testified that McGee was drunk when they saw him in the police station after he had been arrested. Sergeant Thompson had seen him in the cells shortly after 12 o'clock and said that McGee had refused to let go the bars of the door.

None of the three had heard the accused ask for a doctor. Sergeant Thompson said that the man had asked for a lawyer but he had not done anything about it at that hour, leaving it until the morning as was the usual custom. "Otherwise we would be calling lawyers at all hours of the night," he said.

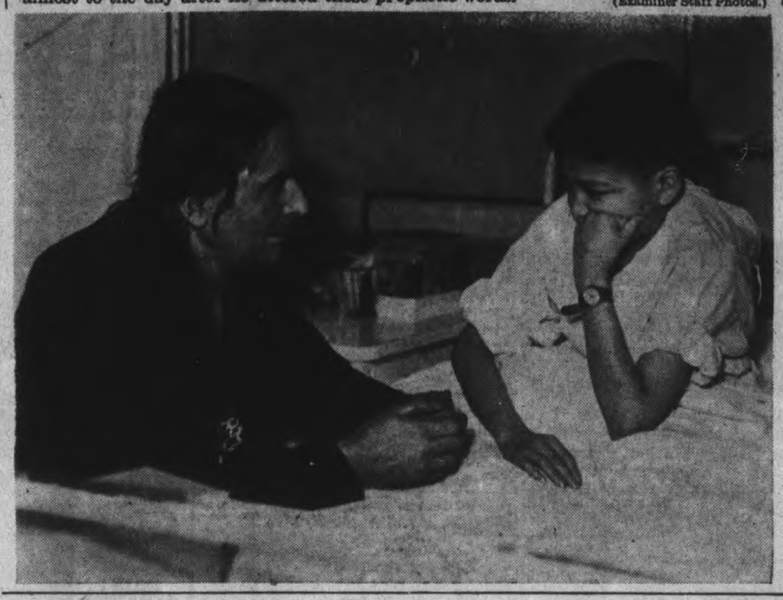
Accused Testifies

The accused took the box in his own behalf and told the court of coming to Peterborough on the day in question to arrange a cattle deal and of bringing three Bobcaygeon friends with him. He said that he had had a glass of beer in a beverage room at about 6.30 o'clock in the evening and again after completing the cattle deal had had another glass in another hotel about 8.30. Then he met one of his Bobcaygeon friends about 10 o'clock and the two had had supper in a restaurant and started out to look for the rest of the party to get ready to leave for home.

Mr. McGee had not completed his testimony when the case was adjourned.

Grey Owl Is Dead

Chief Grey Owl, most famed of all North North American Indians, died today in hospital in Prince Albert, a completely exhausted man. This picture was taken at Nicholls hospital when Grey Owl lectured here. He took time off from his busy life to visit an 11-year-old Indian boy, Gerald Johnston, one of whose legs had been amputated two weeks earlier. At the time of his visit Grey Owl told an Examiner reporter that another month of lecturing would kill him, so weak in physique had his lengthy tour of Canada, the United States and England rendered him. His death today was a month almost to the day after he uttered those prophetic words. (Examiner Staff Photos.)



Poll Being Taken On Opening Of The Maskinonge Season

Suggestion Has Been Made That The Season Open On June 20

In an effort to obtain a definite expression of opinion on the opening of the maskinonge fishing season in the Kawartha Lakes district, the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, through the co-operation of The Examiner, is offering a poll on the question.

The Association is hopeful that all persons interested in fishing in this district, whether as angler, conservationist, naturalist, business man or tourist resort keeper, will use this ballot to express his individual opinion.

For this purpose the accompanying ballot is submitted:

Kindly mark this ballot Yes or No; sign your name and address, and drop it into the baloti box which for the next several days will be in the business office of The Examiner. Those out of town, please mail. The results of this poll will be made known by The Examiner.

For years the maskinonge fishing season has opened in this district on Dominion Day annually. It has been reported that the Department of Game and Fisheries intends to open the season on June 20 in Northern and Eastern Ontario this year, and in order to maintain uniformity of regulations considers opening the maskinonge season in local waters on the same date.

Conservationists of our fish maintain that this earlier opening of the maskinonge season will result in further depletion of game fish from our waters, and that bass, which may be still on their spawning beds on June 20th, will be caught when anglers are out trying to catch lunge.

They view this as a backward step in the fight to conserve and replenish local waters with fish.

However, other citizens argue that to have the season open here behind the opening date of other parts of Ontario will materially affect the number of tourists visiting this area. They maintain too that the earlier opening will not greatly affect the number of fish caught, particularly if the season is shortened by two weeks or more in the Fall. They urge that the season be closed October 1st or even September 20th.

What do you think? Mark your ballot and let your opinion be considered.

"Do you favour the opening of the Maskinonge fishing season in the Kawartha Lakes district on June 20th this year." .....

BOYS' HOBBY SHOW OPENS ON APRIL 22

Final arrangements are under way for a big week at the 'Y' during the Easter holiday. The Hobby Show will be officially opened by His Worship Mayor Hamilton, Friday, April 22nd, at 7.45 p.m., but entrants and competitors must have their work entered by April 21 in all sections except music.

The new department of music will hold its concert in the 'Y' auditorium Wednesday, April 20, at 8 p.m. Entrants in this department may choose their own selections but must give their entries to Ross Gillespie, 2904-W, before Tuesday, April 19.

Other features of the show will be the aircraft contest in the gymnasium, and the dog show both to be held on Saturday, April 23. Many special exhibits and new features will be on display. The swimming meet will be held on Friday, April 22.

Boys who have not obtained booklets of the Hobby Show program and events may get them at the Y.M.C.A. boys' desk. All entries must be in the Y.M.C.A. by noon Thursday, April 21, if they are to be judged.

SENATORIAL RACE GIVES LUCAS LEAD

CHICAGO, April 13.—(AP).—An avalanche of late down-state returns to-day swept Congressman Scott W. Lucas, adherent of Governor Henry Horner, into the lead for the Democratic Senatorial nomination.

Lucas forged in front after whittling down a lead of 70,000 votes piled up earlier by U. S. District Attorney Michael L. Igoe of Chicago, backed in yesterday's bitter primary election by the Democratic organization headed by Mayor Edward J. Kelly and National Committeeman P. A. Nash of Chicago. Both Lucas and Igoe had pledged allegiance to President Roosevelt.

Returns from 6,451 of the State's 8,286 precincts gave Lucas 602,291, and Igoe 601,674.

Lucas is serving his second term in Congress, representing the district which sent the late Speaker Henry T. Rainey to the House. Igoe is a veteran of 16 years in the State Legislature and served part of one term in Congress before being appointed U. S. District Attorney.

MRS. ROBT. RODDY GUEST OF HONOR BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Robert Roddy, sitting on right of the photo, who was years on April 10th lives about three miles east of Bailieboro. Her husband died February 25, 1925. Mrs. Roddy is quite smart in spite of her age and can read without glasses. On her 90th birthday she read quite easily a letter from her niece in Vancouver.

On Sunday a number of the relatives gathered at the home of Mrs. Roddy. Those at dinner included: Mrs .S. Hall of Millbrook; Mr. W. Hall of Centerville, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Robinson, Mrs. James Greer, Mrs. Joseph Byres.

Other callers in the afternoon included: Mr. J. S. Perrin, Miss Audrey Beebe, Mr. Eric Beebe, Mrs. C. Barnard, Mr. Harold Nurse, Miss Lucy Nurse.

Mrs. Jos. Byres, a great friend, will be 89 years of age on April 19, lives at her home near Rice Lake, 3½ miles east of Bailieboro. Mrs. Byres was born April 19th, 1849 and was the ninth child of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Perrin. In 1869 Mrs. Byres married Joseph Byres, who died 16 years ago on April 8.

Mrs. Byres has four of a family all living, Bert Byres who resides in the villageof Bailieboro, Fred Byres of Toronto, Mrs. J. Greer of Oxbow, Sask., Miss Gertrude Byres at home.

Find Indian Dying Of Exposure

HAMILTON, April 13. (CP).—Foodless and exposed to inclement weather for more than a week, John Jackson, Septuagenarian Indian recluse who lives alone in a shack in the valley lands near here, was found in a semi-conscious condition in the woods late yesterday.

He had been lying against a tree for several days, his shelter a fragment of tin which had failed to protect him from the snow and rain storms. W. T. Moore, inspector of provincial police said today. His food during that period was water that he succeeded in scooping from little pools that formed near him.

"A citizen was strolling through the woods late yesterday afternoon when his dog became excited and attracted his attention by barking," Inspector Moore said.

Pioneer Residents

Mrs. Robert Roddy and Mrs. Joseph Byers, life long friends and residents of Bailieboro district are celebrating joyous occasions. The former was 90 years of age on April 10 while the latter will be 89 on April 19. Mrs. Byers was a guest of Mrs. Roddy at her birthday dinner.

Prince Of Wales Rangers Plans To Open Up Recruiting Office In City

Increased Allotment in Regiment Calls For 100 Additional Recruits

Due to an increased allotment in personnel, the Prince of Wales' Rangers (Peterborough Regiment) has opened a recruiting office at the local Armouries, according to an announcement made by Lieut.-Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., officer commanding the regiment, to The Examiner today.

Colonel Dewart stated this office would be open on Tuesday and Thursday, beginning April 14th, from 8 to 9.30 pm., and that a competent staff would be on duty to interview prospective recruits.

Men of good type and with mechanical ability are desired as the technical nature of the equipment renders this necessary.

100 More Men Needed.

The increased allotment calls for 100 more men than was permitted under the old regulations, and in order that the new personnel can be trained to the standards of efficiency required it is essential that they be recruited before the commencement of the annual training season which starts on April 26, he said.

Efficiency pay on a graduated scale is granted to those recruits who qualify for it during the season according to the knowledge and skill displayed.

In line with the proposed expansion the recreation room at the Armouries has been completely remodelled. A radio has been installed and ping pong tables provided for the entertainment of the men. Sandwiches and coffee are also supplied as well as the current magazines. To those men interested in volley ball and softball, every assistance is given under experienced instructors.

The Prince of Wales' Rangers, despite the handicap of being a completely new unit, being reorganized from cavalry, infantry and machine gun units, has already attained a high state of efficiency. They won second place in the general efficiency competition for Military District No. 3, which takes in all Eastern Ontario from Bowmanville east to Cornwall, including Ottawa. The district includes such crack units as the Governor-General's Foot Guards and the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, probably two of the finest units in the Dominion.

The annual inspection of the regiment will be held on June 21, after which it leaves for Connaught Ranges, Ottawa for one week's intensive training on the finest equipment available in Canada.

Intending recruits are advised to apply at once as there is every indication that the extra allotment will soon be filled.

SALVATION ARMY GETS $5 GRANT

The Salvation Army received a grant of $5 to assist in their welfare work from the South Monaghan Council at their April meeting this week. Tax Collector Robert Deyell reported $150 paid since the last meeting of council; his time was extended one month before the return of the roll.

The Council agreed that the clerk prepare a bylaw for the next meeting to protect the municipality from damages caused by cattle running at large on township roads.

The following accounts were ordered paid: W. C. Wood, telephone board, $100; E. L. MacNachtan, relief, $51.63; G. R. Whittington, council pay, $10; Salvation Army, grant, $5; Robert Kelley, work on Con. 1, $10.20; Fred Perrin, grading, $3.20; Jay Whittington, dragging and fixing hole, Con. 4, $6.40; Jos. Pengelley, work on ¼ line, $4.10; Wilbur Barnard, grading, $2.50; Dept. of Health, insulin, $2.10; Robt. Thompson, comm. work, $2; Roy Whittington, comm. work, $1; D. N. Dodds, cedar, $2.50; O. B. Johnson, ¼ salary, $60; Barringer Bros., ¼ printing, $17.50.

Council adjourned, to meet again on Monday, May 2, at 1.30 p.m.

Palestine is entertaining an increasing number of tourists.

OBITUARY

THOMAS MURRAY

Thomas Murray, native of Douro and resident of Peterborough for the past 40 years, died at his home at 111 Rubidge street on Wednesday morning after a short illness. He was 86 years of age.

His wife, formerly Ellen Herlihey, predeceased him about ten years ago and he was the last surviving member of his family. Mrs. T. C. Callaghan of this city is a niece, and W. E. Perdue of Peterborough is a nephew. He was a member of the Church of the Sacred Heart.

The funeral will be held on Friday morning, at 7.45 o'clock, from the residence, 111 Rubidge street, to the Church of the Sacred Heart for service at 8 a.m. Interment will be made at St. Luke's Cemetery, Downeyville.

CADI DISMISSED PARKING CHARGE CHAMBER STREET

Magistrate Langley gave judgment this morning in the Chambers street parking case in which D. V. Ketcheson had pleaded not guilty to a charge of parking in a restricted area, dismissing the case after reserving his decision for a week.

"This charge cannot succeed" said His Worship "for the reason that the evidence shows that the offence, if any offence had been committed was not committed by the accused but by his wife."

Magistrate Langley added that under the bylaw a man could not be convicted for something that had been done by his wife unless she was acting as his agent. The Highway Traffic Act did not help the crown any in this case, he pointed out.

Furthermore although he dismissed the case for the reason stated Magistrate Langley said that the defendant's claim that Chambers street was not clearly marked would have been a good defence. The signs spoken of in the evidence were in the magistrate's opinion not a clear indication that the whole street was a restricted area.

A similar charge against H. J. Tudhope was adjourned at the request of City Solicitor Wilfrid Huycke until next Tuesday.

SERVICE IS HELD AT MURRAY STREET

The special preacher at the Tuesday night Passion Week service in Murray Street Baptist Church was the Rev. F. W. Craik, pastor of St. James' United Church. The service was conducted by the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe.

Taking as his subject the scenes in the Garden of Gethsemane, the speaker laid emphasis on the sentence where Christ is said to have gone a step farther into the Garden. Christ was continually going a step beyond the ordinary levels of men, said the Rev. Mr. Craik. The Christian is called to follow in love and sacrifice. A backward look of sorrow for sin and a forward step of faith in Christ may mean all the difference in the world to a human sould, he said.

GHOSTS W ALK WHEN MINERS SEARCH GOLD

HALIFAX, April 13.—(CP). — Tales of buried treasure usually carry a ghostly aura, but there's one being acted out within 20 miles of Halifax which has more thrilling stories than anything Robert L. Stevenson ever wrote.

As excavators and mining engineers work to uncover a 200-year-old cache at Shad Bay, near here, workmen at the diggings quit their jobs and carry with them tales of ghastly murders committed before their eyes, of ethereal voices floating through the woods, of unexplained noises which have terrorized residents of the district for years.

Wind in the trees may sound strangely like whispering voices, and cave-ins and running water underground may make mysterious noises, but to some of the crewmen, there's only one explanation for the strange happenings which have changed the crew almost every week since operatoins started a year ago, and that is —ghosts!

And lay that sneed aside 'til you've heard this one.

Several weeks ago Albert, the cook (he's back in his native Ontario now, a changed man) wakened the crew by emitting blood-curdling screams in the dead of night.

A few indignant shakes quieted the chastened chef, but harsh protests died quickly as they saw his teeth chatter and his hands shake. As he unfolded this story, glances toward the door became more and more frejquent, and little sleep was enjoyed that night.

He was asleep, he said, when someone entered and said "Come and take a look at this!" Albert rose and went outside the bunkhouse. In the light of a brilliant moon he could see a small ship anchored just off the beach. A boat was making shore, manned by two strange figures, one in a slouch hat and gabardine cloak, the other wearing a clerical-appearing garb. Five men were on the beach, each carrying a flaming torch which seemed to illuminate only the heads, giving them a strange, floating appearance.

As the awe-stricken cook watched the five disappeared with a heavy chest which they took from the boat, going in the direction of the present diggings. A short time later they returned, and began quarreling vicently among themselves.

As he stared, they seemed to gang up on the hooded figure, and as they threatened it with a pistol Albert involuntarily screamed. At the sound of his voice, the whole assemblage turned and started for him.

Albert was a man of discretion, so he made the best of the time afforded him to get into his nice, pirate-free bunk and pull the clothes over his head, screeching all the while. And there his irate mates found him.

Nightmare, eh? But for just one little thing. A few minutes before Albert screamed, one of the crew awakened for a short time, and Albert was standing, motionless, just outside the open door.

FILM STAR ROBBED

LOS ANGELES, April 13 (A.P.).—Miriam Hopkins, film star, reported to police to-day theft of diamond and ruby jewellery worth $15,000 from a bedroom closet in her West Los Angeles home. Police blamed a "phantom burglar" who has operated in the exclusive neighborhood.

LAND VALUES JUMP

Growing of tobacco has proved so successful near Nelson, New Zealand, that land values have jumped from $30 an acre to $500 since the experiment was started.

STAKED FORTUNE TO HELP FILMS

LONDON, April 13. — (CP). — Britain's film industry, launched some years ago as a challenge to Hollywood's ever-increasing domination, has reached a critical state.

Of 10,000 persons who look to the industry for employment, 8,000 are reported to be out of work, according to spokesmen for the Association of Cine Technicians. They claim there are no signs of immediate improvement.

Several small companies have already been forced to the wall in the face of a sequence of setbacks, but one of the biggest blows to the industry came with the recent announcement that John Henry Iles, noted British showman, had filed a petition in bankruptcy. He blamed the parlous state of the film industry for his failure. Mr. Iles, responsible for production of the British picture, "Edge of the World," declared he had entered wholeheartedly into the business, believing British films could equal anything produced by their competitors.

"Unfortunately the film industry has gone from bad to worse," he said, "and my studios in common with many others have had to stand still. I staked my whole fortune which was considerable to help the film companies with which I was concerned to weather the storm, but the period of stagnation has lasted too long."

Representatives of the Association of Cine Technicians are petitioning the government for inclusion of ample safeguards for the industry in the new film bill before parliament at the present session. One of their salient demands is increase instead of reduction in the proposed quota of home-produced pictures.

A manifesto drafted by the association declares that if a real British industry is to be created, 95 per cent of labor costs, against the 75 per cent proposed, shall be paid British subjects to qualify for a film quota. Establishment of an apprenticeship scheme to train technicians, is also argued.

Association spokesmen declare a tragic feature of the industry in the past 10 years has been the promotion of companies with small capital that have gone into liquidation after perhaps producing only one picture. The result has been that hundreds have been thrown out of employment with the companies indebted to the extent of thousands of pounds to technicians and other employees.

No film, they claim, should become eligible for the quota until all outstanding indebtedness to employees is settled.

ELEPHANTS WILD ON BOMBAY ROAD

NEW DELHI, April 13—(CP).—A project to join Bombay and Calcutta, India's two greatest ports, by a first-class highway is being discussed here. It would be 1,150 miles in length.

Part of the route leads through the wild regions of the Central Provinces. Surveying parties in those areas have recently had thrilling experiences. One party was suddenly attacked by a herd of wild elephants and its members only escaped with difficulty.

NOW FRENCHMAN STEPS DOWN AS COCK OF ROOST

PARIS, April 13—(CP). — Until recently France was perhaps the last remaining occidental country where man retained a little of his independence. The French bride was obliged by law to promise to "obey" her husband in the civil marriage service, compulsory for all marriages whether there is a religious service or not. She was obliged to follow him wherever he might decide to go. His was the sole authority in all family and financial matters. He could forbid her to work and had full authority over the children and her own person.

In other words, the husband still retained a vestige of his prestige and his position as chief of the family.

Now Article 213 of the French civil code has been struck out. It just means that French husbands have no longer a legal right to the illusion that their wives obey them.

In the days of Rome's glory the bride of a Roman was obliged to pass under his arm, a symbol to show her obedience. Her hair was parted the morning of the ceremony, not with a comb, but with her husband's sword.

China too had its golden era. Not only must a wife obey her husband, but her father and mother-in-law as well as her husband's grandparents. While in India the wife was told there was "no god on earth for a woman but her husband. If her husband laughs, she must laugh, if he cries, she much prostrate herself on the earth and cry too; if he scolds she must thank him, if he hits her, she must take his hand and kiss it respectfully and ask his pardon for having angered him."

In France, Article 213 protected the husband but now this last bulwark is gone. "Nothing will save us now from falling into the same state of abject submission which has characterized the American husband for so long," is the pessimistic reflection of French husbands today.

To Pass the Time

The magazine most popular among Parisians and most useful to foreigners in Paris comes out once a week and is called "La Semaine a Paris" (The Week in Paris). It's the answer to "Where shall we go tonight?"

It's like trying to carry a dozen eggs in your bare hands. Look at one week: the Opera and Opera-Comique were giving four performances each—opera and ballet. The Comedie-Francaise and the Odeon, the other two national theatres played every night—Moliere, David Copperfield, The Chocolate Soldier, Racine. Four plays opened and 35 were already running; five children's theatres; 18 music halls, three circuses and an ice carnival. Not to mention the night entertainments of the Folies Bergere and the celebrated Casino de Paris.

But we haven't begun. Only 213 moving-picture palaces were playing. Music? Thirty-eight concerts including the Philharmonic Orchestra and any number of recitals were announced. Art? Ten large exposition, the most important of which was the Exposition of English Art at the Louvre and 63 personal showings. Only 43 lectures on subjects ranging from Spiritualism "The brain, larynx, sex and their occult relations" to a series of talks on the totalitarian regimes and "Five Years Under Hitler."

Finally there are the night clubs and restaurants, the "bars" and "dancings." After the super-human effort necessary to sort them out, one is usually so tired that nothing seems quite so appealing as bed and a good sleep.

CANADIANS ENJOY UNIQUE FREEDOM IN WORLD TRAVEL

PARIS, April 13—(CP). — The most valuable thing a Canadian owns is his passport. But it is only after he has travelled in Europe for some time that he realizes the citizens of no other country in the world enjoys his privileges—not even the Briton.

The Canadian passports read "good for every country in the world." The average Canadian passes that by with hardly a glance. But if he looked into the passports of the people of other nations and discovered the barriers and trouble and expense that present themselves automatically every time they wish to travel, he would begin to realize that he is among the favored.

The real reason for our unique position, however, is that we are, because of our Empire ties, a European nation, and the only one, in North America. Thus we may circulate freely in the Empire; pass European frontiers with the greatest of ease and find the American door at least always ajar for us.

This while being an advantage, is sometimes an unflattering blow to the pride of those who wish to appear important. Seeing "Canada" on a passport the officials hardly give it a further glance. One has the distinct impresison of being brushed past as one might flick a gnat off one's coat. While behind, the person from Germany or Italy or France is pounced upon, his passport examined minutely, his person observed carefully and one feels that he must be, at the very least, an arms runner or international spy. But us? Canada—Canadians? Who ever heard of them? And if so, what did they ever do? A harmless waste of snow somewhere in the north? Regretfully we are forced to realize that for those who guard the frontiers of Europe, we are of a very little significance.

If our passport is a magic one assuring us safe-conduct in every corner of the world our nationality is another story. The Canadian has probably more difficulty than any other person in establishing his nationality.

In European countries other than France our nationality is finally greeted in a guttural voice with "Ha, zoh,—Breeteesh!"

In France they know about Canadians. The only criticism is that they are almost too friendly. "Canadian?" they say, a smile broadening, "Canadian—tiens! You might as well be French."

Salon Intrigues Paris

The Salon of English Caricature which is enjoying an enormous success in the Museum of Decorative Arts. has confounded the Parisians and established for once and for all that the English have a sense of humor.

The salon is a complete retrospective view of the English genius for caricature between 1750 and 1850 when the celebrated Punch was created to carry on the tradition. More than 400 examples are assembled from the British Museum and many private collections, the work including water colors, designs and engravings. Among the artists represented are James Gillray (1757-1815), George and John Doyle, Rowlandson, Bunbury, Cruikshank, Robert Seymour, Dighton, John Leech, Woodward, Henry Heath and greatest of all, William Hogarth.

William Hogarth (1687-1764), who is without doubt the "father" of English caricature, exerted one of the most profound influences in his time. His talent was used with devastating skill and verve against the customs of society.

Among celebrated prints which are informing the French public of a life in England they had little suspected are, "The Punch Drinkers," "Beer Street," "Marriage a la Mode," "Gin Street," Life of a Courtesan," "Morning After Marriage" (a satire on the clandestine marriage of the Prince of Wales—1786) and "Life of a Libertine." These were to be found hanging on the walls of many middle-class families in the time of George 1 and George II.

Observing John Bull as he is represented today after 90 years of Victorian refinement, we can understand one Frenchman's remark as he examined closely one particularly audacious print, "I'd never have thought it . . . but you can never tell about the English.

LEUKEMIA VICTIM DIES

WINDSOR, Ont., April 13 (C.P.). Following funeral services in Detroit, burial will be held here to-day for Jean Cavanagh, 16, Detroit, who died yesterday after a six-week fight against a rare blood disease. Physicians attemped an 11th blood transfusion on the pretty school girl, but were unable to complete the operation before death. Miss Cavanagh died from lymphatic leukemia —a diminishing of the red corpuscles in the blood, and an increase in the white.

Goodyear offers you not ONE—but FOUR sensational values in every Goodyear Diamond Tread tire. Everything you want and need in tires.

NON-SKID FOUR-WAY TRACTION: the sturdy, keen-edged, four pointed diamonds in the centre of the tread — resist slipping or skidding—in any direction!

SUPERTWIST CORD BLOWOUT PROTECTION: the cords with greater strength, more resiliency than any other cords—lengthen the life of Goodyear tires. No other tire has Supertwist.

LONGER MILEAGE: the broad, thick, Goodyear tread, with its greater rubber contact with the road, reduces wear — gives you the longest, safest mileage you have ever had.

LOWER COST PER MILE: because all of the features of Goodyear's 4-Square value combine to make tires last longer — make Goodyear mileages record mileages. Because Goodyears cost no more than any other standard tires — Goodyears cost you less per mile of service — and that's money in pocket for you!

● You get extra value in Goodyear's heavy duty tires. They provide 50% greater body thickness at only 25% higher cost than standard tires.

Both, Goodyear's famous "G-3" (illustrated) and the lower-priced "R-1" are made in heavy duty 6-ply, as well as standard 4-ply.

One More Wedding

By HELEN WELSHIMER

READ THIS FIRST:

Garry Page, New York columnist, has just sailed for a few weeks abroad. Among his friends at the pier to see him off was Barbara Kingsley who came to New York the day before to fill a vacancy on a child magazine at the suggestion of her close friend Natalie Kendall. Barbra and Garry became interested in one another a few weeks previously when she was society editor of the Martinsville Post and Garry had come to Martinsville for a wedding. Jack Metcalf, an author and friend of Garry, takes a kindly interest in Barbara after Garry sails. Barbara finds an apartment. A few days later Ruth Merryweather, attractive heiress and another close friend of Garry's, invites her to luncheon at her penthouse. Ruth asks Barbara permission to meet Bill Jameson, an old friend, now married, for a chat in Barbara's apartment. Barbara is glad to oblige her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 10

Could he have obtained it later, he would have, to please her, but by then it was filled. And Marie is raising a tempest and blaming me. Bill wants a foreign post. He doesn't know there isn't one."

"But his present job?"

"He can't live on what he makes and keep Marie happy. He has to broaden out. One lives more hceaply in England." Then she changed her voice. "I want them to go away. Maybe I'll forget him. He's sweet but he's sort of weak. Everybody body adores him but he needs to be shaken. Garry always said so. I know it, too. I'll be so glad when I needn't worry about him any more!"

"Yet you love him."

"That's the deuce of it. Oh, he never asks for advice or help but he doesn't know what to do about things."

"He's here," Barbara said as the bell rang. She pressed the button that released the lock on the outer door.

Bill looked past her and found Ruth. For a second she wasn't so sure that his heart had been given solely into Marie's keeping.

IF BARBARA had doubted that Bill's feeling toward Ruth Merryweather held more than friendship she dispelled it at once. He was genuinely glad to see Ruth. It was evident that Ruth was a relief to him all women—yes, even from Marie. Only he didn't know that. Bill was wearing the knees of his trousers shiny worshiping at the feet of the girl from Martinsville.

He was interesting, courteous, humorous. Because he was puzzled by situations, he laughed at them and did nothing.

Barbara excused herself and went into the bedroom where she read a story and listened to the neighbor's radio that had found a Strauss waltz somewhere. It wasn't long until Ruth summoned her.

"Bill wanted to say good night," she explained.

"I'll be seeing you next week, I think," he told Barbara. "Your cousin is dropping in. It's the Marine Roof Thursday, isn't it?" he appealed to both of them.

Then he went away and Ruth shook her head. "Barbara, that boy was downright ungracious about accepting a job with my folk even when he deserved it. My father and uncle never give away promotions. And now, because of Ruth, he's asking. He'll earn his way, but he doesn't know how to go about it. He isn't lazy—but he needs to depend on someone for stimulus."

"Is he disappointed about England?" Barbara asked.

"Only because Marie will be. No man ever sang such a perpetual serenade to his goddess! He ought to say, 'Now see here, young lady, I have a perfectly good job that is going to be worth something some day. You buy an arithmetic and learn to budget and we can be friends with our creditors.' Only he won't. He'll let her upset his whole life."

It seemed odd for the girl who was heiress to the Merryweather millions to talk so matter-of-factly. Barbara began to laugh.

"Could you live on a vegetable stew and two pounds of love?" she asked.

Ruth wrinkled her nose. "I know what you're thinking. But I could have done it and liked it. That is, I thought I could. But I'm boring you to death. The honest truth is that I thought if I got out of sight of Bill's profile, and out of sound of his voice, I could forget him as one does a book one puts by. But if he can't get going, I'll have to."

Barbara discovered that Ruth had eaten no dinner. Barbara had stopped for a sandwich only so she stirred up a rarebit and made toast. They sat at the gate-legged table and chatted as they ate. Gradually Barbara began to understand that Ruth was lonely in spite of her position and popularity. She never knew if people liked her because she mattered as a person or because she represented a golden-haired, blue-eyed dollar sign. Sometimes a friendship is born swiftly but it assumes such stability that you grope for unseen roots. It was that way tonight.

Ruth looked at the clock at last. "Oh, I must fly. Annie will wonder where I went. I didn't leave any message. She's been in the family for years. Now that all the rest of the family are at the shore, she keeps a double guard on me."

Ruth looked tired and fragile. She would go back to a beautiful penthouse but it woud be lonely. Without any need of explanation, Barbara knew that Ruth had stayed in town so she could help Bill and Marie. Yet she herself needed comfort more than they.

"Ruth, why don't you stay all night?" That was an impulsive question. Ruth, who had a suite of her own, with silken sheets on a canopied bed, had never slept on a studio couch. It was done now—Ruth was invited.

Ruth's eyes widened and her lips smiled. "Honestly, may I?"

"I'd adore it."

Drifting to sleep, a little later, Barbara thought of Garry. He would be glad that Ruth was here. If only Ruth could become interested in some other man, even for a little while. A man who deserved her. But not Garry? Never, never Garry!

By the time the day of the Jamesons' dinner came, Barbara felt that she had known Ruth for a long time. She was glad that Ruth was picking her up to go to the party. Meantime, she wondered why Julia hadn't had the common decency to call her. Julia would have to be invited down here, of course, yet she hesitated. This was home, and she didn't want Julia's shadow, transient as it would be, to rest on the serenity of the long room, whose dormer windows opened so graciously to wind and sun and stars and rain.

Marie telephoned Barbara, at her office, that day. She wasted no time in preliminaries. "One of the men I've invited can't be present. You know Jack Metcalf, don't you, Barbara darling? He was at your table one night—Remember? I've met him so briefly but Julia loves his books. Do you suppose—"

Julia would love his books, Barbara decided. Jack would be busy, or up at Newport, perhaps. August was a hard time to find dinner partners for visiting girls. Still, it might be amusing to surprise Julia by bringing along a literary lion, if Jack could be located. Julia was an amateur at Jack's game. It woud be fun to watch.

Ruth knew Jack's address at Newport. It developed he had gone up for the week-end. Yes, he would come down for the dinner since he had to keep an appointment at 11 the next morning anyway.

Thus it happened that Barbara, slim and lovely in a new black organza dinner frock, against which she wore three white orchids Jack had sent, entered the Marine Roof with an author and an heiress and presented them lightly and gally, as though all of her life she had been knocking at social doors. She smiled as she recalled the morning, such a few weeks ago, when she had hesitated at the door of Garry's cabin.

And when she thought of Garry her heart beat more swiftly. His month was up. He would be back soon. He had written to her twice and sent three picture postcards—one of Kennilworth, one of Stokes Podges where Grey wrote his Elegy, land one of himself taken on a Lon. street. He was not certain of the producer was sailing back this week on the Queen Mary or next week on the Normandie. But it would be soon—

Julia's beauty had not lessened, Barbara noted. Apparently she had bought herself a new evening frock. It was silvery-white—stars shone, winds sang, snow blew in its shimmering folds. But its brightness did not dim the gold head above it. Even Ruth, in a lavender as smooth as violet ice cream, which had cost many times the amount of any other dress present, was dimmed by the other girl's radiancy.

Julia ordered a Martini. She ordered another one and another one, and Barbara found herself slipping into the old family relationship. Julia must be stopped. She wasn't used to this. But Julia was feeling challenging and provocative. She leaned across the table and spoke softly to Ruth, in a tone that carried without strain.

Grow a Fascinating Window Herb Garden

Combine Beauty With Usefulness

Orange and red nasturtiums lavender-flowering chives—all sorts of fragrant, spicy herbs blooming within an arm's length of your kitchen table.

Fun to pinch off tender nasturtium leaves, bits of parsley and sweet marjoram for salads, sandwiches, garnishes; cut sprigs of spearmint for mint jelly and summer's long cool drinks; have chives and rosemary on hand for seasoning.

Besides making pretty house plants, herbs are rich in minerals, vitamins. Their savory flavors tempt jaded appetites, aid digestion.

Herbs flourish in a water-tight window box at least five inches deep. Fill bottom of box with cinders for drainage. Set potted plants on cinders and for luxuriant growth pack peat moss between them to hold moisture. Your window garden will give you joy this summer, all next winter, too.

Our 32-page booklet gives full directions for care of herbs. Also how to make all kinds of lovely terrariums and dish gardens.

Rushing Off to Reno Because Your Husband Happens to Be a "Strayer" Frequently Does Not Solve This Problem for You—a Bit of Philosophy Is Needed

THE greatest menace to marriage is the philanderer. He is the headache and the heartache to millions of wives; the blight that turns life into cinders, ashes and dust for them; the problem which they can never solve because they can neither be happy with him nor without him.

If he was a villian who deliberately tortured his wife with his affairs with other women, she would know what to do about it. So she also would if she knew that he had fallen deeply passionately in love with some one else. But, as a general thing, the philanderer's infidelities have not even the dignity of tragedy. They are merely the amorous amusements of a man who has no depth of feeling or loyalty in him, and who could not be faithful to any one. He is a playboy who takes his pleasure where he finds it, as Mr. Kipling said, and who tires of his Lady Loves as quickly as he did of his wife.

Indeed, oftener than not, whatever of real affection he is capable of is given to his wife. He admires and respects her as he does no other woman. She remains his ideal through all his wanderings down the primrose path, and in the end, when like Solomon, the greatest philanderer of them all, he is sick of love and wants to be stayed with flagons and fed on apples, he comes back to her if she has camped on the hearthstone and kept the home fires burning.

Curiously enough and ironically enough, except for his weakness for petticoat-chasing, the philanderer is in many cases an ideal husband and father; amiable and pleasant to have around the house, generous and kind. And not infrenquently he is a great lover at home as well as abroad and lavishes on his wife the little affections he uses in his pursuit of his latest girl friend.

What makes the philanderer philander, nobody knows. Perhaps it is the same instinct that makes the butterfly flit from flower to flower. Perhaps it is vanity that requires to be constantly fed on new conquests. Perhaps it is just the love of adventure, the thrill and excitement of playing the love game. But, whatever, it is, it is there in his breast, stronger than any sense of duty, stronger than any pity for the woman whose life he took into his hands and that he is wrecking with his unfaithfulness.

So what is the poor wife to do whose soul is torn with jealousy and whose pride is dragged in the dust by her philandering husband? Shall she forgive him over and over again when he gets fed up with his last charmer and comes back repentant to home and Mother? Or shall she buy a ticket to Reno? Shall she pretend to be not only blind but also dumb, and that she doesn't suspect what all of her friends and neighbors are gossiping about, and thus save her face. Or shall she wage a perpetual fight with him over every new affair?

Different women answer the question in different ways. Most of them rush to the Divorce Court, which is generally jumping out of the frying pan into the fire, for many a flirtatious husband is a good provider, and when a woman finds herself with a decree absolute in one hand and a little grudgingly-given alimony in the other, she wonders why she ever bothered about her husband casting a roving eye on every pretty girl he met.

A philosophical woman I know once told me that she knew all about her husband's philanderings and that she hated them, of course, but, she added, "Every husband had something a wife has to put up with. I'd rather be married to a man who makes romantic love to me, even if he does probably say the same things to other women, than to one of these dry-as-dust husbands who never mentions the state of his affections from the alter to the grave."

And still another woman whose husband was an incorrigible philanderer said to him: "We are friends. We have many things in common, including our children and our home. I have spent years helping you build your fortune, and I'm staying. We won't quarrel over your affairs. All I ask is that you keep them away from me. I have cultivated stupidity and blindness until I like it."

So there you are, ladies, and you can take your choice of methods of dealing with the philanderers.

THE EXAMINER FASHION SERVICE

A gay young charmer of princess-like lines, swirls its hem with the first breath of spring. The uplift bodice that plays up a slim fitted waistline, makes it most attractive. It's unusually lovely, flattering and so wearable in an inexpensive rayon print crepe. The "little girl" collar is crisp white organdie, edged with dainty self-ruffling. The model also offers an opportunity to make a corsage dress of solid colored rayon sheer possibly in navy or midnight blue. The deep vee neck provides a grand foil for your choker necklace or gay yellow lilies of the valley. Easy to sew. Easy on your dress budget allowance. A complete diagrammed sewing instruction chart accompanies the pattern.

Style No. 2689 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with ⅝ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

A Hindu claims to be 175 years old. He probably explains his longevity by pointing out he has spent his entire life among barbarians far from the danger of civilization.

Then there the Frenchman who claims to have walked 80,000 miles in 10 years. Yawn Yawnson says he feels mighty sorry for the poor fellow, since, unquestionably, he is without thumbs.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

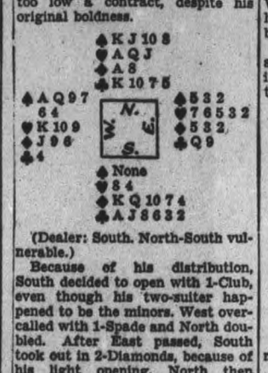
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

HARD TO FORGET

IT IS NOT easy to give courage to a partner who has made a light opening bid. No matter how powerfully you bid your own cards, he fears he has been the cause of an impending disaster and can't quite forget his early sin. As a consequence, the side may wind up in too low a contract, despite his original boldness.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Because of his distribution, South decided to open with 1-Club, even though his two-suiter happened to be the minors. West overcalled with 1-Spade and North doubled. After East passed, South took out in 2-Diamonds, because of his light opening. North then jumped to 4-No Trumps. When this came around to South he was panicky and decided to let well enough alone, for, if he bid again, he was sure North would take the bidding beyond their depth.

West figured there was something wrong with the whole setup, so doubled. North, unable at this point to decide what had happened to his partner, went to 5-Clubs. With all the encouragement North had given, South still refused to bid a slam.

West led his singleton club against this contract. South won it and from then on cashed every trick.

Looking Back On This Date

April 13

On this date (April 13), 1885, Sir John A. Macdonald, who was superintendent of Indian affairs as well as prime minister, received a letter unique in Canadian history. It was from Crowfoot, the great chief of the Blackfeet, and in it he pledged himself and his tribes to keeping faith with the "Great White Mother."

Fred Williams

"We are determined to remain loyal to the queen," he wrote (or perhaps it would be more truthful to say that Father Lacombe wrote it for him, for that great priest, by his diplomacy, made it certain that the Blackfeet would not join Big Bear and Poundmaker who were fighting to the north.) The final sentence of the letter said: "We have asked for nothing, but the governor has given us a little present of tea and tobacco."

"Sir John replied on April 14, telling Crowfoot that he had shown his letter to the governor-general "who is the Great Chief of the Queen" and told the Blackfeet chief: "We shell never forget the good conduct of yourself, your minor chiefs and warriors." In the autumn of 1886., Crowfoot, with some of his principal warriors, under the guidance of Father Lacombe, visited Sir John at Ottawa, were photographed in a group at Earnscliffe, and were presented with an illuminated address from the city council of Ottawa.

It is not often that a man is buried upon the anniversary of his birth, yet that was the case this day 70 years ago, when Hon. Thomas D'Arcy McGee, the martyr to his loyalty to Canada, was interred at Montreal. It was a sad day in the metropolis. It was also a wintry day; yet ever since on April 13 there has been a pilgrimage to that grave in Cote des Neiges cemetery. The Irish Catholics of Montreal never forget this date, and they are invariably joined by men of other races to pay tribute to the Rebel of 1848 who became o ne of Queen Victoria's counsellors in a new land.

In 1925, the centenary of McGee's birth, there was a fitting observance in Ottawa, arranged by that other Irish-Canadian orator, Hon. Charles Murphy.

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND TOOTSIE'S SHOT

The rain was dribbling down in Woodland on Orange Ice Mountain where Uncle Wiggily lived in his hollow stump bungalow.

"Surely you aren't going out adventuring today," said Mrs. Longears to her rabbit gentleman husband. "It rains too hard."

"It is raining very hard," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "Perhaps I had better stay in my bungalow until this April shower is over."

"You should, indeed, stay in," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. The muskrat lady housekeeper was like that, always giving friendly advice between times of giving the dishes their bath or dusting the furniture with a rag tied on the end of her tail.

"All right," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll stay in until it doesn't rain so hard and then I'll go adventuring. Surely if my rabbit children, even Baby Bunty, can go to school in the rain, I can go adventuring."

Not Old.

"Oh, but they are young and lively," said Mrs. Longears.

"I'm not so old," said Uncle Wiggily, sort of reproachful like.

"No, and you are certainly lively," agreed Nurse Jane as she wiped the face and hands of the clock.

"Thank you," said Uncle Wiggily. So he sat down to wait as patiently as he could for the rain to stop. All of a sudden the back door of the bungalow slammed and Mr. Longears, who was twinkling his pink nose, called:

"What's that?"

"I don't know, I'm sure," said Mrs. Longears who was knitting a sweater for Baby Bunty, the orphan rabbit.

"Maybe it is one of the Bad Chaps," said Mr. Longears.

Just then Nurse Jane was heard calling:

"Come back here. Come right back this very minute."

"No, it couldn't be one of the Bad Chaps," said Uncle Wiggily with a laugh. "Nurse Jane wouldn't call them to come back. I'll go see who it is. All the children are at school, aren't they?"

"All except Tootsie and Wootsie our newest little twins," said Mrs. Longears. "They are too small to go to school yet."

"Perhaps they ran out in the rain," said Uncle Wiggily.

"No, no, that couldn't happen," said Mrs. Longears.

But that is just exactly what had happened. When Uncle Wiggily reached the kitchen he saw Nurse Jane standing in the doorway waving her tail at Tootsie and Wootsie who were running toward the end of the garden through the rain.

Runaways.

"Come back. Come back," squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper. But Tootsie and Wootsie didn't return.

"I'll go get them," offered Uncle Wiggily. Quickly he put on his rubbers and his rain coat and then hopped out into the storm to bring back the little runaway rabbit twins.

By the time Mr. Longears reached the end of his garden Tootsie and Wootsie, without even their hats on, were making mud pies. They scooped up gobbie gobs of mud and patted them into round pies.

"What shall we do with our mud pies?" asked Wootsie of his sister when they each had made three.

"I'm going to take a shot with one of my pies like in the movies," laughed Tootsie. I'm going to take a shot at the fence." Tootsie threw a squishy squashy mud pie. But, being a girl rabbit, she did not aim very straight, and "SQUOSHO," the mud pie hit Uncle Wiggily on his pink, twinkling nose.

"Ouch," he cried and Tootsie was so surprised she almost forgot to say: "Please excuse me." But she did when her father took her in the bungalow with Wootsie

And if the pussy cat will stay out of the fiddle long enough for the dog to play a tune on it I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's mud pie.

Christian Education Needed For Young Girls Of Africa

Mrs. (Rev.) Steed Is Guest Speaker At Easter Thankoffering Service

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, April 13.—"We believe that the African mothers of the future will be Christian mothers, and we are educating the girls to be good homemakers," Mrs. (Rev.) Steed of Toronto told a large congregation in the United Church, Lakefield, on Sunday evening, April 10, when she was the guest speaker at the Easter Thankoffering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Lakefield United Church. Mrs. Steed, with her husband, Rev. Steed, has spent considerable time in Africa, and has worked upon the mission fields there for many years.

Mrs. W. W. Yale, president of the local missionary society, presided for this special service. She opened the service with a call to worship, and as the meeting progressed, led in a missionary prayer.

Mrs. T. T. Milburn read the Scripture lesson, and after special music by the choir, Mrs. W. J. Charlton spoke briefly on the subject, "Why I think we should be interested in missions." She mentioned that Christ's last command was "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel," and quoted from the lines which conclude: "How can I go if I am not sent," to point out to those who cannot go that it is their duty to support missions with their funds and their prayers.

Workers of Family.

Mrs. Steed, in opening her address, asked the question: "How many of you women know what it means to be born in a Christian country like Canada, where you are free and have established rights? In Africa, how different it is. There the mother is the worker of the family, and there is no home life such as we have in Canada. As soon as a baby is born, it is tied on its mother's back and taken into the fields, where it bobs up and down on its mother's back, in the heat of the African sun. So that an African child does not have a fair chance for development. As soon as it is old enough to handle a hoe, it goes to the fields with its mother to help with the work. The women in Africa are looked on as charwomen. They have to find the food for the family, cook it, gather fuel and beat the grain into cakes. The men have no consideration for the women. Often you see a woman staggering back from a hard day's work in the field and carrying on her head a huge basket full of sweet potatoes, on top of which would be heaped a day's supply of wood for fuel.

The men therefore are very much opposed to their African women becoming educated: "No, no, we don't want the girls to go away and study, they will only become lazy," the men say when consulted. And the women have been for so many years considered incapable of understanding teaching, that the missionary finds many barriers to break down before she can begin her task of raising the standard of living conditions and improving the status of women in Africa.

Now, however, schools have been started, where the African women and girls may learn to become good home-makers under the painstaking instruction of the missionary teachers. They are taught to improve living conditions in their own homes and the instructions given are all practical. Western customs are rapidly being introduced into their homes, and health hygiene and village hygiene are taught extensively in an effort to improve general health.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Steed's address, Miss Cora Charlton sang as a solo, the number, "A Soul at the Gate of Heaven."

The thankoffering amounted to $87.

AUSTRIAN DIVORCES START

VIENNA, April 13 (AP).—The first Austrian divorce for racial reasons since union with Germany was reported today. The Aryan director of a large firm in 1921 married a Jewess, who later became a Christian Protestant. The Provincial Civil Court granted his plea for divorce.

WANT MIGRATION FOR POPULATION

CANBERRA, April 13—(CP-Reuters).—Australia's population has begun to increase rapidly after severe contraction during the depression. At Sept. 30 last the population was 6,846,398, an increase of 39,646 in the first nine months of the year.

(The Dominion Bureau of Statistics' estimate of Canada's population in 1937 was 11,120,000. The census of 1931 counted 10,376,786).

If Australia's present rate of increase is maintained the population will pass the 7,000,000-mark about the middle of 1940. The government hopes, however, that a rise in birth rate recorded in the last year will be increased and that British immigration will develop—raising the population to more than 7,000,000 in less than two years.

Not only has the birth rate risen, but the loss of population through migration has decreased. Nevertheless, for the first nine months of last year there was a net loss of population through migration of 567 persons. From the corresponding period of 1936 the population loss through migration was 2,165 persons.

Excess of births over deaths for the first three-quarters of 1937 was 40,213 persons. For the corresponding period of 1936 the natural increase was 38,191 persons.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, April 13.—The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Maria Gilbert, widow of Nelson B. Gilbert, took place from her late residence on the front of Sidney Township. The service in the home and at the graveside in White's Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. Dr. James Semple.

The bearers were Messrs. R. Gilbert, A. Gilbert, E. Mallory, J. Bone, G. Graham and R. Graham.

SASKATOON PAIR PLANNING DEBUT

SASKATOON, April 13—(CP).—Two young Saskatoon artists, Evelyn Eby and Reginald Bedford, as a two-piano team will make their debut in Chicago, March 28, they are under contract with the Bertha Ott Concert Management.

Miss Eby and Mr. Bedford are Saskatchewan products acquiring all their early training in music in Saskatoon. Brilliant as students and as piano solosits they have won fame as interpreters of the classics as a piano duo.

The late Harold Samuel, Plunkett Greene, Olga Samaoff, Edwin Hughes and Percy Grainger have predicted a great future for the young players.

Most important step in their careers has been their long tuition under a brilliant teacher, Lyell Gustin, himself a piano master and a pupil of Jeannette Durno, famous Chicago teacher.

The inactive teaching periods of the summer months have been used by them for a general broadening of technique and experience by visiting New York, Chicago and European centres.

Miss Eby comes from pioneer western stock. She was born at Outlook, Sask. She obtained her A. T. C. M. when 13 and the special diploma from the Toronto Conservatory of Music the following year. That year she also was awarded the Jeannette Durno scholarship and a few years later the Joseph Lhevinnee scholarship. The two years she entered the Class A competitions of the Saskatchewan Musical Festival she won easily.

Born in London, Ont., and coming to Saskatoon as a child, Mr. Bedford obtained the A. T. C. M. when 14 and won a Percy Grainger scholarship when 17. A Parisian critic after hearing Mr. Bedford wrote that his playing "suggested marble sculpture."

The Eby-Bedford duo will be heard while en route to Chicago. Following their debut they will visit Toronto and may be heard in New York.

COURT ANTE-ROOM ROBBED OF DRUG

CAPE TOWN, April 13—(CP).—Police throughout South Africa are increasing their efforts to track down smugglers of dagga, a poisonous narcotic weed.

Reports have been received from London and the continent of a great increase of dagga smoking and authorities in South Africa, Mexico and other countries where the weed is grown have been urged to stamp out its sale.

Numerous cases of stealing and smuggling of dagga have been reported. At Worcester, Cape Province, 227 pounds of the drug which had been confiscated by the police and was being stored in the magistrate's court exhibition room awaiting destruction was stolen by thieves who broke in.

Later one of the thieves, while walking through a native section, was attacked by a gang of non-Europeans who stole the dagga he was carrying. In their hurry, however, they dropped pieces of the weed and the police were able to follow and arrest 10 of them, including the men alleged to be responsible for breaking into the exhibit room.

AT HOME 20 WEEKS WITH RHEUMATISM

Wife Feared Husband Would Never Work Again

When her husband had been at home 20 weeks with rheumatism in his back, this woman began to think he would never work again. At last, she said to him: "Let's try Kruschen," and the change that took place was, in her own words, "like a miracle." Here is her letter:

"My husband is subject to rheumatism and suffered terribly with his back. Some time ago, I had him in the house 20 weeks with it, I really didn't think he would ever work again. We tried all the different kinds of salts you could mention, but none of them did him any good. Then I said, 'Let's try Kruschen.' Since then, we have proved Kruschen Salts to be worth its weight in gold. My husband is back at his job, thanks to Kruschen. The change it made is like a miracle."—(Mrs.) B.

Two of the salts in Kruschen are the most effectual solvents of uric acid crystals known to science. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the painful crystals and convert them into a harmless solution, which is then expelled through the natural channels.—advt.

OLD-TIMERS LOSE THEIR PLACES ON AUSTRALIAN TEAM

MELBOURNE, April 13—(CP).—Two players, famous in the world of cricket, will be missing from the Australian team when it visits England this summer to resume international battles. After long years of service William Oldfield and Clarence Grimmett give way to younger men as the Aussies prepare to defend their title of world cricket champions.

Since 1919, Oldfield, now 40 years old, has been the choice of Commonwealth selectors for the big job of wicket-keeper. Grimmett, though five years old, was not chosen for test play until 1925. He soon succeeded Arthur Mailey as Australia's leading "googly" bowler. Since then the New Zealand-born decorator has represented his country in nearly all test matches.

When Don Bradman leads his men this year he will have two smart young stumpers on the team. Ben Barnett, Victoria, was understudy to the veteran Oldfield in 1934, while Charles Walker, South Australia, has had a lot of experience with "googly" bowling. Grimmett' place will be taken by young Frank Ward, a protege of the famous trundler.

The dropping of Oldfield and Grimmett provided the outstanding changes from the eleven that defeated England in the tests in Australia last winter. Of the 16 players selected six have yet to make their debut in test matches between the two countries.

With Bradman, South Australia as skipper, the team is made up of C. L. Badcock, F. A. Ward, C. W. Walker, M. G. Waite, South Australia; S. J. McCabe, S. Barnes, A. G. Chipperfield, J. H. Fingleton, W. J. O'Reilly, E. S. White, New South Wales; B. A. Barnett, A. L. Hassett, L. O'B. Fleetwood-Smith, E. L. McCormick, Victoria and W. A. Brown, Queensland.

Walker, Waite, Barnes, White, Barnett and Hassett have never played against England while Badcock, Ward, Fingleton and McCormick were on the teams that played down under last winter.

Clarrie Grimmett's great success on English wickets is reflected in the selection of no fewer than five slow bowlers of seven on the team. Bill O'Reilly, New South Wales schoolmaster with the windmill-like windup and high delivery, will bear the brunt of the burden seconded by Fleetwood-Smith, Ward, Waite and Chipperfield. McCormick is the only fast bowler, counted one of the fastest in the world, but he is not overly-endowed with the physique necessary to enable him to bowl for long spells. White is an orthodox left-arm bowler.

Bradman, a team in himself, will be supported in run-getting by McCabe, Barnes, Badcock, Fingleton, Brown and Hassett. Chipperfield and Waite, the team's all-rounders, are good batsmen.

VILLAGE OF THREE

LOWER LAUNCHING, P.E.I. —(CP).—This little fishing village is a quiet place during the winter months. However, its population of three, a man, his niece, and grandniece—find lots of work. The man cut woods, mends fishing gear and does other manual labor while the niece, besides her housework, does art work and painting.

MAY CLEAR WAY FOR PROMOTION

LONDON, April 13—(CP).—The question of earlier retirement to make way for promotion of young officers is expected to be dealt with by War Minister Hore-Belisha when he tables the army estimates in the House of Commons. The "Royal Warrant" stipulated a general officer shall be retired after three years' non-service and the war minister hopes to reduce this period.

A lower compudsory age for retirement is also contemplated. A major-general, according to present regulations, is retired at 62 and a lieutenant-general or general at 67.

An argument against earlier retirement to create vacancies is that it would involve additional expenditure of public money. In recent years the number of generals inactive has been reduced but the latest army list shows eight major-generals and 38 colonels awaiting recall to the full-pay list.

Budget-Discussing Legislators Hear Of Early Taxation

Excise On Spirits Formed Chief Revenue For Scotia In 1751

HALIFAX, April 13 (CP).—With Nova Scotia's Legislature in the midst of estimates for the current year, interest of legislators turned to a study of early provincial taxation as outlined in a pamphlet prepared by officials of the provincial archives and presented to the House.

Of the several kinds of taxes in force during the 65 years after the seat of government was established at Halifax in 1751, impost and excise duties were the most productive, according to the archives publication. The oldest tax was an excise on spirits payable by all licensed retailers of rum and other spirits.

Until 1762, when an ad valorem impost was first charged on goods imported by non-resident traders, all import and excise duties were specific. Impost and excise taxes on spirits together with those levied on wine formed the chief source of provincial revenue until 1792.

Until 1772 taxation in the province was wholly indirect, imposed upon commodities and their distribution. The first direct general tax was imposed on land in that year. Three years later a head tax was assessed on every male inhabitant according to his occupation or "means". Other taxes imposed by the Nova Scotia Legislature included a tonnage duty on vessels leaving Halifax Harbor. Licenses for retailing wines and spirits were granted for a fee while duties on wheel carriages, auctioneers' licenses and billiard tables were levied.

The tonnage duty was levied to support the lighthouse at Sambro, near the harbor entrance. Though its rate was changed, the tax was intended to be a perpetual one. The other taxes were imposed for immediate purposes and lapsed when the purpose was accomplished.

Provision for the collection of taxes was made in an enactment of 1758 which set forth that the importer had to report to the collector of customs with 24 hours of the landing of goods in port. Excise duties were at first payable only by licensed retailers. After an enactment of 1763, exise duties were no longer payable by tavern-keepers and retailers of liquor in small quanties, but by merchants and distillers. After that licensed retailers were charged a yearly tax and the excise duties were absorbed in the merchants' selling price.

Paid By Percentage

Imports like wheel carriage and license duties were payable to special clerks at Halifax and to justices of the peace elsewhere, while tonnage duties were collected by the impost and excise officers. A special duty such as land or head tax was assessed and collected by commissioners appointed for each township.

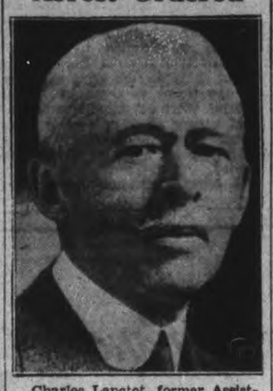
Generally collectors of revenue were paid by a percentage of the duties they received, the rate varying inversely with the receipts. In a large centre like Halifax they were entitled to three and a half per cent of their takings. Those in the townships got 10 per cent. Collectors were assisted by gaugers and weighers, tide-waiters, clerks and deputies.

On arrival in port, a vessel was boarded by a tide-waiter, whose duty it was to remain aboard until all dutiable goods had been removed to the excise office. The goods were then passed by a gauger and weigher, then assessed by the collector of impost or his deputy, to whom the ship-master or supercargo delivered his report of the cargo landed and from whom he received a permit to land the goods.

Tide-waters and gaugers in Halifax received a salary while those in the outports received five per cent of duties collected.

Farming of duties had been proposed and was in force in several districts. In the days before a general assembly was called excise duties were farmed for one year. In 1773 impost and excise duties for the districts of Cape Breton, and Canso were farmed. A year later districts of St. John, Passamaquoddy, Yarmouth, Pictou, Tatamagouche and Bay Chaleur, and Queens County were also farmed. After 1780 the percentage commission basis was resumed.

Arrest Ordered



Charles Lanctot, former Assistant Attorney-General for Quebec, has been ordered placed under arrest by Premier Maurice Duplessis, following revelations of the public accounts committee. The charge against the aged civil servant, who served for 45 years in the government's employ, includes theft of $100,000 of the provinces money.

MORE MOISTURE INDUCES HOPES FOR CROP YEAR

TORONTO, April 13 — (CP). — Winter precipitation statistics for Western Canada have made pretty dreary reading for several years, but the weatherman's figures this spring provide a more stimulating picture for the prairie farmer.

Good fall rains throughout the grain-producing areas provided an important moisture reserve for this year's crop and these were followed by heavy February snowfalls over Manitoba and Saskatchewan. From Dec. 1 to Feb. 28 precipitation in Saskatchewan was nearly 60 per cent. above normal and a 45-per-cent excess was recorded for the adjoining province.

But the grain-grower anxiously awaits abundant spring rains as the value of much of February's show may be lost on the hard-frozen soil. It will be a great aid, however, in preventing early spring soil blowing.

Early March reports from representative sections of the prairies have not been particularly encouraging. Alberta has fared better than the other provinces although in each case snowfalls have been below the normal figure for the month.

Dominion Meteorological Office statistics covering the seven-month period, Aug. 1 - Feb. 28, indicate that generally precipitation was above normal for the prairie provinces. The only areas to show deficiencies were drought-ridden southwestern Saskatchefan, with an eight-per-cent. decrease and eastern Manitoba, under by five-per-cent. In Western Manitoba the excess amounted to 29 per cent.

Although only the southern section of the province shared in the widespread February snowfall, Alberta precipitation for the seven-month period showed an average increase over normal of 12 per cent. Manitoba registered an average excess of 10 per cent. and Saskatchewan four per cent.

Some Decreases

A review of the monthly records shows northern Alberta's precipitation was normal or better in all months except September and January, while central districts showed increases in four of the seven months with moderate to large deficiencies in October, December and January. In the south, moisture was about 35 per cent. below the average in August but most of the other months were much better with October, November and January up more than 50 per cent.

August precipitation in northern Sasketchewan was poor but plus signs were marked against all other months. A great February snowfall boosted figures for the parched lands of the southwest. There was little rain in the fall but the record for last month shows an excess of 150 per cent. In the southeastern section September, January and February were above the average with an increase of 186 per cent. in the latter month.

Precipitation was below normal in western Manitoba in August, November and January and well up in the other months. Eastern districts experienced deficiencies in September, October and November with excess in August, December and January. Last month nearly twice the normal amount of snow fell.

Girls Fall 30 Feet One Survives

MONTREAL, April 13 (CP.). — Seriously injured when she fell with her four-year-old sister, Antoinette, from a third-storey window to the sidewalk last night., Jeanne D'Arc Chenevert was reported in "improved" condition at hospital to-day. Antoinette was killed in the 30-foot tumble.

The older child was unconscious when taken to hospital with a fractured skull, a broken thigh and internal injuries. It is believed they fell while waiting for their mother, a widow, to come home to the third-storey flat.

OLYMPICS COMING EAST

MAKES TRADE BID AT GLASGOW FAIR

CANBERRA, April 13—(CP). — A grocer's shop fully stocked with Australian goods will be a feature of the Commonwealth's contribution to the Empire Exhibition opening at Glasgow in May.

Every visitor who buys goods in this shop will be given a list of Glasgow retailers who stock Australian produce.

The Australian exhibit will cover 500 square feet, and is three times as large as that sent to the International Exhibition in Paris.

Meat and butter will be displayed in specal refrigerators and 30 huge Victorian tree-ferns have already been sent in cold storage from Melbourne to be used in the decoration of the exhibit.

French Morocco exported over 1,500,000 tons of phosphates last year.

TRAFALGAR RELICS MAY GO FOR SCRAP

WILLIAMSTOWN, Australia, April 13 (CP).—Relics of the days of Lord Nelson and the Battle of Trafalgar, rusting in this harbor in Victoria for decades, may be sold for scrap-iron.

They are the huge anchor swivels of H.M.S. Bellerephon, which fought in line with the Victory at Trafalgar. Shipping experts here consider the relics should be saved from the scrap-heap and preserved in the National Museum.

Almost embedded in dirt and sand near the end of the Ann Street pier, are two massive old-fashioned anchors. They originally belonged to H.M.V.S. Nelson, Victoria's first battle-ship, moored off the old Town Pier, Port Melbourne, for many years. She was launched in 1305, commissioned in 1814 and came to Melbourne in the 60's.

With the anchors which bear the inscription "1865, Deptford," is the ponderous swivel used to keep the mooring cable from twisting, comprising two large links and weighing half a ton. The swivel came originally from H.M.S. Bellerophon, captured by Nelson at the Battle of the Nile and which later fought under his flag at Trafalgar. The shackle was passed over to the Nelson when she was commissioned in 1814.

20 HURT ON LINER

PLYMOUTH, England, April 13 (AP) — Twenty passengers abroad the liner Washington were given medical aid for injuries in a three-day 80-mile gale, it was disclosed with the liner's arrival from New York today, 12 hours late. Passengers were forced to cling to safety ropes and all furniture was stacked and tied.

FORGOTTEN BOMB KILLS 4

FEZ, French Morocco, April 13 (AP) — Four French soldiers were killed and 25 wounded today when a soldier marching with a body of troops struck with his foot an unexploded shell left on El Hajeb military field near Meknes.

MODERN HOUSING FOR TANK CORPS

WARMINSTER, England, April 13 (CP).—Complete modernization of military barracks to include a wide range of amenities from shower baths, radios, recreational facilities to central heating and flower gardens has been launched by the War Office.

The Royal Tank Corps is the first unit to move into the improved barracks here. In the older garrison towns and camps many buildings have been condemned on sanitary grounds. Borden, Colchester, Woolich and Aldershot are to benefit from the new building program.

MAY RAISE ROW IF CITY STOPS VAGRANT BANDS

LONDON, April 13—(CP).—London's incomporable street musicians and kerb singers are playing and singing the blues. Gloom has cast its shadow over this ever-growing army whose strident notes had become an accepted part of the city's life.

Now they fear the special privileges extended to them for years may be withdrawn and their lone means of livelihood denied them. But they do not intend to yield without a fight.

"We'll raise plenty of row if they try to chase us into the breadline," said a stooped, grey-haired veteran who for years has been grinding ancient tunes from squeaky fiddle, on his Bond Street "beat." "Most of us aren't doing this by choice, but because we have to live. If some of those hard-hearted businessmen had to earn their living as we do, they'd probably seek the easy way out and go on the dole."

It all started with a movement on the part of businessmen in the exclusive West End shopping district to have an official embargo placed on street entertainment during business hours.

Members of the protesting organizations have been asked to support a petition to Sir Samuel Hoare, the Home Secretary, urging an immediate ban. The petition complains of "inconveniene and annoyance" suffered by tradesmen and customers and charges the growing practice is adversely affecting business.

Under existing law the street musicians are permitted to do their "serenading" and accept pennies tossed their way, without danger of arrest, provided they keep moving.

Few cities can boast of the variety or numbers of London's street entertainers. Men, women and even children of all ages, shuffle through the streets from morning until night, singing, playing, reciting and dancing. Small orchestras frequently drift along the thoroughfares playing ancient and popular tune.

There are also the more heart-rending sights of small bands of blind and war-maimed, groping their way along the kerbs, playing and chanting. Most of them find the street tolerant and responsive.

Direct begging on London streets is virtually unknown, and the equivalent of "Hiya buddy, how about sixpence for a cup o' coffee," is seldom heard. The penalty for begging is severe and even if a man can only mumble the lines of tune to the stream of passers-by, he generally gets enough pennies to stave off starvation.

The street entertainers have taken up the challenge of the West End businessmen. They claim no laws are being violated and that charges of annoyance and interference with trade have no basis in fact.

DALADIER LEAVES FATE TO SENATE

PARIS, April 13—(AP).—Backed by a huge majority in the Chamber of Deputies, Premier Edouard Daladier sent to the Senate to-day for final action the bill giving him power to govern French national economy by decree.

Socialists and Communists joined Centrists and Rightists yesterday in the House in passing, 508 to 12, the Decree Powers Bill—the authority that was refused Leon Blum twice and Camille Chautempts once.

Approaching settlement of the widespread metal workers' strike was indicated when the Premier's office announced the return of 25,000 aviation factory employees to work this morning. The Labor Ministry also announced that arbitration proceeding had been arranged to end occupation of more than 100 factories by 125,000 other metal workers.

The Premier emphasized to the Chamber that the heavy vote in his favor had done much to strengthen the franc internally, as well as to show foreign nations that France is prepared to solve her problems.

The Senate voted, meanwhile, to give immediate consideration to the measure which would allow the Daladier Government a free hand until July 31 to enact by decree measures dealing with national defence, finance and economy.

Among measures contemplated under the bil lare a special tax on war material producing industries to prevent excess profit, revision upward of customs duties, a $465,000,000 public loan for defence needs, and a $310,000,000 loan from the Bank of France for immediate government expenses.

MILLBROOK

MEMBER JOINS MISSION CIRCLE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, April 13 — There were over twenty present at the Easter meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle, held at the parsonage on Monday at 8 p.m., with the president, Phyllis Kidd, in the chair. One new member, Mrs. Ardley Martin was enrolled.

The treasurer, Jean L. Burnham, reported a little over $12 on hand, at the end of the first quarter of the year, including $7.05 taken in at the crokinole social last Friday night, $2 in fees, and the remainder in donations and collections; this was increased by over one dollar, the amount of the offering at Monday's meeting. The envelopes for the Easter thankoffering were given out, same to be returned at the public service, on Sunday morning, April 24, when the Auxiliary, Circle and Band will attend in a body, and a special speaker will address the gathering.

It was decided to have 'sunshine bags' given out for the month of May, and the supply secretary, Mrs. Cecil Hubbeard, reported on the articles required for the bale, which will be sent away in June; the usual baby garments, with handkerchiefs, safety pins, tray clothes, etc., are included in the list, and a number volunteered to knit, others giving money, etc. to make up the entire quantity.

Mary Dawson and E. L. Hetherington were appointed to write to Margaret Luxon, a sick and absent member, for this month. The talk on personal reminiscences of an acquaintance with Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Johnathan Goforth, together with stories from the former's book, "Miracle Lives of China," was given by Miss M. Gardiner, and was full of inspiration and interest.

An Easter story, "The Man who loved lillies," was read by Phyllis Kidd, and Jean Burnham concluded this with a selection from "Sir Launfal," Della Mae Sisco closing the meeting with prayer.

The hostess, Mrs. Sisco assisted by her daughters, Della Mae and Dorothy, served candy during the pleasant social hour at the close, and the pastor, Rev. A. L. Sisco, made special announcement of the communion service for Easter Sunday morning before the guests left for home.

SILICOSIS DOOMED

DETROIT, April 13 (CP)—Silicosis in most occupations will probably be eliminated as a menace to health within the next few years, according to Dr. A. R. Riddell, Toronto, of the Ontario Department of Health, in an address before the Wayne County Medical Society. Credit for reduction in the number of silicotics was due largely to industrial engineers, not to the medical profession, he said. He believed there would be virtually no silicosis within 10 years among miners, and little among granite cutters.

TOO BIG A BLOW

PITTSBURG, April 13—(AP).—As a puppy, "Captain Flood" learned to blow out matches when his master, Howard Taylor, lighted his pipe. But when fire broke out in the basement of the Taylor home, "Captain Flood' found he wasnt equal to the job—so he roused his sleeping master and mistress in time to save the house. The dog was born during the St. Patrick's Day flood of 1936—hence the name.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, April 14.

According to the lunar transits, this should be a day of excellent opportunity for reaching high goals of attainment and gratification. All elements of "big business" and important projects should prosper. Influential persons and those in power may offer substantial endorsement of meritorious propositions.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of splendid prospects of success, fulfilled ambitions and enhanced good fortunes. These may be attained through the friendly support of employers, superiors, partners, and those in highly-influential political, financial, or business power. Fraternal or secret co-operation may also provide much personal gratification.

A child born on this day may have many capabilities and qualities to ensure its rapid rise in life, with the admiration and co-operation of those able to advance its interests, increase its fortunes and enhance its personal popularity and prestige.

TURNIP-RAISING REVENUE SOARS

LONDON, Ont., April 13 (C.P.).—Turnip raising, an industry practically in its infancy in Western Ontario, although it brought a revenue of $225,000 to farmers of this section of the province in 1937, shows indications of becoming a leading source of agricultural revenue if growers cultivate a product of high quality.

This statement was made by Prof. A. W. Mason of the Field Husbandry Department, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, at a meeting of the London District Turnip Producers at the London Department of Agriculture offices here yesterday.

"In 1937, Western Ontario table turnip shipments to the United States exceeded 1,500,000 bushels, a vast amount considering the newness of the industry," Prof. Mason said. "I cannot stress too strongly however, the necessity of keeping the standard of grading high in order to maintain and develop the United States market."

Prof. Mason discussed the extensive research work being carried on in turnips at the Agricultural College, and said that after testing different varieties, the "purple top" had been found the most favorable for table consumption. This type, he said, was overwhelmingly preferred by United States buyers.

J. C. Reid, Chatham, talked on fertilizers, recommending analysis for table turnip production. In discussing the use of boron in fertilizer, for the prevention of water core, or "brown heart," he stated that while it is generally conceded boron brings excellent results in the Maritimes, the reaction has not been as favorable in Ontario's alkaline soil.

FIREARMS NOW POPULAR

While the new law limiting the length of knift blades has decreased the number of stabbings in South Africa, the country now has a wave of shootings by gangmen who steal revolvers.

BALLYHOO BANNED

NEW YORK, April 13 (A.P.). — The man who banned the strip-tease from burlesque now has banished ballyhoo from Coney Island. The place won't be the same this summer, but that's exactly what Licence Commissioner Paul Moss intends should happen. He not only outlawed the "Come-on Boys," but also banned misleading advertising on sideshows and dishonestly operated "games of skill."

Ruth Fisher Hostess
To Orpheus Music Club

The Orpheus Music Club met at the home of Ruth Fisher for a most interesting evening. Several visitors were also present and were welcomed by the president.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mary Walker. A well-informed talk on the Canadian duo-pianists, Etta Coles and Naomi Yanova, brought to the city recently by the Peterborough Concert Association, was given by Miss Marguerite Rome, who also showed several pictures of Miss Coles and Miss Yanova. New business at the meeting included the decision to have a musical play on "Handel" at the next meeting.

Colin Jack and Douglas Ferguson, guests from the Zimbalist Violin Club, contributed two well played solos, "Menuet" by Nachez, and "Air With Variations" by Dancla. Other guests were Audrey Garside, Menzies McClaren and Keith Kelly. Excellent piano solos were rendered by members of the Orpheus Club, including "The Clown" and "April" by Audrey Lacey, and Eleanore Carrol played "Valse de Salon" and "The One Rose."

The meeting closed with the National Anthem by Miss Walker. Splendid games were then played and refreshments brought the happy evening to a close.

Mrs. John Brown
Entertains Friends

Mrs. John Brown, nee Miss Olive McCracken, charmingly entertained fifty of her associates and other friends at her home on Bethune street.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with bouquets of tulips and narcissi. Tea was served from a table arranged with very lovely lace cloth, and centred with a silver basket of spring flowers placed on a reflector. Silver candlesticks held pink tapers tied with silver ribbons.

Mrs. Brown received the guests assisted by her sister, Mrs. George Worboy. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. J. Weymark and Mrs. H. Beatty, and assistants were Mrs. A. Zettler, Miss Eva Brown and Miss M. Worboy. The guests were welcomed at the door by Mrs. Grant Rightmeyer.

Miss Sally Botham Labored 25 Years In Mission Fields

The first part of a four thousand, five hundred miles journey made on foot, by hammock, in dug-out canoe and by automobile through regions of darkest Africa, were described in an illustrated address by Miss Sally Botham, missionary home on furlough, to an audience in Bethany Gospel Tabernacle Tuesday evening. On Thursday night Miss Botham will describe the remainder of her journey, made with her co-worker in the field, Miss C. Lewis, as they left French West Africa for a year's furlough at home in America. This is Miss Botham's fifth furlough, she having labored for twenty-five years in the mission fields.

"I want to tell you about your investment," said this enthusiastic, smiling missionary—still enthusiastic after twenty-five years of work among the horrors, the diseases, the absolute ignorance and the disappointments she has faced in her work. "You give your prayers and your means for the missionaries, and we go out and invest it for you in souls, and then we come home to tell you what we have accomplished,' she said. In the villages around Miss Botham's station at Faranah in Guinea there are now a thousand Christians scattered among the different tribes. Seventeen languages have been mastered by the missionaries, but there are hundreds have not been touched and thousands of villages have not yet been reached.

Method Of Building Houses

Typical scenes of village life showed natives at work and at play. Their method of building the grass houses was interesting, tieing the grass with bark, and putting the roof on in overlapping rows of grass. With nothing to work with but their hands and the crudest of implements, they fashion leather work, basket work, spin and dye cotton, and weave grass mats for their houses. There were many illustrations of the elaborate coiffures of the native belles, the most extreme having a block of wood attached to keep her head from touching the ground as she slept and so disarrange her locks. Other heads are decorated with heavy earrings, beads, and hundreds of tiny braids, all thickly covered with rancid butter.

Village scene on African play days gave evidence of the native's love of dancing and ceremony, and then in contrast were shown some of the horrors the missionaries must fight. The prevailing devil worship has so strong a hold that even after the native has realized and believes in the God of Goodness and Love, the fear of the evil takes him to his jungle shrines to offer the first of his crops or cattle to the devils. The ghastly marks of leprosy were evident in the pictures as a common disease and also the miseries wrought by the medicine men with their secret poisons.

Like Rays of Sunlight

In contrast again were the bright little homes of the missionaries and the Bible schools. Made of mud and covered with a white mud that shines in the sun like stucco, and often surrounded with trim hedges, the missionaries' homes suggested very forcibly rays of sunlight in a dark land. The destructive ants make wooden dwellings impossible.

Even more striking is the contrast in the natives who have come under the Christian influence—men, women and children with happy faces, living clean healthy lives and beginning to dress in clean cotton dresses and suits.

The missionaries' long journey took them by foot over dangerous trails, often crossing crude suspension bridges over torrents, travelling in flat hammocks carried by natives, in dug-out canoes on alligator infested rivers and in easier parts by automobile. Miss Botham took her audience among many different tribes as the many miles were covered, visiting each widely scattered mission station, and pointing out the changing aspect in the native dwellings as the rainy district was approached, where six months of rain and six months of dry weather is the rule. The last thousands of miles of this journey taken so recently should prove another gripping story Thursday evening.

A service of hymns, and prayer by the pastor, Rev. W. McArthur preceded and closed the address.

Easter Meeting St. James' W.M.S.

The beautiful hymn, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," followed with prayer by Mrs. E. L. Woodley and Mrs. E. Beavis, opened the Easter meeting of St. James' W.M.S. Auxiliary held in the Sunday School auditorium on Tuesday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Elliott, presided over the meeting. The program was arranged by Mrs. Ross Payne.

Collectors were appointed for the Bible Society and plans for the twentieth anniversary of the society were discussed. A banquet in celebration was decided upon, to be held on May 13. The executive to look after details.

Department secretaries reporting included Mrs. E. Beavis, who brought echoes from the convention held by the Ontario Temperance Federation, at which Miss A. Emerson of Toronto was the appointed delegate for St. James' Auxiliary.

It was voted upon Mrs. Beavis' motion, to send a letter of appreciation to the delegate.

Mrs. Rose, for the Christian Stewardship department, said, "This is an all-inclusive trust, taking in life in its fullness; time, talents, energy, personality, as well as money. Money is more than "cold cash." It is the energy of the body and brain transformed into currency. It has a spiritual value. Sixteen of Jesus' 38 parable are concerned with the right and wrong use of money. Our great safeguard in relation to money is to recognize God's ownership and our stewardship."

Mrs. McAdams gave a most interesting synopsis of the 2nd chapter of the Study Book.

The scripture lesson was an Easter message taken from St. John's Gospel, and read by Mesdames Byers and Breadman.

"In the Garden" was the appropriate reading given by Mrs. English, while the solo, "Have You Been to the Garden With Jesus," by Mrs. E. Kitney, was a lovely companion number in song.

A very beautiful pageant, "Building a New World Together With God," directed and introduced by Mrs. Payne, was the main feature of the program, and opened with the solo, "My Task," by Mrs. Kitney, who took all the solo parts, with Mrs. E. Eakins at the piano.

The character, "Spirit of the World," was excellently taken by Mrs. Elliott who, as chief builder, dressed in all white, sat a table lighted by one candle. The other seven builders came with their gifts of building bricks for the new world: "Friendliness," Mrs. A. Davis; Sympathy, Mrs. Morrison; Helpfulness, Mrs. Harris; "Co-operation," Mrs. B. Pitchford; "Generosity" (Living for Jesus), Mrs. J. O. Fife; "Justice," Mrs. Drysdale; "Loyalty," Mrs. George Rowe.

"The Spirit of the World" responds to these builders, and all join in singing, "Where He Leads Me I Will Follow," as they retired from the platform, when the whole audience unites in the last stanza.

This very impressive and successful Easter service was concluded with prayer and the Benediction by Rev. Mr. Craik, the pastor.

Toys exported from Japan last year were valued at $12,176,000.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Egg Dishes For Easter Season That Meet Family's Taste

Eggs Emit Extra Energy And Esthetic Enjoyment For Eaters At Easter

(By MARY MOORE).

Devilled eggs, eggs a la suisse (poached in cream and served on oven toast), mushroom omelette, 3½-minute eggs in the shell, sliced hard cooked eggs and sardine salad — those are my favorite ways with an egg.

But all of you know how to do those in your own special way—so there's no use wasting time and space on them except to remind you of their existence.

Scrambled Eggs, Cuban Style.

Many cooks that can get their ideas in print have versions of this method of scrambling an egg. Some do it with ground bacon, some with leftover roast pork, but mine needs sausage—only ½ cup—but we are all agreed on pork.

Six eggs, ½ cup sausage meat, 1 teaspoon grated onion, ½ teaspoon salt, good sprinkling pepper. Saute the meat and onion together, adding a little butter as a starter, for 5 minutes, stirring. Beat the eggs together until very foamy, then add seasonings and pour over spread out meat and onions. Immediately reduce heat, and let cook until bottom is just set. Then place under broiler, to cook top. Fold over to serve on hot platter garnished with buttered toast points and parsley or watercress.

Eggs Baked in Nest of Mashed Potatoes.

Mash freshly-boiled potatoes, adding about twice as much milk as you usually do to make them very moist, and beat them extra well. Pile into buttered casserole, and make depressions in the top—as many as you have people to serve. Put a piece of butter in each depression, and as soon as the hot mashed potatoes have melted it, drop in a fresh egg, sprinkle top with paprika and pour 1 teaspoon cream over top. Put in hot oven with top oven turned on low and make until eggs are set—about 12 or 15 minutes.

The above is a nice suggestion for that type of cook who has much fastidious and very little money and many drop-in guests. She can carry this good looking casserole full of grand tasting food to the table much as if she were bearing a roast turkey—if lettuce and good French dressing or mayonnaise and home-canned fruit are also provided—that is a fine meal in any man's language.

Devilled Eggs en Casserole

Six hard cooked eggs, mayonnaise, mustard, pepper, salt, 1 cup cooked canned or fresh peas or asparagus. Cut eggs in halves crosswise and remove yolks and to them add mayonnaise (about 2 tablespoons) and very little of each seasoning. Refill whites and place in buttered casserole, sprinkling the peas or cut asparagus in the cracks between the eggs. Pour over all

Cheese Sauce:

Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup whole or top milk, ½ cup cream cheese cut up or old cheese grated. Melt butter, stir in flour and add milk, stirring until it thickens. Then add cheese and stir until it melts.

Cover top with sprinkling of paprika and a few fine crumbs if you like and bake until heated through and golden.

Peter's Sunday Morning Mountain.

If you ever did happen to think about us on Sunday morning you would be right if you pictured me hovering around the stove in the kitchen trying my best to keep French toast and bacon from burning, and poached eggs from getting too hard—for Marianne and Peter are invariably perched on stools in front of the stove "cooking breakfast."

While fried food is only a weekly treat they love their French toast so much I often yield. They really do all the actually work of breakfast—I only tell them what to do and when.

Peter's idea of serving the plates (he's nearly four now you know) was to put daddy's large piece of French toast in the centre of the hot plate, two slices of bacon on it and the egg on top of them. He said, "Look mamma, it's all piled up like a mountain"—and you may be sure daddy ate it, loving every bite — Peter was so bursting with pride of discovery that he nearly forgot his own.

Recently I tasted French toast in a good restaurant that wasn't worth the name. Here is the best way I know how to make it: Beat one egg well, then add 1½ cups whole milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, and 1 teaspoon sugar, sprinkling of pepper. (The sugar helps it brown quickly). Soak slices of white bread in this mixture for about 3 minutes each, and fry in hot butter (or cooking oil) until light golden on both sides. Keep hot while remainder is cooking. A larruping good dish (that's Missourian for "darn" when describing food) is to put two fried eggs on top of a piece of French toast and serve with extremely thinly sliced and frizzled ham. Have it for breakfast Easter morning and see if I am not right.

Easter Sunday Supper Salad.

Six hard-cooked eggs finely chopped, 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickles, ½ green pepper finely chopped, 1 tablespoon finly chopped parsley, ¾ cup cooked salad dressing, 5 drops tabasco sauce (if you have it, if not 10 drops catsup), ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, ¼ cup boiling water. Soak the gelatin in the cold water and stir into the boiling water until gelatin is dissolved. Add all remaining ingredients and pour into small moulds (or demitasses) to set and chill. Turn out on crisp nests of head lettuce — this served with thin slices of cooked ham made into rolls, with very hot, very fluffy tea biscuits, and topped off with new maple syrup for dessert makes the nicest Sunday supper for Easter I can think of at the moment.

To poach eggs, have a dish containing at least 3 inches of water rapidly boiling—put in eggs by slipping them off a saucer. Then remove from heat, cover and let stand until white is milky but not hard. In this way all of the white is attractive and digestible.

Collarless Coat

The Collarless Coat has proved a big favorite for this spring season, especially with the young.

This smart little fitted coat with the collarless neckline is made of spongy wool. It is long, slim and untrimmed, putting it right in the front line of the new and approved fashions.

Its built-in lapel pockets give it originality, while pique piping in the coat is the touch of white that gives that crisp smartness to spring clothes, and the white line, with bow added, is repeated on the youthful hat of tissue felt.

This is the clever coat for the business girl, and is called the "Polly Tucker" coat after the pretty and resourceful heroine of the novel of that name.

Style Whimsies

If your dress is trimmed with things that go tinkle, tinkle, you are at the very peak of the mode. For sound is the latest dimension of fashion. The tingles come from pendants, paillettes, or maybe headdresses of pastel glass that make faint musical noises like unto those of the old-fashioned dingle-dangles of the chandelier or hanging oil lamp.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"O, but man! proud man!
Dress'd in a little brief authority,
Most ignorant of what's most assur'd,
His glassy essence like an angry ape,
Plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven
As make the angels weep."
—Shakespeare.

And this English proverb: "Set a beggar on horseback and he'll ride to the devil."

Dear Friends:

This is for "aggravated" who is deeply disgusted at the antics of one who is in authority over him. And I fully sympathize with this correspondent, for of all the ills that we are heir to, God protect me from the small-minded one who has managed to get a semblance of brief authority over others.

They think it makes big men of them to bully and bluster and deny the rights of others. And the fantastic ideas they get of their own importance is laughable if it were not for the hate they engender, and the trouble they can cause.

A man may be a good workman, but—let him get promoted to a little higher position, and oh, how he likes to lord it over others. Some women are the same. Let their husbands get a better income so that they can afford a maid, and how inhuman they are, demanding more than they were ever willing to do themselves.

Some get the idea also, both men and women, that because they may have more money than another, it gives them authority to dictate what that other shall do. But take their income away, and they are like a deflated balloon, nothing to them.

I remember one man in particular (he is dead now) and due to a legacy he was able to acquire a few houses, so that he could rent them. When he was a renter himself he was always talking of the hard-heartedness of his landlord who would do nothing for him in order to keep the house from deteriorating.

Well, we all thought, now he will show us what a model landlord is like. But this authority went to his head. He would not do even the ordinary things, so that good tenants would not stay with him. His houses stood so long empty, that eventually he had to take what he could get, and they destroyed his houses so much that the mortgagee foreclosed and at last he died in dire poverty.

No one ever loses by being decent to others, whether their position in life be high or low. And sooner or later if they are not decent, the day of accounting will come, and the same treatment will be meted out to them. They may think they are on top, but the wheel of life turns so that they reach bottom at last.

Some are swell persons while they are on a level with others, but let them get a little money, and poof, off they go riding to the devil. They think this money clothes them with righteousness, that they can get away with rudeness and domineering. They make a god of it, and find out that it crushes all the finer instincts in them.

John Galsworthy tells us: "A man asked to define the essential characteristics of a gentleman — using the terms in its widest sense—would presumbaly reply, "The will to put himself in the place of others; the horror of forcing others into positions from which he himself would recoil; the power to do what seems to him right, wtihout considering what others may say or think."

And so, if you have a little authority vested in you briefly, read over and over the essentials of a gentleman and do likewise. Then you will be loved instead of hated, respected instead of despised, welcomed instead of avoided. Remember that the One who allowed you this, can as easily take it away again, and "the higher you are the harded you fall."

ROBERTA.

Railway Bargains Appeal to Women

MONTREAL, April 13—(CP). — Women—mostly teachers and nurses travel most on railways, A. A. Gardiner Canadian National Railways, told the Westmount Women's Club here. Mr. Gardiner was quoting data received from railway men in Canada and the United States.

The element of romance in travel probably was responsible in part and emancipation also was a factor. "Bargain" fares were a great appeal to women, indifferent when they were merely labelled "low fares." And women like all-expense fares, since they want to know just what a trip is going to cost.

Women show more practical sense than men in tipping—more fair play, the speaker said. They tip, he suggested, to ensure promptitude or for service—and when a woman doesn't receive service, she doesn't tip. Women, too, are more given to buying transportation from advertising. Also, they seem to feel they will enjoy a trip in ratio to the number of questions they ask the railway people. A side trip included in a ticket has an irresistible appeal.

When the family is taking a trip, the wife makes 99 per cent of the decisions and does 70 to 75 per cent of the spending. In many cases, it is the girl who makes the inquiries about the honeymoon trip. The train staff always recognizes a honeymoon couple—because both are wearing new shoes.

Women have better travel sense when it comes to baggage—and their small overnight bags are a joy to the porters.

In one respect men are somewhat superior to women as travellers, said the speaker, referring to the feminine penchant for monopolizing all the dressing-room space and keeping it for a long period.

When a man makes a complaint, he says he is speaking for his wife; the woman "thinks you should know about this, but she does not want the offender to lose his job as a result.

Like men, women leave all sorts of things on trains—but never in the history of railroading has a compact been left behind.

WHAT NEXT?

LONDON—(CP).—Col. W. Garforth of the Home Office Air-Raid Precautions Department, tells the story of the woman who asked where she could buy a gas mask "suitable for her Orpington hens."

EXPERTS VITAL TO GOVERNMENT

OTTAWA, April 13—(CP).—Paul Martin, Liberal House member for Essex East, last night told the Ottawa University women that he believed greater efficiency in handling government problems would be evidenced if a closer relationship between the civil servant, economist and scientist was established.

Criticisms are directed at the "waste of time" in unnecessary monologues by House members irrelevant to the question under discussion during parliamentary sittings, he said, but each member in speaking for a section of the country brought individual problems to light and the voice of the people was heard.

"Parliament is a representative of the public of the country," Mr. Martin said. Perspective is needed in dealing with conditions and only by the present form of Democratic government can the liberty and freedom enjoyed by Canadians be preserved.

Problems are becoming more complex and there is greater need for expert advice, he continued. The expert must continue to have a place in the government.

Check on Despots

"Our government by nation-wide representation holds a check on despotic intention," he added. In Fascist countries parliamentary form is used as a shadow precluding adequate discussion and full representation. In those countries, the state embodies the principles of one man.

In the clash of Fascism and Communism and varying political philosophies a thorough understanding should be maintained by the public, he said.

"Liberty and freedom, although often misused, strike home as very great things," said Mr. Martin. Denial of the law courts, as in totalitarian countries, affect not only those who govern the country, but everyday life of the citizen.

"Loss of freedom, of religious thought, opportunity to select one's colleagues, ability to make contracts with one's fellow man will cause human personality to die."

Belgium imported 1,096,493 tons of American products last year.

Life Feared For

Rene Kraus, former press chief for the Schuschnigg government, is pictured on his arrival in New York. He declared that he feared for Chancellor Schuschnigg's life despite promises of Nazi officials that he would not be harmed.

"Met" Conductor Teaches Quebec Children

Dr. Wilfred Pelletier, conductor of the New York Metropolitan Opera, using a pencil to demonstrate flute playing, explains to eight and ten-year-old members of the Montreal Children's Symphony how to read a music score. Each month in the metropolis of the province of Quebec, more than a thousand children attend "Les Concerts Symphnique," which Dr. Pelletier conducts especially for children.

URGES U.S. TRADE IN SOUTH AMERICA

NEW YORK, April 13—(AP). — A broad government-subsidized trade expansion program with Central and South America was proposed last night by Mayor F. J. Laguardia in a broadcast address which many political observers interpreted as a bid for the 1940 Presidential nomination.

The Mayor asserted European and Oriental nations, particularly those under dictatorships," had "invaded the Latin American Republics and captured our markets."

The United States, he added, should be prepared to act boldly to "remove the danger of improper European and Oriental encroachment in the western hemisphere;" should help make "the Americas for the Americans."

But briefly, his proposal was this: An immediate survey of "present and possible needs in Central and South America," the United States government to place orders for the manufacture of the export goods found to be saleable.

YOUNG'S POINT

Little Miss Ruth Wilson is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Melville Jones in Omemee.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Stenner over the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Stenner and daughter, Barbara Ann of Peterborough and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stenner and daughter Nellie of Lakefield.

Mr. and Mrs. David Darling, daughter Faye and son John were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hughes in Peterborough on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Fitzgerald and little daughter Pauline of Selwyn were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Darling on Sunday.

Born—In St. Joseph's Hospital Peterborough on Sunday, April 10, to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wilson, a son.

FAIRMOUNT

The annual pancake supper will be held in the hall on Tuesday, April 19th, under the auspices of Fairmount W.M.S. Abundance of maple syrup will be donated by Richard Earle.

The Y.P.U. of Millbrook United Church will present their play, entitled "In May With June." Also there will be a musical program given.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Smith entertained in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ruth, who celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary on Friday. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. J. Morrison, Miss Edna Morrison, B. Butcher, B. Herron, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowan, Mrs. Robert Morrison and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ballantyne.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Fee of Omemee called on Mrs. M. Hooton on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Johnston were the guests of Mr. Jackson of Emily on Sunday evening.

The W.M.S. of Fairmount United Church held their April meeting in Howden Memorial Hall on Wednesday afternoon. In the absence of the president, Mrs. R. C. Hanbidge, the vice-president, Mrs. R. M. Hooton, had charge of the meeting. The meeting was opened by singing a hymn, after which Mrs. J. Seymour offered prayer. The roll call was answered by a verse of an Easter hymn. Mrs. C. W. Seymour gave a reading, entitled "The Easter Lily," and Mrs. R. Earle sang "Low in the Grave He Lay," all the ladies joining in the chorus. Readings were also given by Miss E. Morrison and Mrs. J. Seymour. Mrs. C. W. Seymour and Mrs. F. R. McIndoo were appointed to secure a speaker for a Sunday afternoon service (Easter thankoffering service) in the near future.

The quartette of Springville and Fairmount sang at Bensfort service on Sunday evening, Mrs. T. W. McIndoo accompanying.

Mr. L. La Font and family, who have been in Mr. T. W. McIndoo's house for the last year, moved to Mr. A. Miller's farm on 7th Concession of Cavan on Monday.

American refrigerators are becoming popular in French Morocco.

$681.81 ARREARS IN MANVERS TAXES

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, April 13.—The members of the Manvers Council met this day pursuant to adjournment. Members all present, the Reeve in the chair.

The following communications were received and read: From F. G. McNeeley, re relief vouchers being on hand, cashed, as changes were likely to be made as to rebates. From Deputy Minister of Public Welfare as to changes to be made in Government paying rebate. From Torcher's Garage as to repairing car spring for Mr. Irvine. From Highways Department as to the amount of money spent in 1937 on township roads. From Mr. J. McGahey, asking the council to grant him letters of occupation proving half of road allowance, butting his land on the south end.

Moved by Councillors Neals and Payne, that this council grant to Joseph and David McGahey, letters of occupation for north half of road allowance opposite west half of Lot 17 between Cons. 13 and 14, with the usual conditions, the same to be signed by the Reeve and Clerk.

The collector (J. J. Clark) presented his roll for 1937. Moved by Deputy Reeve Boggs, seconded by Councillor Neals, that certain taxes amounting to $32.63 be struck from the roll as not being collectable. Moved by Deputy Reeve Boggs, seconded by Councillor Heaslip, that the collector's roll be accepted and that the treasurer place the arrears amounting to $681.81 against each property being in arrears.

The council adjourned to meet again on May 5, at 1 p.m.

St. Paul's Auxiliary.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Anglican Church held their regular monthly meeting at the rectory on Thursday afternoon. There were fifteen members present. The president in the chair, asked the rector to lead the prayers, after singing the society missionary hymn, with Mrs. H. Kennedy at the piano.

A lengthy discussion followed regarding delegates to attend the annual convention, to be held in Toronto, the latter part of the month. Mrs. (Rev.) Holden and Mrs. Sid Armstrong were the decision of the meeting to act as delegates on that date.

It was decided to send flowers to a member of the W.A., who is a patient in hospital at Toronto at the present time.

A beautiful finished quilt, previously donated by a former member and resident of the village, and quilted at one of the homes prior to the meeting by a number of ladies, was displayed at the meeting. Also several pieces of knitted goods were sent in for annual bazaar. The committee for Dorcas work brought goods to be made, when time permitted.

A request had been sent forward to appoint another convenor for staple goods, owing to a removal from the village, since the annual election of officers. Miss Emily Preston sent in a lovely woollen comforter for bale to be packed in the early summer shipment. Mrs. McCartney invited the ladies to meet at her home for the meeting to be held May 5.

The meeting was closed by the rector, and later a sumptuous lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Webb of Wallaceburg, who poured tea. Sandwiches were provided by Mrs. Monk and Mrs. Will Morton. Cakes by Mrs. Roy Jarvis and Mrs. Foster, and a social half-hour enjoyed by all present.

SELWYN

Mr. Milton Graham was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Bell on Sunday last. Although gradually improving after his severe injury to his foot last fall, Milton is still walking with the aid of a crutch.

Mrs. Neil Whitmore and daughter Eva of Apsley were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Wilson for a few days last week.

Miss Florence Elliott of Peterborough spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fitzgerald.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Melville Millar of Smith on Wednesday, April 6th, in Peterborough hospital, a son.

WARSAW SOCIETY PLANS WORK SALE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, April 13. — The welcome home meeting of the Anglican Ladies' Guild held at Mrs. Robert Tighe's home last week was a splendid gathering of ladies and also a good number of little children. There were no services. Another meeting will be held on April 21 to plan for a sale of work.

Mrs. Tighe brought a lot of new ideas from the south, some of which will be put into practice. Afternoon tea was served by the hostess.

United Church W.M.S.

A fair number attended the United Church W.M.S. on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Allan Taylor opened by reading the Easter call to worship. After roll call, Mrs. Robert Moore brought a dollar which had been sent for the W.M.S. by Mrs. Uriah Payne. The bill was folded in four and placed in a little bag which it just fitted. Mrs. Payne offered to make little bags for the W.M.S. ladies, but it was not thought needful here. Mrs. Tucker read a letter from the General Strangers' secretary, showing details of work which might be done.

Word was received that the bale be packed in June instead of early autumn. The members are asked to bring their 19" x 19" quilt blocks to Mrs. Robert Moore as soon as possible. Some wool was offered for a quilt but it was thought it might be used for a quilt to be sold, as the blocks are of heavy cloth.

The last Sunday in April will be a special W.M.S. day. An autograph quilt is to be started.

Mrs. Stuart Clysdale read a report of some of the hospitals in the west, describing some of the work of the nurses, doctors and hospital boats. Mrs. G. G. Taylor sang "Broken Heart." Mrs. Harold Payne gave a report of some pioneer hospitals. Mrs. Allan Taylor read a condensed hospital report from the Study Book.

Police Arrest Two Campbellford Men

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 13. — Provincial Constable D. G. Campbell arrested two persons here at 9 a.m. on Monday, alleged to be in the possession of 306 muskrat skins believed to have been stolen in Kingston on Monday. The pair, both of town, Fred Judge, 17, and Leonard McLachlan were taken to Cobourg jail this afternoon and lodged in the county jail.

HASTINGS

MUSICAL PROGRAM IS WELL RECEIVED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, April 13—Despite the unusual wintry April weather of Friday evening, the concert held in the Town Hall under the auspices of Trinity United Church choir was well attended. With the folk songs and spirituals of their race, with Gospel shouts and plantation melodies, the Virginia Jubilee Singers presented a varied program which was well received and which won wonderful applause.

Introduced by the pastor, Rev. F. W. Newell, they opened their program by singing "Southland," followed by two numbers, "Rise-Shine" and "Scandalize My Name."

Miss Edna Dobine displayed remarkably fine soprano voice as she sang, "Yesterday and Today" and "Mighty Lak a Rose." In a contralto voice of beautiful timbre, Miss Nelson sang "Honey Dat All." The bass solos by Roma Russell, "Bells in Lighthouse," and "Asleep in Deep" won hearty applause.

Miss Gaskin, the pianist and manager, displayed her expert skill as accompanist for all the numbers. The male quartette, Mr. Jones, 1st tenor; Mr. Tate, 2nd tenor; Mr. Cross, baritone, and Mr. Roma Russell, bass, were well received and encored as they sang "I Know I've Been Changed" and "Ezkiel Saw de Wheel."

Other favorite numbers in the first part of the program were: "John Saw Holy Number," "Hear Dem Bells," "Reign Massa Jesus," "Run-Run-Run," "Golden Slippers," "Gospel Train," and "Prima Donna Song."

In the second part of the entertainment the group united in a plantation scene, and dressed in their plantation costums sang "Dixie Days," "Chloe," "Old Black Joe," "Swanee River" and "Hard Trials," all old favorites.

The male quartette sang "Close Harmony," "Caliope," and "In My Father's House."

Australia expects to harvest 170,000,000 bushels of wheat this year.

Soviet Honors Arctic Hero

Mikail Kalinin, chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, is shown, LEFT, as he pinned the order of Lenin, highest Soviet decoration, on M. Fidorov, one of the party that spent nine months on an Artic ice floe and who were rescued some weeks ago by Russian ice breakers. Although the scientists themselves were thus honored, there were murmurs of "sabotage"" against the official bureau charged with the work of the icebreakers.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR DOURO C.W.L.

DOURO, April 13.—The annual meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held on Sunday. A detailed and satisfactory account of the year's business was presented by the secretary, Miss Mary Allen. The membership for 1937 was 75. Owing to the system of 'moving up" used by the society in the election of officers, there were only two changes of personnel. Last year's slate was: Pres., Mrs. James Walsh; 1ist Vice-Pres., Mrs. F. D. Leahy; 2nd Vice, Mrs. Gus Torpey; 3rd Vice, Mrs. Victory Kennedy; Sec.-Treas., Miss Mary Allen. The executive for 1938 is as follows: Pres., Mrs. F. D. Leahy; 1st Vice, Mrs. Gus Torpey; 2nd Vice, Mrs. Victor Kennedy; 3rd, Miss Mary Allen; Sec.-Treas. Mrs. David Garvey.

Mr. James Devlin of Peterborough, spent the week-end with friends at Indian River.

BRITISH BANKS MAY GRANT CASH LOANS TO CHINA

Government Sanction Is Expected on Deal

LONDON, April 14 (AP). — The Government "has under consideration" recommendations to British banks that they grant long-term loans to the Chinese Government, the House of Commons was informed today.

Dr. Sun Fo, China's Ambassador-at-Large, who came to Europe to seek financial help for China in her war against Japan, has been in London the last two weeks urging British loans.

Lieut.-Colonel D. J. Colville, financial secretary to the Treasury, told the House that if British banks approached the Government for permission to lend to China such requests would be "sympathetically considered."

He added the Treasury was considering action to "encourage" the granting of loans.

Financial aid to China was recommended by a resolution of the League of Nations Assembly October 5, 1937.

Dr. Sun, whose father, Sun Yat-Sen, founded the Chinese Republic, recently told a private meeting of members of Parliament that China was confident of defeating Japan.

JUVENILE STARS' CASH PROTECTED

HOLLYWOOD, April 14 (AP)—Deanna Durbin, Winnipeg's gift to the films, will not have to go to court when she comes of age, to obtain the fortune she amassed as a juvenile movie star.

Neither will Shirley Temple, Jane Withers, Mickey Rooney, Freddie Bartholomew or any other of the movie youngsters whose names are emblazoned on theatre marquees.

The plight of Jackie Coogan, suing his mother and step-father for an accounting of his childhood film earnings, estimated at $4,000,000, seems to have been anticipated by the studios and parents of the current juvenile stars.

Deanna Durbin, for instance: Her father, James Durbin, is investing her earnings (estimated at $800 a day) in life insurance and real estate for her.

Jackie Cooper's earnings are deposited in the Jackie Cooper estate account in a bank, which is his financial guardian.

Shirley Temple's movie earnings, which run quite a way up in four figures, are regulated by her contract.

Most of Shirley's money goes into trusts, annuities and government bonds. Shirley will not be able to get all her money in one lump. Some will go to her when she is 20, more at 30, 40 and 50.

Of Jane Withers' movie money, about $1,000 a week goes into a trust fund, and she is the sole beneficiary. The rest of her earnings are deposited in her bank account.

Freddie Bartholomew's finances have been the subject of much litigation, but now that his custody has been settled in the hands of "Aunt Cissy"—Miss Millycent Bartholomew—a monetary program has been worked out. He will be financially independent when he is old enough to vote.

Grey Owl A Sniper In Black Watch

OTTAWA, April 14 (CP).—Grey Owl, the half-breed naturalist who died in Prince Albert yesterday, served for more than two years with the Canadian Expeditionary Force, national defence records show. He had a "good" record and was wounded in action.

Grey Owl enlisted at Digby, N.S., on May 6, 1915, in the 40th Battalion, giving his name as Archibald Belaney. He said he was a trapper and had previous military experience with the 28th Dragoons, Mexican Scouts.

Leaving for England on June 15, 1915, he continued to France on August 28, serving in the field as a sniper with the 13th Battalion of Montreal (Black Watch).

While on active service he was wounded in the right foot and was returned to Canada, where he was given his discharge on November 30, 1917.

U.S. Not Allowing Western Peace To Be Shattered

Roosevelt Warning Accompanies Announcement Of 7 Billion Recovery Program for the Nation

WASHINGTON, April 14. (AP).—President Roosevelt declared today the American nations would not permit peace in the western hemisphere "to be endangered from aggression coming from outside."

Speaking on Pan-American union, the President of the United States asserted the 300,000,000 citizens of this hemisphere have the same material for controversy which exists elsewhere, added:

"But, we have undertaken contractual obligations to solve these normal human differences by maintaining peace; and that peace we are firmly resolved to maintain. It shall not be endangered by controversies within our family; and we will not permit it to be endangered from aggression coming from outside of our hemisphere."

Hugs Recovery Program.

The President proposed a $7,000,000,000 recovery program for the United States embracing $5,000,000,000 of Federal spending and lending and a $2,000,000,000 expansion of bank credit.

Setting forth to Congress measures by which he said the Government could "help to start an upward spiral" and summoning a "united national will" for a vigorous attack on the recession, Mr. Roosevelt told legislators who recently have dealt stunning defeats to major administration measures:

"Our capacity is limited only by our ability to work together. What is needed is the will. The time has come to bring that will into action with every driving force at our command. And I am determined to do my share."

The President declared the will to co-operate places "on all of us the duty of self-restraint" and that "there can be no dictatorship by an individual, or by a group in this nation save through division fostered by hate. Such division there must never be."

The President reiterated in a 4,000-word message read to the House and Senate that "improvement in Government and business practices must go hand in hand with recovery," and added:

"The Congress and the chief executive can ill-afford to weaken or destroy great reforms which, during the past five years, have been effected on behalf of the American people."

Three-Way Scheme.

The President divided his program, designed to start national income spiraling upward again, into three groups of measures. The first involved mainly additional appropriations for the fiscal year beginning July 1. It was:

$1,250,000,000 for the works progress administration; $175,000,000 for the farm security administration; $75,000,000 for the national youth administration; $50,000,000 for the civilian conservation corps, and the $1,500,000,000 made available to the reconstruction corporation for lending to business enterprises.

In a second group of measures, Mr. Roosevelt asked:

$300,000,000 for immediate expansion of the housing and slum-clearance work of the United States housing authority; $1,450,000,000 for public works loans and grants; an additional $100,000,000 for public roads; an additional $37,000,000 for flood control and reclamation projects already authorized, and an additional $25,000,000 for Federal buildings.

L.O.L. DEGREE PRIZE GOES TO REABORO AT PT. HOPE RALLY

PORT HOPE, Ont., April 14 (CP) Every department of Orange Lodge work made excellent progress during the past term, with increased membership and stronger support, it was revealed at the session yesterday of the Grand Orange Lodge, L.O.L. and Young Britons.

Convening in the local Orange Hall, the Grand Lodge was tendered a civic welcome by Mayor George Bennett and in the evening the delegates made merry at the Town Hall, where a dance and entertainment was provided under the auspices of Port Hope L.O.L.

At the meeting of the Orange Young Britons, Grand Lodge Ontario East, which concluded last night after a successful session, the following officers were elected:

I.M.P., R. L. Little of Ottawa; G. M., F. McBryde, of Richmond; D.G. M., G. Sharp, Westboro; G. Chaplain, F. Bradfield, Ottawa; G. Secretary, E. Jones, Ottawa; G. Treasurer, W. Chambers, Monatick; G.O., C. Kilfoyle, Smith Falls; D.O., A. Cowan, Metcalfe; J.D.O., H. Joynt, Roebuck; D.C., J. Birtch, Billings Bridge; D. Secretary, W. Pretty, Carleton Place; D. Treasurer, R. Tompkins, Montreal; Auditors, K. Hackett and O. Hammell, Ottawa.

One Jewel Presented

Ottawa O.Y.P. No. 33 won the Sloan Degree Competition, the presentation being made to H. Frobell, W.M., Ottawa. A jewel was presented to L. L. Morrow of Russel by G. Swayne, W.M., Smith's Falls, and the Gamble Visiting Trophy was awarded to G. Sharpe of Westboro. Representing various lodges were: Mrs. E. Moore, G.M., of Lindsay; Miss A. Greer, P.G.T., Burritt's Rapids; Mrs. E. Lindsay, G. Secretary, Ottawa; J. L. Steele, G.M. of British America, Royal Black Precep.; J. McGladry, G.M., Royal Black Preceptory, Ottawa; Rev. J. Hodgson, J.D.G.M., of City View. Representing The Orange Sentinel was M. W. R. Noakes.

Reaboro L.O.L. won the Shipmen Shield for degree competition at the meeting of the Grand Lodge last night, defeating the crack Orono team which held it for three years. Neil Porter, captain of the Orono Lodge, handed over the shield to the captain of the winning team.

At the close of the L.O.L. session last night, the delegates paraded to the town hall, headed by the Pontypool fife and drum band, where a social evening was spent.

The convention will close tonight.

Hore-Belisha Off To See Il Duce

Secretary of War's Visit Will Precede Hitler's By Two Weeks Following Inspection of Malta

LONDON, April 14. (AP).—Leslie Hore-Belisha, secretary of state for war, took off from Hendon Airdrome today on a journey that will take him to see the military defences of Malta and Premier Mussolini.

Brimming with confidence, Mr. Hore-Belisha last night played darts with army privates while opening the new Croydon drill hall, and recalled that Sir Francis Drake played bowls before he met the Spanish armada.

"But I know I have no armada to meet," he added. "Everything is going to be very happy."

Today the newspapers headlined: "Mr. Hore-Belisha Drake."

As the war secretary's plane headed toward Marseille Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons that Mr. Hore-Belisha would pay the Duce "a courtesy visit."

Lieutenant-Commander Reginald Fletcher, Labor, asked with faint irony if the visit "has no political significance whatsoever?"

"That is so," the Prime Minister replied.

Visit Just Before Hitler's

Nobody, however, lost sight of the fact that energetic "H-B" will see Mussolini in the interim between the expected signing of the Anglo-Italian agreement and the visit to Rome of Chancellor Hitler.

Amid cheers from his supporters, Mr. Chamberlain said it was hoped the agreement would be signed Saturday.

The war secretary is due to see Mussolini April 23—about a fortnight befort Hitler does. Mr. Hore-Belisha will inspect Malta's defences beginning Saturday.

Prime Minister Chamberlain gave a flat "No, Sir" answer in the House to the suggestion of Geoffrey Man-

NINETY PER CENT. RELIEFERS SAID WILLING TO WORK

LONDON, Ont., April 14 (CP)—Workers in one Ontario plant are paid $6 for an 80 or 90-hour week, James F. Marsh, Ontario Deputy Minister of Labor told the All-Canadian Congress of Labor at its eighth annual convention which closed here yesterday. At its final session the congress unanimously re-elected A. R. Mosher of Ottawa president, an office he has held continuously since the congress was formed.

The Ontario Labor Department receives complaints daily about wage conditions and through conciliation had done much to ameliorate unfair working conditions although it has no authority to enforce its requests. He predicted that when the provincial minimum wage act is applied, wage increases up to 100 per cent will be effective immediately in some industries. At present the minimum wage act in Ontario governs only the textile industry.

90 P.C. Ready To Work

Mr. Marsh discussed men on relief and declared they were being criticized unjustly. Ninety per cent of those on relief are willing to work and the other 10 per cent were unable to work because of age, he said.

Resolutions passed by the congress were:

1—That the Dominion government put into effect recommendations of the Royal Commission on

EDUCATIONAL ANTS

DENVER, April 14 (A.P.). — Thomas Barber's ants aren't pets, he told the Canadian Government today.

Barber appealed to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce here to take steps after he learned officials at St. John, New Brunswick, had seized 720 ants he had shipped in glass cases for school use.

"Educational, that's the idea," Barber explained. "Our ants are very popular."

CHINESE GUNNERS SHELL JAP-HELD CITY INTO RUINS

SHANGHAI, April 14.—(AP). — Yihsien rapidly was being reduced to a war-ruined city to-day as Chinese artillerymen from vantage points in surrounding hills bombarded the Japanese garrison in South Shantung province.

General Chiang Kai-Shek's troops claimed to have scored a fresh success as they carried Changshan, a small village commanding the gateway to Yihsien, in the face of heavy fire from Nipponese entrenched within the walled town.

Japanese, they said, had been reduced to receiving food supplies by airplane, so severely were their rail communications crippled.

Yihsien is 25 miles north of Taierhchwang, spur railroad town north of the Grand Canal where Chinese last week forced Japanese to retreat from their advance down the Tientsin-Pukow line toward the Suchow junction with the east-west Lunghai railway.

Some of the Japanese besieged in Yihsien, Chinese commanders said, have escaped to the north-west, while heavy Japanese reinforcements from bases at Tsingtao on the coast and Tsinan, 150 miles to the rear of the Yellow River, were hindered by disrupted railway facilities.

Chinese guerrilla units destroyed 10 miles of track between Lincheng, where the spur line joins the main Tientsin-Pukow railway, and Tenghsien, 18 miles north, it was claimed.

WEIGHT A HANDICAP

GLOUCESTER, Mass., April 14. — (AP). — Six-year-old Joseph Randazza's 185 pounds, which brought him fame as Gloucester's "fat boy," handicapped him in a fight against pneumonia today. Joseph, stricken two days ago, was critically ill in Addison Gilbert Hospital, and Dr. George Doyle said "his extreme obesity might prove fatal." Doctors were using oxygen tanks. Joseph once was described as the "world's fattest boy."

Isle's Owners, Consolidated Paper Corporation, Gets Definite Ruling at Conference From Duplessis

QUEBEC, April 14. (CP).—Neither sale of Anticosti Island to interests abroad nor export of its lumber by foreigners for foreign use will be permitted by the Quebec government.

It was learned authoritatively today the provincial government's stand was made clear by Premier Duplessis during a conference in his offices at the Legislature with officials of the Consolidated Paper Corporation, which owns the big island at the mouth of the St. Lawrence River.

At the conference between the Premier, L. G. Belnap, president of the Company, and Francois Faure, vice-president, yesterday, the Premier reiterated his view expressed at a press conference in Montreal in December that it would be impossible for the Quebec government to allow any transaction whereby the island or its natural resources would be turned over to foreign possession.

Premier Duplessis' statement in December following publication of a newspaper report that a German and Dutch syndicate was about to buy Anticosti from the Consolidated Paper Corporation.

The Premier declared the Quebec government intended to keep the province's natural resources for the people of the province and would not stand for sale of the property to the syndicate.

ONTARIO TO TEACH QUINTS AS RESULT OF LANGUAGE TIFF

TORONTO, April 14.— (CP).— New arrangements regarding the education of the Dionne quintuplets may be made shortly. It was learned on good authority to-day the Ontario Department of Education would probably take over the education of the five girls from their Board of Guardians.

Judge J. A. Valin, chief guardian was quoted in a despatch from Callander to-day as saying 'the active guardians will be delighted if the Education Department takes control of the teaching. The active guardians would then be in charge of that most important phase of their life—health and of their business affairs."

A Toronto paper to-day said the expected change would be the outcome of a controversy over teaching which developed since the staff of the Dafoe nursery was changed six weeks ago.

"Retirement by the active guardians of Nurse Jacqueline Noel and Teacher Claire Tremblay, both French-Canadians, raised a storm of protest from French-Canadian organizations, representatives of the Roman Catholic church and from Oliva Dionne, father of the children," said the story.

"These two attendants were replaced by Nora Rousselle, as teacher-in-charge, and Sigrid Ulirchson."

Fear English May Be Taught.

The paper quoted Father Pilon, the Corbeil parish, in which the Dionnes lives, as saying:

'The change means that English now is the dominant language of the Dafoe nursery. In view of the fact the children are French-Canadian and that their parents wish them to be brought up in a French-Canadian environment, I think a protest is justified."

(Father Pilon said Miss Ulrichson speaks little or no French and Miss Rousselle, while French-Canadian, "is much more at home in the English language."

Miss Rousselle was appointed on the advice of Dr. W. E. Blatz, Toronto psychologist, who is acting as director of the Quints' pre-school education.

CITY HALL TOTTERY?

WINDSOR, Ont., April 14 (CP)—Several civic officials today expressed alarm over the condition of the 67-year-old city hall building. Signs of disintegration are increasing, it was said.

Fire Chief Clarence DeFields said he would not climb the stairs from the main floor April 5 when city council was in session before a packed gallery, because "the joists were actually groaning."

$50,000 INCOME CLASS LISTS 300

OTTAWA, April 14. (CP).—Three hundred Canadians who had incomes exceeding $50,000 a year paid almost one-third the total income tax collected by the Dominion in March, 1937, was shown today in a chart distributed by the National Revenue Department.

The chart was based on income tax collections in March, 1937, and related principally to incomes received in the calendar year 1935. It showed total collection of $35,442 385.

The total collected, $11,636,031 came from 300 Canadians who had incomes exceeding $50,000 the average tax being $38,786.

On the other extreme of the chart, there were 98,243 Canadians with incomes under $2,000. This represented 45.34 per cent of the total taxpayers yet they contributed only 2.95 per cent of the total tax.

The chart showed the salary groups up to $10,000 a year uniformly paid two to three per cent of the total tax although the number of persons in the groups decreased sharply. For instance, there were 50,618 in the $2,000-$3,000 salary group who paid a total of $1,092,977. There were 4,480 in the $6,000-$7,000 group who paid $1,026,244 and 1,533 in the $9,000-$10,000 group who paid $823,621.

The next group, $10,000-$15,000 took a big jump. There were 3,520 in the group and they paid $3,194,978.

The chart showed there were 1,431 the $15,000-$20,000 group, 724 receiving between $20,000 and $25,000; 380, between $25,00 and $30,000; 261 between $35,000 and $40,000; 108 between $40,000 and $45,000; 77 between $45,000 and $50,000 and 300 over $50,000.

PLENTY OF HELP

WINDSOR, Ont., April 14 (CP) — Arrival of a large number of transients in this district during the past two weeks has increased the labor problem of spring farm work in Essex County, according to Superintendent A. J. Cooper of the Windsor Employment Bureau. Last week's wintry weather delayed spring activity 10 days, Cooper said, "but the supply of men on our lists wil lexceed the demand."

Winnipeg, April 14. (CP).

WINNIPEG police raided two establishments where bingo games were in progress and sent approximately 800 persons home.

Police said the two games were first to be operated since a clean-up campaign they conducted more than two months ago.

Police, who did not name officials operating the games, said they would be summoned to court today.

Lone Mountie Rules Mushroom Town's Where Pay Is High And Few Jobless

CALGARY, April 14 (CP)—A new frontier is opening in Alberta—different from pioneer days of the cattle men and the homesteader.

It is a frontier of oil derricks, dotted with a 15-mile front with "mushroom" communities and millions of dollars being invested in the search for "black gold."

Where but a few months ago cattle grazed, oil derricks, giant frames of steel and iron, shoot skyward while huge drills plunge into the earth, in many wells reaching a depth of more than a mile.

It is the southern frontier in Turner Valley, Canada's major oil development area extending far south of the old discovery well which brought its first petroleum boom in Calgary in 1914.

Hundreds of workers are in the field, earning high wages, from $5 to $12 and more a day, and unlike the pioneers of old who trekked across the plains in creaking ox-carts or slow early-day trains, they have most of the conveniences of modern life.

Frontier Day Scenes

Picturesque towns, reminiscent of mining communities with their false-front stores, have been established and more will follow this spring.

In the rolling foothills valley with a background of snow-capped Rockies, are the towns of Little New York and Little Chicago and Little Brooklyn or Tulsa—a name hasn't been decided on yet—is in the making but a short distance away.

Surrounded by wells which last year played a major part in Alberta's production of nearly 3,000,000 barrels of oil valued at around $5,000,000 the "mushroom" towns are thriving. Prosperity is there. Few are unemployed.

A little more than a year old, Little Chicago has a population of 2,000 and Little New York 1,000, is growing fast.

There is a difference from pioneer boom towns. There is no "Wild Bill's Hell Roar'n Saloon"—there are no taverns—but there are commodious boarding houses and restaurants. They boast such names as "Ma's Place" and "Wimpy's Place."

Laurel's 3 Wives, Agents And Taxes Doom $160,000 Salary For Deficit

Los Angeles, April 14. (AP).

STAN LAUREL, who cries crocodile tears in film comedies, sighed in earnest today over the cost of supporting three wives.

"I'm insolvent," he said. "All I've got out of my earnings which they can't touch is a $50,000 annuity. It pays me $217 per month. If this keeps up, Id be better off to quit working.

Laurel is opposing a court action by his first wife, Lois, to compel him to pay $1,000 a month to support their 10-year-old daughter. Mrs. Laurel said he hadn't paid anything for five years, but admitted the property settlement he made for her is worth $274,000.

Laurel pointed to his bank account—$2,500—and moaned:

"I'll make $160,000 this year. But with agents, three wives, taxes and everything I'll end up the year with a deficit."

Goodwill And Active Support Promised By Manufacturers

Co-operate As Far As Practical With Officers Of Prince Of Wales Rangers

Substantial reinforcements in goodwill and active support of the Peterborough Prince of Wales Rangers was expressed at a meeting of local manufacturers Wednesday afternoon in the board room of the Chamber of Commerce. As a preliminary encouragement to the officers who have been devoting a great deal of time, effort and study to the developing of the regiment it was decided to co-operate as far as practical in assuring to men who join up with the unit that their positions will be retained for them during period of training in camp.

Gordon S. Matthews was chairman of the meeting, and among those present were E. H. Howson, Claude Rogers, C. A. Salmonsen, R. E. Cutting, W. R. Breyfogle, J. R. Marshall, H. L. Garner, Fred J. Overend, Robert Abbott, George Hewitt, D. G. H. Melton, J. H. Vernor, Alderman Dutton and Colonel John A. Dewart, and Major R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne. Other manufacturers who could not be present but who had declared themselves to be in favor of any undertaking that would promote the regiment were

NEW 'MET' BALLET

NEW YORK, April 14 (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera Company announced last night it would present its own ballet next season to replace the American ballet ensemble, whose contract was terminated.

Prior to the announcement, Choreographer George Balanchine of the American ballet had said he was leaving because "the tradition of the ballet at the Metropolitan is bad ballet. That is why I can not stay."

Passenger tickets sold by British railways have increased 36,000,000 annually in two years.

Lift The Ban On Slapping, Boxing Ears Is Plea Of Male Teachers Body

London, Ont., April 14. (CP).

ELIMINATION OF the regulation which "strictly forbids all such methods as pulling or boxing the ears, slapping with the hand, striking with a book or pointer, shaking a pupil or hitting him suddenly and without warning" is being sought by the Public School Men Teachers' Federation. The request will go before the Board of Education.

The regulation is part of the revised rules and regulation now due at the printers. It is part of the action dealing with discipline. According to the rule which has been on the official list for some years "teachers are required to practice such discipline in the schools as would be exercised by a kind and judicious parent; and avoid corporal punishment in all shall avoid corporal punishment in all cases where good order can be wreserved by milder measures."

"Dictator" Daladier Issues Decree To Curb Strikes

Will Force 157,000 Metal Workers Back on Job If They Refuse Arbitration—Munitions Speeded

PARIS, April 14. (CP).—"The strong man of the French army," Premier Edouard Daladier, began today a 3½-month virtual dictatorship of France with swift measures to speed armament production by ending widespread strikes.

The dynamic premier warned his first use of the extraordinary powers given his national defence cabinet by parliament would be to control future strikes. He named a super-arbitrator with absolute power to halt those now tying up the armament industry.

Pierre Jacomet, Daladier's trusted lieutenant, was authorized to outline the terms under which the government would force back to the work approximately 157,000 metal workers if they refused to accept his arbitration.

The strength of the Daladier government led to the report the premier and his foreign minister, Georges Bonnet, would go to London late this month for a conference on diplomatic and military ties between the two countries.

The report also was current that France and Italy are to negotiate a commercial agreement, with France recognizing the Ethiopian conquest by accrediting an ambassador to the king of Italy as emperor. Pierre-Etienne Flandin, former premier and foreign minister who has urged that France follow Britain's lead in negotiating with Italy, is being prominently mentioned for the ambassador's post in Rome.

Munitions Start Again.

Jacomet, permanent under-secretary of the defence ministry, was called in after the failure to agree yesterday of workers' and employers' representatives in the privately-owned metallurgical plants. Similar arbitration sent tens of thousands back to their jobs yesterday in the nationalized munitions plants.

Daladier now plans a decree to force government supervision of strike cotes to halt what government investigators said was use of the strike as a political weapon.

Both Houses of Parliament, the Senate acting yesterday, voted Daladier's cabinet the decree powers almost unanimously before adjourning. Except for self-imposed promises not to establish exchange control, impose a special tax on capital or revalue gold stocks, the premier was given absolute power in economic and financial matters. Although parliament resumes for a short session May 31, Daladier is not required to give an account of his stewardship until July 31.

MEDICAL CARE IS WORRY TO SOCIETY

A steady financial drain caused by supervision and medical care of wards in free homes is worrying the finance committee of the Children's Aid Society, it was revealed at the monthly meeting on Tuesday. The finance committee is endeavoring to find some means of increasing the society's income or of lessening the bills with which they are faced.

The Superintendent, Miss Rachel Young, said there is no revenue allocated to the supervision and medical care of the wards in free homes, and she cited specific cases to show that in some homes the people could not finance the necessary medical treatment and dental care. Periodic visits made by a supervisor adds to the cost, she said.

If the children were housed in the shelter, or in a pay home, a charge could be levied on the municipality from which they came. Another source of possible revenue is compensation for court attendance by the superintendent.

Miss Young is to attend conferences in Toronto and Cobourg. The Jeanette Scott Chapter of the I.O.D.E. will no longer be able to supply shoes and footwear for the society's wards according to a letter from the regent. Reeve James Gifford presided in the absence of Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr. Miss Young reported that she had given 149 office interviews during March; made 150 visits; answered 160 telephone calls; and opened 222 letters.

Obstacle Explained

The attending officers explained that an obstacle to their selective recruiting policy was their inability to guarantee to the men who were employed in factories that there was no shadow of them losing their jobs during the period they spent in camp with the regiment. Simply a lack of general understanding that this was an obstacle in the path of the regiment's progress prevented a greater response from young men of the city of the calibre desired by the officers. If they were capable employees they were bound to be alert and efficient members of the Rangers, but in quite a number of instances they were deterred from enlisting or had actually withdrawn after joining up because of intimations in the past that in their absence at camp their places might be taken by other men who had no interest in the regiment.

Coincide With Camp

Many of the manufacturing companies were now giving their men holidays with pay, and it was regarded as practicable that the holiday period for men of the regiment could be adjusted to coincide with their time off in camp.

The prompt willingness of the manufacturers to assist the officers in their broad plans for making the Rangers one of the best militia units in the province was much appreciated by the officers, especially as it was an evidence of a new understanding of what Colonel Dewart and his associates are trying to accomplish and also of the value of the support of the manufacturers and of the general public.

CABINET APPROVES NEW ITALIAN PACT

LONDON, April 14—(AP).—The Cabinet, at its last session before Easter, to-day gave approval to the final draft of the Anglo-Italian pact of reconciliation which probably will be signed this week-end.

The Cabinet's action was taken two months after Premier Mussolini had hinted he would like to negotiate an understanding.

Also approved was the plan for Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary for War, to have a conversation with Mussolini April 23, the day after he arrives in Rome following an inspection visit to Malta.

Prime Minister Chamberlain planned Mr. Hore-Belisha's visit to Rome as a "personal touch" to the agreement with Italy. He will carry a message said to express the Prime Minister's personal satisfaction at the successful negotiation of the agreement.

Political commentators thought the talk between Mussolini and Hore-Belisha would be weighted with significance. The News Chronicle (Liberal) declared "it will be the War Minister's job to compete in blandishments with Hitler."

Chancellor Hitler of Germany is due to visit Mussolini in Rome in about three weeks.

THINK NATIONALLY BENNETT ADVISES TORONTO YOUTHS

TORONTO, April 14.—(CP).— A logical, scientific development of Canadian national resources and industries is essential if Canada's increasing urban population is to find employment, Conservative Leader R. B. Bennett believes.

Addressing the young men's section of the Toronto Board of Trade last night Mr. Bennett said the most significant economic change in recent Canadian history was the drift of people from the country to the cities and towns.

This drift might mean wider markets for those engaged in the production of food but it was closely linked with the problem of unemployment. With nearl ya million people on relief the importation of millions of dollars worth of goods which could be made in Canada was not desirable.

"We must deliberately, logically and scientifically proceed with the development of our resources," he said, and we must see that our people have equality of opportunity with others of other standards and lower standards of living who would compete with them. We must use every legislative means in our power to this end."

Drop Sectionalism.

At the same time Mr. Bennett appealed to his hearers to think nationally. Ontario capital should not all be employed in Ontario. It should find its way into the development of resources in Western Canada. As plants and industries were established there he believed much of the present sectional feeling would pass away.

Ontario was not Canada and neither was any other section. Provincial boundaries were not the boundaries of nationhood. People had been talking of provincial rights as if there were nine sovereignties when there could be only one.

Although there had never been a greater lack of unity in Canada than at present Mr. Bennett believed Canadians could win through to national unity with the spirit which made possible what Canada did from 1914 to 1918.

ARMY LEADERS ARE COMING TO CITY

Commissioner George L. Carpenter the commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army in Canada, Newfoundland, Bermuda, and Alaska will, accompanied by Mrs. Carpenter, visit the local corps on Saturday and Sunday of this week.

The commissioner is a widely-travelled officer. He is a native of Australia and has done good service in all parts of the world, his last command being in South America.

Mrs. Carpenter is a woman well known to the literary world. She has been in Peterborough on two previous occasions.

The services will be commenced with a welcome meeting on Saturday night at 8 o'clock. On Sunday, Easter, there will be an early march and services at 11, 3 and 7 o'clock, all in charge of the commissioner and Mrs. Carpenter. Brigadier Riches, divisional commander, will assist.

Easter Comes To Peterborough With Real Burst Of Color

Sales Are Reported Better This Easter Season Than Last Year

Peterborough shoppers venturing into streets tonight and Saturday can expect to be surrounded by a friendly army of gaily-colored rabbits, chickens and candy eggs, for almost every merchant, from the baker to the candlestick-maker, is flooding his display windows with the traditional tokens of Easter to catch the fancy of holiday buyers.

Omens of a fashionable Easter parade this Sunday were found at clothes counters, where the latest suits and dresses were accompanied with signs which read: "It's Easter-time—dress up," or similar demands to get into the spirit of the occasion.

Most stores selling women's goods reported sales for Easter, 1938, as high, if not higher than last Easter, and by a comparison of these shops and those catering to men, it was revealed that while women started to do their holiday shopping several days ago, men are just starting now. One men's store said its business since the first of the year had been down slightly from the same period last year, but that its Easter sales this year were a little higher than last.

Florists, as well as tailors proclaimed Easter as their busiest time of year. One when asked what kind of flowers people were buying this Easter called off a steady stream of varieties which the reporter thought must have included just about every kind.

"Hydrangeas lilies and South African violets are selling well this year," said the florist, "but then, so are roses, tulips, daffodils, sweet peas, snapdragons, narcissus and all kinds of spring flowers." Another florist attracted customers with a large white rabbit and several smaller dark ones on display nibbling their afternoon meal, while a department store selling flowers told people to "Be Gay With Color This Easter—Banish Winter From Your Home With These Vivid Sprays."

MRS. McLAUGHLIN CHASES 11 COWS

CHICAGO, April 14 (AP).—Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, former dancer, trailed along with the cows until they came home. Playing drover, she sloshed through mud behind 11 sullen cows at 2 a.m.

The events that Tuesday led her through the mud of a country lane began April 2, when she filed charges of cruelty to animals through neglect against August Hinterberg, 70, of Near Lake Forest.

Hinterberg made a deal with Angelo Menoni, of Highland Park, to sell, but Mrs. McLaughlin contended $250 wasn't enough for 11 cows, and Hinterberg, on her advice, declined to deliver the animals. Menoni got a replevin writ and trucked the cows to a farm. Mrs. McLaughlin's attorney got a similar writ in a higher court. A deputy seized the cows, but no truck to cart them away was available, so Mrs. McLaughlin, accompanied by the lawyer and the deputy, followed the cows home on foot.

By that time it was 2 a.m. The cows went to bed. Mrs. McLaughlin lingered to say she would fight the case with Menoni in circuit court at Waukegan, Ill., next Monday.

Mrs. McLaughlin is the wife of Major Fred McLaughlin, owner of Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey League. They won the Stanley Cup Tuesday night.

MINISTERS TAKE CHARGE PROGRAM KIWANIS LUNCHEON

The Peterborough Ministerial Association took complete charge at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club at noon to-day (Thursday) in celebration of the Easter season.

Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Anglican Church, occupied the chair in absence of Adjutant Neil Warrander of the Salvation Army, president of the Ministerial Association. The sudden death of his father in Toronto prevented Adjt. Warrander from attending the meeting, it was announced. Both the Club and the Association passed resolutions to forward expressions of condolence to the retiring president.

"This is a unique meeting and one that I hope will be continued from year to year," declared Canon Paterson. He paid tribute to the cooperation that exists between Kiwanis and the ministry, and to the fellowship between the various denominations of the Protestant clergy. "I believe the people of the city appreciate seeing that cooperation,

Rev. Parr Speaks.

The new president of the Peterborough Ministerial Association, Rev. M. C. Parr, of George Street United church, was introduced to the club as guest speaker, his first public appearance in his new post.

Idealism and service were cited by Mr. Parr as the most important functions of Christian mankind. "We need a perfect loyalty to a perfect ideal in the world to-day," he said.

"If we look at some of the individuals who shamble along our streets to-day, we have only to look into the faces of some of them to find the answer. True, some of them have been unfortunate, but most have not had the hilltop view." The successful man has had a high view and he has gained his position only after long years of firm determination and steady hard work, he said. No man can succeed without a vision beyond his own powers, he claimed.

"Let self respect rule and be the table supported by the strong legs of honesty, justice, self-control, fortitude, and Christ the Lord," he said.

Self Control Needed.

"Never in the history of the world have we been called upon to exert so much self control in life as we are to-day," the speaker said. The world is in need of social justice to-day," he said.

One is glad to know when speaking to a men's service club that the members who comprise that club are interested in uplifting the moral standards of the community, the speaker declared.

He deplored incluences of men of "stagnant lives who pollute the moral outlook of fellow citizens."

Idealism has come because more than 1900 years ago a Man came and served, but in this day and age we are too indifferent to Christian service, he said.

"We have a wrong idea of the best and most important things in life. The best things in life are not lands and bonds and political security, but spiritual service. The indifference shown to Christian service is unworthy of every one of us. This season challenges us to take Him as our ideal in service. He is the master workman whom we look to for our example of spiritual service.

"In business there never has been a time in the history of the world in which the need for some idealism is needed. The principles of business to-day are graded in the great principles of Jesus Christ."

Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Knox United church and Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist church, sang a duet and Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe a solo during the musical portion of the meeting. Rev. R. T. F. Brain of St. John's Anglican church, moved a vote of thanks to the Kiwanis club. Other guests were Rev. Boyter of Park St. Baptist church, Rev. Fred Craik of St. James' United church, Rev. George Easton of Trinity United church.

Kiwanian Saunders moved a vote of thanks to Rev. Mr. Parr and the Ministerial Association. "I have been a member of the Kowanis club for 12 years and this is the first time we have had anything like this. I hope it will not be the last," he said.

CROLL IN FAVOR

WINDSOR, Ont., April 14 (CP)—Windsor Board of Education's resolution asking the Ontario government to assume 50 per cent of the costs of education is supported by David A. Croll, member of the Ontario legislature for Windsor-Walkerville, according to a letter read to the board last night.

Croll noted that when a resolution was recently submitted to the legislature asking that 50 per cent of secondary schools cost be borne by the province, he offered to support it if it were amended to include primary schools.

Typewriter Theft Admitted In Court

Three youths, who were charged with breaking into St. Peter's School and committing theft and who pleaded not guilty, changed their plea to guilty when brought before Magistrate Langley this morning.

Crown Attorney McElderry said that an old typewriter, a useless sort of thing, had been stolen. "It was a foolish theft," he remarked.

"It was done in a spirit of adventure," suggested W. B. Gordon, who appeared for one of the accused, and asked for suspended sentence. Magistrate Langley decided to reserve sentence in all four cases until Wednesday next.

A charge against Richard O'Rourke of breaking into St. Peter's School was dismissed when the Crown declared it would not submit any evidence.

Slump Starts U.S. Dumping Her Goods Into Canada

Senator Claims American Textile Flow Causing Eastern Firms To Lay Off Men

EDMONTON, April 14.—(CP). — Business recession in the United States has led to "dumping" of merchandise in Canada said Senator W. A. Griesbach who returned to his home here yesterday from Ottawa.

The United States recession, said Senator Griesbach in an interview, "manifests itself in Canada by the dumping of United States goods in this country."

"American textiles," he said, 'are coming in in large quantities and eastern textile concerns are laying of men and running part time. This decrease in manufacture in Canada is not so marked in woollens as it is in other fabrics.

'It is reported that eastern wholesalers in the boot trade are being offered U. S. boots at 89 cents a pair when the Canadian manufactured price for the similar boot is somewhat over $3."

The one remedy, said Senator Griesbach, was imposition of stiff duties to prevent the dumping of goods at prices below the home price.

MILLBROOK

INSTITUTE MEETS AT NEEDHAM HOME

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, April 14.—Miss M. E. Needham entertained the Women's Institute for its April meeting this week, fifteen members and one visitor being in attendance.

The chair was taken by the vice-president, Mrs. E. C. Richards, in the absence of the president, Mrs. R. J. McKnight. Correspondence, read by the secretary, Mrs. J. W. Hilton, included a receipt for the $2 sent to the Chinese Relief fund; the Government grant of $3.00; and information regarding the Girls' Convention to be held at the O. A. C., Guelph, on May 10, 11, 12 and 13. It was decided to vote six dollars toward the board for the two girls, Kathleen Smith, and Marian Belch, who will represent the local Girls' Klim Club. The leader, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, reported that the club will give a tea to raise the money needed for travelling expenses.

Postpone Library Project

It was decided to put off having the W. I. Travelling Library until fall, and definite decision regarding the short course being offered by the Department was postponed until next month, when the meeting will be at Mrs. H. J. Armstrong's home, and the election of officers will take place.

Mrs. H. J. Armstrong brought up the matter of the project, "Refinishing Furniture," for which she is the local leader, pointing out that it takes eight days for the course, and any members who wish to take up this work when the leader has had the training, will be obliged to give that amount of time to it.

Miss Needham gave an interesting paper on the revision of fall fair prize lists, and a brief report of the convention she attended in the fall at Toronto in connection with the Institute's share in making fall fairs a success, and after the usual votes of thanks, the meeting was dismissed.

Grain Out In Alberta Is Up Already

Coutts, Alta., April 14. (CP). FIRST appearance of new spring wheat above the ground was reported today by Lawrence Heireth, farmer living fourteen miles north of this town which is located on the international border. Heireth seeded his field before the March storms.

"It's coming along in great shape," he said.

SMITH COUNCIL ACCEPTS TENDERS ROAD OPERATORS

The Municipal Council of the Township of Smith met in the County Council Chamber on Saturday. All the members were present, with Reeve Mann presiding.

The communications were then read and filed. Tax Collector J. A. Middleton was present and reported as follows:

Total original roll for 1937, $41,-861.34; total collected to date, $36,-590.93; total balance due, $5,270.41; total collected since last meeting, $384.38.

Moved and seconded and carried, that the time for the collector to return his roll be extended until Monday, May 2, which will be the date of the next Council meeting, to be held at 10 a.m.

Moved, seconded and carried, that the Reeve be given authority to sign a certificate of municipal approval to authorize the issuing of Provincial public hall license to John Douglas, covering Chemong Park Pavilion.

Moved by M. Clark, seconded by G. McIlmoyle, that the clerk advertise three times in the Peterborough Examiner for tenders for the collection of garbage in Chemong Park and adjacent areas for the season of 1938, being from June 15 to September 15, 1938, the notices to appear on April 14, April 21 and April 26, said tenders to be in the clerk's hands by 8 p.m. on April 29, 1938. All conditions may be seen at the clerk's office.

A bylaw to enlarge the garbage collection area to include the northerly half of Lot No. 10 and all Lot No. 12, east of Simcoe Street, on registered plan No. 4 for said township was given its first, second and third reading and was passed.

A deputation from the new School Section No. 13 waited on the council and presented a petition asking that there be building restrictions up to a fair value placed in all the newly formed school district, to prevent the erection of shacks which lower the value of adjacent property.

Moved, seconded and carried, that the council accept R. McConkey's tender for running the grader and M. Millar's tender for the crusher for 1938.

Peter Pike. TOP, or Ésox Lucius to the more scientific-minded, has that bump under his mid section because he ate a lady pike at the department of commerce's acquarium in Washington. The pike Peter swallowed was larger than the one shown swimming below him. Aquarium Director Fred G. Orsinger, is wondering today just how long it will be before Peter actually bursts. P.S—The victim was Peter's wife.

MOBILE EASTER GIVES MODERNS AN OLD DEBATE

Right you are, Easter on April 17 is late this year but it might be eight days later and on various occasions in the present generation has gone the limit in lingering in the lap of Spring. This movable feast has a wide spread for its wanderings—anytime from March 22 to April 25.

Nowadays, the annual festival observed throughout Christendom to commemorate the resurrection of Jesus Christ is marked on the Gregorian calendar for the first Sunday after the full moon following the vernal equinox—when the sun crosses the equator on its way north in the Spring.

Unlike some Christian festivals there is no taint of paganism in Easter's origin but the controversy over the date of celebration is as old as Christianity itself. For many centuries the so-called eastern churches argued with the western on this question. The council of Nicaea in A. D. 325 tried to settle it but the vagaries of the sun and moon thwarted the well-intentioned efforts of the ecclesiastics by appearing at varied times in different longitudes.

Corrections to the Gregorian calendar in 1582 smoothed matters to some extent but it was not until 1752 that Great Britain and Ireland and British possessions got into step with other nations for Easter. Some of the eastern churches still ignore the Gregorian calendar in this respect and their Easter may fall either before or after the date kept by the majority of Christian countries.

In Calendar Reform

There is a modern trend to the controversy over the date of Easter in the effect of its mobility on the case for calendar reform. Sponsors of the proposed "world calendar"—all years alike and all quarters equal—point to the movability of Easter as one of the grave defects of the present set-up of dates.

"As a result school and college heads have sizeable—and recurrent vacation problems," writes Jane Corby in the Journal of Calendar Reform. "Women are equally affected with men, on all these counts, of course, but they also have a more personal interest in the vagaries of the calendar . . . Grave losses are laid to the calendar, just on Easter's account. If it's too early people go on wearing their winter clothes and buy no spring togs; if it's very late, everybody thinks it's too late to bother about spring clothes anyway."

Promoters of the new calendar would spot Easter on some Sunday in March or April—stabilize it through a conference of Christian denominations.

While the origin and object of Easter is strictly Christian the name itself, also the German designation "Ostern" like the days of the week, is thought to be derived from the feast of the Teutonic goddess "Eostre" or "Ostera" worshipped by Saxons of past centuries as the divinity of springs. Names of the days of the week were taken from the same Teutonic mythology.

Home Improvement Loans Have Proved Satisfactory

Peterborough Banks Well Satisfied With Results Of 1937 Loans

Loans issued last year under the Home Improvement Plan of the Federal Government have been more than satisfactory to the banks, according to information received today by the Examiner. Payments have been made promptly by the borrowers who obtained the money for various improvements to their houses, and the business has been entirely acceptable to the bankers.

The manager of one bank said that business has been continuing this year although on a smaller scale than in 1937 when an intensive educational campaign was carried on in the press to acquaint people of the advantages of the plan and the steps by which loans could be arranged at the banks.

"I think we made as many loans as any other bank," said a manager, "and our experience has been entirely pleasant. We have one man who occasionally gets behind in his payments for a week or so, but he always comes through. We have had no default whatever, and I have every reason to believe that the people who obtained the loans are well satisfied with the accommodation they received. Possibly people do not realize that the Home Improvement Plan is still available to them. We have had quite a number of inquiries and we have made some loans already this year, but the total amount is considerably less than last spring."

FIRE OUSTS FIVE

OTTAWA, April 14—(CP).—Fifty-five persons, some of them only partly clad, left their homes early today when fire of undetermined origin broke out in an eight-tenement row on Lorne Avenue in the west end of the city. All were able to return to their homes within an hour, however, as the fire, starting in the summer kitchen of one of the houses, was extinguished before serious damage resulted.

JUDGE REACHES 70

OTTAWA, April 14—(CP).—Mr. Justice O. S. Crocket of the Supreme Court of Canada celebrated his 70th birthday to-day. Born in Chatham, N.B., he was called to the Bar in 1892, was a member of Parliament for York, N.B., from 1904 to 1913, and was elevated to the Supreme Court of New Brunswick in 1913. He was appointed to the Supreme Court of Canada in 1932.

P.E.I. MAY TEST LIQUOR CONTROL

CHARLOTTETOWN, April 14. —(CP).—If a system of government control of liquor sales would aid Prince Edward Island in overcoming its financial troubles, Hon. John A. Campbell, minister without portfolio, "would be willing to try it," he said in the Legislature last night.

(Prince Edward Island is the only Canadian province in which prohibition still is in effect).

"Never thought I would come down to it, but if a system of government control would benefit, I would be willing to try it," he said.

"That is a poor way to get rich," interposed Angus McPhee (Second District of King's.)

"We don't want to get rich, my friend, but we want a fair share of what is coming," replied Mr. Campbell.

FINED FOR MARIJUANA

TORONTO, April 14. — (CP). — Samuel Morrison, 19, colored, was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $200 after he pleaded guilty in police court today to a charge of having marijuana. Failure to pay the fine entails another six-month term.

8-MILE ADVANCE WILL LET REBELS RAKE COAST ROAD

HENDAYE, France, April 14. —(AP).—The extreme flanks of General Franco's Catalonian front advanced slowly today despite reinforcement of the Government's aviation arm. After a month of almost continuous fighting the extended insurgent pressing movement seemed about to cut Catalonia's lines of communication, north and south.

At the southern end of the 160-mile battlefront insurgents claimed capture of the key city of San Mateo. Troops commanded by Generals Garcia Valino and Miguel Aranda established themselves on a front more than 18 miles broad along the last of the rocky ridges separating them from the Mediterranean. Almost foot by foot they forced stubborn Government defenders from their trenches and machine gun nests.

Although they were 12 miles from the sea, an advance of seven or eight more miles would attain their practical objective, as their guns then would sweep the coastal highway, last link between Barcelona and Valencia.

Hill Post Falls.

Previously insurgents reported capturing Chert, three miles northeast of San Mateo, and Cherta, about the same distance northwest of Tortosa, where Government militia was entrenched solidly in hills defending the narrow defile through which the Ebro River flows.

On the far northern wing, insurgents said they were within 12 miles of the French frontier after a whirlwind advance up the Esera River Valley. The flying column was at Bisaurri. Farther to the east other units were aiming at Seo de Urgel and the border of the tiny principality of Andorra.

The small principality snuggled in the Pyrenees between France and Spain was placed under martial law by French troops called in by Andorran authorities to protect the frontier from any violation by insurgent troops and to care for the influx of Spanish refugees.

WIDELY TRAVELLED

LONDON, Ont., April 14—(CP).—Mrs. Christina Wardroper, London widow, came to Judge A. A. Ingram's non-jury county court today, in an attempt to get $1,100 from the Canadian Pacific Railway because her thumb was jammed in a washroom door on a Trans-Continental flier 18 months ago.

Witnesses for the defence have been brought half-way across the continent. The railway has employees in London from Calgary and Edmonton.

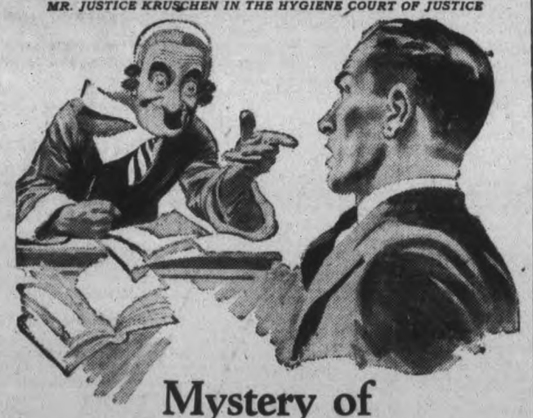
Pet Cat Goes Wild Bites Baby

St. Methode, Que., April 14. (CP). A CAT that went wild here had to be killed before it released the finger of a 17-months-old baby.

The child, son of Osias Villeneuve of this Frontenac County village, was playing on the floor, when the family cat leaped at the baby and began chewing one finger.

The child's screams attracted Mrs. Villeneuve, who tried vainly to pry open the cat's mouth with a table knife. When this failed, she struck the cat on the head and killed it.

MR. JUSTICE KRUSCHEN IN THE HYGIENE COURT OF JUSTICE



Mystery of Bank Clerk's Failure

JUDGE: Were you a failure at school?

PRISONER: No, my lord. I was a good student and captain of the football team.

JUDGE: Ah! I think I can solve this mystery. Tell me, prisoner — how many games of football do you get every week now?

PRISONER: Why, I can only play once a week—on Saturdays—at the most.

JUDGE: Thank you. That will do. This case is as clear as daylight.

PRISONER: (excitedly): Oh, sir, I'm sure I'd be fit if I could exercise more often. I'm not getting half enough fresh air or exercise nowadays.

JUDGE: Fresh air? What's the good of talking about fresh air when you work in the city? What you want, young man, is something to make up for this inevitable lack of exercise. Something to keep your system from becoming sluggish. Something to keep you clean and fresh and regular internally, just as you were at school when you were playing games every day. And that something is Kruschen Salts.

PRISONER: I sometimes take Epsom Salts, my lord. Wouldn't that have the same effect?

JUDGE: Epsom alone is not good enough. Nature designed your system to need several different salts and in Kruschen all those salts are found. Each little daily dose of Kruschen contains exactly one day's supply, exactly the right amount to keep all your organs—liver, kidneys, stomach and everything—tuned up to perfect fitness. Kruschen is more than ever necessary at this time of the year, because it is a valuable tonic.

PRISONER: Thank you for explaining that so clearly, my lord. I am really glad to know how to keep fit.

JUDGE: That's right! Now go back to your work, and we'll soon see you the smartest, keenest man in your office. But remember that regularity is the thing. It's the little daily dose that does it.

KRUSCHEN SALTS

relieve constipation and rheumatism

Kruschen is a combination of several mineral salts which your body must get, in some way, to keep the blood pure, the inside clean, and the system generally toned up, but which you can't get in Nature's own way without abundant exercise and fresh air. You should have those salts every day; hence the importance of the "little daily dose". Every drug counter sells Kruschen in 25c, 45c and 75c bottles. It's the little daily dose that does it.

NO MORE WASHDAY SLAVERY

With this Amazing 15-Minute Soaking Soap

Gets White Clothes 4 to 5 Shades Whiter Without Scrubbing or Boiling—Yet SAFE for Washable Colors, Hands

NOW make "blue Mondays" a thing of the past. Put an end to tedious rubbing and scrubbing—and the nagging washday backaches they so frequently bring.

For here is a new "no-scrub" soap that actually soaks out dirt in 15 minutes. A faster soap that brings white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter—in 25% to 40% less time.

This new creation is called OXYDOL—and does these four amazing things:—

(1) Soaks out dirt in 15 minutes. No scrubbing, no boiling. Even "grimy" collar bands come clean with a quick rub. (2) Gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter, proved by scientific Tintometer tests. (3) Cuts washing time 25% to 40%, in tub or machine. Yet so safe that every washable color comes out sparkling, brilliant, fresh!

Oxydol is economical, too. Tests show that a single cup of it makes as much brisk, lively suds as three cupfuls of other soaps tested. So it's a money-saver, too.

In your own interest, try OXYDOL without delay. See for yourself how much time and labor it saves. At all dealers. For utmost economy and convenience, ask for the "Giant Size." Procter & Gamble.

The Man—Not The System

Controller Hamilton of Toronto has a new idea about the right way to govern the city of Toronto. At present the city has a mayor, four controllers and eighteen aldermen elected by the ward system. The suggestion is that eight controllers be elected and the one receiving the highest vote shall become the mayor.

Controller Hamilton does not like the ward system. He says a good many expenditures have their origin when members on committees back a project which means something to "their ward" and not much to the rest of the city. Another complaint is that influence is often traded; that is, aldermen from Ward 1 will support a project in Ward 2 if the aldermen from Ward 2 agree to support something which is wanted in Ward 1. So the controller looks for better days when there are fewer aldermen and they are all elected by general vote.

Toronto could get along with fewer aldermen, but whether doing away with the ward system will bring in a better system of civic management is doubtful. For a number of years cities have been changing from this way to that way and then back again. Our belief is that the honesty and mental capacity of the men elected is of more importance than the method by which they are chosen. Toronto can experiment but it will find the same thing.

Can We Play Hockey?

The world professional hockey championship, and with it the Stanley Cup, has gone to Chicago. The Maple Leaf team from Toronto was looked upon as good enough to defeat the Chicago Hawks, but they did not do it and are offering no excuses.

Perhaps we have made a mistake in taking it for granted that Canadians had a monopoly on producing hockey players. For a long time the professional teams in United States have drawn on this country for their players. The teams have looked like a collection of Canadians wearing U.S. uniforms.

But this Chicago team has been aiming to be an all-American affair and it has come close enough to succeeding. Eight of the Chicago Hawks were U.S. born although several of them learned their hockey in this country. It is also a fact that an American coach had charge of the play and strategy which brought the Hawks to the top.

It is very likely we will continue to produce more and better hockey players in Canada than they will in United States. Hockey is more our game than it is theirs; we would have more "hockey towns" than United States. But that win of the Hawks may serve from making us too certain that we have a monopoly on producing hockey players. One can argue about the matter until dusk, but the blunt fact is that the Stanley Cup has crossed the border.

Rank Of The Tenant

The North Bay Nugget says $600,000 is required yearly to run North Bay, and claims that but 25 per cent. of the population is contributing to this amount. From the Nugget we quote:

"With 25 per cent. of the citizens, property owners, meeting the annual municipal government bill, it figures at $150 per capita. . ."

There is nothing in the Nugget's figures to show what percentage of the people in North Bay are owners of their homes, but there must be people who rent houses in which to live or carry on business. These people are contributing to the expenses of operating the city just as surely as the property owner. A man in Peterborough was discussing this question only a few days ago. This he said:

> I am a tenant, but I cannot see where there is any difference between that and being a landlord. The man in whose house I live is not in this city at all; he does not do his shopping here, and he never spends a cent in this city. I pay the rent for the house and out of that he pays the taxes and has a little something left over. It is actually my money which is going to the city treasury, so I am helping to keep things going here just as surely as though I were the owner of the house in which I am living."

What this tenant claims is both correct and incorrect. As long as he is paying sufficient rent to carry the place and leave a return to the owner he is correct. But if that house stands empty for a few months, or if repairs are excessive and what he pays in rent is not enough to meet the demands on the property then the landlord is the individual who must step in and make good the deficit. The party in whose name the house is registered is the one to whom the city looks for its taxes on that property and he is primarily responsible. The risk is his and if the taxes are not paid he is liable to be sued or he can be made to lose his property entirely. The tenant is not subject to any of these risks. He pays for something he wants—that is, a place in which to live. He is not primarily responsible for the payment of taxes as the city makes its demand on the owner of the place. So while the tenant's money is undoubtedly making its way to the civic treasury he ranks below the landlord in the official eyes of the city.

Simple And Direct

The word constitution when applied to the document which regulates the affairs of a nation is a rather formidable one. It leaves an impression of something about which statesmen speak, wrangle and disagree. Whether it is proper to refer to the British North America Act as our constitution is not quite certain. Whether it is a voluminous document we do not know, never having seen it. We know it is not located in our country at all, but is in safe keeping in London.

But there is a constitution on the desk today. It arrived from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and on the cover it is printed "New Constitution of the United States of Brazil." It starts at the first line with a "Whereas" and that in itself seems right enough. It is interesting to note that it is plainly stated there was a change made in the government whereby political parties in general were barred because the "infiltration of communism which was growing daily more widespread and deeper calls forth for a remedy both radical and permanent in character."

The new constitution is worded simply. Thus we read:

> Art. 1. Brazil is a Republic. Political power emanates from the people and is exercised in their name and in the interest of their well-being, their honor, their independence and their prosperity.
>
> Art. 2. The use of the National flag, hymn, coat-of-arms and shield is obligatory throughout the country. There will be no other flags, hymns, shields and coat-of-arms. The use of these national symbols will be regulated by law.

The wording of the constitution throughout seems simple and direct, and the manner of printing and distributing copies is the same. The original may be formidable enough in appearance but in the copy sent here we find a little booklet just 3¼ x 4½ inches in size, one which can go in a man's upper vest pocket and sink out of sight. By handing out copies of a nation's constitution in that size the people would probably come to know a good deal more about it than we in Canada know of our own.

When Pigs Don't Eat

We are indeed living in a scientific age. There was a picture of a presentable young lady in one of the Toronto papers recently, and it was explained that she is the micro-analyst in the Plants Products Branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture.

And what does she do? If a manufacturer makes a product for live stock or poultry or any such thing this young lady—Jean McGugan to be exact—analyzes samples to see that the product lives up to the claims made for it. If it is stated there are vitamins in the stuff then we take it that Jean must start searching about to make certain they are tucked away in the product.

We are informed that within recent times a farmer found that his pigs refused to eat a certain kind of prepared food. A sample was sent to Miss McGugan, and she said it was no wonder the pigs would not eat it because it had gone rancid. In which case we suppose the vitamins would do the same thing.

Perhaps the pigs themselves in this day are getting a trifle particular regarding what they eat. Now that they have been elevated to the point where they are participants in the world-wide bacon trade they may feel a bit snootish. As we recall pigs they always were ready for meals. They became restless about the time of day when the whey can in season was left outside the gate on the round of the wagon from the cheese factory. And there were a number of things which went into the mixing before the results were placed in the pig trough. It is hard indeed to recall the time when the hogs stood back with turned-up snouts and refused to eat. Most times they were so anxious to eat that they got their feet in the trough and they never seemed to be much on shoving over to make room for another pig.

But now we learn the hogs are turning up their snouts, after which the farmer sends off to Miss McGugan to see what's the matter. Yes, things are going modern.

An Old System Revived

Alberta is going in for a new method of taxing the farmers. The cash is for the financing of rural municipalities and also for operating a system of crop insurance. As a rule when a government spends money it takes the money from the people. The newer method in Alberta is to take produce—not cash—from the farmers. There used to be a number of newspaper offices where people paid for the paper in either cordwood or maple syrup, but a government going in on that basis is something different. Mr. Aberhart's government is going to make certain it can be done legally, so the legislation will be tested in the courts before it is set in motion.

The farmer is called upon to deliver to the government seven per cent. of his production in kind, and the collection is to be done by dealers who in turn hand it over to the government. A government is in a favored position that way; it can always commission others to do its work. The system is not new; in fact it is very old. It harks back to the feudal days and away back to the time of Confucious in China.

If farmers or others are to be taxed then the idea of basing the taxation on production is fair enough. It would be somewhat the same as basing all urban taxation on income. Probably the people in the Alberta government know how the tax is going to be collected, but on the face of things it looks like a big piece of business which in the end would be more expensive than having the farmers do their selling and then hand over seven per cent. to the government.

If a farmer were raising nothing but wheat or oats then the method would be plain enough; if he sold 1,000 bushels then the government would become possessed of 70 of those bushels. But when the farmer has eleven bacon hogs for sale—what about it? Some one has already asked how the government is going to get its seven per cent. of a young heifer if the farmer decides he is not going to sell it. He has produced it but the tax apparently comes only when he sells. Is there any law to force a man to sell?

The system proposed in Alberta may be equitable enough, but the method of working it out will need a good deal of explaining. It looks as though it might be complicated and expensive.

He Had A Message

Chief Grey Owl, deservedly the best known Indian on the continent, was in Peterborough about a month ago. Now he is dead in Prince Albert, Sask. He loved the forest from which he came; in his own intense and kindly way he loved the animals in it; he was certain they had more right to live than human beings had to kill them.

Grey Owl went on a lecture tour which took in Great Britain, many points in United States and a few places in Canada. When he was in Peterborough he performed a kindly visit to a little Indian lad who had been in hospital for many weeks. He visited him and conversed with him.

During his visit in Peterborough this distinguished Indian told a reporter from the Examiner that he was very tired and that the long trip he had made was hard on him. His own expression was that another month of this "will kill me." Almost within that time he has gone. He was a man with a great message.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Uncle Sam is contemplating spending five billion dollars on a recovery program. You should be able to buy a lot of recovery for that much money.

The summer holiday season for Ontario schools has been extended until after Labor Day, and parents as well as pupils and teachers will regard the change as entirely sensible.

The Austrian-German union has been endorsed by 99 per cent of the voters. It is not known when the firing parties will deal with the one per cent who registered a minority report.

March proved a record month for the Home Improvement Loan campaign. It is a healthy sign, this desire on the part of Canadians to better their home surroundings.

Forty-nine Chinese were arrested in Quebec for playing fan-tan. Probably they thought themselves lucky in being caught at that game rather than playing checkers with the Japanese army.

It is said that rural crime is on the increase at the present time. We thought skulduggery reached its peak in the country each year about the time the harvest apples ripen.

John Janicky, Ukranian market gardener in York Township, has perfected a new tomato that is expected to capture the United Kingdom market for Canada. There is a new Canadian who has made a great contribution to his adopted country.

DREAMS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When little Joe was but a lad, some things he wanted powerful bad, he longed for bits of chalk; he liked to color pictures in, they say at that why he'd begin, before he learned to talk.

¶ And later on he took a pen, sketched trees, and fields and skies and men, drew houses old and quaint; just one thing more he craved to do, to give his sketches life and hue, he wanted bits of paint.

¶ He dreamed of when he'd be a man, and work like only artists can, he dreamed his dream alone; he'd close his eyes and he could see, the flowing stream, the budding tree, and mountains built of stone.

¶ When Joe grew up a bit he found, he sort of had to stick around, he couldn't leave his home; some person had to earn the bread, so Joe he went to work instead, and dreamed his dream alone.

¶ He figured that in years to come, perhaps he'd get his pictures done, he waited for that day; but Joe kept winning bread for years, till hair turned grey above his ears, he put his dream away.

¶ I guess there's lots of folk that way, who dream of what they'll do some day, they'll trod the path toward fame; but chores come early and stay late, and they can only hope and wait—the chance that never came.

Cannot Employ The Apprentice

Canadian Parliamentary Report

Mr. ROGERS: The whole question is that apprenticeship is and always has been a matter of provincial jurisdiction. That is the position at the present time.

Mr. MASSEY: So is education, as far as that goes, but we invaded the technical education field because we felt it was absolutely necessary to do so.

Mr. MARTIN: Only through grants in aid.

Mr. MASSEY: The hon. member for Essex East told us that in this chamber.

Mr. MARTIN: Only through the agency of grants in aid.

Mr. MASSEY: The hon. member follows me to-day much better than he usually does. He has my congratulations.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): I wonder if the hon. member of Greenwood would tell us what he thinks of the advisability and desirability of industry setting up an apprenticeship system as an economic measure, not as a government aided scheme at all, but for its own sake, for the sake of the community, and as some return for the great favours that have been shown to industry in this country by the public and by governments.

Mr. MASSEY: If industry were to return to the present government the great favours" shown to it by that government there would be no apprenticeship system at all. On the other hand, I appreciate the purport of the question asked by the hon. member for Melfort, and if he had not spoiled it by a political reference I would have answered it quite readily.

Mr. SPENCE: He cannot help it.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): It is an economic reference. In all sincerity I say that economically speaking this country has granted great privileges and great favours to organized city industry. My question is a sincere one, asked in order to get information from the hon. member, who has given much study to this question, as to the possibility of developing the apprenticeship system along economic lines.

Mr. MASSEY: I think it can be done, and perforce must be done. Of course it is being done, but not to the extent that it was done at one time or to which it might be carried on by industry itself. But there are some industries which, as a result of their own economic experience find it extraordinarily difficult to set up and maintain an apprenticeship system, because they are not able themselves to absorb those whom they apprentice, and are therefore paying their own money for the apprenticeship of young men and young women who are going into other industries; and they cannot afford that experience.

CITY SNOBBERY.

(Johannesburg Times)

"THE MORE WE get together," declared Miss Cicely Hamilton, "the stupider we are. The most intelligent people come from small countries." Had Miss Hamilton substituted "towns" for "countries" in her comment we might have blushed modestly and murmured something about those "more brains to the square inch" of which Johannesburg has for so long boasted; but since Africa cannot, by any stretch of imagination, claim to be a small country, we must accept Miss Hamilton's devastating dictum and turn to the question of snobbery. England, probably, can produce the finest and most varied selection of snobs in the world, from the classic case of King Edward VII's nominee being black-balled by a club on account of his being in "trade," to the fatuous female who was recently convicted for fitting a hooter to her motor car with the identical note of that reserved exclusively for the King and Queen.

BORROWED FOR RELIEF.

(Toronto Star)

TORONTO has gone on borrowing for unemployment relief purposes until this year's civic estimates show a funded relief debt of nearly $9,000,000 despite the annual repayments of principal. These, with interest, cost the ratepayers almost $2,500,000 in their 1938 tax bills. In addition, they pay $900,000 and administration costs on the present year's relief, leaving $1,500,000 to be borrowed.

What is to be the final outcome of this continued borrowing for relief involving, as it does, the issue of debentures for which there is no corresponding physical asset?

"LEST WE FORGET"

Lest we forget while traveling life's highway,
And earthly interests crowd to fill our day,
Lest we should thru success, forget Love's way,
Let us Remember Calvary.

Lest we forget another's grief or pain,
Or that the future and flowers need the rain,
Lest gratitude be lost in greed or gain,
Let us Remember Calvary.

Lest we forget when sorrow comes or
Or lest we feel we don't deserve our fate,
Or make our services too small, too late,
Let us Remember Calvary.

Lest we forget when sorrow comes or loss,
That gold to be refined must lose the dross,
The brightest crown was won but by the cross,
Let us Remember Calvary.

Lest we forget in valleys of despair,
And feel no one does understand or care,
There was Another hoped and trusted there,
Let us Remember Calvary.

Lest we forget we owe our lives to Thee.
And in our weakness boast of liberty,
With blinded eyes God's goodness fail to see.
Let us Remember Calvary.

Took a Real Jab at Roosevelt.

(Montreal Star)

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT "put his neck out" when he urged on the Reorganization Bill—and got it badly whacked by an angry Congress. The House of Representatives took the Bill, a wraith of what it had been, and threw it out, with 108 of the President's own party helping to act as bouncers.

Since then editors and political observers in the United States have been busy trying to estimate the size of the slice that has been taken from the Presidential prestige. Some say that he lost as much as he did over the Supreme Court reorganization measure, others that he lost still more. Practically all agree that the House sent home a wicked, telling punch.

Congress had been burning for the chance. For four years it had to sit ready to move at the lifting of a Presidential finger. But since its successful mutiny over the judiciary bill it has been fuming and sputtering, waiting for the chance of another smack at the President that would show just what a free and independent body it is. It cut and thrust at Administration measures, changed them, held them up, and made a nuisance of itself.

Then the big opportunity came over the Reorganization Bill. In the Senate the bill was whittled to a splinter of what it had been. But the House wasn't bothering particularly about the actual provisions, and whether or not they would make for greater efficiency. It wanted to swing at the President; it did.

As the recession has ground deeper and deeper, like a dentist's drill, many people in the United States, including a number who have been staunch supporters of Roosevelt, have grown more and more peeved at the Administration. They wanted to see the President taking greater pains to encourage the sick patient of business, being careful not to say and do things that would weaken it further. Surveys of the American Institute of Public Opinion indicate that the percentage of the population who favoured the President declined markedly through the winter.

But because the President has been soundly thumped by Congress and has been losing some support in the country it does not mean that his days of power are finished. Congress had a private grudge of its own to pay back, and the opinions of the Representatives would be stronger on the subject than that of ordinary voters.

What is more, the Administration is starting on a spending campaign. It is one thing to plump against a government reorganization bill, another to down the spending money, always popular somewhere. And whoever votes the money, Roosevelt has the spending of it—the most concrete source of prestige. As it is, a number of business authorities have been saying that spending was necessary although many are still against it.

Could Deluge Us With Wealth.

(Letter in Montreal Star)

SIR,— WHAT are those "sound economics," upon which, we are constantly told, our public policy should be based? Looking up a little book, written by the best known of Canadian economists, I read:—"Unemployment, in the case of the willing and able, is a social crime. Every democratic Government must henceforth take as the starting point of its industrial policy that there shall be no such thing as able-bodied men and women 'out of work'—looking for occupation and unable to find it. Work must either be found or it must be provided by the State itself." (The Unsolved Riddle).

Turning to the best known of British economists, J. M. Keynes. I find him saying:— "We might, if we choose, be raising our standard of life by a measurable percentage every year." Another outstanding British economist, D. H. Robertson, writes:—"The world deliberately adopts a standard of comfort lower than that which is within its reach." The world-known physicist, Prof. F. Soddy, declares:—"Civilization could deluge us in wealth as easily as it deluged the soldiers in munitions." Lord Beaverbrook insisted:— "This crisis is not a crisis of famine but a crisis of plenty: the world has more goods than it knows what to do with." The famous economist, Sir Arthur Salter, in his book "Recovery" wrote:— "Our material resources are enough to afford to every one of our citizens, physical comfort, adequate leisure and access to everything in our rich heritage of civilization that he has the personal quality to enjoy."

In face of such repeated and authoritative pronouncements (by the people who know what "sound economics" are, if anyone on earth does) it is intolerable that such absurdities as unemployment, destitution, overcrowding, or in fact poverty in any form, should be accepted with resignation, as inevitable or necessary. "Sound economics" demand the abolition of these irrational and disgusting anomalies. In insisting that whatever is desirable and physically possible, shall be made financially possibe, we are asking for nothing that is not reasonable, logical and compatible with "sound economics."

Running Short on Pioneer Spirit.

(Ottawa Journal)

SPEAKING IN Montreal on Thursday night Mr. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Resources, warned there was too much tendency in Canada to depend on government. He added it would be an unfortunate day for the country if it loses the pioneer spirit, the "enterprise and initiative which have helped open this immense Dominion."

Admirable talk. But Mr. Crerar is a distinguished and influential member of a Government which, like its predecessors, is content to pay the "pioneer spirit" lip service. There is not much of the "pioneer spirit" in what is told by rows of figures one finds in our Public Accounts.

Indeed, at the moment that Mr. Crerar was lauding the "pioneer spirit" in Montreal, word was coming from Parliament Hill that Mr. Crerar's colleagues were contemplating a $25,000,000 expenditure to prime the employment pump.

Actually, the "pioneer spirit" in this country today seems to be about as dead as that other extinct species we used to call "rugged individualism". It has been killed by parternalism, by governments, egged on by "rugged individualists" going in for this piece of collectivism and that. If there is a single activity of life now that government hasn't some hand in, with some officer of the State to advise us what to do, or to tell us what to do, or to supervise anything else we may want to do, it would be hard to locate. The pity of the thing is that we seem to like it; that it feeds upon itself.

Pioneer spirit! If our ancestors in Heaven ever hear us, what confounded hypocrites they must think we are.

Telling the Age of a Cow.

(E. J. Perry, in the Country Gentleman.)

IT IS POSSIBLE to tell the approximate age of a cow by the appearance, development and subsequent wear of her second incisor teeth. The knowledge of how to do this is eminently worth while when purchasing grade cattle. When a cow has horns one can gain a fair idea of her age by the number of rings near their base, but now the growth of horns is prevented on most grades by the application of caustic potash shortly after birth.

Cattle have eight incisor teeth, all in the lower jaw. The centre pair is sometimes called princers. At birth a calf has two or more of the temporary or first of these incisors. After the first month, the eight are present. Just prior to two years of age the middle pair, or princers are replaced by the permanents which at that age attain full development.

At from two and one half to three years, the permanent first intermednotes are cut and are in most instances fully developed at three years. At three and one half years the second intermediates, or laterals are cut. They are on a level with the first intermediates and begin to show wear at four years. At from four and one half to five years the corner teeth are replaced and the animal at five years has the full complement of permanent incisors, all fully developed.

Between five and six there is a leveling of the pincers, both pairs of intermediates are partially leveled and the corner teeth have begun to show wear. Between seven and eight the pincers are definitely worn; from eight to nine the intermediates and by ten years the corner ones are likewise shorter.

After six years the arch-shaped row of teeth loses its contour and becomes, almost straight by the twelfth year. In the meantime the teeth have become triangular in shape with spaces between, and show increasing wear with advancing age.

Tokyo, Japan, had 21,277 traffic accidents in the last year.

A Bible Message For To-day . . . .

IN THOSE DAYS came John the Baptist, preaching in the wilderness of Judaea, and saying, Repent ye: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. . . . Then went out to him Jerusalem, and all Judaea, and all the region round about Jordon, and were baptized of him in Jordon, confessing their sins. But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees come to his baptism, he said unto them, O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come? Bring forth therefore fruits meet for repentance. . . . And now also the axe is laid unto the root of the trees: therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire. I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance: but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear; he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire.—Matt. iii, 1, 2, 5-8, 10, 11.

A Bit of Nonsense

NEVER SAY DIE

The Agony Of Eczema

Eczema, or salt rheum, is one of the most torturing of itching skin diseases. The principal cause is bad blood, aided by inactive skin and inflammation. It manifests itself in small, round pimples or blisters which later on break and form crusts or scales, and the intense burning, itching and smarting are almost unbearable.

To eradicate eczema from the system it is necessary to give the blood a thorough cleansing, and for this purpose we would highly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters.

MRS. JOSEPH R. Berger, Millbank, Ont., writes:—"Several months ago I was troubled with eczema on my hands. I could not help with the milking my hands were so sore and itching, and could hardly put them in water.

After I had taken two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters I found my hands were healing very quickly. I have never found a remedy to compare with B.B.B. for purifying the blood."

Mobilization Of Science In Drive On Criminal Urged By Dr. F. A. J. Zeidler

Science And The Detection Of Crime Subject Of Address To Kinsmen

"Science must be mobilized to show the criminal that crime doesn't pay and that it will not be tolerated by society," declared Dr. Frederick A. J. Zeidler, F.C.I.C., in an address on "Science and the Detection of Crime before the luncheon of the Kinsmen club on Wednesday.

The eminent Toronto consulting chemist has been called in by police and crown, as well as by defence, in many of the country's most famed criminal cases. He complained that police are still diffident about calling in scientists who are qualified in the detection of specialized crime. The police detective is often baffled by clues that are simple to scientists, he pointed out.

Criminals do not hide away in the region fondly called by novelists "the underworld," the speaker said. They are to be found in every section of the community, at the races, in boxes at theatres, registered in the best rooms in the best hotels. In the United States alone are registered the fingerprints of nearly five million criminals. They are well equipped with legal counsel, even with scientific information in their pursuit of crime. "Consequently law enforcement officers must be furnished with even more and better scientific information," he said.

Phases of Detection

The study of fingerprints, the use of the camera, the microscope, and the chemical laboratory are the most important phases in crime detection today, according to the speaker. He illustrated his point by reference to the identification of blood found at the scene of a crime, showing that stains may differ according to the circumstances under which they reached the spot where found. A scientist is able to discover from what direction the blood fell, whether the person from whom it came was running, and in what direction, or whether he was stationary. By chemical analysis the age of the blood stain can be determined accurately, and also whether it is human or animal. Its grouping may be ascertained. If a man suspected of a crime is found to have blood stains on his clothing it is irrelevant should the fact be ascertained that the stain was older than the crime, or that the blood was animal, he pointed out.

Textiles play an important part in the study of crime, for few murders or robberies are committed where clothing does not play some part, he said. Microscopic examination of cloth reveals extensive knowledge to the scientific detective, he said. He related a case in Brantford, Ontario, in which a physician was attacked and robbed by night. The only clue was a man's cap that had been left behind by the assailant. Examination of the cap proved that its owner had an abnormally small head, that he wore it cocked to the left while most people tilt theirs to the right, that its wearer had used perfumed hair oil, and most important of all, tiny spots of paint were found. By chemical analysis these spots proved to be paint used in painting service stations and the product was traced to its manufacturer, then back to Brantford to a service station, at which a suspect was arrested. Police furnished the scientist with a photograph of a man wearing a cap and enlargements of the photographed hat compared exactly with the herringbone stripe in the hat found at the scene of the crime. The man was later convicted and sent to prison.

The Shrewdest Class

The poison killer belongs to the shrewdest class of criminal, the speaker said. "He lacks the courage of the bank robber, and plans his crime for months." He cited a case famous in the annals of French crime, in which a husband had killed his wife by placing arsenic poison in the bottom of a bottle of bicarbonate of soda. His wife, accustomed to take a teaspoonful of the soda each morning, only reached the poison a month after he had left home on an extended trip. He was the last person to be suspected, so long had he been absent from home.

The O'Donnell case in Toronto received typical scientific deduction and a conviction was gained on circumstantial evidence, the speaker said, disclosing that he had been a defence witness. Identifications of blood stains and of wool from a sweater played an important part in the crown's case, he said. He claimed the significance of the evidence had been lessened by the fact that some 50,000 [illegible] in which the same type of dye had been used, had been manufactured in Ontario alone the same year, and by neglect on the part of crown scientists to determine the answer grouping of the blood found on O'Donnell's clothes.

The speaker was introduced to the club by R. B. Leybourne.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., April 14 (CP) —Hitch-hikers apparently are in for a bad season if the experience of John Wesele means anything. "There They Crucified Him"

If President Can't Get Her Daughter Mother Will Write To The King

WINNIPEG, April 14.—(CP). — Mrs. Violet Norton of Winnipeg today stated, "I'm going to get my Gwendoline back if I have to write to the King himself."

Mrs. Norton's 13-year-old daughter, Gwendoline, was placed in a California convent by California authorities after her mother was found guilty on a charge of using the mails to defraud Clark Gable, screen lover. She charged Gable was father of her child.

Mrs. Norton was deported to Canada after serving several months of a jail sentence. The California Court of Appeal reversed the decision of the lower court which had sentenced her to a year in jail on fraud charges.

'I have been writing to President Roosevelt of the United States and the Governor-General of Canada to get her back," Mrs. Norton said about her daughter. "The matter is in the hands of the Canadian Minister at Washington now.....he will have to look after it."

THREATEN BOYCOTT

GEORGETOWN, Ont., April 14.—(CP).—Norman Brown sent his resignation to the Council last night declaring church authorities had threatened a boycott of his bakery because of his recent resolution as a member of the council to allow beer parlors to remain open unti midnight.

The council persuaded Brown to rescind his letter of resignation. A delegation of 35 attended the council meeting and protested the move to extend the operating hours of beer parlors by an hour.

GIANTS AND CUBS FOR N.L. PENNANT

NEW YORK, April 14.—(AP). — Major League baseball writers, scanning the prospects and portents of spring-time, to-day forecast a two-club race for the 1938 National League pennant, with the champion New York Giants pacing Chicago to the wire.

A scanty majority, 31 out of 60 experts, picks the well balanced club managed by Bill Terry to make it three in a row. Of the remainder voting in the 12th annual Associated Press poll, 22 pick the Cubs to finish on top, while only four favor St. Louis Cardinals and three are willing to take a chance on Pittsburgh Pirates to win.

ASPHODEL

SAM BUCK RESIGNS AS RELIEF OFFICER

Asphodel Council met in the Town Hall, Westwood, on Wednesday, April 6, with all the members present. Communications were as follows: From Nicholls Hospital; from R. Tedford, account re ambulance service; from the Department of Highways re appointment of township road superintendent was read to the Council stating that at the present time the Department does not see its way clear to approve of any change in this office, and to avoid any misunderstanding with reference to Departmental subsidy, the present by-law stands, namely the appointment of Norman Andrews as road superintendent.

Representatives of the Canada Ingott Co., Guelph, the Roofers' Supply Co., Toronto, and the Pedlar People, Oshawa, addressed the Council as to the sale of culverts.

On motion of A. Leaitch and Jas. Humphries, the township road insurance was renewed with A. E. Wilson & Company.

Samuel Buck handed in his resignation as relief officer.

Moved by Thomas Stevenson and James Healey, that Mr. Buck's resignation be accepted and that Matthew Stevenson be appointed relief officer. Carried.

On the motion of James Humphries and James Healey a resolution was passed that the necessary proceedings be taken to close the road between Lots 15 and 16, Concession 2, Township of Asphodel, running westerly from its intersection with No. 7 Highway to the road allowance between Concessions 1 and 2, also the road running westerly from the road allowance between Concessions 1 and 2 in Lot 15, Township of Asphodel to No. 7 Highway.

The collector's time for collecting taxes was extended until next meeting.

The following accounts were ordered paid:

For relief—H. B. Kempt, footwear, $4.50; E. P. Cuffe, clothing, $4.81; John McConnell, provisions, $4.69; J. L. Squires & Son, provisions, $27.31; Richard Patterson, wood, $18.00; Irving Dairy, milk, $2.80; George H. Humphries, potatoes, $2.00; J. G. 'PARKER' PROGRAM IS GIVEN BY W.A.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, April 14.—On Monday evening a "Seth Parker" program was presented in the A.Y.P.A. rooms under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of the Norwood Anglican Church. The program opened by "Seth" introducing the characters, after which all sang "Safely Through Another Week." Other hymns sung were "He Leadeth Me," "Old Time Religion," "How Precious is the Book Divine," and "God Me With You." The ladies of the group sang "My Jesus I Love You," while the men favored the audience with "In a Garden."

Solos were given by Captain Bang, "The Old Rugged Cross," and Mr. Seth Parker, "The Sinner and Song"; Polly, "In the Service of the Lord"; Lizzie, "Take Time to be Holy." Duets were given by Mr. and Mrs. Seth, "Bird with the Broken Wing"; Polly and George, "In the Heart of Jesus."

Several pupils of the Sunday School sang very sweetly three selections, "Jesus Wants Me for a Sunbeam," "There is a Green Hill," and "There is Four in Our Family."

Readings were given by Nancy, Mary and Sarah.

The cast was as follows: Seth Parker, Mr. W. Bitten; Mrs. Seth Parker, Mrs. W. Bitten; Lizzie, Mrs. Carleton; Polly, Mrs. Lemon; Nancy, Mrs. G. Bitten; Jane, Mrs. Thompson; Susie, Mrs. Wright; Mary, Miss E. Peoples; Sarah, Miss D. Peoples; Captain Bang, Mr. Joe Rae; George, Mr. Lemon; Cephas, Mr. Wright.

Much credit is due Mr. and Mrs. Bitten for the success of the evening, as they composed the greater part of the script and coached the cast.

Between the first and second parts of the program, Miss Isaac of Havelock played a piano solo. Miss B. Foote, B.A., was pianist for the evening.

More new American passenger automobiles are seen in Calcutta, India, than a year ago.

WHAT IS NEWS?

● Ever watch people reading their newspapers? Some glance at the front page — then turn to the sporting events, the stock market, the births, deaths and marriages.

We all have our tastes. But did you know that advertising interests more people than many editorial features?

It's true. Advertising can be news of great importance — and if it is, people will read it and respond to it.

So, tell the people the news about your products—in the medium in which they are accustomed to look for news of all kinds—the daily newspapers.

APSLEY INSTITUTE TO SPONSOR PLAY

APSLEY, April 14.— The April meeting of the Apsley Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the Orange Hall, with 14 members present. The meeting took the form of the monthly business meeting and also a quilting. While the quilting was in progress, the items of business were discussed. The date for play, "A Southern Cinderella" was set for April 26, the play to be followed by a dance. A committee was formed to secure music for the dance. It was decided to give a supper to the players after the play. One of the quilts made by the Institute is to be sold by Dutch auction during the evening.

The Sunshine committee reported several sick calls. Mrs. N. Wilson was appointed local leader for the girls' project. "Cotton accessories for girls' bedroom," with Helen Wilson one of the girls for assistant leader, with Mrs. J. Wallbridge as alternate. Mrs. F. Bullied will give current events for June meeting. Plans were also laid for district annual to be held on May 27.

Lunch was served and a social half hour was spent.

Word was received here on Friday of the death of Mr. Harry G. McIlmoyl in Southey, Sask., a former resident of Burleigh township, brother of Mr. Bert McIlmoyl.

Mrs. Nelson McIlmoyl and Mr. and Mrs. W. Davidson of Peterborough, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bert McIlmoyl for the week-end.

Mrs. Archie Winsor of Peterborough, was in the vilage on Sunday attending the funeral of her mother, Mrs. P. Johnson.

Mr. Wellintgon Lean was a visitor to Peterborough on Friday, the guest of his brother, Mr. Bert Lean.

Mrs. Henry Kelchur and infant son of Chandos, was the guest of Mrs. Chas. Smith and Miss Rosalie Smith at the week-end.

Mr. Ronald McDonald of Cottesloe, was a Sunday visitor with Mr. N. Stephens.

FLOOD STOPS TRAFFIC

ROCHESTER, N.Y., April 14. — (AP)—The raging Genesee river, swollen by the melting of last week's heavy snowfall, stopped traffic on the New York state barge canal here today.

Allen H. Tosh, section superintendent, said any boats seeking to cross the river where the barge canal intersects would be delayed.

HIS IDEA OF AN ESKIMO

LINDSAY, Ont., April 14—(CP). —P. W. Shaw, Markstay district resident, is back from a holiday in Cleveland where he visited a sportsmen show. He was studying the Canadian exhibit and its French-Canadian guardian when a man, in an awed whisper pointed to the French-Canadian and told a companion he was an Eskimo from Canada.

Lack Of Mineral In Stock Feed Worries Farm Experts

Deficiency Reported Mainly From Old Ontario Areas—Laid To Dry Summers

TORONTO, April 14.— (CP) — Concerned over mineral deficiency in live stock feeding in many of the older countries in Ontario, Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, deems the matter so important that a new department of animal nutrition will be opened in the near future at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

It will be under the direction of Dr. H. D. Brannion, a nutrition expert attached to the poultry department, O.A.C.

A survey in 1931-32 by the Ontario Veterinary College showed phosphorus deficiency in animals was most pronounced in old farming areas. The condition, aggravated in successive dry summers, has been forcibly brought to the attention of agricultural officials.

It is pointed out that every time a farmer sells a can of milk he sells an ounce of phosphorus also. This prosphorous must be returned to the cow in some form if the animal is to remain healthy. It can only be done through feed high in phosphorus qualities. Steamed bone meal, bone char and di-sodium phosphate are preferred mineral supplements. Di-sodium costs approximately $7 per cwt.

There is lots of proof, Dr. Brannon states, that iodine is concerned in the yield of milk and butter fat test. Most inland regions are deficient in iodine, therefore it is good business to feed iodized salt.

4 Per Cent. Fat Needed.

A few years ago, Dr. Brannion recalled, there was a reasonable amount of fat in oil cake, but modern machinery has taken this out. In view of such facts one was suspicious that most Ontario rations were on the border line of fat content, running from 3 to 3½ per cent. instead of the necessary 4 per cent. required. This was one of the problems to be considered in animal nutrition, he said.

Discussing poultry, Dr. Brannion said that experimental work was being devoted to hatching. Much depended on the feed of hens whose eggs were to be used for hatching purposes. This feed was entirely different from a laying ration.

While feeding milk gives 70 to 74 per cent. hatching productivity, it is desirable to step up hatching qualities to 85 or 90 per cent. And at present something cheaper than milk is being sought to put in the mash. Skim milk, whole milk or buttermilk can be used, 12 quarts to 100 birds per day. It is most important that the correct amount of cod liver oil be used in the hatching ration.

STUDENTS CRITICIZE

LONDON—(CP).—Presidents of a score of students' unions of universities and colleges of Britain have issued a manifesto attacking the government for "complacency in the face of international barbarism."

HASTINGS

Circle Member Is Given Cake Plate

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, April 14.—The members of the Friendship Circle of the Fleming neighborhood gathered as a surprise party at the home of Mrs. Robert Bibby, one of their most efficient members to honor her on the occasion of her birthday, Tuesday, April 12.

Mrs. Herman Johnston, the president expressed the best wishes of all the members and then presented Mrs. Bibby with a beautiful china cake plate and server.

The evening was spent in euchre and crokinole. The ladies had provided refreshments and these were served at the close of the games.

Mrs. Bibby also opened her home on the previous Thursday for the regular monthly meeting when patches were cut for a quilt top. Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Gordon Johnston and Mrs. A. Ford.

LAKEFIELD

Mrs. J. A. Porter of Lakefield is spending a few days in Canton visiting with her son and daughter-in-law Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Porter.

On Good Friday evening at 8 p.m., St. John the Baptist Church, Lakefield, is holding a special service at which the choir of St. John's Church, Peterborough will sing the cantata "From Olivet to Calvary." The offertory will be in aid of the choirs. Everyone is welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McKerchar of Lakefield motored to Toronto on Monday last where they visited with their daughter, Miss Mary McKerchar.

The local schools will close for the Easter vacation on Thursday, April 14. Studies will be resumed on Monday, April 25.

THIRTY-EIGHT THOROUGHBREDS NOMINATED FOR KING'S PLATE

SUFFERN HEADS IMPOSING LIST FOR 50 GUINEAS

TORONTO, April 14 (C.P.). — Headed by Suffern, winter-book favorite, 38 thoroughbreds were nominated for the 1938 running of the King's Plate, Canadian turf classic, at Woodbine Park on May 21, the Ontario Jockey Club announced today.

Suffern, installed slight favorite after the close of the racing season last fall, will carry the main hope of H. C. Hatch of Agincourt for his third consecutive victory in the 1¼ miles grind. Hatch was victor last year with Goldiure and won the event in 1936 with Moonsweep.

The powerful Parkwood Stable, owned by R. S. McLaughlin of Oshawa, nominated Red Pirate, Bucharest, Chuckler, and En Tour. None was expected to be serious threats in the Plate, captured by McLaughlin in 1934 with Horometer.

The race is open to three and four year-olds, foaled and trained in Ontario, that have never won a race other than events for two-year-olds. The winner receives 50 guineas, donated by the King, and the major portion of a $7,500 added purse.

4 From Hendrie Stable.

Paced by his star performer, Grand Dame, George M. Hendrie of Hamilton nominated a quartette to carry his colors. Storm Drum, Horus and Rock Bound were also named.

Nominations:

Peter Addie, Toronto: Beechstick.

A. G. Auld, Toronto: May Square, Fleeting Wind.

H. R. Bain, Toronto: Bobsworth.

T. S. Cochenour, Hamilton: Costa Rica.

Cosgrave Stable, Toronto: Mona Bell, Sisweep.

R. W. R. Cowie, Toronto: Fair Wave, Aldwych.

Cecil Cox, Toronto: Drifting Sands.

Erindale Stable, Toronto: Hawkstone.

J. G. Fair, Brantford: Tabhim, Tabmark, Troublemark.

H. Giddings, Oakville: Cabin Gal.

George M. Hendrie, Hamilton: Grand Dame, Storm Drum, Horus, Rock Bound.

W. A. McKay, Toronto: Rustic Maiden.

J. E. Smallman, London: Slycat, Ilster, Regalite, Tokay.

W. F. Morrissey, Toronto: Bunty Lawless.

Mrs. R. H. New, Toronto: Thirty Below.

Parkwood Stable, Oshawa: Red Pirate, Bucharest, Chuckler, En Tour.

Riverdale Stable, Toronto: Wickow, Radius.

C. C. Charles, Toronto: Lady Lucy.

Mrs. H. Talbot, Toronto: Skyros.

Thorncliffe Stable, Toronto: Shore Hawk.

H. S. Wilson, Toronto: Devastator.

Havelock Netters Close Good Season

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, April 14.—The Havelock badminton season drew to a close on Tuesday evening, the members assembling for their last night's play and afterwards enjoying a sumptuous pot-luck supper..

The club has just concluded one of their most successful seasons, and a special vote of thanks was tendered their popular president, Mrs. Philip Greenley, who so very efficiently headed the organization for two successive years.

During the evening a special presentation was made to Francis Voyer, a member of the club since shortly after its organization, who is now employed in Peterborough. The members presented Mr. Voyer with a white badminton sweater, an expression of their regret at his departure from the club.

Arrangements were made to have the names of the new club champions affived to the shield. They are: Men's singles, Grey Kem; ladies' singles, Margaret Jones; ladies' doubles, Mrs. P. Greenley and Mrs. H. Mathison; men's doubles, Grey Kemp and Bruce Jones; mixed doubles, Mrs. D. Brennan and T. W. Quinn.

DUNCAN RESIGNS AS HOCKEY HEAD

OTTAWA, April 14 (CP).—Storm-centre of recent Canadian Amateur Hockey Association interfactional strife, Cecil Duncan of Ottawa will step out of the association's Presidency at the annual meeting opening here tomorrow.

Duncan, a Dominion Government employee, has served the nation-wide sports body and has built a strong following among the association's branches through brilliant executive work. Today he indicated he has no wish to continue in office.

His likely successor is Prof. W. G. Hardy of Edmonton, now First Vice-President. But the delegates themselves will decide Friday or Saturday who will step into one of the biggest sports direction jobs in Canada.

Had Stormy Term.

Duncan's term has been marked by the break with the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and the introduction of liberal legislation dealing with reinstatement of professions and payment of players for time lost from their jobs.

It has been marked, too, by his clashes with some factions in the association, notably his battle with the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association during the past season.

Duncan suspended the association after it had disregarded decision of the C.A.H.A. on eligiblity of players. Later the Q.A.H.A. was reinstated or dropping the players.

This scrap and another on the venue of Memorial Cup games now being played at Toronto are likely subjects for debate at the annual gathering. Duncan ordered the Memorial Cup games played in Ottawa, but was overruled in a telegraph vote, and they were awarded to Maple Leaf Gardens, reported to hold a long-term contract with the C.A.H.A. for the junior finals.

BOBBY JONES IS GOLFING MASTER

NEW YORK, April 14.—For Willie Macfarlane's money, Robert Tyre Jones is still the best striker of a ball in golf.

Macfarlane is among the comparatively few playing professionals who deny that the Georgian belongs in the has-been class.

"There nothing the matter with Jones' game that couldn't be cured by a liberal dose of competition," says the veteran Scotsman with the ministerial appearance who bested the one-time matchless product of East Lake at Worcester in a double play-off for the National Open championship of 1925.

Macfarlane played with Jones in the recent Masters' Tournament, and advises those who are skeptical about the Atlantan's current class to look at the Augusta results.

Jones jumped into a high pressure field, against the nation's crack barnstormers and outscored such top flighters as Johnny Revolta, Ray Mangrum, Bobby Cruickshank, Horton Smith, Wiffy Cox, Ky Laffoon, Tony Manero, Craig Wood, and Sam Snead. He led all the Walker Cup amateurs in the competition—Tailer, Kocsis, Ward, and Yates.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

MAX GLOVER and Dave Leether of the local men's softball loop left today for the 16th annual O.A.S.A. convention, being held Good Friday in Sarnia. An executive meeting will be held tonight, and Dave is on the executive. He has been nominated for two offices this coming year, both on the executive and as second vice-president. Two other gents from Eastern Ontario, Art Casterton of Kingston and Harry Rollins of Belleville, are after an executive spot, also. We think Leether will land it. There is a heavy list of amendments to be considered. One calls for these affiliation fees for '38; Senior "A", $13.75; senior "B", $11.75; intermediate "A", $9.75; intermediate "B", $7.75; intermediate "C", $6.75. Mention made, too, of a bantam series for under 16 by May 1st.

* * * * * *

MAIN MATTER will be desertion of this body from the A.A.U. of C. for the new Sports Federation, same as lacrosse, baseball, etc., have done. St. Catharines wants the new pitching rule adopted last year rescinded. Toronto wants Rule 26, re pitching, changed to read: "This permits the pitcher to take th ball upward in front and over, or backward toward the rear in a continuous swing but requires him to release the ball at completion of this movement," and they would delete the sentence: "He must release the ball on the first forward swing of the pitching arm." Dozens of local hurlers will be interested.

* * * * * *

FROM KINGSTON comes the amendment suggestion that all games in O.A.S.A. playdowns be handled by neutral umpires, and that this rule be made compulsory and not optional, or arranged by mutual agreement. Could it be that they are still burned up over their loss to the local champs last season when some hot home-and-home umpiring arguments took place? Belleville asks that a population limit in intermediate "B" series be raised from 10,000 to 15,000, so they can clamber in, we suppose. Another suggestion, dunno its source, is that a wild pitch over the screen would permit runners to advance, except when third is occupied. There are a number of others, also.

* * * * * *

A NUMBER of softball players and fans, whom we've seen the past few days, have expressed satisfaction with the proposal to run both men's and gals' games—on alternate nights—at the Ashburnham Bowl. It is an ideal spot for this sport and fairly central. Also there have been too many open nights there the past couple of summers. Two or three girls' league games at the Bowl and a couple or three men's fixtures there the same week would give hundreds of fans a good outdoorsy place to park of a summer's evening. It will be a big improvement for the men, as they'll have plenty of grandstand accommodation for their followers, and that'll be something new. Annual re-organization meeting of the men's City Softball League will be held Monday at eight p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce, and those interested are invited.

WE CAN easily draw a parallel in the cases of the Petes and Toronto Leafs' in their late lamented puck endeavors. We can see without aid of glasses in both cases where youth fell before experience. But let us quote a piece written several years ago about ball by Paul Gallico, noted N'Yawk scribe: "The World Series is definitely not a young man's business. When the chips are up, when the money is on the line, when the winning of the game hinges on one move, the callow kids swallow big lumps in their throats. Their hearts begin to kick out the sides of their ribs. They sweat under the armpits. Their brains start to whirl and spin, and weird pictures chase through their skulls. Their imaginations are untoughened and undisciplined by experience and disappointments. That is the time when you want old gentlemen (athletically speaking) along in their middle years, sedate parties without illusions, without nerves. The kids strike out in the pinch. The tough, elderly persons win your World Series for you."

* * * * * *

THE PETES had a number of younger puckists than the Falls in their playoff series. And the tough Niagara veterans banged our boys around something sinful here in the first game. Especially in the first period. And then beat 'em legitimately at home. Our youngsters weren't scared—you can't be yellow and play a game like hockey—but they were extra cautious and they didn't have the experience to fight fire with fire, to do as the Romans do, to out-rough rough rivals. Little Shrimp McDougall and Doug Brennan were our best players in the Falls, and both are experienced ex-pros. They saw that the refereeing was lax, that it was a survival of the fittest, and they mixed it up equally with the Falls. As the case was with the young Leafs against the veteran castoffs of Chicago, who saw the easy refereeing and took advantage of it—and that roughing they handed Horner smack off the bat the first game in Chicago probably was the turning point. Youth is a wonderful thing, but then so is experience.

* * * * * *

ANNUAL MEETING of the Ontario Lacrosse Association—no "amateur" to it now—will be held tomorrow in Toronto, and the usual mess of arguments will no doubt occur. Doug Miller is the Peterborough delegate to this session, and Pete King has been nominated to one of the 10 executive offices. It is time this section of the province had a man on the O.L.A., though Pete may not click this year. Plenty of lobbying for amendments, groupings and imports will be the order this e'en and early tomorrow. Some definite action by the local lacrossers will be shown shortly after this yearly session of the gutted-stick moguls of Ontario.

TWO ST. PAUL'S church cage squads clash at 8.30 Saturday e'en in the "Y" in Ontario Church Basketball Association intermediate finals, first of a home-and-home serial. One is the local St. Paul's crew of Marsh, McIntyre, Sedgewick, Weir, Pulkinghorn and Gemmell—and possibly Ascott, Broadley and Thorburn. The other outfit is St. Paul's United of Brampton, captained by Ken Long, who played ball for the Petes last year. They reached the finals by ousting Port Credit and Thorold, whilst the local Saints rubbed out Toronto in provincial semi-finals. Return fray, points counting, will be in Brampton next week. Should be a redhot number here before a packed gallery.

PICKING 'EM off the grapevine: Manager Bill Stewart of the Chicago Hawks starts umpiring big league ball games next week. . . . Cobourg won three Ontario titles the past year, rugby, gals' senior C.O.S.S.A. in basketball, and a Ladies' Ontario Basketball Assoc. crown. . . . . Ernie Gibbard of Napanee is the proud poppa of a future hurler. . . . . Young Walt Gerow, says the Quinte writer, may play ball up north; what about his trial with the Hawks? . . . . Trail took the first Allan Cup final from Cornwall, 6 to 4. . . . . The next Memorial Cup joust is tonight in Toronto—Oshawa writer now fears the worst. . . . . We are informed Belleville's population is closer to 13,000 than 16,000. . . . No word on a gals' softball meeting yet. . . . . Lindsay's junior puckists have received nice windbreakers as a present from the club. . . . . And a new softball grandstand has been built at the Lindsay park. . . . . Bob Greer, who was killed in a car crash with Pat Downing the other day, hailed from Wellington and one time played senior ball for Belleville. . . . Oshawa beat Waterloo last eve and now meet Sudbury in a sudden-death Ontario juvenile puck final in Toronto this Sat'day. . . . . Local ballsters are invited to an indoor drill at the "Y" tonight at 8.30. . . . . Riverside Park is dry again. . . . . Weather here will soon be hotter than local bootleg joints.

DIES IN BOMBER CRASH

WINCHESTER, England, April 14 (CP - Havas) — Sergeant Walter Bateman was killed when a Royal Air Force bomber crashed in flames near the military airdrome at Abingdon, Berkshire, today.

The other occupant of the machine, Aircraftsman Robert McPhie, escaped uninjured. The plane was attached to a bombing squadron based at Worthydown, Winchester, Hampshire.

NORMAN GAIR GETS MURPHY MEMORIAL CUP

Norman Gair, veteran home player for the Mimico Mountaineers, has been awarded the Jimmy Murphy Memorial Trophy for 1937 by the Ontario Lacrosse Association on the eve of their annual convention to-morrow (Good Friday) at the Prince George Hotel in Toronto.

The winner, in order to obtain the Jimmy Murphy Memorial Trophy, must qualify in three things—first, he must be one of the most valuable men to his team; second, he must be a gentleman on the field, a clean player; and lastly, he must contribute something to the future of the game, such as teaching the younger players how to play lacrosse. The selection committee were unanimous in their naming of Norman Gair, who finished off his 1937 season with a brilliant display of lacrosse for the Mimico Club.

Only Toronto Marlboros and the Hamilton Tigers remain in the uncertain class as far as the senior group is concerned. Orillia, last year's champions, Mimico, Brampton, St. Catharines, Brantford and Fergus are ready for the new season. Definite word as to the Toronto situation may come during the annual convention.

Revive Senior B.

There is a move on foot to revive the Senior B series of ohter years in order to look after the many clubs that are a little too good for the average run of intermediate clubs and not quite up to the standard of the regular senior clubs. Peterborough, Oshawa, Cheltenham - Inglewood, Islington and Roden, along with other clubs, are prospective Senior B entrants. Word has been received from Orangeville of a revival of lacrosse in that live-wire sporting town and they will be back in the picture this season. Carl Hanley will be their representative at the annual convention.

Charles Querrie and Michael Kelley, president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, will be the main speakers at the noon-hour luncheon during the annual meeting of Good Friday. Past presidents of the Ontario Association will also be on hand to renew old friendships. No doubt the president of the parent body will have something interesting to say about the new set-up in lacrosse that allows professionals of any sport to play under the C.L.A. banner this summer.

Four lacrosse leaders are nominated for the presidency of the Ontario Lacrosse Association, including E. A. Kopas, present holder of the office; Russell T. Kelley, of Hamilton; George Laceby, of York Township; and Dan W. Millar of St. Catharines, are the other nominees for the high office.

E. J. "Gene" Dopp, secretary for many years, along with Dr. Wendall Holmes, treasurer, both of Toronto, have been returned to their respective offices by acclamation.

Complete List.

Complete list of nominations follows:

President — Russell T. Kelley (Hamilton), E. A. Kopas (Fergus), George Laceby (York Township), D. W. Millar (St. Catharines).

First vice-president—Jack Burrell (Brampton), Frank Curran (Orillia) George Laceby, D. W. Millar.

Second vice-president — Frank Curran, George Laceby, Jack McDonald (Mimico), D. W. Millar, and W. Parsons (Brantford).

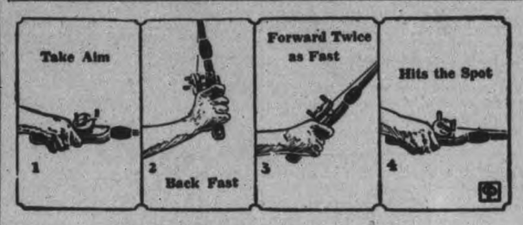
Third vice-president—F. A. Bennett (Toronto), Frank Curran, and Jack McDonald.

Executive Council: Ten, exactly, must be voted for, otherwise ballot void — F. A. Bennett, Frank Curran, Roy Dennis (Brampton), Charles Evans (Streetsville), George Farr (Brampton), Dr. R. E. Hipwell (Orillia), E. C. Johnston (Scarboro), Ted Kaufman (Inglewood), Frank Kavanagh, George Laceby, Bruce Leighton and E. McDermott, all of Toronto; Pete King (Peterborough), Jack McDonald, C. Rowan (New Toronto), Jack Worthy (Hamilton), and W. Parsons (Brantford).

Auditors (three to be elected) — F. E. Heyes, C. McLynch, Bill Scott, A. Varcoe, C. Walter.

Bait Casting Simplified

A Few Tips That Will Lead To More Catches



Art of casting . . . in four easy lessons

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here are a few excellent tips on the whys and wherefores of bait casting. Every angler is eager for hints that will help him arrive home without having to visit the neighborhood fish market. We present a few.

Once he masters fundamentals, the average angler can become a proficient bait caster. And when he has learned to cast properly, his catches will be tripled.

Tony Accetta, professional bait and fly casting champion, offers some simplified instructions:

"First, aim the tip of your rod at the target, your thumb lightly, but firmly, pressed against the line, reel turned so that the handle is at the top.

"Then bring the rod back straight over the shoulder and start the cast by a quick jerk of the forearm. Aim high, so that the plug will shoot forward and outward. Keep your elbow close to your side, remembering that action should come from the wrist and forearm, not from the shoulder.

"Keeping proper thumb pressure on the reel is of vital importance. Too much pressure shortens the cast, and too little may cause a back-lash. When the rod is perpendicular, ease the thumb pressure to aid the plug in shooting forward."

We like to sharpen our casting in the back yard, aiming a hookless plug at an old bike tire. An inner tube, anchored at a pond, also makes a splendid target.

After setting our hooks into a bass or pike, we reel him in to within three feet of the rod tip and slowly start a "figure 8" with the tip two feet under water. A few moments of this, and Mr. Fish rolls over on his side—an easy victim for the landing net.

Good casters drop their plugs and spinners close to weed beds, lilies, stumps, sunken logs and sand bars. The big bass, pike and trout usually lie in the least accessible places.

Baseball Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

Brooklyn, N.Y. — Back in Ebbets' Field, the Ddgers are beginning to believe that Burleigh Grimes is something of a psychologist. Said Grimes when the club was in the middle of a slump, "This is a seventh place team." Since then the Dodgers haven't last a game and enter Flatbush with five straight triumphs.

Philadelphia. — The Athletics are back with one spot, shortstop, apparently plugged. Russ Peters is filling in brilliantly for the injured Skeeter Newsome. He got three for four, one a double, against the Dodgers yesterday and was steady in the field.

YANKS' DIMAGGIO STILL A HOLDOUT

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14 (AP) —Joe DiMaggio, the eminent San Francisco restaurant proprietor and baseball "no" man, got set for a first-class holdout siege Thursday.

The deadline for his departure to reach Boston in time to open the season with his New York Yankee teammates against the Red Sox, found Joe in the same mood as has marked his financial skirmishes with the club for many weeks.

Unless he changes his mind and chooses to travel by air, which would be against the wishes of his baseball bosses, DiMaggio will miss his third American League opener in as many years as he has been in the big show.

Joe's last chance to reach the opening battleground for 1938 was to leave on the Transcontinental train Thursday night, but he said he was going to stick to his guns, which in this case happens to be a restaurant and night club.

The 23-year-old outfielding star, who whacked out 46 home runs and hit a cool .346 last year as the Yankees' "Big Bertha," wants to get his contract business fixed up so that he can get in and play ball.

The Yankees have offered Joe $25,000 for his third year in major league baseball. He says he wants $40,000.

Says Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced At Home
PROVE IT AT SMALL COST

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, as good advice for home treatment as any friend can give is to get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil.

Simply ask McDermid & Jury or your druggist for an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you should notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are no longer burdensome. So penetrating is Emerald Oil that it also helps simple swellings due to strain to disappear.

TRAIL SECURES ONE GAME LEAD IN THE ALLAN CUP SERIES

SMOKE EATERS BEAT CORNWALL FOR 6-4 COUNT

SASKATOON, April 14 (CP). — Brilliant in the pinches Trail Smoke Eaters had the "odds-wind" blowing their way today after a 6-4 overtime victory against Cornwall Flyers in the first game of the Allan Cup final. Only once before has a British Columbia team annexed the cup.

In a typical Trail performance here last night, the Smoke Eaters were unable to click for 40 minutes and went two goals down during that time. But in the third period the British Columbia champions rifled home three goals while Flyers scored one to send the game into an extra session.

Fighting fire with more fire, Smoke Eaters shot through for three more goals in overtime while the Eastern Canada champions could score only one. Winning that first game made Smoke Eaters favorites to succeed Sudbury Tigers as cup champions, a goal reached only by Kimberley Dynamiters of British Columbia teams before.

Next Game at Calgary.

Second game of the best-of-five series will be played at Calgary on Saturday.

The slow-starting Trail boys muffed enough scoring chances in the first two sessions to win several games. Then they sent a capacity crowd of 5,600 delirious with a rally such as those that marked most of their playoff games.

Two former Edmonton juniors stood out in the victory. Joe Benoit, tricky right winger, fired Trail's first goal in the third period while Smoke Eaters were short-handed, made the play for Dave Duchak to tie the count at 3-3 late in the third and then bewildered Cornwall checkers with a shifty rush that produced the first goal in overtime.

Duchak, crafty centre, shot two goals for Trail and Dick Kowcinak, last year with the Dominion champion Winnipeg Monarch juniors, got the sixth marker for Smoke Eaters.

Ab MacDonald, Harvey McClelland, Conny (Snow White) Brown and Dick Proulx shared sniping honors for the systematic squad from the St. Lawrence River textile town.

The heavier easterners played a steady game throughout, and their heavy checking and quick breaking seemed to have the game in the bag until the mountain magicians turned on the heat in the third.

Remember When—

Edward (Foxy Ned) Hanlon, manager of the celebrated Baltimore Orioles of the 90's, which included the late John J. McGraw, "Uncle" Wilbert Robinson and Steve Brodie, died at Baltimore one year ago today. Hanlon piloted Orioles to three consecutive National Baseball League championships, 1894-96. He was buried in the same cemetery as McGraw and Robinson.

PURCELL ADDS COURT HONORS

TORONTO, April 14.— (CP).— Richer by a side bet of $500, World Champion Jack Purcell added another badminton victory to his long list to-day. George Goodwin, Jr., professional at the Quebec Winter Club, was the latest opponent to fall before the prowes sof the 34-year-old Toronto star.

They met here last night before about 1,500 fans in a challenge match, with Purcell emerging victor 12-15, 12-15, 15-7, 15-5, 15-5.

Joe Zaharko, former Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., amateur, topped Joe Noble, professional at Toronto Granite Club, 15-5, 15-5.

Purcell and Noble teamed in doubles to whip Zaharko and Goodwin, who learned his badminton in Ottawa. They won after an uphill battle 7-15, 15-11, 15-10.

Purcell appeared slightly nervous in his first professional start here. Since jumping to the monied ranks years ago he competed in challenge matches mostly in the United States. But once the nervousness wore off Goodwin was unable to cope with the brilliance of his game.

Zaharko, rated one of the best double players in the country, had an easy time with the Granite Club professional. He showed the crowd a powerful forehand and plenty of polish to lead all the way.

AMATEUR MOGULS TO AIR DISPUTE

OTTAWA, April 14—(CP)—Amateur hockey's battle with the professional game will be aired at the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association which starts here today.

A feud that came into the open when the National Hockey League and the C.A.H.A. failed to renew their agreement last month will be brought before delegates representing the 10 branches affiliated with the national governing body of the amateur ice sport in the dominion.

Until recently the N.H.L. and C.A.H.A. had an agreement under which each respected the other's suspensions and the professional body pledged itself not to sign amateur players without permission until their teams were eliminated from the Allan or Memorial Cup playdowns.

Charges of infraction of the agreement were made by both sides and recently it was indicated the pact would not be renewed. The belief here is that, while the question will be considered at the C.A.H.A. annual, no move will be made to compose differences with the N.H.L.

VANCOUVER TEAM AFTER CAGE TITLE

TORONTO, April 14 — (CP) — Peers of the Pacific coast, which gives Canada many of its better basketeers, Vancouver Westerns stood out today as a distinct threat for the Canadian senior basketball championship. Hoop fans figure them at least an even-money bet with the other four teams still in the titular running.

Westerns can gain a spot in the Western Canada final tonight when they play Saskatoon Grads in the second game of their two-game, total-points series. The Vancouver team showed plenty of class Tuesday in taking the first game 48-34 from the Saskatchewan champions, challenging for the first time in several years.

Western Canada's other threat to the title won last year by University of British Columbia Thunderbirds is the Winnipeg St. Andrew's team. Coached by Bert Oja, of Winnipeg Blue Bombers gridiron fame, there are three members of bombers on the team. They are Bud Marquardt, Chas, McCance and Art Stevenson.

The situation in Eastern Canada has narrowed to two teams, the spot in the Canadian final resting between Ottawa Glebe Grads and Windsor Moose Lodge. Grads eliminated Saint John Y.M.C.A. to gain their Canadian semi-final spot, while Moose Lodge ousted Toronto Broadview Rascals.

The 1937 champion Thunderbirds fell before Westerns in the Vancouver inter-city league final. Westerns then went on to defeat Victoria Dominoes, former Canadian champions, in a best-of-five series that went the limit for the British Columbia championship. Raymond Union Jacks, Alberta titlists, were the next victims of the powerful coast team.

SYRACUSE BALL CLUB LOOKS AT FIRST DIVISION

YRBOR CITY, Fla., April 14.—(AP).—Syracuse Chiefs, who have caused as many surprises as any other club in the International League since their return to the loop, come up with a 1938 squad, which, like its predecessors, can go either way in the pennant race.

Favored by perfect training weather at Yrbor City, the Chiefs started north in the best physical condition any Syracuse team has known. They look to be, at least, a first division club, with a chance for the pennant if five men, soon to be released on option to the team by Cincinnati Reds, live up to expectation.

Jim Bottomley, idol of Syracuse fans as a youngster, has kept a pledge made long ago. At the height of his playing career in the majors, he said he hoped to go back to Syracuse and start a new career as a manager when he was through as a player in the majors.

Playing Manager.

Bottomley intends to be a playing manager and expects his defensive play and .300 batting average will help his team greatly. He will be at first base.

Al Glossop, holdover from last year, will be at second base again. He is a ball player of proven class AA ability, and hopes to fight his way up for a major league trial next season. Ashley McDonald comes up from the Southern Association for shortstop duty tagged as a great fielder and a fair hitter.

Third base is the doubtful position. Len Kahny, shortstop, and Wayne Blackburn, second baseman, in brief careers in more minor leagues, are fighting for the assignment. Cincinnati is expected to provide a man, possibly Jim Outlaw, who played the bag for Syracuse last year.

Six Outfielders.

Syracuse has six outfielders, including Dick Porter and Arnold Moser, .300 hitting holdovers from last year; Ed Remorenko, a .300 batter in the New York-Penn. loop last season; Ed Longacre, who banged out a .285 average last season for Oakland of the Pacific Coast League; Joe Mack, a .352 hitter in the Western League, and Joel Hunt, a Piedmont League boy who hit .347 last season.

Dee Moore and Gus Brittain, both of whom are Cincinnati developments, will handle the catching. Each is a hard hitter.

Syracuse expects Cincinnati to send at least three able pitchers. The Chiefs have a pitching staff of nine now. John Gee, left-handed giant, who joined the Chiefs after graduating from Michigan last June, is one of the men on whom Bottomley depends for success this year. Jake Mooty and Earl Cook, both of whom were of splendid service last season, are also on the job once more, along with Frank Pearce, the big fast ball hurler.

Junior Thompson, who won two and lost one for Syracuse after joining the club late last August, may be another winner. Hill and Hemenway, a pair dug up in the West by Jack Corbett, have a chance.

Bobby Brown, who represents an investment of around $17,000 by Jack Corbett, owner of the Chiefs, in purchase price, salary and doctor bills, although he hasn't pitched a game in two years, is still around. Corbett prays someone will find a way to cure Brown's arm trouble.

BOBCAYGEON MAN IS GIVEN TEN DAYS FOR DRUNK DRIVING

"This case does not come within the class that the law can afford to overlook," declared Magistrate O. A. Langley in police court on Wednesday, as he found Herbert McGee, cattle drover of Bobcaygeon, guilty on a charge of having been drunk in charge of a motor vehicle on Charlotte Street on the night of April 7. McGee, well known and highly respected in his home district was sentenced to ten days in the county jail.

The accused returned to the witness stand when the court resumed yesterday and explained to his counsel, W. B. Gordon, that when he drove along Charlotte Street that night he was looking for one of the party who was to have returned to Bobcaygeon with him and that the fact that he was looking at the people on both sides of the street might have accounted for his car getting over on the wrong side of the road. He declared that when he was taken to the police station he asked to have a lawyer notified, a doctor called and for the opportunity to call up his home and all these requests had been refused.

Cross-examined by Crown Attorney McElderry, McGee declared that he had had only two glasses of beer that night and denied that he had drank any liquor in the restaurant where he had supper with one of his friends or in the car or anywhere else. He said that he had not produced his permit when asked for it on Charlotte Street because he had not been given time to do so. He also added that when the police stopped the car he was afraid that some of his party might have opened some of the liquor that was in the car. He denied that he had refused to let go of the bars in the police station explaining that he had rattled the bars three different times to attract the attention of the officers.

"Do you remember when the police were searching you and they put some of your property into your hat you kept pulling it out again? asked the Crown Attorney.

"Yes," replied the accused.

"Why did you do that?

"Well, I felt that something could be done about it" returned McGee.

Good Reputation

Joseph Handley, of Burnt River, former reeve, testified that McGee's reputation for good conduct and sobriety was high in the district and similar testimony was given by Thomas Martin, Warden of Victoria County.

The latter, cross-examined by Crown Attorney McElderry, admitted that the reputation of the men who had accompanied McGee to Peterborough on that occasion was not so high in the matter of sobriety as was that of the accused.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien was the last witness called by the defence. He testified that he had examined McGee yesterday afternoon and had arrived at the conclusion that he was a man who suffered to some extent from emotional instability that would be more apparent in times of excitement. The accused had defective eye sight, some nasal weaknesses, rapid heart action and a double hernia. The latter he said might affect the man's gait and there was also a possibility that it would interfere with his digestion.

Asked by Mr. Gordon as to whether he considered that it would be advisable to have a doctor called to examine men when there was any doubt as to the extent to which they were affected by drinking Dr. O'Brien said that was a very difficult question to answer.

Mr. Gordon's Suggestion

In his address on behalf of the accused Mr. Gordon again urged that when the question of drunkenness was disputable the opinion of a doctor should be sought as soon as possible after the arrest. Counsel made a strong plea for the dismissal of the case stressing the fact that McGee's evidence showed that he had only two glasses of beer, one at 6.30 o'clock and the other at around 8.30 o'clock.

Crown Attorney McElderry contended that despite the accused's denial, he had been drinking on other occasions that night than the two mentioned by McGee. The evidence of five police officers was that the accused was drunk, the crown attorney pointed out.

"After full consideration of all the evidence said Magistrate Langley." I have unhesitatingly come to the conclusion that the accused person was intoxicated at time he was in charge of that car on Charlotte St. Most of the evidence submitted by the crown was police evidence but I have paid close attention to it and I feel perfectly satisfied that this man's condition was that of an intoxicated person at the time he was driving his car that night."

Magistrate Langley commented on the fact that the defence had not seen fit to call as witnesses some of the men with whom McGee had been on the night in question. They were in a position to tell whether he had had more than the two drinks he had mentioned.

Not Satisfied

"I am not satisfied that his evidence that he had only two glases was the whole truth," the magistrate added.

Mr. Gordon asked that the penalty be made as light as possible and the Crown Attorney remarked that McGee had had a previously good character so that he was not objecting to a short sentence.

"Have you anything to say?" Magistrate Langley asked the accused."

"I don't think it would be any use," replied the accused.

"What do you mean by that? queried the Court.

"Well I felt from the very first they were out to get me."

"Do you mean to insinuate that I too was out to get you," said the Magistrate sternly." If I thought you did I would try you for contempt of court. I never saw you or heard of you before; you are merely a man that is before me being tried."

McGee made no answer whereupon the Magistrate sentenced him to ten days imprisonment.

HOMEWOOD PROBE NEARS CONCLUSION

GUELPH, Ont., April 14 (C.P.).—A Royal Commission inquiry into the affairs of Homewood Sanitarium, sitting under Commissioner F. H. Barlow, was expected to conclude its hearings here to-day and return to Toronto where sessions will resume after a week's adjournment.

The inquiry opened in Toronto on March 31 and moved to Guelph after two days' hearings. Into Commission records have gone charges of "railroading" of patients into the privately-owned institution and stories of alleged ill-treatment of others. In more than a week of hearings here sanitarium officials denied the charges.

Commissioner Barlow yesterday refused to admit as exhibits evidence given in two court actions in Montreal and Hamilton concerning removal of an interdiction order on Angus McIntosh, Montreal groceries importer. "If I were to admit this I would be admitting evidence taken in another court for another purpose," said Mr. Barlow. "It would be quite improper."

Commission Counsel C. L. Snyder asked that the testimony be admitted "to complete the picture" of Mr. McIntosh's case as changes in the Private Sanitaria Act were contemplated. He said two Homewood officials gave evidence in Montreal to assist the court coming to a determination and these officials therefore were in part responsible for the order of the court.

McIntosh, a patient in Homewood for nearl ytwo years, testified before the inquiry he had been drugged before being taken to the sanitarium and charged his wife and a Montreal doctor were responsible. Dr. Harvey Clare, superintendent of the institution, dismissed McIntosh's charges as irresponsible.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARGARET JOHNSON.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, April 14. — The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon of Mrs. Margaret Jane Johnston, who died at the family homestead on Friday last, after a somewhat lengthy illness. The deceased lady was in her seventy-third year, and had lived here since she was three years old. Her husband, Peter Johnston, died two and a half years ago. The funeral service was held at the house and interment was made in the family plot in Lasswade Cemetery, eight miles east of Apsley, the Rev. C. A. G. Spence officiating. The pallbearers were Hubert James, Dan Whitmore, T. J. Wilson, G. Stalker, Vernal Earnshaw, Gordon Earnshaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston had a family of twelve children, of whom ten are living, namely: Robert of Detroit, Archie of Toronto, George, Albert of Chandos, and Wilbert of Apsley, and daughters Zella in the West, Nellie, Coralie and May in Peterborough, and Ruth at home. Many beautiful floral emblems testified to the affection and esteem in which the deceased was held by a large circle of friends.

MRS. MARY ANN GILLESPIE

Mrs. Mary Ann Gillespie, resident of Peterborough for more than 70 years, died at her home at 110 Lock street on Thursday morning after a short illness. She was 84 years of age.

Born in Montreal, P.Q., she was a daughter of the late James Duncan and Bessie Johnston, and moved to this city when in her early 'teens. Her husband, Thomas Gillespie, died here in 1921. She was a member of Murray Street Baptist Church.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. R. C. Hambidge of Cavan, Mrs. C. E. Sisson of Toronto, Mrs. D. A. Loomis of Peterborough; and one son, Stanley of Peterborough. Four sisters also remain. They are Mrs. A. Kent, Mrs. F. Raines, Miss Nellie Duncan, all of Peterborough, and Mrs. W. Wilkinson of Millbrook.

The funeral will be held on Saturday, April 16, at 3 p.m., from the late residence at 110 Lock street; the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church officiating, assisted by the Rev. O. C. Elliott of St. George, Ontario. Interment will be made at Little Lake Cemetery.

OLD PAPER CZAR LIPMAN PASSES

NEW YORK, April 14 (CP) — Funeral services were held today for Abraham Lipman who came to New York as a boy from Russia and grew up to have more interest in old newspapers than in new ones. He died Tuesday at the age of 63.

He founded the Lipman Paper Company that marketed waste paper of the New York newspapers abroad for more than 20 years. For several years he did a gross annual business of $1,000,000.

Lipman exported the over-issue copies of the newspapers to China, Japan, India, Java and South Africa for wrapping purposes and for partitions in bamboo houses. About 30 per cent of the paper was sold for remanufacture as newsprint.

Lipman suffered from rheumatic ailments and founded the Mount Clemens Sanatorium at Mount Clemens, Mich., a charitable nonsectarian foundation for the care of persons similarly afflicted.

WHY do so many Canadian housewives always insist on the AYLMER label when buying canned fruits and vegetables?
There's a definite reason.
It's because AYLMER Brand has that distinctive natural flavour you enjoy so much . . . flavour that reminds you of the summer time . . . flavour that can only come from freshly harvested fruits and vegetables. AYLMER Soups have that same fine natural flavour . . . and you can prove it . . . by making the test in your own home.
Important!
The only way we can obtain AYLMER Natural Flavour is to prepare AYLMER Soups from fresh vegetables in season. Obviously this is the most economical way, and explains why AYLMER can give you more flavour for less money.

Eightieth Birthday Marked By Charles H. Huffman, Has Built Over 80 Homes

Built First House In City Which Did Not Have Fence Around It

On the eve of his eightieth birthday, Charles H. Huffman, 400 Downie Street, recalled today that in 1885, fifty years ago, he defied custom by deciding not to enclose his new house at 196 Dalhousie with a fence.

"When I got the house built and was levelling off the lawn to the sidewalk and seeding it, neighbors and others used to ask me when I was going to put up my fence," Mr. Huffman recalled to the Examiner. "I simply told them that I wasn't going to build a fence. The town council had passed a bylaw prohibiting cows and pigs from grazing and wandering about the streets.

'What about the dogs?' people asked me, and I said I had always liked dogs and I didn't think they would do any damage to the lawn. So I left it without a fence, and within the next two or three years other citizens did away with their fences. To the best of my memory I was the first man in Peterborough to leave my lawn open and do away with the fence idea.'

Every Home Enclosed

The younger generation today could hardly imagine the appearance of the streets of Peterborough fifty years ago when every house and lawn and garden was enclosed. Fences might be of pickets or close boards, wire or possibly stone, but whatever their material they were all over the city. It was an old and established custom recognizing the necessity of erecting a barrier against the domestic animals and fowl that were allowed to run at large when the streets were virtually the town's commons.

Mr. Huffmn was born in Manvers April 15th, 1858, son of T. L. Huffman. He came to Peterborough with his parents in 1864 and lived at the corner of Rubidge and Charlotte Streets, present site of the Shell Oil company's service station. In 1876 he was apprenticed to the late Erward Courtney as a cabinet maker, learned the trade in four years, and then became foreman in Martin McFadden's furniture factory on the Rogers mill raceway on the Ashburnham side of the river.

Built Street Cars

Twelve years later he was engaged with the Edison Company, now the Canadian General Electric Company, when they came to Peterborough. For a time he was in charge of the building of electric street cars at the C.G.E. for Hull and Aylmer, and finally he graduated into the building of houses with a spirit of initiative that was reflected by his departure from the tradition of fencing lawns and houses.

Mr. Huffman retired from active work some years ago, in fact he has been enjoying a long rest, but part of his contribution to the progress of Peterborough was the construction of more than eighty houses, many of them in the west and north sections of the city and rating in the more attractive and necessarily more expensive class.

Choir Will Sing 'The Darkest Hour'

For twenty-eight consecutive years the choir of All Saints' Anglican Church has presented programs of suitable music on Good Friday evenings.

The work chosen this year is "The Darkest Hour," the words being selected and the music composed by Harold Moore. Opening with a prologue, the cantata progresses with the chorus of disciples to the scene in the Garden of Gethsemane, and on to the trials before Caiaphas and Pilate, followed by the processional march to Calvary. The last scene is the Crucifixion at Calvary, and the whole work culminates with an epilogue and the hymn, "At the Name of Jesus" for the congregation and choir.

The choir will have the assistance of Mrs. Agnes Logan Green at the piano, which will be used in conjunction with the organ played by her mother, Mrs. W. A. Logan. A genuine musical treat is assured, and all seats are free.

NO ACTION TAKEN FOR WATER ISSUE AT CAMPBELLFORD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 14.—No action is to be taken in the matter of purchasing additional chlorination equipment until the town is in a stronger financial position, stated Mayor F. F. Long, following a meeting at which members of the Council and Water and Light Commission discussed the problem with H. Kay, an engineer from the Department of Health, Toronto. The special meeting was held on Tuesday evening in the board room of the water and light offices and was attended by the Mayor and Councillors Dorie, Donald and Burgiss and Commissioners Benor and Davidson.

The suggestion was made that the town should make provision for the installation of an additional chlorinator or build a water storage tank since under the present system a breakdown with the one chlorinating machine would disrupt the water service and force the Commission to pump raw water into the system. It was pointed out that the purchase of an automatic chlorinator would not completely solve the problem which exists at present. There should be two of the automatic type with one of the machines always in reserve, however with the Council favoring a storage tank which would hold a forty-eight hour supply of water it was deemed unnecessary to purchase the duplicate equipment.

LENTEN SERVICE IS HELD AT TRINITY

The Lenten service was held in Trinity Church Wednesday night. Rev. George Easton, M.A., was in charge. Miss Mebel Clarry presided at the organ and Mrs. R. Cowan sang the solo "The Lord Is My Shepherd" (Liddle). Rev. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's Church led in prayer.

The address was given by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church, his subject was Jesus' Agony in the Garden of Gethsemane. Did the three disciples he asked hear the prayer of Jesus? If they did they must have been really callous. Jesus humanity comes out here. He was young and did not want to die. Familiar places and people came to Him. He did not want to leave them.

There was the shadow of a cross in the garden. He was troubled in his mind, and asked if there was no other way out. He had besought His disciples to pray, to pray for Him. He was gentle with their weakness, and made excuses for their sleep. Jesus came out of the Garden victorious, as He did out of the desert., He had won the battle of His soul, the greatest battle of all.

We still say that the way of the cross is not a practical way. Jesus believed that it could be done. Some day we will adopt it. It is the way of sacrificial love. It means taking up a cross that you are not compelled to take. We know little of the meaning of sacrifice.

The service tonight will be held in St. James' United Church, Rev. E. W. Young will give the address.

Listed among the receipts read at Tuesday's meeting it was for $19.64, and represented his earnings as an alderman since the beginning of the year. Enclosed was a request that his office staff be given membership. Another donation was received from Albert Cuff, who had done some repair work at the Shelter and sent his receipted bill to the organization as a form of donation. Another source of revenue for the society was in the announcement it would benefit by five per cent. of the residue of the estate of the late Robert W. Reid.

KIWANIANS IN OSHAWA

Members of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club were guests of the Oshawa Club at an inter-city meeting on Wednesday evening, the entertainment for the evening being in charge of the Peterborough club. L. J. Pettit, president of the Peterborough organization, responded to the welcome from the Oshawa club, and W. Richardson then took charge of the program. Cliff Hall was heard in several habitant recitations and also in songs which were well received. Al Sharpe conducted an interesting question class for the benefit of the Oshawa members, many of the questions being so formed that they searched for the amount of knowledge possessed regarding the city of Peterborough. Mr. Sharpe provided a prize for the winner, and also another for the one individual member of the Oshawa club who could claim an attendance mark of 100 per cent. Mr. Sharpe himself has not missed a meeting in ten years. The speaker of the evening was A. R. Kennedy of the Examiner.

ADJUTANT BEREAVED.

The many friends of Adjutant Neil Warrender of the Salvation Army will regret to learn of the death of his father, George Warrender, in Toronto today. Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Knox United Church will take the service at the Salvation Army Temple on Good Friday morning.

PICKEREL SEASON

Although the season for maskinonge fishing has been advanced to June 20, the opening date for pickerel is the same as last year, May 16, closing on October 15, when the season for all game fish in the district ends. Use of artificial baits of all kinds are prohibited in this district from May 16 until June 20, and those who fish from boats must have them anchored. Meanwhile the trout men are talking about the opening of their season on May 1.

VETERAN IS DEAD.

The local police department has received word from the Chief Constable in Merritt, B.C., that John Henry Williams, veteran of the Great War, is dead in that town, and information is being sought as to his relatives. Williams was born in Peterborough in 1885, and served with the 67th Western Battalion overseas under the regimental number 103,002 Any one who knows anything about him is asked to communicate with the city police.

FARM BOARD APPRAISERS MEET

A meeting of the appraisers of the Canadian Farm Loan Board was held in Toronto, on April 7, to discuss the work of the coming season. The meeting was in charge of W. G. Whiteside, Branch Manager of the Board for Ontario, and special interest was created as Dr. J. D. McLean, Commissioner of the Board for all Canada, laid before the meeting his ideas and ideals for better service for the farmers of Ontario through the operation of this Board. A similiar meeting was recently held in London, and another will be held in Ottawa shortly, in order to cover the work in all of the Province.

A few new regulations have been adopted which will simplify borrowing in some cases and necessarily will meet the immediate approval of the farmers.

Anyone desiring information along this line should write to W. G. Whiteside, Canadian Farm Loan Board, Room 408, Dominion Public Buildings, Front St., W. Toronto.

It is expected that appraisals will commence in the third week of April, if weather permits.

POWNALL PROMOTED

LONDON—(CP).—Brigadier H. R. Pownall, who has been made Director of Military Operations and Intelligence, has been promoted to Major-General.

SPECIAL SERVICES MARK GOOD FRIDAY IN ALL CHURCHES

Protestant and Roman Catholic churches throughout Peterborough will be thronged with worshippers Good Friday. Many will observe the three hour devotions from noon until three o'clock, while in others the day will be marked by the celebration of Holy Communion.

The services on Friday will bring to a conclusion an entire week of devotion in the Presbyterian, United and Baptist churches in the city, where joint passion week services have been held. A service at St. James' United Church, with the sermon preached by Rev. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's United Church, will be held to-night in preparation for two communion services at Park Street Baptist Church and George Street United churches on Good Friday morning. Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Presbyterian church will preach at Park Street Baptist church, Rev. George S. Easton of Trinity United church at George Street United church. Congregations of Knox United, St. Andrew's United, Mark Street United, Murray Street Baptist, Trinity United, St. Paul's Presbyterian, St. James' United, Park Street Baptist, andGeorge Street United churches have taken part in the special services.

At All Saints' Anglican church holy communion was celebrated this morning and this evening a service in preparation for Easter communion was conducted by Rev. A. G. Emmett, Rector of St. John's church, Port Hope. On Good Friday morning at 10.30 o'clock, Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson will preach the last sermon in a series on "The Seventh Word from the Cross." At 8 p.m. the choir will sing the sacred Cantata, 'The Darkest Hour" by Moore.

At St. John's Anglican church the three hours' devotions from noon until 3 p.m. will be conducted by Rev. C. J. S. Stuart, M.A., Rector of St. Thomas', Toronto. At 8 p.m. a service will be held in preparation for the Easter communion.

Good Friday services will be held in all Roman Catholic churches during the day and evening. At St. Peter's Cathedral masses will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning with the Mass of the Presanctified. The Stations of the Cross will be observed at 3 p.m. At 7.30 in the evening another service will be held.

A communion service will be held at the Full Gospel Pentecostal church at 8 p.m. on Friday. The weekly children's service will be held at 6.15 on Thursday instead of the customary Friday.

YOUNG WOMAN IS ATTACKED BY DOG

To the perils which threaten pedestrians in the form of hit-and-run drivers can now be added another menace — the hit-and-run police dog.

The Examiner has been informed of an incident which illustrates the new threat to the safety of the individual on foot. The other night a young woman walking along Charlotte Street was knocked violently to the pavement by a big dog of the police brand which sprang at her from behind, struck her in the back and toppled her over, then continued blithely on its way. The victim struck her head sharply on the sidewalk and is still feeling the effects of the shock.

"The sidewalks are no longer safe," The Examiner's informant said. "Recently I myself was almost knocked over by a dog drawing an express wagon and in charge of a man. The outfit came hurtling down the south side of Charlotte Street at a time when the streets were filled with Saturday shoppers. What with these big police dogs stampeding around, knocking women and children over, boys on bicycles and girls on roller skates, the sidewalk is dangerous ground, especially as you have to be on the alert to make sure that some crazy motorist does not come rolling over the curb to get you."

To-night 6.15

At the FULL GOSPEL PENECOSTAL CHURCH the weekly children's service will be held instead of Friday.

FRIDAY, 8 P.M.—A Regular Good Friday Service when the communion will be observed.

A hearty welcome is extended to all.

Relief Schedule Per Capita Is Highest On Record Costs Have Been Increasing

Unless Assistance Be Increased It Will Be Serious For Peterboro'

The warning of A. E. Horton, deputy minister of Municipal Affairs, advising municipalities to budget for a 30 per cent reduction in estimated gross relief costs because of uncertainty regarding the contributions Ontario may receive from the Federal government during the rest of the year, was an unpleasant intimation to the city council and especially to Alderman Dutton, chairman of the relief committee.

"We anticipated in making up our budget for the year that the city's share of relief costs would be approximately 33 1-2 per cent," Alderman Dutton said. "In January we paid more than 30 per cent., in February 31 and in March 34 per cent, so our average for the first quarter has been slightly under one-third of the total cost of relief."

The three parties funding the relief bills, the Dominion and Provincial governments and the city, last year paid respectively 40, 40 and 20 per cent, and the local committee has not given up hope that this arrangement will be continued.

Need Greater Assistance.

"If we do not receive greater assistance from the Dominion government for the remaining nine months," Alderman Dutton said, "it will be a rather serious matter for Peterborough. Last November we increased the schedule of relief 5 per cent, and last month the schedule per capita was the highest in our record. Another factor tending to increase our relief costs was the necessity of assuming thirty-seven families affected by changes in two local textile mills.

It may be remembered that from the last few months of 1936 all through 1937 our relief costs had declined with a substantial reduction in the number of persons on our relief list. That improvement enabled us to make the 5 p.c. increase in the relief schedule, but now we are facing difficulties we did not anticipate. However, if the 40-40-20 basis of contribution is carried on this year I think we will be able to keep within our budget."

Former Constable Charged In Court

"I do not propose to hear this case," remarked Magistrate Langley when a charge against Joseph Wheeler former member of the Peterborough police force, of having created a disturbance on Stewart Street, was read in police court this morning.

"If I were to let you off, some people would say it was because you used to be a police officer," explained the Magistrate. "On the other hand, if I were to find you guilty others would say it was because the Police Commission was out to get you."

The case was adjourned therefore until next Thursday, when it is expected it will be heard by Magistrate Gee. Harry Spargo was the complainant against the former constable.

Transient Refuses To Work For Meal

Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure investigated a complaint received from an Otonabee farmer in regard to the conduct of a transient at noon Wednesday, but no charge was laid after the case had been looked into. The wanderer had been served a meal at the farmer's home and the affair wound up on a note of unpleasantness when the travelling guest asked for a second piece of bread and was refused. Strained feelings grew further strained when the farmer in his turn demanded that the transient do some work to pay for his meal, and this time it was the Nomad who refused. When the owner of the property tried to hold him, the visitor decided that he was not very happy about the whole affair, and took his departure.

A complaint was telephoned to Peterborough and Officer McClure found the transient in a shack near the C.P.R. line and brought him into Peterborough, afterwards allowing him his liberty.

Miss Madeline Jay
Presented With Gifts

Miss Madeline Jay of Aylmer Street, whose marriage to Alex. MacGregor takes place on Saturday, has been honored with many showers and presentations previous to her wedding.

Miss Margaret Hollingsworth entertained at the home of Mrs. E. O'Brien at a miscellaneous shower attended by about thirty young friends of the bride, who presented her with many lovely and useful things. On the same evening her co-workers of the Fractional Winding Department of the C.G.E. presented her with a silver casserole and a silver flower basket. Miss Jay expressed thanks to all her friends and extended an invitation to all to visit her at her home.

The Misses Wilma and Sybil Hall entertained at a delightful bathroom and gadget shower, when the rooms were decorated in pink and white, and a 'shower' made of cellophane held a large number of useful gifts. Thirty-five guests were present, who enjoyed an evening of games and music, followed by refreshments. The guest of honor was taken by surprise and expressed sincere thanks to her friends.

✧ ✧ ✧

Alex MacGregor
Honored By Friends

Alex. MacGregor, who is to marry Miss Madeline Jay on Saturday, was entertained by his fellow-workers of the Tool Design Department of the C.G.E. at a jolly party held at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club, when about twenty-five young men joined in the celebration.

A mock wedding was one of the main features of the evening, followed by an address and presentation of a four-way indirect lighting floor lamp and an electric wall clock. Suitable thanks were expressed by Mr. MacGregor, and after games, and music, refreshments were served.

The Switchgear Department of the C.G.E. sent Mr. MacGregor an automatic toastmaster and an electric iron, for which he expressed thanks on behalf of himself and his future bride.

Supper Meeting
Business Women's Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club was preceded by a most delightful buffet supper in the club rooms last evening.

Easter decorations were evident, especially at the large central table where mauve and yellow fowers were arranged in a tall silver basket, and silver candlesticks held lighted mauve candles. Perky yellow chicks also decorated the table.

Mrs. B. L. Stavart of the Community Welfare Council of Ontario, was a guest at supper and later spoke of her work in an interesting brief address. Musical entertainment included two much enjoyed solos by Miss Helen Lytle, "The Blind Ploughman" and "The Slave Man." The supper arrangements were in charge of Miss Josephine Gordon and her assistants.

Easter Meeting
Addressed By Mrs. Scott

There was a particularly large attendance at the Easter Thankoffering meeting of George Street Women's Missionary Society. The president, Mrs A. I. Brown opened the meeting with prayer, especially for the family of Mrs. E. W. Coon, where three members are ill.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. W. McMillan. The treasurers report for the quarter showed the splendid sum of $156 has been sent to the Presbyterial treasurer. The thankoffering collection amounted to $35.62.

The report of the Sick and Visiting Committee showed 94 calls made, and of the Community and Friendship Committee, 50 calls. During the Devotional period, Miss E. Might read the Bible lesson and Mrs. J. Brown led in prayer.

A comprehensive and interesting report of the Branch executive meeting held recently in Kingston, was given by Mrs. W. H. Morton, who mentioned particularly the tribute paid by the executive to the memory of the late Mrs. Clara Barnes of Peterborough.

The main feature of the afternoon was a splendid address by the guest speaker, Mrs. C. M. Scott, whose informative and delightful talk told of "Easter in Palestine". Many tourists are disappointed, said Mrs. Scott, but they should realize that it cannot be quite the same after all the centuries. A vote of thanks to the speaker was expressed by Mrs. E. E. Harvey and Mrs. A. F. Lane.

While the offering was being taken, Mrs. James Goldie delighted all with a solo, "O, It is Wonderful to Me"

Mrs. E. Wellwood and Mrs. R. Parnell were appointed to the Congregational Picnic Committee to meet the latter part of June The meeting was closed with prayer by the president.

Business Girls' Bowling Club Ends Fine Season With Banquet

The Business Girls' Bowling Club wound up the season with the annual delightful banquet at the Y.M.C.A. with the presentation of prizes.

The guests sat at a large U-shaped table most attractively decorated with Easter colors and flowers. Streamers of yellow and mauve were arranged down the centre of the tables, with bouquets of daffodils at intervals.

Miss Agnes Horsfield, chairman of the 1937-38 Games committee, presided, and at the head table also were G. H. Roper, representing the Y.M.C.A., and Mrs. Roper, Walker Jones, representing the Y's Men's Club, Jack Marshall, and the Misses Irene Howarth, Marion Irvine and P. Coleman, members of the Games committee for the season just closed.

Community singing was enjoyed during the dinner hour, under the capable leadership of Jack Marshall. Delightful numbers were also contributed by the musical trio, the Misses Gladys Blewett, Velma Scott and Jean McIlwain.

The toast to the King was proposed by G. H. Roper, and responded to in the usual manner. Votes of thanks and appreciation were expressed by Miss May Wilson to the Y.M.C.A., by Miss Phyllis Coleman to the pin boys, and by Miss M. Irvine to the artists.

Before the presentation of prizes Miss Horsfield spoke to the members, mentioning that 32 members had played during the season, average scores being from 113 to 165. The winning team had 42 points, the next team 38, 37, 36, 34 and 30.

The cup was then presented by Walker Jones to the Edna Mae Oliver's team. The cup was donated three years ago by the Y's Men's Club, and is each year presented by Mr. Jones, who also takes care of the scores, his work being much appreciated. Members of this year's cup team, who also received personal prizes include, J. Saunders, Captain, M. Wilson, E. Reid and A. Horsfield. Prizes were also presented to the following teams: Billie Burke's—Blanche Sloane, Captain, Margaret Johnson, Mayme Grose; Gracie Allen's—M. Sanderson, Captain, M. Skitch, M. Clemett, A. Johnston; high average, Mary Easson; high three, Alice Johnston; high single, P. Coleman; average prizes, M. Easson, P. Coleman, M. Wilson, M. Irvine, A. Horsfield, I. Roseborough, I. Howarth, Margaret Johnston, Maretta Sanderson, D. Lipsett, E. Reid, B. Sloane. After the presentation of prizes Miss Howarth expressed sincere thanks to Mr. Jones for his valued services.

The committe efor 1938-39 was appointed as follows: Miss J. Saunders, chairman, with the Misses Mayme Grose, Mary Richardson and Eleanor Reid.

Those present included in addition to the guests at the head table: The Misses G. Blewett, V. Scott, J. McIlwain, J. Saunders, M. Wilson, E. Reid, G. Kirn, O. Dulmage, M. Harvey, L. Green, M. RHEUMATICS?

Get Relief Similar to a "Spa" in Your own Home

They say conscience makes cowards of us all—but what about Rheumatic troubles? You never know where Rheumatic pains will strike next. You become worn out with anxiety.

And it's probably because your liver isn't working as it should! For this is often the cause of Rheumatic pains. See what happens. Your liver gets clogged, poisons creep sluggishly through your system. Uric Acid crystals form. Pain begins. When you move, these crystals catch you with their spiky points.

This message is not to remind you of your aches and pains but to help you to escape from them. You have heard of the famous European Spas where wealthy leisured people go to take the waters for their Rheumatic pains, Lumbago and Neuritis? Well, among the chief properties of these Mineral Springs are the elements of Sodium, Potassium and Lithium. Now, similar elements have been combined in Fynnon Salt. Stir a ½ teaspoonful in a glassful of water every morning. Drink this relief-giving saline—and enjoy a similar treatment that Spa visitors pay heavily for! Large bottle of Fynnon Salt, 75c at all druggists. 30

MEN LOVE Peppy GIRLS!

IF you are happy and peppy and full of fun, men will take you places. But, if you are cross and always tired out, men won't like you. Men don't like "quiet" girls. They want girls who are full of pep.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening discomforts from the functional disorders which women endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Pinkham's Compound, made especially for women from Nature's wholesome herbs and roots, has helped women for over 60 years.

Make a note NOW to get a bottle today WITHOUT FAIL from your druggist—let Nature help you be the lively, peppy girl you should be.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"He is the greatest artist who has embodied, in the sum of his works, the greatest number of the greatest ideas."—Ruskin.

And this:

From the mingled strength of shade and light
A new creation rises to my sight;
Such heavenly figures from his pencil flow
So warm with light his blended colors glow....
The glowing portraits, fresh from life, that bring Home to our hearts the truth from which they spring."—Byron.

Dear Friends:

Did you ever think of yourself as a canvas on which life is painting its colors, light and dark, brilliant and somber? If it were possible to paint anything in one color, no background, no light and shade, it would not appeal to us.

Even working with wool we need dark and light shades for contrast. And the same thing applies in our lives. The thing that appals most of us is our pleasures seem painted in water-colors which easily rub off, while our sorrows are done in indelible ink which we cannot erase without destroying the fabric.

Yet, if we accept the dark indelible colors, we find like the dark background of a picture, that it sets the other colors off. We need those as well as we need the lighter hours, for, if you have never known pain you cannot understand the God-blessed feeling when it leaves you.

Don't think I am suggesting that you try to enjoy pain of body or mind. That would be folly in the extreme. But a big part of our trouble is that we refuse to accept this dark background, we are resentful, we try everything to escape it, when, if we accepted it as part of life and living, it would be much easier for us.

Face the thing. If you must accept it, do so, and in this acceptance it will never be as bad as you thought it would be. If you don't have to accept it, then shrug it off, and forget about it. Childbirth and certain operations are very painful things, but are soon over. Are you then going to let the thought of this pain dwell with you forever to color everything that comes after?

How foolish that would be, yet so many let mental pain color the rest of their lives, some even trying to scrub out what is indelible only to find it cannot be done. We need background, light and shade, brilliant colors and pale ones, and if we take a hand in the blending of them, we shall find more light than dark, more brilliance than drabness.

Some let others be the artist on the canvas of life. Everyone we meet could leave a brushstroke there if we are fools enough to let them. But, just as you would not let every Tom, Dick and Harry dabble at the walls of your home so that it looked like a nightmare, so then, do not let all you meet dabble on the walls of your life.

There are those I meet whom I am glad to have do a little painting on my canvas, and there are others whom I would not even allow to see it. Be your own artist as much as you can. It's your life, so use some of your own ideas on it, and if someone wants to put too much black on it, don't let them.

If they are so fond of black, let them use it on their own canvas, but keep them from coloring yours. Sometimes the Great Artist sees we are getting the thing all out of proportion, and stretches forth His brush to even it up a little.

Sometimes also we stay too close to our painting, and we need to get back a bit and get a true perspective (the effect of distance on the appearance of objects). Haven't you ever been with a person who was buying a coat or dress, and you told them to stand back a little so that you could see it better. Do the same with your life, and you will see that we need both dark and light to get a true picture. More later.

HOLLYWOOD beauties are among the gayest of the strollers in the Easter parade.

To start the parade off right we read from left to right: First is lovely Irene Dunne. She is in the smart black and white. Her suit is silk bengaline, the skirt plain black and straight, the white jacket with broad shoulders and revers, and cut away at the hips, like a man's suit coat. A silver cloth jabot blouse makes the ensemble doubly smart, and the black envelope hat of silk faille with flattering veil, adds to the effect. Her other accessories are black suede.

More practical is the three-piece suit Joan Fontaine is wearing. It consists of a full-length coat and slim flared skirt of delft blue lido cloth and a sports jacket of rose pink and light and dark blue checks. A brimmed hat of white felt and white accessories accented with navy blue, complete her costume.

Slim and trim is Anne Shirley in her tailored suit which combines a three-button jacket of gray-blue herringbone with a straight skirt of midnight blue wool. The high-necked sweater of dusty pink matches her soft felt hat which is banded in blue grosgrain. Accessories are in midnight blue suede.

Black and Gray.

Ginger Rogers is in black wool crepe with pearl gray piping accenting the neckline and front treatment.

For tea and her more formal afternoons Irene Dunne has chosen a black wool crepe bolero costume, next, which has a shimmering sequin blouse. The belted skirt is gored, and the waist-length bolero has wide revers of soft delft blue velvet. The glittering high-necked tuck-in blouse is in blue crepe with blue and gold sequins hand-sewn in a scroll design.

One word about the printed dress. We find one at the right of the picture. This has a high neckline, an accordion pleated skirt, and is made of navy rayon crepe with a scattered floral print pattern in bright colors. The tied belt is of grosgrain ribbon in two tones.

The ladies of Grace Presbyterian Church held an all-day quilting in the church basement on Tuesday, when two quilts were completed—one in "hearts and darts" pattern, in blue and yellow, and the other in "bow tie" design.

At the noon hour a pot luck dinner was served, and in order to finish the work on hand, a meal was served at the tea hour for which a small charge was made.

The workers included: Mrs. J. M. Armstrong, Mrs. R. J. McMahon, Mrs. Milton Falls, Mrs. H. Ball, Mrs. Joseph Lancashire, Mrs. C. Thorndyke, Mrs. H. C. Lord, Mrs. M. Syer, Mrs. S. E. Eakins, Mrs. J. R. Thompson, Mrs. Fred Whyte, Mrs. A. Coyte, and Miss M. Hales.

Mr. W. H. Coombe's many friends will regret to learn that he took ill, with one or two fainting spells, in his store on Tuesday, and is now confined to bed at his home, Anne street; Dr. M. E. Hobbs being the medical attendant.

Mrs. J. H. Gillespie and Mrs. (Dr.) J. Green, of Peterborough, were guests of Miss Pearl Burnham on Tuesday.

Several car-loads of members of the Woman's Association of St. Andrew's Church drove to Peterborough on Tuesday evening, and attended a shoe demonstration at the Lillow-Walkwel store.

The Young People's Union met in regular session on Tuesday, at 8 p.m., with over thirty present, opening with a sing-song led by Ken Kidd, with Elwood Falls presiding at the piano.

During the business period, which was in charge of the president, B. B. Dawson, it was decided to hold an Easter Sunday "Sunrise Service" at 5.15 a.m. on the hill at the west end of the village. Gordon Might took the program, as assistant citizenship convenor. Assisting were Harry Freelove, who read the lesson; Billy Kerr, and Earl Edworthy, who told the story, after which all lights were turned off and candles lighted, while Kenn Kidd sang, "Where He Leads Me I Will Follow."

The meeting closed with a recreational period, under Bea McDowell, and the Benediction.

One More Wedding

By HELEN WELSHIMER

READ THIS FIRSTS:

Garry Page, New York columnist, has just sailed for a few weeks abroad. Among his friends at the pier to see him off was Barbara Kingsley who came to New York the day before to fill a vacancy on a child magazine at the suggestion of her close friend Natalie Kendall. Barbara and Garry became interested in one another a few weeks previously when she was society editor of the Martinsville Post and Garry had come to Martinsville for a wedding. Jack Metcalf, an author and friend of Garry, takes a kindly interest in Barbara after Garry sails. Barbara finds an apartment. Few days later Ruth Merryweather, attractive heiress and another close friend of Garry's invites her to luncheon at her penthouse. Ruth asks Barbara permission to meet Bill Jameson, an old friend, now married, for a chat in Barbara's apartment. Julia comes to New York for a visit but fails to call Barbara, her cousin, whom she dislikes. At a dinner party which both attend Julia drinks heavily and insults Ruth Merryweather.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 11

"You're the girl who wanted to marry Bill, aren't you? But all of your money couldn't buy him!"

AS JULIA finished the taunt she had flung so brightly at Ruth Merryweather, a little silence grew wider and wider, like a circle that is made when a stone is thrown into water. It was a tense quietness in which half a dozen people sought for the right words to say. While they hunted, Julia said again:

"It must be very hard to want a man and not be able to get him when all your life you have had everything else you want."

Bill Jameson spoke first, his face flushed and his voice determinedly cheerful. "Where did you get such a cock-eyed idea, Julia? You flatter me! If there's any hope in Ruth's direction, I'll be strutting around like a Beau Brummel looking for new conquests."

"You read the columnists, do you, Miss Kingsley?" Jack Metcalf asked. Then, before she could answer: 'Such an opinion as you hold sounds like something they manufactured. If a man buys a chocolate soda for a girl in this town, it gets around that they're starting to the city hall."

Even Julia sensed that something was wrong. Through the fog that had crossed her mind, as she sipped the drink in the small glass, she had known that she was being too daring. Now she shrugged slim shining white shoulders, as she said: Sorry if I trespassed on forbidden territory. Consider me back in my own back yard again."

Barabara sat white and dark-eyed. She knew that Julia's meaning was based on a fundamental jealousy of this girl who had access to the material riches which the Kingsley family never had had. Under the stimulus of the drink. Julia had spoken out loud, that was all. But to Ruth it would appear that the whole world was talking about her and the man who had kissed her lightly and said goodby when Marie smiled at him.

Marie—cool, inscrutable eyes observed her. She had black hair, shining and a little curly, black eyes, a pretty face for a china doll—yes, a rather plump china doll. Men loved in strange places, though.

Now Ruth was speaking, her low voice falling like a melody against the music which suddenly was sweet not swing. Bill and I had some fun at football games and childish things, Julia. I entertained him, and he amused me, while we waited for love in capital letters to take a train or plane and hurry our way. But little towns do fail to impersonalize friendships, don't they?"

Score one for Ruth!" Barbara murmured into Jack Metcalf's ear.

Your cousin hasn't any manners." he replied. "Want me to teach her some?"

"No," she answered. "She'll like the course and want to move in with me while she stays to complete it."

"I take it you don't love her?"

"Funny, isn't it, when she's so beautiful? It's the way I feel about caviar. It's expensive enough but I hate the shiny black fish eggs."

Ruth left early. Barbara wanted to go along but she was afraid that the group might think Ruth needed comforting. When she had gone, Julia, sobered by food, spoke.

"What did I say to anger her? Was it something about her failure at romance?"

"You tried to dig up a skeleton where there isn't one," Barbara lied. "I take it that any man in the place would see stars if Ruth smiled at him."

"Any man—even Garry Page?" Julia responded distinctly.

"And why not? She's a darling!" came Barbara's answer.

"Come on, Barbara, let's dance," someone said and she was swept onto the floor. Down below, in the harbor, the ships rode at anchor, and the water was so bright in the moonlight it shone as though it had been polished for its part in the maritime set. The Statue of Liberty held her torch resignedly, the great buildings, sprinkled here and there with square panes of light, marched at the harbor's edge. A boat, far out, held a light or two. Some day, soon now, Garry would be coming back.

"I'm going home now, Jack," Barbara said when the musicians paused.

"I've had all I want, too. Let's make our apologies and duck out in a hurry."

The taxicab went over the bridge and through the black canyons of Wall Street, came to the arch at Washington park, and swung around the corner to Barbara's apartment.

"Would you like some coffee?" Barbara asked.

"I'd adore it. I'm hungry."

"I'll make hamburger sandwiches, too," she added, laughing. "I've been eating in, and the pantry is stocked after a fashion."

They sat and talked for an hour. Barbara, who had taken a dislike to Jack the first time she had met him, still did not approve of him. He was ruthless where she had been taught to be careful. But she began to understand the magnetism he would assert for a girl like Natalie or Julia.

Suddenly he changed the subject. "I like you. You're real. I don't have to dig through layers of superficialities to get at you. You see through me, too, so I can admit life's a stage to me and anything within e'er—well, discretion goes."

"I intended to hate you," Barbara answered. "I don't approve of you. Hearts aren't eggs, you know. An egg will crack and go to pieces and that's the end of it but you carry a heart around with you and hear the pieces knocking together."

When he stood up to leave, Jack said: "Go places with me, now and then? How about the yacht races next week? The annual internationals are on. The Scandinavians and Finns are here, and I know a couple captains."

"I don't think I can." She bit her tongue. She almost had said, "Garry will be back and I will be busy." How did she know that she would be? "I'll let you know in a day or two," she answered. "I'd like to go if I can." The telephone interrupted. At the same moment the door bell started a series of ejaculations.

Get the phone, will you, Jack?" she asked. I'll look after the door.

"Cable for you," a boy's voice told her through the speaking tube.

"Oh, bring it up!" The words gathered wings and flew down the stairs. She opened her pocketbook for a tip, and went into the hall. She wouldn't open the message until Jack left.

He was just hanging up the receiver. "Your cousin, the gal with the yellow hair."

"Julia? What could she want?"

"A bed for the night.' '

"Here?"

"You guessed it the first time. Sit down, Barbara. Remember cousinly love and how you used to make mud pies together."

"We threw them at each other always before we finished playing," she answered, a dimple flashing at the memory. "I was the better shot—then. What happened to her?"

"She had some differences with Marie and Bill about her conduct. I gather Bill thought she was outrageous and even Barie considered that she may have offended the golden goose. So she went back to their place, packed her bags, and awaits your hospitality."

Barbara looked at the rose-red draperies, swaying in the breeze; looked down at the great fireplace where logs would begin to glow in another month or two; at the gate-legged table which would be gala with her yellow cups and saucers and plates and low brass candleholders. It was her kingdom. For Julia to come would upset the pattern. But Julia was her cousin—Julia's father had reared her when her own parents died, though it was her father's money that had helped finance the rearing. There might have been enough left for her last two college years if Julia's mother had not wanted Julia to have some boarding school at her cousin's expense.

"When will she be here?" she asked wearily.

"In half an hour. She liked the idea that I'm around. Sort of surprised her, too. You know, she likes me."

"Julia always was strange," Barbara murmured. "It's nice you are here to make her welcome."

Is It Hard for You to Write Letters?

These Tips Give You Letter-Ease

No wonder you're troubled, Peg When Dorothy Newcomer gets your note, she'll never guess what a charming, vivacious person you really are.

"I'm writing to ask whether you'd like to join our bridge club," you start out hesitatingly. "It sure would me nice to have you with us. We all hope you'll consider favorably . . ."

How much easier and more friendly to say instead, "Won't you join our bridge club? It would be fun to have you with us. We all hope you'll say yes . . ."

Small changes can turn an awkward stumbling letter into a gay, social one. Avoid roundabout expressions like "I'm writing to ask"; stiff phrases like "consider favorably"; slips in grammar like "sure would" for "surely would."

To a good friend, pretend you're talking. Write, "How have you been?" "It was a treat to hear from you." "What's new?"

Our helpful 32-page booklet gives sample letters for all occasions. Points of good usage. Invitations Sympathy.

Homemaking Is About the Finest Career a Woman Can Enter, So She Should Not Continue Outside Work After Marriage Unless This Is Necessary

DEAR MISS DIX—Should women continue to work outside the home after marriage? We have a course in our college called Family Problems, in which we are to discuss this subject and we would like to know what you think of it.

D. R. G.

Answer:

It all depends upon whether the girl needs to work to earn money, or whether she needs employment for her soul's good, or whether she has some especial talent that makes her capable of doing work that the world needs. Abstractly, there is no more reason why a girl should throw up her job when she gets married, if she still wants to keep on with it, than there is why a boy should become a loafer just because he takes unto himself a wife.

Personally, I think it a pity that girls with rich fathers and able to support them, and who have no particular call to any vocation, should crowd into offices and stores just because they are bored and because they consider business offices better grounds for husband-hunting than parlors. They fill the places that girls who must earn their own bread and butter should have. Also, I think it is a pity that when a girl marries a man who earns enough to take care of her that she does not henceforth make her home her career and turn over her job to some girl who will be as glad to get it as she was in the first place.

But, even so, if these girls who do not need work continue to work outside the home after marriage, it is their own affair. Not every woman is born domestic, and there are plenty of girls to whom the atmosphere of the commercial world is the very breath of life. We despise the rich young man who is nothing but an idler and a playboy. Why should we criticize the rich girl who wants to work instead of being a playgirl?

For a girl to keep on with her job after marriage often enables a poor young couple to marry while they are still young and ardent and romantic, instead of having to wait until all the freshness and thrills have gone out of their love. The wife's earnings added to the husband's earnings makes it possible for them to take care of dependent members of their family, or to buy a home, or go into a business that is the foundation of their fortune. Mother's pay envelope often means a better environment for the children to grow up in, a better education, medical treatment which they could not have otherwise.

But, on the other hand, the home-staying wife has a better chance of making a success of her marriage than the one does who works outside of her home. The very fact that the wife is dependent on him is a steadying influence on a man and a spur to his ambition. And every man's dream of marriage is coming home at night to a wife who is waiting for him with a good dinner on the table. Not one who is detained at the office or who comes home tired and worn out and nervous. Home-making is a chore big enough of itself for any woman.

* * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—My father is 72 and has nine living children. He is very desirous of marrying a girl of 21. Do you believe that a girl of 21 would marry a man of his age for anything but his money? Would there be any happiness for him in such a marriage? Why do old men seek young girls for wives?

D. R. F.

Answer:

Your father must be in his dotage if he even contemplates such a marriage. If he could still think clearly he would know that there could be no possible congeniality between a girl of 21 and a man of 72, and that the only reason that she is marrying him is just for the money she can get out of him. She thinks that she can sell a few years of her life to him for more money than she could make in any other way.

Youth calls to youth—never to age. Indeed, there is something physically repulsive to youth in age, and mentally youth regards age and its interests and pursuits as insufferable bores. At 21 a girls wants to play. She wants to dance and make merry; rush madly from place to place; to be doing something strenuous every minute of the day. She wants to talk to boys in catch phrases and laugh over silly jokes that have neither wit nor humor in them. She doesn't want to sit at home with an old man of evenings or listen to him talk, no matter how intelligent he is.

Youth and age have never mated happily, but the experiment has never been so disastrous as it is now when modern girls have thrown away all of the taboos that prevailed when your father was young and which would make a young wife shock him to death by doing things which she considers she has a perfect right to do. The reason old men are crazy about young girls is because they have some sort of idea that they can renew their youth in their young wives. But only superhuman vanity makes an old man believe that a girl wife loves him for himself alone.

* * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—What dowry should a girl have when she marries?

SALLY.

Answer:

Not many American girls have any dowry except the linen that is in their hope chests. Parents in this country are in the habit of saying that they do not have to give prizes with their daughters to get them married, as they do in other countries.

But I think that the dowry system is founded on good, hard sense, and that it would go a long way toward promoting happiness in marriage if every girl had a little money of her own in her pocketbook when she went to her husband and was not entirely dependent on him. I think if fathers and mothers would dress their daughters less expensively, indulge them in fewer extravagances and save this money for their dowries that it would be a lot better for the girls.

And certainly it would be easier on the husbands. It is a rank injustice to cultivate silk lingerie tastes in a girl and then expect the poor young man who marries her to provide it without any help from Papa.

THE EXAMINER FASHION SERVICE

Here's a simple dress, that is so popular with women of all ages. You'll love it, made up in dotted sheer prints. It's especially trim and neat for town wear, yet dressy enough for afternoons at bridge or tea. Its front panel effect is particularly slenderizing. It has a vee neck which smart women find so becoming and comfortable. A crisp accent would be pleated white organdie tucked in at the neck and for the pleated jabot. The latter disguises undue breadth about the waistline area. For summer vacation wear, the collared version without the jabot is smart in solid or print cottons, linen and washable pastel silks. Easy to sew. Just cut it out....and without any effort.... it's finished and at a surprisingly low cost. You'll want both versions.

Style No. 2859 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50-inches bust. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S MUD PIE

Mrs. Longears looked at her husband then she screamed.

"Wiggy, whatever has happened to your face?" asked the rabbit lady.

"Tootsie threw a mud pie on my nose," laughed Uncle Wiggly. And I think you will agree with me that a rabbit who can laugh after being smacked on the nose with a mud pie is quite a gentleman.

"Why ever did Tootsie do that?" asked Mrs. Longears. "And where is she? I must punish her for doing such a thing."

"Oh, no, she didn't intend doing it," said Uncle Wiggily as he hopped up to the bathroom to wash his face. "She and Wootsie ran out in the rain to make mud pies. I went after them and when Tootsie threw a mud pie at the fence, as she had seen it done in the movies, she didn't aim straight and she hit me."

"Oh, my goodness!" said Mrs. Longears as she hurried to help Nurse Jane wash the mud off Tootsie and Wootsie.

When Uncle Wiggily came down stairs with his face clean and his pink nose twinkling again, the rain had stopped and he said:

"Now I can go adventuring."

Laughs as He Goes

"You had better wear your rubbers," said his wife.

Uncle Wiggily did and soon he was hopping up hill and down hill over the fields and through the woods on Orange Ice Mountain where he lived in his hollow stump bungalow.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the rabbit gentleman as he hopped along.

"Are you laughing at the way Tootsie hit you with a mud pie?" asked a Robin who had seen what had happened.

"Yes, and I am also laughing when I think what fun I had when I was a little rabbit and made mud pies," said Mr. Longears.

"It must have been fun," said the Robin.

"Did you ever make mud pies," asked Uncle Wggily looking at a rain puddle near where he stood and noting the soft, squidgie squodgie mud on the edge of it.

"No, I never did," said the Robin. "I have pulled man a good worm out of the mud, though," he chirped "If you want mud birds look for barn swallows. They use sticky mud in building their nests."

"Yes, I have seen them," said Uncle Wiggly and he laughed again.

"Why are you laughing?" asked the Robin.

"I was just thinking," chucked the rabbit gentleman," what fun it would be for me to make a few mud pies now."

"Why don't you?" asked the Robin. "I might if I knew how."

"Oh, I haven't forgotten how," said the rabbit gentleman. "And I have, here, everything I need. There is no one to see me, either."

Reminder

"I am looking at you," the Robin reminded Mr. Longears.

"Oh, I don't mind you," said the rabbit. "It's my wife and Nurse Jane I wouldn't like to catch me making mud pies. They might laugh But as long as they aren't here, I think I'll make some."

"Please do," begged the Robin. "I would like to see you."

So Uncle Wiggily began making mud pies as he had done when he was a little boy rabbit. He made some round and some square and some with raisins in. Of course the raisins were make-believe, being only stones.

Uncle Wiggily made some mud pies hard and some mud pies soft and squoshie and then when he had put them in a row in front of him he knew he had enough fun.

I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's Mistake Easter Egg. And I hope the rye bread will cover the potato salad with a slice of Swiss cheese, so it won't catch cold.

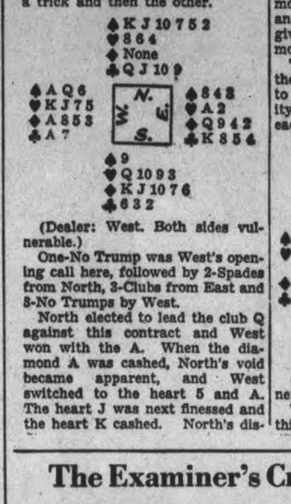
"The Authority on Authorities"

DOUBLE LEAD THROWS

ANY KIND of a lead-throwing play which makes the opponents present a trick to you is a pretty maneuver. The simpler forms of these occur with fair frequency. But once in a blue moon there comes a chance to use two such plays in the same deal, perhaps making first one defender give you a trick and then the other.



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

One-No Trump was West's opening call here, followed by 2-Spades from North, 3-Clubs from East and 3-No Trumps by West.

North elected to lead the club Q against this contract and West won with the A. When the diamond A was cashed, North's void became apparent, and West switched to the heart 5 and A. The heart J was next finessed and the heart K cashed. North's distribution was now pretty well known to the declarer, so he cashed the club K and threw North in with a club. After winning two clubs, North was forced to lead a spade to West's tenace in that suit. The spades Q and A were followed by a heart to South's Q, it being evident now to declarer that South had nothing to return but diamonds. South took the heart Q and diamond K and then had to give up a trick to dummy's diamond Q.

Two clubs and a heart were all the tricks the opponents were able to capture because of West's ability to time properly the placing of each opponent in the lead.

BORN

AGNEW. — At Nicholls Hospital, April 13, to Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Agnew, a son, Robert Cyril.

DIED

GILLESPIE, Mrs. Mary Ann. — On Thursday, April 14, 1938, at her home, at 110 Lock street, Mrs. Mary Ann Gillespie, relict of Thomas Gillespie, a resident of Peterborough for 70 years, in her 85th year. Funeral on Saturday, April 16, 1938, at 3 p.m., from her her residence, 110 Lock street; the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church officiating, assisted by the Rev. O. C. Elliott of St. George, Ontario. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

WALKER.—In memory of Mrs. Alice Walker, who died one year ago to-day.

We know that she is happy
In our Saviour's home above;
Growing fairer as she lingers
In the sunshine of His love.

—Ever remembered by Husband and Family.

SWISTELNIKOFF. — In loving memory of our dear Father, who passed away on April 15, 1937.

One year has passed, dear father,
Since you were called away;
How well do we remember
That sad and weary day.
You suffered much, you murmured not,
We watched you day by day,
We cried and prayed that your dear life
Would not be taken away.

—Sadly missed by his Wife and Family.

MAHOOD. — In fond and loving memory of our dear baby, Helen, aged seven months, who went to be with Jesus just one year ago to-day.

Deep in our hearts lies a picture
Of a loved one gone to rest,
In memory's frame we shall keep it,
Because she was one of the best.
Our lips cannot speak how we miss her,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how we miss her
In our hearts that are lonesome to-day.

—Sadly missed by Mama and Daddy, June and Wilma.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. Isaac McInroy and family wish to thank the attending doctors and nurses of Nicholls Hospital for their attentiveness, also the Rev. Mr. Gault, and friends for their kindnesses.

ROSENEATH M.S. PLANS CONCERT IN NEAR FUTURE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, April 14. — The regular meeting of the W.M.S. of Roseneath United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon in the town hall. Mrs. A. J. Campbell had charge of the study period, the chapter presented was "A Manifold Ministry." It was presented in seven distinct parts, and dealt with home mission centres in Canada for foreigners, Christian social service in Japan, and Christian rural re-construction work in China, Japan, Korea and India.

Mrs. C. W. Varcoe sang "O Jesus I have promised," and Miss Lavigne McMillan sang as a solo, "Alone," both numbers appropriate to the subject of Mrs. Campbell's talk.

During the business session Mrs. C. W. Varcoe and Mrs. K. Harvie were appointed to gather the offering on the occasion of the Easter Sunday thank service. The corresponding secretary and the president reported several propositions advanced by societies regarding presenting pictures and plays. It was decided on motion to arrange for some form of entertainment in the near future.

Mrs. C. W. Varcoe kindly offered her home for the May meeting. Mrs. K. Harvie will have charge of the study book.

St. James' W.A.

The regular meeting of St. James' Anglican church W.A. was held on Tuesday afternoon, April 12, at the home of Mrs. Earl Braithwaite. Mrs. E. Timlin, president, presided and led in the reading of the Litany, during the opening exercises.

Routine reports were read by department secretaries and by Mrs. R. B. Nichol, treasurer. Miss Jessie Johnson, Dorcas secretary reported receipts of $6.30 from sale of articles. Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite was appointed a delegate to the Diocesan convention in Toronto in April, on motion of Mrs. James Webb and Mrs. J. Timlin.

Articles were donated to the bale, and extra articles may be left at Miss J. Johnson's, where bale will be packed by Mrs. H. McCracken, Mrs. James Webb and Mrs. R. B. Nichol. The society is sponsoring a picture show to be held on April 25 in the Orange Hall. Local talent will assist and home made candy will be sold during intermission.

The first chapter of the study book was presented by Miss J. Johnson, the subject: "The Pattern of the New Testament." Mrs. James Timlin will present the second chapter at the next regular meeting. Miss Eunice Webb contributed a fine article, "The Highway," and Mrs. James Timlin read a story, "An Oblation of great Gladness."

A parcel of goods was opened and distributed among the members who will make up various articles for sale.

The Rector closed the meeting and refreshments were served by the hostess, while a pleasant social hour was spent.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Comfort and children, Maxine and Trevor, of Hamilton, were week-end visitors with Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Varcoe.

Looking Back On This Date

APRIL 14

Fifty years ago and less Montreal was subject to severe floods practically every spring, and grandparents of today can tell this generation of the trials they had in "the good old days" when winter was loosening its grip upon the St. Lawrence. For years these floods were taken as a matter of course, a sort of "visitation from God," which had to be taken as it came and had to be included in the insurance estimates. But after a great flood in 1887, temporary wooden ramps were put up along the waterfront and the floods were shoved over to the south shore. In time these ramps were replaced by the massive granite walls which now line the harbor and avert serious floods.

Fred Williams

The memory of those floods comes back to me when I am reminded by an entry in my records that on this date in 1881 the congregations of two churches, St. Stephen's (Anglican) and colored Baptist, were suddenly surrounded by water during the Sunday evening service and we had to organize rescue parties in boats to get the women out on to dry land. In other years Craig street, the chief business downtown traffic thoroughfare, was flooded several feet resembling not a little the original creek which first ran there and divided Maisonneuve's little settlement from the unknown country to the north. The clearing of snow from the streets in winter, the coming of the electric street cars and, more recently, of the motor car, have changed spring conditions in Montreal so that it is difficult to convince young folk of today that there was often snow on the main streets well up to May 1.

Two hundred and eighty years ago (April 14, 1658) the first beer was brewed in Canada. There was so much drinking of "hard stuff" among the townsfolk, despite all the church and the governor could do, that Talon, the Intendant, decided to build a brewery and to open beer-drinking rooms. That brewery was long one of the sights of Montreal. Its successor on part of the same site is still serving its patrons.

DOCTORS CHECK KIDNEYS FIRST

Because they know that healthy Kidneys remove from the blood the waste matter —the excess acids and poisons, formed by the ever-changing human body as it decays and rebuilds itself. But if the Kidneys fail, illness surely follows. Backache, Rheumatism, Impure Blood, Lack of Energy, Too Frequent Urination, Sleeplessness, Headaches—all may result from faulty kidneys. As a health safeguard—as a wise precaution—regulate your kidneys frequently with Dodd's Kidney Pills—for over fifty years the favorite Kidney remedy—non-habit forming—safe. 105

Mrs. Archie Jones has been confined to her home through illness.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIÈVE KEMBLE

For Friday, April 15.

Peculiar, intriguing and quite unexpected denouements mark this day as a memorable and eventful one, according to the lunar and mutual aspects. There may be sudden developments that may result in a definite change of plans. This may be brought about by a rather mysterious letter that may result in swift decisions and actions.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of sudden moves of rather decisive importance in shaping the future life. A surprising letter, a mysterious document or other writing may bring about a definite change in plans, surroundings and interests.

A child born on this day may have a spectacular career. It may have a romantic and adventurous nature, with much talent and desire for experience and culture in extraordinary fields of expression, perhaps poetry, music or art in modernistic forms.

For Saturday, April 16

Despite some upsetting and dubious conditions, this may prove to be an exciting and thrilling day, with much progress and prosperity, satisfaction and fulfilled desires. The latter may have a business slant, while the adverse situation is likely to be involved with romance or the affections.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of conflicting situations, with much progress, good fortune and gratification. However, sudden events of a rather startling complexion may occure in the private life. It may be a blasted courtship, a disrupted home or a rather devastating circumstance in social, artistic or entertainment engagements.

A child born on this day may have conspicuous talents in art, music, literature or in social graces and attainments which may give it materal success and high position. Nevertheless, it may not have such satisfaction in its romantic affiliations.

OUT FOR MODERATOR

SYDNEY, N.S., April 14—(CP).—Rev. Dr. Donald MacOdrum of Brockville, Ont., was nominated today for Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada by the presbytery of Cape Breton and Newfoundland.

If elected, he would be the first Cape Breton-born Clergyman to hold this office. He was born at Marion Bridge, N.S.

Japs Hard Pushed By Chinese Shantung Drive

Kai-Shek's Troops Surround Yihsien Garrison While Guerillas Force Rescue Army to Retreat

SHANGHAI, April 16. (AP).—A Chinese army vigorously assaulted Yihsien in Shantung province today with artillery, bombing planes and infantry, determined to repeat the great victory it tasted at Taierchwang, 20 miles farther south.

New field guns were wheeled up and hammered at the walls, after cracking Japanese positions on the east, southeast and northeast. Planes dropped bombs. Chinese infantry systematically attacked Japanese machine-gun nests dotting the hills and countryside surrounding the town.

General Chiang Kai-Shek's commanders declared fall of the city was certain, as all its supply lines were cut. A considerable part of the town was in flames.

From foreign sources it was learned another Japanese force which had fought its way northward toward the east end of the Lunghai railway had met a serious reverse at Wuyu in Kiangsu province.

The Japanese infantry vanguard, it was reported, out-distanced its supporting artillery and was ambushed. Sustaining severe casualties, the Japanese were forced to fall back and dig in for defence.

Relentlessly Chinese irregulars continued widespread demolition of highways built through southern Shantung province during years of a good roads campaign. Guerilla attacks extended to the environs of Shanghai, where 1,200 Japanese wounded have been brought in during the last 10 days.

REVERSES IN WAR THREATEN CRISIS IN TOKYO CABINET

TOKYO, April 16—(AP).—Faced by the insistence of army and navy leaders for sweeping measures to push to a quick conclusion the conflict in China, Premier Fumimaro Konoye to-day was reported threatening to resign.

The cabinet was said to be split on the issue of support of the Premier, providing the first real government crisis since the war in China started more than nine months ago.

As a result of a censorship on news from China, where Japanese army spokesmen have refuse dto confirm or deny reports of great losses in fighting at Taierhchwang, the public was in the dark on developments. Wild rumors circulated.

The Minister of War, General Hajime Suyiyama, Navy Minister Mitsumasa Yonai and Home Minister Nobumasa Suyesugu were leading the faction demanding application of the national mobilization law and the sending of heavy reinforcements to China, it was reliably reported.

Finance Minister Okinobu Kaya; Koichs Kido, Minister of Education, and Suehiko Shiono, Minister of Justice, were said to be in the opposite camp, backing the Premier in his refusal to accede to the demands.

The Premier's position is made difficult because he has promised the national mobilization bill will not be applied during the Chinese conflict. The measure, bitterly opposed in parliament, gives the government unlimited power to draft the nation's man-power and economic strength in an emergency.

Span Sinks Amidst Fortune In Rum

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., April 16.—(AP).—A United States custom official said last night that wreckage of the famed "honeymoon bridge" which sank Tuesday lies in Niagara river's "richest" area. But T. Marham Hennessey, deputy customs collector, added, the wealth, like the bridge, is unrecoverable.

"The water near which the bridge section sank, consists of a liquor cache worth $5,300,000," he asserted.

"The liquor was seized from smugglers and dumped into the river by customs men during prohibition days.

FRANCO'S TROOPS SWEEP TO COAST SPLIT LOYALISTS

HENDAYE, France, April 16.—(AP). — General Franco's insurgents, their red and gold banners planted in the sands of the Mediterranean shore, pushed northward along the coast to-day.

They began closing in on the delta town of San Carlos De La Rapita. Their strategy was to force a crossing of the Ebro river and take Tortosa from the east, since their columns have been blocked for days in the approach from the west.

With Government Spain split in two, fighting was resumed. Desperate bands of government militia sought to block the path of the insurgents. Government aviation bombed towns freshly fallen to the insurgents.

Reports reaching the border said General Miguel Aranda's mixed Italian and Spanish troops had advanced to within less than a mile of San Carlos De La Rapita.

The palm-lined streets of Vinaroz, first coastal city to fall to the insurgents yesterday, did not escape the trials of war. Shortly after its capture, the picturesque port was visited by a fleet of 50 Government airplanes which blasted the new insurgent positions with bombs.

Insurgent dispatches to Irun said the capture of Vinaroz was so swift that the local government leaders attempting to flee in fishing smacks were caught in the harbor and imprisoned.

EMPIRE SCHEME BRANDED DREAM

TORONTO, April 16 (CP)—Some of the ideas in R. A. Piddington's latest book, "The next British Empire," are interesting, Conservative Leader R. B. Bennett said here last night, but "such a dream is a long way off."

In his book, the English author-economist envisages Canada as the heart of a remoulded, consolidated British Empire.

Asked for his opinion on the book, Mr. Bennett said: "Such a dream is a long way off. For various reasons I prefer not to express any definite opinion on this book at this time. I will admit some of the ideas are interesting."

"A wild, impossible idea," said Premier Hepburn of Ontario. "From a purely economic standpoint I can't possibly conceive of anything wilder or more impossible." If Canada were to drain the British Isles of most of the population, where would the Dominion look "for the great consuming market she now has over there?"

Spirit Of Easter Surrounded by banks of lilies and roses, Eleanor Grady symbolizes the spirit of the Easter season. Dressed all in white the pretty student of St. Peter's High School is practically surrounded by lilies, themselves as much a part of Easter as spring hats such as the one Eleanor is wearing are a part of the festive side of Easter. The lilies are home-grown and are some of the huge quantity supplied to St. Peter's Cathedral by A. Blade and Sons, Florists.

700 Seamen Quit On Great Lakes

Canadian Union Heads Claim 26 Ships Tied Up, With 150 to Be Hit Before Demands Settled

TORONTO, April 16. (CP).—Strike of seamen on vessels of seven Canadian companies began early today as Great Lakes Navigation for 1938 began operation under summer insurance rates.

Officials of the Canadian Seamen's Union who called the strike claimed 26 ships were affected immediately and 700 seamen had quit their posts.

J. A. Sullivan, president of the union, said the strike would extend as sailing schedules were reached and ultimately would involve 150 vessels. The union claims a membership of 2,000, all workers who do not require licenses under government regulations.

Union leaders said the strike will continue until the companies grant the seamen the right to choose their own organization as a bargaining agency. Sullivan charged the seven companies with refusing to engage members of the Canadian Seamen's Union.

Sullivan said the men's response indicated they wished the C.S.U. to represent them rather than the Canadian Brotherhood of Ship's Employees, headed by Captain H. N. McMaster.

The C.S.U. president said he had the promise of the International Longshoremen's Association that if any German boat cleared for a united States port. the Great Lakes division of the I.L.U. would refuse to load or unload it.

Sullivan said he was told by S. P. O'Brien of Buffalo, I.L.U. divisional president. that his organization would refuse to work any boat unless the crew were members of the C.S.U.

The Affected Companies.

The strike was called against these companies:

Night-Prowling Car Worries Owner

Fort Erie, April 16. (CP).

WHEN Customs Officer Herbert A. Sweeney glanced at his automobile today parked in driveway near his home, he noticed a bumper appeared bent slightly, and the car bore evidence of having been used during the night, he reported to police.

He decided to make a closer inspection and to his amazement found a live duck in a canvas bag on the rear seat. Sweeney took the duck to the Niagara River and released it. Now he is wondering just how the mysterious bag and its contents got into his sedan.

FAMED GREY OWL IS GIVEN GRAVE IN BELOVED WILDS

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., April 16 (CP)—Grey Owl, friend of the beaver, found a final resting place today in the evergreen wilderness he loved so well.

They buried the author-naturalist yesterday between two towering elms on the shores of beautiful Lake Ajawaan. They left him alone near his wildwood retreat, Beaver Lodge.—alone save for his beloved beaver companions, Rawhide and Jellroll, who make their home in the nearby waters.

The man who gained international fame as a protector of wild life, but whose early years remained a mystery, died Wednesday of pneumonia. Grey Owl said his father was Scotch and his mother an Apache Indian and that he was born 49 years ago somewhere on the Mexico-United States border.

Canon J. I. Strong of the Anglican Cathedral conducted funeral services here.

Grey Owl had been called a skeptic toward Christianity, said Canon Strong, but the happy hunting ground of the Indian braves could easily be compared with the Christian church's conception of the hereafter. "And so today, missing our friend, Grey Owl, we lay him away to the happiness and enjoyment of that happy hunting ground."

TWO ARE POISONED

TORONTO, April 16 (CP)—Ptomaine poisoning sent John Douglas, 42, and his wife Adelaide, 40, to hospital here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hensons and their three children were afflicted also.

A doctor was summoned, and the Douglasses were sent to hospital. Mr. Douglas' condition is said to be serious, although his wife is recovering.

CHAPLIN 49, AND BUSY

HOLLYWOOD, April 16 (AP). — Charlie Chaplin is 49 today, but his studio says he will continue "working very hard." The studio said he is now at the resort town of Del Monte, working on a screen play which presumably will star Paulette Goddard.

Leaky Punt Sinks Four Lads And Rescuer Die

Trucker Goes Down as Canoe Upsets During Dash To Reach Youngsters Struggling in Cold Water

SUDBURY, Ont., April 16. (CP).—Searchers early today found the body of the fifth victim of yesterday's drowning tragedy on Minnow Lake, eight-year-old Gerard Ross.

The other bodies, those of three boy-companions of Ross and a would-be rescuer were found yesterday. The drownings brought a holiday fishing expedition to a tragic end.

The victims were John Dinwoodie and four of a party of six boys who set out yesterday in a leaky old rowboat to go fishing despite the warnings of their parents. The boat filled rapidly and the children became panic-stricken. A stiff breeze was blowing.

Four of the boys jumped from the craft and attempted to reach floating ice, breaking up on the lake, and two remained in the sinking boat. Their plight was seen by John Dinwoodie and his brother George, who pushed out to the rescue in a commandeered canoe. John Dinwoodie jumped into the water and attempted to save as many as he could of the struggling youngsters. He was drowned along with four of the boys.

George Dinwoodie was thrown into the water when his canoe upset, but was rescued along with two of the youngsters.

They were picked up by Charles Delongchamp and Ernest Briseboise who had gone to the rescue, but four of the children and John Dinwoodie had gone beneath the surface.

The Victims

The boys drowned were Paul Ranger, seven, and his 10-year-old brother Armand; and Lawrence Ross, 10, and his brother Gerard, eight.

Rescued were nine-year-old Rene Ross, a brother of Lawrence and Gerard and 10-year-old Damas Spencer.

The Spencer boy said he started out with the other lads to go fishing and when they got to Minnow Lake they saw the boat on the shore. "We didn't have any paddles or oars but we got two old pieces of board and a stick," he said.

'When the water began to come into the boat we all got kind of excited and I don't remember everything that happened. A woman on the shore yelled at us, but I couldn't hear what she said. Then a man ran out and then another man. In a little while the other man came out in a boat.

'I grabbed Rene Ross and hung on to him. Then one of these men grabbed me. I hung on to Rene Ross and the man hung on to me. Then another man came out, kind of swiming and floating some logs, and we hung on to these logs.

"It was then I noticed we were not all there. They must have jumped out."

FISHERY HEAD DIES

PORT WASHINGTON, Wis., April 15.—(AP).— Lester H. Smith, 47, president of Smith Brothers Fisheries, died yesterday. Smith was division vice-president of the American Fisheries Society and the International Society of Fisheries, and vice-vice - chairman of the National Fishery Advisory committee of the United States Department of Commerce.

The Smith firm has fishing stations on Lakes Huron, Superior and Michigan.

NORTHERN LIGHTS STAGE RARE SHOW TIE WIRE SERVICES

NEW YORK, April 16. (AP).—One of the most severe magnetic storms of the 20th century swept across North America today, disrupting communications systems for several hours in many sections.

Scientists said the storm was caused by sunspot activity. They described the accompanying display of aurora borealis in the northern tier of States and Canada as the most brilliant in 35 years. It was at its worst in Northern Ontario.

The rare "northern lights," gleaming like a giant Neon tube in the heavens, flickered in bright streaks that ranged from dim pink to "almost blood red" in color, Harvard observatory reported.

Relatively few persons saw the aurora, however, for the display did not begin until 1.30 a.m. EST.

The storm, bringing with it rain and unsettled weather as an eastern prelude in many places, caused grief to thousands of electrical engineers in telephone, cable, radio and telegraphic centres over the nation.

For three hours or more they struggled helplessly to keep wires clear under the erratic influence of a bombardment of capricious magnetic earth currents.

News Arrives in Jumble

News despatches which left New York as "diplomatic sources disclosed" arrived in Toronto as The starry electrical currents, measured at times at 500 volts by an engineer employed by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, made communications impossible on "open" lines—wires strung above ground—from east coast to west and from Sudbury to Atlanta, Ga.

Only underground wires insulated from contact with the earth and "grounded" by a parallel metal wire were free from the disturbing influence.

The 300,000-mile leased wire network of the Associated Press was tied up almost completely for more than two hours—the longest period in more than a decade—and news moved only jerkily on limited circuits. The Canadian Press and other wire news services had similar difficulties.

BARN IS DESTROYED

BELLEVILLE, Ont., April 16.—(CP).—Five horses, a large herd of cattle numbering 25, farming implements and a large quantity hay and grain were destroyed when a barn owned by Clarence Graham, south of Chapman's Corners, 18 miles north of Belleville, was razed by fire. The roaring flames awakened the family but not in time to save the livestock. The cause of the fire is undetermined but the loss is partially covered.

ENGINEER SAVES 8 CREW MATES AS CRAFT BURNS

Braves Fire to Stop Ship And Let Boats Get Away

BOSTON, April 16.—Heroism of ship's engineer Forman Spinney was credited to-day with having saved eight lives besides his own as the fire-swept Boston trawler Exeter sank 50 miles south of Cape Sable, N.S.

Word of the rescue was flashed by radio from the United States coast guard cutter Algonquin, as she sped toward Boston with survivors.

Destroyed down the water line, except for her forecastle, the Diesel craft Exeter went under in view of her captain, J. Vernon Nickerson, and her rescued crew of eight men, all of Greater Boston.

The Algonquin's radio told the story of Engineer Forman Spinney's dash through a flaming engine room yesterday to shut off the Exeter's engines so boats could be launched before they burned. The dories were stored directly above the engine room's hatches.

Lieutenant C. N. Anderson, in acting command of the Algonquin, radioed the crew told him the Exeter was under way at full speed when the "engine room was suddenly enveloped in flames, which spread rapidly throughout the after part of the vessel." No explosion occurred.

"Engineer Spinney entered the flaming engine room to stop the engines," the report said, "accompanied by Assistant Engineer Woodrow Wilson, who played a fire extinguisher on him to prevent him from being burned."

The Exeter, owned by the General Sea Foods Corporation of Boston, was a 114-ton steel craft built in 1930.

"MODERATES" OUT TO BAR PROPOSED SUPER WARSHIPS

WASHINGTON, April 16 (A.P.).—Opponents of the United States administration's "Big Navy" Bill centered their efforts to-day on an attempt to eliminate authorization for three 45,000-ton super-dreadnoughts.

"If we can't defeat the Bill, we may at least be able to stop the building of more battleships," said Senator Nye (Rep.-North Dakota), a leader of the bloc which contends such vessels are unnecessary except for a campaign of aggression.

The Senate Naval Committee approved the $1,156,000,000 Expansion Bill by a unanimous vote yesterday. The measure may come up for debate on Tuesday.

In addition to increasing the capital ship tonnage from 105,000 as approved by the House, to 130,000, the Senate Committee boosted the total tonnage for two proposed aircraft carriers from 30,000 to 40,000. As a result, the total authorized expenditure was increased from the $1,121,000,000 in the House Bill to $1,156,000,000.

The 46 warships, including the three battleships, two airplane carriers, nine cruisers, 23 destroyers, and nine submarines to be authorized under the Bill, would cost an estimated $811,095,000.

Nine hundred and fifty airplanes would be built at a cost of $106,000,000 to bring the Navy's minimum plane strength to 3,000.

Weatherman Turns Pessimistic For Easter Sunday Parade

Mayor Of Hell Finds New York Warm Too

New York, April 16. (AP).

THE Mayor of Hell came to New York today and the thermometer went up to 80 degrees, a record-breaking high for the date. The Mayor, Lorentz Stenvig, of Hell, Norway, explained as he rode up the bay in the Norwegian-American liner Stavangerfjord that the word "hell" in Norwegian means slope. And the village is built on sloping ground.

Predicts Showers May Mar Annual Display Of Finery In Ontario

TORONTO, April 16.—(CP). — Raincoats and umbrellas may replace Easter's finery in many sections of Canada to-morrow for the weatherman has painted a gloomy picture. These are his predictions:

Cloudy, cool and possible showers for the Maritimes.

Cool and possible showers for Central Canada.

Mild and possible showers for the prairies.

Mild and cloudy weather for the Pacific coast.

But warm weather and bright sunshine blessed the Good Friday celebration, marred in Ontario by five accidental deaths, in all parts of the Dominion except the coasts. In was cloudy and damp on the Atlantic and cloudy on the Pacific.

Four children, making a forbidden fishing expedition in a leaky old rowboat, drowned in Minnow Lake, near Sudbury, yesterday, and a truck driver died trying to rescue them.

Near Ottawa, 10-year-old Stuart Carruthers was killed when a tree fell on him while he was taping maple sugaron a Morewood, Ont., farm.

Water Was Not In The Tepid Class But There Was No Ice Swimmers Admit

THE OUTDOOR swimming season in Peterborough has opened and the honors of being pioneers for 1938 go to two local boys Bill Collins of 58 Hunter Street and Nick Hartley of 516 Aylmer Street who plunged into the icy waters of the canal at Lock 22 on Thursday afternoon and "enjoyed" the first swim of the season. The hardy pre-Easter swimmers reported they hit the water at 3 o'clock.

"And got out of it at 3.01?" the Examiner inquired.

"No, at 3.05," was the reply.

The boys frankly admitted that the temperature of the water was not in the tepid class. "There was no ice in it, though," they reported cheerfully.

Burning Gas Wells Bring Spring Early To Turner Valley

Gangs At The 200 Oil Gushers However Have No Time For Picking Flowers

CALGRAY, April 16 — (CP) — Spring comes early to Turney Valley—the rolling foothills country of the Rockies where a new oil development frontier is in the making.

Among the scores of giant, steel-masted derricks, huge fiery gas flares, burning more than 200,000,000 cubic feet of waste gas a day, create an artificial warmth around the wells to bring spring flowers in full bloom long before they appear on the farm and rangelands.

The mauve colored "prairie crocus" was in bloom 10 days ago and other spring flowers were out in the favored "warm" spots of the valley.

Easter bouquets are there for the picking, but they attract little attention from the 7,000 residents in the Turner Valley area, which includes hundreds of oil well workers at the more than 200 wells along the 15-miles of new frontier. But to tourists and city-folk it is a spring-time miracle.

The giant flares, which soon may disappear, burn day and night, lighting a path of red across the sky that may be seen in Calgary, 45 miles northwest. Alberta's govern-

THE Marquess of Linlithgow, Viceroy of India, and M. K. Gandhi, Nationalist Leader, met for 1 1-2 hours today, discussing in a cordial manner general Indian topics. The meeting was arranged by the Viceroy who stressed they had nothing special to discuss but that he would be glad again to meet Gandhi who was enroute to Wardha.

Lad Hangs Over Niagara Rapids 2 Hours While Radio Directs Rescue

Niagara Falls, N.Y., April 16. (AP)

JERRY HOMEWOOD, 11, clung to a sapling on a narrow ledge in the sheer Niagara gorge wall above the whirlpool rapids for two hours yesterday while police directed rescue work by radio from across the river.

Jerry slipped and fell while he and three companions were making their way to the top of the gorge wall.

Superintendent Ernest R. Reynolds of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said a police radio car directed search for Jerry by radio from the Canadian side of the gorge. It took an hour and one-half to locate the boy.

Reynolds said Arthur Whitman, 18, went over the ledge on a rope and made his way across the rocks to get Jerry.

One of Jerry's companions, Edward Green, 12, also slipped, but caught himself and was carried up by two youths who heard the boys cry out.

The boys had hiked along the water's edge and were making their way to the top of some of the many "trails" which lace the gorge wall when Jerry and Edward slipped.

CATTLE AND CALF PRICES ADVANCE ON WEEK'S SALES

TORONTO, April 16.—(CP). — Cattle prices were up 25 cents at the opening of the Toronto livestock market this week but faded back 15 cents or so in dull preholiday trade, the Dominion Livestock Branch reported. Calves were firm to 50 cents higher in spots but also eased at the close. Hogs gained 10 cents i nthe closing market. Sheep and lambs were unchanged.

Exporters took around 300 steers for Great Britain, paying $5.75 to $7 cwt. with the top price paid for a load of choice heavies. Three prime 1,500-pound steers reached $7.25. Butcher steers and heifers ranged from $4.25 for common up to $6.25 for good quality with most sales from $5.50 upward. Cattle holdover was about 150 head.

Good butcher cows were strong at $4.50 to $5, with plain as low as $3.25. Canners and cutters brought $2.25 to $3.25. Butcher bulls sold at $4 to $4.50, bolognas at $3.50 to $4. Fed calves ranged from $5.75 for medium up to $7.50 for a few choice.

Small lots of store cattle traded at $4 to $5.25 cwt. Milker and springer trade continued dull with prices ranging from $30 to $70 each according to quality.

There will be no boats sailing for Great Britain next week and consequently no demand for export steers on the Toronto market.

Vealers Up to $10.50.

Choice veal calves sold generally at $9.50 to $10 with some up to $10.50. Comomn to medium calves were plentiful at $4.50 to $8.50 cwt. The market was easier at the close.

The light closing run saw an advance in off-truck bacon hog prices. Final sales were mostly $9.85 to $10. Some were mostly $6.50 to $7.

Sheep and lamb receipts were light with no western lambs included. Good feed-lot lambs from Ontario sold at $9 to $9.50 with others from $6 to $8.75 cwt. A few spring lambs sold at from $5 for lights up to $11.50 each for a few choice with most sales from $10 downward. Sheep ranged from $2 to $6 cwt. according to quality.

COTTESLOE

PUPILS CONDUCT EASTER PROGRAM

COTTESLOE, April 16—The pupils of S.S. No. 1, Dummer, held a special Easter program in the school on Thursday afternoon, in closing for the Easter holidays.

Readings were given by Norma Lewis, Percy Golloher and Marjorie Patterson. Shirley Cuffe gave a recitation, and riddles were asked by Laura Nelson and Mima Moore. The teacher, Miss Alma McCracken, had arranged an Easter egg hunt which was certainly enjoyed by all the pupils.

This program took the place of their regular Red Cross meeting, which is held once every two weeks on Wednesday afternoon. Madeliene Toms is president, Mima Moore secretary, and Jimmy Hendren treasurer of this organization.

Nautical Questions Too Hard For Seaman

Pleading guilty as a second offender to a charge of being drunk on Bethune Street, James "Scotty" Maguire was fined $50 by Magistrate O. A. Langley in police court this morning.

The alternative was a month in jail which means that Maguire will be out in nice time for the Victoria Day celebration.

"I've a job to go to on a boat," he told the court this morning. "I'm a seaman," he added.

"A nautical man or just a naughty man?" queried the magistrate as he asked the accused a few questions about a ship's rigging.

Maguire didn't seem to know the answers but he told the court he knew a lot about the quartermaster's department.

INDUSTRIAL LIST METAL AND OILS UP 5 TO 6 POINTS

TORONTO, April 16—(CP)—The Washington call for "all hands to the pumps" in a new effort to stem the latest depressive wave, came Thursday in President Roosevelt's announcement of a $7,000,000,000 spending program.

Incorporated in the message outlining the pump-priming campaign, the president recommended desterilization of the nation's entire gold supply and later in the day the United States treasury formally released the gold held in the inactive account (about $1,400,000,000 for use in the expansion of credit.

Traders apparently are still unsettled in their minds whether a sharp turn towards inflation will help the gold stocks. In a rising commodity price level, base metal shares may be expected to move with metal prices while the fixed price for gold promises nothing extra for the gold producers to offset the inevitable rise in labor and equipment costs,

Three Toronto exchange indices, the industrials, the base metals and the western oils, posted net gains of 5½ to 6 points in the week, shortened a day by the shut-down for the Good Friday holiday. The gold share index added about three points.

Dome Features.

Dome was the highlight of the senior gold group showing a net gain of $3.75 for the period. McIntyre followed with $1.75 and Lake Shore Hollinger and Buffalo-Ankerite came along with minor gains. In the cheaper group net gains were narrow. Little Long Lac, Macassa, Mining Corporation, Pamour, Pickle Crow, Tech Hughes and Wright Hargreaves registered gains of 5 to 20 cents.

Base Metals registered a consistent advance. International Nickel gained $3, Smelters $3.75, Noranda $2 and Hudson Bay $1.75.

There were no reactionary groups in the industrial section although the important gains were confined chiefly to the steels, utilities, papers and senior oils. The two big refinery oils, Imperial and British American, published their annual setatements this week, showing earnings well maintained.

The Canadian Car and Foundry Stocks, Steel of Canada, Dominion Steel B, Dominion Bridge and National Steel Car were all well ahead on the week.

GRAIN EXCHANGE HAS DULL WEEK

WINNIPEG, April 16.—(CP). — Traders showed little interest in Winnipeg grain exchange proceedings during the past week and futures prices wobbled through the five sessions to close ¾ cent lower to 1⅝ cents higher. Except for brief activity at the beginning of the week, operations were mostly of routine nature.

When final quotations were marked on the Board Thursday, May was ¾ lower $1.26¼; July 1⅝ higher at $1.15⅝ to ¼ and October clung to the same figure as the previous week's close, 90¾.

Heavy overseas buying of the previous week disappeared Monday and values dropped as buyers ignored the pit. Prices, however, responded in mid-week to firm Canadian and Australian offers as well as reports of inflationary talk in the United States.

Approach of the Easter holiday season was reflected in operations. Export buying was spasmodic and inter-market dealings were much higher than the preceding five sessions. A large southern interest was credited with liberal buying of the nearby futures, chiefly July, against sales of October.

THE RIGHT DATES

An item in this column on Thursday may have caused some confusion in the mind of anglers because it said that the opening of the trout and pickerel season would be on the same dates as last year, namely May 1 and May 16 respectively. That was the original intention but recently the Department decided to give fishermen the advantage of an extra week-end in both cases. So that the trout season will get under way on April 30 and the pickerel season on May 14.

BRIDGE POSSIBLE.

The Chemong Floating Bridge, which last week looked in a fair way to becoming a thing of the past, was in reality little damaged, according to residents of the district. Cars are now using the bridge daily and all railings will have been replaced by Saturday night. The bridge is said to be safe for travel and Ennismore officials are hopeful that this summer it will take the place, to some extent at least, of Niagara's honeymoon bridge which, like the Chemong bridge, suffered some damage from winter weather.

NO EXCURSION LIKELY.

Efforts to organize an excursion to Toronto for the engagement of the Madrigal Singers at the music festival have so far failed to find a sponsor. It is expected that many people will go from Peterborough for the afternoon matinee and the evening concert, but it is regarded as likely that quite a number of them will go by motor.

TREES FOR ARBOR DAY.

Every school in the county will receive within the next two weeks a bundle of trees from a provincial nursery for planting on Arbor Day, the first Friday in May. A plot of trees on the property of every rural school, to be planted and tended by the children, is intended to arouse their interest in the present plans of reforestation. Leo Copp, School Inspector, said that Reeve W. A. Anderson's committee of the county council, was also arranging to get young hardwood trees for planting in school grounds and along the roadside.

WANTS JURY TRIAL

Fergus Mongraw, charged in police court this morning with the theft of a car belonging to Hugh Davis, last night pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by jury. The crown was not ready to go ahead this morning so the preliminary hearing was set for next Wednesday. Mongraw appeared in court with his arm in a sling.

BUYS OLD HOME.

W. T. McDonnell, for years produce broker in Toronto, has acquired his father's old home on No. 7 Highway, about half a mile east of Downer's Corners, and with Mrs. McDonnell is now residing there, although it is understood he is still retaining a Toronto interest. The property was bought by his grandfather ninety-four years ago, and is well-known to many of the friends of the family in this city, some of whom can recall when Tom McDonnell went to Toronto to enter the provisions business. His father was the late C. C. McDonnell, who was widely known throughout the district forty years ago as a farm implement agent.

NO GYM CLASSES

There will be no gym classes at the Y.W.C.A. on Easter Monday, but they will resume for the week Tuesday afternoon, with a number of extra classes. Information concerning these drills may be had at the Y.W.

ENGINEERS TRANSFERRED.

C. F. Szammers, divisional engineer of the Ontario Department of Highways at Bancroft for nearly five years, has been transferred to Sudbury, and is being succeeded by A. M. Mills of Sudbury.

PARK WORK STARTS

Work on Peterborough's parks got under way this morning when a gang began the job of manicuring Confederation square and clearing away the debris left by the winter months.

WORE PALLIUM

Archbishop M. J. O'Brien of Kingston wore for the first time on Maundy Thursday the Pallium he recently received from Rome. It is a circular piece of white wool made of wool shorn from lambs at Rome and presented to the Pope on St. Agnes's Day. The Pallium is a symbol of the Archbishop's jurisdiction as metropolitan of the ecclesiastical province of Kingston. Archbishop O'Brien was coadjutor during the illness of the late Archbishop Spratt who died some weeks ago.

FIRESIDE TEA

Easter Vesper Hour and Fireside Tea will be held at the Y.W.C.A. Sunday afternoon. The program is in charge of a group from George Street C.G.I.T., and groups from St. Paul's, St. Andrews' and Trinity churches will act as hostesses. A cordial invitation is extended to any girl away from home.

R. F. DOWNEY TO PRESIDE.

Many of the teachers from the city and county will attend in Toronto next week the annual meeting of the Public School teachers of the province. It will be educational week and R. F. Downey as president of the School Inspectors branch of the Ontario Educational Association will be chairman of its sessions. It is also expected that some of the school trustees of the county will attend their sectional meetings.

ROAD LINKS ASSUMED.

Several members of the county council recently remarked that Norwood has been fortunate in having its two main streets assumed as provincial highways. One is No. 7 and the other is the terminus of the Cobourg-Norwood highway which engineers have been recently surveying at the northern end. Recently the village council succeeded in having connecting links taken over by the department.

JUVENILES ARRESTED

Three young boys, riding bicycles, were arrested early Good Friday morning by officer Archie Menzies and temporary officer G. Ringer who happened along in a police patrol car and after an investigation took the youngsters into custody on a charge of breaking and entering the East City store of Fitzpatrick and Geraghty and stealing chocolate bars and candy. The trio were handed over to the Children's Aid Society until their case is heard in juvenile court.

NEW OFFICER BUSY

Constable Bruce Menzies, newly appointed North Monaghan officer, is losing no time. Early Thursday morning he arrested two men on a charge of stealing hams from Canada Packers and that night was back at the police station with another prisoner on a liquor charge.

A spirit of consecration prevailed as the service was brought to a conclusion with prayer by Rev. Mr. Boyter. "And when they had sung an hymn, they went out."

YOUNG HEIFER DROWNED

Victim apparently of spring floods, a year-old-heifer is lying drowned on the banks of the Jackson Park creek, 300 yards above the park property. The animal was found on Good Friday by Robert Orde, caretaker at the park. Mr. Orde said the animal has likely gone through the ice higher up and has been drowned there. He is communicating with the Smith sanitary inspector to make arrangements for the animal's burial and thought some farmer would like to know what had happened to his animal.

PASSION WEEK SERVICES END WITH COMMUNION

The impressive Passion Week services culminated on Friday morning in the observation of the Communion service, held in Park Street Baptist and George Street United churches, with large congregations at both places.

In Park Street Church, the pastor, Rev. C. C. Boyter, presided at the opening service of worship, with the Rev. Fred Craik, of St. James' United, reading the scripture lesson, chosen from Mark 14: 12-26, after which he offered earnest prayer.

In keeping with the spirit of Eastertide was the beautiful anthem, "O Calvary," by the choir, led by the organist, Stanley Northrop.

Dr. Barr Preaches

The preacher of the Communion sermon, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, took as his text the words of Jesus, "This is my blood of the New Testament, which is shed for many."

Using this text as a background, the speaker pointed out the various significant meanings attributed to this feast of remembrance by the different denominations. Stressing first the meaning of the word "testament," Dr. Barr said that it referred to legal phraseology, while the word covenant, which is sometimes used has exactly the same meaning—"eternal binding." We are living in an age when covenants mean little, when wills are broken and promises often not kept. The world is divided and torn asunder in a thousand different ways, but is looking for a unifying force in every sphere of life, politically, economically and religiously.

All One At His Table

The only solution is through Jesus Christ, and we are all one at His table, whatever our individual views, for unity does not depend upon uniformity.

Even in the maintenance of this sacrament, we may look at it from different angles and even give to it different names.

The term "sacrament" is symbolic of eternal allegiance and is derived from the word sacramento, the oath of loyalty given by the Roman soldiers. Many to-day have turned away from their allegiance to Christ and in escaping their obligations have caused the pathetic condition existing in the world. Others place the emphasis upon the fellowship of this service, and refer to it as the Holy Communion. Such fellowship is greatly needed, for no political theory will ever save our civilization; the only way of salvation is by the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

To others, this is a memorial feast and they call it "The Lord's Supper" or "The Breaking of Bread."

Many Types of Memorials

There are many types of memorials, and the greatest are not in material things. This, the Communion table, is the Master's memorial—it cannot be measured in terms of money, but in the saving of souls.

The spirit of Thanksgiving is the significant feature to some denominations, who use the term "Eucharist."

In closing his fine message of inspiration, Dr. Barr declared: "We need to die to live—that is, we need to annihilate self and obliterate ego.

Our response to the church as Christians is a very feeble one today. It is a great misfortune that many of us have forgotten the oath of allegiance, the sacrament, the meaning of the memorial feast, and we have lost their spirit of gratitude for which this service stands—we need to recover these things."

The Communion service followed, and the elements dispensed by Elders of three south-end churches: Park Street Baptist, Knox and St. James' United.

90—"TOO OLD TO WED"

WINDSOR, Ont., April 16 (CP)—The doctrine of "live alone and like it" has one of its oldest living exponents today in 90-year-old Barnabe Maisonville of Windsor, friend of Henry Ford and the late Thomas A. Edison.

"I never had a worry in my life," he said.

"Barney," as he is known to intimates, refused to admit whether he had ever had a sweetheart. He said "I guess the girls I liked never liked me, and those that liked me, well, I just couldn't see them. I think I've passed the marrying age now, so I'll remain single."

SHEEP WORRIED

Three sheep owned by Stephen Scott, who lives on the Warsaw road in Douro township were so badly worried by a dog several days ago that the animals had to be destroyed. Friday Provincial Constable David Silvester investigated the affair and arrived just in time to find that the killer had himself been killed. Mr. Scott had traced the dog to the home of a neighbor and with the latter's consent shot the canine that had done the damage.

PASSOVER BEGINS

The Passover, the Jewish festival which annually celebrates the release of the Children of Israel from Egyptian bondage began on Friday evening and will be continued for a week. During that period pious Jewish people will refrain from eating bread and will eat instead matzos, which is unleavened bread. The festival began with the Seder service which is essentially a family affair.

DOG CATCHER APPOINTED.

The dog catcher is on the prowl again. Citizens are warned to step into line at the police station and buy their licenses because the catcher has that gleam in his eye that comes with the commencement of a new job. Industry and determination are written on every line of his face and so you had better pay your two dollars for the license than for a fine. Ald. Cotton appointed the catcher, W. Blodgett, on Thursday. His duties commence on Monday.

MIMICO MURDER SUSPECT SPOTTED

TORONTO, April 14—(CP). — Suburban police in the Toronto area to-day suddenly re-opened a search for the man who murdered Martin O'Brien in his home at Mimico nearly a year ago.

All freight trains on routes leading out of Mimico were stopped and examined after police had a report the man they wanted was seen boarding a freight. Two men were taken into custody and rushed to a police station to await arrival of Mimico officers.

Dozens of transients were taken off reight trains during the drive and it was considered likely Mimico police would be asked to look over a large number.

Explaining the renewed search for O'Brien's killer, Police Chief Fred Herman of Mimico said:

"My informant said he was 75 yards away when he saw the man. He claims to be certain the man he saw is the one who shot O'Brien. He saw him get on a freight train at Mimico about nine o'clock this morning."

Millions of Feet Lost Daily.

A Conservation Board is to be appointed under the newly-enacted Petroleum and Gas Conservation Act to save the millions of feet of gas going to waste daily.

To-day the south field, where the new boom towns of Little Chicago and Little New York are located, is attracting attention of oilmen.

When the first crude well roared in June, 1933, it marked a new south field and to-day 40 crude producers are in production, held down by a 42 per cent. pro-ration schedule while producers work to create greater markets for Alberta's oil.

And drilling continues day and night on new well locations. More than 30 "rigs" are drilling to-day. More wells will be "spudded" as the spring program of developments get under way.

Turner Valley wells are "deep holes," many more than a mile in depth. Drilling costs are high, ranging from $175,000 to $212,000 for each well. In the East Texas and Oklahoma fields in the United States, a 7,000-feet well can be drilled for around $85,000.

Last year $10,000,000 was spent in the Valley, it has been estimated. This year it may be greater.

Biblical Thoughts For The Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James
Toronto

THE EASTER CREED

"The Lord is Risen Indeed." St. Luke 24; 34.

An exclamation of surprise. It is the evening of the first Easter Sunday. Ten men are gathered in that upper room which is full of the memories of their Master's last words and acts on that Thursday night, three days and nights so full of tragedy, as they thought.

As you carefully read the Gospel accounts one thing strikes you. The Apostles are sure that Jesus of Nazareth is indeed the Jewish Messiah, the Servant of the Lord, anointed for the work of the deliverance of the Jews from the foreign yoke. Their minds are full of the approaching triumph and their own rewards. "Who should be the greatest in the Kingdom" is their dominating thought. At the same time the Master clearly tells them that He is to suffer horrible disgrace and finally to die on the Cross.

You see them entering Jerusalem on Palm Sunday full of joy and happiness. It is the Master's triumphal entry. Soon they expect Him to announce His Mission. One of His Apostles, through ambition rather than avarice, betrays Him in order to force Him to make His claim as King and to set up His Kingdom. Their ears are dull of hearing. His words of suffering and death cannot enter their minds full of earthly rewards and rule. They are expecting thrones—He, a Cross.

Then like a thunder clap comes the arrest. All His disciples leave Him and flee. His cause was lost. Trial after trial followed through the night and the Ecclesiastical authorities brought Him early to the Roman Governor and forced him to order His execution. "If thou let this man go thou art not Caesar's friend." He is led out of the Holy City bearing His Cross. He is crucified with the title:—"The King of the Jews." With His last breath He cries:— "Father, into Thy Hands I commend My Spirit." He is buried in a rock hewn cave and a great stone is rolled to its mouth. He is dead. His followers are scattered. His enemies have triumphed. God has apparently failed Him. He has gone down into the silence of death.

That Good Friday night there is sorrow and despair in the hearts of His followers. It is the end, they say. "We trusted that it had been He that should have delivered Israel." Black despair is the only word to describe the condition of the Apostles and Disciples. They are unwilling to accept the new of His Resurrection. "They are idle tales"—utter nonsense.

Then something happened. Otherwise how can you explain what you read in the succeeding chapters and in the Acts of the Apostles? These broken hearted, despairing men, assembled behind barred doors "for fear of the Jews," are changed. They are full of joy, full of enthusiasm, full of courage. They face bitter criticism, savage scourgings and the loss of all things gladly; "rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for His Name."

Something has happened. "The Lord is risen indeed." "God raised Him from the dead."

His modern enemies claim that the Apostles had seen a vision, they were deceived through their expectation of the resurrection. Is it likely that men for the sake of a vision would suffer such horrors? Above all we have the testimony of Saul of Tarsus, the bitterest persecutor of these men. He never saw the Lord in the days of His Flesh. He claims to have seen the Risen Lord at the gate of Damascus. It is important to remember that Saul, afterwards called Paul, is the greatest spiritual genius of the ages and a man of wide reading and intellectual ability. He is not likely to be deceived by a vision seen by a handful of fishermen and such like. His Gospel is that Jesus Christ rose from the dead and ever liveth at the right Hand of God, perfect God and perfect Man, the only begotten Son of the Father.

This is the Creed of the Christian Church. Is means that a new Life enters into you because He lives. "Because I live ye shall live also." Have you this Easter Life? It is the new Life which enables you to conquer sin and to rise to newness of living. This is the personal experience of the Resurrection of Our Lord Jesus Christ.

"I KNOW IN WHOM I HAVE BELIEVED".

GO TO CHURCH

I. In this actual world a churchless community, a community where men have abandoned and scoffed at or ignored their religious needs, is a community on the rapid down grade.

II. Church work and church attendance mean the cultivation of the habit of feeling some responsibility for others.

III. There are enough holidays for most of us. Sundays differ from other holidays in the fact that there are fifty-two of them every year—therefore, on Sundays go to church.

IV. Yes, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in a grove of trees, or by a running brook, or in a man's own house just as well as in the church. But I also know as a matter of fact the average man does not thus worship.

V. He may not hear a good sermon at church. He will hear a sermon by a good man who, with his good wife, is engaged all the week in making hard lives a little easier.

VI. He will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if he is not familiar with the Bible, he has suffered a loss.

VII. He will take part in singing some good hymns.

VIII. He will meet and nod or speak to good, quiet neighbors. He will come away feeling a little more charitable toward all the world, even towards those excessively foolish young men who regard church-going as a soft performance.

IX. I advocate a man's joining in church work for the sake of showing his faith by his works.

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

Last week we spoke of some of the mystical aspects of the Cross. Let us now consider a few of the mystical truths of the Crucifixion, not so much in respect to the actual historical fact, but more in reference to the individual, who in all sincerity, seeks to tread the via crucis that the Master trod. In this respect we must needs touch upon the three-fold nature of man, of his animal self (which is all the 'self' a great many of us know) of his psychic self, and lastly that Divine spark, the Indweller of the holy temple of the body. This last alone is truly eternal and everlasting for it is the Light of God, the eternal word without which "nothing was made that was made." Even as in the past the Master was crucified between two malefactors so is He crucified within us today. Mystically, the two thieves reprsent the two selves of man, even as the Master represents and is the true Light which dwells in the darkness of every man born into this world, no matter whether he be Christian or heathen, cultured or the lowest savage, religious or non-religious, for no man can, or could enter into earth life without the presence of that Divine spark within him. The unrepentant thief represents the animal self which by its very nature cannot enter into immortality. It clings to the only life it can realize; it has no past nor any future. The creature of a day it is a child of time and so perishes in time. The repentant thief, on the other hand is of a different order. Born of the starry realms, it has a past and so possesses a future, therefore when it recognizes the Divine Justice, when it is ready to die to itself and so, in utter abnegation turns to the Christ, then losing its life it saves it in Him. Then are the great words spoken: "This day shalt thou be with me in Paradise" for then and then only is the self, and the consciousness of self, united with the eternal and so puts on the conditions of the eternal, then, indeed, is man re-united in the Christ. Faith has been replaced by the living realization; the darkened vision by the clear sight.

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL.

(The International Uniform Lesson for Easter Sunday is Acts 2, 22-36, the Golden Text being Acts 2, 32: "This Jesus did God raise up, whereof we all are witnesses.")

The abiding proof of Christ's resurrection from the dead is His church confronting the world with its testimony, "This Jesus did God raise up, whereof we all are witnesses." Something had happened that changed Christ's disciples from cringing cowards to courageous crusaders. What made so great a change in these men in so short a space as three days? There is a resurrection within them that requires another resurrection to explain. Their faith and hope had expired at the cross with their Master. But now, as Peter explains the change, they are "begotten again unto a living hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead."

The Cross Cheated.

There was no question about Christ's death. The whole city had witnessed that. "Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God unto you by mighty works....even as ye yourselves know; him, being delivered up by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye by the hand of lawless men did crucify and slay; whom God raised up, having loosed the pangs of death; because it was not possible that he should be holden of it." The question was how the apparent victim of the cross had become the victor over the cross and the grave and death of which these were but the symbols. As Peter sees it now, it could not be otherwise. It was the only logical outcome that could have been expected by anyone who knew who Jesus really was.

A thousand years before the cross, David had foretold the Lord's saying: "Thou wilt not leave my soul unto Hades, neither wilt thou give thy Holy One to see corruption." And Peter sees in those words the empty tomb of Easter morning, and concludes that David, "foreseeing this spake of the resurrection of the Christ, that neither was he left unto Hades (the place of the dead), nor did his flesh see corruption. This Jesus did God raise up, whereof we all are witnesses." Easter was no incident, no accident, nor afterthought of God; it was the grand objective and consummation of all the preceding ages, divinely planned "by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God." Christ had not been man-handled by death; instead, as Lord of life, he had handled death and made it serve God's eternal purpose in the redemption of the world. Death was but the tool of his supreme service to God and the world. Through it he was "the resurrection and the life," his own resurrection being the indisputable proof.

Our Living Hope.

The "living hope" begotten in us by Christ's resurrection from the dead is that because he arose from the dead we too shall arise. His triumph over the grave predicts ours and is a preview of our own. His resurrection justifies in us "this pleasing hope, this fond desire, this longing after immortality." As sea birds in the heart of a continent, feel the instinct of the ocean in their blood and yield to the urge to migrate to a place they have never visited, so man feels the pull of another world upon his soul, and, as Milton said, "is pluming his wings for a flight."

Coming to City

Mrs. R. O. Stull, missionary to the Jungle Indians of the Upper Amazon River Basin, who is now carrying on lecture and deeper life programs for the Christian and Missionary Alliance, will pay a return visit to eBthany Tabernacle, for a week's Chritsian Life meetings. Mrs. Stull visited the city last Fall and was heard by large and appreciative audiences.

National Message

By the late Rev. W. Pascoe Goard; LL.D., F.R.G.S., F.R.E.S.

THE SECOND COMING OF OUR LORD

The Bible is a pre-millennial book in it steaching; Jesus Christ is a pre- millennial teacher; the Apostles were pre-millennial teachers.

The Bible approaches this subject from a number of standpoints. It does not set out to teach the detached doctrine of the second coming as would a textbook of systematic theology, for that is not the way the Bible teaches its doctrines. It carries on its general progress, incorporating its doctrine into the warp and the woof of that progress whether it is dealing with nations or with individuals, with history, or with propheesy, or with contemporary conditions or events. In the general scope of the matter in hand its teachings regarding the second coming, finds its due place and order. Thus we find the doctrine of the second coming presented.—

1. From the standpoint of the Temple.
2. From the standpoint of the Nation Israel.
3. From the standpoint of the House and Throne of David.
4. From the standpoint of the House of Judah.
5. From the standpoint of the External Nations.
6. From the standpoint of the Church.
7. From the standpoint of the Lord Himself.

The method which perhaps every school has followed of going to the Bible for specific teachings on this and every other matter, as though the Bible were a text book of systematic theology must of necessity fail. But the examinations of the various departments of Bible literature for the place it gives to this matter, will yield rich results. Let us follow this line of inquiry through the scriptures which primarily deal with historic and prophetic matters.

38 Are Uniting With Knox Church

Special Easter services will be held both morning and evening, with the minister, Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, bringing Easter messages, and special music by the choir. The evening service will be of special interest, when the Communion of the Lord's Supper will be dispensed, and at which 38 persons are connecting with the church. The choir will render a sacred Easter cantata, "The King of Glory." During the past six months under the ministry of Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, over 50 persons have come into membership with Knox Church due, no doubt, to his sincerity in the work and spiritual leadership.

Choir To Render The Risen King

The Choir of St. Andrew's church will render the Easter Cantata 'The Risen King' by D. A. Schnecker on next Sunday night. Peter August Schnecker was born in Hessen, Darmstadt, Germany in 1850. He came to North America when he was 15 years of age, and soon showed brilliant musical gifts. He returned to his native land and studied organ music, and composition in Liepzig, under the finest masters in Germany. Schnecker was for many years organist at the West Presbyterian church, New York City. The Cantata "The Risen King" is one of the best of his works. The words which express the joy of Eastertime are by S. H. Rhodes.

The music is mainly choral, the only solo will be taken by Mrs. James Johnston with R. B. Harle, director of music, at the organ.

The Cantata begins with the chorous "This is the day which the Lord has made" from this on the scriptural narrative of the Gospels is closely followed. Mary Magdalene and the disciples Peter and John come vividly into the story. We are brought into the atmosphere of fear, expectation, and excitement which prevailed at the time of this greatest miracle of Christianity.

After listening to the music we are more fully convinced that it is true. The author of the words believed it, the man who wrote the music rejoiced with the joy of Eastertime. The music is exultant and joyous throughout.

Workers of South Africa are demanding a 40-hour week.

The Victorious Servant — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Acts 2:22-36

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

On the day of Pentecost Peter boldly preached in Jerusalem concerning the death and resurrection of Jesus. "Ye by the hand of lawless men did crucify and slay", a man approved by God.

Peter told how David had foretold Jesus' resurrection saying, "Thou wilt not leave my soul in hades, neither will thou give thy holy one to see corruption."

"He foreseeing this," Peter said, "spake of the resurrection of the Christ, that neither was he left unto hades, nor did his flesh see corruption."

The death and resurrection of their Lord was the chief topic of the apostles' preaching. Peter said, "This Jesus did God raise up whereof we are witnesses" (GOLDEN TEXT—Acts 2:32).

A Man Makes A Will

Wilhelm Lowenstein, a leather merchant in New York city, made a good deal of money. After his death his will was entered for probate and $500,000 was left to relatives, friends, charitable institutions and old employees.

The rest of the money—and the amount is said to be impressively large—has been left to create a string of cafeterias. Not in a business sense will they operate because Mr. Lowenstein left instructions that over the entrance to each cafeteria there is to be placed a sign saying:

"If you are hungry and without means, come in and have a meal as my guest. If you can pay for your food please stay out and give others a chance."

There are a good many places in the world where expensive memorials have been erected to certain people. Some of them are undoubtedly exquisite in their excellence and beauty. But a hungry individual can look at them a long time and still remain hungry. This man Lowenstein seems to have selected one way by which he can in a sense keep on living. Hungry people who have no money can look at his invitation and take advantage of it; they can at least be the guests of what he has provided. It cannot be called a freak will because it is one which precisely coincides with the times in which we live. There are hungry people, thousands of them, and Lowenstein has made provision to feed them. Much better we think than asking hungry people to look at a great monument or some other form of memorial.

No Profit For Them

John Janicky and Robert Rumball worked together for several years and finally developed a new kind of tomato. Admittedly it will be of great advantage to Canadian growers and canners. It has been tried in the British market and the tomato has been pronounced excellent with keeping qualities far in excess of those possessed by other varieties It has also been found superior for canning purposes.

It has been suggested that the men who perfected this new tomato should be in a position to secure control of its sale and distribution in order that they might profit by reason of their industry. That is, they ought to secure something like a patent on the tomato. But that is one thing which they cannot do. Already some of the seed has passed into other hands and those who possess it are at liberty to grow and sell tomatoes of the new sort without paying tribute to the men who developed it.

At best all that can be done is to register the new tomato, and registration is little more than the satisfaction of having official recognition that the article has been examined and found good. Men in the seed business explain that the only chance John Janicky and Robert Rumball would have had would be in controlling the seed entirely during its first offering on the market. It is explained this way: "If you don't make a profit the first season your new seed is put on the market then there is little chance of making a profit at all."

If the new tomato is what is claimed for it then John Janicky and Robert Rumball have performed a great service for their province and probaby for areas far removed from it, but whatever degree of profit there may be will be reaped by others.

A Serious Affair

John A. Comba was arrested and tried and found guilty of the murder of Ethel Hedderwick at Renfrew on August 3, 1937. He was arrested on August 25 and convicted by a trial jury at Pembroke on November 25. He was sentenced to be hanged on February 10. On the case being taken to the Ontario Appeal Court four of the five judges who reviewed the evidence were of the opinion that the conviction registered by the trial jury should be quashed.

We have no way of knowing how closely readers follow the evidence in such a case. Some may regard it under the general term of crime news and be inclined to omit reading carefully. To others such news has a peculiar interest; it contains the lure of a detective story. There is a human life at stake and every move made in the trial brings guilt or innocence to the surface where it may be seen. The Hedderwick girl was 13 and had gone to pick choke cherries, although not dressed as one might expect for such an undertaking, because she was wearing a silk dress. When she did not return home the alarm was given and Comba, who was watching a ball game, joined with others in the search. It was he who found the girl in a cow pasture, where she had been attacked and killed. Comba was afterward arrested and charged with the murder, although another arrest was made of a farm hand, but he was released.

Comba suffers from some physical deformity, but he had always been a law-abiding person and had no record against him of any sort. Evidence was not direct at any time. There were a few hairs clutched in the hand of the little girl, but they were not the color of the hair in Comba's head. Also there was a fragment of cloth said to have been left near the scene of the tragedy, but it was not shown to have been connected with anything worn or owned by the man who had been put on trial for his life. There was a witness who said she had seen Comba put a pair of blue trousers on the clothes line at his home, but it was shown that on the day of the murder Comba was wearing grey trousers.

The trial went on for eight or nine days and after long deliberation in the jury room the verdict was produced that the man was guilty. Now the Appeal Court says the verdict is to be quashed. One can look at the case from any desired angle, but the conclusion will always be the same—it is not possible that Comba could be both guilty and innocent. That cannot be said to be the technical result of the dual outcome of the case, but it is the practical result of the combined efforts of the trial jury and the Court of Appeal. It is not pleasant to think that a man might have gone to his death from one of our courts of justice when in the judgment of the higher court such a thing should not have been done. It does look very much like a case where our jury system was on trial just as much as the man Combra whom it found guilty.

We Pay For Them

It has been frequently stated in these columns that when governments appoint commissions to probe this or that it means the people will have to pay for the probing.

Within the past two years there have been eight commissions, and they have cost the country $1,100,704.

The Veterans' Assistance Commission cost $326,640; the National Employment Commission cost $295,494; the Turgeon Textile Commission $173,231, while the bill for the Turgeon Grain Inquiry was $114,237.

It is all very easy and very simple to appoint a number of men whose business it becomes to examine witnesses and ask questions and on that basis submit a report. If that report is accepted as the basis of government action then to that extent government policy has been framed on sources outside the elected representatives of the people. If the report is not acted upon then the money spent has been wasted. As a rule we pay much more for a commission than we derive in benefit from its report.

Income Taxation

Three hundred Canadians who had incomes exceeding $50,000 a year paid over one-third of the income tax for 1937. The average tax paid by those in that group of 300 was $38,786.

In another group there were placed 98,243 good Canadians, those whose incomes were under the $2,000 mark. They represented 45 per cent. of the total taxpayers, but they contributed only 2.95 per cent. of the total amount of taxes collected by way of the income levy. That would mean that in all about 217,000 persons pay income tax.

There are women who pay this tax, but taking men alone, we find there are 3,713,221 males in the Dominion who are over 15 years of age. One does not look for income tax payers in the class under 24 or 25 years, but allowing for that it leaves a great majority of the people who are not paying income tax, and the reason is they have not sufficient income to be taxed.

We always prefer to insert something like a question mark when it comes to the payment of large amounts in taxation. For this reason: There is always the possibility that those who pay such impressive amounts in taxation will proceed with the business of recovering it. Such a move is simply the outcropping of human nature. If these men find in the course of business they have opportunity to pass their taxation in whole or in part on to some other individuals—possibly consumers—it is not unthinkable that such would be done. It is one think to soak a man and another thing to make him stay soaked.

He Asked For It

Stan Laurel of the movies is credited with making $160,000 per year, but he made a statement the other day saying he would end the present year with a deficit.

Laurel is supporting three wives, paying agents and managers and lawyers and taxes. His first wife is now suing him for $1,000 a month to support their ten-year-old daughter. Probably Laurel considered he was through with that family as he made a property settlement worth $274,000 when he parted with his first wife.

Apparently the comedian is in a bad way, but it is difficult to work up a lump in the throat on his behalf.

In the first place we do not believe he is worth $160,000 a year.

After that no person except himself is to blame because he now has a string of three wives to support. When he went into that sort of business he did so with his eyes open, and if they all camp on his financial trail now he is merely taking in the sheaves where he himself did the planting.

If the general public have a surplus supply of sympathy or tears we can think of a number of places where they can be bestowed, and none of them include Mr. Laurel and his self-made woe.

It Should Help

Great Britain and Italy have reached the point where they will enter upon some sort of an agreement. There were those in Britain who contended such an agreement could not be secured, and they were certain none should ever be signed. But fortunately for Britain and fortunately for the world there is a school of diplomacy in London which contends that if a thing is worth while it can be attained.

A good many matters may have been in the controversy, but back of it all was the Mediterranean. Mussolini preferred to look upon it as an Italian body of water, while to Britain it is the lifeline leading to the East. There is plenty of room in it for all the nations of the world, but an agreement should do a good deal to put an end to the feeling of unrest and suspicion which has existed.

The effect of such an understanding on the relationship between Berlin and Rome is something which cannot be forecast with any degree of accuracy. Hitler is planning a visit to Rome about the first week in May, but the London-Rome document is expected to be signed long before then.

STRANGE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ On days when I sleep in too long, why then it is that things go wrong, it's always been like that; I try to hurry as I dress, and I speed up I must confess, until I'm going like scat.

¶ I poise my razor in the air, to shave my whisker spots off bare, my time to leave is near; it's always then that I begin, to cut a slice from off my chin, a nick behind the ear.

¶ My collar button joins the fun, and then I find I've only one, and I can't get ahead; for it has slipped from where it was, and then for no apparent cause, it rolled beneath the bed.

¶ I stick my feet inside my boots, I'll have them laced within two toots, cut dressing time I must; I pull the laces here and there, I guess I need another pair, for in my haste they bust.

¶ And then I gulp my victuals down, and hasten off toward the town, in speed two minutes flat; I pause a moment while I blink, and then I try to stop and think, just where I left my hat.

¶ I'm all riled up before I start, and feel as though I'll fall apart, I hum a hymn of hate; I've tried to figure hard and long, just why it is all things go wrong—the day I sleep in late.

Resurrection As Told By John

ST. JOHN 20; 1-20

THE FIRST day of the week cometh Mary Magdalene early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and seeth the stone taken away from the sepulchre.

2 Then she runneth, and cometh to Simon Peter, and to the other disciple, whom Jesus loved, and saith unto them, They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him.

3 Peter therefore went forth, and that other disciple, and came to the sepulchre.

4 So they ran both together: and the other disciple did outrun Peter, and came first to the sepulchre.

5 And he stooping down, and looking in, saw the linen clothes lying; yet went he not in.

6 Then cometh Simon Peter following him, and went into the sepulchre, and seeth the linen clothes lie,

7 And the napkin, that was about his head, not lying with the linen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by itself.

8 Then went in also that other disciple, which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw, and believed.

9 For as yet they knew not the scripture, that he must rise again from the dead.

10 Then the disciples went away again unto their own homes.

11 But Mary stood without at the sepulchre weeping: and as she wept, she stooped down, and looked into the sepulchre,

12 And seeth two angels in white sitting, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain.

13 And they say unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? She saith unto them, Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

14 And when she had thus said, she turned herself back, and saw Jesus standing, and knew not that it was Jesus.

15 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? whom seekest thou? She, supposing him to be the gardener, saith unto him, Sir, if thou have borne him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and I will take him away.

16 Jesus saith unto her, Mary. She turned herself, and saith unto him, Rabboni; which is to say, Master.

17 Jesus saith unto her, Touch me not; for I am not yet ascended to my Father: but go to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and your Father; and to my God, and your God.

18 Mary Magdalene came and told the disciples that she had seen the Lord, and that he had spoken these things unto her.

19 Then the same day at evening being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

20 And when he had so said, he shewed unto them his hands and his side. Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord.

To The Editor

SUGGESTION

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I am in favor of the June 20, date for Maskinonge. I think it should be restricted to row boats or canoes, and power boats should be eliminated or restricted. I think that our fish are deleted more with power boats than anything else. Just go back 2 years and you will find out that one power boat was the means of taking from fifty to one hundred lunge from Lake Chemong. This man at that time brought two lunge into the City Clerk's office and was boasting about the number of Maskinonge he and a friend of his had caught that season. This is just one instance of what can be done with regards to depleting our fish supply in our lakes with power boats, and there is no doubt that this same man is shouting from the house tops, "conserve our fish supply" and depriving the man or woman who goes out in a row boat or canoe trying to catch a fish but seldom do.

SWEDEN DEALS WITH POOLS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: With sweepstakes in particular and gambling in general very much in the limelight it may be interesting to hear how the matter has been dealt with in one country. The Scandinavian countries, Sweden, Norway and Denmark are fortunate enough to be aloof from the complexities and anxieties of international politics and complications and are flourishing exceedingly; in Sweden, however, there was the ever present gambling problem to be combatted.

Too much money was leaving the country for sweepstakes, pools, etc., and going into the hands of British and other betting agencies; in 1934 the Swedish government took active steps to deal with the state of affairs that had arisen. They formed a National Pool Co., which received its charter on September 24, 1934. For the first full year 1935-36 the money received by the company was $5,187,000 and in 1936-37 it was $6,549,500.

This latter sum was dealt with as follows:

Prizes	$2,978,000
Government tax on prizes levied at source	275,000
Commission	787,000
Salaries, rent, printing, etc.	329,500
Profit	2,180,000
	$6,549,500

From the profits there was transferred to taxation reserve $740,000 and the balance $1,440,000 was paid to the Government Revenue Board from which was taken at once $250,000 for budget purposes. The net balance of $1,990,000 was entirely appropriated for the encouragement of sports, gymnastics and physical training generally.

Today there is very little gambling done outside the charter company and the profits stay in the country and are used for the benefit of the community at large. These pools are run on football matches; in Sweden there are football matches in the summer and in the winter the betting is on British football matches very much on the lines of the immensely popular English "penny pools" with the exception that the highest prize is limited to $18,500—whereas in the English pools the prizes depend on the amount subscribed and there is no limit to their value—On October 23, 1937, one pool company paid the lucky winner with the highest points no less than $111,220.

These figures as to Sweden are matters of record and not given in any controversial sense—they show some constructive effort to deal with a perplexing situation.

Yours truly.

GREY OWL

Editor Examiner:

Sir: A remarkable character, a man who rose above his surroundings and environment and attained a position in Canada—comparable only with Jack Miner.

In his devotion to conservation of wild life he was a favorite. His love of the "Beaver People" made him world famous. He was an intense Canadian, loving Canada his adopted home and doing all in his power to preserve our wild life.

It was my privilege to entertain him in my home during his last visit to Peterborough. The effect of his long lecture tours in England was very evident. His battle with the B. B. C. on "Blood Sports" affected him deeply, but his deep-seated convictions would allow no compromise.

His sweet simple stories of his work with his beloved Beaver People will long remain in the minds and hearts of Canadian children.

Canada will mourn the passing of Grey Owl.

ALL VERY CHILDISH.

(Ottawa Journal)

THE ONTARIO Legislature has decided by vote that each of its members is to be called M.P.P. instead of M.L.A. Each is to be known as a Member of a Provincial Parliament, and not as a Member of a Legislative Assembly, presumably for the reason that he thinks M.P.P. has something in prestige and dignity lacking in the other combination of initials.

It is all very pretty and childish. There is one Parliament in Canada, and nine Legislative Assemblies. There is no such thing as a provincial parliament, and the status of the Legislative Assembly cannot be raised by its own membership. M.L.A. is correct, and M.P.P. is incorrect, but that fact seems to have weighed not at all with the gentlemen at Queen's Park.

Premier Hepburn's attention should be called to the example of Kentucky. That state has some 17,000 "Kentucky Colonels" created by state authority, and every one of them, even to Shirley Temple, is entitled to buy and wear a magnificent and glittering uniform, to carry a sword.

NEED COUNTY COUNCILS.

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

PARTISAN POLITICS has been submerged as a rule, in county councils. In provincial governing bodies politics has reached a level that leaves municipalities and individuals largely powerless to obtain ordinary rights and decent treatment. Paternalism has run riot at Queen's Park. Remove a few more brakes, and then wait for the crash! Ontario already has more "professional" politicans than the province can afford. Centralizing control by abolishing county councils and reducing the number of members in the Legislature will help to breed the wrong type of representatives.

The drift in provincial government is dangerous. Anything that will check the irresponsible, dictatorial trend of the last decade in Ontario is to be welcomed. But efforts to centralize still more unlimited powers in partisan politicians should be resisted. Maintaining county councils is one weapon of defence that should not lightly be surrendered.

THE RESURRECTION MORNING

All hail thrice blessed day,
And light the hills adorning,
That ushered in the dawn,
Of that first Easter morning.

The sun had sunk to rest,
Upon a night of gloom,
For He who came to save the world,
Was dead and in the tomb.

E'ven those who loved Him most,
Had sunk down to despair,
And came expectant to the grave,
To find their Master there.

But what a scene now bursts
On their astonished sight,
The stone is rolled away
The grave is filled with light.

The angel guard proclaim,
The fact that Christ has risen,
Has burst the bands of death
And triumphed o'er His prison.

All hail—thou risen Christ,
Thou living loving Lord,
We'll praise thee, love thee, serve thee,
And rest upon Thy word.

NEGRO DRUMMER SETS THE PACE FOR PADDLERS

Probably the name Gene Kruper doesn't mean anything to the members of the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada. They are not even interested in Kruper, and they may be hazy about Bennie Goodman, all of which would signify that they are not up on their dance bands. But, they do know a lot about friction and lubrication, and that would be humdrum stuff to those who regard Gene Kruper as tops drummer in the percussion league.

However, if any of the engineers had seen Bennie Goodman and his orchestra, notably his drummer, the aforementioned Kruper, in "Hollywood Hotel" at the Regent a short time ago, they might have found more than swiftly passing interest in a scene in the travelogue picture presented by A. G. Scott, chief lubrication engineer of the Imperial Oil Company, Toronto, in the Paragon Hall Wednesday night. In that picture of a safari through Darkest Africa from Algiers to Nairobi they would have noticed a native drummer who never heard of swing band or jazz band or Hollywood or radio programs, but that negro boy with a keg shaped drum could do all that Gene Kruper does and then some.

A group of natives had lashed five or six small boats together to transport equipment of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Thaw across a river, and the boy with the drum was beating the tempo for the paddlers to speed up the crossing. Their stroking, or rather their rate of paddling, was something to marvel at, as the boy turned on a drumming accelerando that would have left Gene Kruper at the top of the stretch, as they say at the Woodbine.

"Scientific and Educational"

The main subject of Mr. Scott's engagement with the engineers was lubrication, an exceedingly educational motion picture of the primary importance of oil in making the modern world go round. It was a grand program, excellent photography of African tribes and customs, vicarious adventure with Larry Thaw and his wife on their 11,316 mile trip through Africa, followed by the informative film that soon convinced even a layman that without lubrication modern industry, especially in all its mechanical phases, would come to a halt and stay there.

Aboriginal Source of Swing

But, Mr. Scott turned on that African picture first, and as the air has been full of this swing stuff lately the movies of the safari seemed to deserve special mention for their contribution in the cause of education. After all common sense tells even those who are not engineers that lubrication is necessary to prevent gears and bearings and the frictional parts of the gasoline engine from wearing away in no time, or possibly melting from the heat they developed in their work. A sharper sense of discovery in the spirit of "I told you so" grew out of the safari picture as it dawned on you that some instrument like a micrometer would have to be applied to distinguish the difference between night club so-called swing "music" and the honest-to-goodness folk music of at least half a dozen tribes. Certainly a yard stick would be too big and clumsy a measure for the delicate comparison. It would require a finer scale because the memories, briefly as they were endured, of the swing motif from smart night spots from Harlem to Hollywood, to say nothing of our own Canadian scene, were immediately awakened by the aboriginal swing tunes of the fighting Tuaregs about whom the Examiner carried a column or more not so long ago in an interview with a returned missionary from Timbuctoo who was visiting the Rev. George Chambers. And if the accepted music of the Tuareg tribe was not sufficiently convincing, there were the discords of the Ubangis, the black race whose dominant note in feminine distinction if not beauty is the saucer and plate sized lips of the women.

Even Pigmy "Swing"

Likewise the Niapu tribe that binds the heads of its infant girls until they are elongated and misshaped to the contour of cocoanuts, and the Ituri pigmies of the great forest down nearer the Belgian Congo, these and others you might have visited in pictures with the engineers all bore musical testimony in their lighter and swing moments to corroborate your opinion of, to say the least, you don't like swing, that it traces directly back to the African jungles.

Meanwhile the big truck and two automobiles comprising the safari transport equipment swung along through desert sand and narrow paths in the bush with the aid of indispensible lubricants, 11,316 miles according to the speedometer, and altogether Mr. Scott provided one of the most entertaining evenings in the season's series of the E. I. C. now drawing to an end. But, by way of repetition, they might not have fixed as much interest on the native musical features and connotations as they did on the lubrication of bearings and gears and engine walls and piston rings.

For all their specialized knowledge and enquiry into what makes the world go round, they can't entirely overlook the swing bands when they are on the subject of lubricity and its atmosphere in Harlem, Hollywood or the desert fringe of Timbuctoo.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, April 17

Sunday's horoscope holds signs of many disagreeable and adverse situations affecting the private as well as the business life. Quarrels, dangers, robbery, loss and hidden menaces make a day calling for extra watchfulness and precaution. The mind may be keyed up to a nervous or irresponsible pitch.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of conflicting or disagreeable situations, with loss, robbery, subtle dangers and strife. The mentality may have irregular or eccentric leanings tending to aggravate adverse conditions unless it be turned in the direction of invention or creative ideas of a unique or novel slant.

A child born on this day may have a high-pitched or erratic temperament which might be turned into invention of novel or unique objects, or the writing of an unusual type of romantic literature. It may have a difficult, extravagant and bombastic nature, although it may be generous and kindly.

For Monday, April 18

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of rather contradictory conditions, with the promise of the breaking away of old obstructions and stagnant matters to make way for some rather important progress on new plans. But the latter seem to be beset by financial hazards or other elements of danger.

Those whose birthday it is may expect some very alluring opportunities to develop during the year, following the removal of some tenacious obstacles or other frustrating circumstances. Through prudence and good judgment, a welcome stabilization of the fortunes is possible, even though there are hazards of loss and heavy expenditure.

A child born on this day may be ambitious and adventurous, with inflated ideas and much optimism. But it should likewise have sound judgment and much stability, attracting the aid of elderly friends by their dependability and worthiness in perilous situations.

POLLY AND HER PALS — By Cliff Sterrett

LENTEN SERVICE AT ST. JAMES'

The Lenten service was held in St. James' United Church on Thursday night, Rev. F. W. Craik conducting the service. The choir rendered a suitable anthem. Rev. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's Church gave the address. His subject was, "Jesus looks around upon Jerusalem," from St. Mark 11, 11.

Why, he asked, did the triumphal entry take place? It shows Jesus in a new light. He said that he was meek and lowly. There are two possible explanations. It might have been merely for His personal comfort. He was worn out physically and mentaly and unable to continue the journey on foot. He wept aloud over Jerusalem. In this case the crowd was unforeseen. It is more likely, however, that it was a planned demonstration. He sent His disciples to provide the colt of an ass. He knew that the Galilean pilgrims would give expression to their feelings. What thoughts were in His mind when the people cried "Hosanna"? If we knew this we would have a deeper insight into the meaning of His life and death. Was it an acted parable to show that He was really a king? Was it a last bid for the homage of the people of Jerusalem? We cannot answer these questions.

What did Jesus see as He looked over the city? He saw the antagonism of the ruling classes. The Pharisees, Saducees, Scribes, Herodians were jealous of one another, but were united in their hatred of Jesus. Why did they hate Him? They were afraid of Him; if He succeeded their rule was over. Priestcraft had been condemned by Jesus. It was one of the dominant influences in His crucifixion. What did Jesus feel as He looked over Jerusalem? He felt deep sorrow and loneliness. What, after all, had He accomplished by His miracles and teaching? A few devout women and disciples were fairly loyal to Him. The crowd if properly led would have rallied, but they were superficial and ignorant. In the great tragedy of His life Jesus was alone; there was no one to stand by Him. What did Jesus do? He set Himself resolutely to the task before Him. He went out to Bethany, returned to the temple courts, and taught in the very citadel of His enemies. Donn Byrne in "Brother Saul" tells that Joachim, an Arab leader, approached Jesus with a fleet horse, and besought Him to fly into Gentile territory, in which He would be welcomed. He stood His ground, however, faced the two trials, and the agony of the cross. Alexander Irvine, a noted Irish author and preacher, when he returned to Belfast was proclaimed "a most successful failure." He had faced vested interests, and they crushed him. Jesus was a successful failure. His death was one of shame; but the cross has become the most powerful dynamic in the world. The spirit of the Christ is fighting today for liberty, truth, and purity. Are we willing to stand by Him?

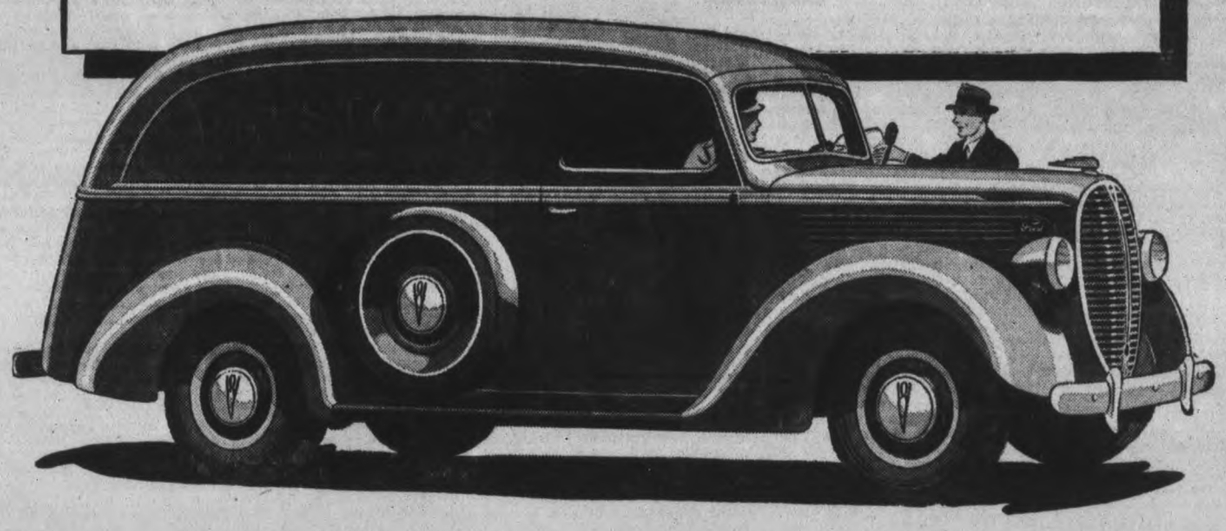
BRINGS FORD V·8 ECONOMY TO ONE-TON RANGE



Many operators asked Ford to build a unit that would give them Commercial Car economy with bigger-than-Commercial Car capacity. The answer to these requests is the Ford V-8 One-Tonner, an entirely new truck in the line. It gives the proved performance operators associate with Ford V-8 hauling and delivery equipment. It widens the circle of Ford economy. It offers operators exactly the truck they need in the one-ton range.

The One-Tonner has a 122-inch wheelbase. It is powered with the economical 85-horsepower V-8 engine. It is the smartest looking one-ton truck on the road. Though lower in price, it has the time-proved features that make the 2-ton and 1½-ton Ford V-8 Trucks so reliable. Frame, springs and axles are designed for high reserve strength without penalizing economy with excess weight. One-Tonner models are the Panel, Express, Cab and Chassis, and Drive-away Chassis. Visit your Ford dealer and arrange an "on-the-job" test with your own driver and own loads over your regular territory.

FEATURES OF THE FORD V·8 ONE-TONNER

85-horsepower V-8 engine • 122-inch wheelbase • Full torque-tube and radius-rod drive • Full-floating rear axle • Tapered roller front and rear wheel bearings • Straddle-mounted pinion • Free-shackled springs • Tires: 6.00-17 front, 7.00-17 rear; other tire options available at extra cost • Quick-stopping brakes, easy to apply, large, powerful, with the safety of steel from pedal to wheel • Worm and roller type steering with 18.2-to-1 ratio • Roomy, comfortable cabs with plenty of head room and soft seat cushions • Ford Engine Exchange Plan.

C.A.H.A. TO CREATE $35,000 TRUST FUND FOR HOCKEY AID

Money Will Be Used In Lean Years And For The Olympics

Western Canada Granted Protection From Pro Raids—Alternate Hockey Finals

OTTAWA, April 16 (CP).—Solvency of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association was assured for some years Friday when the annual convention voted to create a trust fund of $35,000, to be depleted only for Olympic competition and in lean years.

In a busy day delegates moved to create the trust fund, granted Western Canada protection against raids by professional teams, decided to alternate Allan and Memorial Cup games between East and West and dealt with a dozen other problems.

They decided to resume grants to branches, halted in depression years, brought several classes of players under an exception to the residence date, decided against barring commercial teams from Allan and Memorial Cup games and granted the executive power to suitably commemorate the association's silver jubilee next year.

Praise For Duncan.

The trust fund was made possible by President Cecil Duncan's able direction of the C.A.H.A.'s affairs for two years. The Ottawan will retire when new officers are elected today. His probable successor is Dr. W. G. Hardy of Edmonton.

When Duncan took office the association had only $4,000 in assets after four disastrous years in which deficits totalled $48,934. This cut heavily into huge reserves the association had built up in previous prosperous years. But during two years of Duncan's administration the C.A.H.A. returned to its former affluence.

Its assets at March 1 totalled $29,772 and to this will be added $17,000 taken in preliminary playoff games and receipts from the Allan and Memorial Cup finals not yet received. When all the money is in the association is expected to have $60,000.

From this will be taken the $35,000 that is to form the trust fund. Stringent regulations will protect it. If the association finds it necessary to borrow from the fund, which is to be administered by an investment trust company, it will have to be done by a three-quarters vote of an annual meeting. Expenses of C.A.H.A. officials will be cut until the loan is repaid.

The West's plea for protection against raids by professional teams found response in a resolution which set a deadline of September 1 this year and May 15 in future years for transfers between East and West. The previous transfer deadline of October 15 was in force throughout Canada. The West is considered to be the Thunder Bay branch and all branches west of it.

The object of the change is to prevent professional teams from trying out players in fall "hockey schools" and then placing them with amateur teams in the East until they ripen.

Renew Old System.

Two years ago the C.A.H.A. abandoned the system of having Memorial and Allan Cup finals alternate between East and West. In view of the association's financial conditions it was thought necessary to give the President powers to place finals in the most lucrative territory.

Today, with a prosperous financial condition, the association decided to go back to the old system. The finals will be alternated from year to year and will be played in the district of the finalist club. That is, if a Halifax team won the Eastern title, and it was the East's year for the Allan Cup games they would be played in Halifax.

A motion by Mr. Gilroy to permit "packing" of teams if the players were obtained within a branch was opposed by the Resolutions Committee and the whole question was referred back to that body.

George Dudley of Midland, Ont., committee chairman, suggested the rule against packing be rigidly adhered to but President Duncan and others dissented.

The West got a special concession when their branches were voted $200 this year for intermediate competition if there is a deficit. Western delegates emphasized the intermediate game is the backbone of hockey on the Prairies.

The Ontario Hockey Association's voting power in executive sessions was cut from four to three when the meeting decided that the registrar-treasurer, W. A. Hewitt, should not have voting power. H. Marples, secretary, also was shorn of his voting strength. Hewitt also is secretary of the O.H.A., which has two votes as a branch.

The move was made after the meeting threw out a suggestion that the two officials should be elected from the convention floor rather than appointed by the executive.

Ready For Dudas

Max Schmeling, first ranking challenger for the heavyweight boxing crown worn by Joe Louis, is set and ready to go for his tune-up bout with Steve Dudas in Hamburg, April 16. Little concern is being expressed about the outcome, Steven being strictly in the same category as was Harry Thomas before his fight with Joe Louis. Max is hoping that this year he really will get a chance at the title.

DAVID LEETHER O.S.A. OFFICER

SARNIA, April 16—Ontario softball adoped a middle of the road policy in the amateur controversy at the annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association here Friday when they passed a motion to continue their affiliation with the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and in the same motion voted to advise the Ontario Sports' Federation of their decision to cooperate with them as fully as possible.

Toronto's motion to affiliation with the Ontario Federation was lost when a general motion to stay with the A.A.U. of C. and approving the O.S.F. was put before the meeting by E. B. Smith, of Hamilton.

The Officers.

E. B. Smith, Hamilton, President of the Association in 1935 and 1936, succeeds V. C. Collett of Toronto.

Officers eleced were: Hon. Vice-President, Charles I. Aitchison, Hamilton; President, E. B. Smith, Hamilton; First Vice-President, H. K. Champion, Simcoe; Second Vice-President, Harry Sniderman, Toronto; Secretary, Vern McInwraith, Guelph; Treasurer, W. L. Alguire, St. Catharines. A.A.U. of C. Governors, P. H. Randall, Toronto; H. S. Briggs, Hamilton. Auditors, R. Horning, Hamilton; W. J. Steele, Hamilton. Executive, D. Leether, Peterborough; A. Jeffers, Hamilton; G. Spooner; H. H. Rollins, Belleville.

SCHOONER CAPTAIN TO TAKE DAUGHTER ON VOYAGE SOUTH

LUNENBURG, N.S., Mar. 8 (C. P.). — "Oh for the life on the salt sea wave," chanted lucky 24-year-old Mary Corkum to-day as she prepared for her voyage on the staunch three-masted schooner E. P. Theriault to the West Indian Islands.

Captain George Corkum, no longer able to resist the entreaties of his daughter to make a voyage with him to southern waters, finally consented to take the girl with him.

The sturdy, white vessel will leave early in March carrying a cargo of lumber, and Mary will be on board, making her first trip to sea.

"Sure I expect to get sea-sick," anticipated Mary, "but that will only last a fe wdays, and then I'm going to learn everything about sailing a ship. I intend to study navigation and then, perhaps, when I arrive home, maybe I can get a mate's ticket."

After the Theriault takes its lumber load from Halifax to Georgetown, British Guiana, she will sail light to Barbados, West Indies, where she will take on a cargo of molasses for Bridgewater, N.S.

Mary feels sure she could not find a better captain to sail under than her father. For 47 years he has roamed the seven seas both on business and pleasure and has always won in his battles with the elements.

Only last year Captain Corkum performed one of the most remarkable feats of seamanship in the annals of Nova Scotia's sea history. On a trip from Turks Island, B.W.I., with a cargo of salt, his schooner lost her rudder when 300 miles from the island on the return voyage.

For 33 days he navigated his ship over hundreds of miles by manipulating the sails, setting his course by use of the ship's canvas alone. When the vessel reached Nova Scotia's southern shore, she was towed into Lunenburg.

Although Mary hopes nothing like that will happen on her trip, she is certain her doughty sea-captain father is well able to command any situation that may arise.

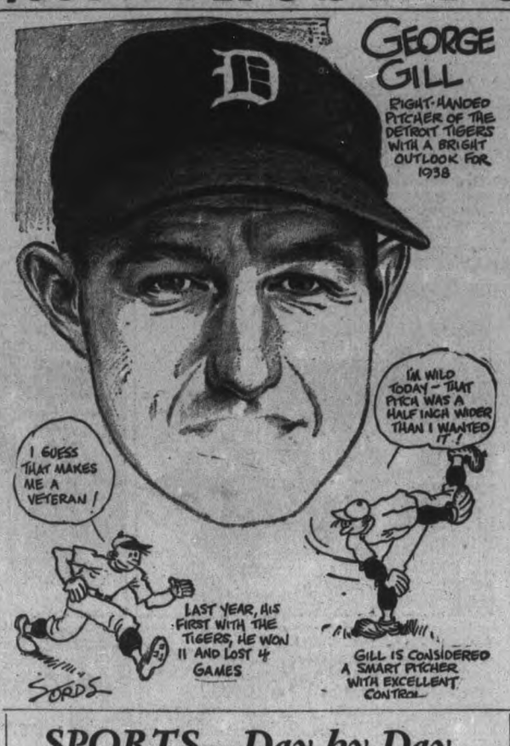
Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press)

George (Twinkletoes) Selkirk, picked to succeed baseball's mightiest hitter, Babe Ruth, made his debut with New York Yankees with a slashing single at New York three years ago today. The boy from Huntsville, Ont., still holds the right-field berth for the world champions.

Follows Father

You've all heard the tales of "Terrible Terry." Well, Our Will has a son and he hasn't any horns, or big teeth or anything. In fact he's practically normal. Except that like his father he may be one swell ball player . . . someday. Right now he's a sophomore at University of Virginia, pitching and playing second base on the Varsity nine. He is shown taking his cut at the ball.



SPORTS—Day by Day

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

BY CEC. PERDUE

THE DAY of the hoop skirt is past—most of a certainty—but the day of the hoop sport is not yet quite over here. Although 'tis nearly so, and tonight finishes up the local season. Ye hoop sport is basketball, and barring a church final in Brampton and the P.C.I. playoff in Toronto next week, tonight sees the end of the trail. At 8.30 in the "Y" this eve, Brampton and St. Paul's tangle in the first of a two-game O.C.B.A. final series for intermediate honors. The gallery ought to be packed tighter than a fat femme's shoe in the Easter parade, and the fans and fannettes should get heaps to yodel about. Ken Long and his Brampton church finalists are supposed to be a hotcha outfit, whilst the local Saints are certainly no Santa Claus outfit to rival squads. Points count and the homesters will be pulling like cops at a police picnic tug-of-war to get a fair margin.

VARIOUS PEOPLE, aside from sports followers, have from time to time told us that they frequently cast a glance at this piller de piffle in hopes of finding something "funny or interesting," and if they see something promising they read on—otherwise they turned to another page. Some of 'em were matronly ladies and some staid business men who did not usually follow sports. We tell 'em we cannot always write light stuff—supposedly humorous—as this is meant to be a sports column and we must comment on sports, or return to brick laying for a living. Had we the facilities of the big town scribes, or could we depart from the local athletic picture and write comically about the N.H.L., Jeem Londos, Bill Terry, Babe Didrikson, etc., why maybe our stuff would be funny, too.

* * * * * *

IN AN effort to get off something different for a change we looked up Java Joe, the word mauler, and asked him to say something on sports. "Aw, gnats to you," says he, seeing right through us; "You reform me you want some talk on sports but I recline to be quotient. When you are in a squandary for news you come to me looking for something to tickle the risen abilities of your denuded publicans. I am no Pie-Eyed Piper which can whiskey a tune on a cornet and draw the publicans after me, even if I do have the odd grammadrigal error, and also I am not in the mode tonight. You come to me when you are stuck like I was the Male Voice Chore and could sing you a coarse by simply moisturing my lips. But I have nothing for public creation at this time." So he thinks.

* * * * * *

HOWEVER to get back to strictly sports, we were reading in the St. Louis Sporting News this week where Paul Dean was definitely through in the big league and had been shipped to the minors. The famous Daffy, who is a brother of the even more famous Dizzy, of St. Louis Cards, has a bad arm and may be on his way out. The Cards may have burned him out when they were staging that frantic Dean Bros. act a few years ago, but big Diz has stood up better and should last a few more years. Baseball is not a rugged game like hockey, lacrosse or rugby, but a pitcher's arm will wear out quick if he has to toss three hard games a week. Possibly the hard duty of Eddie (Gunner) Whitehill for the Petes two years ago hurt his work last year. We remember when the Dean's dad was introduced to local fans at Riverside Aug. 14th, 1935, in the first floodlight ball game we ever had, when his other son, Elmer (the great) Dean, pitched for the House of David. * * * * * *

ELMER (the Great) wasn't so great in that tilt. In fact, he was just travelling on a famous diamond name. The Benton Haborites were beaten by Perth that fracas by a 9-5 score, before close to 3,000 fans—almost a record in Peterborough. Elmer started for the Bearded Men but didn't last an inning. Not an out, in fact. The first guy up against him singled, the next one tripled, the third gee singled and stole, and the cleanup chap walked. They pulled the Great Dean then, as his fast straight ball was just duck soup to the Perth pros. We tried to get an interview with Elmer that evening but the reticent Southerner would barely say yes and no to questions.

SPEAKING OF the C.O.B.L.—oh, weren't we?—we understand that there are only two pros asking the O.B.A. this year to be reinstated. And both were with Knotty Lee's Can.-Am. ball loop. They are Don Gibbard, a hurler, and Eddie Murphy, an infielder. The latter expects to get re-instated shortly and will play for the Petes after June 5th, meantime managing the locals. Gibbard will pitch for St. Catharines when he gets okayed and the St. Kitts' scribe says: "Gibbard reports the ailing 'whip' as good as ever and if Knotty Lee's sayso is worth anything Gibbard in form should win a dozen games for any halfway club." We imagine Murphy will win several struggles for the Petes, too, if he gets re-instated—and he should. He may also help the Orfuns a lot when the rugby rolls around again.

* * * * * *

MAX GLOVER and Dave Leether of the local softball loop took in the annual O.A.S.A. convention in Sarnia yesterday. This sports' body fooled everyone, including themselves, by voting to stay with the Amateur Union and observe its rules—though they will write the Sports Federation promising to co-operate with the latter as fully as possible. Dave Leether was again returned to the executive, H. H. Rollins of Belleville also catching on—but Art Casterton of Kingston was defeated. Kingston withdrew its amendment asking for all-neutral umpires in playdown games, and Belleville changed its mind about population figures. Last year's pitching rule was rescinded. players will continue to score from third on wild pitches, players must have amachoor cards, seniors may wear spikes, etc. Dope is in elsewhere on this session.

QUITE A time up at the Ontario Lacrosse Association convention in Toronto yesterday, Doug Miller being representative for this club. Pete King was voted to the O.L.A. executive, the only guy on it from the East. The Association outlined a most successful season last year and everything points to a big one this semester. A bank balance of $2,218 was reported. Story of the gabfest appears this eve. Haven't heard yet how the locals made out in their lobbying for a different grouping this year, but it'll all come to light within a few days, one supposes. Definite action for the Peterborough lacrossers should be the order now that the provincial affair is ge-finished for this year.

GRAB-BAG: Oshawa Generals again upset the dope with their 4-2 win over St. Boniface on Thursday; and the scrappy GM-lads are favored now to take the Memorial Cup . . . . They play tonight, whilst the Oshawa juveniles have a sudden-death final with Sudbury in Toronto this aft . . . . C.A.H.A. tale should be listed somewhere this e'en—they met Good Friday, also . . . . Men's City Softball League meeting will be Monday night at eight in the Chamber of Commerce, an open session . . . . And Girls' Softball League holds its annual meeting Tuesday p.m. at 7.30 in Duffus'—all welcome. . . . . Petes' baseball prospects will have indoor drills at the "Y" next Monday and Thursday twilights at 8.15 . . . . Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts had to postpone their planned spring practise due to bad weather the other day . . . . About two more weeks and outdoor practises in different sports will be held here . . . . And a merry Easter outfit to all of youse.

Hamilton Man Heads O.L.A. Quiet Annual Gathering

Pete King of This City Elected To Executive—Endorse Sports Federation

TORONTO, April 16.—The Ontario Lacrosse Association, in annual conclave Good Friday at the Prince George Hotel, rejected a propospal by Bruce Leighton, an executive member and well-known referee, to change the playing periods of the game; elected Russell T. Kelley of Hamilton as president; endorsed the new Ontario Sports Federation's principles, among other things.

It was an uneventful meeting, with little of the verbal fireworks that have become traditional with Good Friday meetings of the largest provincial lacrosse body in the world. Reports were heard of progress in the past season, plans for the current year were outlined, and the meeting wound up early last night with election of officers.

The new president, Russell Kelley, has had a long association with lacrosse. He was defeated last year in his bid for the prexy's chair by Ed Kopas of Fergus, who stood for election this year for the third time, but failed to make the grade. The year previous he was first vice-president, and prior to that he had served on the executive.

Hard Work Rewarded

Dan Millar, the hard-working St. Catharines red-head, was given an acclamation to the first vice-presidency, after refusing to stand on the presidential ballot. Frank Curran, an equally industrious lacrosse man from Orillia, was given an acclamation for third vice-president. Mimico's Jack McDonald defeated Bill Parsons of Brantford in the voting for second vice-president's office.

Secretary Gene Dopp and Dr. Wendell Holmes were unopposed and were given office again as secretary and treasurer, respectively.

So far as is known now all the senior clubs, with the possible exception of Marlboros, will be back for this year's campaign. Eddie Powers, back in the city after leading his Syracuse Stars into the Canadian-American Hockey League play-offs and Ted Johnston were the unofficial representatives of Marlboros and were unable to say whether the Toronto entry would start. Tommy Scott and Sandy Milne of the Dukes were on hand and big Jerry Connell, defense star in lacrosse with Orillia, and in hockey with Port Colborne Sailors, was on deck and said he would play in Toronto if there was a team here. Connell recently signed a Maple Leaf pro. hockey contract.

Rumor has it that Gordie Thom, former defense star with St. Simons in the days of twelve-man field lacrosse, will replace Jack McDonald as coach of Mimico Mountaineers, with Normie Gair, recent winner of the Jimmy Murphy Memorial Trophy, getting support for the post in some quarters.

Orillia was well represented by Frank Curran, Piper Bain, Shipwreck Kelly, George Coles, Butch Boettger, Vern Steggall, while Joe Cheevers and Wandy McMahon, who played with last year's Eastern Canada champions came over from St. Catharines, where they will play his season. Roy Morton came along with Manager Dan Millar.

The St. Catharines Club will rate as favorite to win the Mann Cup this year and are bound to have a big edge on condition on the rest of the teams because their entire squad have been playing in the Winter League in Rochester.

Bill Isaacs, ace Indian forward with Marlboros last year, in whose direction Brampton are said to be casting longing eyes, Luman Jackson, Smiley Young and Max Martin, othe. Indians in the Marlboro cast last season, are playing in the same league, and Isaacs is said to be playing standout lacrosse. He always did have what it takes, this good-looking redskin.

Little is known of the plans of Brantford, Brampton and Fergus but the last two clubs will pretty well stand pat on last year's squad.

Good Year Financially.

While they don't say so, officials of the O.L.A. feel that this year will provide an even more full season of financial reward and competition than last semester, which was generally acknowledged to be the best in 10 years or more. The local Marlboros were the only team to operate at a deficit in '37, although Brantford, we are told, just got under the gate with $50 on the right side of the ledger due to a good gate for their last game of the schedule.

Financially, the association did very well in the past campaign, and this is reflected in a favorable bank balance of $2,218.08, as compared with a figure of $1,517.43 which was on deposit at the end of the season prior to last.

A luncheon preceded the business meeting and Mike Kelley, President of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, and Charlie (twenty-five years in sport) Querrie were the guest speakers.

The Executive Committee elected yesterday will consist of Silver Bennett, Toronto; Roy Dennis, Brampton; Dr. R. E. Hipwell, Orillia; Ted Johnston, Scarboro'; Ted Kaufman, Inglewood; Frank Kavanaugh, Toronto; Pete King, Peterborough; Bruce Leighton, Toronto; Ed McDermott, Toronto; Chuck Rowan, New Toronto.

SELKIRK RETAINS HEAVY HITTING SPOT WITH NEW YORK YANKS

Only Canuck With Champions Likely Due For Good Season

Bucky Harris, Senators' Manager, Looks For Good Things From Joe Krakausas

NEW YORK, April 16 (CP).—Six days from today, provided the weatherman co-operates, New York Yankees return to action in their own bailliwick with George Selkirk as their "personality kid" and still retaining his spot as heavy hitter.

The pigeon-toed slugger from Huntsville, Ont., has always been colorful in right field and at bat, but this year Selkirk has added hijinks in training games that come up to exploits of St. Louis' Gashouse gang.

He did pirouettes on the bases and executed hitch-kicks while running the sacks. Afield Canada's only representative on the world champions challenged fly balls with his head, occupied his feet with shag steps and welcomed his teammate, Lou Gehrig, into the Yankee fold by coming on to the field astride a mule. That was when Gehrig returned from his cowboy movie acting.

Nevertheless indications are twinkletoes Selkirk is due for a good year, likely better than last season if he can dodge his injury jinx. Last year Selkirk was leading the league in homers, with 17, and his hitting .328 when a bad shoulder put him out for 79 games. In this year's training he suffered a late batting slump but hit .277 for 27 games and whammed out four homers, one a 425-footer.

Over in Brooklyn there is another Canadian eyeful—Goodwin Rosen, the Jewish boy from Toronto. Once he played hockey. Once, too, he lugged bats for Toronto's International League club. And for five years at Louisville Goody batted .300 or thereabouts and played 22 games for the Dodgers last year. Goody has a neat trick of tagging the bases with his hand when sliding to the right and looks plenty good enough to give Kiki Cuyler, Brooklyn's stand-by for centre field, a good many days off this season.

Kiki likes Rosen. Recently he told Manager Burleigh Grimes: "There's not much I can tell that kid. He's pretty good all the way."

Bucky Harris, Washington Senators' manager, will be happy indeed if another Canadian rookie — Joe Krakauskas—comes through. Kraky, a big Lithuanian flinger from Montreal, got a Senator trial last year and won four and lost one. He is considered one of the niftier rookies though a trifle wild with the pitching he learned around Hamilton, Ont., and Brantford. Still, he has shown enough stuff to make Harris pretty enthusiastic.

Cleveland also has Canadian representation. There, Jeff Heath, one-time Fort William, Ont., baseballer, has been doing a nice job in centre field. Yesterday against the Giants he managed one hit in two trips to score a run for the tribe.

ROOSEVELT WILL TOSS FIRST BALL WASHINGTON PARK

NEW YORK, April 16 (A.P.). — The clients having been worked into a suitable lather by as fancy a lot of spring ballyhoo as Connie Mack, the oldest inhabitant, ever saw, the 1938 big-league baseball campaign at last is on the verge of getting down to business.

It starts at Washington on Monday, when President Roosevelt is scheduled to watch a couple of Washington Senators and Philadelphia Athletics, bang each other about. At the same time, in Boston, the champion New York Yankees will begin what looks like another grand march against Boston Red Sox, weather permitting.

The two tilts completes Monday's program, but on the following day the cannonading will become general on all fronts. The New York Giants, two-time champs in the National League and slim favorites to win again, open against Boston Bees at the Polo Grounds.

As for some seasons past, prospects for a genuine pennant fight between two or more clubs are wrapped up in the National League. In the opinion of a majority of experts, the Giants again will get their toughest competition from Chicago Cubs, with St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates also breathing down their necks, maybe.

Nothing of the kind is forecast in the American League, where the Yankees are deemed to have such a bulge over their nearest neighbors that only a general falling-apart of the veteran team could deprive them of a third world championship. The Bronx Bombers will face the Red Sox on Monday without holdout Joe DiMaggio, in the line-up. Myril Hoag, who figures to clout close to 50 points under DiMaggio's potential figure, will occupy Guiseppe's centrefield post.

Cleveland Indians, with a scrapping new manager in Oscar Vitt, look like the best "dark horse" in either league. Their only apparent weakness is at second base, but that, admittedly, is a bad place to have a weakness. Detroit, the popular choice to chase the Yankees home, has a similar gap at third base, and the Red Sox are short on pitchers. Also, they're getting no younger.

This Will Never Become A Craze

Fifty million Frenchmen, according to the old phrase, can't be wrong. But six or seven can, we'd say, after looking at this. Members of the 11th Regiment of Cuirassiers of the French army decided this game "combined the best features of polo and basketball" and here they are in a scramble under the goal or basket (take your choice). The game, played in two periods of seven minutes each, was demonstrated at the Paris Horse Show, and as far as we can gather is basketball on horseback.

Baseball Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND.— There won't be another pitching duel between Bob Feller, the Indians' ace, and Carl Hubbell of New York Giants this spring. Manager Oscar Vitt shifted his plans and scheduled Feller to pitch Cleveland's home-coming game to-day against Hal Schumacher, while Hubbell will hurl to-morrow.

NEWARK, N.J.—George Scharein, Phillies' star shortstop, may be out of the opening game against Brooklyn Tuesday. He pulled a charley horse several weeks ago and has complained of pains ever since.

DAYTON, O. — Right - handed Tommy Bridges now is slated to pitch Detroit Tiegrs' opener against the White Sox at Chicago. George Gill had been the nominee until he let Cincinnati Reds off to a 13-run lead Thursday.

BROOGLYN.—Cookie Lavagetto, who hit only .282 last season, is threatening to become a potent factor in Brooklyn Dodgers' attack. By hitting safely twice in yesterday's rout of the Yankees he ran his exhibition game string to 15 consecutive games in which he has hit safely.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting editor:

Well Mac, I see where the boys on the Toronto papers has been getting out the crying towels because "your Leaves" come home from Chicago to find no one at the depot to meet them. I figger they was plain lucky, old timer. They mighta been met by all the gees which bet 2 to 1 on them to beat the Black Hawks and that woulda been a tougher reception than they got in Chicago.

Another Playoff

Anyway Mac, the screwey serious for the historic old mug, as I call the Stanley Cup, is over and right now I'm seriously thinking of dropping a line to Mister F. Calder and suggesting they shouldn't oughta wind up the doings yet. After the regular season was over and the boys had been toiling since last November they was only 2 teams left out in the cold. Now I propose them 2 teams be cut in on some of the extra gravy. Let the Maroons and Mister Adams' Detroits play a series, best 3 outa 5 for the Consolation championship and then let the winners clash with the Stanley Cup winners, the Black Hawks, for the world's championship. That wouldn't be any sillier than what has happened this season due to the playoff arrangements.

Hadn't No License

On the season's form the Hawks didn't have no more license to lick the Leaves 3 outa 4 than the Toronto gang had to trim Boston 3 in a row. I figger Toronto used up all their luck against the Bruins and they had nothing left to meet the Chicago gang with. Anyway they didn't have the stuff to beat the Hawks in spite of the fact that Mister Bill Stewart's collection of old timers and castoffs had to play the first 2 games with minor league goal keepers, Mister Goodman looking at N. H. L. hockey for the first time in his life, and for the balance of the serious Mister Karakas had to work with a crippled dog, and Mister Mush March I of their best attackers was missing for 2 games and Mister Romnes for most of I. The Hawks wasn't figgered to have anything to start with and yet they was good enough in spite of injuries and absentees to beat the Leafs far enough away that even the Toronto press agents couldn't dope out a alibi.

Hats Off to the Umps

I thing is clear that the bird that comes outa the whole affair with the most credit is Mister Bill Stewart. Most folks snickered right out loud when they heard a baseball umpire was made manager of the Hawks. And yet Mister Stewart takes a collection of stars on their last legs and discards that nobody in the loop would trade a couple broken sticks for and he leads them through to the Stanley Cup. Whatever else he done, he put fighting spirit into the Hawks and team spirit too and he had everyone of them pulling for him and that means a lot. Grabbing off the Stanley Cup and drawing the biggest crowds in the history of hockey aint a bad start for an American-born pilot.

Now Mr. Stewart goes back to umpiring big league ball games and after some of the riots he has gone through in the last couple weeks handling unruly ball players will be soft pickings for him.

That's plenty for the nonce, old timer.

Sportfully Yours,
A. Wise Cracker.

SEALS NEED WIN FOR THE HONORS IN JUNIOR PLAY

TORONTO. April 16 (CP)—It's do or die for St. Boniface Seals tonight when they clash with Oshawa Generals in the fourth game of the Memorial Cup hockey finals. The Seals need a victory to take the series and prevent Oshawa from taking the cup Winnipeg Monarchs won last year.

No matter how the Manitobans look at it, the picture is none too bright. There is a possibility Wally Stanowski, starry defenceman, will be absent from the lineup. Even if he does play he is not expected to be at peak form.

One of the series' standouts, Stanowsky developed a charley horse after Thursday night's game which Oshawa won 4-2. Osteopathic treatment alleviated the ailment yesterday but a good, solid bodycheck is bound to bring about a recurrence of the trouble.

The Generals have their share of woe, too. In the series opener a week ago, won by Oshawa, 3-2, Defenceman Dan McTavish fractured his wrist. Brick Calhoun, inserted in the lineup for the first time Thursday, went out in short order with a broken shoulder. That leaves only Maxie Yourth, an untried juvenile, on the replacement list.

New Officials

New officials will be on the ice tonight. Cecil Duncan, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, announced in Ottawa last night Jack Duggan at Ottawa and George Bonemere of Montreal would replace Happy Shouldice, Ottawa, and Russ McBride, Winnipeg.

Shouldice and McBride "have done a good job," Duncan said in making the announcement. "But three games have now been played and I reserved the right to appoint new officials following the third game and have done so."

Probable lineups:

St. Boniface	Position	Oshawa
	Goal
Webb		Forster
	Defence
Stanowski		Tonn
Janke		Daniels
	Centre
McGregor		Taylor
	Wings
Gruhn		Dafoe
Reay		Shortt

St. Boniface subs—Burron, Gordon, Simpson, Couture.

Oshawa subs — Krantz, Knipfel, Reid, Yourth.

Officials—Jack Duggan, Ottawa, and George Bonemere, Montreal.

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP).—That Yankee infield misses Tony Lazzeri like they'd miss Jake Ruppert's bankroll if it weren't around on pay day...They'll probably get together and go to town before long, but right now, all of 'em, particularly Frankie Crosetti, are as jittery as a bride left at the altar without old poosh 'em opp's steadying hand...Brooklyn fans took one look at the Yanks dropping a 5-0 decision to the Daffy Dodgers yesterday and wanted to know (in their best flatbushese), "Are dem da champs?"...Lefty Gomez is a flatbush favorite, though ...Maybe it's that "El Goffy" tag.

Gabby Street and Boiling Boily Grimes are wearing number 13 uniforms this season...Mike Jacobs has a new portrait of himself in his apartment, and it looks more like Tex Rickard than him.

Bill Brandt jots down a few National League notes: Max Lanier, Cards' rookie southpaw, made Pepper Martin's mudcat "Varsity" and is sure to stick now, because the band'll miss him...Kiddo Davis, who changed his mind about retiring from baseball and Cincinnati Reds, is a partner in an accounting firm at Bridgeport, Conn...Bert Haas, likely looking Brooklyn prospect, has two kid brothers coming along in the minors...All from Naperville, Ill.

Freakiest training camp accident happened to Roy Johnson, Bees' veteran, when a badminton "bird" hopped in his eye during a game in the camp hotel and laid him up four days...Whisper drifting around that the Giants will step in and the Indians out as "parents" of the New Orleans Pelicans in a year or two.

CAMPBELLFORD MERCHANTS PAY $25.00 FINES

(Examiner Correspqondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 16. — Magistrate Langley levied fines of $25.00 against four Campbellford citizens charged with keeping common gaming houses and operating pin machines. All elected to make a plea of guilty and paid the fines in preference to one month's imprisonment. One of the accused who operated a penny machine was let off with a twenty dollar fine.

The charges were laid as a result of informations laid by provincial police of the Belleville division who visted Campbellford on March 17 and played on machines located in business places operated by each of the accused who in each case gave awards of cigarettes and tobacco.

Branch Manager

Lorne C. Bateman, who has been appointed branch manager of the Continental Life Assurance Company for all Central Ontario, with headquarters in Peterborough. Employed with the company for nearly five years, Mr. Bateman has had a varied experience. He was municipal clerk of Rawdon township in Hastings county for five years and a Justice of the Peace. For seven years he was a general merchant in Springbrook. He is an active member of George Street United church. An outstanding softball player, he has pitched ball for a number of championship teams. Last year he pitched for the Point Anne team, Ontario Intermediate "B" champions.

THREE ARE JAILED FOR STORE RAIDS

BELLEVILLE, Ont., April 16. — (CP).—George Bailey, Point Anne, Fred Young, Thurlow and Harold Maynes, Deseronto were arrested yesterday and early to-day on multiple charges of breaking, entering and theft. The police believe with the apprehension of this trio that the breakin of stores at Read, Shannonville, Milltown and Westploin will be cleared up: The provincial police recovered a variety of stolen property cached in various sections of Thurlow and Tyendinaga townships, east of this city. A sawed-of shotgun was found in an old quarry near Point Anne. It is understood that Mayes and Young tendered statements to the police, but Bailey, an ex-convict, denied all charges. The men will appear in court to-day and be remanded a week in custody.

Looking Back
On This Date

APRIL 16

To-day is the anniversary of three historic divisions in the House of Commons. Louis Riel, who had been elected for Provencher, Man., although a reward was on his head for the slaying of Thomas Scott, had reached Ottawa, called at the office of the clerk, signed the roll, taken the oath and then made a request for his mileage from Winnipeg, after which he had crossed the river to Hull and thence to hiding in Montreal.

Fred Williams

Naturally there was trouble. The Orange Conservatives insisted that Riel be captured and put on trial. The Ontario Liberals could hardly oppose, since Edward Blake had, when Premier of Ontario, carried a resolution through the legislature offering a reward of $5,000 for the capture of the slayers of Scott. On the other hand, the French members, especially the Liberals, favored amnesty for Riel.

Mackenzie Bowell, then grand master of the Orange order (but not a cabinet minister), moved, seconded by Dr. John Schultz (who had been one of Riel's captives at Fort Garry), that Riel be expelled from the House as a fugitive from justice. Luther Holton, an English Protestant from Quebec, seconded by Malcolm Cameron, from Ontario, moved in amendment that proceedings be suspended until the truth had been ascertained as to the amnesty which Sir John Macdonald was supposed to have promised Riel.

Then the Quebec Conservatives, led by J. A. Mousseau and L. G. Baby (both of them former Conservative cabinet ministers) offered a sub-amendment that a full and immediate amnesty be granted.

The issue cut across party lines. Members of the Mackenzie cabinet took opposite views. Ontario and Quebec lined up in more clear-cut opposition than ever before. Only one Ontario member voted against the motion for Riel's expulsion, which was carried by 123 to 68; Holton's amendment was lost, 76-117, and Moussau's, supported only by Quebec Conservatives, by 27-164.

The debate was notable for the fact that it included the first speech in English by Wilfrid Laurier, then new to parliament. He had not attained the eloquence in English which marked his later years, but the speech much impressed the House, and the English-speaking members realized, as their confreres from Quebec had known before, that a great orator was in their midst, one who in years to come would sway the whole country with his eloquence in either language, and very often in both on the same platform.

London's 1938 Motorcycle Show will have exhibits of walking equipment.

Many A Man
Has escaped a nervous breakdown

It is now becoming generally known, by word of mouth from one person to another, that scores of nervous, worried business men attribute their escape from nervous collapse to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Business cares and worries of recent years have made men old before their time. Almost daily you read of prominent men dropping out in the very prime of life.

Others have survived, because they learned in time of a way to restore nerve force to the body. As a result, weak, halting vital organs have again assumed their natural functions. Rest and sleep have become possible, and mind and body have been restored to normal. If you find yourself slipping ask your friends about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. In almost every family there is some one who has profited by use of this modern restorative.

RUSTIC QUARTETTE

P.C.I.'s newest singing ensemble, "The Four Discords," has appeared in public for the first time. This quartette, composed of John Hooper, Don Diplock, Horace Steer and Tom Hooper, accompanied on the piano by Miss Merrill Smith, musically told the story of the tragic love affair of Pappy and Widder Norton. This new son hit "The New Apple Tree," was thus introduced to the assembly by the quartette, each member attired in typical hillbilly costume.

OBSERVATION PLATFORM

The school supplies and clothes which were called for last week to send out West to six adopted schools are coming in favorably now. There is still need however for many more things. . . . Sometime last week-end one of the meanest crimes heard of for considerable time was committed in the school. It is believed that on Friday night somebody was up on the second floor looking in the lockers. The culprit was in the boys' locker room upstairs when he found Jim Lillico's violin. He took this and damaged it considerably and then left it down in the basement. Dr. Kenner announced a reward of five dollars for information leading to the capture of the thief. . . . Time for Easter vacation has at last rolled around. The school was dismissed on Thursday at 10.30 a.m. The last school term begins on April 25th. . . . Middle and Upper school examinations begin about the twenty-fifth of May. . . . The students of P.C.I. . will regret to know that Miss Mayme Montgomery underwent an operation during the early part of the week. . . . Miss Isobel Weddell is supplying in Miss Montgomery's absence. . . . The school pins were given out this week in the library. . . . Lower school spent the week writing the Easter exams.

BASKETBALL

The Senior Boys' basketball team is now ready to enter the Ontario playdowns. There are four teams left in the running: P.C.I., Windsor, Ottawa and Toronto. There will be two games with the winners playing for the provincial championship. The games will be run off on Monday and Tuesday, April 21 and 22, in Hart House gymnasium, University of Toronto. The scheduled exhibition game for this week was called off.

ECHOES' PARTY

Members of the second forms were awarded with a form party. They won the Echoes' selling campaign and were thus rewarded. The music was supplied by Stan Northrop. It was a successful party with most of the second formers in attendance.

CADETS

The Cadet officers training corps met again Wednesday night. Most of the officers and N.C.O.'s were present to be instructed in company drill. The drills for the battalion will be resumed right after Easter. There will be about four weeks for practice and on the twenty-third of May the annual inspection will be held. The inspecting officer will, in all probability, be Capt. Millette.

AUXILIARY CORPS

The first aid corps will try their examinations on May 3 for Junior and Senior certificates. Next Junior practice on Wednesday, April 20, 7 p.m. at 167 Antrim street; Senior class, 4.15 p.m. April 25. The semaphore signalling corps is under command of Capt. Jim Lillico. These cadets have been practicing regularly and, at the end of the year they will try a signalling examination. Those who pass are warded with certificates and cheques for two and a half dollars. Only after spending one year at Semaphore is a cadet allowed to take more signalling. This year the Morse group is under Capt. John Hooper. They too will try examinations at the end of the year with the prize to those who pass being five dollars. The cadets of these two groups are working steadily to gain their awards.

Captain H. A. Craig wants each of the officers in charge of companies to give him a list of the officers and N.C.O.'s of that particular company.

Occasionally one is able to hear the blast of bugles or the rattle of drums around the campus. This is a sign that the bugle band has come to life and has started to practice. Major Hugh Davidson is in command.

HOCKEY

This is rather out of season but it is worth noting that the members of the P.C.I. hockey team were presented with crests. The team, coached by Mr. W. E. Jackson and captained by Bob Parnall, won the Junior City League championship. Each member of the team was given a garnet crest with gold and gray trimming. Mr. Wesley Brown presented the crests to the team.

SWITZERLAND

On Wednesday, April 27th. Captain Fred Ried will give an illustrated lecture in the collegiate Auditorium.

These lectures started in 1935 as an advertising stunt for a transportation bureau. It began in a small way and has now grown to a fair sized organization.

Captain Reid makes his home in Toronto and for three seasons has lectured in the Eaton Auditorium every Tuesday. In the fall of 1936 advertising was stopped. The average attendance at these lectures for 1936 was 721 person. In 1937 the attendance jumped to 956. So far this year the average attendance has been 1200.

Two special films, "The Spirit of the Jungfrau" and "St. Gotthard Pass" will be shown. The tickets sell for 25 cents and are available from any P.C.I. student.

Representative

Herbert W. Brooks has joined the staff of the Continental Life Assurance Company as District Representative. A Peterborough boy who was born and raised in this city, he worked at the Brinton Carpet Company for eight years, leaving there for a position in Montreal with the T. Eaton Company, joining the staff of the Continental this year. He is a softball enthusiast, active in community life in general, and in the Young People's Society of George Street United Church. He attended Queen Alexandra School and the Peterborough Collegiate Institute.

LACHINE REPAIRED

MONTREAL, April 16—(CP). — The Lachine canal, drained for annual repairs and inspection, will be filled with water this week for the opening of spring navigation. Customs Collector D. J. McCready announced last night watering would start Tuesday night and traffic probably will start by Thursday.

First ship to go through will be the government icebreaker Lady Grey, which will clear a passage above the canal for commercial ships.

Hose Truck Is Taken By Fans During Fire

OSHAWA, April 16.—Rabid fans' bonfire celebration of the Generals' hockey victory over St. Boniface Seals threatened Thursday night to set fire to the main business section and gave the Fire Department one big headache.

The headache wasn't improved any when Fire Chief Wesley R. Elliott, at the height of the blaze, found that his No. 4 hose truck had been stolen. Police and firemen chased the truck for nearly two hours, rushing up and down highways, ever lured by the clanging of the bell.

To-day, a charge of stealing the truck was laid against Merlin Mackie, of Wilson Road. Police were searching also for persons who are alleged to have stolen an extension ladder, a double door and a barrel from the rear of the Alger Press, and to have added it to the victory fire.

The custom of lighting bonfires on the main square started six weeks ago, when Oshawa defeated Toronto Marlboros. But no more shall the crackling flames add to the spirit of victory, declared Chief Constable Owen D. Friend to-day. Bonfires, he said, are out.

During the night of the fun fest, the flames threatened high tension wires, and sparks scattered over the business section. The crowd hampered firemen at every move, and loss of the hose truck added to the confusion. The truck was found finally abandoned on Wilson Road, near the city limits.

To-day, the Board of Works employees were trying sadly to repair the hole that was burned in the pavement.

OBITUARY

MRS. EDWARD LEMOIRE.

HASTINGS, April 16.—Funeral of the late Kathaleen Handley, 38, beloved wife of Edward Lemoire, took place Friday morning at 11 o'clock from her late residence in the village, to Our Lady of Mount Carmel, Roman Catholic church. Father Costello conducted services and delivered a very fitting sermon.

Her death occurred Wednesday, April 13 in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, from pneumonia.

Besides her sorrowing husband, she leaves four small children, Margaret, Jean, Shirley, Arnold.

Pallbearers were: John Condon, Jr., Daniel Noonan, Alex Lemore, James Lemoire, Patrick Lemoire, William Armstrong.

Interment was made at Mount Carmel cemetery here.

MISS MARGARET FITPATRICK.

Miss Margaret Fitzpatrick, lifelong resident of Peterborough county, died in Douro on Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Allen, Lot 6, Concession 4. She was 86 years of age, and had been in gradually declining health for some time.

Born in Peterborough county, she was a daughter of the late Phillip Fitzpatrick and Catherine Christie. She was one of the most active workers in St. Joseph's church at Douro and greatly esteemed by a wide circle of friends in the district where she had spent a great part of her life. Surviving is one brother, John Fitzpatrick of Perham, Minnesota.

The funeral mass was conducted on Saturdayl morning at 11.30 o'clock from St. Joseph's church, with Rev. J. J. McCarthy officiating. Interment was made at St. Joseph's cemetery adjoining the church.

HAROLD FITCH.

Native of England and resident of Peterborough district for more than half a century, Harold Fitch, 352 Mark street, died at the home of his niece, Mrs. Hazlip, on the Port Hope highway on Saturday morning. He was 77 years old and had been ill for some time.

Coming to this district from his home in England some 55 years ago, Mr. Fitch farmed in Otonabee township for 35 years. His wife, formerly Alice Ann Hair of Otonabee, predeceased him in February of this year and their only son died nearly two decades ago. One sister, Mrs. Emily Dennis, survives in England.

The remains are resting at the funeral home of A. Comstock and Sons, Water street, until Monday at 2.30 p.m., when they will be removed to St. Luke's Anglican church, of which Mr. Fitch was a loyal member, for funeral service by Rev. G. J. Bousfield. Interment will be made at Little Lake cemetery.

TWINS IN EVERY ONE OF THE CITY'S SCHOOLS

Twins are no oddities in Peterborough's public and Separate schools, as will readily be seen. The Examiner's photographer spent most of last week rounding the children up and taking their pictures and even then he didn't get them all. He snapped twenty-one sets in nine-schools, but found that there were at least four other sets at home with varying ailments. It seems that when one twin is sick the other stays home out of sympathy. There are twins in every one of the city's ten Public and Separate schools, although none are shown here from Sacred Heart school, where the only set of twins are ill.

At Central school (1) there are three sets. From the bottom of the steps to the top they are Lillian and Doreen Woodcock, 624 Union street, aged 10 years; Jean and June Delahaye, 138 London street, 7; Patricia and Harold Holland, 85 Hunter street, 10.

Queen Alexandra school (2) boasted two sets of twins. Ian and Jean Smith (SEATED) are 5 years old. They live at 150 Benson avenue. Behind them are Joan and Jean Torrance, 866 George street, aged 9 years.

Queen Mary school (3) had four sets, but only three were in attendance when the photographer called. From the top to the bottom of the school steps they are, Elva and Jean Gray, R. R. No. 3, Peterborough, aged 14; Marie and Georgina Carr, 566 Weller street, 12; Judith and Margaret Strickland, 359 Hunter street, west.

The schools in East City had the greatest showing of twins. At King George school (4) five sets were waiting for the photographer, all but one set being pupils in the entrance classes. From left to right they are Bob and Crystal Hendry, 37 Armour Road, aged 13; Betty and Barbara Wyatt, 422 Rogers street, 13; Stewart and Stanley Joyes, 247 Burnham street, 14; Jim and Donald Forbes, 530 Roger street, 13; Zella and Teddy Chapman, 159 Hunter street east, 7.

Immaculate Conception school (5) ran second to King George in number present, tied it with five registered there. Standing from left to right are Jack and Bill Sullivan, 473 Roger street, aged 11; Catherine and Hazel Guerin, 110 Sophia street, 11; Seated from left to right are, Pauleen and Monica Conway, 60B Hunter street east, aged 13; James and Jack McMahon, 5 Manice avenue, 13.

St. Peter's junior school (6) had only one set of twins among the boys registered there, while at St. Mary's Convent among the girls there was one set, found elsewhere in the paper. The two boys at St. Peter's are Kevin and George Freeman, aged 8 years, of 486 Cambridge street.

At Prince of Wales school (7) Beulah and Shirley Milburn, 7 years old, were the only twins present, although the school boasts others.

At King Edward (8) June and Jean Tarkington, aged 8.

Changes His Pants And Gets Pinched

DETROIT, April 16 (CP)—Emmet Robert Chatfield, 51, Detroit, can instantly give the square root of 128,164 but he got into trouble with police because he didn't know where to change his trousers. He was changing them in an alley when police intervened but a charge of vagrancy was dismissed in court because he had $16.85 in his pockets.

"That money will last until July 22 and I will have two cents left over," Chatfield explained. "I live on 17 cents a day and never was a panhandler. I earned the money washing dishes."

Chatfield said his recreation was multiplying the numbers on automobile licences. "It's fine mental exercise," he said. "It keeps you fit."

25 Sets Twins Are Attending City's Schools

The Examiner's photographer saw so many twins he thought he had double vision. He has all sympathy for parents who can't tell their children apart, but more for teachers who must decide upon a single offender from among Jackie and Johnnie, both dressed alike, both freckled, both without the same tooth, both with the same excuse, and both twins.

For twins are no oddity in Peterborough's public and separate schools. After a week spent in rounding them up, the photographer found he had snapped 21 sets and still missed four because they were ill. It was a rather tedious assignment in one way because most of his shots had to be taken with hundreds of jeering children pummelling him in the back and running in and out between his subjects or making faces or throwing marbles at them and at him.

But the twins were nice. They even giggled appreciatively when he asked each set the obvious question "Are you both 10 years old?" And they all admitted they liked having their pictures taken which is a refreshing honesty to encounter.

The pictures the photographer secured may be of some interest to medical men, in bearing out or disagreeing with established theories about twins. For example, out of the 21 sets snapped, only four were of mixed sex. Twelve of the remaining 17 sets were girls, and there were only five sets of boys.

YOUTH BEING HELD FOR AUTO THEFT

The epidemic of car thefts which has kept the local police busy for the past week or two, as the result of nightly reports of automobiles having been taken from where the owners had left them doubled in intensity Friday night when instead of the usual one-car-a-night report, two different machines were stolen.

Both cars were recovered during the evening and shortly before 11 o'clock Sergeant John Thompson and P.C. Percy Sexsmith arrested Fergus Mongraw on the street near his home in East City on a charge of having stolen the second of the night's crop of disappearing automobiles.

Early last evening while an East City man was eating supper in a restaurant his car was taken from in front of Grafton's on George street and about 8 o'clock was found parked near the Exchange on King street. While that machine was under observation the police were notified that another car belonging to Hugh Davis, taxi proprietor, had been stolen from the rear of the Capitol Taxi.

This second theft was the signal for a feverish hunt for the car thief, a hunt in which city and provincial police joined forces, while all the roads in and out of the city were patrolled. This search was still going on when Constables Leo. Murphy and Percy Sexsmith located the Davis car abandoned in front of Bell Apartments on Hunter street.

Shortly after the arrest of Mongraw followed.

Syria has an aviation boom.

MAN IS FINED $30 OFFERS TO PAY $50

A young farm laborer, charged in police court this morning with the theft of the use of his employer's car on Thursday night pleaded guilty and surprised Magistrate Langley by asking the court not to be too lenient with him. "I realize that I made a mistake and I want to take the rap for it," he said.

It was explained that the accused had taken the car away from the farm in Douro where he is employed and shortly after had an accident on the Warsaw road, hitting a soft shoulder on the road and turning the machine over, with the result that the fenders were bent, a window broken and the top of the car damaged.

Traffic Officer McClure who had arrested the young man shortly after he had taken the damaged machine back said that the repairs would cost around $50.

"I am not going to make it that much," said the Magistrate. "I think $30 is enough."

"Are you willing to pay $30 at the rate of $10 a month if I allow you to go on suspended sentence?" he asked the accused.

The youth replied in the affirmative and then added that he wanted to pay the whole cost involved. He was told he could do so if he wished but the court order would be $30.

GRIEF-STRICKEN WIDOW DIES ONE TWIN SON SURVIVES GAS

Mother and Child Found Dead in Locked Glasgow Home

HUSBAND HAD DIED

Glasgow.—The Logans of Caithness St., Glasgow, were a happy family.

The husband, Charles, aged 28, was making good money. And he and his pretty, 26-year-old wife could talk of nothing but their pretty twins, Charles and James, born last July.

The Logans had everything they wanted—their love for each other, their home, and their little twins.

Then, after Christmas, the husband became ill. He died on Jan. 3. Mrs. Logan tried to hide her grief and fought on alone for her twins.

Neighbors tried their best to console her, but nobody seemed to be able to do so except her mother, Mrs. Catherine Johnstone, who lived near her.

Then Mrs. Johnstone was suddenly stricken by illness, and taken to hospital recently.

Alone with her twins, Mrs. Logan locked herself in her home that night.

Next day the doors remained closed. Her neighbors noticed this, but at first did not like to disturb the heart-broken young mother.

Then one of them knocked at the house, got no reply, and knocked louder. The neighbor listened, and heard one of the twins whimpering. The door was burst open. One of the twins, James, was in his pram—dead; the mother was in an armchair, her head resting on her arm, as if asleep. But she, too, was dead. And in a bed in the same room was the other twin, Charles, crying weakly. The gas tap was found turned on.

SENTENCED TO LASH MAN THANKS JUDGE

18 Strokes for Breaking Into House and Assaulting Woman

Cardiff.—Eighten strokes of the cat and 18 months' hard labor were passed by Mr. Justice Greaves Lord at Glamorgan assizes, Cardiff, on Emlyn Lloyd, 25, ex-boxer and steel worker, of Port Talbot, for breaking and entering the house of Mrs. Violet Carpenter and for assaulting her in her bathroom.

Lloyd pleaded guilty to three other burglaries for which he was sentenced to terms of 15 months and 12 months' hard labor. The sentences to run concurrently.

Passing sentence, the judge said: "I am not going to allow, where it is in my power to prevent it, a woman to be assaulted in this cowardly and despicable manner. . . . You will receive 18 strokes of the cat."

"Thank you, sir," was Lloyd's reply.

SPEAKING AT BANQUET TEACHER DROPS DEAD

Deplored Marriage Left Almost Entirely to Guidance of Instinct

Taunton, Somerset.—A. Goodheart Pite, headmaster of Cheltenham college, collapsed while making a speech during a dinner of the Incorporated Association of Preparatory Schools. He was responding to the toast of the guests and public schools when he faltered and fell. A doctor who arrived within a few minutes found that he was dead.

Before his appointment to Cheltenham college in January last year, he was headmaster of Weymouth college for nine years. While at Weymouth he was president of the chamber of commerce there.

He served in the Royal Field Artillery from 1915 to 1919 and was awarded the M.C. Later he became head of Cambridge House, and from 1925 to 1935 was chairman of the education committee, Church of England advisory board for moral welfare.

In a speech deploring modern marriage, he once said it was a pity that marriage should be left almost entirely to the guidance of instinct.

"I sometimes think," he added, "that it would be almost better for the church to support the 'arranged' marriage than to continue to give its blessing to a union between two very foolish young people who know nothing about life and then to say to them afterwards, 'Well, now you have done it, and you must make the best of it'."

HER BEAUTIFUL HAIR BLAMED FOR DEATH

Italian Recluse, 84, Died From Early Morning Burns

Brighton.—The story of a countess who, although wealthy, lived alone and feared intruders so much that she kept a revolver and always had the door of her flat secured by a stout chain, was told at a Brighton inquest.

The woman, Mme. Eugene de Parravcini, had said that she was an Italian countess and the widow of a political agent, Stefano Annoni de Parravicini.

Very few people, and never any women, were allowed in the flat in Montpelier Crescent.

Despite her 84 years, Mme. de Parravicini retained traces of great beauty, and went about the flat with her hair hanging almost to her waist.

It was her beautiful hair, coupled with the fact that she chose to cook a meal over a gas ring at three o'clock in the morning, that led to her death.

As she bent down to pick up the frying pan her hair brushed the lighted gas and burst into flames. She was severely burnt about the face and head, and died a week later.

The verdict was "death by misadventure."

RECORDED MUSIC FOR BRITISH ARMY DRILLS

A variety of new ideas have been featured by British army authorities during the present extensive recruiting campaign and scenes like this are becoming very common, especially at the Queen's Royal Regiment depot at Guildford. With squad commanders frequently changing the records as drill periods proceed, the troops carry out their routines and manoeuvres as music of guards' bands is broadcast over a public audition system.

7 ROOMS, 5 FAMILIES LANDLORD PAYS FINE

22 People Lived in One House, Court Is Told

Watford.—A prosecution under the new Housing Act by Watford borough council resulted in fines totalling £10 ($50) on a landlord for allowing overcrowding in rooms of his houses in Gladstone and Stanley Rds., Watford.

Harry B. Tillott of Derby Rd., Watford, was the landlord and there were six summonses against him.

C. R. B. Barker, for the corporation, said that at one time there were 22 people in the house in Gladstone Rd. and 15 in the Stanley Rd. house.

In each case there were five families with seven rooms between them.

Tillott, in evidence, said he let the rooms out of pity for people turned out of other accommodation. But for him they would be walking the streets.

BOYS RESCUED FROM CLEFT THAT INSPIRED OLD HYMN

Rescuers Hear Lads Call for Help From Depths of Earth

GONE ALL NIGHT

Bristol.—Two boys, trapped for 20 hours in one of the Mendip caves, at Burrington Combe, Somerset, near the famous cleft which inspired A. M. Toplady to write the hymn, "Rock of Ages," were rescued.

They were Donald Robbins, aged 16, of Eastville, and Peter Bredael, aged 18, of Bishopstone.

Police, told they were missing, found their cycles at Burrington Combe, and the Mendip rescue brigade set out with ropes.

The rescuers descended Sidcot Cave, and in response to their shouts they heard the lads calling from the maze of passages hundreds of feet below.

With their cycle lamps out—they had taken these down the cave to light the way—the youths were brought to the top in a distressed condition and hungry.

"With no lights to guide us we thought it best to stay there for the night and wait for someone to rescue us," Robbins said afterwards.

"We slept a bit during the night, but were very cold and hungry, and we were glad to hear the rescue party."

ALLOW SUNDAY PLAY IN MIDDLESEX TOWN

Ealing Eases Sabbath Day Restrictions

London.—Sunday games are to be allowed in certain open spaces controlled by the Ealing town council. Ealing has rigidly refused to consider Sunday games hitherto, but has allowed Sunday play on the Brent Valley golf course, which the town council and the Middlesex county council recently acquired.

The recreation grounds committee recommended at a meeting of the town council that Sunday games should be allowed in three parks in Greenford and Northolt. This recommendation was agreed to.

MANY JUVENILES WED

Remain Popular in Bulgaria Despite Official Ban

Sofia—In spite of the law forbidding marriage below the ages of seventeen and nineteen for girls and young men, records show three girls and four boys married at the age of eleven, seventeen girls and twenty-three boys married at the age of twelve, 178 girls and sixty-two boys at thirteen, or 287 married under the age of fourteen.

The exact number of Bulgarians over 90 years old is 9,985.

'BLACKSMITH'S SHOP' AT GRETNA DEBATED

Use of Name Is Basis of Court Action Involving Elopement Centre

Edinburgh.—Gretna Green, romantic haven for eloping couples, is to figure in the courts.

A petition has been lodged in the Edinburgh court of sessions by The Blacksmith's Shop and Gretna Museum, Mrs. E. Mackie of Gretna House, and two of her partners, seeking an injunction against David E. Mackintosh and Mrs. Mary C. Richardson or Mackintosh of Gretna Hall.

The petitioners ask that the respondents be restrained from using the name "The Blacksmith's Shop" as the name of any building in connection with Gretna Hall. In their answers the respondents assert that the petitioners have no right to exclusive use of the name.

Child's Mother Suffers Injury Extinguishing Flames

Reading.—Phyllis Lunn, aged 13, of Ashburton Rd., Reading, died in hospital from burns received when her clothing caught fire at her home.

Her mother, Mrs. Charles Lunn, who attempted to beat out the flames, suffered from severe burns.

'WILL KNOW IF THERE'S GOD' IS DUE TO DIE FOR MURDER

Laborer, 24, Sentenced for Killing Church Army Captain

"I DON'T BELIEVE"

London.—Sentence of death was passed at the Old Bailey on Charles Henry Robson, 24, a laborer, of Livingstone Rd., Stratford, E., for the murder of Henry William Shaw, a Church Army captain. The jury returned their verdict without leaving the box.

G. B. McClure, prosecuting, said that Capt. Shaw was in charge of a social centre in Union St., Stratford, where Robson attended regularly. On Feb. 10 there was a special gathering, at which Capt. Harvey of the Church Army was a guest.

Darts and billiards were played and a prayer meeting and religious discussion followed. Robson appeared to take a bitter attitude.

Apparently he did not believe in God, and said people were hypocrites who tried to ram religion down other people's throats. He left shortly before 10 p.m.

About half an hour later, said Mr. McClure, he returned and told Mrs. Shaw that her husband was hurt. Capt. Shaw was found with terrible head injuries.

Counsel said that Robson's behavior that night was almost incredible. He went to a police station and said:

"I have just murdered a bloke. We had an argument about God, because I do not believe there is one. He said, 'There is.' I was fed up with him preaching about it, so I hit him with a hammer. He will know whether there is a God now, and I suppose I shall, too."

Later, continued Mr. McClure, Robson made a statement saying that he felt rather annoyed because he thought they had made him look a fool, so he decided to get a hammer and hit Capt. Shaw.

Capt. Harvey, giving evidence, said that during the discussion Robson said, "I don't believe in God. I tried to pray, and went to church at one time, but I found it was of no avail."

Mrs. Shaw, the widow, said she had known Robson for 13 months, and her husband had known him longer. They had never had trouble with him before.

"We were very great friends with all our men," she added.

JACK TAR HITS OFFICER

Nine Months' Detention Tacked on By Court-Martial

Chatham.—Able Seaman Harry David Lloyd Evans, H.M.S. Pembroke, was sentenced to nine months' detention by a court-martial at Chatham for deserting and striking Lieutenant Wyndham Moresby.

It was stated that after being four days in the guard house Evans was asked by Lieutenant Moresby if he had any complaints. He replied, "Yes, I am treated like a criminal." He then struck the officer on the shoulder.

FALLS 30 FEET, BRUISED

One Tot Escapes, Another Hurt in Two-Foot Drop

Walworth.—Barbara Ponting, 13 months, fell 30 feet from a second storey window on to the pavement in Danson Rd., Walworth—and escaped with slight bruises.

At the Belgrave Hospital for Children, an official said: "We had a baby admitted last year suffering from a severe compound fracture. It had fallen only two feet—from its mother's arms into its pram."

ON 101ST BIRTHDAY DIGS IN HIS GARDEN

William Harris Finds It "Keeps Me Fit"

Lewisham.—One hundred and one years' old William Henry Harris spent part of his birthday digging in the garden at his home.

"Digging keeps me fit," he said. "I am not afraid of the east wind, though I found it a little chilly."

Pointing to a photograph, Mr. Harris said: "That's my boy." The portrait was of one of his sons, aged 77.

HURT ON MOTOR BIKE SHE SUES HER FIANCE

Girl Rolls Stockings Down in Court to Show Her Injuries

Manchester.—Rolling down her stocking, pretty 20-year-old Violet Irene Kelly, of Salford, walked round the court at Manchester assizes and showed to Mr. Justice Lewis three scars on her right leg.

Miss Kelly said that the scars were caused by an accident when she was riding pillion on her fiance's motorcycle—and she was awarded £505 ($3,030) damages against the owners of a motor van involved in the accident.

Because of the disfigurement Miss Kelly said she would always have to wear stockings, even in summer, and would no longer be able to go bathing because she would be sensitive about the scars. She said that owing to the pain she could no longer go to dances.

"In these days, when it is the custom of many girls never to wear stockings, I accept what she says that she will never feel like bathing again—though I hope that she will," said Mr. Justice Lewis.

"It was rather embarrassing walking round the judge and pulling down my stocking, but he was very nice about it and made me feel as little embarrassed as possible," Miss Kelly said afterwards.

RETURNS TO DANCE WITH 'BACK-BITER'

"On With the Show" Is Slogan of Girl Leopard-Trainer

Leeds—Dark-haired laughing Miss Ruth Hesse, 24-year-old star of the Tropical Express revue, danced at Leeds Empire among leopards, one of which the night before had seized her arm and inflicted a deep flesh wound.

Her arm was bandaged where the youngest of four animals which appear with her in an act in which she dances among them in a leopard skin, caught her through the bars of its cage after the performance.

A stagehand dragged her away, but a wound in her arm caused her to spend the night in the Leeds dispensary.

"I went to say good-night to my leopards, as I always do, and as I was talking to the others this one came from behind and seized my arm," she explained.

Half German, half Russian, Miss Hesse for seven years has travelled nearly all over the world in this revue.

"This is not so bad as when I was bitten by a snake while making a film in India," she said.

NEWS AND VIEWS FROM ALL CORNERS OF THE WORLD

WROTE OTHERS' TALES IS JAILED 6 MONTHS

"Author" Calmly Borrowed His Yarns From Popular Magazines

London.—Arthur Percival Alfred Twinn, aged 21, of Shrewsbury Rd., East Ham, is a salesman.

But he had a sideline. In the words of a solicitor at the local police court he "sat in a little room, somewhere in this district, and extracted from magazines stories, which he typed out on his own typewriter.

These he sold in the name of "Gordon Carroll" to magazines as his own work, it being afterwards found that they were not.

Sometimes, added the solicitor, he altered the title, and sometimes did not. He always altered the names of the characters and sometimes he altered a verb or houn or adjective, as the whim struck him.

Twinn pleaded guilty to obtaining by false pretences £42 ($210) from two publishing firms, and attempting to obtain £12 10s ($70).

He was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

BROODS OVER ROBBERY

Depressed After Event Storekeeper Takes His Own Life

Stowmarket.—A few days after an attempt to burgle his shop, Charles George Gyford, 46, of Stowupland, Suffolk, was found hanged at his home.

Dr. H. S. Gaskell of Stowmarket stated at the inquest that the burglary had given Gyford a "shaking up."

Other witnesses said he had since been very depressed.

PLAN USING FIRE TO END FOGS IN "DEATH VALLEY"

Englishman Devises Scheme of Lighting Timber Piles to Make Draft

ARE OFTEN FATAL

Brussels.—Deadly fogs which for years have threatened the Meuse Valley—and in three days in 1930 killed 63 people—can now be prevented.

After years of experiment scientists of the Belgian health department have proved that the fogs which have made "Death Valley" notorious can be "fired," literally and figuratively.

Not only that, but they have shown that "firing" is a defence against gas used in warfare.

In charge of the work is Prof. L. Dautrebande, of Liege University, who for two years worked under Prof. J. S. Haldane at Oxford.

Post-mortem examinations on those who died in 1930 revealed the cause of death to be sulphurous fumes from nearby factories.

Prof. Haldane wrote to his former pupil telling him that, although London fog was thicker and heavier than any in the "Death Valley," yet there had never been a case of fog poisoning.

He attributed this to the ground heat developed in large cities, which caused a permanent upward draft.

Working on this suggestion, Prof. Dautrebande devised a scheme to fire the fog.

Meteorological experts having forecast a dense fog the professor had a number of timber piles lit in the valley—small ones in the villages of Engis and Hermalle; larger ones circling the factories.

The fires burned all night. In the morning it was found that while the environs were shrouded in a thick mist "Death Valley" was clear.

Prof. Dautrebande was delighted. "We can now fight any return of fog to the valley," he told me. "Piles of timber will be kept ready, and at the first forecast of fog the inhabitants will light the beacons."

SOUND FILMS FREE FOR FIJI ISLANDERS

Suva, Fiji Islands.—Through funds raised by private subscription, sound equipment is being installed in the movie theatre at the Makogai Leper Station near here. The station receives lepers from New Zealand and all British islands in the South Pacific.

An American motion picture company has promised to supply sound films free, while a British steamship company has agreed to transport them without cost.

MANY SUE GOMEZ ESTATE

Caracas, Venezuela.—The chief problem confronting Venezuela at present is not a political one but concerns the thousands of claims filed from all parts of the republic against the estate of the late Gen. Juan Vicente Gomez, iron-fisted dictator who ruled the country for nearly 30 years.

Gomez died in 1935, leaving properties estimated at $30,000,000.

SPINE 'PULLED BACK' AFTER CAR ACCIDENT

Able to Get Up Two Days After Operation at Cape Town

Cape Town, S.A.—A man who had his spine "pulled back into place" after a motorcar accident has made a remarkable recovery here.

He is E. M. Jeffers, secretary of the Eastern Provinces Trades council. On arrival in Cape Town recently by airliner, he had to be taken from the aeroplane to the ambulance by disconnecting the seat from the machine and carrying him on it. Mr. Jeffers was suffering from "paralysis and a clot of blood on the spine" as a result of a motor crash.

For 46 days he lay in hospital at Port Elizabeth in great pain and eventually it was decided that he must be removed to Cape Town. The day after his arrival he was operated on by two doctors who successfully manpulated the spine into position. He was able to get up two days later.

There will be no permanent injury but the patient will require further massage to keep in shape.

LEARNS TO USE LASSO TO KILL LOVE RIVAL

Aided by Wife, Hangs Innkeeper to Appear as Suicide

Vienna.—Learning lasso-throwing was a preliminary to a murder discovered near here and confessed after 17 years.

In 1920 an innkeeper Franz Eckesteiner, was found hanged, apparently a suicide. His wife soon after married Ignaz Kotlik, and for many years the police kept the two under observation. Recently they were arrested and after long interrogation admitted the crime.

Kotlik, after taking lessons in the lasso, was admitted to the inn one night by the wife, and when the innkeeper was awakened by the noise and came out to see what was afoot, Kotlik lassoed and strangled him and, with the help of the wife, hanged the body from a clothes-rack.

MISSES SHAVE, FOUND DEAD

Abergele, N. Wales.—Every Saturday morning, William Evans (77), of Glanrafon, Llanfair Talhaiarn, a village near Abergele, had been in the habit of going to the village barber for a shave.

When Evans failed to arrive at his usual time the barber sent his son to investigate.

As a result, Evans was found dead in a chair with a meal prepared on the table.

CROWS, VULTURES LEAD WAY TO BODY OF MURDERED MAN

Witnesses Refuse to Tell of Death Till Skeleton Found

KILLER GETS LIFE

Bombay. — Three people saw Khushal Morar, a laborer of Surat, murder his brother, but inquiries were not set on foot until the skeleton of the murdered man was found.

This was revealed when Morar, 20, was sentenced to transportation for life by the Bombay high court. The accused had been previously acquitted by the sessions judge of Surat.

Eye-witnesses said they were sitting with the accused at a house March 11 last year when the victim, Fakir Morar, arrived. The accused suddenly attacked him with a stick.

The witnesses were frightened and ran away. The accused, with the aid of another man, then carried the dead body of his brother to a field.

Three days later, while the mother-in-law of the murdered man was crossing a field, she saw crows and vultures hovering, and going near, found a skeleton, later identified as that of Fakir Morar.

CAPTAIN IS CENSURED FOR ABANDONING SHIP

Situation When Vessel Ablaze "Lacked Commanding Grip," Is Finding

London.—A merchant service captain who abandoned his first command when it was on fire heard himself censured by a board of trade inquiry.

The commander was Captain H. C. Bergen. The ship was the Union Castle liner Sandgate Castle, which caught fire in mid-Atlantic on June 26 last year.

Captain Bergen, a burly man with graying hair, sat with bowed head at the back of the court while the wreck commissioner, R. F. Hayward, K.C., read the long document setting out the findings of the court.

This stated the loss of the ship was contributed to by the default of Captain Bergen.

The court also found the efforts to extinguish the fire were not reasonable and proper in all the circumstances; that a determined and sustained attack should have been made on the fire, and that in view of all the circumstances, the master was not justified in ordering the abandonment of the vessel at the time he did.

"The whole operation lacked that commanding grip which could have been given by the master alone, who, remaining on the bridge, never visited No. 4 hatch (where the fire broke out) or entered it to see the position for himself," it was added.

The court decided, having regard to Captain Bergen's inexperience, not to deal with his certificate, but to censure him severely.

ALL SAINTS' CHOIR PRESENTS CANTATA THE DARKEST HOUR

As has been customary for many years, the choir of All Saints' Church sang a sacred cantata for a large congregation Good Friday evening and gave, as in the past a distinguished and moving musical interpretations of events preceding and at the time of the Crucifixion.

"The Darkest Hourt," with words selected and music composed by Harold Moore, was the work chosen for this year's presentation, and, under the direction of the choirmaster, George E. Chandler, was rendered with a beauty of expression and absolute unity of effort by the choir and the organist, Mrs. W. A. Logan, with most clear and lovely tonal effects made possible by the assistance of a piano played by Mrs. Agnes Logan Green.

The different solo parts were presented with especial beauty, fidelity and clarity of tone. The cantata commences with a prologue, the opening chorus of which is sung by the choir at full strength, and is followed by some of the sayings of Christ before His Passion to the disciples, as explained by a narrator, "Then Jesus took unto Him the twelve and saith unto them:—" The part of the narrator, one of the heaviest in the whole cantata, was sung by Mrs. James Howard, whose rich soprano voice carried every word clearly to the very back of the church. The words of Jesus, wherever quoted throughout the cantata, were beautifully and reverently sung by T. H. Boddy, with one exception at the close of the prologue, when our Lord's great assurance to Nicodemus, "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son..." was rendered with beautiful and moving earnestness by the whole choir following Mrs. James Morley's lovely soprano voice as soloist.

The Passing Scenes

As the cantata progressed the congregation was reminded successively of the scene in the Garden of Gethsemane, the trials before Caiaphas and Pilate, the march to Calvary and the Crucifixion with a poignacy and sincerity that stirred deepest feelings until heart and soul were moved to go forward with "The Royal Banners" to the foot of the Cross. Bass and tenor, Leslie Cavalier and F. C. Roberts, took the parts of Caiaphas and Pilate.

A quartet of male voices, tenors, Douglas Weir and G. E. Chandler, basses, Leslie Cavalier and V. G. Chandler, sang most beautifully "And now, beloved Lord, Thy Soul resigning, Into Thy Father's Arms with conscious will," while the prayer, "O Saviour of the world, Who by Thy Cross and Passion has redeemed us" was exquisitely rendered as a duet by soprano and tenor. Some of the choruses were indescribably moving, and the terrible cries of the crowd at the trial before Pilate, were presented by both choir and organ with a dramatic effect that was almost soul shaking.

"The Darkest Hour" closes with an epilogue taken from St. Paul's Epistle to the Philippians beginning with the words, "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus" sung by Mr. George Chandler with an earnestness and beauty of expression that brought an inspiring performance to a fitting close as the whole choir joined in the last words, "that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the Glory of God the Father." The final hymn, "At the Name of Jesus" was sung by choir and congregation together.

20 YEARS OF STOMACH PAIN!
Resisted Every Treatment

Is your case like that of Mr. Joseph Kelly, London? For 20 years he suffered acutely from stomach trouble. Indigestion, wind, sick stomach and those pains and discomforts familiar to you if you suffer from stomach trouble proved unconquerable. "I had tried all sorts of remedies—Bismuth Tablets, Magnesia and so-called Maclean powders," he writes, "but since I obtained a bottle of the genuine Maclean Brand Stomach Powder I have had no indigestion or sickness of the stomach."

Genuine Maclean Brand Stomach Powder can bring you the same quick relief it brought Mr. Kelly. It is a scientific powder which has been used with outstanding success in many hospitals. But there are imitations. Note what Mr. Kelly says about them. The signature, "Alex. C. Maclean" is on both bottle and carton of the genuine Maclean Brand Stomach Powder. Be sure to see it before you buy. In powder and tablets, at druggists, 75c. 114

A resident of Peterborough for the past 18 years, she resided at 195 Rubidge street. Born in Leeds, Yorkshire, she was formerly Sarah Ann Scarth. She was a member of the Salvation Army and one of its active workers until her health began to decline.

Surviving are her husband ,Harry Illingworth; two daughters, Mrs. Harriet Clark of Leeds, Yorkshire, and Mrs. Cecil Fowler of Peterborough; and one brother, Jack Scarth of Scarborough, Yorkshire.

The remains will rest at Nisbett's Funeral Home until the time of the funeral service which will be held at the Salvation Army Temple on Monday at 2 p.m., with Adjutant Neil Warrander officiating. Interment will be made at Little Lake Cemetery.

MISS EVA FRANCES GILLOTT.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, April 16. — The funeral of the late Eva F. Gillott, a life-long resident of the community, took place on Tuesday, April 12, at 4 p.m., from the F. C. Scott Funeral Parlors, the Rev. A. L. Sisco conducting the service.

Deceased was born in Millbrook 72 years ago, and was the only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gillott, early settlers in the village, her father having built what is now known as the .Waverly Building, where originally he carried on an extensive business as a furniture dealer and undertaker.

Miss Gillott's death took place at Ottawa on April 10, following many years of steadily-increasing ill-health.

Previously deceased were two brothers. Theodore and Walter, one nephew Wilfred Gillott of Oshawa, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Walter Gillott, of St. Cloud, Florida, are the immediate survivors.

The pall-bearers for the funeral included J. A. Brown, R. E. Stanton, F. W. Pendrie, W. E. Russell, A. J. Henderson, and H. B. Allen. Interment was in the family burial plot at Gardiner's Cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE BROWN.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, April 16. — The community lost another of its life-long residents in the death of Mrs. George Brown, which occurred following an extended illness, at the home of her son, Wesley Brown, west of the village, on April 11, in her 83rd year.

Deceased was a daughter of the late Aaron Pethick and Ann Brock, pioneer settlers on the Zion Line, and had spent her entire life in Millbrook, or its immediate vicinity. Mrs. Brown, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Ann Pethick, was predeceased by her husband, whose death occurred ten years ago last Christmas, and it is 65 years since their marriage took place at the family homestead, Zion Line, in 1873. Two children were born to their union, Mrs. R. J. McKnight (May) and Wesley, both of Cavan, who survive their parents; the other immediate survivors include one sister, Mrs. Henry Hubbeard of Cavan, and two brothers, Martyn Pethick of Millbrook and Brock of Newtonville; two sisters, Mrs. William Mullen (Malloney) and Mrs. G. McCullough (Ada), and one brother James were previously deceased. There are three grandchildren.

Following the death of her husband, Mrs. Brown came to Millbrook to make her home. She was a life-long member of the Methodist and United Churches, and faithful in attendance and service as long as health and strength would permit.

The funeral took place from the home of her son Wesley, on the Zion Line, on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m., the Rev. A. L. Sisco conducting the service. There were many beautiful floral tributes, and the pall-bearers were: Three nepnews, Norman and George McCullough of Newtonville, and J. Albert Brown of Millbrook, and three grandsons, Stanford and Fred Brown and George McKnight of Millbrook. Interment was beside her husband in the family burial plot at Gardiner's Cemetery.

Among those from outside points who attended he funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Raper and son Maxwell of Toronto, Miss Annie Osborne of Bowmanville, Mr. and Mrs. G. McCullough and Brock Pethick of Newtonville, Mr. and Mrs. Harcourt, Norman McCullough, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hurl, Mrs. J. Boughen, Harvey and Ethel Boughen of Port Hope, Miss Alberta Brock, and Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Strong of Peterborough.

FRANCIS PARKER.

NORWOOD, April 16.—The funeral of the late Francis Parker was held on Monday afternoon with service in the United church conducted by Rev. A. S. Cleland, pastor of the United church, of which the deceased was a faithful member. Members of the Norwood Orange Lodge No. 34 of which the late Mr. Parker was an honoured member were in charge.

Mr. Parker was Norwood's oldes resident, being in his 88th year and was well known and highly respected by all who knew him, as was testified by the large number of friends and acquaintances present to pay their last tribute. He had lived his entire life in this community. He was a son of pioneer parents that settled on the sixth line of the township of Dummer where later Mr. Parker carried on farming successfully until he retired from active life some years ago, when he moved to Norwood.

His wife predeceased him several years ago. He is survivel by one brother, George Parker of Norwood.

The bearers were members of the Orange Lodge: Messrs. Wm. Hubbel, John T. Elliott, Norman Andrews, R. J. Gordon, S. H. Buck, and Albert Webster. Interment was made in Norwood cemetery.

ROBERT JOHN PORTER.

BAILIEBORO, April 14.—The unexpected death of Robert John Porter, eldest son of the late Robert Porter and Sarah Greer, which took place at the home of his sister, Mrs. Blanche Dawson, Bailieboro, recently, came as a severe shock to his many friends and relatives.

Mr. Porter was about at his usual tasks till the Tuesday evening before his death. He was a life-long resident of this district, and had been a faithful worker in the Bailieboro United Church, being an elder of the church, also a former superintendent and teacher of the Sunday School. He will be greatly missed in the church and community where he lived.

One sister, Mrs. George McDonald, predeceased him two years ago. He leaves to mourn the loss his three sisters: Mrs. Minnie Larmer, Oshawa; Mrs. Wilfrid Smithson, Oshawa; Mrs. Blanche Dawson, Bailieboro; also one brother, William Harmer, Beildings, Michigan.

The funeral service, which was very largely attended, took place from the United Church, Bailieboro, his pastor, the Rev. E. M. Cook, conducting the service. He was borne to his last resting place in the family plot in the Baptist Cemetery, Bailieboro.

The pall-bearers were two brother elders, the Rev. G. Malcolm, Wilbur Barnard, Harry Barnard, and his three nephews: Arnold Larmer, Castle Larmer and Earl Larmer. The honorary pall-bearers were Robert Delahaye, John Greer, T. A. Skitch, Wilfrid Smithson and George McDonald.

The high respect in which the deceased was held in this district was revealed by the many beautiful floral tributes, among which was a wreath from the United Church.

DIVORCE APPEAL IS DISALLOWED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, April 16.—A resident of Bexley Township named Ewers faced a charge of having liquor in his possession illegally before Magistrate Gee Wednesday morning, and was fined $100 and costs. The alternative sentence was set at three months. Provincial Constable Adair laid the charge, and County Crown Attorney Anderson asked the court to confiscate the car the accused had in his possession at the time. A vigorous protest was lodged by C. G. Frost, defence counsel. Magistrate Gee felt that the circumstances did not justify confiscation of the car.

A membership drive by the local Horticultural Society is under way. A rock garden competition in the interests of civic beautification is also being planned.

In an appeal judgment in a Mariposa divorce case handed down by Justice Middleton on Tuesday, evidence of private detectives was discarded in favor of evidence of relatives and friends of the defendant. The entire judgment of Justice Roach given on October 7, 1937, was upheld by the Appeal Court Judge in which an appeal by the husband in an action for divorce and the custody of two children was dismissed and the wife's counterclaim for alimony was upheld, $20.00 per month being granted. Three private detectives acting on behalf of the husband had secured convincing evidence of immorality between the wife of the complainant and the farmer for whom she was keeping house. Their evidence was declared inconsistent one with the other, and the evidence of private parties whom the judge saw fit to believe.

One More Wedding

By HELEN WELSHIMER

READ THIS FIRST:

Garry Page, New York columnist, has just sailed for a few weeks abroad. Among his friends at the pier to see him off was Barbara Kingsley who came to New York the day before to fill a vacancy on a child magazine at the suggestion of her close friend Natalie Kendall. Barbara and Garry became interested in one another a few weeks previously when she was society editor of the Martinsville Post and Garry had come to Martinsville for a wedding. Jack Metcalf, an author and friend of Garry, takes a kindly interest in Barbara after Garry sails. Barbara finds an apartment. A few days later Ruth Merryweather, attractive heiress and another close friend of Garry's, invites her to uncheon at her penthouse. Ruth asks Barbara permission to meet Bill Jameson, an old friend, now married, for a chat in Barbara's apartment. Julia comes to New York foa visit but fails to call Barbara, her cousin, whom she dislikes. At a dinner party which both attend Julia drinks heavily and insults Ruth Merryweather. Jack Metcalf takes Barbara home and, while she goes to the door to receive a cablegram, Julia phones and tells Jack she is coming over to stay with Barbara for the night, having had differences with her New York hosts. Then she heceives a radiogram from Garry.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 12

"I won't be. I'm saying good night now. And remember the races."

When he had gone, Barbara slit open the cable.

THE WORDS in the radiogram, which Barbara opened when Jack started down the three long flights of stairs, gave a hop, skip and jump and began to dance all around the room.

"Meet Berengaria four o'clock Friday afternoon, Garry."

Friday—that was tomorrow! So Garry hadn't waited until the Normandie or the Queen Mary. He had taken an earlier boat to get back. And he was picking up the friendship where he had left off. Tomorrow . . . tomorrow . . .

Chanting the magic word Barbara changed the sheets on the wide bed in the small bedroom, hung heavy towels for her guest, arranged some new magizines and a few books on the bedside table. She could welcome anybody, even Jpulia, tonight.

She knew that her voic lilted and her eyes shone when she greeted her cousin. Julia, slim and regal in a black suit with a white summer fur, smiled. "I never knew you were so hospitably inclined toward me," she said. "Or is it an act?"

Barbara laughed and little bells rang in the sound—sleigh bells, school bells, church bells. But she kept the news safe i nher heart. Tomorrow she would worry about Julia's staying. Not tonight. Tomorrow she would face the fact that her apartment wasn't hers with Julia in it. She might even worry about the sweetness and charm of Julia when she wanted to be alluring.

In the morning Barbara said: "Julia, I may be busy for dinner. The house box is stocked and Alice McCollister's and the Jumble Shop are over on Eighth street. Or maybe you have some plans."

"I want to sayy up an old friend."

Barbara wondered later why she did not notice the gleam in Julia's eyes. But she was too filled with thoughts of Garry's coming. At noon she went shopping. She bought a black dress of light weight wool whose sleeves were short and whose waist was tightly fitted. Then she found a turban of twisted velvet velour and matched it with an emerald colored bracelet. She needed new pumps so she bought some black suede ones, and an envelope bag with a green clasp. Her own black suede gloves would do.

She grinned and wrinkled her nose as she reflected the black dress was not just Jack Metcalf's idea. Every saleswoman told her that it was a black season, and that the black had to be relieved with a new color. For her, they said, green was a natural.

There was no time to go home to dress, and anyway, she was afraid Julia might be around. Therefore, she carried the boxes back to the office and dressed there. When she surveyed the slim figure whose body-molding frock gave it sophistication and grace, she laughed softly. Now, for the first time, she felt that she wore the New York uniform. She had no trouble about leaving the office early. Her copy and work for the day had been finished shortly after noon.

This time, as she gave the taxicab address the number of the Cunard pier where the Berengaria docked, she felt poised and assured. As the cab swung down the street that bordered the North river, she had an affinity with all the other people who were meeting voyagers. She was no longer strange and frightened.

She stood on the pier, as the boat docked, looking up. There were so many people that she couldn't expect to find Garry, she told herself. A man next to her tipped his hat. "Excuse me, but I think it's you that young fellow on B deck is trying to interest in his return."

"B deck?" she asked, and wished she knew more about a boat so she would not need to waste a presious moment.

"To the left—there."

"Thank you." There he was, bronzed, grinning, dearer than she had remembered. And he was waving his hat boyishly. He called something but she could not hear it so she smiled and kept waving her handkerchief until the breeze picked it up and swept it away like a miniature sail, and then she went on waving her hand.

When the passengers began to descend the gangplank, she moved in the crowd until she was near its exit. Then suddenly Garry was there, bis blue eyes smiling into hers, his strong hands holding hers, and then he was piloting her out of the crowd- calling a cheerful greet, ing here and there, but not stopping for anyone. He found a cab, tipped the porter wso stowed away his luggage, and turned to Barbara.

And suddenly, so swiftly that she did not know quite how it had happened, his arms were around her, and he had pressed his firm lips against her red mouth. A star sang and a whistle blew, and heaven came tumbling down at earth. When he released her he said: "I didn't intendt to do that for a long time yet. But I couldn't help it. There are lots of things I want to tell you some day."

"Yes Garry," she answered, as quietly as though his words spoke of wind and weather, instead of Paradise.

It was many minutes later—they were riding around the park again because they had asked the driver to choose a route for a little while and he had headed that way—that Garry said:

"You haven't heard my good news. I helped Hadley a little in smoothing out a matter or two about London production he is bringing over—it wasn't much of anything but he's so grateful he read my play. I finished it on board ship going over. He's going to give me a chance if I can do the second act over to suit him. Honest to golly, Barbara, it's that second act that gets men down. Your play starts all right, and ends all right, but if it sags in the middle! But what have you been doing? Where are you living?"

So they talked, until the taxicab driver grew bored with the scenery and called back: "Do you want to go around again?"

Garry looked at Barbara. "I suppose I should get rid of this luggage. Jack doesn't know I'm coming so I'm putting up at the Cornell club for a few days. Suppose I drop you and pick you up again in an hour?"

When he left her at the entrance to the old house where she lived, he said: "Don't change your dress. I'm glad you're wearing it."

Barbara ran up the three long flights. She heard music. It was too fast, too loud. It came from her own rooms. The door wasn't closed and she heard the sound of voices. She paused. All of the furniture had been pushed back. the rugs were rolled up, a green bowl that had held dahlias lay in pieces on the floor. Half a dozen people were doing a crazy dance in the middle of the room.

Her face white and stern, Barbara waited.

"Oh hello, come in," a young man called to her. "Come and try this. It's the 'Apple'."

There was something familiar about the young man's face. Julia serene and sweet in pale blue, entirely at ease, came up to them and held out a hand which the young man grasped.

"Jimmy, this is my cousin," Julia said. "She works on a magazine." Julia's laugh was as soft as a breeze in a rose garden. "She has all the brains in our family. I—I just have to wish I had ability. Barbara, —immy Hinton is a friend of Bruce's, and Bruce is a man I knew so briefly once. He worked on the Post while you were getting your higher education, darling." Julia's eyes were two oblongs of dark blue velvet.

Bruce—Kemper, of course. That was the name of the boy who had received such a romantic wallop from those two blue eyes that he had bought a bottle of whiskey and gone drinking it out of the town. He looked pale and emaciated.

Barbara had recognized Jimmy Hinton's name. He was a Broadway playboy who preferred gaiety to work. He scattered money as freely as people scatter rice or confetti at weddings. But why should an unknown young reporter, out of a job, know this man?

Which Couple Are You?

They're classmates in high school but you'd never know it.

At the country club, Connie leaps out of the car like a little schoolgirl, while Hank looks on indifferently.

How awkward they seem, compared to Polly and Don in the background. Polly waits for Don to come around to her side of the car and help her. She knows that well-bred boys expect you to let them open doors, rescue gloves you've dropped, seat you at the table.

Invited to a tennis match, Polly makes a hit by wearing a simple sports suit, remaining correctly silent when the play is going on. While poor Connie, looking out of place in dressy afternoon clothes and high-heeled slippers, annoys the other spectators by her noisy chatter.

DOROTHY DIX

Lending Money to the Man You Love Can Be Done Safely if You Make a Thorough Analysis of Him and His Character Measures Up to High Standards

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been engaged to a man for a few years, but owing to family misfortunes and a nervous breakdown of my fiance we have not been able to marry. Now he has finally landed a fairly good position, with fine prospects and is making enough to take care of both if he didn't have to pay the bills incurred by his mother's last illness. I am not a young girl. I love this man, and I am tired of waiting. Do you think I would be justified in giving him money of my own to pay these bills, with the proviso that we get married right away? With both our salaries we could get along nicely and save considerable for a rain day. I would still have a little nest egg left if I did help him out, but I disapprove of giving a man money, as I think it tends to weaken him morally. What do you think?—HAZEL.

Answer:

If you love the man at all and think him worth marrying, I don't see why you are not willing to risk a few dollars on him. If he were a wastrel, a drunkard, a gambler, or just plain no-account, you might well hesitate to lend him the money to pay off his debts, but in his case the obligations are the tragic necessary ones that we inevitably incur when there is sickness and death in our families.

It seems to me that this young man is a good investment, even from a financial point of view. There is no doubt that by relieving his mind of the pressure of worry occasioned by his debts and by making him a comfortable home you will increase his earning capacity. It has been definitely established that happy people are far more likely to be successful than unhappy ones. And this says nothing of the glow of gratitude it will bring to his heart because of your generous action.

As a general proposition it is true that the woman who lends money to man usually loses her man and her money too, but there are a million exceptions to this rule. Very often a man who has industry and energy and initiative needs just a little money to help him get a start. Very often a man is sick and needs the medical attention he cannot afford. Very often a man needs only some new clothes to start him on the up and up. It all depends on the man whether you help him or ruin him by giving him money.

If a man is a dreamer full of vague schemes for making millions; if he has never supported himself; if he is a sit-downer who waits for opportunity to knock him over; if he is a chronic borrower, he is a poor risk. But, if he has any of the earmarks of the go-getter, he is a good bet.

* * * * * * *

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a widower of 57, engaged to be married to a woman who is fine in many ways, but she talks too much, tell all of her business and mine and my children's to any one who will listen. Also, she has a 15-year-old daughter who is the talk of the town with her bold ways, her freshness and her impudence. Her mother sees no fault in her and gives her fine clothes, movie money and everything she wants. That girl and I will not get along together, so I have told the woman that I don't want to go on with the wedding, but she refuses to let me off and has sent out the invitations to it. What shall I do? I want to do the right thing.—MR. CAN'T.

Answer:

Well, Mr. Can't, I should advise you to emulate the tactics of a mule—just balt on the safe side of the altar. Don't let the woman drag you to it. Of course, the lady who wants you to go to town, as the slang phrase runs, with you to pay the bills for her and her spoiled brat wil use all of the time-honored methods that drivers employ to get the mule that has taken its stand to move. She will build a fire under you, twist your ears and belabor you with her tongue, but it will be all in vain if you follow the intelligent animal's example and just stay put until the spirit moves you to go.

A tattle-tale wife will keep you always in hot water and an extravagant one will keep you broke. And a saucy minx of an adolescent girl will fight with your children and keep your house in a turmoil. So you will be well advised to avoid getting into such a mess. It takes nerve to stand off a widow who is determined to marry you, but are you a mouse or a man?

* * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a daughter who is deformed through a turberculous spine and who has been under a doctor's care since she was 3 years old. She is now 17, and a young man of 20 wants to marry her. He has no responsibility. Both families are opposed to the marriage. They don't want a church marriage, as they intend to get a divorce if they cannot get along together. Should a couple thinking of divorce beforehand consider marriage? What do you think of this marriage?—A WORRIED FATHER.

Answer:

It does not look very hopeful, but if the young man loves your daughter well enough to marry her with her affliction it might bring some joy and sunshine into a life that has been so full of pain and suffering.

However, if by saying the young man has "no responsibility" you mean he has no way of supporting a family, that is another matter. I do not think that any man has a right to marry and pass the buck to his parents of taking care of his wife and children.

We like to think that when men and women get married they do so with the determination that they will love and cherish each other as long as they live, but I am afraid that many moderns, even when they stand at the altar, have the thought of divorce in the back of their heads and are thinking that if they don't like it they won't stick it.

DOROTHY DIX.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S EASTER EGGS

Uncle Wiggily floped down into his easy chair and twinkled his pink nose at his wife, who sat on the other side of the room in the rabbit gentleman's hollow stump bungalow.

"You must be very tired, Wiggy," said Mrs. Longears.

"I am," he said. "But I can still twinkle my pink nose."

"Did you have many eggs to hide today?"

"Yes, a great many," said Uncle Wiggily. "But I was glad to do it and tomorrow morning the children will have such jolly times finding them."

"How they love to hunt eggs hidden by the Easter bunny," said Mrs. Longears with a laugh. "Well, I hope they all have a happy, joyous Easter."

"So do I," said Uncle Wiggily. "But that reminds me, my dear. What about our own Easter Eggs—I mean for Baby Bunty, Tootsie, Wootsie and our other little rabbits? I hope the eggs are all nicely colored. If they are I'll start hiding them now. It must never be said on Easter morning there was no egg-hunt in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow!"

"Oh, my goodness gracious!"

Rested

"No, indeed!" laughed Mrs. Longears. "I told Nurse Jane to color the eggs for you. She is doing it now, out in the kitchen. I think she must have finished. So when you get rested you can go out and get the eggs to hide ready for Easter Sunday morning tomorrow."

"Oh, I am rested now!" said Uncle Wiggily, hopping out of his easy chair. He was always ready to do something to amuse the little bunny children. But alas!

When Uncle Wiggily reached the kitchen, he found the eggs and the colored dyes all ready, but not an egg was dipped and Nurse Jane was not to be seen.

"Hello! What's this? What has happened?" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily surprised like.

"Oh, I am so sorry, Mr. Longears," called down Nurse Jane from up stairs. "But I have such a dreadful pain I had to come up to lie down. If you will wait a while I will color the Easter eggs for you."

"Tut Tut! Nurse Jane," said Uncle Wiggily. "I would not think of letting you. Stay in bed until your pain is better. I can color these eggs myself and when they are dry I will hide them."

"Oh, thank you so much," said Nurse Jane. So she took some carrot aspirin for her pain and went to sleep.

Happy Easter

Uncle Wiggily was dipping the eggs in the different colored dyes—red, blue, green, purple, yellow, pink and blue, when, all of sudden, out to the kitchen came hopping Tootsie and Wootsie.

"Oh, I want to color some eggs!" shouted Tootsie.

"So do I!" shouted Wootsie, her little twin brother.

Each one made a grab for the same egg. Tootsie said it was hers and Wootsie said it was his. Tootsie tried to dip the egg in the blue dye and Wootsie tried to dip it in the red dye. Then, all of a sudden, both the little rabbits slipped. Tootsie fell in the red dye and Wootsie fell in the blue dye.

"Oh, my goodness gracious!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as he fished them out. "You are a lovely color! You both look like Easter eggs!"

Mrs. Longears dried Tootsie and Wootsie as best she could, but the color stayed on them a long time. Then Uncle Wiggily finished coloring the eggs and the next day the little rabbits had grand fun hunting for them all over the bungalow.

"Happy Easter! Happy Easter!" they shouted as they found eggs. "Happy Easter!" echoed Mr. Longears. "Happy Easter to everybody!"

And if the garage door doesn't blow shut and pinch the tail lamp of the automobile, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's swallow.

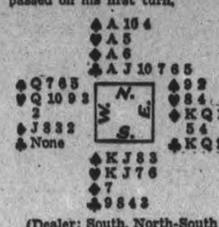
"The Authority on Authorities"

TRY TO REMEMBER

IF YOUR partner jumps your bid to game at some stage of the bidding, he doesn't necessarily show a lot of honor strength. Don't reach out aimlessly for a slam. Pause first to consider what he did on earlier rounds. Perhaps he merely has a great distributional fit with your suit, especially if he passed on his first turn.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

The North player on this deal robbed himself of a 700 rubber because of his lack of attention to the story South had given of his holdings. When South passed originally, he announced that he did not have the strength for an opening bid. However, as the bidding progressed North failed to take that into account.

The bidding started with North in the third position. He called 1-Club, East 1-Diamond, South 1-Spade, North 3-Clubs, and South with his singleton diamond, support for clubs and fair strength in the other two suits, decided he had sufficient strength to take the hand to game. North then took the contract to 6-Clubs.

North had no possible way to avoid losing two tricks in the trump suit, so was defeated one trick.

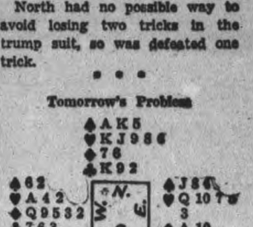
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

After the lead of the heart A, how should South proceed to make 4-Spades?

YOUTH KILLING POETRY?

LONDON, Ont., April 16—(CP)—Young writers, because of their "utter disdain of the principle of communication, are killing poetry rather than keeping it alive, Dr. Pelham Edgar, retiring head of the department of English at Victoria College, Toronto, said in an address here last night.

Extreme modernists who viewed poetry of the last century as "thin and flighty" were experiencing growing pains in poetry; they had not begun to appreciate it, Dr. Edgar told the annual banquet of the Hesperian Club of the University of Western Ontario.

April Meeting Of St. John's W. A.

The April meeting of St. John's Senior Branch of the W.A. was well attended. The rector, Canon W. P. Robertson, conducted the Devotions, the president, Mrs. G. S. Cameron, presiding. After the usual reports were presented, a letter from Mr. F. Ford, manager of the Purity Bakers, was read, and which enclosed a cheque for $10, being a bonus to the W.A. members who had inspected the interesting and spotless plant on March 22. Delicious refreshments had been served on that occasion. A vote of thanks was sent to Mr. Ford and the company.

A letter from the matron of All Saints' School at Lac la Ronge was read, acknowledging the splendid outfits sent to Alice Hunt and Margaret Ratt. Both girls also wrote letters of thanks.

The Diocesan annual meeting in Toronto will be held from April 22 to 30. Mrs. George Groombridge will represent this branch, and Mrs. B. Wardle was appointed a substitute. A daffodil hostess tea will be given by the W.A. on Thursday, April 21, Mrs. Dorrington and her refreshment committee to make arrangements. Mrs. F. Ford will again have a table of samples at this tea. Mrs. F. M. Dela Fosse gave an enlightening talk on W.A. work, after which each office holder gave an account of her part of the work, all of which was well and fully explained. The meeting was closed with the members' prayer.

Doughty—Forsythe

A pretty wedding was quietly solemnized at seven o'clock on Thursday evening in Bridgenorth United Church parsonage, when Avice Pearl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Forsythe of Bridgenorth, became the bride of Everett Doughty, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Doughty of Peterborough. The Rev. C. C. Miller officiated.

The bride was charming in a dress of pale blue sheer with navy blue hat and accessories, and she wore a corsage of pink and red roses. Miss Anne Elliott attended as bridesmaid, wearing a frock of navy crepe with matching hat and accessories, and also a corsage of pink and red roses. The groom's brother, Earl Doughty, acted as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home for immediate relatives and friends, and later the happy couple left for Toronto and points west, the bride wearing for travelling a sand coat with navy accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Doughty will reside in Bridgenorth.

McKee—Turner

ROSENEATH, April 16.—A wedding of much interest to Roseneath friends of the bride was solemnized on April 8 at 7.30 p.m., in St. Anne's Anglican chapel, Toronto, by Rev. Palmer, when Evelyn Grace, daughter of Mrs. L. Turner, Roseneath, and the late Frank Turner, became the bride of W. J. McKee, of Toronto. The groom, a native of Ireland, emigrated to Canada in 1929.

The bride was gowned in continental blue chiffon, with hat and veil and accessories in harmonizing tones. She carried red roses.

Miss Gladys Turner, R.N., sister of the bride, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was bridesmaid. She wore a gown of old rose and carried tea roses. The groom's cousin, Alfred Jennings, of Toronto, was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, on Lansdowne Ave., where tea was served. After a honeymoon spent at Niagara Falls, Mr. and Mrs. McKee will reside in Toronto.

◇ ◇ ◇

Lambe—Fee

MOUNT PLEASANT, April 16.—A charming wedding was solemnized by the Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson of Millbrook on Saturday, April 9, at St. John's Church, Ida, when Emma Gertrude, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beatty Fee of Ida, became the bride of Earnest Norman Frederick Lambe, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lambe of Millbrook.

The bride was attended by Miss Viva Shearer of Hall's Bridge, while the groom was supported by Mr. Orland Lambe of Sunderland.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father was becomingly attired in navy tica tina, trimmed with melon and sapphire blue. Her accessories were navy and she carried a bouquet of Better Time roses.

The bridesmaids costume was in Paris sand and honey beige with accessories of rust. She carried talisman roses. Mr. William White of Port Hope and Mr. Alfred Lough of Peterborough acted as ushers.

During the signing of the register, Miss Helen Lytle of Peterborough sang "In the Dawning" accompanied at the organ by Miss Jean Lough of Ida.

Shortly after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lambe left on a wedding trip, amid showers of confetti and good wishes and on their return will reside on the groom's farm in Cavan.

◇ ◇ ◇

Chapple—Ivatt

CENTRETON, April 16.—A quiet wedding took place on Saturday evening at the United Church parsonage, Baltimore when Rev. M. D. Smith united in marriage Gladys, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Ivatt, Centreton to Leigh Chapple, Centreton, younger son of Henry Chapple and the late Mrs. Chapple of Honeyevye Falls, N.Y.

The young couple received congratulations from friends and best wishes. They will reside on the Chapple homestead, east of Centreton.

A Happy Baby

Did you ever see a jollier baby! Of interest to their friends here will be this picture of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Cullen's baby son, five-months-old "Terry" who lives in London, Ontario. Terry is the grandson of Mrs. Kathryn Goselin, Mrs. Cullen having been formerly Miss Alma Goselin.

Pretty Little Girl

Not quite sure what it's all about is cute little Teresa McLean, three-years-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McLean, 221 London street.

Cottesloe W.M.S. Plan Bale Quilt

COTTESLOE, April 16. — The W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. John Gallagher on Wednesday evening, where they held their April meeting.

The gathering opened with the roll call, answered by twelve ladies with the word "kingdom."

Several items of business were discussed, among which were the plans for the putting together of the quilt for the bale.

Miss Mae Webster and Mrs. John Gallagher had charge of the study book, while Mrs. L. Freeburn gave a reading, "Manikyan's Bible," after which Mrs. John Gallagher rendered a solo.

Plans were made for the next meeting to be held the second Wednesday in May at the home of Mrs. E. N. McDonald. The roll call to be answered with the word, "Shepherd." The meeting closed and Mrs. Gallagher served a very dainty lunch.

Mr. D. Gallagher of Flanders, Ont., is visiting at the home of his brother, Mr. Joseph Gallagher.

POLICE CAR IN CRASH

TORONTO, April 16 (CP). — A police car answering an emergency call early today struck a car driven by a woman identified only as Mrs. Martin, who suffered a head gash in the collision. The constables, James Nuget and Clarence Collins, received cuts and bruises on the head and limbs.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"What then do you call you soul? What idea have you of it? You can not of yourself, without revelation, admit the existence within you of anything but power unknown to you of feeling and thinking."

—Voltaire.

And Robert J. Shores tells us this: "Our hope for eternal life in the hereafter does not spring from a longing for a spiritual existence, but grows out of our love for life upon this earth, which we have tried and found good."

Dear Friends:

In our Examiner I read the other day where Clarence Darrow, the criminal lawyer said it had taken him thirty years to find out that there is nothing after this life on earth. I'm thinking he knows differently now. There is nothing wrong in doubting, the wrong is when we fail to recognize the truth.

Recently I told you of some miracles that had happened to me. They have not appeared yet, but will be printed soon. At twenty I also doubted, and through the years I searched and probed and read and experimented. Why pray if there is no one to pray to? Why live a good life, denying oneself the pleasures of the flesh here on earth if life ceases at the grave for evermore?

If we must go out to nothingness at the end, why not grab all we can like pigs at a trough, not caring how others fare as long as we are served? If Clarence Darrow felt like that, why did he help so many criminals, why did he not let them die and be done with it all?

How many of us would recognize our soul if we were to meet up with it? How many of us know when we are doing God's will? The whole trouble with you and me and the rest of the world is, we put the last things first and the first things last.

How many of us seek FIRST the kingdom of God? We seek love and adventure, our own way, success, money, but how many of us seek the true way first? God did not make any empty promise when He said: "And all these things shall be added unto you."

Naturally, being human beings, we like human things, the earth and all the pleasure we get on it. But we are also spiritual, and this part of our being will never let us be wholly content on earth. Just last week I had a man argue with me about God making the earth, and then making men out of dust. He didn't believe it at all, but in evolution.

I said "you would rather believe you evolved out of slime than out of dust. You won't accept the fact that God made us. But you Do accept the fact that men can make music, can build bridges, can mine gold, build lovely buildings such as cathedrals. Who then gave men the power to do this?

Why cannot I build bridges, why cannot I make music?" He said, "Oh, some of us have one ability, and some another," but he could not tell me why this is so, nor whence they got their ideas, why they stayed coherent so that they got symmetry and lovely lines and good foundations.

It seems to me that in the early stages of the world God bound the people to Him, maybe I'm wrong but I think I'm right. Adam broke away, the Israelites broke away, and made graven images to worship. And then God and His Son freed men by the coming of Christ. No more burnt offerings, for He was the supreme sacrifice.

And God is not to blame for the muddle men have got themselves into with all this freedom. They still make images to themselves, of greed and love of power, of money and fame, of titles and seats in high places. Jesus did not stay in the grave, but ascended, as we also shall ascend when we learn to "Seek ye first the kindom of God," putting first things first and last things last. More later.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

DEVOTIONS HELD FOR THREE HOURS AT ST. JOHN'S

"Today, even in our own times there is a callous indifference to religion as shown by our pursuit of the dollar, yes even among those who have heard who Jesus is" said Rev. C. J. S. Stuart, M.A., rector of St. Thomas' church, Toronto, in the course of his Good Friday message to the many worshippers who attended the three hour's devotions between noon and 3 o'clock at St. John's church yesterday. A large proportion were present for the entire service which was an impressive recognition of the significance of the anniversary of the death of Christ on the cross.

Rev. Mr. Stuart's discourse was punctuated by prayers and the singing of a large number of hymns by the congregation.

He began by inviting his hearers to place themselves at the foot of the Cross as the only safe place for Christians. Then followed an eloquent word picture of the scene on Calvary and the speaker's linking up the events of that first Good Friday with the Christians of today. Reminding his hearers of the soldiers who crucified Christ casting lots for his garment and of the callous indifference with which Christ's prayer was received. He pointed out that today there was still callous indifference. In fact indifference was the greatest enemy of our faith. Christians were not persecuted here today, but there was personal carelessness that shut out God.

Rebuking Worldliness

Mr. Stuart described the taunts that the Savior had to endure from the crowd around the cross and then stressed the fact that even today Jesus was a rebuke to our worldliness, selfishness and silly pursuit of pleasure.

Picturing the men who met death with Christ on the cross the speaker said there was sin and suffering in all of us today. "But what do we do about it—how does it affect us? he asked. "Does it lead us to God's pardon or does it just lead us to despair?

Picturing the state of mind of the crowd at the cross Mr. Stuart said there was very little faith but lots of superstition there. There was superstition today too, he declared, fortune tellers, spiritualists, chain prayers, etc. "A Christian who has faith in God has no dealing with superstition" the speaker said.

In the concluding portion of his message, Rev. Mr. Stuart told of the three women who stood by the cross until the end, pouring out their love for Him. Their example he felt should be an incentive to drive the Christians of today to determine to struggle against temptation and to cast off indifference and carelessness, to spend their time devotedly for and in Him.

"He has died for you in love: what is your return?" concluded the speaker.

Rev. Canon Robertson conducted a service preparatory to communion in St. John's church last night.

ODDFELLOWS HOLD GRANDSIRE'S RALLY

Odd fellows from Havelock, Millbrook, Lakefield and Peterborough met more than 100 strong on Good Friday at the George Street Lodge rooms of the I.O.O.F. Second and third degrees were conferred on candidates and the all-day session wound up, following a banquet at night, with games.

Brothers Jack Sage, Ed. Files, Earl Woods, of Peterborough, and Bro. Ray Scott of Havelock were initiated into the further mysteries of the order in traditional ceremony. The meeting was under supervision of Wm. I. Constable, D.D.G.M. Both Peterbroough lodges, Lodge 111, and Otonabee 13, were represented.

Grand Master Constable was chairman at a banquet, catered for by the Golden Link Lodge of the Rebekahs. The chairman proposed the toast to King and Bro. C. E. Wiley, P.D.D.G.M., proposed the Grand Lodge, responded to by the chairman. A toast to the visitors was proposed by Bros. Jas. Price, Sr., P.D.D.G.M. and responses were given by Bros. E. Leeson of Havelock, R. Ford of Peterborough, and P. I. Bentley of Millbrook, all P.D.D.G.M.'s. Bro. Jack Smith recited and a singsong ended the banquet. An orchestra was led by Bro. Wes. Boorman. Cards, ping-pong, carpet bowling were played in the evening.

In Kingston, union leaders said, crews of eight vessels quit work at the strike deadline, midnight last night, with 200 sailors picketing. Goderich reported 45 men on strike from three boats. Owen Sound reported to headquarters that the crews of three boats walked out, and at Collingwood union members picketed the only boat in port.

Eighteen crewmen of the Paterson Company's freighter Mantadoc at Fort William locked themselves in the ship's galley as a protest demonstration, claiming they were not allowed to sign on as members of the C.S.U.

In Montreal 14 men quit one ship. Union headquarters in Toronto said it was the only boat at Montreal affected by the strike call, others belonging to companies that have C.S.U. agreements.

Union heads reported nine boats affected in Toronto and said others would be picketed if they attempted to sail.

CAUSES FOR AMITY

TUSCALOOSA, Alta., April 16. — (AP).—"Mutual closeness" to Great Britain and friendly trade relations were named yesterday as causes of amity between Canada and the United States by Sir Herbert Marler, Canadian Minister to the United States, who spoke before an assembly of University of Alabama law students.

Economic baance is the key to the friendly relations between the two countries, said Sir Herbert.

Famous Honeymoon Bridge Quickly Disappearing

The famous honeymoon bridge at Niagara Falls, which crashed to its doom under pressure of heavy ice floes this winter, is fast disappearing into the Niagara river. This picture shows the last portion of the bridge resting on the fast melting ice jam of the river. The melting ice plunged other portions of the bridge into 275 feet of water.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARY GALVIN

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Galvin took place at 10 o'clock, Monday morning, at St. Martin's Church, Ennismore. The Solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated by the Rev. P. J. Galvin, of Grafton, the son of the deceased. The deacon of the Mass was the Rev. V. McFadden of Downeyville, while the Rev. P. Costello of Hastings acted as sub-deacon.

Present in the Sanctuary were His Excellency, the Most Rev. Dennis O'Connor, D.D., L.L.D., Bishop of Peterborough; the Rt. Rev. Monsignor W. J. McColl of Lindsay; the Very Rev. Dean M. O'Leary of Bracebridge; the Rev. P. J. Kelly of St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough; the Rev. J. J. O'Brien and the Rev. C. J. Maloney of the Sacred Heart Church, Peterborough; the Rev. J. Walsh and the Rev. C. Begley of the Immaculate Conception Church Peterborough; the Rev. V. Masterson, D.D., the Rev. E. Welsh and the Rev. E. Grant of St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough; the Rev. V. Corkery of St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough; The Rev. W. Meagher and the Rev. C. McCarney of Lindsay; the Rev. J. McCarthy of Douro; the Rev. J. V. McAuley of Campbellford; the Rev. P. Butler of Kinmount; the Rev. L. Cleary of Victoria Road; the Rev. C. Carrol of Norwood; the Rev. G. Wolfe of Cobourg; the Rev. K. Malane of Lakefield; and the Rev. V. J. Gillogly, pastor of St. Martin's Church, Ennismore.

Assisting in serving the Mass were Kevin Hurley and Claire Galvin, grandsons of the deceased and James Hoare, Leo Cavanaugh and Harold Killen of Ennismore The organist for the occasion was Miss Marion Best of Peterborough

The funeral oration was preached by the Rev. J. V. McCauley of Campbellford, who, for many years was pastor of St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, in which parish the deceased passed the greater part of her life The reverend father dweit on the qualities which distinguished the late Mrs. Galvin as an example of the true Catholic and christian, and on the endearing traits of her character which would cause her to be remembered for many years. A brief reference was made to the fact that the family name of the deceased has been associated with the parish almost since its inception.

The deceased died at Grafton at the home of the Rev. P. J. Galvin. A Solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated in Grafton after which the remains were transferred to the home of her son Peter Galvin of Ennismore. Assisting at this Mass were the Rev. J. Ferguson of Warkworth; the Rev. J. Guiry of Port Hope; the Rev. H. Black of Wooler; the Rev. R. Killen of Cobourg and several of the clergy previously mentioned.

Officiating at the graveside were many of the clergy who were in attendance at the funeral Mass. The Rev. V. J. Gillogly conducted the service.

Pallbearers were Elmer Galvin, Clement Galvin, Adrian Hurley, Fabian Galvin, Joseph Duffus and Charles Duffus.

Large numbers of friends were present to pay their last tribute including many from Downeyville, Peterborough and Grafton.

The deceased leaves to mourn her departure, a brother, James Collins of Chicago and the members of her family, the Rev. P. J. Galvin of Grafton; Peter Galvin of Ennismore; Mrs. Wm. Hurley of Norwood; Joseph Galvin of Peterborough; Mrs. F. T. Hurley of Otonabee; Clara Galvin of Toronto, and Ronald Galvin of Chicago as well as a large number of grandchildren. Mrs. Galvin was predeceased by her husband, Thomas Galvin, by her daughters, Katherine, Sister M. Bernadette and Nellie and by a son Francis.

MISSIONARY DIES

TORONTO, April 16. (CP).—Rev. Edward George Cook, 32, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cook of Toronto, died in Nigeria, West Africa, after an appendicitis operation, according to word received here.

He was ordained in Forward Baptist church here in May, 1937, and left two months later for a missionary post in West Africa.

Mrs. Myrtle Cook McGowan, sports columnist of the Montreal Star, is a sister.

Little Effect Here

Action of the United States Treasury in desterilizing its entire hoard of inactive gold, will affect Canada only indirectly, according to officials of the Finance Department at Ottawa.

A dozen beggars, said by police to be outsiders, were arrested in Quebec last night after they had pestered authorities of the Cardinal's Palace for food.

President Roosevelt on Thursday asked Congress to authorize the Treasury to spend or lend $4,500,000,000 for relief, public works, flood control, housing and pump-priming in general.

A special committee of the Vancouver Council has declined to recommend to the council that distribution of milk be made a public utility.

APSLEY RESIDENT IS 92 YEARS OLD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, April 16. — Isaac Lean, a resident of Burleigh and Anstruther Township for the greater part of his life, celebrated his 92nd birthday on Thursday, April 14. Born in Cobourg, he moved to this district while still a youth. Married twice, he is the father of 12 children, eight of whom are still living. He also has 23 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Mr. Lean was for a number of years tax collector and assessor for the township. His last year of service was in 1928 when he was 82. In his 90th year, he applied for the position of assessor, and still resents the action of the Council in refusing him the appointment. He is in full possession of all his faculties, and reads and writes without the aid of glasses.

SHOT IN SHOULDER LEADS TO ARREST

MONTREAL, April 16—(CP). — Police placed Roger Richard, 25, under arrest to-day in hospital, where he had come asking treatment for a bullet wound in the shoulder, charging him with attempting to break into a police sergeant's home.

Officers said Richard and a companion picked the home of Sergeant Amedee Vezina for a break-in shortly before midnight. When his wife noticed two men loitering outside the house, Vezina picked up his revolver and turned off the lights. He went into action when he heard the glass of a kitchen window break.

Surprising the pair in the kitchen, Vezina ordered them to put up their hands. As they fled from the house and through the yard, Vezina fired two shots and one of the fugitives yelled with pain. Then both disappeared into the darkness.

When Richard entered hospital he showed a letter from a doctor asking that the bullet be extracted. No trace of the second man has been found.

Pants Cost Double For 420 Pounder

MUNISING, Mich., April 16 (AP). —While the ordinary-sized man can have a pair of pants made by a tailor in less than a week, it takes Medusa Longevin, 34, of Munising, from three to four weeks to obtain them—and pants cost him just twice as much as normal trousers.

Longevin has just had a pair of pants made by a Milwaukee tailor, who received the following measurements: 70-inch waist, 74-inch seat, 39-inch thigh and 44-inch outseam. The wearer weighs 420 pounds, is the father of three children and employed as a truck driver and laborer by the Alger County Road Commission.

LONDON AND PARIS SWINGING CLOSER AS WAR INSURANCE

PARIS, April 16—(CP-Havas).—Close Anglo-French co-operation and improvement of Franco-Italian relations will be the prime points of Premier Edouard Daladier's foreign policy.

Arrangements have been tentatively made for a meeting between the Premier and Foreign Ministers of the French and British Governments, possibly next week. Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Halifax may come to Paris to discuss foreign affairs with Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet.

The continental edition of the London Daily Mail said Deladier was expected to ask for staff consultations in order France and Great Britain would know "exactly what support they can expect from each other in any sudden emergency."

"It is pointed out in French military, air and naval circles that events now move so rapidly that it would be impossible to hold effective consultations after an untoward event had taken place, and that all plans must be prepared in advance," the paper said.

"This is not thought likely that the French Ministers will press for anything in the nature of a formal alliance. They place full reliance on the declarations solemnly made by British Prime Ministers and Foreign Secretaries during the past four years and take these to be as fully operative as any signed document.

Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Halifax have laid down so clearly Great Britain's attitude in the event of an unprovoked attack that there can be little to add."

Follow British Lead

Pressure is already strong in favor of a policy of following Britain's example in coming to agreement with Italy . This would specificially involve filling the now-vacant post of French ambassador at Rome.

Among names most prominently mentioned for the position are expremier Pierre-Etienne Flandin, a strong champion of Franco-Italian co-operation; Henry Berenger, chairman of the senate foreign affairs committee and former ambassador to Washington; and Jean Mistier, head of the chamber of deputies foreign affairs committee.

Italy's main complaint against France — non-recognition of the Ethiopian conquest — must await the League of Nations meetings in May for any possible solution. The imminent Italo-British accord, as well as the British move to place the Ethiopian question on the Geneva agenda, are seen as facilitating a settlement of this outstanding issue between Rome and Paris.

Nomination of a French ambassador, it was believed, would normally have to await a decision on

Scouts Successful In Test Results

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 16. — Twenty members of Campbellford's Boy Scout organization tried their Tenderfoot examinations on Wednesday evening under the supervision of Scoutmaster Charles Collard. Of the nearly thirty members in the troop all but five have tried this examination and are ready to continue with their degree work. In order that all might have uniforms a scheme has been formed whereby each of the members contributes twenty-five cents each week to be applied toward the purchase, and to aid those who are unable to get this money a drive is being planned to take place later in the season. Signal work is being enthusiastically practised and it was reported that a group of about twenty would set out early Friday morning for signal practice.

TAKES NO "SWEEP" ACTION

TORONTO, April 16 — (CP). — Board of Control members refused to-day to endorse the resolution by the Sault Ste. Marie city council asking the Dominion government to legalize sweepstakes in Ontario to aid hospitals.

Mayor Ralph Day and three other members of the Board said they were in favour of sweepstakes but felt it was not a matter for the Board of Control to discuss.

Health Run Down Housework A Burden

Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy instead of sick and miserable, but is it any wonder that when they are run down in health they become nervous and irritable, weak and worn-out, and the lightest household duties seem a drag and a burden?

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills are a remedy that all nervous, tired-out, weary women should take to help them back to the blessing of good health, and when this is done their household duties will be a pleasure instead of a burden.

MRS. A. K. MCLEAN, Pleasantfield, N.S., writes:—"A short time ago I was in a badly run down and nervous condition. I got so that my housework became a burden to me. I started taking Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills, and now I feel like a different person, and again am able to do all my own housework.

Hereafter I shall always recommend H. & N. Pills to my friends."

PAID ONLY $82 FOR FORTY YEARS LIFE INSURANCE PROTECTION

Another true story of remarkable results from Mutual Life policies came in this week's mail. The writer bought a $1,000, 20 Pay Life Policy (No. 37,320) in 1898 when he was only 21 years of age. During the next 20 years he paid $474 in premiums and left the dividends with the Company to accumulate. At the end of the 20 years his policy was fully paid up and he withdrew in cash the dividend amounting to $193.

During the next 20 years he received additional dividends of $199 on the paid-up policy.

Summing the matter up, he has actually paid only $82 for forty years' protection and today his Mutual Life policy has a cash value of $641. The policy will continue to pay dividends as long as he lives and at his death will pay his family $1,000.

For information regarding the Mutual Life of Canada, its policies and actual results (the Mutual Life divides all its surplus earnings among policyholders), call our nearest representative or write to our Head Office at Waterloo.

Russians Detain Jap Plane Anger Tokyo

Incident Adds to Worries of Premier Konoye As He Fights War Lords' Mobilization Demand

TOKYO, April 18 (CP).—A foreign office spokesman asserted today Soviet Russia had detained a Japanese army plane forced down in Suifenho, north of Vladivostok, last Monday. Nine planes were patrolling the border and eight returned.

The spokesman did not specify the type of plane but said the Russians notified Japan "only one member of the crew was found alive." Tokyo asked release of the ship, to which the Russian reply was a protest against flying over Soviet territory, the Japanese informant said.

The incident is one of a long series which has turned the attention of Japanese leaders and the public increasingly to the danger of war with Russia. There have been persistent rumors, lacking official confirmation, of war preparations along the Manchoukuo-Soviet border. Informed quarters in Tokyo have heard Japan recently moved some regular army units from China battlefronts to Manchoukuo to man the border.

The incident also added possible complication to the critical political situation confronting Premier Fumimaro Konoye.

Emperor Involved

There were indications yesterday the Imperial Palace was concerned by the political developments, revolving about the Premier's difficulties with military and naval leaders who want him to invoke the national mobilization law, which gives the government widespread powers over industry and civilian life in war time.

The newspaper Asahi said Marquis Yasumasa Matsudaira, chief secretary to the Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal, called upon the elder statesman, Prince Kimmochi Saionji, and that the Marquis conveyed "the views of the senior subjects of His Majesty."

Prince Saionj, thereby, will know the Imperial attitude when he confers with the Premier's representative, Marquis Kiochi Kido, on the possibility of a Cabinet overturn.

PARDON GRANTED DR. F. C. TOWNSEND AT PRISON GATES

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt today pardoned Dr. Francis E. Townsend, old age pension advocate, as he was about to enter the local jail to serve a 30-day sentence for contempt of a United States House of Representatives committee.

Townsend had already reported to the district attorney's office and announced he was ready to begin serving of the jail sentence when the presidential pardon was announced.

The 71-year-old pension advocate was convicted February 24, 1937, for walking out on a special committee which was investigating his plan to pay a $200 a month federal pension to all persons more than 60 years of age.

A White House announcement of the pardon cited a telegram sent to the president April 15 by Chairman Bell (Dem.-Missouri) of the House committee saying:

"Dr. Townsend is an aged man and I am firmly convinced that at the time the so-called walk-out was planned prior to his having been called as a witness and later at the time he actually did leave the witness stand, he was under the influence of men of stronger will and intelligence than his own and that they were far more responsible for his offence than the doctor himself.

Due Collectors Tie Up Plant

FLINT, Mich., April 18. (AP).—A dues collecting campaign by the United Automobile Workers closed the Fisher Body Plant No. 1 of the General Motors Corp. today. The plant supplies bodies for the Buick Motor Co.

The C.I.O. union picketed the Fisher plant as employees arrived for work, turning away all non-union employees and all union members who could not show receipts for their current union dues.

Within a short time the south unit was shut down because there were not enough employees at work to man it. About nine a.m. the entire plant was closed.

Approximately 3,500 men and women were employed on the day shift.

TEXTILE CLASSES NEED OF CANADA

MONTREAL, April 18 — (CP). — The Canadian textile industry is handicapped by poor facilities for training non-academic workers, K. E. Norris, principal of Sir George Williams College, told the Textile Society of Canada here Saturday.

Supremacy of England and the United States in textiles had advanced hand in hand with the chain of night schools available to youth and adults in the large centres, said Mr. Norris. He added such a development had yet to come in Canada.

W. King, chairman of the committee on Education, announced it was anticipated by fall that 1,000 students in the eastern section would be enrolled in regular night classes in Montmorency, Magog, St. Jerome, Sherbrooke, Drummondville and Valleyfield in Quebec and in Cornwall, Ont. One of the problems surmounted, he explained, was publication of the first Canadian textbook ever printed, written in French and English by men within the industry.

The problem of establishing Canadian textile standards was being investigated, H. F. Mill,s president, reported at the meeting. He stated this development was necessary if Canada wished to keep pace with the rest of the textile producing countries.

Auto Door Handle Picks Up Cyclist

DELHI, Ont., April 18—(CP). — Mike Kevert, 40, was picked off his bicycle, carried a short distance and then dropped on the highway when the door handle of a passing automobile hooked through the belt on his coat near here Saturday. Kevert suffered a possible skull injury and other hurts. His condition was reported as serious in hospital.

BLOSSOM TIME MAY 12

GRIMSBY, Ont., April 18 (C.P.). —The Niagara Peninsula Blossom-time Committee, on the advice of the Vineland Experimental Station, yesterday advanced the opening date of "Blossom Time" to May 12, six days earlier than usual. The change was necessary owing to the rapid development of fruit blossom buds this year.

FINE WHEAT CROP MAY BRING ORDER 'SOW 30 P.C. LESS'

WASHINGTON, April 18—(AP)—Agriculture adjustment administration officials said today United States wheat farmers face a drastic control program on next year's crop.

Should the 1938 crop turn out as expected, they said, growers may be called on to reduce plantings of wheat this fall and next spring from 20 to 30 per cent below present acreages. In addition, they would be asked to approve marketings quotas to limit sales.

Should this year's crop be as large as now indicated, the surplus of the bread grain, they said, probably would establish a new record of more than 378,000,000 bushels on July 1, 1939, compared with 200,000,000 bushels expected on July 1 this year.

Under the farm program as now set up, marketing quotas will not be applied to wheat this year.

A.A.A. officials said if this year's crop estimate on July 15 approximates the 925,000,000 bushel level now indicated, Secretary Wallace of the agriculture department probably would find it necessary to cut the 1939 acreage allotments under the soil conservation program from 10,000,000 to 12,500,000 acres below this year's 62,500,000 acres.

PAID AGITATORS?

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP).—Professor Albert Einstein says anti-Jewish outbreaks in Palestine are being "artificially fomented" by powers "directly interested in embarrassing not only ourselves, but especially England." Einstein, an exile from Nazi Germany, told 3,000 Jewish leaders attending a passover dinner yesterday that the outbreaks would cease if "foreign subsidies" were withdrawn from the Arabs.

Gang of Thieves Raids 2 Towns

Loot Lucan Drug Store, Blow Safe in Clinton, Break Into Garage, Steal 2 Cars—Only One Found

LONDON, April 18 (CP).—A bandit gang from London or St. Thomas was blamed today for a series of raids extending north of the city as far as Huron County during the week-end. The robberies were not discovered until today.

One safe was blown, a drug store looted, a garage entered and two cars stoln during the night raids. One of the stolen cars was found abandoned.

Believing the second automobile holds a clue to the raiders, police throughout London district have been warned to be on the watch for it.

The robberies were in two towns, Lucan and Clinton. A music machine forced open in a Lucan drug store yielded $35, a quantity of cigarettes was taken.

At Clinton, the robbers "blew" a safe at Falconer's coal office. Papers, bonds and cheques, non negotiable, were scattered about the office, but nothing was taken.

Then they went to Hanley's garage, also in Clinton where the car of Leonard McKnight was taken.

On a Clinton street was found abandoned a 1937 coupe with St. Thomas license plates. It had been stolen a few hours earlier from a garage in St. Thomas.

Twenty sticks of dynamite were stolen recently near London from a contractor's truck, and it is possible some of that dynamite may have been used on the Clinton safe.

PACT WITH HITLER NEXT BRITISH AIM

LONDON, April 18(CP).—The Associated Press to-day said Prime Minister Chamberlain, gratified at the first step toward removing Britain's different with Italy, "was said to be waiting for Germany to take the initiative in a new approach to Anglo-German settlement."

He took this stand, it was said, because his last approach to Germany was frustrated by the annexation of Austria, which occurred while Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop was in London to open talks.

The Havas News Agency quoted "informed political sources" as saying the Prime Minister intends to open negotiations with Germany within a month, his aim an understanding which, if not in terms of an agreement similar to that just concluded with Italy, would result in a lessening of tension.

Londoners Head For The Country

LONDON, April 18 (CP Havas)—Londoners who were not able to leave the capital Friday—for a four-day Easter holiday at the seashore or in the country—did so with a vengeance today.

Undaunted by overcast skies they piled into trains, buses and automobiles. Early this morning the roads leading out of London were heavy with outgoing holiday traffic.

With the residents taking advantage of the bank holiday the streets of the capital were unusually quiet, enlivened here and there by groups of tourists or country folk taking advantage of the holidays to visit the capital.

$25,000 HOME BURNS

OTTAWA, April 18—(CP).—One man was rescued by firemen and four other persons escaped unaided when fire destroyed the home of H. G. Langford, Ottawa jeweller, on the outskirts of the city early today. Damage was estimated at $25,000.

100,000 Eggs Mess Roosevelt Lawn

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP).—An army of children marched on the White House to -day to scramble over the lawn with 100,000 Easter eggs.

"They make an awful mess," sighed Head Grounds-keeper William S. Reeves, 'but they have a fine time."

Admission was limited to children 10-year-old and younger. Exceptionally small children were allowed an adult companion.

Easter egg rolling on the spacious White House lawn is an old American custom. For many years the presidents have thrown open the gates and have mingled with the children in their Easter finery.

The fire, breaking out in the attic, was discovered by Ruth Langford who awakened her mother and father and sister, Betty. Charles Hinchey, 22, a hired man, asleep in the attic, was trapped until firemen ran a ladder up to the window and rescued him.

8 Are Young Boys All Victims Of Leaky Boats

4 Sink at Wallaceburg to Re-enact Sudbury Tragedy; Auto Accident, Shooting, Falling Tree Add 3 More

TORONTO, April 18 (CP).—Twelve persons perished in Ontario during the Easter week-end, eight of them children who drowned while boating in leaky craft. A truck driver was drowned trying to rescue four of the victims.

An automobile accident, an accidental shooting and a falling tree caused the other three deaths between Good Friday and Easter Sunday. The drowning tragedies were enacted in the Sydenham River near Wallaceburg Sunday and in Minnow Lake near Sudbury Friday.

A weathered old punt on the banks of the Sydenham River attracted six carefree Wallaceburg boys on a holiday hike yesterday and brought death to four of them when it sank n 25 feet of water. Bodies of the victims, Edward Wellman, 12, James Dune, 12, Leroy Dune, eight and Joseph Napoleon Delorme, 14, were recovered shortly after the accident but efforts to save their lives by artificial respiration failed.

Two other boys, eight-year-old Billie Delorme and Joseph Wellman, 13, escaped from the murky river by swimming ashore and obtained aid in recovering the bodies of the others. It was believed the four who drowned could not swim.

An accident, starkly similar to the Sydenham river tragedy, caused the deaths of four Sudbury boys and of a man who tried to rescue them Good Friday.

As in the Wallaceburg accident, two boys escaped. They were nine-year-old Rene Ross, brother of Lawrence and Gerard, and Damas Spencer, 10.

Find Caretaker Shot.

Allan C. Maitland, caretaker of an Owen Sound school, was found dead in his home Saturday, a gunshot wound in his head. An ardent hunter, Maitland was believed to have died after one of his guns discharged accidentally while he was removing it from its case.

In Hamilton, 73-year-old Rhoda Davison died from injuries suffered when she was struck by an automobile while returning to her home from an Easter church service. Ambrose G. Summers, driver of the automobile, reported to the police she stepped into the path of his car.

Ten-year-old Stuart Carruthers was killed when a tree fell on him while he was tapping maple sugar on his father's farm at Morewood, Ont., near Ottawa.

Scores suffered slight injury in minor accidents throughout the province. One of the most serious occurred near Strathroy when six persons, including a three-months-old baby, escaped from a blazing automobile that had overturned.

A Tragic Cruise.

WALLACEBURG, Ont., April 18 (C.P.). — Thirteen-year-old Joseph Wellman and little Billie Delorme, youngest of a party of six adventurous, pleasure-bent youngsters, tried to piece for investigators to-day the story of a cruise in a leaking, disused punt that ended in tragedy.

Recuperating at their homes here, the survivors could recall little of what occurred when they found the boat filling with water yesterday as the boys paddled about on the 25-foot-deep Sydenham River. Their

ANGLO DEAL FREES DUCE OF BECOMING GERMANY'S PAWN

LONDON, April 18 (CP-Havas)—The Anglo-Italian pact "is an auspicious first instalment of the policy clearly outlined by Prime Minister Chamberlain and now partly performed," The Times (Independent) said today.

"We have in any case put a term to the frictions, annoyances and mistrusts of which the origin is indeed clear and easily explained but which have no permanent raison d'etre and thenceforward should never recur.

"It is Mr. Chamberlain to whose good judgment we owe it that the chance offered by the Italian government was promptly and firmly seized.

"There is nothing now that warrants tension in the Mediterranean. If this first success can be followed up — and the France of Daladier seems well disposed to imitate the British example—the recent lamentable deterioration of international relations may be reversed in favor of a slow but sure process of piece-meal improvement.

Key Of Much Trouble

REV. DR. POGUE FORMER PASTOR ST. PAUL'S DEAD

Had Colorful Career In Canadian Church

STAYNER, Ont., April 18 (CP)—Rev. Robert Pogue, D.D., retired United Church minister, died at his home here yesterday after a short illness. Born in Ireland, where he received early academic training, he settled in Canada when a young man. He was 68 years old.

Following his graduation from Knox College, Toronto, Mr. Pogue was ordained a minister of the Presbyterian Church. At one time he served as assistant minister at Cooke's Presbyterian Church, Toronto.

After Church Union, he was appointed minister of St. Enoch's United Church, and in appreciation of his services one of the church halls was named Rev. Robert Pogue Hall. He had charges at Stayner, Hespeler, Philadelphia, where he was assistant pastor of Bethany Presbyterian Church; St. Paul's, Peterborough, and latterly at Orangeville, where he served before retiring three years ago.

He is survived by his widow; six sons: Thomas, Gordon, Paul and John, Toronto; James, in the West, and Russell, Stayner; two daughters, Mrs. Hill and Miss Mary, Stayner.

A funeral service will be held in Stayner United Church, Tuesday, at 3 p.m. There will be a private service at the home on Tuesday morning.

Born in Ireland.

Dr. Pogue's career as a churchman was a colorful one from his early youth. Born in County Monaghan, Ireland, he came to Toronto as a boy in 1885, and worked as a clerk for the firm of Ellis and Kalley, wholesale grocers He joined Cooke's Presbyterian Church and became one of its leading laymen prior to and during his student days.

He was the first president of the Christian Endeavor Society, became an elder before he was 20 years old, and assisted Dr. William Patterson, his friend and tutor, during two summers. Graduating from Knox College in 1895, he took up his first charge at Stayner Presbyterian

POPE'S BLESSING IS SENT FRANCO

VATICAN CITY, April 18—(AP)—L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper, today published the text of a telegram Pope Pius sent to General Francisco Franco, Spanish insurgent leader, conveying the apostolic blessing.

The Pontiff's message, replying to one from General Franco on the occasion of the recognition of a new Spanish saint said:

"Happy to see vibrating in your excellency's message the hereditary faith of Catholic Spain whose crown of saints has been enriched for its better fortunes by a new hero of Christian fortitude we send from our heart the apostolic blessing, propritiator of divine favors."

General Franco had telegraphed: "Upon the canonization of the Franciscan missionary Salvador da Horta, who is life united the supreme ideal of faith with apostolic virtues to a heroic degree, I desire to send to your holiness, with the gratitude of the Spanish people for this canonization of symbolic values at the present hour when we climb together to the peak of our purest aspirations in struggle and sacrifice, the renewed pleadges of loyalty to your holiness both from Spain and myself."

Wreck Of Lost Manitoba Plane Fails To Yield Aviator

"Foot Broken" Says Note By Owner Feared Long Dead Of Exposure In Mountain Bush

DAUPHIN, Man., April 18.—(CP).—Extent of Mike Sawchyn's struggle to escape death remained a mystery to-day as police organized search of Riding Mountain National Park's tangled forests for the body of the 22-year-old farmer-flier who vanished Dec. 29 last on a 120-mile flight north from Souris to his home at Sifton.

Three searchers found Sawchyn's wrecked plane yesterday in the park south of this town, 200 miles northwest of Winnipeg. A weather-blurred note attached to the wreckage read: 'My foot is broken, this plane belongs to Mike Sawchyn."

Wesley Woods, Bill Galloway and Fred Cole, farmers, discovered the smashed plane but they did not find Sawchyn's body. The scrawled note and charred remains of fabric from the wrecked plane, indicating he had lit a fire to signal or warm himself, showed the flier had survived the crash.

Welland Girls Plead With Ottawa To Let In Jew Nazi Exile

Welland, Ont., April 18. (CP). RUTH ENNIS, 22-year-old school teacher, daughter of a prominent Jewish merchant here, said today representations will be made shortly to the Canadian government to allow Max Heftman, a 25-year-old Jewish fugitive from the Nazi rule in Austria, to enter Canada.

Miss Ennis said she and a girl friend, who met Heftman while touring France last summer, have interested several persons in the case. She and her friend, whose name was withheld, have been corresponding with Heftman since the friend's return to Welland.

Heftman, Miss Ennis said, lost his job and was hunted by the Nazis when Germany annexed Austria. He reached Amsterdam from where he wrote the Welland girls asking for help to get him permission to enter Canada. Miss Ennis said a job is awaiting Heftman if he is allowed to come to Welland.

"Friends" Of Whiteoaks Family Victims Of A Delusion

Canadian Novelist Spends Much Time Explaining Characters Never Existed

NEW YORK, April 18.—(CP). — Mazo de la Roche is very sorry but all those people who think they know the Whiteoaks family are victims of a delusion.

The Canadian novelist and playwright, suddenly transported across a raging ocean from her quiet home in England to the bustle and garishness of Broadway, found time today to tell of the problems that develop after one has brought into existence a family like the Whiteoaks of Jalna.

Now that they have been brought to life in her novel Cycle and On The Stage, Miss de la Roche must pass considerable time—in the interests of truth—explaining that they never really existed in the flesh.

'Hundreds of people write to me," she said, "and people I meet are constantly telling me they know the family I've written about."

They specify names and places and Miss de la Roche regretfully informs they it isn't so. She says, withcut being specific, that some predecessors of her "suggested" the central characters of the Ontario family.

Dog Mourns Daily At Master's Grave

Bloomington, Ind., April 18 (AP). JOHN DILLMAN, caretaker of the Clear Creek Cemetery, south of here, told a story today of a dog's devotion to his master outlasting death. Dillman said ever since Edward P. Eckles was buried March 27, the man's dog, Tarzan, had visited his grave every day. Dillman said the dog, black and part shepherd, lowers his head to the grave and whimpers.

Scientist Wins $1,000 For Discovery That Causes Tomcats To Milk

Dallas, April 18 (AP). DR. ABRAHAM WHITE, 30, of Yale University, who yesterday announced isolation from the pituitary gland of a pure protein crystal that causes mother instinct, today received a $1,000 prize from the American Chemical Society. The award was for "an individual on the threshhold of his career."

Crystal, which generates mother instinct when injected into animals comes from the pituitary gland, a small, hazelnut shape organ at the base of the brain.

The discovery goes far toward explaining the riddle of "how we are made." It is the first time any of the products of the pituitary gland has been extracted in pure form.

The crystal proved to be prolactin, the hormone which governs secretion of milk by mothers, both human and animal. Prolactin in impure form was discovered several years ago. It causes roosters to brood and set on eggs, tomcats to give milk and milk-deficent females to become normal.

Paris-Rome Pact Due This Week

France Seen Seeking End of Two-Year Quarrel Before Hitler Meets Mussolini Early in May

PARIS, April 18 (AP).—France was reported today to have taken the first step toward a solution of her two-year-old quarrel with Italy. The foreign office was understood to have laid out a program for concluding a treaty of friendship with Italy before the week is out.

Dispatches from Rome said Jules Blondell, French charge d'affaires, made the first move yesterday by asking unofficially if Italy were ready to start the conversations. The charge d'affaires was reported to have indicated France would send an ambassador accredited to King Vittorio Emanuele as Emperor of Ethiopia, implying recognition of the Italian conquest, in order to get negotiations under way at once.

Premier Mussolini's answer was expected in Paris in time for Wednesday's cabinet meeting, so that an ambassador might be named at once and a pact signed and sealed before Chancellor Hitler's visit to Rome in May. (Great Britain has in mind eventually getting Germany into a friendship pact, so there would in effect be a four-power agreement.)

France's quarrel with Italy began when she, with other members of the League of Nations, boycotted the Italian campaign in Ethiopia. It grew with the Spanish civil war and Italy's increasing aspirations in

50 SHIP CREWS BACK AT WORK AS STRIKE ENDS

Men Win Permission To Join Union of Choice

TORONTO, April 18 (CP).—An agreement between seven large shipping companies and the Canadian Seamen's Union went into effect today, ending Canada's first major strike on the Great Lakes and sending what union officials claimed were 1,000 men back to work aboard 50 vessels.

Ships in nearly a dozen Canadian ports, full crews aboard for the first time in two days, were ready to sail. J. A. Sullivan, C.S.U. president, announcing the signing of the agreement here last night, said the men had been granted "the right to join the organization of their own choosing, which was the reason for going on strike."

In a statement, the companies affected said they had agreed "there shall be no discrimination" against the strikers. The companies, it was announced, "are willing to treat any union as spokesman for its own members but will not recognize any one union as representing all its employees."

Pickets around strike-bound vessels in the affected ports were removed immediately after the agreement was signed following a three-hour conference of ships' operators here yesterday. Tension on several waterfronts eased and crews were ordered to report to their ships.

Collective Bargaining.

The two-year-old C.S.U. called the strike at midnight Friday. The union demanded it be given "the right to bargain collectively for its members and that there be no discrimination against C.S.U. members." The short strike crippled Great Lakes navigation. Half of the Canadian fleet was operated by the seven companies concerned.

They were: The Colonial Steamships, Limited, Toronto; Hall Corporation of Canada, Montreal; Norris Steamship Company, Limited, Montreal; North American Transports, Limited, Toronto; Paterson Steamship, Limited, Montreal and Fort William; Union Transit Company, Toronto; Keystone Corporation, Limited, Montreal.

HERD OF CATTLE AND FIVE HORSES DIE IN BARN FIRE

(Examiner Correspondence)

TWEED, April 18—Five horses and a large herd of cattle together with an undetermined quantity of feed and farming equipment were totally destroyed shortly after two o'clock Saturday morning, when the large barn owned by Mrs. Murney and Clarence Graham, south of Chapman's Corners, was razed by fire.

Of undetermined origin, the flames rapidly enveloped the wooden building, awakening Mr. Graham and his mother as fire roared through the barn. Rushing from their beds, the occupants of the Graham home found the barn a blazing inferno, that prevented any attempt at the rescue of stock or feed.

Live stock burned to death with the exception of one cow that was so badly burned that it will have to be destroyed. Isolation of the blazing barn plus the absence of wind is believed to be the reason of the other buildings being saved.

SYRUP SEASON CLOSES AT $2.00

Maple syrup eased off to $2.00 a gallon on Saturday's market, and several farmers said the season was over. Buckets are being lifted, ending a season generally rated as only fair. One producer said he had "two good runs of sap," and the flow was greatly reduced last week. Fresh meats were gone from the market until the natural refrigeration of cold weather returns, in all probability not until late in the fall. Potatoes were in ample supply at prices ranging from 50 cents up to 90 cents and the dollar mark, and apples seemed more plentiful than usual with prices unchanged.

Butter was steady at 36 to 38 cents, eggs were quoted at 17 to 20 cents, and chickens were in strong demand at 25 cents. Fine weather increased the attendance indoors and out. Farmers reported seasonal activity on the land in preparation for the planting of the 1938 crops.

"Farmers are the most optimistic class of people we have," said a Cavan man. "They have to be, I suppose. They don't know what the year is going to bring them in the way of harvest and prices, but they go ahead on the assumption that everything is going to be all right. They've got a production plant on their hands, and they are starting out now to make it yield. If the other branches of industry showed the same spirit I don't know what the economic results would be but it would certainly create a more encouraging outlook."

DRIVER ARRESTED AFTER COLLISION

TILLSONBURG, Ont., April 18 (CP)—Edwin Perry of Stratfordville was arrested in a restaurant here last night shortly after a collision between two automobiles. Police Chief Phillion said Perry would be charged with reckless driving, leaving the scene of an accident, driving without a permit and taking the car of T. Rutherford without permission.

Chief Phillion said that when he investigated the accident the driver of one of the cars was missing. One car was driven by Glen Harris of (194 Washington Ave.) Kenmore, N.Y. Mr. and Mrs. Hersell Hutchins, their daughter and Cecil Blackstone were passengers. No one was injured seriously in the crash.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Lindsay of Toronto, bound for Aylmer, were injured only slightly when their car plunged through a guard rail east of Tillsonburg on No. 3 highway Saturday and turned over. The Toronto couple were moved to Delhi for treatment and continued to Aylmer yesterday.

FOXBORO MAN PASSES

BELLEVILLE, Ont., April 16 (C.C.).—Melzar Wickett, 73, was found dead in his bed at his small shack in Foxboro to-day. Dr. J. J. Robertson, coroner, investigated and decided an inquest unnecessary, the man dying from heart trouble.

Two Trucks Crash

Two trucks crashed together at the corner of Roger and Douro streets in Ashburnham shortly after ten o'clock this morning (Monday). One was loaded with logs, the other with ashes. The log laden truck, owned by Thompson's Lumber Company and said to be driven by Tom Buck, 352 Simcoe street, was badly damaged about the front and its frame bent. The gravel truck, owned andallegedly driven by Gordon Little of Peterborouogh, was almost a complete wreck. It travelled over the curb and struck a tree, its front right wheel being torn from the axle. (Examiner Staff Photos.)

NIPPONESE STAKE ARMY'S PRESTIGE ON PRESENT SCRAP

SHANGHAI, April 18 (AP). — Japanese launched a strong attack in the Lini sector today, precipitating a major engagement in which they apparently were determined to avenge the series of defeats suffered at the hands of the Chinese in Central China.

Fierce fighting was reported in the Southeast Shantung Province war zone, where Japanese and Chinese have been massing reinforcements and munitions.

Sworn to avenge the disastrous setbacks around Taierhchwang, the Japanese were staking their military prestige on the outcome of the battle. Equally resolute, the Chinese were fighting to break up the Japanese campaign in Central China and reconquer lost territory.

Striking southward along the Yi River, the Japanese sought to reach the strategic city of Suchow, junction of the Lunghai and Tientsin-Pukow Railways 80 miles southwest of Lini.

Japs On Defensive.

Severe fighting continued around Yihsien and Tsaochwang, 70 miles to the west, where the Japanese have been driven back to precarious defensive positions.

Chinese assaults on Japanese lines at Yihsien and Tsaochwang were reported going on with undiminished fury. The Chinese were said to be trying to crash through this area to meet the new Japanese threat eastward near Lini.

Japanese Garrisons at Yishien and Tsaochwang were encircled and completely cut off from bases to the north, Chinese advices said. Chinese guerrilla troops have disrupted lines of communication by persistent raids far behind the front.

It was estimated more than 1,000,000 men were involved in operations of the opposing armies in the South Shantung zone.

Coming to Toronto

Miss de la Roche will see the American version of her play "Whiteoaks," with Ethel Barrymore in it, Tuesday night, and compare it with the English production which had a two-year run in London with Nancy Price in the role of Granny Whiteoaks. She plans to stay around New York for a week or 10 days, after which she will take a trip to Toronto, her birthplace, and nearby Clarkson, where she did her early writing.

The tall, slender writer still owns a cottage at Clarkson and is anxious about the fate of some flowering shrubs she planted a few years ago. She said her Scottish terrier Bunty is buried in the garden.

Miss de la Roche, whose residence at present is in Windsor, England, is considering returning to Canada to live. But when and if she does it will be only for three seasons of the year. It was those shrivelling Canadian winters that drove her to England ten years ago.

Miss de la Roche revealed that a No. 2 company of "Whiteoaks" will make a tour of Canada in the fall, opening in Halifax Aug. 22 and crossing the Dominion blazing a new trail for legitimate road shows. She also cleared up the mystery of her first name, which is a Spanish masculine name her father tagged her with in honor of a friend.

Easter Parades Get Ducking In Sudden Thunder Shower

150,000 Jam Toronto Boardwalk—Holiday Traffic Tops 1937

TORONTO, April 18 (CP).—Thunder showers and rain spoiled many an Easter parade in Canada yesterday but did not daunt the holiday-goers. Travel agencies reported holiday traffic greatly increased over last year. Churches were crowded in all sections of the Dominion.

The storm came at the height of the fashion parade, late afternoon, in parts of Ontario. The biggest Easter crowd in Torontos history jammed the lakefront boardwalk 150,000 strong on Sunday afternoon and many a treasured Easter hat became soaked along with its wearer when a sudden thundershower broke.

The weather was warm across the Dominion, the temperature reaching 76 at Hamilton. The prairies enjoyed bright clear skies but the Maritimes and parts of Quebec had considerable rain, while at Vancouver intermittent showers fell from cloudy skies.

A new tradition was continued at Goderich, Ont., where a hundred children in bright Easter finery wheeled doll carriages in the annual doll parade.

After four years in the Pennsylvania city, a call came from St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough. Here Dr. Pogue spent 17 years, until Church Union became an issue in 1925, and the congregation voted to continue in the Presbyterian faith, and the minister went to St. Enoch's United Church, Toronto. Seven years later, he was called to First Avenue United Church, Orangeville, from which he retired in 1936.

Many years ago, he built a home on the banks of the Nottawasaga River at Oakview, Wasaga Beach. He was one of the pioneers of the district, his cottage being the second to be built there.

the Spanish question. The final settlement in Spain may yet be some distance away but presumably the main consideration in the eyes of both governments will be the fulfilment of the Italian undertakings given by Count Ciano to Lord Perth in the exchange of notes dates April 16, 1938.

"In the same exchange of notes Great Britain makes a difficult sacrifice of principle by promising to bring the question of recognition of Italian sovereignty over Ethiopia before the League of Nations. The government will no doubt be ready to press recognition of the Italian position.

"If the new atmosphere of confidence and good will—vividly expressed in the cheers which greeted the signatories in Rome Saturday evening—is not disturbed, all remaining problems will be easily solved on the basis of the documents just signed by the two governments."

Four planes made an intensive search after Sawchyn's disappearance, but it was abandoned Jan. 12 when heavy snow blanketed the forests. Police organizing search for the body discussed their plans last night with the father, Councillor John Sawchyn of Sifton municipality.

HIT-RUNNER STOPS LOOKS VICTIM OVER THEN DRIVES OFF

PARIS, Ont., April 18 (CP). — George Hambleton, elderly Paris resident, was seriously injured here Saturday when he was struck by an automobile, the driver of which, after stopping and speaking to the injured man, got into his car and drove off. Hambleton was unconscious when found.

Hambleton, nearly 70 years of age, was crossing a street on his way to the business section of Paris when struck. He said the driver of the car pulled him from in front of his machine to the side of the road and inquired the extent of his injuries then drove away. The man was found to have suffered several fractured rids, chest injuries and numerous bruises.

"The agreement is not an end in itself; it is a means to an end that is still rather problematical," he said.

"The agreement certainly received additional significance through the German conquest of Austria. And it is not surprising that Mussolini wanted to have it signed before Hitler arrives in Rome.

"Italy has been placed in a very grave dilemma. Developing pan-German hegemony threatens to exclude her influence from south-eastern Europe. But more than this, Germany has begun to take an interest in the Near East and Italy may have to consider the prospect of a conflict between her interests and Germany's where her only serious rivals hitherto were Great Britain and France.

"It is believed here and apparently in Rome that the agreement will give her a certain independence insofar as it will help her avoid a danger that may become very real, namely, the danger of becoming an instrument of German foreign policy, an instrument, moreover, that will be used by Hitler to hold France and Great Britain in check while he carries out his eastern and south-eastern European plans.

No Anglo-French Split

"One fear expressed by some of those who criticized Mr. Chamberlain's policy when it was first announced has not been justified—the fear that negotiations with Italy would cause estrangement between France and Great Britain. Anglo-French relations were never better than they are now and a detailed agreement for military, naval and aerial co-operation between the two allied powers may be expected 'ere long.

"It is probable the French government will negotiate an agreement with Italy on lines similar to the present Anglo-Italian agreement.

"Throughout the negotiations conducted between Count Ciani and Lord Perth there has been the most scrupulous regard for all French interests and the French government have been kept informed at every stage of the negotiations."

TORONTO PRODUCE

Little or no trading on the market in the short between-holiday session, but egg prices eased and butter weakened.

Uncertainty of trend as Easter and Lenten demand was concluded beclouded the Toronto egg market and was responsible for an easing in quotations. Up to the present fairly light demand has been able to take care of all receipts coming on the local market, and now on the trade, which has been waiting for Easter demand to pass, can be expected to begin buying for storage.

Eggs from Western Ontario, which has been shipping to Montreal, where Lenten demand is stronger and sufficient to put the market there on a relatively higher basis after deducting added costs, may henceforth find that outlet less attractive. Dealers' quotations on graded eggs tended to drop top prices Saturday from Thursday's range, easing to 20½c for grade A-large.

ONTARIO GRAIN

Approximate prices track shipping point.—Wheat, 88 to 90c; oats, 42 to 44c; barley, 56c to 58c; corn, 72 to 74c; rye, 60 to 62; buckwheat, 60 to 62c; malting barley, 62 to 64c; milling oats, 42c to 44c.

TORONTO FEED PRICES

Following are the approximate prices quoted for feed in ton lots, packed in bags (delivered f.o.b. Toronto): Bran, $30; shorts, $31; middlings, $33; corn, $40; flax, $73; cottonseed meal, $40.00; linseed oil cakes, $50; tankage, $62; salt in blocks, 50 pounds, 50c each; in bags, $19 per ton. Molasses, barrels, 25c per gallon.

TORONTO CHEESE

TORONTO, April 18 — (CP). — Wholesale cheese prices were steady to-day with dealers buying large, colored, paraffined and government grades at 16 cents.

Wholesalers offered cheese to retailers at the following unchanged prices: New—Large, 17½c; twins, 17½c; triplets, 17¾c. Old—Large, 19¾c; twins, 20c; triplets, 20¼c Medium, 18¾c; twins, 19c; triplets, 19¼c.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, April 18 — (CP). — Cattle moved slowly at generally steady prices on the Toronto Livestock Market to-day. Calves moved 50 cents lower. Sheep and lambs were steady, while no hog prices was set by early afternoon.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle 3,080; calves, 690; hogs, 1,520; sheep and lambs, 350.

There were few sales on weighty steers. Good butcher cattle brought $6 to $6.25, with a few as high as $6.40. Common butchers ranged down to $4.50. Butcher cows were strong at $4.50 to $5 for good, with downward to $3.50. Canners and cutters traded at $2.25 to $3.25.

Butcher bulls were $4 to $4.50 with one light bull at $5. Fed calves were priced at $5.75 to $7.50 according to quality. Milkers and springers were quoted at $30 to $70 each.

Choice veal calves brought $9 to $9.50, a few reaching $10. Common light vealers were as low as $5.

Previous close on off-truck bacon hogs was $9.85 to $10.

Good feed-lot lambs sold at $9.50 to $9.90, and other grades $6 to $9.25. Spring lambs were $6 to $10 each. Sheep ranged from $2 to $6 cwt.

Butter—Prices to retailers in pound prints—No. 1 36c; No. 2 grade 35½c.

EAST BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

Hogs, 1600; good and choice 160 to 250 lbs. averaging 185 to 210 lbs. $9.25; similar weights truck on $8.90 to $9; sparingly $9.10; few 115 to 150 lbs. $8.60 to $9.10; packing sows, $7.50 to $7.90.

Cattle, 1,200; holdovers, 50; choice yearling heifers, $8.90; mixed yearlings, $8.50; Canadian steers, $8.50 down; medium steers and heifers, $7.75 to $8.25; cows and bulls active about steady; plain and medium cows, $5.50 to $6.25; cutter grades, $4 to $5.25; medium bulls, $6.35 to $7; light weights, $5.35 to $6.

Calves, 800; good and choice, $10 to largely $10.50; plain and medium, $6.50 to $9.

Sheep, 5,500; good to choice woolskins sold $8.75 to $9; shorn lambs held around $8; fat ewes to $5.50.

ONTARIO HOGS

TORONTO, April 18 — (CP). — Hull bacon hogs regained Saturday's 25 and 35 cent losses to-day. Other markets held steady.

Liveweights. — Brantford, $9.60; Hull, $9.75; London, $9.50; Chatham, $9.50; Stratford, $9.50; Peterborough, $9.65.

Dressed-weights. — Barrie, $13.00; Hull, $13.35; London, $12.70; Chatham, $13; Stratford, $12.70; Peterborough, $12.75.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

Lead Winnipeg ....

Husky - voiced Winnipeg grain dealers took a holiday to-day in the quietest session of months. Winnipeg wheat futures closed firm, ¾ to ¾ cent higher, May $1.26⅝; July $1.18⅝, and October 91 cents.

Only a brief echo resounded through the pit at the opening when futures fell almost a cent in line with weakness at Chicago. From then on a single buying or selling order generally proved sufficient to swing sprices. The sharp contrast with roaring sessions of 10 days ago was chiefly due to absence of overseas buying and trade reports.

Matthews Family Worships On Easter Sunday In Lindsay Baptist Church

Hon. Albert Matthews Returns To Church He Was Once a Member

LINDSAY, April 18. — This town welcomed home two distinguished former residents on Sunday when Hon. Albert Matthews, Lieutenant-Governor, and Mrs. Matthews, attended morning service in Cambridge Street Baptist Church with which their names have long been identified as leaders in the Baptist faith. It was the first official visit to the town and church since Mr. Matthews assumed office.

Members of the congregation turned out in force, and the distinguished visitors were greeted by many old friends. The names of Matthews and Whiteside are synonymous with the Baptist faith in Lindsay. The land on which the present church stands was deeded to the church by Mr. Matthews' father, and until he left Lindsay, the Lieutenant-Governor was a regular worshipper there. Mrs. Matthews' mother, Mrs. H. G. Whiteside, is one of the oldest living members of the congregation.

Among the exhibits in the historical museum which has been assembled in connection with the church's seventy-fifth anniversary, is an address presented by the congregation to the parents of Mr. Matthews on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

Church Filled.

So it was as former Sunday School pupils and worshippers together that the visitors returned to the old church to again take part in a service. Owing to previous engagements, the Viceregal party was able to attend the morning service only. When they arrived the church was filled to capacity, and a loud-speaker system was installed in the Sunday School rooms to accommodate the large number who could not gain admittance to the church auditorium.

Rev. P. C. Reed conducted the service and Rev. H. W. Lang of Toronto was the guest preacher. The Scripture lessons were read by the Lieutenant-Governor. At conclusion of the service, the party met members of the congregation, the Town Council, and other citizens.

Other prominent guests at the morning service were Hon. and Mrs. R. C. Matthews, accompanied by their son Gordon, and grandson Craigie Somerville; Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Matthews, Mrs. Stewart of Rochester and Mrs. Ryley, sisters of the Lieutenant-Governor; Mrs. C. P. Fell, daughter, and her two sons Albert and Fraser. Aides were Captain Bruce Matthews, Royal Artillery, a son, and Captain C. V. Mulligan, Toronto Scottish Regiment, Mrs. Ryley's son-in-law.

Later they visited the historical museum, in which are exhibited furnishings used in the early church and historical books and documents. The party were the guests of Mrs. J. P. Ryley at dinner.

The present Baptist Church on Cambridge Street is the second building in which the members of this denomination have worshipped here. The first edifice was erected in 1866 on the corner of Wellington and Sussex Streets, following three years of worship in private houses. The present building was purchased from the Bible Christians about 1886.

Large Congregation.

Seventy-five years ago the church membership numbered thirteen. Now it has grown to be one of the largest congregations in the Whitby-Lindsay Association.

The present minister, Rev. P. C. Reed, is the thirteenth pastor of the Baptist flock. Others, in order of their succession, were Rev. A. A. Cameron, Rev. Matthew Gold, Rev. John Cameron, Rev. Mr. Prosser, Rev. W. K. Anderson, Rev. H. Ware, Rev. Ralph Trotter, Rev. L. S. Hughson, Rev. G. R. Welch, Rev. H. B. Bryant, Rev. P. B. Loney, and Rev. G. M. Holmes.

The commemoration of the anniversary will continue for the next week. To-night will be denominational night, when a group of the young people will present the pageant "The Challenge of the Cross." On Wednesday evening the congregational supper will be held, when the church roll-call will be made and messages read from absent members. Friday night will be historical night when the church history will be given and messages read from former pastors. The anniversary services will conclude next Sunday, when the guest speaker will be Dr. E. A. Hardy of Toronto, former superintendent of the Sunday School.

OBITUARY

ERNEST ARMSTRONG.

There passed away at his home in Toronto on Saturday Ernest Armstrong, in his 49th year. Son of Allan and the late Emma Russell Armstrong, he was for 30 years with The Robert Simpson Company. He is survived by his father, two brothers, Edmund of Toronto and William of Peterborough, and two sisters, Mrs. A. Delahaye and Mrs. Frank Barrie of Peterborough.

The funeral services will be held from the home of his sister, Mrs. Frank Barrie, 423 Mark Street, on Tuesday, April 19, at 2.30 p.m., with the Rev. E. W. Rowland officiating. Interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery.

BRIGHTON WOMAN FATALLY BURNED LIGHTING STOVE

CAMPBELLFORD, April 18.—Mrs. Nettie Cameron, 40, died in the Campbellford hospital, to which she was rushed Friday morning as the result of burns she received when a can of coal oil with which she was attempting to hurry a fire in her kitchen stove on her farm near Codrington, tipped over and ignited on top of the stove and caught her clothing, at 11 o'clock in the morning. Her body was enveloped in flames and she received severe burns to her head, neck and chest before her screams summoned the aid of George Robertson, a neighbor who was in the house at the time doing some plastering.

Medical aid was immediately summoned from Campbellford and she was rushed to the hospital here suffering from burns and shock. She died early Saturday evening. Her husband, the late Eldred Cameron, predeceased her three years ago and she is a present survived by three sons, Jack 13, Donald, 10, and Harold 6. For many years she has been the organist at the United church in Codrintgon and her tragic death will be mourned by a host of friends.

The funeral will be conducted from her late residence in what was known as the Oser neighborhood near Codrington on Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. Mr. Plant of Norham. Interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

CAR UPSETS, BURNS SIX ARE INJURED

STRATHROY, Ont., April 18 (CP)—Six persons, including a three-months-old baby, suffered only slight injury last night when an automobile in which they were driving left the highway and burst into flames after overturning.

The car was owned and driven by William W. Haley, of Sarnia. With him were Mr. and Mrs. William Haley, Jr., and Eller Brown, all of Sarnia, and Mrs. R. H. Goold and her child, of Kingston, Ont.

It was the second accident of the day for the party, returning from a holiday trip to Kingston. In the first accident the car went into the ditch between Trenton and Brighton and was damaged slightly. The second accident occurred when the car went over a pavement bump on Highway No. 22 at the eastern town limits.

The car doors were jammed shut by overturning of the car, but the occupants scrambled out after the elder Haley broke one door open. Sand was used to extinguish flames but the machine was damaged badly in the accident.

Do You Suffer From Headaches?

Headache is a source of great suffering and often leads to serious derangements of health.

Headache is nearly always symptomatic of some diseased condition, rather than a disease itself, but in most cases comes from a disordered stomach, or poor circulation of the blood, and the cause must be removed before relief can be had.

Burdock Blood Bitters helps remove the cause of headache by acting on different organs of the body to regulate, strengthen and purify the system.

MRS. ARTHUR J. WILLIAMS, Lac Ste. Anne, Alta., writes:—"I suffered for years with dizzy headaches, and sometimes they were so bad I could not get any sleep.

My neighbour told me about Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking several bottles my headaches had disappeared.

My husband was troubled with pimples on his face, causing him great discomfort when shaving, but after he had taken two bottles of B.B.B. he got rid of the pimples."

Natural Gas Find Adds 20 Per Cent To Life Of Gasoline Resources

Dallas, April 18, (CP). THE END of the United States' gasoline resources was pushed back 20 per cent or more today by a report to the American Chemical Society on the newest ways of changing natural gas into liquid gasoline.

"Re-forming", is the technical name for this conversion. The process, in its infancy stage, is capable of adding 20 per cent to the nation's gasoline supply. American gasoline production last year was 20,000,000,000 gallons.

Under the latest discoveries about extracting gasoline, Dr. Frolich said, natural gas and petroleum rate the same as resources. Gas can be "re-formed" into liquid fuel by the same cracking processes which in the recent past have more than doubled the amount of gasoline from oil.

HAVELOCK LODGE VISITED BY D.D.G.M.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, April 18. — Prosperity Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star held their regular meeting on Thursday night and entertained as their distinguished guest Sister Isabelle Brown, D.D.G. Matron of Wellington, on her official visit. All the work of the Chapter was exemplified and three candidates were initiated. Sister Connie Paris of Peterborough sang 'Star of the East' during the evening. Out-of-town guests included: Miss Rose Sexsmith, P.D.D.G.M., Mrs. Elizabeth Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Paris, and Sister Helena Bell of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. James Rice, Miss Grace Warren, and Miss J. Connor from Madoc; Mrs. E. McIlwain, of Belleville, Mrs. Ivan Burd and Miss Hazel Green, Wellington; Sister Jean Green from Indian River, and Brother and Sister Donald Buchanan from Scarboro. A delicious lunch was served at the close and a social hour enjoyed.

NORWOOD

Mrs. Armar Weir was hostess on Wednesday evening to the members of the Evening Auxiliary of the United Church, for their April meeting. Mrs. Weir and her group were in charge of the program. The Scripture reading was taken by Miss Ruth Burgess and the devotional leaflet by Mrs. Weir. Miss Lila Kirk favored the ladies with a solo "Calvary." The topic from the study book was given in four parts:

Miss Lola Starke on Tokio, Japan. Mrs. Renaud on Christian Rural Reconstruction, Miss Pauline Wier on Depressed Classes in India and Miss Maysie Buck on "When East Meets West."

During the meeting Mrs. Renaud of Peterborough a former member was presented with a Life Membership Certificate of the Missionary Society by Mrs. Reta Pakenham. The meeting closed with prayer for outgoing Missionaries by Mrs. Weir and the mizpah benediction. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Grey Owl, Real Actor Fooled Ontario Guide, Park Head Says

Indian Blood Ran In His Veins —Also Acted As Englishman

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., April 18.—(CP).—J. A. Wood, Superintendent of Prince Albert National Park, Saturday maintained there was no doubt that Indian blood ran in the veins of Grey Owl, noted Canadian naturalist, who died here Tuesday.

Mr. Wood made this statement after his attention was drawn to remarks of William Cuppy of Timagami Station that Grey Owl was an Englishman with no Indian blood. Cuppy said he knew Grey Owl in Temiskaming in 1905 as Archie Delaney.

It is true that Grey Owl had come over from England that year, said Mr. Wood, but he had gone over to the old county as a knife-thrower with Buffalo Bill Cody's show, and had performed with the show during its tour of the British Isles.

Grey Owl learned to throw knives from the Apache Indians along the border of the United States and Mexico, Mr. Wood declared. Occasionally in private he used to demonstrate his ability as a knife-thrower.

"I remember once last summer," Mr. Wood added, 'that Grey Owl stood at one end of his cabin and with unerrng aim picked off the knot in the logs in the opposite wall with his knives. He had often demonstrated his ability in this fashion to friends who visited him."

Had Reason for Secrecy.

It is a matter of record that Grey Owl travelled overseas with the wild west show. This alone, Mr. Wood insists, is sufficient to prove that Mr. Cuppy had jumped at conclusions.

For a certain reason, not disclosed by his friends, Grey Owl did not wish to return to the United States with the Cody show. He had reason to cloak his identity. What Mr. Cuppy has said, declares Mr. Wood, proves that Grey Owl hid his identity most successfully.

"Superb actor that he was,' 'Mr. Wood declared, "he completely pulled the wool over the eyes of Mr. Cuppy and his friends. Nothing could be more natural than that he should have posed as a young Englishman just over. He had been in England for several months, and being an adept mimic he had no difficulty in putting the cockeny accent on a bit thick. He also changed his name from Archie McNeil to Archine Delaney as part of the disguise."

Grey Owl was buried in Prince Albert National Park, where he raised the beaver he called his friends.

Looking Back On This Date

APRIL 18

On this date in 1892 the people of Canada read with regret the news that Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, the second prime minister of the Dominion, had died. He was an example of the Scots who came to Canada in the early part of the 19th century and without aid other than their own ability made good.

Fred Williams

A stone mason by trade, first at Kingston, he became a contractor at Sarnia and then an editor, a stepping stone to the legislature, and later to the Dominion parliament. When Sir John Macdonald resigned in 1873, Lord Dufferin sent for Mr. Mackenzie and he was for five years prime minister. Perhaps the best comment upon his public career was written by Wilfrid Laurier,

"Alexander Mackenzie was straight and solid as his own masonry. He was more characteristically Scotch than his fellow countryman, Sir John, who had a suppleness more southern. The Scotch Presbyterians who have stood for democracy for generations, and who were the backbone of Upper Canada Liberalism, never had a more upright and more downright representative than Mackenzie, if he did happen to be a Scotch Baptist. The Baptists themselves usually had the root of the matter in them. He was a thorough-going party man. Not that he would for an instant countenance any tricky or underhand practical politics. He was too honest for that, and too deeply convinced that time and the Lord would be on the side of the righteous. But he was certain the Tories had inherited most of Adam's original sin, and he usually had the facts at his finger's ends to prove it.

"We never had a better debater in the House; a grand man on his legs, we used to call him. There was no one who could stand up under his facts, he knew his men, he had a firm grip on principle and an inexhaustible fund of indignation, a mind that thought straight and could turn quick. He made an excellent administrator of a department. It was his misfortune that he was called to face other tasks for which he was not so well fitted and that he was contrasted with the more brilliant and unfathomed qualities of Blake. He had not the imagination nor the breadth of view required to lead a party and a country; and he gave to the details of a department the time that should have gone to planning and overseeing the general conduct of the administration. But it would be well if we had more Mackenzies in public life today."

The last five years of Mackenzie's public life were pathetic. Forced out of the Liberal leadership in 1887, he sat daily, ever vigilant, saying little, gradually drawing into a shell, from which he seldom emerged. He was in truth a tragic figure among a great fighting Liberal party; but when he died everybody granted his political greatness. Sir Wilfrid, from the start of his administration, made up his mind he would not make the same mistake as Mackenzie, too close attention to small details. He left them to his ministers, an example other prime ministers have followed.

Spanish Refugees From Across French Border

Following the defeat of the loyalist forces in Spain hundreds of Spanish militiamen, their wives and families have made the perilous journey across the Pyrenees mountains to the safety of French soil. With The Boy Scouts

It is apparent that Holy Week has somewhat delayed Scout activities, for only two reports were received, so I take this opportunity to copy the following lines which I trust will convey their message to you:

Oh, boy, how fortunate you are. Before you lies the way of Life, the sun to light the way by day, the stars at night to guide aright. Sharing the joy of boyhood's fun, and work, as you pass on your way.

To sit council, speak your mind; or listen when the talk is good; to lead, if such shall be your right; or follow gladly, if that be the wise and noble thing to do; seeking to serve with main and might.

Playing the game for side, not self, and finding it the noblest aim. To strive to win not fame alone; for such s but an earthly crown that withers when the sun goes down, and drifts away like leaves wind-blown. Oh, boy, by DEEDS will you be known, when at last you face the Throne.

The Akela course got off to a good start last Wednesday, some 25 leaders turning out. It is hoped that this will continue to be large, and anyone thinking of attending this week is advised that the meeting is to-night, Monday, at 7.30 p.m.

Wednesday night, April 20, will be the first night of the local association meeting in the new headquarters, and a good turnout is expected. It is a general meeting called for the revision of the constitution, and all scouters should be on hand as well as all troop committeemen. And those interested in Scouting in the City of Peterborough. So let us get together for this occasion.

The Sacred Heart Troop met on Wednesday of last week instead of Friday. Second class and citizen badge work was carried out.

A meeting of patrol leaders is called for to-night, Monday, April 18, at Scouter Mackenzie's home, 499 Parnell street. So patrol leaders, alert; quick march.

Attention, Sacred Heart Cubs. The members of the Red and White Sixes are asked to be at the club house at 11 a.m. sharp on Wednesday, April 20, with plenty of food to last on a long hike. So Red and Whites, hike along.

The St. John's Pack held a hike on Saturday last. Some 20 boys taking advantage of the beautiful day to go out among the green grasses and budding trees. A number of wide game were enjoyed. Although tired, it was a happy bunch of youngsters that decided to hold another hike on Wednesday; so all boys who want to join in this second hike must be at St. John's Parish Hall at 10 a.m. sharp ,with the necessary food to last them on the journey.

The pack will also start their paper collection on Friday and Saturday of this week; so will all friends having paper for the Cubs please phone 1221-F on Friday morning, and your paper will be collected.

The Cubs will meet in the Parish Hall at 9.30 a.m. Frday.

The Group Mothers' Auxiliary is holding a meeting at 3 p.m. next Friday. All mothers are invited to attend.

The pack will hold its regular meeting on Friday at 6.30 p.m.

Till next week, Good Scouting—The Skipper.

Kellerman's 1909 Bathing Creation Shrinks To Shock Her

New York, April 18 (CP). ANNETTE KELLERMAN, who took the bathing beauty out of moth balls and put her into the water back in 1909, is appalled at the results of her daring. Thirty years ago she invented the first one-piece bathing suit but it covered her from neck to toe.

"And now what do you see?" asked the tanned lithe Annette, visiting New York after spending the winter in Florida.

"Big, fat women bulging out of knitted suits, disfiguring the landscape. But don't think men aren't just as bad. Some of those grandfathers in nothing but trunks ought to have screens around them."

Australian-born Miss Kellerman won't tell her age but boasts she can still swim a six-beat Australian crawl for half mile practically every day.

CHARGE CORRECTED IN QUEBEC CASE

QUEBEC, April 18 (CP).—In reporting the result of criminal proceedings against Georges St. Laurent and his wife who pleaded guilty on April 11 before Judge L. Roy, The Canadian Press erroneously described the charges against the accused.

The Canadian Press despatch said that the charge laid by Paul Taschereau, prominent Quebec lawyer, was that he haod been forced to hand over $1,000 cash and to give a cheque for $4,000 under threat of action for alienation of affection.

Mr. Taschereau now states that the charges were that sequestration and physical coercion were used to compel him to sign a cheque and he denies that there was any claim by him that the extortion had been exacted by threat of a suit for alienation of affection.

The Canadian Press regrets this error and apologizes for any wrong done to Mr. Taschereau.

WOMEN, as well as men, rave about Lifebuoy's refreshing lather . . . They, too, depend on it to stop "B.O.", to give lasting freshness. In fact, more Canadian women—as well as men and children—use Lifebuoy for the bath than any other soap? . . . 125,000 interviews by 11 leading magazines reveal these facts! Lifebuoy contains a special purifying ingredient not present in any other well-known toilet soap. This ingredient in the lather which stops "B.O." also makes Lifebuoy milder—A grand complexion soap! By test Lifebuoy is over 20% milder than many so-called "beauty" and "baby soaps."

Camera Catches Varied Expressi ons Of Dr. Dafoe During Interview

Dr. Allan Dafoe and his well-known pipe provided photographers with a splendid camera study during the little doctor's recent visit to New York. Whether questions of the newspapermen or the finding of a solution to keep his pipe alight caused some of the expressions pictured on his face is not known. While in New York Dr. Dafoe gave a report on the health, manners and individual characteristics of the Quints. Describing the tots, he said: "Yvonne is a show-off; Marie is independent; Emile is flirtatious; Cecile and Annette are little beauties." No doubt when the doctor returns to Callander he will have some pretty dresses for the five young ladies who will be four years old next month.

When It Was Simple

There was something in the mail this morning from the Apple Growers' National Committee; it came from the office which is maintained at Washington, D.C. There are too many apples in storage in United States—over 12,000,000 bushels left from the 1937 crop, and that is exactly 43 per cent. over and above the average of five years for that date.

There is nothing new about the slogan on "Eat an Apple a Day," but the committee in United States have been using that and others to try and get rid of that great surplus, and in order to move the apples it is necessary to inaugurate campaigns which include the whole nation; it is necessary to keep an organization in existence, provide for a staff at headquarters and do all manner of things to keep the attention of people attracted toward the pleasant problem of eating more apples. And all these various movements and organizations cost money and the money we suppose comes ultimately from the people who buy the apples. If not then it must come from the apple growers and if they do not recover it through sales then they lose that amount.

Nearly everything which is produced today seems to move in that same wide system by which the man who produces something from the land to be offered for sale is farther removed from his consumer. Selling apples used to be a comparatively simple thing. Folk knew that the early apples had better be turned into cash as soon as possible because they would not keep. Later on in nearly every farm home a fair share of the winter apples would be sliced and put away to dry. They call it dehydration today. The late apples were put down cellar, and the Russets went into the pit to wait until spring. There was no organization; there were no figures available to show how many bushels were left over in the land. People just went ahead and sold their apples as best they could and each farmer was his own sales agent, business manager and accountant. He knew enough to try and keep his apples off the market until the bulk of the holdings had been sold out. It was merely the application of experience and business principles applied to the simple problem of selling such apples as he might have. Perhaps the present way is much better, but it is not well to forget that in the days of simplicity farmers used to be able to retire.

Japan's Crafty Move

The Japanese have plans under way for a new "squeeze" in China, and the method employed is one which is going to hit a good many other countries as well as China. It has to do with finances in the five Chinese provinces which Japan has invaded and where the invaders have taken steps to at once come into control of the banking system.

The Japanese have organized the Federal Reserve Bank of North China and that bank has issued its own notes replacing former Chinese currency. That is easy to understand, but here is where the catch comes in: The notes which the Japanse bank has issued cannot be converted into other foreign currencies as is done under normal practice. The only currency into which they can be converted is the Japanese yen.

The result of this move is that Japanese business men located in China are given a tremendous advantage, and their business is to sell goods which are made in Japan. The new notes, being unexchangeable have been found almost a useless medium for paying for importations from foreign countries while at the same time they are 100 per cent. good when it comes to paying for goods purchased in Japan.

It is certain that formal protests will be made by United States, Britain and France, as the trade of these nations has already suffered from the currency change. The other effect is that Chinese currency has been seriously depreciated by the appearance of this new and strongly entrenched rival, and if the Chinese system of currency breaks then it is going to be difficult for China to pay interest or principal on its loans.

Admittedly the Japs have turned a neat trick in war finance, one which for the moment is all to their own advantage. If other nations protest it may be the answer from Japan will be: "Well, what about it?"

U.S. Followed Britain

President Roosevelt seeks support for his 1938 sample of the New Deal whereby he plans to spend $4,512,000,000. In a general way the proposed expenditure is grouped as follows:

$1,250,000,000 for the Works Progress Administration.
$75,000,000 for the Farm Security Administration.
$75,000,000 for the National Youth Administration.
$50,000,000 for the Civilian Conservation Corps.
$450,000,000 for the Public Works Administration.
$100,000,000 for highway construction.
$37,000,000 for flood control.
$25,000,000 for the construction of Federal buildings.

President Roosevelt talked very plainly when discussing the reasons for placing such sums in the list of expenditures, and he dealt with a system which has brought him to cross-purposes with business leaders in United States. This way:

President Roosevelt says business has gone into a tail-spin in United States and that employment is not up to the mark it should attain, and for that he blames business and industrial leaders. The business world, on its behalf, says President Roosevelt through his schemes for shorter hours and higher wages has placed an additional burden on business. In addition to that his continued expenditure on relief works has so increased debt and taxation that the latter are making such demands on the financial resources of business that it is not possible to follow a policy of expansion which would result in greater employment. In other words, the government through its policy of spending and then asking business to carry its full share of the resultant cost is taking too much money from business channels.

It is interesting to note that President Roosevelt claims there is danger in the idleness and insecurity of the people and he says "it threatens the foundations of American democracy." He is not the first person to recognize that feature. Britain saw it shortly after the close of the war, and that was the reason for the dole coming into existence. Thousands of soldiers were returning to Britain; they were through with the army and they were prepared to go to work to earn a living. The country had been turned into war production for some years and had not reverted to occupations of peace on a scale which would give employment to these returning thousands. No one has ever declared openly there would have been a revolution in England if the dole had not been forthcoming, but the matter is much more freely discussed in England itself than it ever was in this country. The dole was never intended to be of general application, but was primarily designed to meet seasonal unemployment in such trades as building and engineering only. It is not an exaggeration to state that Britain gave the dole its broad application because it realized the gravity of the situation which might develop if the step had not been taken. All this is so much a matter of current history that it is not difficult to recall that United States papers in printed word and cartoon had their field day at the expense of John Bull and his dole system. It was openly ridiculed. Today United States through its work system for relief projects has far outdistanced anything which Britain ever attempted or contemplated by way of public relief.

On The Road At 65

As a rule the transient can tell one a good deal about his own business, that of making a living by getting it where he can and by being able to repeat the operation in every community he enters. There was one in the Examiner office today and he was 65 years of age. If one had come across him standing in front of a cottage in some village he would never have looked twice at him; he would have fitted in well in a place where life was pleasant and not too strenuous. He could have passed for 70 or over because the years had been hard on him. He was the oldest transient we have encountered.

He volunteered the information that he wore two shirts, two sweaters as well as his ordinary clothing and then an overcoat. He had three other sweaters and a few other possessions "laid away in some hiding place" which he could draw on as needed. It was five days since he had shaved; he said his hand shook a good deal and he preferred to wait until he could visit a barber some place. He was going east from here and he said he found it easier to get rides on the highway than a younger man would. He had quit trying to ride freights; he was too old for that and he considered it dangerous.

This transient of 65 years had been on the road for almost seven years. His last job had been sweeping up in a small factory which closed early in 1930; before that he had done what he referred to as odd jobs. As far as he knew he had not a relative in the world and he had moved around so much that he was not sure how he could qualify in time for the old age pension. He was certain if he had $20 per month coming in steady it would mean everything to him. He would "settle down" as he said.

Having noticed reports from several cities that the number of transients was not lessening but rather increasing, we asked this man of 65 if he knew many of them and what he thought of their prospects in general. He was quite willing to answer the question. He did it this way:

"I do not believe that many of those who are on the road now will quit that life. A number I have met are beyond the age where they could go and find anything which would look like a good job. If there are vacancies then the places go to younger men. Then there are a good many of them who could not work. They are content to live a day at a time and if they can get something to eat and scrape up anything that looks or tastes like a drink they are happy in their way. They get to know every city and town where they enter; they know where a lunch or meal or a little money can be had, and a number of them carry a few lead pencils or shoe laces so they won't be charged with begging. For my part I am too old but I have no place to go; I couldn't qualify for a place in the House of Refuge. I do not fall in with as many of the transients as a younger man would as I generally go my own way and try to make the best of it. On account of my age people are more tolerant with me. But I do not like to see the young men getting started at it. I came across three just the last week and they had taken to the road in the last three months. I tried to tell them it was a mistake, but I couldn't tell them how to undo their mistake. If I knew of a place where I had any reason or claim for going I would do it, but I have no relatives and no friends who want me."

Our informant was quite sure that those who are now on the road would for the most part stay there and we believe he is correct. His regret at seeing young fellows starting will be generally shared.

It Is Quite Old

The Botanical Department of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa has been doing some announcing about the dandelion as providing the ingredients for a reducing diet. The leaves and roots when sliced make a good bitter salad. We learn too that dandelion leaves are good for greens, also that coffee can be made from the roots of dandelions after they have been thoroughly dried and put through the coffee grinder. And then comes the information that from the flowers of the dandelion it is possible to make wine.

And all that is sent out as news in the year 1938. And all of it is as old as can be. Every farm house on both sides of the Tenth Concession knew about it and it was a common knowledge on all the other concessions and side lines. Some of the fine old ladies used to make a little dandelion wine in case of sickness and black currant jelly was generally made with the same end in view. Nor was it unusual for corks to pop from some of the bottles from the inability of said corks to retain the degree of potency which the brew had developed. And dandelion roots thoroughly dried have been used for ages in the making of coffee. The Botanical department at Ottawa may have announced something new in making salad out of dandelion leaves and roots, but that is not surprising as the salad craze has gone so far that it would cause no surprise were the announcement to be made that shoe laces and matches could be used with telling effect. Otherwise there is nothing new in the latest word from Ottawa.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is announced that the C.I.O. may change its name. What is really needed however is that the organization should change its tactics.

General Sir Edmund Ironside, new governor and commander-in-chief of Gibraltar is six feet four inches tall and speaks 12 languages and can rise to the heights of eloquence in each.

A British motor car driver hopes to do 400 miles an hour this summer. He had better hurry up or some of the boys on the Chemong Road will beat him to the mark.

Histamine is a new scientific preparation for erasing black eyes, but it will take a lot to convince some folk that the discovery will fill the place of the old-fashioned beefsteak.

Montreal woman claims her son struck her with a knife because she would not accompany him to church. His idea of religion seems a trifle militant for everyday use.

President Roosevelt and Premier King are both expected to attend the official opening of the new Blue Water international bridge at Sarnia and there will be no goose stepping done when the heads of the two governments meet.

Mr. Bennett says he never remembers an occasion when there was more disharmony in Canada. He probably made a mental reservation that there is no Conservative government upon which the blame for that condition can be laid.

Mr. Longevin, 34, ordered a pair of pants made in a tailor shop in Milwaukee. He has a 70-inch waist and a 74-inch seat measurement. He drives a truck and ballast is never required to keep it down on the road.

DAY OF REST

(By A. R. K.)

¶ John Thomas thinks our day of rest, was made to fit his vim and zest, at staying home he'll scoff; when it comes to the Sabbath day, he longs to rise and be away, in early hours he's off.

¶ He always has some place to go, for him this staying home's too slow, he takes his victuals too; at sitting down to contemplate, he'd quickly chant his hymn of hate, he says it's drab and blue.

¶ John Henry works all Saturday, and late at night he draws his pay, long hours he's on his feet; but he don't rest on Sunday morn, he's up before the rising horn, he doesn't need the sleep.

¶ John Henry always laughs at me, he says I'm lazy as can be, I don't resent his wit; when Sunday comes around to me, I like a few hours quiet and free, so I can rest and sit.

¶ I saw John Henry just today, he'd been two hundred miles away, he said he ached with pain; of tires he changed a flattened one, and then before he got that done, why it began to rain.

¶ 'Twas 2 o'clock when he got home, he said he ached in every bone, he limped with weary men; but when the Sabbath comes once more, he'll do like what he's done before—and he'll be off again.

When R. R. Hall Went to Ottawa

(By John Gladstone Grace)

THE DEATH OF NO Ontario public man in long years, caused such deep regret in Ottawa, as the passing of R. R. Hall, ex-M.P. of Peterborough, Ont. Like his tutor and friend, Hon. Jim Sutherland, M.P. of Woodstock, who made the Leadership of Laurier possible in Ontario 47 years ago, and had no enemies, Robert R. Hall K.C. was one of the best lawyers who frequently appeared at the Supreme Court during 30 years. The Press boys from Quebec as well as Ontario, at the House of Commons; many of the Judges, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, up to 1911, all wanted to entertain R. R. Hall when he came to the city.

His maiden speech when the Saskatchewan School issue was causing excitement, about 1905, left a fine impression. Young, handsome, good voice, and the thunder of applause that greeted his argument, impelled the grim old warrior Sir Richard Cartwright, to say to Hon. William Harty, M.P. of Kingston: "I would like to believe that young Hall is a type o fthe coming men of Ontario." Fielding, Sutherland, Laurier, Fitzpatrick, Patterson, were some of those who congratulated the young M.P. of Peterborough when he sat down.

It is more than probable however, that some of his popularity was due to Mrs. Hall being such a favorite in social and parliamentary circles. At the private entrance to the Russell Hotel could be seen almost every fine sunny day, Sir George Perley's car, when Lady Perley and Lady Borden came to take Mrs. Hall out to play golf. The political wits, wags, and prophets, held conflicting views regarding the movement of that trinity of distinguished ladies. The orthodox Tories claimed the wives of the two Knights aimed to convert Mrs. Hall, but the first lady of Peterborough, always smiling, replied that there was no politics involved. She explained that all three were novices at the game, and Lady Perley was usually elected to pay for the refreshments.

The few now living who were in public life at that period, include Sir Allen Aylsworth, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, now Chairman of the Railway Board, Hon. George P. Graham, Rufus H. Pope of the Eastern Townships, Que., Sir William Mulock, Senator Gerald White, Pembroke; Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, ex Governor of Quebec province; Hon. W. H. Carroll of Quebec city, Senator Paul Dandurand, now Government leader in the Senate; Judge P. A. Choquette of Quebec city, Hon. Earnest Lapointe, Minister of Justice; Leighton McCarthy, ex-M.P. of Toronto; Senator Hance Logan and Senator Edgar Rhodes, of Nova Scotia; Senator Tobin of Richmond and Senator Geo. Parent of Quebec; Norman Wilson ex-M.P. of Ottawa (his wife is Senator Wilson.)

To the 1908 House came a galaxy of clever young men from the West who were Law School friends of R. R. Hall. They included Arthur Meighen, 31 years, looking like a Jr. ecclesiastic, but the western M.P's., even Clifford Sifton, said: "Look out for young Meighen." He was studying French, and Earnest Lapointe, the overgrown rural looking M.P. for Kamaraska, was learning English with the aid of a gramaphone. Both succeeded in mastering the languages not their mother tongues.

Bob. Hall always knew that Quebec was absolutely unjust in putting the Conscription Crown of Thorns on Meighen, because he was the one Minister in the War Government who had no racial prejudices. He was the victim of his talents, and Ministers Borden, White, Perley, Hazen, Pelletier, Blondin, Doherty, Hughes, Rodgers, were all afraid to face the storm, while H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, the Warlord of the Empire, was ready to invoke a martial law or conscription, if there was any delay Connaught without consulting any one ordered a direct wire hitched up from his own office to President Wilson's desk in the White House at Washington. Sir Wilfrid Laurier declared: "If I did that, it would be regarded as a disloyal, or seditious act."

Mr. Meighen sent his son to Laval University at Quebec and to Paris, France, to finish his French course and his wife belongs to a pioneer Quebec family. The masses of Upper and Lower Canada, and all the other provinces, realize after the 6th Winter of depression and unemployment, that our country is approaching a financial crisis involving conscription of farms and urban homes for taxes, while cords of idle bank notes, the property of the people, are horded in vaults in Montreal. Hence Quebec's call for Meighen because of his equipment and courage. It was no secret that Robert R. Hall was not in sympathy with allowing our country to drift along aimlessly.

TOO MUCH WAR NEWS.

(Letter in Globe and Mail)

TO THE EDITOR of The Globe and Mail: The topical theme emblazoned in the headlines of our newspapers today is war. War, together with its tag ends of armaments, chauvinism, threats, coup d'etats, censorship and dictatorships, appears to be the main stock-in-trade of a journalese press. The public, knowingly or unknowingly, is being fed a steady martial diet, the gastronomic effects of which time alone will tell. This is not to say that one should isolate himself or close his eyes to international affairs and their development, but their dominant place in today's news is certainly very much overstressed.

A visit to the Art Gallery, a trip to a Saturday night Convocation Hall lecture, an evening at a Prom concert—all these should help relieve us of that fear and tension which the press instils in us and about which medical men warn us. Here you will rub shoulders with people who, just like yourself, are finding through the media of the arts in all their diversified facets of expression a common bond which far exceeds the narrow and trivial margins of nationalism.

A recent example that has rekindled my faith in human nature was the vast number of people present at the National Flower Show. Surely if such a large throng are imbued with a basic appreciation of the finer things in life, sponsored by an innate sense of brotherhood, there must be in Toronto and vicinity the nucleus of a group whose interests lie in a far broader field than those embodied in the perusal of newspaper accounts of force and conquest.

Could We Afford Another War?

(By WELLINGTON JEFFERS, in Globe and Mail)

NOW THAT WE all feel a little fatuous when remembering how we thought and said that the Great War was the war to end wars, and now that most of us fear that another world war would make us cease calling the last war the Great War, it may be more pleasant to reflect that that fatuous hope was really a belief that if we could defeat the battalions of Mars sanity would prevail thereafter in relations of the nations and that if we could make the wish father to the fact the world would really be entering on the age of gold in reality. The battalions of Mars were defeated but, where, oh where is the age of gold?

It may not be so pleasant, but it will be salutary for us now and then to assess the cost of the Great War and to spread the knowledge far and wide so that none can avoid knowing what another war of similar dimensions would do to us. It may make us less critical of those who make as their chief diplomatic aim today the taking of those measures which tend to prevent any of the wars now going on from spreading. It would be possible from the noblest of motives to throw the whole world into a turmoil from which it would take centuries to redover. One is therefore in a time when it is necessary to control even the impulses which do us most credit if they are likely to involve us in war.

The trouble is that those who need the knowledge least are those most apt to realize all the untold misery that a great war would bring. If the seamy side of war, if the cost of it could be brought home to those who are drunk with conquest at the moment, it would help all the others who would like to live at peace.

Thomas J. Watson, President International Chamber of Commerce, is my source of information for saying that in the Great War lives lost included 10 million soldiers, and 13 million civilians. In addition, there were 23 million soldiers wounded and missing, nine million children orphaned and 10 million persons who became refugees.

Lose This Much Again?

In money, says Mr. Watson, the World War cost $337.8 billions, $189 billions of it directly and the remainder representing destruction of property and stoppage of industry. The combined national debts of the world increased from $43 billions in 1913 to $400 billions in 1921. The cost of living was doubled and Mr. Watson traces the world-wide depression which began in 1929 to the inflated price structure and the dislocation of trade and industry caused by the war.

So far was the Great War from ending war that British military expenditures have risen since 1913 to the last year for which figures are available from $385 millions to $870 millions, France's from $307 millions to $653 millions, Germany's from $281 millions to $1,560 millions, Italy's from $195 millions to $291 millions and the United States from $245 millions to $962 millions.

And the annual cost is now much above those figures drawn from Mr. Watson. If one quarter of this costly expenditure had been turned into roads, education, sanitation, housing, improving the standard of living, prevention of floods and soil erosion, irrigation enterprises, research and social services, the world would be a much better world to live in today and most of our present problems would not have emerged as serious problems at all.

John Brown Writes a Letter.

(Letter in Montreal Star)

SIR,—MANY citizens wonder why the City should be confronted with a big deficit at the outset of its fiscal year 1938-39, in spite of the fact that it now has two important sources of revenue which did not exist in by-gone days: the income tax and the sales tax. This is, however, readily accounted for if one considers the many cases where the ratepayers' money has been lavishly spent to no useful or commendable purpose, such as, to mention but a few, the following :

1—Repeated trips made by the Aldermen to the United States for the alleged purpose of inquiring into the working of the different sewage treatment plants, which evidently involves a technical survey for which they are hardly qualified since there is not among them a single sanitary or civil engineer.

2—Engulfment of a sum of $500,000 in the establishment of an identification card system, which affects our electoral franchise and whereby all of us will be put to intolerable annoyance. No such thing (and the same may be said of our "padlock law") exists anywhere else in Canada.

3—Increase of the salaries of civic employees. No one will deny that such a generous gesture could not have been more illtimed.

4—Number of barristers in the City's employ greatly increased.

5 — Creation of an Industrial Bureau, designed to attract industries to Montreal, but whose work has been devoid of practical results. One is amazed to find that not a single industrialist, financier or business man has been attached to such Bureau.

6—Abolition of the original Unemployment Commission, presided over by Brigadier-General Panet, who had never received any fee whatever from the City for his services, and replacement thereof by another Commission, the president of which is being paid a salary equal to that of a judge of the Superior Court, to wit $9,000.00 per annum.

7—Appointment of a Board of Revision of Assessments on real estate, the chairman whereof is also in receipt of a salary as high as that of a Justice of the Superior Court, the other members and the staff of such Board being likewise remunerated. Hitherto, the appraisals made by the Board of Assessors were contested before the Recorder's Court by those who felt that their properties had been overvalued. This did not cost the City anything and everybody was satisfied with the Recorder's decisions.

I could mention many other instances of the squandering of public funds, but those I have cited amply suffice, I believe, to show that it is not surprising that our civic administrations should be unable to balance their budget.

It has been proposed to raise the real estate tax from $1.35 to $1.50 per $100 valuation to fill up the gap, but before the proprietors are thus called upon to make good a deficit with which they have had absolutely nothing to do, should not the Mayor and the Alderman wait until action has been taken on the report which will be shortly submitted to the Provincial Legislature by the Commission appointed to consider the modifications which should be made to the present mode of municipal administration.

JOHN BROWN.

To The Editor

REMEDIES THAT ARE NOT CURES.

Sir: Social disorders spring from violations of human rights, rights which antedate society and are as fixed and determined as the law of gravitation.

These violations form a large part of the foundation of all social organisations from the beginning. No matter what form of government or superstructure built thereon, it must and will fail, more or less, in the true function of government, which is to protect all its citizens if the free enjoyment of all their rights, as we see is the case through the world today.

Communism, Socialism, Fascism, Social Credit, C. C. F-ism and all others whose ideas of reform consist in changing the form of government to build anew on the same defective foundation are no cures at all. In fact they make matters worse by extending government interference with the affairs of private citizens far beyond what we now suffer, and attempt to regiment the individual to the status of a cog in a machine. Giving the supporters of all such full credit for zeal and sincerity is far from accusing them of either logic or reason for their faith. None of them can adduce a sound logical argument in support of their views. In countries where the governments adopted their theories, Russia, Germany and Italy, what are the results but destruction of freedom and enslavement of the people?

Recently an official of the S. C. sent me a written statement of their Credo re 'Social Credits'. An analysis demonstrated that 'social credits' consisted in the general benefits derived from good government such as law and order, police protection, roads, bridges and public services, etc., freely enjoyed by rate-payers, school children and transients; that if they denied this, they had no case and proved themselves out of court. In reply the official said he had not the time to take it up. Just so, perhaps he lacked evidence in rebuttal. At any rate he lost a chance to make a convert.

With a free press, free speech and right of assembly, Canadians will solve their problems on a basis of justice and equity without the damaging help of irrational theorists whose chief-stock-in-trade consists of assertions of what they WILL do and vituperation of opponents.

A Bible Message For To-day . . . .

BLESSED be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ.

And you hath he quickened, who were dead in trespasses and sins; wherein in time past ye walked according to the course of this world, according to the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that now worketh in the children of disobedience; among whom also we all had our conversation in times past in the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling the desires of the flesh and of the mind; and were by nature the children of wrath, even as others...But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ. For he is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us; having abolished in his flesh the enmity even the law of commandments contained in ordinances; for to make in himself of twain one new man, so making peace; and that he might reconcile both into God in one body by the cross having slain the enmity thereby: and came and preached peace to you which were afar off, and to them that were nigh. For through him we both have access by one Spirit unto the Father.—Eph. i, 3; ii, 1-6, 13-18.

THE MONOPOLY BOGEY.

(Toronto Telegram)

UNIFICATION of the C. N. R. and C. P. R. services to provide for Canada's railway requirements is warned against by opponents as a "huge transportation combine" which would have the people at its mercy.

Such an outcome is highly improbable. If unified management in operation is effected it will only be on such terms as to leave Canada with nothing to fear. The proposal is that a government-appointed authority would control rates and conditions of operation. Under such circumstances there would be a better chance to eliminate wasteful costs.

At present, the taxpayers of the country are at the mercy of an annual deficit of fifty million dollars or more due to unnecessary duplication. The deficit will continue until the situation is corrected.

Monopoly of itself is not necessarily undesirable. Ontario's Hydro system affords evidence of beneficient results. So does the Toronto Transportation Commission. It should be possible for a unified railway system to serve the public equally well.

QUESTION OF ACCURACY.

(Lethbridge Herald)

"ALL I FEEL we want to do is to impress on those who are in charge of the papers in this province that at least accurate information is the proper thing to give to the people."

These unctious words fell from the lips of Premier Aberhart in the Legislature the other day as he voted that Reporter Brown be not sent to jail.

All Premier Aberhart wants is "accurate information."

But he continues to broadcast that 700,000 people in Alberta are behind Social Credit. That is a statement which he knows is not accurate, and which the newspapers know is not accurate even when they are reporting him as saying it.

A Bit of Nonsense

GOOD!

A woman who had given a dinner party met her doctor in the street the following day.

"I am so sorry, doctor," she said, "that you were unable to come to my party last night. It would have done you good to be there."

"It has already done me good," he replied, tersely. I've just prescribed for three of your guests."

Comrade... WANT TO BUY A NEW CAR?

"Here it is, comrade, just the thing to run down to the Crimea over the week-end in to see the folks! Yes sir-ski! She's guaranteed to do fifty-five on a level pavement with a good tail wind and she's got the very latest improvement—four-wheel brakes! None of those dizzy capitalistic gadgets, either, like shatter-proof glass, wipers, defrosters, knee-action, stream-lining or silent transmission —no ma'am! This is a REAL car—1938 model—made right here in Russia. And, boy they're pouring 'em off the assembly line at the rate of twenty a day!"

THIS snappy little sedan is the latest wrinkle in Moscow. It delivers for about $1450, spare tire and bumpers extra. If you're a Soviet citizen you can get it for less — provided you've got a Communist Party card, show up promptly for your twelve and-a-half hour shift at the factory and have a drag with the right people. But if you are ever late for work they may crack down and take it away from you.

It's an ancient old crock; just the kind they were making in Michigan when Coolidge was President. But as a Russian citizen you can be glad you don't have to take the street car.

Funny, these Russians. Are they all satisfied to bump their bones in a 1927 crate masquerading as a modern car? Probably not. But what are they going to do about it? The higher-ups figure a car like this is good enough for the common folks. It's the only kind the government Auto Trust makes for home consumption and they can take it or leave it.

Well then, maybe Stalin drives a car like this, too. Does he? He does not. Stalin rides a sixteen-cylinder job four months out of the shops in Detroit. But then Stalin's different. He's boss.

You see, Russia is a Dictatorship. And in a Dictatorship—any Dictatorship—the government makes all the rules. One of the first rules they make, usually, is that they're going to knock the stuffing out of Business; there's not going to be any nonsense of Business Competition, with everybody trying to make a better motor car, refrigerator, radio or pair of shoes than his neighbor. No, sir! Business Competition is wasteful. It results, for one thing, in Advertising. And Advertising puts ideas in people's heads like wanting to have a new and better kitchen range every now and then, or an improved heating plant, or a more efficient electric fan, or a faster automobile. Advertising makes folks want to decorate the living room or visit the movies or wear new fall bonnets when they should be home raising kids to be soldiers in the next war.

Advertising is a bad thing—for Dictators. It keeps people so busy raising their standard of living that they don't want to go out and lower someone else's.

Advertising makes the home folks dissatisfied with old-style radios and refrigerators and reading lamps and bedroom sets and sports dresses and cars. It makes them want new ones, and then the manufacturers have to break their necks putting out better products every year. And that means buying raw materials and it means fatter payrolls. And both of these mean prosperity with everybody well-fed and happy — and when people are well-fed and happy how in tarnation are you going to get them interested in Crusades—like fighting capitalists or conquering Ethiopians or warring on Chinese or cracking down on Jews or Catholics or people who wear blue neckties? No. When people are well-fed and happy they won't even say "Heil" or "Doochay" and pretty soon Mister Dictator goes out on his ear.

Now, we dunno. Maybe a Dictatorship would be a good thing for this country, with everybody paying great big enormous taxes and goose-stepping and sending letters to Uncle Joe and Cousin Charlie at concentration camp. One of the fastest ways to get it is to crack down on all business. Just give it the works. And then cut out advertising. Eliminate it entirely. We'd soon have a sure-enough, first-string Dictatorship then, and when we weren't pulling in our belts another notch and trying to find somebody to blame it on we could all go out riding in our new four-cylinder 1927 sedan, price $1450 f.o.b. Oshawa, spare tire and bumpers extra.

That is, we could if anybody had $1450 left to spend on a car.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

MEN'S City Softball League annual re-organization meeting is called for tonight (Monday) at eight o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce. Those interested are invited. Probably be the election of officers, checking on prospective entries, and general plans for the coming season. Main item is liable to be the discussion concerning the transfer of men's games this summer from Central to the Bowl. Also a report on the O.A.S.A. annual convention by Dave Leether, loop prexy and O.A.S.A. executive member. Not much dope available yet on what teams are thinking of entering, but we imagine several will be on deck this eve. Whoever signs up Lorne Bateman will get something, as he hurled the Point Anne squad last year to the Ontario intermediate "B" title. He is living here now.

* * * * *

GIRLS' city and District softball meeting will be held this Tuesday twilight at 7.30 in Duffus' and all are welcome. Election of officers, etc. We expect Keene, Lindsay, C.G.E. and Westclox to make up the circuit this year, playing at the Bowl for the C.G.E. and Westclox home games, and in Keene and Lindsay. May be another team or so, yet. Cobourg was in last year but there was so much playoff squabbling that we doubt if either the local ossifers or the Cobourg management could bury the hatchet this spring—except in each other's noggin! But more after this gabfest.

FOUR SENIOR boys' school cage teams are left in the running for Provincial honors, Toronto, Ottawa, Windsor and the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. Semi-final and final playoffs are being held in Hart House, Toronto, today and tomorrow. Dunno which team meets P.C.I. in the semi-final sawoff, probably Toronto. Two finalists then clash for the Ontario championship, and we believe Coach H. L. Bamforth and his P.C.I.-ers have a pretty fair chance. Certainly hope so, anyway Mr Bamforth and the Collegiate gridders brought Peterborough a Provincial title just last autumn, and now they are threatening to do likewise in basketball

UP AT the "Y" on Saturday e'en, the local St. Paul's copped the first of the Ontario Church Basketball League intermediate finals. They beat Brampton St. Paul's by a 32-24 score and will tote an eight-point bulge back to Brampton next Saturday in the return joust. Points count on the round and it's liable to be tighter than a Pullman window before the last whistle. The gym floor in Brampton is about the same size as the one here. The Brampton boys put up a nifty defence and took a lead inthe firsthalf Saturday but the home Saints shifted tactics and grabbed a lead in the last frame. Plenty of fouls called but few were chosen—or sunk. A goodish game before a good gathering to end cage play in Peterborough this year.

JIM THORBURN wasn't with St. Paul's this tussle. He has missed several playoffs recently, owing to an injury—and has now been lost to the team, since Jim is working on a Great Lakes boat. He would have revelled in the defensive system used by Brampton, the local ace sniper probably being good for close to 20 points against Brampton—and that's no eyewash. Next joust will be at St. Paul's United Church gym in Brampton on Saturday, and ought to be a honey. Lorne Gillespie of Toronto, who does a lot of refereeing in Big Six games (and is one of seven approved "A" referees in Toronto) will blow the whistle for this fray.

INDOOR EXERCISES for prospective Petes' ballsters will be held Monday and Thursday evenings of this week from 8.15 to 9.30 o'clock in the "Y" gym. under direction of Jim McClenaghan, Y.M.C.A. physical instructor. All fellows who figure on trying out with the locals later are urged to get a sweatshirt and running shoes and put in an appearance. About two more weeks and outdoor training commences, the boys probably trekking south to the Exhibition Grounds the first few weeks. Meantime, these loosening-up drills will prove valuable to the smarter players who take advantage of 'em—but no doubt some of the stellar performers figure they don't need them. Ought to be another O.B.A. executive session soon and possibly some more dope on player transfers or re-instatements. Winkie Wilson, former smart Napanee first-sacker (who played hockey for Belleville last winter), has moved to Kingston and will play for the Ponies this semester.

SPEAKING OF Oshawa Generals getting the Richardson Trophy, as junior Eastern puck winners, the Kingston scribe says: "It is too late in the season now for Kingston to advance any claim to the Eastern honors, although the 'B' champions, considering their record this season, would probably give Oshawa or any other 'A' club a good game. There seems a big difference in the brand of hockey in the 'A' and 'B' series. In the 'A', the teams play like pro clubs, bumping, banging and carrying sticks like muskets at shoulder arms; while in the 'B' section, skilled passing, team work and skating has been a feature. In the 'A' they play the man, in the 'B' they play the puck." Personally, we don't figure the local Colts conquerors could do a great deal against this year's Oshawa outfit.

AS THE C.A.H.A. annual convention came to a close on Saturday a few loose ends were cleaned up ere the delegates departed. The N.O.H.A. was refused the right to run as a separate branch and is still partially under the control of the Ontario Hockey Association. And the Canadian body opened up the rule governing transfer of players. Teams have been allowed two imports a year, except for senior where four were permitted. But in future, teams may import freely from other teams in the same branch—the O.H.A. in our case—though the restriction stands if a team goes outside its own branch. We dunno if this is such a good rule, as it will eventually lead to real packing of certain squads. But gosh knows there is enough "packing" in places right now, we suppose!

SUNBURN AND CHILLS

CHATHAM, Ont., April 18 (C.P.).—The weather, to say the least, is unpredictable. Ralph Edwards had his forehead sunburned while working in his garden between showers. In the evening the temperature fell so swiftly Edwards had to re-light the furnace he thought he was finished with until next fall.

SOCCER PLAYERS START WORKOUTS

Local soccer players were out in full force on Saturday afternoon in preliminary workouts for the coming season at King Edward Park. Throughout last week in the evenings many players indulged in heavy practice to be ready for signing up in local teams.

The local General Electrics have elected officers for the coming season, and there are rumors of other organizations being active in soccer circles, but no definite information has been stated.

The opening meeting of the Peterborough and District Football Association will be held next Monday evening in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms at eight o'clock.

Toronto papers have an item stating that the Ontario F.A. intended to be in Kingston on Good Friday, organizing that district, with the Kingston Maple Leafs being the prime movers towards organization, which will include Kingston (with three teams), Belleville, Trenton, and Peterborough.

During last year, the Kingston club made arrangements with Peterborough to play a game here after the Lift Lock City had travelled to the Limestone City, but failed to make the return visit after the local club had made arrangements to entertain them. Kingston club notified the local executive at the last minute that they could not come. No Peterborough clubs nor the local association have notification of any such proposed affiliation or organization being formed.

St. Paul's Cagers Take 32-24 Victory From Brampton

Two action shots in the lively Ontario Church Basketball Association playoff at the local "Y" Saturday night are shown above. The St. Paul's squad of Peterborough took a 32-24 win over Brampton in the first of the two-game final series, and will carry an eight-point edge to Brampton this weekend for the return fray. C.A.H.A. LIFTS IMPORT RULE WITHIN BRANCH

OTTAWA, April 18.—(CP).—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's action in liberalizing the rule governing the transfer of players was seen to-day as a boon to amateur teams, particularly in Ontario and Manitoba.

Teams have been limited to importation of four senior and two junior players whether they are brought from another branch or from another team within the branch. The C.A.H.A. convention which wound up a three-day session here Saturday decided that in future teams may import freely from other teams within the same branch. The restriction against importing from another branch still stands.

Hockey experts here said the import rule had been adhered to rigidly in Ontario and Manitoba and they expected the new rule would have wider affect in these two provinces than in other parts of Canada.

Hardy Succeeds Duncan.

Dr. W. G. Hardy of Edmonton, was elected Association president, succeeding Cecil Duncan of Ottawa. Frank Sargent of Port Arthur, Ont., was chosen second vice-president of the four-man executive.

George Dudley of Midland, Ont., is first vice-president and Duncan is a member of the executive in the capacity of past president.

W. A. Hewitt of Toronto, is registrar-treasurer and Fred Marples of Toronto, is secretary, but they do not vote.

The convention failed to produce the fireworks forecast and most of the difficulties were ironed out in committee rooms before they reached the convention floor.

N.O.H.A. Turned Down.

An application from the Northern Ontario Hockey Association for full membership privileges was turned down. The Resolutions committee recommended against the application on grounds it was not received 30 days before the annual meeting required by the constitution.

The N.O.H.A. is at present an affiliate of the Ontario Hockey Association.

The Executive committee was empowered with the right to negotiate with the National Hockey League for a new agreement to replace one which was not renewed when it expired recently.

Other business transacted Saturday included making a concession to the Quebec branch to enable a $75 translation of the rule book into French and to provide for 1,500 books in French as well as 500 in English. Expenses for Allan and Memorial Cup games were increased. The executive will consider a suggestion that the next annual meeting be held in Calgary.

BROTHERS 285 YEARS OLD

OAKLAND, Calif., April 18—(AP)—The three Handy brothers collectively at 285 years old. D. J., 94, and C. B., 98, came here from Riverside, Calif., to visit their brother Milton Handy, 93. None of them ever has "touched liquor, tea or salt."

"That's the secret of our long lives," said C. B.

WINTER'S RACES VICTORY SERIES FOR CUNNINGHAM

LAWRENCE, Kas., April 18—(CP)—His track rivals usually are at the heels of Glenn Cunningham, but they don't follow him nearly so closely as the University of Kansas, where the keg-chested runner first blossomed into prominence, and in whose files a record may be found of virtually every race he has run.

Whether it is in the Olympic Games in Germany or in an invitation meet on the eastern seaboard, his performance is so closely followed by the home folks that W. A. Dill of the school news bureau, can tell you offhand the who, when, where and how fast, and whether Glenn was in top form or whether he was over-balanced by a fresh haircut.

For instance, Mr. Dill will tell you that Cunningham has gone to the post no less than 60 times in mile races in seven years. Fifty times he has been the winner, seven times he has placed second and three times he has placed third.

Although the number of track meet and regional records he has set are too numerous to mention, there are major marks worthy of note. Topping the list, naturally, is the 4:04.4 mile run at Dartmouth College last March 3, the fastest on record for the distance, and four seconds faster than his own indoor record of 4:08.4 set in the Columbian mile in New York in 1934.

Topping his outdoor performances is his word record performance of 40:6.7 in the Princeton invitation meet in 1934, last winter displaced by Woodersons 4:06.4.

Cunningham's flame-seared legs first started carrying him to new records as a senior at Elkhart, Kas., high school, when he won the mile in the high school section of the Kansas relays in 1930 in 4:31.4, a record that still stands. The same year he won the event in the state meet in 4:28.3 and the National interscholastic at Chicago in 4:24.7, a new record.

His first collegiate competition in the mile was the Big Six indoor meet in 1932 when he won in 4:21.9. He lopped off a-tenth of a second the next year and in 1934 set a record of 4:20.3. The mark stood until this spring when John Munski, Missouri champion, made it 4:19.2. Munski's time, incidentally, was the same in which Cunningham won the Bankers mile in Chicago in 1932, his first venture into outside competition. He won the Bankers' mile this year in 4:09.9.

Making of a Miler

The 1936 campaign was his most unsuccessful from a mile standpoint, as he was concentrating on the 1,500-metre event for the Olympics. That year he won the Columbian only by out-generalling his opponents and his time was high school time—4:42. In the Wanamaker he was passed by both Mangan and Venzke and in the Baxter he was second to Venzke.

Of the 37 indoor miles on his record, Cunningham came in first in 32, second in four and third in one—the Wanamaker in 1936. Besides Mangan and Venzke, winners over Cunningham in the indoor miles were Dawson, Bonthron and San Romani—one each.

The Kansan's outdoor mile record is almost as imposing. The list shows 23 races, of which he won 18, placed second three times and third twice.

He did not enter eastern outdoor races at the mile until the Princeton invitation of 1934 but that entry was marked by a 4:06.7 mile, run on a sprained ankle. That same year he won the Kansas relay mile in 4.12.7 a record which still stands.

New York Sun Says DiMaggio To Sign

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—The New York Sun said today Joe DiMaggo, hold-out outfielder of New York Yankees, would accept Jacob Ruppertsoffer of $25,000 during the day.

The newspaper said it had learned DiMaggio, who has been asking $40,000 for his services in 1938, had decided he could not hope to get Ruppert to boost his offer.

Ruppert claimed he knew nothing about the report. Under baseball rules, DiMaggio must come to terms today or suffer automatic suspension.

BUCS' MANAGER HAS BEST TEAM IN HIS CAREER

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., April 18—Not since 1927 has Pittsburgh had a pennant winner, but you can take the word of Pie Traynor, ever optimistic manager of the Bucs, that things will be different this year.

"If our pitching holds up the way it has so far this spring, Pittsburgh will have the best club it has had n my four years as manager," the Smoky City pilot promises.

"We have three good rookies on hand to fill out the mound staff and with Johnny Rizzo providing some much needed punch in the outfield there's no reason to suppose that we can't improve on last year's showing."

That seems to sum up the situation effectively, for the infield is taking care of itself at last and the Brothers Waner have given every indication that they'll carry on every bit as effectively as last season when Paul wound up with a batting average of .354, good enough for fourth place, and Lloyd came in with .330, to rank tenth.

Three spots in the infield appear all sewed up, leaving only third base open to competition.

"I still haven't made up my mind about Bill Brubaker and Lee Handley," Traynor explained. "I've put Handley over with Bill because I don't want to take any chances on being caught short."

Suhr In Fine Shape

"Young will handle second base. He isn't as strong a hitter as Handley but he can handle himself a lot faster on double plays. Handley was a third sacker before he came to us and seems to feel more at home there.

"Brubaker was coming fast at the close of last season, and, of course, if he hits the strde again, I'll keep him there."

Gussie Suhr is a fixture at first. The Pirate captain has been cavorting around like a youngster in spring games and should have a big year. That takes care of three of the four infield jobs and brings up the matter of Arky Vaughan. Two years ago Vaughan started slipping down the batting average column after leading the National League with an average of .395. The powerful Pirate shortstop appears well on the way to a comeback. Thoroughly recovered from a leg injury that slowed him down last year, Vaughan has started hitting with his old time effectiveness, and has a lot of his old speed back as well. Woody Jensen, who is experimenting at first base, has been replaced in the outfield by Johnny Rizzo, a graduate from Columbus. The Pirates paid the St. Louis Cardinals $25,000 in cash and traded Catcher Tommy Padden, Outfielder Bud Hafey and First Baseman Cobb for the slugging right-hander.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

We went up to the lawn bowling greens the other day, it was our first appearance of the 1938 season, and we had for company Benny Chesler. Benny as you know, is chairman of the property committee for this year and we understand is supported by a very strong committee who are contemplating doing a large amount of work on improvements for the greens this season and already Charlie Butcher has commenced to get things in line.

We noticed that one square has already new ditches around it and we understand that work will be started on the other square early this week. We saw over in one corner of the lot, a large pile of black, rich, screened loam; this mixed with specially prepared fertilizer will be spread over both greens and as soon as this is finished, a high-grade grass seed, used for bowling greens will be sown in order to brighten up the few spots that have suffered winter kill. And then another improvement is the purchase of a power roller, the need of this has been great for the past few years and with all these improvements our greens should be the best in the province.

Our only object in writing all this is to let the public and also our club members know that every committee in our organization is working. We all want to walk out on perfect greens on May 24 (opening day) and the same preliminary work is being done by the membership board for the work here must be in by May, the schedule books go to the printers on that day and so once again we urge the skips to hand the personnel of their rinks to Howard Clegg and assist in carrying out the plans laid down by the different committees.

GOOD SEASON CARPET LOOP

The City Carpetball League held a general meeting to bring to a close the playing activities of the season. Although there were only 14 teams in the league, one record was pasted up by the Sons of England team, No. 6, under B. J. Lemmon, having lost only two single games on their own mats, piling up a lead that could not be touched. With 76 points to their account, S.O.E. will receive the Hope Cup and individual prizes.

The next trophy, the Bleasedell Memorial Shield, was won by St. Luke's No. 2, C. Joyce skip, with 59 points.

The Fire Hall teams were close runners-up, with G. Gimblett, Jun., having 57 points and A. Mason 56 points, nosing out the L.O.L. team No. 8 four points in their scoring average.

L.O.L. No. 8 however are fortunate, to win the President's Cup by beating Fire Chief Gimblett and his squad in the final game. It is some consolation to the Chief as he just won the Elsie Bennett Trophy from St. Luke's by the narrowest of margins on the high average.

It was decided to hold the annual banquet on the second Wednesday or Thursday in May, the day being left open.

Another change that is to be carried out is that the officers will be nominated by ballot by the various organizations in the league. These will be sent to the secretary. The nominations will be completed by H. Beal, chairman of nominating committee, and will be submitted to the annual meeting and election of officers to be held in September next. Everyone will be notified by the secretary.

Any member of the league who has notices of motion for change in rules should send same to the secretary on or before May 31st, 1938, as this is the closing date for such notices.

LOCALS GAIN 8-POINT LEAD ONTARIO FINAL

St. Paul's local cage squad took a 32-24 win over Brampton at the "Y" here Saturday evening in the first of their two-game O.C.B.A. intermediate final playoffs. The local Saints will carry an 8-point lead to Brampton next Saturday in the return fixture. A good-sized gallery saw a fine fracas in this initial tilt.

Down 14-11 at halftime and once seven points behind their rivals, the Peterborough players thrilled the crowd with a second-period drive that gave them a commanding lead. Brampton showed the best defence seen here this year. With most of their players around six feet tall, the locals had a disadvantage for the first time this season. After each attack the visitors would form a line in front of their guards and it proved most effective on a small floor—and the Brampton floor is about the same.

St. Paul's had to shoot from outside with little success in the first half, their tries being off and rebounds getting away from them. St. Paul's got an early lead but Brampton had a 14-7 margin at one time before the first frame finished. The first was slow and marked by lots of fumbles on both sides.

New Tactics

After the intermission, Peterborough adopted new tactics, speeding up play and rushing rather than trying long shots. They got the others on the run and Don Sedgewick found his shooting eye to get 13 points. Gemmell had six and McIntyre five. Marsh was the defence bulwark and was kept too busy to do much offensively. Pulkinghorn played his best game of the year with neat play-making, and McIntyre was the fastest man there, but missed many good passing chances as he ran himself into the floor.

Brampton had a big edge in numbers and made frequent wholesale changes. Moorhead, Grogan and Kellam, their main scoring line, were held to four points. The other line was more effective with Managed Patterson getting 10, Ridley four and Copp three. Patterson and Ridley were outstanding. The latter had to leave early with four fouls. Ken Long went well on the attack and defensively. The locals drew 15 fouls to their opponents' 16, and both sides were quite weak on free throws. St. Paul's got but six in 18 tries and Brampton but three in 17. The teams:

Brampton: Moorhead, Kellam, Grogan, Hooper, Woodell, Patterson, Long, Copp, Ridley, Hore.

St. Paul's: Pulkinghorn, Gemmell, Marsh, McIntyre, Weir, Ascott, Sedgewick.

Referee—Lorne Gillespie of Toronto.

LARGE FIELD IN HUB RACE

BOSTON, April 19.—(CP).— Entries for the Boston marathon, one of the United States' sports classics, rose to 204 to-day, assuring one of the wildest scrambles for victory in the event's 42-year history.

There have been larger fields, said officials of the Boston Athletic Association, which sponsors a 26-mile, 385-yard grind from suburban Hopkinton to downtown Boston—but never has there been one in which so many stars had a chance to win.

Six former winners will compete to-morrow — led by Clarence De Mar, Keene, N.H., printer, who won the first of his seven Boston marathon titles in 1911 and the last in 1930. Others are Bill Kennedy, Grenwich, Conn., who won in 1917; Leslie Pawson, Pawtucket, R.I., (1933); Dave Komonen, Sudbury, Ont., (1934); Johnny Kelley, Arlington, Mass., (1935) and Tarzan Brown, Alton, R.I. (1936).

Adding an International flavor this year are Stylianos Kyriakids, champion of Greece; George Shaw, of London, Eng.; Pat Kelly of Newfoundland, and a host of Canadian entries. Walter Young, of Montreal, who won last year, is not defending.
